Starting salaries, depending on education and experience, range from $7,729 to $12,873. Check now with your Placement Office to arrange an interview with the NSA representative visiting your campus, or write to: Chief, College Relations Branch, Suite 10, 4435 Wisconsin Avenue, N. W., Washington, D.C. 20016. An equal opportunity employer, M&F.

The "Cipher Disk" . . . NSA symbol and one of the oldest and most effective cryptographic devices known.

national security agency

. . . where imagination is the essential qualification.

CARL FRETZ
(B.S.Ch.E.) of the Bethlehem Steel Loop Course knows where the action is. He faces new challenges daily as an experimental engineer in the Metallurgical Department of our Bethlehem, Pa., Plant.

Join the action.
First step: pick up a copy of "Careers with Bethlehem Steel and the Loop Course" at your placement office. Then sign up for a campus interview. Our 1967 Loop Class has openings for technical and non-technical graduates (and post-grads) for careers in steel operations, research, sales, mining, accounting, and other activities.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

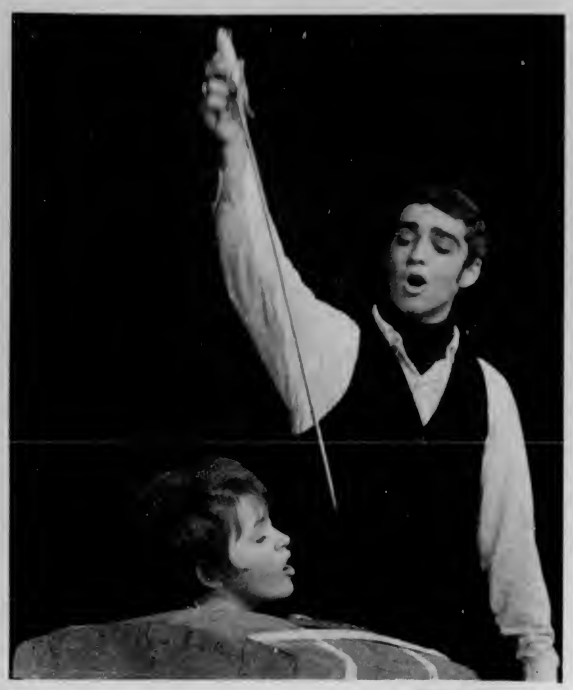

Photo by Williams

"Love Makes the World Go Round . . ."

Theater Demands Innovations

by LAWRENCE KORNFIELD
Feature Staff

What's happening in modern American theater?

Vincent Brann, assistant professor in the speech department and a director for the University Theater which is now rehearsing a Theater Carnival, believes the theater is speaking on social and to cultural matters more than ever?

According to Brann, the modern theater is a reflection of current thoughts — it is a descriptive rather than a prescriptive form of communication. Unlike many of its contemporary counterparts, theater is not a mass communication, says Brann. Its position of comparative autonomy, he explains, gives theater the ability to be bolder in reflecting current attitudes than other more widely viewed media.

Continuing the idea of bolder presentations, Brann commented in a Collegian interview on morality: "Theater has a lot of immorality, just as the Bible does." Unfortunately, there is no universal standard by which to judge morality; what is "not proper for the stage" is indeterminate. The problems of censorship associated with "immorality" may be illustrated by the fact that a number of shows which were closed in England by the censors became hits in America. However, some modern theater, said Brann, is "pushing the bounds just to see how far it can go." This approach is, in itself, a type of reflection of society.

The social aspects of theater extend beyond the realm of what is performed, Brann continued. In speaking of theater architecture, Brann pointed out an increasing use of the "thrust stage", a "modern" innovation which developed from inn courtyards of similar design. In such settings, plays were presented in Elizabethan times, prior to the development of the Shakespearean theater. This stage, which projects into the midst of the audience, gives more playing area than the traditional proscenium stage and increases the all-important contact between actor and audience. New types of staging are constantly being proposed. A theater in the round is already familiar.

The tables are turning from the "director's theater" of the 1940s and '50s to a more modern "actor's theater", Brann believes. This means not only an increase in personal interpretation of a role by the actor but also that theater-goers are becoming more interested in what particular actors are performing. Name performers can sell a show, regardless, it seems, of the production's intrinsic value.

At last, theater may be getting increased political and social points of view, according to Brann. Unfortunately, says Brann, one of the main problems facing a contemporary political or social theater is that "theater is always the last of the arts to catch up with new trend." Yet, theater is gaining new philosophical, political and social aspects, and a technique which—in tribute to Brecht, the forerunner of this idea—is developing into a "documentary style . . . an involvement with historical events."

For all this, there is a record, according to Brann. The modern theater is gaining in public appreciation and regional theater is developing rapidly in the United States. A regional theater is more willing to take chances in new productions than the more well-established and money-conscious traditional American theater.

The new fields of concentration in theater are very broad and indefinite, as Brann sees them. Basic t this new theater is a concer for abstract problems, thos of "identity, and aims of life Much new theater is "delibe rately unsure of itself, leaving questions unanswered."

One of the areas of modern theater which shows great potential for development, and which Brann is interested in organizing at the University of Massachusetts,

(Continued on page 3)

Operetta Guild

"Carnival" Has Magical Charm

by MIKE GOULD

In the opening number of Carnival, the chorus sings of their show coming "Direct from Vienna." Direct from Broadway may be more accurate.

Directed by William Gile and Paul Bartsch, the Operetta Guild's production of the Merrill-Stewart musical is an artful mixture of a heartwarming story, beautifully voiced songs and skillful acting.

The entire cast performs more than admirably in Carnival, but special credit must be given to Hedy Zirin, Smith '69, whose portayal of Lili is near perfect. From the moment she steps on stage, Miss Zirin radiates a charm which gives magic to the entire show. She is outwardly adorable, speaks her lines with great aplomb, and sings in a beautifully gifted soprano.

Robert Emerson plays Paul Berthalet, a former dancer whose crippled leg has forced him to take refuge behind a puppet stage. Mr. Emerson is a deftly skilled actor, with a beautiful speaking voice. His singing quality is pleasant but rather weak, and he is much more at home with his spoken lines.

Unable to show his love for Lili outright, Paul lets his puppets talk for him. Mr. Emerson's work with adorable puppets Carrot-Top, Horrible Henry, Marguerite and Renardo is especially great. He changes voices so easily and naturally that the puppets become very real to the audience almost immediately.

The supporting cast of Carnival is both spirited and talented. Peter Schofield, as everyone's friend Jacquot, is an irresistable personality. Steven Schnetzer is a remarkable Marco, and vivacious Karen Connolly's rendition of "Humming" is first rate, as is the performance of John Stavros as circus entrepreneur B.F. Schlegel.

Carnival is more dramatic than most musicals and needs skilled actors as much as it needs good voices. Director Gile has seen to it that this Carnival lacks neither.

Bob Merrill wrote the prettiest of his tunes for Lili, and Miss Zirin gives them more than justice. All her songs are sung beautifully, but "Mira" is especially lovely. Lili also sings the sweet strains of "Love Makes the World Go Round."

Carnival will be performed Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Its charm is magical.

Adelphia

Dance

8:00 Friday

S.U. Ballroom

SAVE! 40% OFF Pub. List Price on Books for the College Student

These tremendous savings include such books as;

Bartletts' Quotations Pub. List Price 10.00 6.00

Rogets International Treasures Pub. List Price 6.95 4.17

Websters' New World Dictionary Pub. List Price 6.95 4.17

All Modern Library Books in Stock
Plus Modern Library Giants

Byron, Dickinson, Flaubert, O'Henry, Turgenev, Voltaire, Keats, Shelley, Plutarchs Lives, Darwin, Marx, Tolstoy, Shaw, Freud, Ilsen, Faulkner, Dostoyevsky, etc.

Pub. List 1.95 1.17
Pub. List 2.45 1.47
Pub. List 3.95 2.37

Caldor

80 North King St. (Rt. 5) Northampton

Offer Good thru Wed., Nov. 23 with this coupon only.

C

Polchlopek Set to Lead Resurgent UM Pucksters

by DAVE HANSON

The 1966 edition of the Redmen hockey team is out to make amends for its performance last season.

A nucleus of returning talent, a fine group of sophomore prospects, a dynamic captain and a lot of spirit promises to improve last year's 3-16 record. Preseason conditioning in the form of roadwork and weight training beginning in earily October and the earliest start ever on the ice, October 31, promises to put the team in top shape for the first contest on December 3 at M.I.T.

Polchlopek Back

Returning this year for his third season is Ed Polchlopek, leading scorer for the last two seasons, and captain of this year's team. Polchlopek, while not a fantastic skater, has a way of finding the net with the puck and has tallied 57 points in 37 games.

Also expected to be a key in the Redmen's successes is senior goalie Ed Sanborn. Sanborn, playing only second semester last year, performed well despite being peppered with as many as 60 shots in a game.

Fred "Moves" Molander, a hard nosed forward, and Ed Quimby should make the offense a powerful weapon.

Defense Sharp

Frank Buckler, picked up last year in mid-season, played fine hockey for the last half of the campaign and can be counted on for a good showing this year. Ed Graney, a defenseman converted from wing, brings experience and seasoning to the points and, with John Ledwick, who was sidelined at the end of last season with a leg injury, should make the goaltender's job a little easier.

Last year's once beaten Frosh squad supplies a wealth of depth to the pucksters this year. On defense, Dave Goldberg of Belmont, Joe Dicicco of Boston English, a former City and Conference All Star, and Bill Conway of Beverly, should keep the puck out of the defensive zone a good deal of the time.

Hartnett Lauded

Coach Steve Kosakowski believes that John Hartnett, a center from Marblehead, could develop into one of the best playmakers in Division II. Other linemen include Jeff Sanborn, high scorer for last year's Frosh squad, and Don Robinson, another man who knows how to stuff the puck in the nets.

Two classy skaters, expected to excel this year, are Spy Ponder Fran Mulcahey and Charlie Hanifan of Malden. Both these boys showed that they know the game as they helped the '69er's to a 6-1 record last season.

From Worcester Junior, the Marine Corps and Auburn High, the Redmen have picked up Charlie Eaton who has a good chance of pulling down a permanent berth.

Bill Skowyra and Dave Eaton, Polchlopek's linemates last year, will not be playing this year and will be sorely missed. Skowyra has been sidelined because of an injury and Eaton has decided to devote full time to his studies.

This year's schedule of twenty games includes the second annual Amherst Invitational Tournament and the Yankee Conference tournament. Perennial local powers AIC, Bowdoin, Williams, New Hampshire, Colby, and Amherst highlight the long season.

Assisting Kosakowski this year is Dave Schneider, captain of St. Lawrence's 1965-66 ECAC tournament team. Dave has brought a new drive as well as a fine knowledge of the game to the squad.

Plus factors for the squad, including good conditioning, fine talent, improved spirit, and an early start on the ice, should outweigh the tough schedule and long semester break.

Co-captain Ed Toner

Fusia: "Toner Ideal Athlete"

by JERRY KASSOY
Sports Staff

Redmen football coach Vic Fusia has said that "pain should never deter a good football player." A man who has played outstanding football while burdened with injury is co-captain Ed Toner.

Toner dislocated his elbow during the first week of practice but returned to action at midseason, considerably sooner than team physicians had anticipated.

"Any other individual," comments Fusia, "may have been out the whole year. But not Ed." Toner, a six-foot two, 235 lb. defensive tackle, last year was awarded the Redmen Trophy for excellence in defensive achievement.

His fine play did not go unnoticed, for he was drafted by the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

The Lynn native's emergence to standout caliber, according to Fusia, was due to three factors: his natural speed, the superb guidance of line coach Ted Schmitt, and, perhaps most of all, his personal desire to be outstanding.

His leadership and that of fellow co-captain Rod Brooks, despite the adversities of innumerable injuries which have plagued the squad throughout the campaign, has piloted the Redmen to a winning season and a Yan-Con title.

Fusia, not usually noted for his succinct replies, describes Toner simply as the "ideal athlete."

HERO

AL CARUSO—For nearly two full seasons Al Caruso awaited the chance to display his quarterbacking talents. Last Saturday the Brooklyn - bred senior got his opportunity and took full advantage. Al ran the option play to perfection as he lead the Redmen to the touchdown which defeated UNH, 14-7.

INTRAMURALS

Cougars, Lemons Usher In Hoop Season with Wins

by ROGER KIPP, Sports Staff

Bowling and basketball got into full swing this week following an exciting and action-packed football season.

FINAL
YAN-CON STANDINGS

Team	W	L	T
UMASS	5	0
Vermont	3	2
UConn	2	2	1
Maine	2	3
URI	1	3	1
UNH	1	4

Nineteen Soccer Lettermen Named

Nineteen members of the U-Mass soccer team have earned varsity letters, according to statistics released yesterday by manager Art Segaloff.

In addition to Segaloff, who automatically earns a varsity letter for his managerial endeavors, those who have totaled 220 minutes or more in competition are:

Aba Ayanaba, Gary Gibbons, Manny Leitao, Larry Martin, Mike Russo, Lorin Tarr, Dave Tucker, seniors; Bill Allan, Phil Bozenhard, Gerry Cellilli, Carl Gustafson, Dick Hale, Frank Howard, Dave Jekanoski, Pete Makhambera, Rick Rosoff and Marty Smith, juniors; and soph Tom Ward.

Ayanaba, Martin and Russo are three year lettermen while all but Tarr, Tucker, Rosoff, Segaloff and Ward won letters a year ago.

Going to basketball first of all, in the Dorm Leagues, a full slate in the Southwest League saw the Cougars down the Jaguars, 41-32, the Colonials, led by Bruce Allen's 16 points, go over the Commanches, 34-28, the Colts rip the Panthers, 54-29, and finally, the Leopards over the Patriots, 49-37.

North Action Rugged

North League action was rugged and included three close games. The Panthers squeezed by the Limes, 41-39, while the Hawks won a close one over the Chestnuts, 51-44. The Flaming A's beat the Rams by only five points, 42-37, in another good game.

A surprise was the fact that the Lemons won easily over the Aces, 52-33. The Aces won the overall Dorm title a year ago.

The three Baker teams took it on the chin in the first night of East League action. The Maroons swamped the Buffaloes, 71-43, behind Willis Frisbee's 27 points. Chuck Webster had 20 for the losers. Greenough's Grants knocked off the Bruins, 39-34, and the Giants won over the Broncos by 28-22.

Zeta Nu Downed

Fraternity League action saw a few close games and a couple that were not so close. PMD took a one-pointer from ATG, 44-43, and Theta Chi, led by Tom Byron, took one from SAM by a point also, 35-34. TEP won a tough one from last year's fraternity champs, Zeta Nu by 40-33.

Elsewhere, a strong BKP outfit took charge and downed QTV, 50-29. LCA, showing precision and a well-balanced outfit, rolled over PSD, 51-22, and SPE, getting good nights from several players, crushed PSK, 61-19.

Independent teams look strong this year, as usual. The Tigers were impressive, clobbering the Hangovers, 56-24. The Foundrymen started off the season right by getting by the Phantoms, 39-21, and the Buffaloes were too much for the Froshites, winning by 55-27.

* * * *

Frat Bowling

Only the Fraternities bowled on Monday night, with PSD, QTV, LCA, and TEP posting shutouts. QTV, led by Coll Garstang's 487 triple whitewashed TC, 8-0. LCA did likewise to TKE, and TEP took it all from SAM.

But the big story has to be PSD, last year's campus bowling champs who look like they are ready to do it again. Mike Parker and Jack Earle, both All-

(Continued on page 3)

Tickets!!

Boston College has unexpectedly returned 1,000 tickets for Saturday's game with UM at Alumni Stadium. These tickets are now on sale at the Boyden Ticket Office, Room 231, and can be bought by anyone, including students.

INDEX
Ceramics Demonstration . 3
Southwest Underpass 2
Putalo Interview 5

THE MASSACHUSETTS
collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Food Rates Rise
Page 2

VOL. XCV, NO. 26 | University of Massachusetts | FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1966

Photo by Bolivar

Bob Lederman, first Peace Corps volunteer in Anaco, believes that lasting friendships are an important part of being a successful volunteer.

LEDERMAN INSPIRES STUDENTS WITH PEACE CORPS STORY

by PAM METAXAS, Staff Reporter

"It was the best two years of my life," said Bob Lederman, a returned Peace Corps Volunteer from Venezula. Part of the recruiting team presently set up in the SU, he is a PC staffer speaking to college students in many schools across the nation.

Lederman was the first PCV, along with another boy, in the Venezuelan town of Anoco (pop. 30,000), approximately 250 miles east of Caracas. He said this made it more difficult at first since the people had no idea what the Peace Corps was and what purpose the volunteers would serve. "For the first three months we did absolutely nothing," he remarked.

He added that when working in Community Development, the volunteer should "see what people need but never impose his culture on them."

In Anaco there was absolutely "no community spirit," he said. And his purpose, in this case, was to "get the leaders of the town together working as a unit."

He ran into several problems. The people couldn't understand

(Continued on page 7)

Black Community Lacks Power To Be Free from Oppression

"No one is talking about taking over the country"

Photo by Kelly

by MARSHALL NADAN

"What this country needs is a white Martin Luther King," stated Stokely Carmichael Wednesday night at Mount Holyoke College.

Carmichael spoke to an overflow crowd and was well-applauded.

It is not the black community that needs non-violence, Carmichael went on, but the white community. He lamented that there are too few activists within the white community working against institutionalized racism.

Asked if he resented white students working with Negroes during their vacations, Carmichael answered, "I would urge that they not go into the black community. I do not resent their presence. I suggest that they work within the white community." He continued that white people helping black gave Negroes a sense of inferiority, which is exactly what they are trying to escape from.

The ultimate goal of the black power movement, answered Carmichael in response to another question, is "for black people to force white people to stop oppressing them."

The main theme of Carmichael's speech was that the black people of a black community lack power within their community. White people have the power, and they enforce it with all the means at their disposal.

It would be different, Carmichael explained, if the ghettoes

(Continued on page 7)

"Its Corny to Have Doors Closed"

Hopkins Declares Open Door Policy

by MARSHALL NADAN, Staff Reporter

All men entertaining female guests during open-houses in men's residence halls must keep their doors open. The Collegian learned of this new rule from the Dean of Men's Office on Wednesday afternoon.

Robert Hopkins, Dean of Men, explained that two students from Brett House had come in to his office inquiring about the rules for open-house. He stated that he informed them that no University rule exists, except for what is printed in the Student Handbook. They asked him if he thought there should be one, and he stated that he replied yes. Then they asked him if he would suggest one, and he answered, "Yes, keep the doors open."

This then became the rule of the Dean of Men's Office for all men's dorms. There is no University regulation on the question, and Helen Curtis, Dean of Women, stated that there has been no statement or recommendation from her office on the question.

Hopkins declared, "As far as this office is concerned, my interpretation of open-house is that doors will be fully open for those entertaining guests." He especially emphasized the word "fully." "Those not taking part in the open-house don't have to have their doors open." Hopkins stated that he had not discussed the new regulation with the Heads of Residence of Southwest yet, but that he would.

Richard Wimberly, a member of Men's Affairs Committee of the Senate and also of the Student

(Continued on page 6)

Yahoo! Senate Announces Harrington Is Coming

by PAT PETOW, Staff Reporter

Meeting during somewhat of a lull in hour exams, Wednesday's session of the Student Senate saw the appropriation of $456 to the Pre-Law Assoc., an encumbrance of another organization's currently allotted funds, and the rescinding of a 1963-64 "attendance" provision.

Probably the highlight of committee reports, the progress of the Public Relations Committee is bringing State Sen. Kevin Harrington to UMass to speak on "the role of politics in education" was reported by Chairman Larry Marcus '69. The co-author of an act resulting from a comprehensive survey of Massachusetts education, Harrington is known for his interest in the campus.

Coming up on Nov. 22 will be a P.R. coffee hour with Pres. John Lederle; this Saturday a Boston conference is being sponsored by the same Senate committee in an attempt to establish an organization of state colleges student governments.

In matters of academic interest, committee chairman Bob Gaudet (Webster) discussed two "scientific" polls to be taken soon. The Senate committee with the help of Robert Cope, Director of UM's Office of Institutional Studies intends to take random samples on the question of the marking system.

The topic, which had been the object of a 95 school (78 responding) survey in the spring of 1965 will make up a second poll projected for comparative purposes for Mar. 1967. Another poll to be given shortly is one planned by the UM Reform Committee, which is working closely with Academic Affairs, on distribution requirements.

Gaudet also indicated his committee will report on a special French placement test and its purpose.

Other accounts, including a detailed one from Services Committee, were presented before the legislators turned to the agenda. Pres. John Greenquist, referring to the hour, urged the chairman to submit written summaries to P.R. so that Senators would have available in printed form the information now given orally.

(Continued on page 8)

NO DISCRIMINATION HERE

Photo by Kelly

"There are no exceptions. He sets a fine example," remarked Chief Blasko as he issued a violation ticket to the Deputy Sheriff, illegally parked in front of Draper Hall.

Southwest Pedestrians

Underpass Is Being Constructed

by JACK DEAN

Mud, mountains and machines hinder Southwest residents each day as they set out for classes. But, as always, the inconvenience is only a prelude to better student facilities.

The construction now under way is Phase I of the University Boulevard, which will eventually provide direct access to North Pleasant Street from Route 116. Phase I will terminate parallel to Sunset Avenue, and will include a pedestrian underpass, the groundwork of which is now being laid. Because the road will be fenced off, this tunnel will be the only means of getting to the center of campus for Southwest residents.

According to William A. Lambert, University Landscape architect, the total length of the underpass will be 250 feet. However, only 90 feet will be covered by the roadway—80 feet on each side being open passageways. Lambert also added that at its highest point, the roof of the tunnel will be 11 feet; and at its widest point, 40 feet.

When complete, the boulevard will be a four-lane divided highway which will run by the new Administration Building. It will pass through what is now a temporary parking lot and terminate at North Pleasant Street in an interchange.

Photo by Cote

Destruction or construction? Actually the view from the nineteenth floor of T1. Residents of Southwest truck through these swamps daily on their pilgrimages to classes.

The concrete work of the underpass is scheduled for completion near the end of December. Overall target date for completion of Phase I is in May.

This project is the first step of a plan which will eventually provide the University with a circumferential traffic system and eliminate auto travel through the center of campus.

It's Happening!

This Saturday night, November 19, at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom, the Revelers will co-sponsor with the Program Council a totally new dimension in dance entertainment.

The latest sounds from Boston will be on hand to complement the atmosphere of grotesque illusions created by a mirage of colored lighting effects and mechanical devices. The Ballroom will be transformed into a spectrum of swirls and projections formed at will by the overlapping and moving lights.

The spantaneity of the music, coupled with this bizarre atmosphere of visual contortions, provides an entirely unique experience in dancing.

Modeled after the latest craze now invading many of New York's famous night spots, the Happening Dance brings to the campus a much needed innovation in active entertainment.

No longer need you stand in the corner bored with a routine set-up and mediocre band! Join the Revelers this Saturday night and let It happen to you. Seventy-five cents lets you in to a new world of sight and sounds, creating the visual experiences that lets your mind and senses break loose!

You can't afford to miss it! Like, It's Happening!

TURKEY SHOOT

sponsored by

Phi Sigma Kappa

1:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20, 1966

Fraternity - Sorority Park

East Pleasant Street on back of Van Meter

Prizes for all

Guns & Ammunition Supplied or Bring your Own

Special Thanksgiving Dinner

Thursday, November 24th

Student Union Commonwealth Cafeteria

Cranberry Juice Cocktail
Roast Turkey with Dressing
Whipped Potato, Giblet Gravy
Butternut Squash, Buttered Green Peas
Cranberry Sauce, Roll and Butter
Coffee (all you want), tea, or milk
Mince or Pumpkin Pie
Mints and Nuts

Price: Adults $1.50 including tax
Children under 12 years—.99¢

Coffee, sandwiches, etc. served 11:00 A.M. - 2:00 P.M.
Dinner served 11:30 A.M. - 1:30 P.M.

Please sign up with Food Service cashier or phone 545-2530 by November 22.

Judiciary Selections and Interviews will be held

Dec. 4th at 1 p.m.

in the S.U.

COUNCIL CHAMBERS

Needed: 1 Stockbridge ('68 or '67)
2 Juniors ('68)
1 Sophomore ('69)

Pick up & return applications at

R.S.O. by Dec. 1

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS

There will be a bus Sat., Nov. 19 going to Belchertown State School for all those interested in working with the Mentally Retarded. There will be a tour of the school and orientation to the program for those who have never been. Bus leaves North Commons at 1:15 and Newman Center at 1:25.

Board Rates to Increase To Meet Rising Costs

by LEWIS SMITH

Due to studies conducted by the University Food Services and Administration, a proposal has been made to the Board of Trustees for an immediate increase in board rates.

The proposal consists of a request for an increase of $35 per semester on five day meal tickets and for an increase of $16 per semester on the optional weekend meal ticket. The proposal also asks that this increase go into effect for the Spring Semester, 1967.

The reasons for this increase mid-way through the academic year are based on economics, said one University official. The budget for the University Food Services was drawn up in April and May of 1966. Because of the increase in room rates no increase was proposed in regards to board. Instead, the Food Services hoped to struggle through the year on their original budget. This has proven to be impossible due to economic factors.

These economic factors are widespread, but when taken collectively add up to a tremendous financial problem. The amortization of the Southwest #7 commons cost $80,000 more than was originally planned. This was brought about by high interest rates and temporary borrowing.

A 6% pay raise awarded to state employees by the Commonwealth will cost the Food Services an additional $50,000. This increase came on top of a previous 10% pay raise, which involves an estimated $95,000. Also, in regards to this, student wages have increased by 25% Furthermore, at this time, medical insurance rates are supposed to increase on January 1, 1966. The University Food Services pays 50% of this insurance cost to its workers.

A tight labor market is also costing the Food Services about $3,000 a month for overtime. In attempts to cure this situation the Food Services has attempted to regulate working shifts, but lack of help has hindered this. Student workers are needed by the Food Service.

Perhaps the major economic problem causing the board increase is the spiraling costs of food. According to latest United States Government figures a 9.2% increase in food prices has occured in the last year; most of this coming in the last six months.

Other economic problems have come about through expansion of the University itself. Through high interest rates the University now owes $695,000 to the Commonwealth on bonds floated for this new expansion. Along with this expansion has been the costs of opening new dining facilities.

New commons have been opened in 1964, in 1965, in 1966, and another will be opened in 1967. A new snack bar was opened in 1965, two in 1966, and another will be opened in 1967. The need for extra storage space, equipment replacement, and long plan renovation have also entered the economic picture.

Because of these economic factors the University Food Service and the Administration have found it necessary to propose this increase in board rates; to take effect this coming semester. With this increase in board rates the Food Services plan "seconds" on entrees and desserts.

Also discussed in committee were proposed extended hours for the snack bar at Southwest. Starting after Thanksgiving the hours will be 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, and 5 p.m. to 12 p.m. on weekdays. The possibility of having chocolate milk at meals as an added beverage was also discussed.

Photo by Kornfield

This sumptuous meal, with a few additions, will be served to you next semester for an additional cost.

COLLEGIANS may be Picked up at Lobby Counter

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Proper Sunglasses Eliminate Glare and Protect Against the Hazardous Rays of the Sun.

See DON CALL Optician

Got a Cold?

Take

CONTACT

available in 10's, 20's and 40's

also nasal spray

HENRY ADAMS

5 So. Pleasant St. Druggist at the corner

It's happening!

See page 2

He Makes "Things" Out of Clay

Leedy Demonstrates His Unique Method

Story and Photos
by GERI COTE

On November 14, James Leedy of the Kansas City Art Institute gave a lecture and demonstration on ceramics. Prefacing the demonstration, Leedy, having been introduced as an excellent potter by Keith Hollingworth of the Art Department, declared, "I am not a potter. I make things out of clay."

Pictured here are some of the "things" he made during the demonstration. Most of those present were not prepared for the type of things, Leedy does with clay. Some commented, "He must be putting us on" as Leedy casually added a slab of clay here, a handle there, an arrow pointing to the "lid."

Members of the ceramics department entertained mixed emotions about his work. One potter thought it was a good experience for the students to see clay handled in such a way. Some thought it was careless, uncontrolled, haphazard, the result merely a "Happy accident." But, quite the contrary, he said, a great deal of control, sophistication, skill and imagination were evident in his technique.

In his lecture, Leedy stressed the point that although ceramics has always been considered a major minor art, it is every bit as important a means of expression as painting and sculpture.

His own work he described as strictly aesthetic. He uses clay to express his own personal statement. Although he keeps to the traditional pot form, using lids, handles, etc., his pots serve no useful function, unless it be to sit on a shelf and be looked at.

Leedy is an art historian, and showed slides of Hitites, Etruscan, Neolithic and Bronze Age pots as well as pots from the far east, illustrating that pots have always existed for some aesthetic as well as functional purpose.

Leedy divided ceramics into two categories. The first, termed Bent-ware, consists of pots made for aesthetic or visual purposes only. The second, Straight-ware, is made up of pots that are strictly useful. Leedy's work obviously falls into the first category.

Several people have helped to make ceramics a creative art. Leedy mentioned the Archie Bray Foundation in Montana as having greatly influenced ceremics of late and named Peter Volkous, Rudy Autio, Kenneth Furgeson and himself as having made outstanding contributions, working in close relation to the abstract impressionist movement in painting.

Some members of the Ceramics department at the University were not in complete agreement with Leedy's ideas. Some felt that he put too much emphasis on the Montana school. One potter found Leedy's work exciting, but somewhat of a cliche. Another found Leedy typical of a number of people in the country who become their own publicity agents—who make their work good by saying it is good.

The lecture was concluded with the showing of slides of Leedy's work.

After completing a piece of work, Leedy described his creations as being "purely aesthetic."

Creating one of his "things," Leedy adds a slab of clay here, a handle there . . .

CORRECTION

The following is a correction sent to the Collegian by Prof. Ben B. Seligman in reference to a Nov. 2 article concerning the Labor Relations and Research Center.

Reference was made to an undergraduate concentration in labor studies. While approved by the Board of Trustees at the time of the Center's establishment, this has not yet been implemented since major effort has been directed toward the graduate program. In the latter there are currently 12 students. The 2,333 "students" referred to in your article comprises the number of trade unionists that were reached through the Center's extension program in its first year of operation.

The story also failed to make mention of the rather extensive faculty research program funded by the Center. At present some nine faculty members are engaged in various projects sponsored by the Center, all of which are expected to yield significant results. Finally, mention might be made of our Boston branch, located at UMass-Boston, which at the moment concentrates on extension work. The assistant director in Boston is Mr. Joseph J. Cass.

Sincerely,
Professor Ben B. Seligman, Director
Labor Relations and Research Center

Union Art Corridor Exhibits Famous American Art Posters

The Arts and Music Committee of the Student Union Program Council presents an American Art Poster exhibit on the art corridor. The posters will be on exhibit until December 2.

Posters have a long history. In ancient Greece, new laws were announced by posting plaques in public places. In Roman times, theatrical performances were announced by painting representative scenes on placards in public squares. In the Middle Ages, woodcuts were used for public announcements and during the 17th and 18th centuries soldiers were recruited through printed bills in town centers.

It was not until the end of the 18th century, however, when lithography was invented, that the illustrated poster became practical. Then they were used widely for advertising, tourism, books and theatrical events. From time to time, many fine artists such as Lautrec, Daumier, Manet, Bonnard, Van Dongen and Segonzac created commercial posters.

About 1927, French museums began to announce exhibitions using posters which illustrated some of the works of art on exhibit. Shortly thereafter the artists themselves, recognizing the validity of poster art and wanting to publicize their own exhibitions, began to create original compositions for their posters. Raoul Dufy was one of the first to do this when he created a poster for an exhibition of French paintings in Scandinavia. Then, in 1946, Picasso created a poster for a ceramics exhibition in Valauris. A new movement in graphic art was developing—Posters by Painters!

Today, a phenomenon is taking place on the American art scene. Over thirty American artists, commissioned by the American Federation of Arts, have since 1963 designed and executed original posters for cultural events in the United States.

Included in this exhibition are also posters printed by foremost artists for their one-man exhibitions. All of these contemporary American posters suggest new ways in which visual advertisements may surpass themselves as commercial means and become servants of aesthetic ends.

MOUNTAIN PARK
RTE. 5, HOLYOKE — GO WHERE THE ACTION IS
EVERY SAT. 8 P. M.
COLLEGE MIXER
With New England's
No. 1 Rocking Band
MONTY & The SPECIALTIES

University of Massachusetts
Operetta Guild
presents
N.Y. CRITICS' AWARD - BEST MUSICAL
BOWKER AUDITORIUM
CARNIVAL
NOV. 11, 12, 17, 18, 19
1.50, 1.75
Tickets at S.U. Box Office

AMHERST Cinema
Sun. - Mon. - Tues.
on screen 7:00-9:00
"A VERY UNUSUAL PICTURE! BEAUTIFUL!"
—Archer Winsten, N. Y. Post
Agnes Varda's
leBonheur
(HAPPINESS)
in EASTMANCOLOR
A CLOVER FILMS CORP. RELEASE

CINEMA 1&2
THE BLUE MAX
IN 1
FREE PARKING
RECLINING SEATS
ART GALLERY
6 ACADEMY AWARDS
CALL 33-5131
17th WK in 2
DOCTOR ZHIVAGO
GEORGE PEPPARD - JAMES MASON
URSULA ANDRES
CONT: MON-THURS 2-5:15 - 8:30
FRI-SAT-SUN-HOLY 1st 1-4-7-9:50
MAT: WED. Sat. Sun. 2 P.M. EVES. 8:30 SUN. 8
TICKETS ARE NOW AVAILABLE AT YOUR LOCAL SEAR

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

$ $ $

by JACK DEAN, Day Editor

Naturally there will be complaints—money is involved.

But who can complain in good conscience about a $35-51 increase in our semester bill? It's logical to assume that as national food production and surpluses go down, food prices go up. The whole country is faced with this problem, not just our Food Service.

We must admit that our tuition fee is nominal, and the same could be said about our living accommodations.

But it is unfortunate that food is the most expensive—and least enjoyable—part of our educational experience here at UMass.

Parade of Opinion

A Liberating Morality

From the wires of Associated Collegiate Press

Is premarital sex always wrong? Is cheating in an examination always wrong? Is there anything that is always wrong?

The "new morality" says not, writes Ronald E. Keener in the Oklahoma City. The practitioner of situation ethics will say that nothing is eternally wrong. Indeed, there is but one "rule" and that is that love rather than legalisms must govern our conduct with others.

The platform of the situationalist may say this: "As a Christian, I believe that the highest norm for judging all moral decisions is the divine command to love God and neighbor. Although moral codes are part of my heritage, I do not feel bound by them.

"No act is in and of itself evil, but it depends on the situation. I approach each new situation afresh. First I look at the end sought, the means to be employed, the motive at work and all the forseeable consequences. Then I decide what would be the greatest good for the persons involved."

This kind of morality is not a "Play it cool, man!" posture, the just-for-kicks theory of the playboy that makes a plaything of the opposite person. But unfortunately, the new morality is too often associated with today's preoccupation with sex. It speaks, however, as much for our business conduct, associations in class or dorm, war and peace, civil rights, economics—in every person-oriented situation.

The new morality, if properly understood, is not a loose morality—it is nevertheless a liberating morality that places knowledge and responsibility in a Christian ethic ahead of a list of "Thou shalt nots."

As I See It

by Mike Hersh

"A Conscience Salver"

Edward W. Brooke is the first Negro to be elected to the Senate since the political chaos of Reconstruction days 95 years ago. Just in case one forgets this pertinent historic fact, mass media is there to constantly remind him. It would seem that it felt obliged to find some liberal element in predominantly racist elections throughout the country and was, therefore, compelled to announce with great fervor this little stream of hope named Brooke.

Contrary to many opinions, Brooke's election could be considered a detriment rather than an asset to the Negro cause. He can hardly be recognized as a representative of his people. "Brooke is a Negro in politics, rather than a Negro politician." (Newsweek, Nov. 21) With no ethnic base of strength—Negroes make up only 2% of Massachusetts' population—Brooke has campaigned merely as a Republican, not as a symbol of black power. In fact, he has repeatedly abrogated the concept of black power, and while it is reprehensible for a white individual to think thusly, it is inexcusable for a Negro to do so.

Black power is the very reason that a black man would want Brooke elected, but as an attorney-general he proved himself to be merely another link in the white power structure.

His election will be used by the white community to refute the charges of racism. Brooke's usefulness to much of the electorate is "as a conscience salver: they vote for him, and then continue blithely to do nothing about segregation in general." (Newsweek, Nov. 21)

Mr. Brooke depicts the nature of tokenism. An individual black man is dangled in front of his own people to exemplify the progress made in civil rights, to maintain the status quo, to eliminate all Negro complaints.

One can hardy consider Brooke exactly what the Negro desires and needs first, which is representation in government, i.e. black power. Therefore, he can only serve to undermine the Negro position.

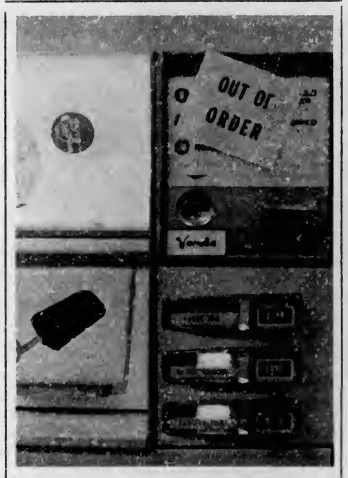
"Night Ride" Replies

To the Editor:

Once again the obviously erudite and pedantic Collegian editorial staff, in the guise of the well informed Mr. Don Aliferis, has managed to display the great amount of research that is done for their editorial topics before they are put into the paper. I'm chagrinned that Don, both with much alacrity and insight, is able to write editorial after editorial and still remain so innocuously controversial.

I will limit myself to just one recent editorial of Don's, the editorial on the Nite Ride Show, ne Night Rider. He makes the rash and falacious assumption that the D.J.s who do the request shows know anything about the requests that come into the station during the course of a show. It would be impossible for them to do this type of show if it weren't for a fantastic group of station members who do the record library work for him.

If Mr. Aliferis feels that he can more efficiently handle the more than two hundred requests that come in by phone during the first three hours of the show, look up the filing numbers in the catalogues, climb into the stacks and pull out the records, get them into the control room to the D.J. and out over the air in any less time than it now takes, he certainly is invited to drop in the station any Saturday and take over the record library operation for my show.



The second gross misconception of Mr. Aliferis is that the D.J.s rearrange the record order to the degree that some of the requests that come into the control room are put off by as much as five hours at the whims of the D.J.s. The only time that rearranging of the records ever occurs results from the efforts of the D.J.s trying to maintain a well rounded program, meaning that we will not play four Beatle songs followed by three pieces of Classical music, these requests would be mixed in with a few of the other records that are on the top of the pile. Except for this one instance, the records are played in the order in which they are received.

I realize that your whole world of misconceptions is being slowly torn from under you this past week or so, Don, and it really bothers me that I must add to what must be a dizzying experience for you, but chin up, as President Lederle was misquoted as saying that the communications media should be used "as a kind of laboratory for the purpose of testing the outer limits of accuracy...". Hopefully, we learn from our mistakes.

For innocuously controversial press, read the Collegian.

For Free and Responsible radio, listen to WMUA.

Norman Ryan
WMUA

Furman Photo

Frustration . . . the result of poor maintenance.

Auuuugh...

To the Editor

Congratulations are to be extended to the "artist" whose works are currently exhibited on the walls of Greenough Snackbar.

He is the answer to a psychologist's dream. For he has discovered how to release all his pent-up emotions of sorrow, guilt, fear and hatred. And, best of all, he has managed to do this without "psysically" injuring himself or anyone else.

In less time than it takes to spell Rembrandt Harmenszoon von Ryn backwards, and employing all the artistic skill of a drunken spastic during an epileptic fit, he has succeeded in completely spoiling the meals of all who eat in the snackbar, not to mention the walls.

The mess he has made has to be seen to be believed.

It is sincerely hoped that he will return to the scene of the catastrophe to repaint the walls the original shade of green.

J. B. Black '70

A Muddy Wallow

To the Editor:

As a graduate student living in the Southwest Complex, I feel it time to register my disappointment, and now surprise, at the manner in which affairs affecting resident students are handled at this University.

I have seen grad students and undergraduates alike harassed by petty parking problems as handled by the (courteous?) campus policemen; initially, I was discouraged by the fact that grads were given housing in an undergraduate dorm. (Of course, undergrad, especially male undergrad, surroundings are always so peaceful). Now the graduate men must act as policemen to keep our own lounge undamaged.

But the real punch line came Monday afternoon when grads and undergrads walking back from campus were greeted by a muddy wallow through which we had to make our way in order to get to Southwest. Moreover, pushing the dirt around in this area were two caterpillars (of the several-ton mechanical species), at least one of which was manned by someone seeming to have the greatest fun watching us leap out of his path. But this is only the small (?) incident that precipitated this writing.

It is probably too late now because, typically, there was no forward-thinking planner around when the planning was necessary.

Meanwhile, a little less annoyance goes a long way!!!

A Weary Wallower

Claude Bowers, on corruption in politics:

"When we reflect in the case of men engaged politically in the public service the spotlight is constantly thrown upon them and the microscope used in eager search for evidence of wrong doing, we tremble to think what might be the result if all the other elements of society were subjected to the same constant intensive scrutiny."

THE MASSACHUSETTS
collegian

Editor-in-Chief: Tom Donovan '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68
News Editor: Gordon Davidson '67
Editorial Chmn.: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports Editor: Mike Gould '67
Feature Editors: Lois Cohen '68
Photography Editor: Eric Wish '68
Advertising Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Circulation Mgr: Bob Godwin '69

TODAY'S EDITORS
News: Marjie Flanders '69
Editorial: Ellie Skinner '70
Sports: Tom Fitzgerald '69

Students Unable to Handle College Material

PUTALA DEFENDS BOTANY 101

by ROBERT WILFONG

Q. Mr. Putala, you've become rather a controversial figure on campus in the last two semesters, largely because of your exams in Botany 101. This year over ninety percent of the class failed your first exam, and last year I believe the figure was over 50%. What do you think these figures indicate?

A. I think they indicate that most of the students in the class are unable to handle a college level course adequately.

Q. Could you elaborate on that a little?

A. I think one of the reasons is that students are unable to take proper notes, or to use them if they have them. I have asked every student who came to me to complain about the unfairness of the test to bring in his notes, and I have shown them the answer to the problem. But the student couldn't see it there. He couldn't understand the relation of the point he had in his notes to the material course.

Q. You have mentioned in class several times, particularly after the exam, that you think that many of the students in the class are not "college material." What is your idea of "college material?"

A. I think someone is college material who has awareness and the power of understanding; someone who can take in this instance simple (freshman) information and understand it.

Q. From that definition it seems that it would be hard to find someone who isn't college material. How do you account for the fact that people who are, by your definition, potentially college material, are in fact unable to do what you expect of them?

A. Students have refused to develop this understanding. The student has made the decision not to use his mind.

Q. We've been talking about the failure of the students to come up to the standards of your course. Just what are those standards? What do you expect people to learn from your course?

A. I am trying to teach some of the fundamental aspects and problems of botany, to show the non-science major the workings of a scientific discipline and its pertinence to his own life. And I am trying to teach people, as every course in the University does, to think logically.

Q. And yet somehow students are not learning to your satisfaction what you are trying to teach. Do you think that this failure is greater than it has been in the past, about the same, or less?

A. The University has an average standard of achievement, and there has always been a problem of people not coming up to that standard, but the percentage of students who do not is I feel, (or suspect) increasing. The students at Mass. State did, on a percentage basis, better than students today.

One thing that is often overlooked in discussing this problem is that people growing up today have many more opportunities to learn than people as recently as fifteen years ago. The mass media are much more developed than they were just a few years ago. It would have been rare before World War Two to see the word "chlorophyll" mentioned in a newspaper. Today a new discovery concerning "chlorophyll" makes the front page of the New York Times. Yet with all these advantages—more books, television and so on—students are not doing as well as they did fifteen years ago.

Q. Perhaps th problem is too many advantages?

A. That may be. There are many things demanding a child's attention today. Perhaps people today have to grow up at a dogtrot pace whereas a few years ago one could go through childhood at a walk. There isn't enough time to reflect on what one is learning. Students may be at the cracking point.

Q. What can be done about this?

A. I don't know . . . but one thing we shouldn't do is to water down courses and not require people to think. We can't just say, "Well, go along and do what you can, we'll pass you along and give you a degree anyway."

Q. And yet it seems to me that watered down courses are part of the reason people have so much trouble in your class. People have been encouraged not to think, to simply write down all the facts and then regurgitate them on an exam without ever understanding what they all mean.

Perhaps people have come to expect courses which require very little thought or active participation, especially in large-lecture introductory courses, and when they encounter a course like yours, the whole thing is a shock that they don't know how to handle. What do you think?

A. This may be true. Lack of thinking has been encouraged at times and students have accepted it. The responsibility for the lower level of intellectual achievement must be spread between the students and the schools. But students shouldn't yield to the temptation to coast along without effort. They should make the best of the situation and avail themselves of all the resources that are available to them.

Q. How do you encourage such initiative in your course?

A. The material in the lectures is complete. All the student has to do is understand what is being said and write it down. The recitation periods are a different matter. Here the student is confronted with unfamiliar terms and concepts which are not explained to him. I don't expect people to understand this material in an hour or even two.

The student's job is to get confused by what he sees and to go out on his own, consult an encyclopedia, standard botany text, or magazine and figure out the significance of what he has seen.

Q. Do you think that the students in your course will be able to do this, as well as keep up with the lecture material?

A. Yes, I think people will learn. The students are faced with a crisis situation, and I think they will see what they are going to have to do to get by in this course, and do it.

Q. One last question. Do you think that a course such as this could be improved through the use of televised lectures, programmed notes, or other mechanical aids which are being experimented with now?

A. I don't think we can solve the problem of good teaching through relying on mechanical appendages. The lecture is not simply for the purpose of relaying information to the student. If that's all you wanted to do the student could go out and read a book and get the information that way. I think students want more than that. They want a human presence to give the material life. An artist-teacher knows intuitively the average student's response to the information and designs his lectures accordingly. That is the reason for the nature of this course for non-science majors. Liberal Arts students don't want a lot of empty terms and technical symbols. They want to know what botany means, what it means to them. They want humanity.

Q. Thank you, Mr. Putala etc.

OPEN DOORS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Life Committee, stated, "It was improper for the students to press the Dean for a snap decision on rules. If they wanted to have a rule they should have worked through the Men's Affairs Committee as should any men's group that wishes to change a regulation."

"And I believe," Wimberly continued, "it was improper for the Dean to have made such a decision on the spot, considering the fact that such a decision is specifically contrary to the concept of residence hall student government of residence hall affairs to which he himself must comply."

Hopkins stated that although the question of closed doors during open-house was within the jurisdiction of residence hall government, the dorms didn't make their own rules.

Asked if he were influenced in his decision by a Collegian editorial entitled "Passing the Buck" which attacked certain individuals for not taking a stand on the question of closed doors, Hopkins answered that he was not.

"I think its corny to have doors closed when people are entertaining in an open house," Hopkins stated as the reason for his decision. "Those parts that are being used in an open-house should be open. I think it is a respectable thing to do."

John Lemoine, Chairman of Men's Affairs Committee and also a member of the Student Life Committee, commented, "I think it is his perogative to make such a rule, but in view of the recent movement on campus for more self-government, it is very discouraging to see a man in his position make such a short-term decision without considering the desires and opinions of the student body." Lemoine would have preferred if Dean Hopkins had taken the question to the Student Life Committee or the Student Senate.

We need

YOU!

join the Collegian

Sikorsky Aircraft

ENGINEERING REPRESENTATIVES WILL BE ON CAMPUS TO GIVE SENIORS AND GRADUATES COMPLETE DETAILS ON

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES

WITH THE PIONEER AND LEADING MANUFACTURER of VTOL AIRCRAFT

See your College Placement Office now for an appointment.

Friday, December 2

SIKORSKY AIRCRAFT, Stratford, Conn. ■ Division of United Aircraft Corp. ■ An Equal Opportunity Employer

What Do YOU Think About Coffee Houses?

Come to the Broken Egg tonight and air your views.

FREE COFFEE FOR FIRST 200 PEOPLE

Starting at 7:00 P.M.

AMHERST Cinema

ENDS SATURDAY

One Performance Daily at 7:45

Short Subjects at 7:15

"FELLINI'S" LA DOLCE VITA

- Notices -

DAVID GRAYSON HOUSE
The Grayson Coffeehouse, 8-12 p.m., Nov. 19. Main Lounge. Folk Singing, poetry reading, instrumental music, donuts & coffee. Those wishing formal participation may still do so by contacting Armen Roupenian, 320 Grayson (6-6941), or Dr. Leon Barron, 234 Grayson, (5-2136).

SKI PATROL
Refresher course, Sat., Nov. 21, S.U., 8:30 a.m.

SKI CLUB
Members, students, faculty & guests are invited to the meeting in Morrill Aud. on Nov. 22 at 7:00 p.m. Warren Miller movies, Killington Movies. Discussion of ski trips to Stowe, Sugarbush, Killington, and Aspen or Sun Valley. Dues and Deposits will be accepted. This will be the last day for deposits to Stowe. Also, the Sugarbush trip is filling up fast.

O[illegible]G CLUB
Check bulletin board for hay ride this weekend. A general meeting will be held on Monday, Nov. 21 at 6:30 in Middle[illegible]oom of the S.U.

[illegible]GRTOWN VOLUNTEERS
For all interested in working with the mentally retarded at Belchertown State School . . . bus leaves North Commons at 1:15 and Newman Center at 1:25, Sat., Nov. 19.

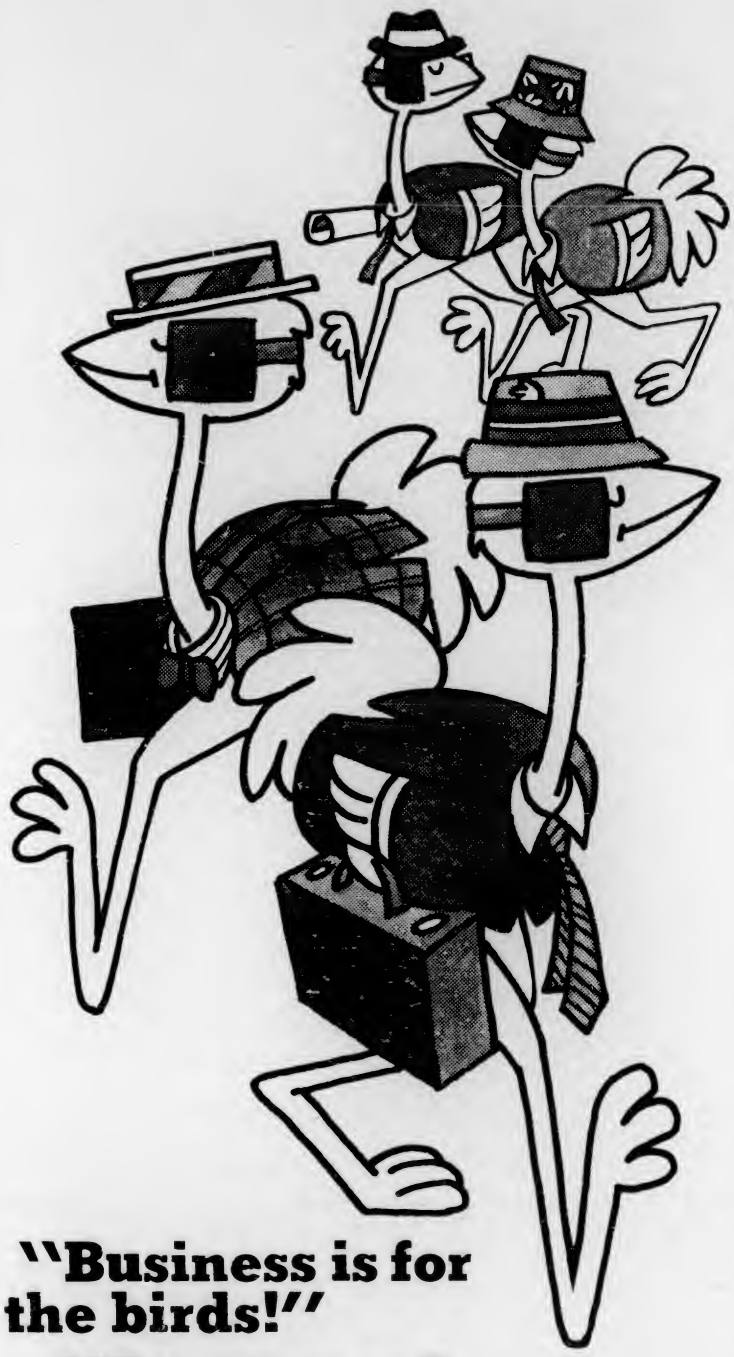
JUDSON FELLOWSHIP
Sun., Nov. 20, 6:30 p.m. First Baptist Church. An informal Discussion: "The Dearth of God." All students invited.

YOUNG INDEPENDENTS
There will be a meeting of the Young Independents (SDS) Monday night, Nov. 21, at 6:30 in the Nantucket Room, S.U.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA
On Monday, Nov. 22, in Memorial Hall, pictures will be taken for the Index.

RUSSIAN PARTY
On Dec. 2, at 8:00 P.M. in Memorial Hall second floor, a Russian party will be held featuring vocalist Very Brynner. Russian food will be served. Donations of 50¢ per person will be collected at the door. The party is open to the public.

LOST
Histology Text by Bloom and Faucett, stolen from Morrill Wed., Nov. 16, at 11:15 A.M. Return to Tim Connor, P.O. Box 51, Amherst.



FOUND
Adelpha tie clasp, found in Bartlett parking lot Nov. 14. Call 367-2704 in evening.

PINNINGS
Diane Stone, class of '68 Chamberlain School of Retailing, to John A. Hoag, class of '70, Webster House.

Deborah A. Sullivan, class of '69, T-4, to Roy E. Lasky, class of '67, Alpha Sigma Phi.

Ellen M. Reynolds, class of '68, Sigma Kappa, to James M. Ruberto, class of '68, Delta Phi Epsilon, Villanova University.

Jeanne Nesto, class of '68, Calvin Coolidge, to Lenny Coffin, class of '68, LCA.

"Business is for the birds!"

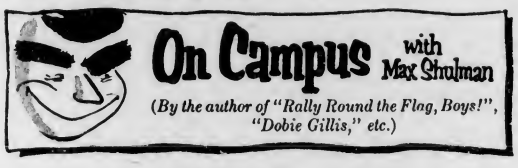
Who says so?

Lots of people do. Some right on your campus. And for rationale, they point an accusing finger at business and say it lacks "social commitment."

Social commitment? We wish they could visit our Kearny, N. J. plant, where we make cable and apparatus for your Bell telephone company. But we have time for other thoughts, other talents.

Like the situation in nearby Newark.

With civic and business leaders, we began buzzing with ideas. "Let's teach higher skills to some of the un-employed and under-employed. Say, machine shop practice. They could qualify for jobs that are going begging – and help themselves as well."



We lent our tool-and-die shop, evenings. We found volunteer instructors. A community group screened applicants. Another supplied hand tools. The Boys Club donated classroom facilities. Another company sent more instructors.

Some 70 trainees enrolled. Their incentive? Self-improvement. Results to date? New people at better jobs. Happier.

And this is only one of dozens of social-minded projects at Western Electric plants across the country, where our first job is making communications equipment for the Bell System.

So, you don't give up ideals when you graduate. If anything, at a company like, say, Western Electric, you add to them. And it's not just a theory. It's practice. Satisfying. Come on and find out. And watch a feathered cliche fly out the window.

Western Electric
MANUFACTURING & SUPPLY UNIT OF THE BELL SYSTEM

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

"M" IS FOR THE MANY THINGS YOU'LL TEACH HER

Nobody will dispute—surely not I—that raising children is a task which requires full time and awesome skills. Nonetheless, a recent nationwide survey has revealed a startling fact: mothers who go back to work after their children are safely through the early years are notably happier, better adjusted, and more fulfilled than mothers who simply remain housewives. Moreover—and mark this well—the children of such working mothers are themselves happier, better adjusted, and more fulfilled!

All very well, you say, but what's it got to do with you? Isn't it obvious? If you are underachieving at college, get your mother a job.

What kind of job? Well sir, your mother is probably between 35 and 50 years of age, so certain occupations must immediately be ruled out. Logging, for example. Or whaling. Or carhopping.

But don't despair. There are other kinds of jobs—not many, to be sure, but some. However, you must not stick Mom in just any old job. You must remember that after the excitement of raising you, she would be bored to tears as a file clerk, for instance, or as a dolman. (A dolman, as we all know, is someone who brings handfuls of water to track layers. With the recent invention of the pail, dolmen are gradually falling into technological unemployment.)

But I digress. I was saying, find Mom a job worthy of her talents, something challenging that uses her vast wisdom and experience but, at the same time, is not too hard on her obsolescing tissues. That's what Walter Sigafoos did, and the results were brilliantly successful.

Walter, a sophomore at the Upper Maryland College of Wickerwork and Belles Lettres, majoring in raffia, approached the problem scientifically. First he asked himself what his mother did best. Well sir, what she did best was to keep hollering, "Dress warm, Walter!"

At first glance this seemed a skill not widely in demand, but Walter was not discouraged. He sent out hundreds of inquiries and today, I am pleased to report, his mother is happily employed as wardrobe mistress for the Montreal Canadiens.

Another fortunate venture was that of Frank C. Gransmire, a junior at the Oregon State Conservatory of Music and Optometry, majoring in sties. Frank, like Walter, did a survey in depth of his mother's talents. Chief among them, he found, was her ability to make a roast of beef feed the whole family for three days. So, naturally, Frank got her a job at the Museum of Natural History.

What has one to do with the other, you ask? Isn't it obvious? Anyone who can stretch ribs like that belongs in paleontology.

I cannot conclude this column without saying a few words about Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades. The reason I cannot is that this column is sponsored by the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, and they are inclined to get peckish if I omit to mention their product.

Not, mind you, that it is a chore for me to plug Personna. Or, for the matter of that, to shave with Personna. No sir: no chore. Personna takes the pain out of shaving, scraps the scrape, negates the nick, repudiates the rasp, peels the pull, boycotts the burn, blackballs the bite, ousts the ouch. Furthermore, Personna endures and abides, gives you luxury shave after luxury shave, day after day after day. And further furthermore, Personna is available both in double-edge style and Injector style. And as if all this were not bounty enough, Personna is now offering you a chance to grab a fistful of $100 bills! Stop at your Personna dealer and get an entry blank for the new Personna Super Stainless Steel Sweepstakes. But hurry! Time is limited.

* * *

© 1966, Max Shulman

The makers of Personna who bring you this column all through the school year also bring you the ultimate in luxury shaving with Personna and Personna's partner in shaving comfort—Burma Shave, regular or menthol.

PEACE CORPS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

why the volunteers wanted to help without asking for something. Also there is a large oil camp in the town that employs many Americans. The camp is separate from the rest of the community. "They didn't know, they thought Americans were all of one type—the kind they had seen working in a servicing oil company," he said.

The people also thought it strange that since the other Americans in town lived differently from the people, why the volunteers insisted on living in the same dwellings.

Lederman said his house had electricity and running water (hot when the sun shone on the pipes). "Most of Venezuela has electricity," he noted. He also said that most people have the mistaken impression that PCV's live with absolutely no conveniences (SP?) "Ninety-five per cent of all PCV's don't live in mud huts," he said.

In Anaco, he was instrumental in starting a pre-school milk program for 100 children and placing them under medical control for the first time in their lives. He also helped start a housing project. At the time the town was ineligible for such projects since the town in question had to be 10,000 or less or 50,000 or more.

At first, this project was discouraging since "we had 3-4 meetings in utter silence," he explained. Then some one suggested going to see the governor about a project for Anaco. Lederman said this was the most important thing, that the people had begun to develop the community spirit and the will they had lacked. One month before he left, the new program was passed. By next year there will be 200 new houses in Anaco.

"In my town I founded a YMCA using sports to change the attitudes of Venezuelan youth," he remarked. They called it the YMCAnaco. The youth then worked together on teams and saw their problems in their town for the first time.

A library under the YMCA was also formed. "We had campaigns in town and the kids brought in books and we also asked the Americans and the rich Venezuelans to help," he added.

Although he had only been away from Anaco since August, Lederman wants to go back soon. Working in such PC programs he has made lasting friends and this, he added, is an important part of being a successful PCV. "You must want to work with people and you must have the desire and the will to get something out of it for yourself," he concluded.

CARMICHAEL . . .

(Continued from page 1)

had formed spontaneously. But the ghettoes are there by design. The only way to end the abuses of white power, Carmichael declared, is to organize black community power and to develop a leadership that recognizes that its power lies in a unified Negro community.

Carmichael pointed out that the infant mortality rate in Harlem is still rising, while in the rest of New York City, it is the lowest in history. The gap between white income and black income has doubled in the past twenty years, Carmichael stated.

"No one is talking about taking over the county," he said, but what is wanted is black power within the black community. We will continue to have violence, Carmichael warned, as long as Negroes do not have a legitimate way of achieving their desire for power within their community."

Carmichael went on to say that integration was based on the assumption that there was little value in the Negro community itself and that the press confused the desire for integration with the desire for the end of white supremacy. "One does not go to Mississippi to be able to sit next to Ross Barnett," was one of his several statements which drew laughter from the audience.

The idea of integration was based on an alliance with white liberals in which the black community had no power, stated Carmichael. However, people give support only as long as it is in their interest to do so; thus, the need for black power. Negroes should see themselves as black first and Democratic second, or black first and Republican second.

When asked if the organization of black power can work, Carmichael retorted, "The answer is that this organization must be successful, because there are no viable alternatives."

He did not directly answer a question on whether he advocated a "separate, but equal" doctrine, but he left the impression that he did not.

Concerning his position on the Vietnam War, he stated, "The war in Vietnam is an immoral war." He declared that it was part of our design to continue to control the world, and that there is a higher law than the law of McNamara and Johnson.

"We are opposed to the draft because we are opposed to train men to kill," Carmichael declared. "As for what I see of Democracy, Peace, Freedom and Justice," he went on in a more humorous tone, "I would not fight to give it to anyone."

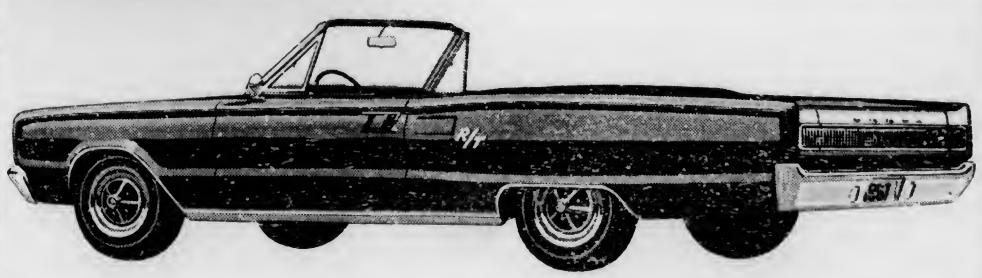
It's happening!

See page 2

DEAR REB:

Sports hero loses girl to mild-mannered math major.

DEAR REB:



I'm a big football star, and I've found a girl who suits me to a T. But I've been blocked out of the play by a math major. He knows math from A = Pi R² to E = MC². Now she says he's found the formula for success with her. All he has to do is mutter "Coronet R/T," and I get thrown for a loss. Believe me, this is no equilateral triangle that I'm in. Outside of telling me to bench myself, have you any advice?

FALLEN STAR

DEAR FALLEN STAR:

Now's the time to plunge. Coronet R/T isn't his exclusive formula. Your nearby Dodge Dealer has it, too. And it comes almost as easily as the cube root of 27. Then how can the girl of your dreams resist two superstars . . . you and your Coronet R/T? From there on out, your math major will be the victim of diminishing returns. Huddle with your Dodge Dealer now, and get your signals straight.

Sincerely, Reb

And why not? Look what you'll have going for you in your Dodge Coronet R/T, convertible or two-door hardtop. All standard, too. 440-cubic-inch Magnum V8 engine. Dual exhausts. Heavy-duty brakes and suspension. High-performance Red Streak tires. And exclusive R/T grille and hood scoop design, full length paint stripes, and nameplates, front, rear and sides. So get with your Dodge Dealer, and your problem will solve itself.

DODGE DIVISION CHRYSLER MOTORS CORPORATION

DODGE REBELLION OPERATION '67

DEERFIELD
DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Route 5 & 10
South Deerfield, Mass.
Tel. 665-9701

Fri. - Sat. - Sun.

Stuart Whetman

Janet Leigh

in

"An American Dream"

also

Paul Newman

is

Harper

Showtime 7:30

Sun: American Dream, 7:30

PIONEER VALLEY'S CINEMA SHOWCASE

AMHERST Cinema

LATE SHOW
Tonight 11:15 p.m.

"Everyones"

a "Dirty Girl"-the film that goes too far!

ALL SEATS $1.25

SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

New Senate policy requiring a monthly financial statement from each Recognized Student Organization (R.S.O.) occasioned a bill freezing the funds of groups which had not filed the information as of Nov. 10 when the agenda was prepared. According to Treas. Burt Freedman, "It was made very clear that they had to do this." Six of seven organizations not reporting by the Nov. 10 deadline for the month of October did contact the Treasurer before the Senate meeting.

After removal of the Engineering Journal, Art Club, Forensic Society, Sports Parachute Club, Class of '68, and Class of '67 from the bill, the lone organization was the Accounting Association. An appropriation of $393 to the Association was voted by the Senate on Oct. 26, 1966 and the money transferred five days later.

Instructions had been given to an Accounting representative at the time, Freedman explained adding: "The reason why I think this has to be done (is that) they were told that if they didn't submit reports, the Senate would take action."

Senators were assured that a report is expected to be received shortly by the Treasurer, and the funds would then be realeased as the bill read. Actually, the financial officer concluded, "The response this month has been fantastic."

Recommendation of appropriations for a Judicial Conference were tabled to Men's Affairs Committee for study. At present, $70 is being requested, considerably less than an original $470. Former Sen. Dick Wimberly, who made the conference proposal, set either Dec. 3 or Dec. 17 as tentative dates. Due to Senate study, the later date may be adopted.

Much of the Senate time was spent in going over the proposed Pre-Law Assoc. budget, reported out favorable by the Finance Committee. The Senate allocates money in addition to its regular budget through the Finance Committee often for newly-established or newly-recognized organizations or for groups of an ad hoc nature. Funds for this purpose come largely from money budgeted to organizations but not spent in the preceding year.

In his initial announcements, the Treasurer estimated the availability of about $3,000 at the moment in the Senate account with another $2,000 or $4,000 being credited from such sources as Homecoming and the sale of a used plane of the defunct Flying Club.

The legal association, whose definite membership ranges from 50-100 members and whose potential membership may total 200, requested funds for five law school deans visits (a separate appropriation had been made earlier to cover expenses of the Dean from Georgetown Law School), two other speakers, and a tentative lecturer on labor law.

Judge Samuel Blassberg of the Worcester Superior Court and UM Prof. of government, Ferenc Albert Vali, a holder of doctorates from the Universities of Budapest and London, are to be invited by the Association. Last year it was pointed out by Pre-Law's Al Davis about 60 seniors applied to law schools.

A controversial Binding Clause to require the collection of dues to be held in a special account of the Senate was defeated. After reduction of the figures estimated for dinners for the deans and subjecting the funds for the labor lecture to further Finance review, the Senate with one loud dissenter passed the budget.

In other action, the Senate gave preliminary approval to the 1967-68 budget for the Belchertown Volunteers. Coming to almost $100 more than last year due to increased transportation expenses, the total amount OKed was $704. About 20-30 Volunteers go to Belchertown every Saturday to work with the mentally retarded.

After the Budget Committee goes over proposals from R.S.O. organizations, tentative Senate approval is given each week to those heard by the committee; later in the spring the entire Act is presented for enactment.

Repealed at the outset of the session was a 3-year old act (S-38 Singer/Watson) requiring Senators to request permission of the chair before permanently leaving a meeting which hasn't adjourned. Unless, according to the rule which was not followed, the presiding officer granted the allowance, the "cut" would count as an unexcused absence.

Only a limited number of absences throughout the year may be taken by a Senator in good standing. After attendance call at the beginning of a meeting, Senators have left earlier at will.

But the difficulty in interpretating a valid excuse and the likelihood of accepting a member's word have made the policy inoperative. The housekeeping repeal initiated by Sec. Fran Boronski resulted from a recent bill, later withdrawn, whose substance was confused by the old act still on the books. For the future a conscious updating of Senate legislation was promised by the officer.

In opening announcements, Pres. Greenquist called Senate attention to the next Trustees' meeting to be held Mon., Nov. 28 at 2 p.m. At Boston's Hotel Statler, the Trustees' gathering is open to the public; Senators were especially urged to take in the meetings held every other time on the University campus.

A reminder by the President was made to the election committee of the need for at least two elections to fill vacancies due to resignations. Former Sens., Bernard Pigeon and Fred Pilon of John Adams Lower and Butterfield, respectively, have left the body.

Greenquist also reported on the Athletic Council (of the Faculty Senate), which now has a student counterpart — an Athletic Committee of the Student Senate. The Council is projecting a policy of building-up the junior varsity program. Priority to the j.v.'s might necessitate, he observed, continued Senate financial support of the Crew Team which is not recognized by the Athletic Council. Ironically, the Crew Team had a junior varsity last year, thanks to Senate and student backing, which ranked fourth in the nation in the prestigious sport.

The next Senate meeting will be held on Nov. 30 at Line 5 of the Southwest Complex dining commons at 7:30 p.m. On the agenda will be bills asking approval of a Senate loan fund policy and asking the Trustees to treat Southwest residents the same as other residents in respect to compulsory meal tickets. Due to the setting and issue, some attendance by students is hoped for.

the male mentality:

HOW IT REACTS TO FEMININE FASHION

A FASHION CARAVAN

The Male Mentality—it's coming. It's great! Gear yourself for it.
It'll move in and move out of University of Massachusetts in the form of a group of Princeton, Yale, Columbia and Harvard students producing a caravan of fashion shows at girls' colleges from Boston to Philadelphia.
Fashions from 25-30 top houses will aid and assist its decisions.
Sweet combo music will enrapture you throughout the evening.
Refreshments will be at your beck and call at a post-show reception where you can both see and feel the dresses.
(But there's one thing we've got to ask. Please don't kiss our narrators or the members of the band. It could become a habit.)
The Male Mentality—it's coming. It's great!

Beau-Duane
FASHION ENTERPRISES

Date . . . . Tues. 22, Nov. 66
Time . . . . . 8:00 p.m.
Place . . . . S.U. Ballroom

The following houses cordially invited all

Freshman and Transfer Women
To Open and Informal Parties

THIS SUNDAY

November 20th from 2:30 - 4:00

Alpha Chi Omega
Chi Omega
Iota Gamma Upsilon
Kappa Alpha Theta
Kappa Kappa Gamma
Lambda Delta Phi
Pi Beta Phi
Sigma Delta Tau (at Tau Epsilon Phi)
Sigma Kappa
Sigma Sigma Sigma

Spanish seminars in Puerto Rico

Study the history, language, literature, art and customs of Puerto Rico and the Caribbean each morning. Then spend the afternoons frolicking in the sun or splashing in the pool and surf.

That's what you'll do at any of three unique, college-level courses in Puerto Rico sponsored by Trans Caribbean Airways.

The classes will be taught by Prof. Luis Manuel Diaz Soler, dean of humanities at the famed University of Puerto Rico, assisted by leading American and Puerto Rican educators.

Included in the price is round-trip transportation to Puerto Rico on a Trans Caribbean "Flying Island" fan jet, a stay at the luxurious new Racquet Club Hotel, special lectures and parties, transportation to and from the airport, free flight bag, and many other extras.

Plan now to attend one of these seminars. It will be the high spot of your vacation.

Special Five-Day Seminar, January 27–February 1. Only $199 complete.

10-Day Seminars, at Special Low Summer Rates, scheduled for June 16-25 and August 18-27. Write for low prices and details.

#10

Spanish Seminar Director
Trans Caribbean Airways
714 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019

Please send me complete information on a Trans Caribbean Spanish Seminar in Puerto Rico. I am interested in the ☐ January ☐ June ☐ August Seminar.

Name _____
Address _____
City _____
State _____ Zip _____

If you can't come along on the Spanish Seminar, make it another time. We have many other exciting tours and low-cost flights at convenient departure times all year long. For full details call your "Instant Vacation Specialist" (travel agent) or Trans Caribbean at LT 1-4900.

Wheels Set in Motion For Draft Symposium

by STAN BARAN
and BRUCE BALBONI

Wednesday night at a meeting called by Professor Della Grotte and attended by Dean Allen, Reverend Scott and several students from the four colleges the wheels were set in motion for a symposium on the draft tentatively scheduled for February 1967.

The youthful, goteed Professor Della Grotte opened the discussion by stating his opinion that a symposium of this nature should deal with how the draft fits in society, its constitutional acceptability, how it functions and what types of problems it generates.

Dean Allen advocated more of a "campus debate" on the draft; the focal point of which would be: "what has the draft done to distort the lives of the people who are forced into military service."

He vehemently expressed great amazement at the Collegian's negligence in printing editorials concerning the draft. The Dean stated this was, "a real failure on the part of the paper and on the part of the students."

A couple of months ago Dean Allen became quite distressed at the state of the present draft system. At this time he met with the three religious leaders of the campus. General Louis B. Hershey's name was brought up as a possible speaker on the draft.

Three letters and two phone calls later, Dean Allen had still to hear from General Hershey who was in Puerto Rico. When Dean Allen realized that General Hershey would not answer, he decided on a new idea. His new plan was to set up a symposium or a series of panel discussions. He and Professor Della Grotte, after some discussion, decided on the symposi - um idea and arranged for the initial meeting.

At Wednesday's meeting Professor Della Grotte tossed out his primary idea to the twenty listeners present. He wanted a symposium on a Saturday afternoon, to be held in the Student Union Ballroom. This discussion was to generate the various problems concerning the conscription, and these were to be taken up in separate "work-shop discussion groups" later that afternoon.

Through a free group discussion, the idea became evident that the draft problem is not only important to the student nearing graduation or failure, but that it held a great interest for the faculty members of the four colleges. The economic, sociological and philosophical view points were cited as a few of the many areas affected by the draft.

All attending agreed that a complete university community approach was the best. They agreed that these faculty members should have a place on the panel and at the head of the "work-shop," but that name speakers were needed as an attraction. Speakers from both sides, pro and con, were deemed necessary.

This attraction is necessary for the symposium is to be for the entire community, not just the college campil in the area. Plans were drawn to invite the area's religious leaders, guidance counselors, lawyers, principals, teachers and students who take Problems of Democracy in high school.

The next pressing matter was the selection of the panel of name speakers. Members of the Massachusetts Selective Service Department and officials of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee were suggested.

Notable pacifist, James Webber; draft historian and conscientious objector, Mr. Totem; cold war historian, P. F. Flemming; Mr. Rustan, the man responsible for the march on Washington and violent adversary of the draft; were all suggested as possible speakers to attract.

The group decided to hold the seminar in three parts: a symposium, work shop discussions, and small panel discussions. It would probably cover a Friday night and the ensuing Saturday morning and afternoon. The Student Union Ballroom and the Amherst Regional High School were proposed as possible sites for the February event.

Food Fiesta Whets Appetite With Native Dishes

The International Club of the University of Massachusetts is holding its Annual Food Fiesta on Sunday, Nov. 20, at 6:00 P.M. in the North Dining Commons (Line 1).

Encouraged by last year's success, they are planning this event at a larger scale in cooperation with the Innkeepers Association of the University. Sixty foreign students from thirty different countries will cook their native dishes for this food fiesta.

This event will give American friends an opportunity to taste the food from different countries. A program of entertainment will follow the buffet dinner. Folk songs and dances from different countries will be performed in which foreign students along with American friends will participate.

This event is open to the public with a charge of $1.25 per person for the dinner and entertainment. Tickets will be available at the gate.

Spring Vacation in Bermuda

JET DOWN BY PAN-AM

Sun, Sea, Sand

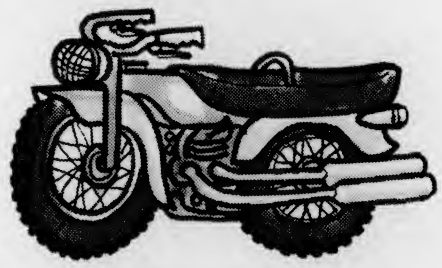
Plenty at Hand

Jet Back

For further information contact
KEVIN O'BRIEN — 253-9121

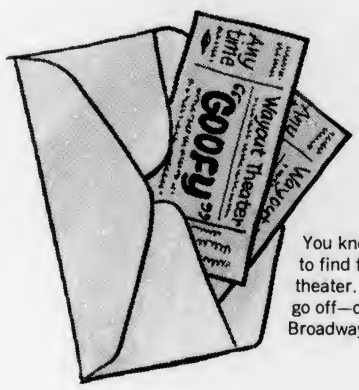
Who is UMass's
BEST DRESSED COLLEGE GIRL
?

MIXER
with . . .
THE LUV LACE LADS
(from Boston)
at JFK "Upper" (T1)
8:30 - 12:30
— Everyone Welcome —



It's happening!

See page 2



When somebody tells you to go fly a kite, you strap it to your back, slip into a pair of water skis, and take off like a bird.

How to tell if you're an Ale Man

You remember your very first bike with great affection. It was a screamer.

You know where to find fresh theater. You go off—off Broadway.

You wear your wet suit as often as your navy blue worsted.

You realize we can't run an ad without a commercial. You're so right. Ballantine Ale is light like beer—but packs more taste. It's clean, dry, tangy. It has flavor a man can get hold of. So come on and graduate from beer. You're really an Ale Man at heart.

Sponsored in the interests of gaining greater recognition for Ale Men—and selling more Ale. P. Ballantine & Sons, Newark, N. J.

Redmen Booters Finish 6-3-1 in Larry Briggs' 34th Year

by TIM MURPHY
Sports Staff

As he sat in his office in the Boyden Building, Larry Briggs wound up such chores as picking Yankee Conference and All-Opponent teams and making order from the seeming chaos of papers and letters before him. He took time out to offer comments on his 34th season as varsity soccer coach.

His Redmen team completed its slate Saturday with a victory over New Hampshire, raising its final record to 6-3-1. In Conference play U Mass was 3-1-1. Though a comedown from a year ago—when the Redmen shared the Conference title—the mark was good enough for second place in the six-team loop.

"This was a very interesting club, to say the least," Briggs began. "On paper we looked very good to start, and with any measure of luck in several of our games we might have been undefeated."

"After the game with Trinity (a 4-0 loss for the Redmen) our goalies played as well as a year ago," Briggs said. In the six-game span, Redmen netminders Larry Martin and Carl Gustafson limited the opposition to just three goals. One, however, decided the Yankee champion. That contest, played in Vermont, saw the Redmen, then 2-0-1 in Conference competition, lose to undefeated Vermont, 1-0.

During the streak, Gustafson chalked up shutouts over Tufts and Coast Guard while Martin whitewashed WPI, previously beaten only once in 20 games over three years.

COACH BRIGGS

"I have no doubt," Briggs said, "that Carl can do the job next season. His performance in his shutout efforts was very good.

"He'll have his work cut out for himself," Briggs added smilingly. "I think Larry is the best goalie I have worked with in 15 years. From the time he stepped into the goal in his sophomore year, we have had three winning seasons. He is a superb player."

Briggs commented that his squad enjoyed "a little better depth than a year ago." He cited the conversation of senior Aba Ayanaba from fullback to center forward to wing. "Aba's great ability at all positions gave such players as Dick Hale and Tom Ward opportunity to play with regularity. Eventually, they came into their own. I always seemed to have someone on the bench ready and capable," Briggs said.

"As for Aba," he went on, "I'd like to give him one big pat on the back." Looking back, Briggs said, "I think that his moving from one position to another .may .have .hurt .his chances for an All-Conference selection and I am sorry if it does.

"He always put the interest of the team above his own benefit and ungrudgingly played wherever I put him. His first three games at fullback were simply out of this world," Briggs said.

"You know," he continued, "all the seniors gave their darndest. Manny Leitao is not an outstanding fullback, but his dependability is tremendous. He has outstanding soccer sense."

"And Mike Russo is a truly fine leader. His drive more than anything else kept the team going in our last game."

"Gary (Gibbons) was as fine a wing as I saw all year, and for Lorin (Tarr) and Dave (Tucker), who played many games for three years though they never put in enough time for a varsity letter, I have nothing but admiration," Briggs said.

He also proferred praise to leading scorer Gerry Cellilli, to Marty Smith, who added three goals to the UMass offense, and to "the others whose contributions aided us immeasurably." These included Bruce Allen, Phil Bozenhard, Frank Howard, Dave Jekanoski, Pete Makhambera, Rick Rosoff and Marty Pikul, all of whom will return next season.

Briggs cited the efforts of Peter Gooding, a British grad student and former soccer player who acted as assistant coach and team manager Art Segaloff, whose "general ability and personality did a lot for the morale of the club."

INTRAMURALS

Frat Stars Rip Dorms, 27-7; Seagram's in Hoop Victory

by TOM CONUEL, Sports Staff

The annual all-star game Wednesday drew the curtain on another intramural football season. The dorms were unable to repeat last year's victory over the fraternities, bowing, 27-7.

Miller and Donehue did the quarterbacking for the fraternities and were equally effective. Each threw for two TD's. Parthum and Larson, the chief targets, made seven receptions apiece. Each scored a pair of TDs.

A Joe Pedro pass to Rick Fredericks gave the dorms their only score.

Hoop Action

A full slate of basketball games was played. The Smashers crushed the Apples, 40 - 22, with Al Craig tossing in 18 points. Carl Kamp dominated the backboards for the Smashers.

The Seagrams smashed the Hemlocks, 59-14, as Devore scored 17 points. The Redwoods stopped the Spartans, 44-34. Vyce had 18 points for the Redwoods, and Dave Carter had 22 points for the Spartans. The Birches topped the Senators, 29-19, in a spirited contest.

In other action, the Cherrys, sparked by Kucab's 22 points, rolled over the Monuments, 46-24. The Pines and the Maples hooped up in a close one with the Pines winning, 44-41. The Oaks felled the Hoovers, 38-31.

In the only other dorm action of the night the Hi-Los cruised over the Elms, 52-44. Dave Armstrong threw in 15 points for the Hi-Los, while Dan O'Conner led the Elms with 21 points.

Flasks Broken

In the Independent League, the Trojans toyed with the Terrors, 41-23. And the MCC's caught the Flasks on an off night, winning, 45-25. The Chem Club stunned the Brethren, 54-15. Washo led

(Continued on page 11)

Hillel

Bagels and Lox

BRUNCH

SUN., NOV. 20
11:00 A.M. - 1:00 P.M.
S.U. BALLROOM

MEMBERS—35c
NON-MEMBERS—75c

STUDENT UNION GOVERNING BOARD

ELECTIONS

Nov. 30

ONE REP. FROM CLASS OF 1970
TWO REP. FROM CLASS OF 1969
TWO REP. FROM CLASS OF 1968

Nomination papers available for RSO Nov. 16
Nomination papers due at RSO Nov. 23

ELECTIONS NOV. 30

Polls Open 9:00 - 5:00

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Babysitter needed every Thursday 2:30 to 5:00 p.m. Contact Mrs. John Quinlan, 253-2716.

Part time—3 eves and Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply Rm. 20, Masonic Bldg., 25 Main St., Northampton, Fri. eve. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

Babysitter for a ten month old boy Tues., Wed., or Thurs. afternoons 12:30 to 3:30. Call 549-1154.

AUTOMOBILES

'64 Chevelle Malibu super-sport conv.

- '327 V8
- Heavy Duty Clutch
- 4-speed
- Bucket Seats

Asking $1695.
Contact: Bob, 863-2897, Turners Falls.

1958 T-Bird conv, V-8, automatic, new top, radio, heater, good condition. $600 or best offer. Call 253-7778 after 5:00 p.m.

PERSONAL

O.U.R. Agents. Mission 5 is scheduled for 19 November. Contact Z-07 or M-57 for instructions and specific assignments.

Person who took wrong raincoat on Wed. morning, Nov. 9 from third floor ladies' room in PHB please contact lost and found in S.U.

Take an Indian to lunch this week.

FOR SALE

Parts, engine, wire wheels and accessories for a 1959 M.G. Call 256-6851.

German Shepherd for sale. Female 1-year-old has chains, brushes, etc. A beautiful dog. 584-5959 nites.

LOST

Engagement ring. Man's setting—3 diamonds. Sentimental value. Reward. Call 253-2842.

1967 UMass class ring. initials F.O.C. inside band. Sentimental value—gift of deceased relative. Finder please return to Frank O'Connell, 210 Butterfield. Reward.

For Rent

Room for rent. Central Amherst location. Quiet study atmosphere. Call AL 3-5024 after 3:00 p.m.

Opportunities

Entertainment wanted at Ski Lodge in exchange for free weekends. We need folk guitarists, singers and complete bands. Write to Winwood Lodge, North Conway, Vermont or call 356-9796.

WANTED

Singing guitar or bass player for existing folk group. Contact: AL 546-6081 or Priscilla, 256-6844.

Bidding Adieu
In a Familiar Milieu

When the final gun sounds tomorrow, 14 collegiate football careers will be over. The Collegian salutes the senior Redmen of the Yankee Conference champions. They helped make the 1966 season one of the most unusual ever. Top row (from left): Dave Giarla, John Clair, Dick Qualey, Bob Ellis, and Ed Cody; middle row: Bob Gogick, Rod Brooks, Al Caruso, John Boyle, and Bill Connor; bottom row: Ed Toner, Dick Benoit, Bob Detore, and Paul Campbell.

Yankee Conference Statistics

LEADING SCORERS

Player	TD	EP	FG	PTS
Mitchell, Vt	13	0	0	78
Estey, NH	8	0	0	48
Schweberger, Vt	6	0	0	36
Thompson, RI	6	0	0	36
Durkin, Mass	5	0	0	30
Keany, Me	5	0	0	30
Landry, Mass	5	0	0	30
Yanush, Me	5	0	0	30

RUSHING OFFENSE

Player	Atts	Yds	Ave
Mitchell, Vt	249	1207	4.8
Thompson, RI	100	471	4.7
Kaufman, RI	141	461	3.3
Phillips, NH	93	413	4.4
Landry, Mass.	154	295	1.9
Detore, Mass	104	285	2.7
Platter, Me	94	270	2.8
DiYeso, Conn	37	252	6.8
Belisle, Me	76	249	3.2
Keany, Me	41	223	5.4
Durkin, Mass	66	214	3.2

PASSING OFFENSE (50 Attempts)

Player	Att	Comp	Pct	Yds	TD
Landry, Mass	113	60	.531	576	1
Fay, RI	191	79	.414	1184	4
Estey, NH	108	42	.389	551	3
Platter, Me	70	27	.386	402	5
Petrillo, Conn	57	21	.368	278	0
Stroker, Vt	53	19	.358	396	6
Shumate, Vt	70	25	.357	402	5
Caswell, RI	83	29	.349	303	2
Gruner, Conn	78	26	.333	412	1

LEADING PASS RECEIVERS

Player	No.	Yds	Ave	TD
Walker, RI	27	375	13.8	1
Kuhman, Vt	24	350	14.5	3
Geiselman, RI	22	437	19.8	4
Schweberger, Vt	18	375	20.8	6
White, Me	17	361	21.2	3
Warnock, Mass.	16	164	10.2	0
Detore, Mass	11	58	5.3	1

LEADING PUNTERS

Player	No.	Ave	Lg
Norris, Me	54	39.4	61
Mugford, Conn	56	39.1	63
Phillips, NH	41	35.9	54
Warnock, Mass	59	35.7	67
Brown, Vt	41	35.1	53
Honour, RI	45	34.9	49

PUNT RETURN LEADERS

Player	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg
Lawrence, Vt	21	285	13.5	29
Estey, NH	14	176	12.5	84
Keany, Me	25	254	10.1	48
Giarla, Mass	11	112	10.1	74
Tardiff, Me	11	106	9.6	28
DiYeso, Conn	16	123	9.0	13
Krot, Conn	12	84	7.0	15

KICKOFF RETURN LEADERS

Player	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg
Estey, NH	14	407	29.1	98
Yanush, Me	10	219	21.9	44
Detore, Mass	7	138	19.7	23
Krot, Conn	12	233	19.5	25
Quillin, Me	9	174	19.3	26
Dedman, Vt	16	301	18.8	35
DiYeso, Conn	12	206	17.2	30

FRAT STARS . . .

(Continued from page 10)

the victors with 16 points and 14 rebounds.

Harry's had little trouble in registering a 67-40 victory over APO. McKoy of Harry's was the hero in that contest with 16 points and 18 rebounds. The Toads rapped the Imps, 42-33, and the Trojans whipped the Numerals, 55-35.

Pigs, Peaches, Prognostications

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A pig, a peach and a close cousin turned last week's forecast by the Famed Foreboder from his potential piece de resistance into a seven-of-10 showing, about the average for a T.V. weatherman.

The pig was Arkansas' Razorback, who may have sloshed himself into the Cotton Bowl by whipping SMU. The Georgia Peach left both Auburn and Metawampe with a bitter taste as it knocked off the Tigers. The not-so-kissin' cousin was the Indian from Datrmouth who deviated from our spirit's sacred script by slipping a mickey to Cornell.

Nevertheless, our reknown Redman's record remains really respectable at 49-20-1, and he looks forward to this Saturday's contests with brave spirit.)

Please don't zlupf Sprite. It makes plenty of noise all by itself.

Sprite, you recall, is the soft drink that's so tart and tingling, we just couldn't keep it quiet.

Flip its lid and it really flips. Bubbling, fizzing, gurgling, hissing and carrying on all over the place.

An almost excessively lively drink.

Hence, to zlupf is to err.

What is zlupfing?

Zlupfing is to drinking what smacking one's lips is to eating.

It's the staccato buzz you make when draining the last few deliciously tangy drops of Sprite from the bottle with a straw.

Zzzzzlllupf!

It's completely uncalled for. Frowned upon in polite society. And not appreciated on campus either.

But. If zlupfing Sprite is absolutely essential to your enjoyment; if a good healthy zlupf is your idea of heaven, well...all right.

But have a heart. With a drink as noisy as Sprite, a little zlupf goes a long, long way.

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

In Color

a Horror Movie

the "Raven"

Mahar Aud.

Tues., Nov. 22, 8 p.m.

50¢

It's happening!

See page 2

Brendan McCarthy

Joe Marzetti

Paul Della Villa

THE MASSACHUSETTS
collegian
sports
FRIDAY, NOV. 18, 1966
Page 12 Vol. XCV, No. 26

Brawny Eagles: Stern Test For UMass in Grid Finale

by AL PEAKES

Number 44 will be Brendan McCarthy, the Boston College fullback. Color him dangerous.

Tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 McCarthy and company will invade Alumni Stadium for the finale of the UMass football season. This will be the initial contest of a new eight-game series between the two schools.

This bruising McCarthy, rated by many as the premier fullback in the East, will give the U-Mass defense its most stringent test of the season Saturday as part and parcel of an invading coterie from Boston College.

McCarthy, an old-fashioned workhorse, is almost fully recovered from an early season injury that hobbled him for nearly half the campaign.

In addition to the 6'3" marvel from Washington, D. C., the Eagles boast Terry Erwin, Paul Della Villa and John Kane at the other running slots. Della Villa doubles as the team's top pass receiver with 11 catches for 177 yards.

B.C. signal caller, Joe Marzetti, is another product of the nation's capital. The surprising soph has passed for 426 yards and three touchdowns while picking up an additional 348 yards on the ground.

Marzetti replaced regular quarterback Dave Thomas, a highly rated transfer from Duke when the latter was injured in the VMI game.

The Eagles have the biggest bulks of beef in the East in their front line. Pacing the group are Bob Hyland and Doug Shepard. Hyland, a SPORT magazine All-America pick the last two years, stands 6'5 and weighs 250 lbs., while Shepard measures 6'8, 265(!)

Others on the front line are Jerry Ragosa, Ron Persuitte and Zeke Sarkisian, all of whom top 240 lbs.

The Eagles, victors in two of their last three contests, will be out to gain a measure of revenge against the Redmen. In the only previous contests between the two clubs—in 1901, 1902 and 1912—the Eagles lost to the Redmen, or better, the Mass. Aggies. For that matter, B.C. has never scored against UMass, losing by scores of 11-0, 30-0, and 42-0.

Currently sporting a not-to-impressive 3-5 record the Eagles must win tomorrow for a chance to salvage a .500 season. While the game is UMass' final, the Eagles play Holy Cross next Saturday.

Is the Eagle really dead?

Bob Hyland

Ed Lipson

B.C.: The Men and the Myth

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Day Editor

Earlier this year, Chestnut Hill was shaken by the death of Margo, the genuine Boston College Eagle. Many observers now feel that this football season can be written off as a like tragedy for Coach Jim Miller's giants and for the ever vociferous B.C. alumni.

The plain fact is the Eagles have won only three of eight games —and that's after ranking number one in the nation in preseason pressclippings. The Boston press, always a B.C. alumni association, is rarely a model of objectivity where the Eagles are concerned.

So when the Eagles lost to Navy (27-7), Ohio University (23-14), Penn State (30-21), Syracuse (30-0), and Villanova (19-0), many cried, "How the mighty have fallen!"

Boston College, nevertheless, is the favorite in this, the first game between the two schools since 1912. But the Redmen of course have suffered two dozen serious injuries this season.

Coach Fusia knows and respects the opponent. "I doubt if we can run through these boys," he says, "and I don't know if we can go around them, because all they have to do in line up side by side and they stretch across the field.

"But we've got one big factor going for us: we may lack in ability here or strength there, but this club has something that only good football players have and that's staying power and attitude."

Fusia says that B.C. is "the biggest football team in the East and perhaps the country." Some charge that it is also the slowest team in the East and perhaps the country.

"You've got to sacrifice somewhere along the line," the UMass coach comments. "If you're going for size, you're bound to sacrifice speed. But their backs and ends are swift."

METAWAMPE'S GRID PICKS

MASSACHUSETTS 14 BOSTON COLLEGE 8 — McCarthy-Brooks collisions will shake the Stadium. GEM defensive backfield (Glarla-Ellis-McArdle) grounds Eagles; enter Toner and the Quale.

HARVARD 21 YALE 0—Boys from Cambridge treat Yale even more roughly than they did McNamara.

NOTRE DAME 24 MICHIGAN STATE 7 — Spartans have Apis-er, but Irish agression continues at Lansing.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA 17 UCLA 9—TROY Winslow is the Trojan's quarterback, and can you beat that? The Bruins can't with Beban ailing.

PURDUE 31 INDIANA 10—Boilermakers experiment successfully with new Hoosier fuel. Purdue offensive machine functions smoothly even with a minimum of Griese.

ARKANSAS 22 TEXAS TECH 3—Pigs will ham it up on T.V. on New Year's Day.

TENNESSEE 20 KENTUCKY 6—Volunteer villagers vow to vanquish verocious Vildcats, who are victimized versus Vol volleys.

MISSISSIPPI 23 VANDERBILT 12—All the money in the world won't help the Vanderbilts. Ole Miss can still be pretty frisky.

HOUSTON 35 MEMPHIS STATE 14—Houston fans will not be disappointed by another Big Cat whose jaw turns to Clay.

WYOMING 28 BRIGHAM YOUNG 20—Mormon preachings fail to pacify pistol-packing Cowboys.

(See Editors Note, page 11.)

A Dropping from the Heights

The following paragraph was part of a sports column that appeared in the October 14 issue of the Boston College Heights. The author was one Arlo Wilbur Engle—that's A.W.E. for those who don't habitually peruse that All-American publication:

"Rumor has it that UMass can find 25 or 30 men sober enough on a Saturday afternoon to put on a uniform. Against URI they could suit up the cheerleaders and win, so there's no problem if they can't."

— Probable Starting Line-Ups —

Mitchell

Sherman

MASSACHUSETTS				Offense	BOSTON COLLEGE
Casey	Jr	6'1	190	LE	Kavanagh	Jr	6'2	210
Mitchell	Jr	6'1	234	LT	Ragosa	So	6'3	240
Glogowski	Jr	5'11	205	LG	Hyland	Sr	6'5	258
Gomber	Jr	6'0	200	C	Evans	Jr	6'4	240
Bailey	So	6'1	230	RG	Collins	Sr	6'2	200
Connor	Sr	6'6	225	RT	Sarkisian	Sr	6'2	240
Carty	Jr	6'4	233	RE	O'Neill	Sr	6'2	200
Landry	Jr	6'4	190	QB	Marzetti	So	6'0	180
Driscoll	So	6'0	190	LH	DellaVilla	Jr	5'9	175
Detore	Sr	5'6	170	RH	Kane	Sr	6'0	180
Durkin	Jr	6'4	210	FB	McCarthy	Jr	6'3	215
				Defense
Robinson	So	5'11	190	LE	Gallup	So	6'3	200
Toner	Sr	6'2	235	LT	Horman	So	6'1	235
Stevens	Jr	6'0	215	MG	Stetz	Sr	6'2	230
Qualey	Sr	6'2	250	RT	Persuitte	Jr	6'2	250
Debiak	Jr	6'3	220	RE	Kutz	Sr	6'2	225
Brooks	Sr	6'1	212	LLB	Lipson	Sr	6'1	215
Smith	Jr	5'10	195	RLB	Garofalo	Jr	5'11	220
Campbell	Sr	5'10	190	LB LCB	Erwin	Jr	5'11	185
Ellis	Sr	6'2	210	RCB RCB	Salmon	So	6'0	180
McArdle	So	6'0	180	LCB LS	Carlyon	Sr	6'0	190
Glarla	Sr	5'10	180	S RS	Grace	So	5'11	180

Stetz

Kutz

INDEX
Counselors 2
IBM 3
Happening 6
Expansion 11

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Theater of Cruelty
p. 7

VOL. XCV, NO. 27 | University of Massachusetts | MONDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1966

An Assessment of UMass Fire Prevention

Newer and Safer Buildings

by JEANNE MERCIER

Newer and "safer" buildings, which reaffirm UMass's growth and progress, have posed new and different problems to the system of fire prevention and protection.

The problems lie in the increasing number of buildings and people who occupy them.

John Doherty, Amherst fire department chief, explained that fire safety in UMass buildings is "superior." But their number and "sophistication," along with the growing population, have come to put a strain on the resources of the municipal fire department.

The five new high-rise dorms, Chief Doherty said are "class 1." Each floor has fire doors and corridors, and individual rooms are well - protected with fireproof doors, he explained.

In other words, the fire combustibility of the new dorms is light. For this reason, Chief Doherty "can't see a rapidly moving fire" in these buildings. The exception would be in a large area, such as a head of resident's apartment.

But there are obstacles in fighting even the smallest fire in these dorms.

Doherty stressed that the 22-story dorms are "unique" in this part of the state. They have placed upon a small town fire department some of the same problems that occur in a large municipality.

For example, the greatest obstacle is communication among firefighters in a building of this size. A signal panel in the lobbies indicates from which floor an alarm has been sounded.

However, because the buildings are so well and tightly constructed smoke and heat could spread beyond the immediate fire. The result would be alarms sounded on several floors. The problem, then would be to try to search several floors and locate the fire "quickly and efficiently."

The chief emphasized that fighters bring their own equipment,

(Continued on page 10)

by BOB GORMAN, Staff Reporter

Minor Inadequacies Being Corrected

In continuing developments over the controversial lack of adequate fire equipment in the Southwest quad, University Fire and Safety Officer Edmund Goetzel recently revealed that locks on the doors of the residence fire cabinets have been replaced with non-locking handles and that new hoses have been ordered for all dorms on a top-priority basis.

Photo by Gerri

One of the many 'impossible bypasses' at UMass. Seen in the backround are Curry Hicks Cage, Bartlett Hall, and Goodell Library.

Goetzel also noted that after a personal inspection of the dormitories only one door to the fire equipment was painted shut. shut.

The recent uncovering of fire safety equipment inadequacies in the Southwest Towers has caused a scattering of opinions with a number of other officials.

Amherst Fire Department John T. Doherty stated his concern over the locked fire cabinets and the inadequate length of the fire hoses.

Doherty reported that he discovered the deficiencies last May. He then consulted University Fire and Safety Officer Goetzel and Director of Security Col. John Marchant.

Doherty claimed that he was told the situation would be brought before the State Building Inspector. The Inspector in

(Continued on page 10)

Trustees Consider Campus Center-- $10M Student Tax Addition to S. U.

Photo by Gerri

Artist's rendering of 10.8 million dollar University of Massachusetts Campus Center designed by Marcel Breuer, to be built next spring by the UMass Building Authority at no cost to the taxpayer. Building will contain provisions for student activities, adult education, conferences, offices, restaurant and cafeterias, guset accommodations for conference participants and apartments for visiting lecturers.

The University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees today will be considering the acceptance of preliminary plans for a 10.8 million dollar Campus Center, designed by Marcel Breuer and to be built by the UMass Building Authority at no cost to the taxpayer.

Breuer, architect of the Whitney Museum in New York and UNESCO World Headquarters buildings in Paris, has designed a striking 12-story building—with two of the stories under a terrace. Revenue to pay for the self-liquidating building will be obtained from conference fees, room rentals and student taxes.

The 287,000 square foot facility has provisions for student activities, adult education, conferences, offices, restaurants and cafeterias, guest accommodations for conference participants and apartments for visiting lecturers

Construction is expected to start on the building next spring, and occupancy is being planned for September of 1968. The Center, to be built adjacent to the present student union and conected at one point by doors, is being planned with the active participation and advice of students. Richard Schinoff, a senior from Auburn and chairman of the Student Union Governing Board, participated in all major planning sessions.

At the present time all areas of the building are unassigned. The Student Union Governing Board at its next meeting will be forming a committee to establish a priority use of the facility by campus groups. Since the building is being funded in part with Student Union tax fees, all areas of the building will be open to student use. No part of the facility will be limited to faculty and staff use only.

With the new facility, UMass will move swiftly into the area of expanded continuing education programs, as recommended in the recently passed Harrington-Willis Act.

Building facilities will include:

- At the second level below ground a large ballroom with a stage, overlooked by a balcony. Also, expandable conference rooms, student activity offices, receiving and building service, storage and supply areas.
- At the level just below ground a browsing and listening room, huge lounge, cafeteria,

(Continued on page 14)

Mark McPherson, the South College reporter for the Collegian was killed at 1:20 Sunday morning, while hitchhiking on South Pleasant Street. The driver of the car was Richard T. Bruce.

MacPherson was taken to Cooley Dickinson Hospital and pronounced dead on arrival. MacPherson was a Marine Corps veteran, and served one and half years in Vietnam. Funeral services will be Wednesday morning at 9 a.m. at St. Mary's in Beverly.

Photo by Gerri

Gordon Davidson, 22, a senior and long time journalist, has been chosen by the Collegian's Publication Board to serve as Editor-in-Chief until the February election. Davidson is filling the position left open by the resignation of Thomas Donovan. (See pg 4).

Interim Editor Chosen For Collegian

The Collegian Publications Board voted Friday to accept with thanks for his fine service, the resignation of Thomas Donovan as editor-in-chief, effective Sunday, Nov. 20.

The Board also voted to appoint to serve until the next annual election (Feb. 6, 1967) as interim editor-in-chief Gordon Davidson. James Foudy, the mananging editor, was appointed to assume the duties of the news editor. The vote was unanimous.

The Board expressed the hope that the staff will move forward now, intact. It chose the method of appointment that it did in order to avoid creating more vacancies and, possibly, further dissatisfactions.

CO-ED SHOT AT T-6

by PETER HENDRICKSON
Editor Emeritus

A UMass co-ed was shot in the leg Sunday night outside George Washington Tower (T-6) as she and her roommate were walking back from the Amherst Creamery to Melville Dormitory.

Listed in "satisfactory condition" Sunday night at Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton was Shirley Cohenno, 18, of Stoughton, Mass., who underwent surgery for a gunshot wound in her right leg.

University Police arrested Laurence F. Rose, 20, of Jamaica Plain, in connection with the shooting. They are investigating with State Police.

Rose is charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, assault and battery with a deadly weapon, and assault with intent to kill.

Dan Melley, University news director, said Miss Cohenno and her roommate, Joan Tibbetts, were outside T-6 when the shooting took place.

It was learned two shots were fired from the rifle.

An eyewitness said Miss Cohenno was carried into T-6 by her assailant who ordered everyone out of the lobby. It was learned the assailant called University police and informed them of the shooting.

Other residents of the Tower also called police to notify them of the incident.

The accused is believed to be a former boyfriend of Miss Cohenno.

STUDENT UNION GOVERNMENT BOARD

Elections will be held for classes of 1968, 1969, and 1970 on Nov. 30.

NOMINATION PAPERS ARE DUE BY NOV. 23.

Role of Dorm Counselors Viewed By Administration and Students

by MARSHALL NADAN
Senior Reporter

Editor's note: The following story is the first of a two part series on students' and administrators' views of the evolving role of the counselors at the university.

Adopting the recommendation of the Student Life Committee, the Administration has declared, "The roles of the Head of Residence and student counselors with respect to house government are advisory."

However, implementation of the new policy has raised a number of questions which students counselors and administrators are trying to answer.

Dean Hopkins defined counselors as "persons employed by this office to represent it in giving advice and counsel to students on a wide variety of subjects or to tell them where they can get it." Dean Curtis commented, "Counselors now have an even more significant role because being freed of judiciary functions they are truly free to counsel."

However, it does appear that counselors have additional duties as well as giving advice. While they no longer are expected to enforce residence hall regulations, they are expected to enforce University regulations as those regarding alcoholic beverages and firearms.

William Barnard, speaking as a representative of Student Life Committee at a meeting of counselors and Heads of Residence near the beginning of the semester put it, "Social reforms have taken place! . . . And to you falls the biggest job of implementing a new way of student life. . .(It) will. . .be the automatic, concommitant obligation of the residence hall government to enforce its rules, carry out its programs, and pay its bills.

None of these functions fall upon either the counselor or the Head of Residence or anyone else except the democratically elected residence hall government. Counselors and Heads of Residence will, I presume, be expected to help maintain University standards and regulations."

Dean Hopkins agreed that enforcing University regulations was indeed a duty of the counselor.

Within the framework of residence hall government counselors are like any other student. The nw role of the counselor, stated Barnard in his address, does not mean that he "as one of the student residents, cannot complain to a noisy student about the noise. On the contrary, it becomes each and every student's responsibility to do so—not to expect the counselor will do the "dirty" work for him."

Barnard went on to say that if a student counselor or other student, complains without effect, the next step is to complain to the proper branch of the house government.

Thus, it is clear that each house government must devise a way to enforce its rules. It may establish an honor system. It may select or elect residents to do it. And it may request counselors to do it.

Barnard, asked to comment on this, emphasized strongly, "But, each individual counselor will determine for himself whether or not he wants to enforce resident house regulations." Asked to comment whether it was fair to have elected representatives who may desire re-election act as enforcement agents, Barnard said that it was, "if they understand that this is part of their responsibility."

Dean Curtis commented, "House government will be only as strong as is the participation of all residents. Such government carries with it an obligation that every resident enforce rules and standards. I have confidence that students have the ability to assume these responsibilities and that this is a constructive development."

"We are going all out," said Dean Field, "to reinforce the student's responsibility to use their best judgments and their best decisions. . .We are\ getting different role relationships with counselors in different houses. I think this is good."

Sociologist Predicts Population Growth

by PAM METAXAS, Staff Reporter

"It appears much more a decline in death rates than a rise in birth rates," commented DVP speaker Kingsley Davis Thursday night. The eminent professor of Sociology at Berkeley was discussing "Population Shifts and Economic Development" in Mahar Auditorium.

Davis began by remarking on the high rate of population growth in the U.S. The growth has reached such a ra'e that if it continues "it will double every 31 years," he added.

The professor emphasized the fact that it is paradoxical that "population growth is occuring in underdeveloped countries," the very countries that can't afford such growth, he said. He cited that the rate of population growth in these countries is 2-2½ times the rate of industrial countries.

"This is probably one of the most tragic circumstances," noted Davis. But it may be explained by the declining mortality rate in most of these countries, he said. People are living longer, not necessarily having more children.

He went on to list ways the growth in the industrial countries has differed from that in the underdeveloped. First, "the sheer rate of population growth is far greater than it ever was in the industrial countries," he said. Second, the population upsurge is taking place at an earlier stage of development." And third, the birth rates are on a higher average in the non-industrial countries than they ever were before," even in the industrial countries. There has also been a "decline in the death rate that has come faster," he noted.

He mentioned that he is "disappointed in the efforts being made" to curb this growth and bring fertility down. The laws, etc. "are not being implemented" at present, he said.

The contraceptive methods being tried such as the pill and IUD's are useless if the people using them do not really want to or use them only for a specific length of time.

"We must," he concluded, "motivate people to want fewer children and this is not easy."

SU to Hold Thanksgiving Dinner

For the benefit of those staying in Amherst, the Student Union Food Service will serve a full course Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday, November 24 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The Commonwealth service area on the main floor will be open.

The menu: Cranberry Juice Cocktail, Roast Turkey with Dressing, Whipped Potato, Giblet Gravy, Butternut Squash, Buttered Green Peas, Cranberry Sauce, Roll and Butter, Coffee (all you want), tea, or milk, Mince or Pumpkin Pie, Mints and Nuts.

Price is adults $1.50 including tax. Children under 12 years—$.99.

Please make reservations with the Hatch or Commonwealth food service cashier not later than Tuesday, November 22.

Doughnuts, coffee, sandwiches, etc. will also be available from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

UMASS-BOSTON

Students Publish First School-Year Issue

by BOB GORMAN with The Mass Media

Editor's Note: Last week's statement that a mark below a 75 is a D is erroneous.

The student paper of UMass-Boston published its first issue of the school year this week. The newspaper, The Mass Media, has eight pages full of good reading.

Besides the new name (last year it was UMass Boston) the paper has quite a few other changes.

The staff of 29 students is currently publishing the paper on a monthly basis. However, after the first of the year, the staff plans to put the paper out biweekly. By 1968, The Mass Meda will probably be a weekly newspaper.

The newspaper has the motto ". . . And the truth shall make you free."

The paper is taking part in a number of services. For example, every day at 11:55, the news department announces all the current notices over the P.A. system.

Also, the newspaper has a very good faculty, administration-student relationship. Dr. Paul Gagnon, Dean of Faculty, John Ryan, Chancellor, and Prof. John Marvin, advisor to The Mass Media, are a few of the persons who have helped the staff.

Under the direction of Dennis McKinley '69, Editor-in-Chief, and Joseph McCann '69, News Editor, the paper has a good working staff. The photographer, Harry Task '69, is a pulitzer prize-winning photographer and also works for one of Boston's major newspapers.

The entire staff of the Collegian wishes the best of luck to its sister paper, The Mass Media.

Today the Board of Trustees will meet at the Statler Hilton Hotel to review the purchase of additional temporary space and to discuss the purchase of a permanent site.

The Sawyer Building is being considered for additional classroom space. The building, which was the State Democratic Headquarters, is just a few minutes walk from the main building.

Also, the Liberty Mutual Building is being brought up as a possible solution to the problem of much needed faculty office space. This building, like the Sawyer Building, is within walking distance from the main building.

Until additional space is secured, students are urged to study at the nearby Boston Public Library when there is a long time lag between classes.

Presently, the Highland Park, Roxbury area is regarded as the proposal for a permanent site. This site would keep within the University's standards of being a low cost, city campus.

The architectural firm of Sasaki, Dawson, Demoy Associates, Inc., have conducted a site evaluation of the Highland Park area for the Chancellor of the University.

The report stated in part, "The Highland Park area will satisfy the University's requirements for a centrally located in-town campus."

The Faculty Committee on Planning and Development has stated that the best interests of the Highland Park Community will be of priority interest before any purchasing is considered.

Note: copies of The Mass Media can be picked up in the Collegian office.

COLLEGIANS may be Picked up at Lobby Counter

PRESIDENT LEDERLE TO SPEAK AT OPEN COFFEE HOUR

The Student Senate Public Relations Committee will hold an informal coffee hour with President Lederle in the Governor's Lounge Tues., Nov. 22 at 8 p.m. The meeting will be open to the University community and the emphasis will be on open and informal discussion. The committee urges students to come and get to know their president.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Students who expect to graduate in 1969 or earlier and who wish either to change one of the following majors — Pre-Dent, Pre-Med, or Pre-Vet — or who wish to register with the Pre-Medical Advisory Committee but retain their departmental major should file an application with the committee no later than Dec. 9, 1966. Application forms and further information may be obtained at the Pre-Med office, 321 Morrill Science Center.

ATTENTION BOWLERS!

Pairings for the Open Bowling Tournament are now being posted in the Games Area of the Student Union. All students who are registered should check to see when they bowl.

Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place winners at the end of the tournament.

Freshman pairings are also listed. This tournament is presently in the second round.

Bring Home a Box of Candy for Thanksgiving excellent selection
HENRY ADAMS
5 So. Pleasant St. Druggist at the corner

THE BLUE MAX IN 1
CINEMA 1&2
FREE PARKING
RECLINING SEATS
ART GALLERY
CALL 733-5131
6 ACADEMY AWARDS
17th WK in 2
DOCTOR ZHIVAGO
GEORGE PEPPARD - JAMES MASON
URSULA ANDRES
CONT: MON-THURS 2-5:15 - 8:30
FRI-SAT-SUN-HOL 1:0- 1-4-7-9:50
MAT: WED, Sat, Sun 2 P.M. EVES. 8:30 SUN. 8
TICKETS FOR ZHIVAGO AVAILABLE AT YOUR LOCAL SEAR

Attention SENIOR & GRADUATE MEN Students—U.S. Citizens
NEEDING NOMINAL FINANCIAL HELP TO COMPLETE THEIR EDUCATION THIS ACADEMIC YEAR — AND THEN COMMENCE WORK — CONSIDERED. SEND TRANSCRIPT AND FULL DETAILS OF YOUR PLANS AND REQUIREMENTS TO STEVENS BROS. FOUNDATION, INC.
610-612 ENDICOTT BLDG., ST. PAUL 1, MINN. A NON-PROFIT CORP.
UNDERGRADS, CLIP AND SAVE

NOW SHOWING
on screen 7:00-9:00
plus select shorts
AMHERST Cinema
Le Bonheur
(HAPPINESS)
in EASTMANCOLOR
A CLOVER FILMS CORP RELEASE
Starts Wednesday
"FLIGHT OF THE PHOENIX"

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester
Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.
Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Automation Agents—

Still the Human Touch

by SALLY DOLGIN
Staff Reporter

Lights! Sound! Action! Agent #1620, Computer of the Engineering Department's Research Computing Center, takes off—at the rate of 250 card readings per minute.

Red, white, brown, and green neon lights flash at random as the combination card reader and card punch digests the information so that the computer can display its talent in "reething, writhing, and arithmetic." An imaginary hand types, at the rate of ten characters per second, dictation fed to it by the "iron idiot."

Meanwhile, back in the Peripheral Equipment Room, helpmates of Agent #1620 are busy reproducing, sorting, and collating cards. Agent #407, the accounting expert, lifts up his control panel to reveal the "machine behind the scenes," an intricate wiring board which tells the printer how to operate.

A survey of the other agents shows the crew to be working in perfect coordination. The reproducer stands by to duplicate worn decks as the card sorter sifts 1200 cards per minute. As the card collator matches and merges, the key puncher prepares information for the computer.

The main center of attraction is the 3600 Computer Control Center. Approximately 300 times faster in calculations that the speed of Agent #1620, the "super-machine" soars into action at the rate of half a million additions a second.

Each of its agents has amazing achievements to report:

#501 can print 136,000 characters a minute.

#416 can punch 250 cards a minute.

One of #3600's most impressive agents is the tape-scope monitor. This machine, normally reading at 556 words per inch, controls such programs as Fortram, a formula translation project; and Compass, an assembly language project.

Projecting into the future, Agent #3600 reports that it will eventually have in its department a program entitled Unlimited Machine Access from Scattered Sites: UMass. Instructions will be keyed in via a special procedure involving telatype.

A medical committee is always on hand to be of service to the manager. One consul "diagnoses" the accuracy of programs and checks out the system, while the "operators" consul controls input and output.

All accounting is presently performed by the tape-scope, but Agent #3600 hopes to have a "drum-scope" in the future. This new system would overtake the speed to the tape scope in a 2 tol ratio.

The two main power bases, Agents #1620 and 3600 combined, complete approximately 8,000 jobs a month. The average student program takes about three seconds for the machine to complete; long assignments are usually completed in ten minutes.

Some 190 University of Massachusetts engineering students participate in the activities of the Computing Science Program where they learn to control the "Iron Idiot."

Photo by Jack

Automation agent #1620 goes to work under the watchful eye of its human factor.

Photo by Jack

Iron idiot #3600 takes about three seconds to complete a student program. The 1620 shown above and the 3600 combined complete approximately 8,000 jobs a month.

Photo by Jack

The proverbial UMass sheep, identified only by the number on his back, and the provocative UM computer were caught by the Collegian camera socializing on registration day.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Part time—3 eves and Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply Rm. 20, Masonic Bldg., 25 Main St., Northampton, Fri. eve. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

Babysitter for a ten month old boy Tues., Wed., or Thurs. afternoons 12:30 to 3:30. Call 549-1154.

AUTOMOBILES

1958 T-Bird conv, V-8, automatic, new top, radio, heater, good condition. $600 or best offer. Call 253-7778 after 5:00 p.m.

FOR SALE

German Shepherd for sale. Female 1-year-old has chains, brushes, etc. A beautiful dog. 584-5959 nites.

For Rent

Room for rent. Central Amherst location. Quiet study atmosphere. Call AL 3-5024 after 3:00 p.m.

PERSONAL

Take an Indian to lunch this week.

Free yourself from shaving's tyranny with the new Norelco Tripleheader Speedshaver 35T. It has more features than any other shaver on the market. 18 rotary blades whip away whiskers at 77 miles an hour! And so close, we dare to match shaves with a blade. Yet comfortable. Rotary blades and very thin Microgroove floating heads can't nick or cut. With pop-up trimmer, on/off switch, 110/220 volts and coil cord, this new Norelco gives you all you need to ban the beard!

Eyes right for the economically priced 'Flip-Top' Speedshaver® 20. Two heads give you the famous rotary blade shave. Easy flip-top cleaning too.

Norelco® the fast, close, comfortable electric shave

© 1966 North American Philips Company, Inc., 100 East 42nd Street, New York, New York 10017

Editorial Section

Editorials by Chet Weinerman, Editorial Chairman

Dictating Double Standards

The Activities Committee of the Student Senate is now in the process of approving the newly written constitutions of the male domiciles on campus. The overriding emphasis of the new documents is supposed to be "independent self-government." Each dormitory is supposed to decide what is best for itself. No single ruling possibly can be good for all dormitories.

However, the Activities Committee, under the effervescent domination of Richard Wimberly, is dictating a hypocritical double-standard when it considers each constitution. Apparently, the dorms are all autonomous so long as they conform to precise University standards and whims of the Activities Committee. For example, one dormitory decided that it would be wise to allow the dorm administration to posses a limited veto, which easily could be overruled by a two-thirds vote of the House Council.

The Committee has ruled this measure a violation of University regulations. If this dormitory desires to have a degree of stability in the form of a system of checks and balances, if the dorm feels that is in its best interests, does the Activities Committee have the right to dictate what it is so positive to be the correct interpretation of the University regulations. What happened to that individual self-government?

Either the Activities Committee should allow each dorm to make its own laws or it should stop being hypocritical and write its own version of the ideal constitution for appropriate distribution to the men's dormitories on campus. The interpretations of the Activities Committee are not necessarily the correct interpretations—and the Committee should bear this in mind.

The Memory of the French

It is fairly certain that Dwight Eisenhower will take a goodwill trip this spring to Europe and Asia. Few living men are respected as much as Eisenhower is by the free world. He is synonymous with the W W II victory for the Allies.

Perhaps one of the General's first stops should be Paris. While his very presence would belittle the stature of and probably embarrass the King of France, perhaps the older French people might be forced to realize that Le Grand Charles just wouldn't be Le Grand Charles if it had not been for the solidity of the Franco-American relationship. Indeed, La Belle France well might not be belle had not the U. S. been so resolute.

Charles cannot recall through the iron wall created by his egotism.

The only situation that would cause De Gaulle to remember the outstretched hand of the United States would be another great crisis in France. But perhaps "Ike's" presence would help the French to remember— and to wonder why the paths of a free America and free France have diverged so widely since the end of the war.

Onward

It has become the custom of the Editor-in-Chief of the Collegian, on assuming his newly acquired position to present his plans for modification, expansion or rebuilding of the student newspaper.

If I had any such plans in mind I have dropped them. I bow to the spirit which enabled us to produce an outstanding 16 page paper today, and have everyone out of the office by 7:30. I think this a first in Collegian history. I don't believe there will be any more problems with "staff morale". I am sure that anyone who was present Sunday afternoon will agree with me that there has been a change.

I believe that this change is going to be permanent, and I am going to do all in my power to keep it that way.

All that is needed is co-operation, enthusiasm, and a little organization in the right places. I feel that it is the function of the Editor-in-chief to provide this organization to keep the complex machinery of the newspaper running smoothly.

Professionalism in journalism does not only involve quality journalistic practices, but also close attention to the concept of time. The Collegian has been lax in the past regarding deadlines, but with proper leadership I feel the Collegian can publish on a regular schedule.

In accepting this position I feel confident that I have one of the finest groups of dedicated people I could ask for, and I will try to give them the leadership that they deserve.

Gordon A. Davidson
Editor-in-Chief

In the Collegian's Interest

How does an editor say goodbye to his paper and to his staff when he is not leaving? When he is giving up the editorship and becoming a member of one of the best collegiate newspaper staffs that he has seen in his four years on the paper?

And again, how does an editor have the "gear" to remain with his paper at all when his resignation was due in large part to a lack of confidence on the part of his staff?

Perhaps a word of explanation regarding our resignation. The staff, in fact, felt that there was an amount of insufficiency in the upper division of the Collegian's management. We had felt the same thing to a lesser degree. The difference remained that we felt that the Collegian would not be run any more effectively if the top position were filled by another. The staff felt that the paper would be better with a new editor-in-chief; they were convincing in their sincerity; and thus the resignation.

But why stick with the paper when the "kickee" will have to work with, and below, the "kickers"? Well, WHY NOT ? If the paper has a chance to improve with this change, any withdrawal of effort on our part would be simple bitterness or shame. (We promise to be bitter only when the present editor-in-chief (bless his heart) is invited to free dinners and social functions.) In addition, when anyone has been connected with a newspaper for four years, it is very hard to leave it under any circumstances.

So this former editor-in-chief has now, as his last official editorial function, assigned himself to his everlasting love — the news desk—as a senior reporter.

He already has two stories in the works. He has vowed to become the scourge of South College. He is proud to be connected with a newspaper possessing so many opportunities and such a long list of achievements as does the Collegian.

* * *

Gordon A. Davidson, former news editor, is now interim Editor-in-Chief. He has been connected with newspapers, both collegiate and professional, for over five years, and we are sure he will do a fine job.

Jim Foudy, our managing editor, is now carrying the additional title of news editor until the annual elections. Jim is more than capable of both jobs for the remaining issues of the Collegian.

We wish them all the best in their efforts and pledge any help they may request of us, in either a staff member position or a "former-" position.

Tom Donovan
Editor

Campus Comment

Food Wanted

To the Editor:

We have been reading in the Collegian the past few weeks about the new grinder truck, which is located on Butterfield Terrace. We feel that it is very unfortunate that a truck such as this would not service the Southwest Area. Although we are girls, we too like to take study snacks. It is unfair of University Officials not to let this truck park near our dorms, so that we, like the Gorman area students, can eat.

Of course, we realize that if the University grants permission to this company to circulate on campus, the grinder wagon would come in direct competition with University sponsored snack bars. Well, this country was founded on the principle of competition. It is the University's obligation to provide the best possible services to the student. From the results this truck has had so far at Gorman House, it is obvious that the students appreciate it being there.

We hope that University Officials do not take a long time to make their decision. We want this service now, not next month or semester. It is not a hard decision to make. The food can be tested by University health officials, thus assuring the students of good quality food.

Linda D. Law
Susan J. Platt

"I Object . . ."

To the Editor:

Concerning your airing of the Monsignor David Power's manifesto on sex on the campus, I have just one question: Why should the Collegian give a prominent position to such an affront to reason as is represented in the sermon? True, the number of Catholic students on campus is fairly large, but, as shown by the case of the Jewish student protests found on your editoral page recently, this number certainly does not comprise the whole student body. For those Catholics who, theoretically at least, believe extramarital sex akin to "cancer on the campus", this may be acceptable. For the rest of us it may be harder to take.

I, for one, object to any fraternity or dormitory group, no matter how civic-spirited, praying for divine intervention concerning the curfew hour for women students; or the reversal of what the University has slowly accomplished through democratic processes in the way of furthering the equality of the sexes.

In short, I am all for "reasonable actions", one of which would be confining Monsignor Power's polemics (as he apparently wished) to the Newman Center, where only those who feel themselves so obligated by their faith would need to be subjected to them.

Gerard Donovan '69

A Thank You

To the Editor:

The election of 1966 is past and the Amherst Town Republican Committee can look back on a successful campaign While the Committee feels considerable satisfaction with the election results the fact is appreciated that many in the community assisted in an election that saw 78.4% of the Amherst registered voters cast ballots.

During the course of the Campaign a number of students volunteered their services and assisted in various capacities. While the Committee would like to thank each one of these individuals personally this is a rather impossible endeavor so this letter is a means of thanking each one who assisted in any way.

Government is one of the most important aspects of an individuals life, possibly the most important aspect, for the degree to which one may enjoy the full use of his talents is to a very large degree dependent on the government under which he lives.

The college students of today will be responsible for the affairs of the country 20 years hence. It is encouraging to know that at this early stage in life so many are taking an active interest in politics and government.

William H. Weaver
Publicity Chairman
Amherst Town Republican Committee

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68
Editorial Chmn.: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports Editor: Mike Gould '67
Feature Editors: Lois Cohen '68
Photography Editor: Eric Wish '68
Advertising Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Circulation Mgr: Bob Godwin '69
TODAY'S EDITORS
News: Richard Kline '70
Editorial: Jack Dean '69
Sports: Glen Briere '69
Photo: Paul Bolivar '68

A Tribute to an Administrator

Dr. Noffsinger: An Inspiration . . . An Exception

editorial feature

Photo by Boliver

One of Many Roles:

Student Union Director

By Richard Schinoff, SUG Board Chairman

Director of the Student Union—One of the official titles under which Mark Noffsinger performs his many roles on our campus. When Dr. Noffsinger arrived at the University of Massachusetts two years ago, the Student Union was in the process of feeling the overcrowded conditions of our growing campus. This man was thrust into a situation in which a new administrator was expected to pick up the reins from the past and establish a true Student Activities Center.

During the past two years the Union has seen many changes. New members have been added to the professional staff, new programs have been implimented and old ones have been reorganized. Dr. Noffsinger can now say that our Student Union is on the way to becoming one of the finest in the country.

Being a strong believer that students are responsible for their actions, one of his first official acts was to suggest to the Student Union Governing Board that the voting rights of the administrators on the Board be taken away. The Student Union Board of Governors as it is now established is controlled by students.

Realizing the importance of having a good facility to house student programs, Dr. Noffsinger added the necessary impetus to the proposed building of an addition to the Student Union so that the addition now known as Campus Center will be a reality within a few years.

The Chairman of the Student Union Governing Board finds himself in a position which places him in close contact with the Director of the Union. Because of this closeness the true feelings and ideas of Dr. Noffsinger have been brought to the surface during conversations with him.

Dr Noffsinger believes that when a student comes to him for advice, it is his responsibility to give the student the best possible help. It is the student's responsibility to digest the advice and then come to a conclusion. Rarely must Mark Noffsinger say to a student, "you must." When he is forced to say this, a part of his is destroyed. A student has not lived up to his responsibilities.

* * *

Dr. Noffsinger and The Student Press

Dr. Noffsinger is a long-time friend, critic and defender of the Collegian. Editors are used to being called in for a little off-the-record chats which usually produces a pat on the back or a constructive slap on the wrist.

Dr. Noffsinger provided valuable support for the cause of the student press on campus with his service on the University's Publication's Commission this summer.

"He will not Shift the Burden"

By John Greenquist, Student Senate President

"... I would like to say to you that I don't know enough about Student Government 'for sure' to fill a single page. Except for a few years in the military I've been 'talking it over'—this Student Government bit—all my life. Because I have had to come to realize that talking over Student Government, or for that matter any form of government, is a life-long process—particularly in an academic community. I only wish that students, faculty, and administrators would remember that."

I was asked to comment on the relationship between Dr. Mark Noffsinger and Student Government and also my personal contact with the man. With this in mind,, I remember the above remarks made by Dr. Noffsinger at a Student Government conference last year where, as so many times before and since, he expressed his firm commitment to his belief that "developing creative dissatisfaction is one of teh chief purposes of education." But this can only come about if the serious questions are honestly answered and not avoided.

I have never known Dr. Noffsinger to do otherwise. If asked to take a stand he will, and he will not shift the burden of responsibility onto someone else.

At first I thought it would be a very just Student Government, but also to the development of individual student life. But after serious thought I really did not know what I could say that could adequately express t h e gratitude we should all have for his concern.

Suffice it to say that Dr. Noffsinger has committed himself to students—not just in words, but also in actions. For this we all owe him our thanks.

easy task to comment on Dr. Noffsinger, since he has contributed so much to not

By Chet Weinerman, Editorial Chairman

A man usually has to wait until he is dead, fired, or wins a major election before his worth is brought to the attention of the public. But because countless people have requested it, this page will violate that tradition. This page is an exception. This page is about an exception. This page is devoted to a man who has devoted. This page is dedicated to honoring Mark Noffsinger.

It has not been difficult to obtain "copy". Anyone having anything to do with the Student Union has words of laudation about the Direction of the Student Union. Any student intimately involved in the hundreds of R.S.O.'s on campus also wants to tell the campus about what the Coordinator of Student Activities has done for them and their organizations. And any student with a problem wants to relate how Mark Noffsinger has helped him in an hour of need.

Mrs. Dorothy O'Connor, Dr. Noffsinger's personal secretary, granted me an interview a couple of weeks ago. It is this interview which I have chosen to use as the text of this tribute.

* * *

"He is as understanding and ethical of his employees as he is of his students. His schedule is tremendously busy, yet he fits in personal conversations with everyone; this creates a special feeling among those who are around him daily.

"I think this is kind of unusual, because as an organization grows, the personal touch tends to diminish. This is not the case. Dr. Noffsinger realizes that personal problems can effect job performance. Yet, he does not purport to be the "Great White Father." He doesn't probe — you just have the feeling that he wants to hear you. This is a peculiar talent.

"He is so understanding of students. If he says, 'I am going to help you', I've seen him run across the street for the kid, yell over the telephone. And you know, he feels so warm to see that students trust him. His total recall of his own growing up effects his treatment of his students now. He is most thrilled when he is recognized by a student as a friend, because it's then that he knows he has helped someone.

"His day? Oh, it's hectic in a marvelous sort of way. You sort of feel a part of it. From 8:30 to 5:00 his attention is constantly taken up by students—this is what he wants most of all. The man gets in around 8:30. Look at today's schedule for instance:

9:00 Appointment
9:15 Student Personnel Action Commit tee
11:15 Appointment, Richard Schinoff (Pres. S.U.G. Board)
11:30 Appointment, Masters of Southwest Complex
2:00 Lunch, if the SW meeting is over in time.

(All this time, his Union employees are bringing problems to him for immediate discussion or action.)

3:00 Meeting with Dr. Venman, Ass't Provost
3:45 Appointment with a griping employee

Photo by Boliver

DR. MARK NOFFSINGER

4:15 Meeting with delegates from Program Council to talk about ACU meeting

"At the end of the workday, Mark Noffsinger takes home stacks of papers. Even though much of it is irrelevant, he must evaluate all of it.

"And there is much more. The average person doesn't know about much of what he's done. And he wouldn't want them to know. His dedication to students is indescribable. This summer, he taught a course in Guidance and Counseling at the University; he loves to teach. Dr. Noffsinger refused to be salaried for this position.

He is a very vital part of the Student Life Committee, and has had a major role in the passage of the University reform this year. He was a faculty fellow in one of the Southwest dorms. He is in charge of the operation of the entire Student Union and all student activities ultimately fall under his jurisdiction.

"Yet, with this heavy schedule, he has said that NO student who has a problem is to be turned away. He feels that this is his primary reason for being in his work."

* * *

As I write this story late at night, I can see across the corridor that the light in Dr. Noffsinger's office is still burning. As I go over to say hello, he is just exiting his office to go home. His arm is laden with folders.

"Hi, Dr. Noffsinger; did you hear about the switch in editors?"

"No, come on in and let's talk about it." about it."

Mark Noffsinger is always ready to talk about anything to any sincere student or employee. This University should treasure such a man, for there are few like him. Few combine effectiveness with warmth, sincerity with firmness. He is an inspiration in an increasingly inspirationless society. We, the Collegian—on behalf of the University population—thank Dr. Noffsinger for being....for being.

A Student's Thoughts

By Arlene Katz,
Counselor, Emerson House

My acquaintance with Dr. Mark Noffsinger has had a valuable effect on me.

Mark Noffsinger is one of those people who gives you confidence in yourself; who makes you feel important. Although his responsibilities are never-ending, he is almost never too busy to talk with you. And when he does, he is honest, vibrant and interested — you know he cares about you and your education.

Above all else, I know I feel just "plain old good" after visiting with him. I cannot exaggerate my deep-felt praise of this member of the administration and friend.

Students are Finding New Ways to Relax

They Climb the Walls on Weekdays . . .

Looking out the window from your dormitory cubicle, you find that you have an uncontrollable urge to let fly al your 'cools' —

Photo by Mazel

The boys on Grayson House's third floor climb walls to let off steam. Here, Kent Hubbard hangs near the ceiling, ready to drop in front of the next person who walks by.

by JEROME HORVITZ, Feature Staff

Suddenly you scream out, "I can't take it any longer! I've got to do something — just to let loose." Your roommate is absolutely no help. All he worries about is how Housing ever stuck him with such a guy.

"The devil with him," you say. Let his little brain think what it wants. You're going to 'leap' for this one time! You storm into the hallway where some of your friends are. You say, "Hey fellas, I'm up for a real good 'leap.' How about it? I'm in such a bad way I could climb walls."

You look at each other. "What a great idea! Why not? Let's do it—climb the wayys!!! Then flies will have nothing over us!"

However this is not an easy undertaking by any means. It takes or taxes one's strength, skill, coordination and most important—a sincere desire to 'really get up there.' Many techniques do exist, but the one best recommended for the beginner to start off with is the 'hands-on-wall' technique.

The novice is advised to try this technique first in the 'link'—or a wide corridor similar to the ones found in the Orchard Complex dorms. Here, one has much more room to stretch the legs into a prone position.

Also, the beginner-sport must be aware of the proper footgear to use. Shoes with rubber soles are always quite successful. Sometimes shower clogs are helpful, but the best and most recommended gear is no footwear at all.

With bare feet the subject creates the greatest amount of friction between his feet and the wall. The more friction one can create the easier it will be to ascend to the ceiling!

With this fundamental knowledge the amateur is quite ready to begin. First, however, it must be stressed once again that one must go into this adventure with the right frame of mind or everything will go to waste.

If one has an attitude similar, let us say, to a football player who has that 'kill attitude' which is the prime ingredient for a win, then he too will succeed in this unique and skillfull art of 'wall-climbing.'

The procedure is quite simple—with diligent practice, that is. All one has to do it stand two or three feet from the wall and lean his hands at waist height against the wall.

The hands should face downward towards the floor. Then, with a quick action, the feet are kicked and lifted backwards almost to the height of the hands. In other words, the body is brought almost parallel to the floor.

Photo by Mazel

Dave Piccicuto, also of Grayson House, stops to rest "on his way up."

Next, and this takes the most effort and skill (unfortunately most girls fail here) the hands are pointed upwards at the same time that they are lifted about six inches up the wall.

It is very important that one keep the legs flexed and taught at the same time. This is difficult to conceive but with practice this will come naturally as one becomes more proficient.

The final step is to life the feet to the height of the hands once again. In this manner, one can gradually 'inch' his way to the ceiling.

Finally, your 'wall-climbing' psychotherapy has been accomplished. In short, you have transformed yourself into a human spider.

It is the individual who lives life to its fullest that lives for a long life! So what if you happen to be conspicuous? That's no problem. Spiders are always found hanging from the ceilings!

. . . and on Weekends They Dance in Wild Color

by BOB GORMAN, Staff Reporter

It was a completely unique idea on campus! The crowd of about 1200 students rated it from "great" to "wild."

It was the dance co-sponsored by the Student Union

Photo by Boliver

The luv lace lads, from Boston, provided amplified audio effects at Sat. night's dance.

Dance Committee and the Revellers Saturday night in the Student Union Ballroom.

The dance was really made up of two parts, a visual and an audio section. The Luv Lace Lads provided the sound. A number of people worked on the lighting effects.

Keith Hollingworth, Instructor of Art Ceramics, directed the lighting. While trying to explain the dance, he said, "It really wasn't a happening. I only consider it a dance with environmental visual aid."

And it was quite a visual aid! These aids included four projectors which showed 16 different films on the walls of the Ballroom. Two color wheels were also used from the projector room.

Meanwhile, in the ballroom, eight slide projectors showed a total of 1000 slides on the floor, walls and ceiling of the ballroom.

At the same time, four color wheels in the ballroom were used to reflect light onto the big crystal ball in the center of the ceiling. This reflected the light as a spectrum of dots throughout the ballroom.

Paul Boliver, technical supervisor for the Student Union, also did a good deal of work in preparing the visual effects.

Boliver and his three assistants moved the four motion picture projectors and two clor wheels. Boliver has used lighting as a complimentary effect many times.

Concerning the visual aids, he said, "The idea is that lighting can be used either as a stimulant or a depressant, just like music."

Slides were projected on the walls . . .

In all, 14 people worked to fill the ballroom with films and slides of fashion models, African natives, music conductors, building plans, captions and just lights.

The other half of the dance, that is, the Luv Lace Lads from Boston, was equally interesting.

Unlike most groups who simply play top ten, the Lads play their version of current songs. Usually, their version is a combination jazz and rock and roll.

Bill Roop, UMass '67, who is manager of the group said, "Basically each member plays a separate piece that fits together with the other member'."

The group has four members, none of whom uses his last names. Swine is the lead guitarist. Scott is the bass guitarist and lead singer, while Dave plays rhythm guitar and Billy plays the drums.

This was the group's eighth visit to this campus. They all consider the UMass audience "tops". Since the group has gone to every New England college at least once, this is quite a rating.

Swine, who did the sound effects for Andy Warhol's recent happening in New York, said of Saturday night's dance, "The lighting and overall effect at this happening were far better than Warhol's."

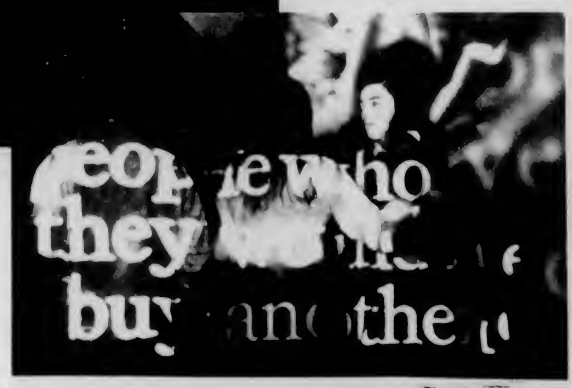

Photo by Boliver

. . . floor, ceiling, and even on the audience as they lost themselves in motion.

Marat - Sade at Amherst

Theater of Cruelty — A Shocking, Shouting Experience

by N. C. SCANLAN

They wander out and stare. Some dazed, some drooling, one picking his nose, all inmates of Charenton. With expected impact, The Persecution and Assassination of Jean-Paul Marat as Performed by the Inmates of Charenton under the Direction of The Marquis de Sade opened Friday at Kirby Theatre, Amherst. It must be seen to be reckoned with.

The title serves as synopsis for Peter Weiss's play. Occasionally lapsing into sing-song poetry or fits of Sadistic philosophy, Marat/Sade remains a director's dream or nightmare.

Director Walter Boughton attacks it with a vitality in integrating his inmates between the stage reality of Charenton and the dramatic illusion of Sade's play. This is the toughest chore, the play within the play, knowing when the actor is the madman and madman actor. Every inmate faces the task of maintaining the balance.

The victim Marat (Paul Saronson) plays the trick with ambiguity. He oscillates from madman as Marat well, but becomes Marat by playing too well. Perhaps this is his paronoic nature.

Sade (Allan Albert) is picture perfect, the casual creator aristocratically seated, delivering with a disastrously high voice.

Charlotte Corday (Susan Richardson) playing the somnambulist assassin remembered her part and prevented getting seduced by an excellent comic erotic, Duperret (Bruce Boyer).

Sade's herald (Marcus Parsons) keeps a wide-eyed stare directing and correcting the whole sadistic scene.

Just as important as these lead actors are the inmates with more subtle parts.

They fill the asylum with the mood of the moment, acting the frenzied crowd for Marat, playing catatonic for the sadistic monologues and singing very tolerably those old Gregorian chants. But don't dismiss them yet.

Though chorus, they are each individual madmen (and ladies), thoroughly studied to lift their parts above the world of extras. They are frightening from the baptismic entrance until an explosive exeunt.

The set is both striking and practical. Mr. Boughton has solved the problem of a small stage excellently. Each patient had his private shower stall, Marat his platform, Sade his chair, and a downstage pit for heads to gather from the guillotine. Save a color wheel for Marat's nightmare,

(Continued on page 12)

Under the direction of the Marquis de Sade, Charlotte Corday performs the assassination of Jean-Paul Marat in "Marat/Sade" which opened the 1966-67 season at Kirby Theater Friday evening. Amherst senior Alan Albert (left) is seen as de Sade, Susan Richardson of Mt. Holyoke College portrays Corday, and Paul Saronson is the hapless Marat.

The body of the assassinated Jean-Paul Marat is contemplated by the inmates of Charenton Asylum in this scene from "Marat/Sade", by Peter Weiss, which opened an eight-performance engagement at Amherst College's Kirby Theater Friday evening.

"The important thing is to pull yourself up by your own hair.
To turn yourself inside out and see the whole world with fresh eyes."

—from Marat/Sade

Individuality and total dedication to a belief verses compromise for the common good is the chief conflict of the play— a conflict which Weiss purposefully does not solve.

The idea is to shock, shout and brow beat the audience into re-evaluating its pre-conceptions and to "see the whole world with fresh eye."

Marat-Sade Provokes Critics' Debate

Editor's Note: The following article is reprinted from the Boston University News because of its poignant, in-depth analysis of Peter Weiss' play, "Marat/Sade". Kazanoff is familiar with the play and the article is in response to another analysis by New York Times drama critic Walter Kerr.

By TED KAZANOFF

SFAA Associate Professor, Theater Arts, Boston University

Walter Kerr, in an article in the current issue of Harper's titled "How Playwrights Lose" says, "Curiously, it is the avant-garde that is becoming more and more 'show' business."

It is a case of guilt by association for the avant-garde which, in this instance, includes the production of Peter Weiss' play, Marat Sade, as it is commonly called, by the Royal Shakespeare Company of England. The implication in the remark is that show business is more interested in immediate effect than lasting substance, which tends to distort the play.

Because the director is ultimately responsible for what happens on stage, he (in this case, Peter Brook) must bear the responsibility for the distortion, if such it is.

One of the examples Mr. Kerr uses to demonstrate his point is the scene where Monsieur de Sade is whipped by Charlotte Corday.

To Mr. Kerr the director's choice of having Corday whip de Sade with her hair instead of a real whip is distortion on two counts. First, any visually striking image on stage takes precedence over what is said so that the audience pays more attention to the action and for-

(Continued on page 12)

Studd removes the dull

Sikorsky Aircraft

ENGINEERING REPRESENTATIVES WILL BE ON CAMPUS TO GIVE SENIORS AND GRADUATES COMPLETE DETAILS ON

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES

WITH THE PIONEER AND LEADING MANUFACTURER of VTOL AIRCRAFT

See your College Placement Office now for an appointment.

Friday, December 2

SIKORSKY AIRCRAFT, Stratford, Conn. ■ Division of United Aircraft Corp. ■ An Equal Opportunity Employer

THE UNIVER

prese

9th Annual Boo

Commonwealth Room, Student Union

SALE Brush-Stroke Reproductions of THE WORLD'S GREAT PAINTINGS

The best of PICASSO, REMBRANDT, RENOIR, DEGAS, BREUGHEL, VAN GOGH, MATISSE, COROT, GOYA, UTRILLO, CEZANNE, MODIGLIANI and other masters

16" x 20"
20" x 24"
18" x 22"
17" x 21"

1.75 EACH

Mural Size Reproductions

24" x 30"

2.65 EACH

Smaller Brush-Stroke Prints

11" x 14"
12" x 16"
13" x 15"

89¢ EACH

LARGE SELECTION OF TRAVEL POSTERS, INCLUDING SOME OUTSTANDING ORIGINALS FROM SAN FRANCISCO

Gallery Style Frames

1.30 to 2.95

Framing service free while you wait

Th

Art — M

A

Daily 9:

SITY STORE
nts its

ok & Print Fair

November 28th through December 6th

BOOKS

ousands of Titles, Many Reduced 50-75% Including
Music — Fiction — Travel — Juveniles — Humor

ll Perfect for Gift Giving

RECORDS

An Outstanding Selection of Popular and Classical Recordings – Christmas Albums –
1.98 and up

00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m., Saturday 9:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.

NEWER, SAFER . . .

(Continued from page 1)

including hoses, wrenches and forceful entry tools. Firemen do not use the extinguishers or fire hoses provided in these dorms. This, he explained, is "first aid" equipment.

Another source of the problems is the elevators. Each dorm has its own emergency generator to insure the function of one elevator. What is needed, according to Chief Doherty, is electrical control over the elevators in the event of a fire. This, he said, would cancel out calls to other floors and allow firefighters to move efficiently. Use of elevators is necessary because each crew carries 200 pounds of equipment.

Speaking generally about the rest of the campus, Doherty explained that all buildings are looked on as "individual problems." Though the emphasis is on dorms, all are analyzed thoroughly.

The Amherst Fire Department is equipped with floor plans of all buildings on campus. In addition, inspections are made of dorms during the summer.

They are analyzed and the problems of construction and occupancy are studied carefully. What the department tries to do is see the "most pressing problems" of each building, and in this way determine the type of fire that might occur in any one place. By studying the combustibility of the area, an attempt is made to predict the likelihood and speed of a fire.

But as the number of buildings increases, the process becomes more difficult and complex, Doherty said. However, the chief stressed that "fires are a function of people," and the increase in the U Mass population will mean more fires.

What is needed, then, more than concentration on fire protection, is the cooperation of everyone on the campus — students, faculty and administration—to prevent fires in the first place, Chief Doherty said.

INADEQUACIES . . .

(Continued from page 1)

turn refused to accept the buildings as University property until the deficiencies were corrected.

"Fire Doesn't Wait for Red Tape" ....

Recently (Nov. 7 Collegian) the fire equipment deficiencies were found to be the same as they were last May.

Commenting on the delay, Chief Doherty said, "The time lag from May to now seriously disturbs me because it reflects red tape and a fire doesn't wait for red tape."

However, Goetzel claimed "If there was something wrong, I was never notified about it."

Both Goetzel and Doherty agreed that the buildings are not therefore fire traps. The possibility of a fast burning fire is very low.

However, as Chief Doherty stated, "the hose length and fire cabinets aren't impediments to the fire department, but are impediments to the first aid system."

Both agreed that the controversial deficiencies are not major problems.

Other problems have cropped up surrounding the now fire-conscious Southwest area:

The changing and detouring of roads due to construction has posed a problem with the arrival of firefighting equipment. Once the engines arive, however, they can hook the lines up to the in-dorm lines.

In addition, the fire department's need for obtaining elevator use during a fire has posed another more serious problem.

It is reported that the building architect is dealing with the elevator manufacturers, Westinghouse Corp. for provision of a master key to allow the elevators to be returned to the ground floor in an emergency.

COLLEGIANS may be Picked up at Lobby Counter

Research Bureau Solves Problems

Photo by Gerri

A small brick building which houses an agency that is little known to students . . .

by GEORGE ZEBROWSKI

In front of the North Commons parking lot is a small brick building which houses an agency that is little known to students but of significant value to the cities and towns of the Commonwealth.

This is the home of the Bureau of Government Research.

The bureau was organized on campus in January, 1956. Since then it has grown to include a staff of five researchers, two secrectaries and four student helpers.

Dr. Irving Howards, who took over the role of director in September, 1965, heads the research Shanley and Edwin Gere, Jr., of the UMass government faculty and Jamieson Reid and Carmen Saso.

The main job of the bureau is to aid city and town officials in finding answers to their local problems. These "problems" are often wide in scope. They can range from how to entice industry into their area to how to solve problems in education.

The bureau tries to hold conferences on problems of area interest as often as possible so that many municipalities can benefit. An example of this was an on-campus conference series on education. A conference on the problems of th Conncticut Valley is on the agenda of the bureau.

Another phase of the bureau's work deals with the publication of booklets on topics relating to government. Three such booklets have been printed in 1966. The titles of these booklets are: The Problem of Simplifying the Massachusetts Constitution, the Legislative Process and Divided Government and Some Notes on Regionalism with Particular Reference to New England. Dr. Howards reported that there are plans for eight other publications

(Continued on page 13)

Some young engineers will go through almost anything for a future with "P.S.E. & G."

Whether you're a swashbuckler or not, our personalized training program offers you the opportunity to contribute to tomorrow's challenging world. Find out if you can qualify for a stimulating and rewarding career with Public Service. See our representative when he visits your campus.

INTERVIEWER ON CAMPUS:

DECEMBER 7

PUBLIC SERVICE ELECTRIC AND GAS COMPANY NEW JERSEY

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

ONE OF AMERICA'S LARGEST AND MOST PROGRESSIVE SUPPLIERS OF ENERGY

Taking your M.R.S.?

Do your cramming with MODERN BRIDE

From previews of the newest bridal and trousseau fashions to exciting plans for an off-season European honeymoon, Modern Bride is the modern guide to large and small weddings, first-home furnishings, post-nuptial entertaining, and the planning that makes perfect — before, during and after. See for yourself in the current issue of Modern Bride.

JUST 75¢—ASK ABOUT THE SPECIAL HALF-PRICE STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION RATE AVAILABLE THROUGH COLLEGE BOOKSTORES!

Five Major Projects

UMass Expands to the Tune of $10.5 Million

By TIM MURPHY

Approximately $10.5-million is being spent at the University of Massachusetts for building construction and utilities expansion.

According to George A. Norton, associate director of the UMass physical plant, five major construction projects are in process on the Amherst campus. The administration building, the central storage building, the Sunset Avenue dormitories, the Agricultural Engineering Building, the five poultry plant buildings and the utility expansion project. Included in a force of nearly 300 men are bricklayers, sanders, plasterers, electricians, plumbers, tilers, glazers, concrete pourers and carpenters, many of whom are subcontracted by the general contractors.

Norton said the administration building is being constructed by D. O'Connell's Sons, Inc., of Holyoke at $2.7 million. The building was designed by Campbell, Aldridge & Nulty of Boston. Expected completion date is April, Norton said.

An interesting innovation made by O'Connell in the construction is what Norton described as the "critical path" method of scheduling work effectively through computer printout.

A consultant, a member of Maucley Associates, monitors statistics regurgitated by a computer to coordinate the many activities of the 70 men on the job, 40 of whom are employed by eigth subcontractors. To date, Norton commented, the process is working well and the completion date should be met.

Twenty-seven laborers and overseers are working on the $1.35-million central storage project, an addition to the campus maintenance center. When finished among other things the complex will house, the physical plant facilities directed by Harry S. Hugill and now relegated to cramped quarters behind Machmer.

The building, designed by Pierce & Pierce of Boston, is scheduled for completion in January, according to Norton. Contractor is Aquadro & Cerruti of Northampton.

Designed by H. J. Stubbins Associates of Cambridge and constructed by O'Connell, the $4.95-million Sunset Avenue dormitories will be completed by the opening of the University next fall, Norton said.

The construction of the dorms is not a state capital outlay project, Norton added; rather, it is administered by the Building Authority in self-liquidating bonds. The project eventually will pay for itself because student residents will be charged a room fee.

The four dorms represent the next to the last increment of housing facilities in the expanding Southwest Complex. Four additional dorms and a dining commons will be constructed in the near future, according to Norton.

The Agricultural Engineering Building, a third project, is scheduled to be completed in May, 1967. The facility, designed by Drummey, Rosane & Anderson Associates of Newton Lower Falls, will cost $317,000.

Peabody Construction Co. of Boston has 23 men at the site.

The five poultry plant buildings on East Pleasant St., being constructed by Leo P. Stramese of Northampton were designed by Northeast Architectural and Engineering Service. The structures are to be completed in February. Stramese employs 17 men at the project site. The buildings will be used for poultry brooding and research.

Under the auspices of the state Bureau of Building Construction, the utilities expansion program is a two-phase project which will cost $858,000.

The primary phase, for the construction of a pedestrian underpass and relocation of North Hadley Rd. along with several other roads in and south of the Southwest Complex, is progressing according to schedule and should be finished by mid-December, Norton said.

The second phase, extension of roadways from Sunset Ave. to the new Administration Building and the establishment of a mall in the large lot adjacent to the structure, is dependent on allocation of state capital outlay funds.

Capital was not granted the University in the 1967 outlay and, according to Norton, not until June or July will new funds be available or granted.

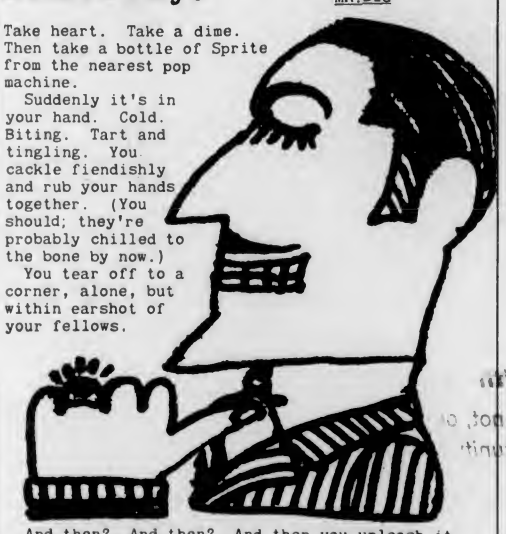
In addition to these five major projects, Norton's office has 15 others in the design stage, including Bartlett East and the 10-story Macher tower.

The old oaken bucket—UM '67 style—swings into action as the total university expansion gallops on to the tune of 10.5 million. Ditches, towers, tunnels, trenches, rubble and mud: good Vietnam training.

CORRECTION

Senator Harrington has not made any commitment to appear at the University. A letter has been sent to him concerning a possible speaking engagement but no reply has been received as yet.

Larry Marcus, Chairman,
P.R. Committee



This is your chance, Student #7026941. Drink Sprite and be somebody.

MR. BIG

Take heart. Take a dime. Then take a bottle of Sprite from the nearest pop machine.

Suddenly it's in your hand. Cold. Biting. Tart and tingling. You cackle fiendishly and rub your hands together. (You should; they're probably chilled to the bone by now.)

You tear off to a corner, alone, but within earshot of your fellows.

And then? And then? And then you unleash it.

SPRITE! It fizzes! It roars! It bubbles with good cheer!

Heads turn. Whisperings. "Who's that strangely fascinating student with the arch smile. And what's in that curious green bottle that's making such a racket?"

And you've arrived! The distinctive taste and ebullient character of Sprite has set you apart.

You're somebody, uh...uh, whoever-you-are.

Sprite

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

SPRITE IS A REGISTERED TRADE MARK

THAT SOCKING ADLER ATTITUDE

KICK UP YOUR STATUS WITH THE RICH CREW:

the Adler crew they call Life/Long in white and 30 going colors. Going on in Orlon® acrylic to look good and feel great. With stretch nylon to fit all feet. A buck fifty foots the bill and you're socking right up to your attitude. Just like the rich crew.

The 39 Steps (1935)

"Age Cannot Mellow a Classic"

Alfred Hitchcock, the master of mystery, showed that age cannot mellow a classic thriller with his presentation of The 39 Steps Tuesday night. It was the fourth program in the University Theatre Film Series.

Step by step Mr. Hitchcock leads the viewer from London, to Scotland, over the rivers and through the moors, under the bridges and finally back to "go", making him the Milton Bradley of the mystery movie.

Most mystery plots are dubious by definition but thanks to Robert Donat (Hannay) and an innocent bystander from Canada, the "steps" are much easier to climb. Writers Reville and Bennet have made the first step the hardest; anxiously involving innocent bystander Hannay, they leave one wondering; a decent man like Hannay bringing home a stray Matia Hari? Shocking!

The steps become easier with Mr. H. beginning his task. He mixes his serious villains with cockney milkmen and little old innkeepers, keeping the suspense in hand.

Never far from reach are the special Hitchcock effects: a rail-train whistle takes up a woman's scream; a body drops—thud—; a phone rings in the silence. The suspense is so engulfing that one decides not to waste anymore time searching for Mr. Hitchcock (remember he was younger in 1935 and moved faster).

Robert Donat rescues the shaky start and very naturally becomes entangled in the web of high espionage—some Axis power, no doubt. He develops as a James Bond des habitants slipping out of the hands of black spies and the men from Scotland yard (who actually journey to Scotland in the chase) and into the hands of numerous maidens.

Meanwhile, the writers drowned their mystery in a swampy moor, trying to tell a farmer's wife's tale from another picture. Madaline Carroll, the leading lady, enters too late to appreciate the whole picture of things.

Photography by Bernard Knowles augments the thrilling moments. Realistic settings also step things up: the confusion of the music hall, the erie fog of the moor, London by night, trains and bridges—all add support.

After thirty years The 39 Steps (also the spy organization's name) echoes in its train scene North by Northwest and the theatre dilemma in Torn Curtain. (Why didn't Donat yell 'fire!')

The movie is provided with a Hitchcock surprise ending, ironically bringing the viewer back to the start. It is enjoyable to watch a pre-present spy-thriller which needs no chrome-plated sports car—or girl—to hold one's attention. Hitchcock's fine directing and the smooth acting of Mr. Donat help take The 39 Steps out of the crowd of thrillers making it classic.

Around Campus----by Joe DiVeglia

M.S. and Ph.D.'s Offered In Nutrition and Food

The University of Massachusetts has instituted M.S. and Ph.D. programs in nutrition and food at its School of Home Economics, it was announced today by Dr. Edward C. Moore, Dean of the Graduate School.

It is the first study program in its field at the doctoral level at a New England land-grant university. The program is concerned with man's utilization of food and the role of nutrition in his total health and well being, according to Dr. Marion Niederpruem, dean of the School of Home Economics.

According to Dean Niederpruem, the School of Home Economics has for some time recognized the acute lack of well-qualified home economists with advanced degrees. Such professionals are no longer needed only for dietetics, they have become essential in the many home economics areas in industry, public service, government and university teaching and research.

Admission to the new UMass program requires a home economics degree with a major in dietetics or food and nutrition and a background strong in related natural sciences, or a degree in natural sciences with emphasis on chemistry and biological sciences. This gives many qualified college graduates in home economics and related areas the opportunity to pursue graduate study in nutrition and food.

Further information is available from Dr. Elwood F. Reber, head of nutrition and food program, School of Home Economics, Skinner Hall, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

CAREERS IN STEEL

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Our representative will be on campus

DEC. 15

to interview undergraduate and graduate candidates for Bethlehem's '67 Loop Course —our highly regarded management training program

OPPORTUNITIES are available in steel plant operations, sales, research, mining, accounting, and other activities.

DEGREES required are mechanical, metallurgical, electrical, chemical, industrial, civil, mining, and other engineering specialties; also chemistry, physics, mathematics, business administration, accounting and liberal arts.

If you would like to discuss your career interest with a Bethlehem representative, see your placement officer to arrange for an interview appointment.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Marat - Sade Provokes Critics' Debate . . .

(Continued from page 7)

gets about the words; and second, this particular choice of business reverses de Sade's meaning, giving him the lie.

If we go back to the text, I think we shall find that Mr. Kerr's analysis of the situation is not right. It is true that the author calls for the whipping of de Sade while he speaks, but the text itself does not specify how this is to be done. It is only in the stage directions, presumably written by the author, that an actual whip is mentioned.

The author calls for some form of whipping to punctuate de Sade's words.

DeSade says in the scene, "And even now I should like to take this beauty here (Corday) who stands there so expectantly and let her beat me while I talk to you (Marat) about the Revolution."

De Sade is engaging in a form of self-flagellation in order to purge himself of everything that is "wicked and brutal." The whipping is self-imposed as a measure of his strength in overcoming his criminality. It is not the actual whipping that matters, the torture inflicted from the outside, as much as the struggle within, the ability to root out the evil before it takes the devastating toll in real life.

De Sade had fantasized in his own mind a monstrous play full of the wildest atrocities against mankind and then had himself beaten in order to subjugate the criminal himself. All of this happened in the past. What is relevant now for de Sade is the strength of recall to effect the same purgation.

With this in mind, I feel it justified that the director of the stage production should choose to represent the whipping with other than an actual whip. But why does he choose to use the girl's hair, and how does this help to clarify the point of the scene?

The play within a play is a therapeutic exercise for the inmates of Charenton asylum.

De Sade has written the play and is in charge of producing it. When he asks the girl to whip him, he is asking the actress playing the role of Corday to do it.

This girl is a product of convent life. Sex is repugnant to her, so much so that she has been committed to an asylum in a sleep walking condition because her inability to cope with her normal drives and desires. She cannot face herself for what she is. The final act of killing Marat is psycho-drama for her.

At this point she would be the last to admit the strength of violence which lies deep within her by using the whip. The historical figure of Corday killed Marat for poltical reasons; the actress playing her part reveals that the motivations behind the act of killing were more complex.

So, as her blonde, clean hair falls on the unclean back of de Sade, the force of contradition propels a meaning from the action greater than the action itself and reinforces the meaning of the words de Sade is saying. Where she is clean but blind, he is unclean but knowing, and the relevancy of sex and power to the force of revolutionary fervor is made clearer.

Simple practical considerations may make a director think twice before using an actual whipping scene on stage—the difficulty of making it believable without replacing the actor being whipped every night and the danger inherent in any violent action of this kind that the audience will pay more attention to the violence than to its significance.

It is the prerogative of the director, particularly in the modern theatre, to use all the means of the stage to clarify and make expressive the intent of any moment of the play within the style and form of that play. The quarrel comes only with how successful and imaginative he has been in the process.

Scanlon on Sade

(Continued from page 7)

lighting is simple, smartly staying out of the complicated happenings.

Music is presented by the singers who also mime Sade and by competent musicians. All but one minuet seem anachronistic, comically close to Shubert alley or review melodies.

Marat/Sade is a shocking, shocking, shouting experience, hitting hard (as Sade would like it) whopping, beheading, the pouring of blood, attacking church, state and inmates. Mr. Boughton can be proud of his accomplishment. The Masquers et al. maintained the Amherst reputation for sound production. The play will be performed Dec. 2 throu Dec. 6. It should be seen.

"Coca-Cola" and "Coke" are registered trade-marks which identify only the product of The Coca-Cola Company

Ice-cold Coca-Cola makes any campus "get-together" a party. Coca-Cola has the taste you never get tired of . . . always refreshing. That's why things go better with Coke . . . after Coke . . . after Coke.

COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY OF NORTHAMPTON, NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

Next
COLLEGIAN
Nov. 30

- Notices -

S.U.G. BOARD
Elections will be held for classes of 1968, 1969 and 1970 on Nov. 30. Nomination papers are due by Nov. 23.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
On Nov. 21, at 7:00 P.M. there will be a Pledge Meeting in Machmer, W-27.
On Nov. 22, at 7:00, there will be a General Business Meeting in Machmer W-26. Please bring perfum, soap, toothpast, etc. for Belchertown.
On Nov. 22, at 6:00 there will be an Exec. Board meeting in Machmer W-26.

HISTORY LECTURE
On Mon., Nov. 21, at 8:00 in Sage Hall, Smith College, Staughton Lynd, assistant professor of history at Yale University, will lecture on "The Origins of American Radical Traditions."

SKI CLUB
On Tues., Nov. 22 at 7:00, there will be free Ski Movies shown and an important meeting in Morril Aud. All are welcome.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
The M.I.T. Science-Fiction Society will meet on the Friday following Thanksgiving at 5:00 P.M. in the Spofford Room, main building, M.I.T.

YOUNG INDEPENDENTS
At 6:30, on Mon., Nov. 21, in the Nantucket Room, S.U. there will be a discussion on the draft. All interested are welcome.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Each Tues., at 6:45 P.M. in the Worcester Room, S.U. there are meetings. All are invited to attend the annual Thanksgiving Day meeting this week.

SCUBA CLUB
There is no meeting Wed., Nov. 23, Regular meeting and instruction will be held Wed., Nov. 30. All dues and waivers must be in by then.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB
On Nov. 22, at 6:00 in Middlesex Room, S.U. there will be an important meeting. All members are urgd to attend —significant issues will be discussed and elections will be held.

OUTING CLUB
There will be a general meeting Mon., Nov. 21, at 6:30 in Middlesex Room.

EDUCATION CLUB
The Education Film series will be presented on Mon., Nov. 21, at 7:45 P.M. in the School of Ed. Auditorium and on Tues., Nov. 22 at 8:00, in the Worcester Room of S.U. Films will be: A Desk for Billie, and Mike Makes his Mark.

NOTICE
3 coats which were stolen last year are at the police station. They will be held there for 10 days, after which they will be given away.

CHEMISTRY LECTURE
On Dec. 1, 1966 at 11:15 A.M. in Goessmann, 151, Dr. Thomas B. Reddy of Stamford Research Laboratories, American Cyanamid Co., will speak on "The Electrochemical Oxidation of Leuco Crystal Violet".

LOST
One tan government notebook. Please call AL 3-7231, or return to the Student Union Lost & Found. Your effort will be rewarded.
Pair of glasses—brown rimmed, in yellow and brown burlap case. Contact Mary, 546-6860.

ASTRONOMY TALK
The astronomy department of the Four Colleges will hold a public visitors' night on Mon., Nov. 21, from 7:30 to 9:30 in McConnell Hall of Clark Science Center at Smith. Francis M. Stienon, assistant professor at Smith, will give a short talk a 7:30 in room B-15, McConnell, and then escort visitors to the six-inch telescope for a look at the skies, if the weather is clear. All are cordially invited to attend.

RESEARCH BUREAU . . .

(Continued from page 10)

before the end of the academic year.

The 41-year old director pointed out that the bureau doesn't try to meet any quotas but rather works on "the need of the moment." While remaining flexible, the bureau maintains a rounded program of service and research, Dr. Howards said proudly."

He cited the bureau's study of local government in the City of Holyoke, now underway.

"The recently passed home rule referendum could involve us very intensely," Dr. Howards stated. According to the referendum a charter commission will be estabilshed to guide the legislative changes. Dr. Howards said the bureau staff will feel compelled to help if asked. He pointed out that the bureau must be asked before any work can be done for any agency.

It does provide one service without query. All booklets and research reports are available to students.

"Male Mentality"

"The male mentality is coming!", claims Beau-Duane Fashion Enterprises which is bringing the FASHION CARAVAN to the University of Massachusetts.

The FASHION CARAVAN, compiled by a group of students from Harvard, Columbia, and Yale, is intended to depict the male reaction to contemporary feminine fashion.

The Ivy Leaguers and UMass students will narrate the show, review the whole spectrum of feminine collegiate wear, and give their opinions on how they think the co-ed dresses. The show is complete with combo, refreshments and professional models.

The public is cordially invited to attend this unique showing in the Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 22.

Deadline Near For Civil Service Exams

Students who want to work for the Federal Government this summer have until Jan. 9 to file their applications for the necessary Civil Service examination, U.S. Representative Silvio O. Conte has announced.

"All applications must be received by Jan. 9 for the final examination to be given on Feb. 4, 1967. Those students who act quickly may take the Jan. 7, 1967 examination, but applications for that test must be received by Dec. 9," Mr. Conte stressed.

"The test is necessary for most summer Federal employment opportunities except those with the Post Office, blue-collar jobs, certain jobs in the Forest Service and National Park Service, and jobs above the GS-4 level,"

In making the announcement, Congressman Conte said additional information could be obtained from college placement officials or by writing to him at Room 257 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515 and asking for Civil Service Commission Announcement 401.

INDEX Seeks Seniors

The Index has set aside 20 pages to be devoted entirely to Seniors. The Senior Section will be a collage of people, events and places, i.e. various candid shots taken within the past four years The pictures will include those taken through graduation 1967 and Senior Week.

Yearbooks will be sent to graduates during the summer and will be given to undergraduates on Registration day, September, 1967.

The Index is sponsoring a contest to obtain these pictures with the best candid group shot winning $15.00. Pictures will be returned to owners second semester if name and address are on back of the photograph.

The deadline for submitting entries is Friday, Jan. 6, 1967, to the Index office at the Student Union.

Seniors graduating in January will have their pictures taken on January 13 and 14. Those graduating in June will sign up for a date on Registration Day.

Taking your
M.R.S.?

Do your cramming with
MODERN BRIDE

From previews of the newest bridal and trousseau fashions to exciting plans for an off-season European honeymoon, Modern Bride is the modern guide to large and small weddings, first-home furnishings, post-nuptial entertaining, and the planning that makes perfect — before, during and after. See for yourself in the current issue of Modern Bride.

JUST 75¢—ASK ABOUT THE SPECIAL HALF-PRICE STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION RATE AVAILABLE THROUGH COLLEGE BOOKSTORES!

Engineers, Mathematicians:

Contribute to Technical Programs of National Significance

The "Cipher Disk" . . . NSA symbol and one of the oldest and most effective cryptographic devices known.

. . . nsa

Creating secure communications systems and equipments unknown anywhere else. This is the mission of the National Security Agency—a mission which in turn creates problems of a high order of difficulty, requiring an uncommon amount of ingenuity.

There is no other organization like it . . . no other organization doing the same important work, or offering the same wealth of opportunity for imaginative graduates in mathematics or the engineering sciences.

A separate agency operating within the defense establishment, NSA has a critical requirement for:

ENGINEERS. To carry out basic and applied research, design, development, testing and evaluation of large-scale cryptocommunications and EDP systems. Engineers may also participate in related studies of electromagnetic propagation, upper atmosphere phenomena, super-conductivity and cryogenics using the latest equipment for advanced research within the Agency's fully instrumented laboratories. Career programs are designed to develop the professional engineer for a full and satisfying future in research or management.

MATHEMATICIANS. To define, formulate and solve complex communications-related problems in support of the NSA mission. Statistical mathematics, matrix algebra, finite fields, probability, combinatorial analysis, programming and symbolic logic are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. They enjoy the full support of NSA's completely equipped computer laboratory where many of them often become involved in both the hardware and software of advanced computing systems. Theoretical research is also a primary concern at NSA, owing to the fact that the present state of knowledge in certain fields of mathematics is not sufficiently advanced to satisfy NSA requirements.

CAREER BENEFITS
With NSA, you enjoy all the benefits of Federal employment without the necessity of Civil Service certification.

NSA's generous graduate study program permits you to pursue two semesters of full-time graduate study at full salary with academic costs paid by NSA. The Agency also encourages participation in professional associations and assists you to attend national meetings, seminars, and conferences.

Located between Washington and Baltimore, NSA is also near the Chesapeake Bay, ocean beaches and other summer and winter recreation areas. The location permits your choice of city, suburban or country living.

Starting salaries, depending on education and experience, range from $7,729 to $12,873. Check now with your Placement Office to arrange an interview with the NSA representative visiting your campus, or write to: Chief, College Relations Branch, Suite 10, 4435 Wisconsin Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20016. An equal opportunity employer, M&F.

national security agency

. . . where imagination is the essential qualification.

Instant Analysis

Big Brother Is Watching

Nearly two centuries after poet Robert Burns wished human beings had the power ". . .To see ourselves as others see us. . ." video tape and closed-circuit television has given University of Massachusetts physical education students at least some of that power.

As used in the UMass School of Physical Education, portable TV equipment provides what Dr. David C. Bischoff, assistant dean of the school, calls "instant analysis of activity." Any visible activity—from teaching to hammer throwing—can be taped and played back instantly, giving students an immediate record of how they look.

Dr. Bischoff explained that in gymnastics, swimming, golf or any other physical activity where form is important it is often difficult for the learner to see himself as he really performs. "What the student thinks he's doing and what he's actually doing are often two different things," he said.

TV tape provides an instant, easily made record of performance that can be analysed virtually on the spot by the performer himself, other members of the class, and the instructor.

A typical example of its use finds UMass TV technician Ray Brule with his portable TV camera focused on the parallel bars in the auxiliary gym of the Boyden Physical Education Building. Connected to the camera is the video tape recorder, fitted with a roll of two-inch tape that can play for an hour. Hooked to the tape recorder is a 21-inch monitor playback TV set. All three pieces of equipment move on rollers and work without special lighting.

UMass television technician Ray Brule, far left, shows a taped television playback to a class of physical education teaching students at the Women's Physical Education Building.

On a cue from the instructor, a student goes through a set of exercises on the bars before the camera, then gathers with other students and the instructor to watch the playback and go over the strong and weak points. The tape can be re-run as many times as needed, run in slow motion, or stopped. It can be saved as a permanent record or can be erased and used over again. Through a cable system built into the Boyden building, it can be played simultaneously on screens in several classrooms and offices.

At another typical session, a group of women majoring in physical education and about to begin student teaching gather before the camera at the Womens Physical Education Building. Each student gives a demonstration of her teaching technique and then watches the playback with other members of the class to see exactly how she looked and sounded.

According to Dr. Christine L. Vendien, assistant professor of physical education, TV tape equipment is "very effective" when used this way. "Pictures don't lie," she said. "Students can honestly see what they are doing and hear what they are saying."

With the TV camera at the gym or pool and the monitor screen in the classroom, the equipment serves as a closed-circuit system for demonstrations. Mounted on an upper floor of the Boyden Building, the camera can record athletic performances on nearby playing fields with a telephoto lens.

According to Dr. Bischoff, this is the first full year the equipment has been available at UMass and the instructors are still experimenting with its use. Similar equipment has been in use for some time at the UMass School of Education; some colleges use it as a coaching aid, particularly for football games, but very few have utilized it for physical education instruction.

"This is pioneer work," Dr. Bischoff said. "We haven't even scratched the surface as far as teaching possibilities go."

400 To Be Offered ROTC Scholarships

Young men of high school age will have an opportunity this year to compete for one of 400 Army Reserve Officer Training Corps scholarships, it has been announced by the military science department at UMass.

Applications for the fully-paid four-year college scholarships can be made beginning Dec. 1, and must be completed by Jan. 15, 1967. Interested applicants must take the College Entrance Examination Board tests on Dec. 3 in order that their applications will be processed in time.

Successful applicants may attend any one of 247 colleges and universities offering the four-year Army ROTC program, including the University. Each scholarship includes full tuition, text book allowances and lab fees, and provides $50 per month subsistance allowance for the entire period except for a six-week summer camp when the student is paid at the rate of $151.95 monthly.

Candidates will be screened on the basis of prescribed physical standards, personal qualities, leadership potential and the results of the college board examinations. In addition, each applicant must be a United States citizen, must not be 21 years of age by June 30, 1967, and must be 17 by Oct. 1, 1967.

Further information may be obtained by writing ROTC scholarship, First United States Army, Fort Meade, Maryland 20755, or from the UMass military science department.

Four Physics Grants Received by UMass

UMass has received four new grants totaling nearly $150,000 for research by faculty of the department of physics and astronomy, it has been announced by Dr. Robert L. Gluckstern, head of the department.

The National Science Foundation has granted $34,600 to Dr. Phillips R. Jones to continue his experimental studies on ion-atomic scattering for a two-year period beginning this past September.

The Harvard Research Office has granted $17,400 to Dr. William M. Irvine, chairman of the astronomy program, to continue his National Space and Aeronautics Administration-supported theoretical studies on planetary atmospheres until June of 1967.

The Army Research Office in Durham, N. C., has granted $87,000 to Dr. Kandula S. R. Sastry to start an experimental program in nuclear beta and gamma decay for a three-year period starting in October of this year.

The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation has granted $10,300 to Dr. Frederick W. Byron, Jr., to continue his theoretical studies in atomic physics until June, 1967, while he is on leave at the University of Brussels.

The four new grants bring the total number of research and instructional grants in the department supported by outside funds to 18, with a total face value of $620,000.

CAMPUS CENTER . . .

(Continued from page 1)

snack bar, large university store, and other facilities including a post office.

- On the plaza level an outdoor soda fountain for warm weather use on the terrace and inside the building hotel and conference registration desk and offices.
- On floors two through five 100 double guest rooms and four efficiency apartments, providing accommodations for 200 guests at a time. Two of the floors will have typical hotel rooms and the other two will have studio furniture so that they can be used as living rooms during the day and convert to sleeping quarters at night.
- On floors six and seven conference rooms and offices to serve them.
- On floor eight a high quality cafeteria and smaller private dining room.
- On floor nine a formal restaurant that will seat 150 people. A terrace will provide outdoor dining during the warm weather.

On the top floor machinery, including air conditioning equipment that will service the entire building.

Marcel Breuer and associate Herbert Beckhard designed the building so that four more floors can be added later.

Civil Service Interviews

The City of Detroit Civil Service Commission has scheduled December 5, 1966 for interviews with prospective graduates. Representatives will be on campus from 8:50 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Appointments can be made by calling the placement office. Students also can obtain a copy of the City of Detroit recruiting brochure. "Opportunities for College Graduates with the City of Detroit".

Fringe benefits, which are enumerated in the insert for this brochure, include fully-paid hospitalization, annual vacation, sick leave, tuition refund programs, in-service training, life insurance, and retirement at age 55 after 30 years of service.

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES

for Seniors and Graduates in MECHANICAL, AERONAUTICAL, CHEMICAL, CIVIL (structures oriented), ELECTRICAL, MARINE, and METALLURGICAL ENGINEERING

ENGINEERING MECHANICS, APPLIED MATHEMATICS, CERAMICS, PHYSICS and ENGINEERING PHYSICS

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

DEC. 5

Appointments should be made in advance through your College Placement Office

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft DIVISION OF UNITED AIRCRAFT CORP. UA

An Equal Opportunity Employer

SPECIALISTS IN POWER... POWER FOR PROPULSION—POWER FOR AUXILIARY SYSTEMS. CURRENT UTILIZATIONS INCLUDE AIRCRAFT, MISSILES, SPACE VEHICLES, MARINE AND INDUSTRIAL APPLICATIONS.

TONIGHT

IN PERSON

Peter, Paul and Mary

EXCLUSIVELY ON Warner Brothers Records

CURRY HICKS CAGE

8:00 P.M. Admission $3.50

Photo by Wish

A pass intended for Don Durkin (40) is tipped away by a B.C. defender in Saturday's game at Alumni Stadium.

Attendance Only 16,700 As Redmen Fall, 14-7

(Continued from page 16)

two UM punts—11 and 14 yards long—B.C. took over on the UM 17. Fullback Brendan McCarthy moved the ball to the seven, and three plays later, speedy Della Villa slanted into the end zone from the one.

O'Neil's extra - point attempt was off, but the lead was 11-0 with nine minutes left in the third quarter.

Pass Bounces

After the following kickoff, UM took possession on its 33. Landry went to the air and moved the squad 67 yards, the last 23 on a pass that bounced off the hands of defender Len Persin and into the eager arms of halfback Bob Detore.

Cochrane's conversion reduced the B.C. lead to 11-6 with 5:35 remaining in the third quarter.

The two teams exchanged punts before the Eagles had another shot deep in UM territory. O'Neil split the uprights again, this time from 32 yards out, with three minutes left in the period.

O'Neil attempted another from 34 yards with four minutes to play, but the kick fell short against the wind.

The Redmen then took over on the 20 and made their last spurt of 1966. Landry completed passes to Mike Casey, Don Durkin and an important fourth-down pass to Detore during the drive. But with the ball on the B.C. 33 on second-and-10, a pass intended for Bill Carty was picked off by Eagle cornerback John Salmon. Salmon was finally pushed out of bounds at the Redman 30, and B.C. ran out the clock.

* * *

Although ticket officials had expected for a year that the game would be a sell-out, only 16,700 showed up. The UM student attendance was about, 7,500.

The 4,000 representatives from Boston College made their presence known. "This was our most satisfying victory since the Syracuse game two years ago," said Reid Oslin, sports editor of the Boston College Heights. "And the guys wanted to win this one even more than the Holy Cross game."

The Eagles meet the Crusaders next week at Chestnut Hill in the traditional showdown.

* * *

Seniors playing their last game for UMass were tackles Bill Connor, Ed Toner, and Dick Qualey, linebackers Rod Brooks, Paul Campbell and Bob Gogick, quarterback Al Caruso, and halfbacks Bob Detore, Bob Ellis, and Dave Giarla. Other seniors on the team are tackle John Boyle, center John Clair, and two members of the injury last, safety Ed Cody and Dick Benoit.

* * *

Sophomore Tim Driscoll, showing some fine moves with excellent balance, was the top UM rusher with 46 yards in 14 tries. McCarthy, the vaunted Eagle fullback, had only 52 yards in 12 carries.

B.C. quarterback Marzetti, a soph who usually works from the roll-out, stayed back in the pocket on pass plays and had a mere 5-for-21 showing on completions.

Casey caught four passes for 40 yards, Detore three for 54, Carty three for 30 and Durkin two for 17.

* * *

Coach Fusia, who now leaves on a recruiting trip, owns a record of 40 wins, 14 losses and one tie in six seasons as Redman grid boss.

* * *

Landry not only set a season passing record, but also broke his own school record of 134 rushing attempts in one season. At the final whistle he had run for 174 carries.

The junior signalcaller is the first UM quarterback to have over 2,000 yards passing in a career. He has 2,140. He is the second to chalk up over 3,000 career total offensive yards (3,044). Landry's predecessor, Whelchel, holds the record with 3,426 yards.

Annual Hoop Attraction

Varsity vs. Frosh; Alumni Tilt, Too

UMass basketball fans can get a preview of this year's Redmen as well as a glimpse of some of the all-time UMass greats as the second annual Alumni Night is held at the Cage on Monday, November 28.

In the first game, Jack Leaman's varsity will clash with Pete Broaca's freshman team in the last tuneup before the big opener with Boston College at the Cage on December 3. Game time will be 7 p.m.

Immediately following the varsity-frosh game, two alumni teams will tangle on the hardcourt in a nostalgia-filled contest. Some of the greatest players ever to don Massachusetts uniforms will be on hand.

Leading the cast will be the number one and two scorers in UMass history, Clarence Hill and Doug Grutchfield. Hill set a season record last year with 554 points, and a career record of 1,369 for three years. Grutchfield, a 1961 graduate, held the previous record.

Peter Bernard, one of the most exciting players in Redman history, will be there as well as Rodger Twitchell. Those two players led UMass to the Yankee Conference title in 1962-63. Also there will be George "Trigger" Burke, now a state representative, and Dave Bartley, a state senator.

Other former greats slated to play are Charlie Fohlin, Jack Foley, Bob Foote, Charlie Kingston, Charlie LaPierre, Peter Larkin, Jim Laughnane, Charlie O'Rourke, John Pomfret, Franz Von Brodsky and John Widdison.

It promises to be a fun-filled night. Admission will be 50 cents for students and $1.00 for non-students. All proceeds will go to the Varsity "M" Club, which is sponsoring the event.

Clarence Hill . . .
Scoring King Returns to Cage

INTRAMURALS

Redwoods Shine in Hoop Action

by TOM CONUEL

Although the intramural basketball season is still young, several teams appear to have strong well-balanced outfits. One team that looks strong is the Redwoods who won again Thursday night. They downed the Seagrams, 49-28. Crechonski led the Redwood attack with 14 points and 9 rebounds.

Spartans rolling over the Academics, 43-31. Maloney sparked the Spartans with 20 points. The Terrors stopped the Senators, 39-33, in a rugged test. Rosoff paced the winners with 25 points, while teammate McCutcheon grabbed 14 rebounds.

The Trojans were able to nudge the Bulldozers, 34-29, while the Birches felled the Monuments, 39-33. Tufts and Carlsen controlled the backboards for the Birches in their win.

Rounding out the dorm action the Elms smashed the Hicks, 49-30. Dan O'Conner led the Elms' attack with 20 points. The Flaming A's edged the Smashers, 34-27, while the Apples defeated the Hemlocks, 35-28.

In th Independent League, last year's campus champs, the Untouchables, are back and look as unbeatable as ever. They rolled over the Zeroes, 69-30, with Shea high scorer with 24 points. The Chem Club topped the Solossos in a low-scoring contest, 29-18.

Stephenson's 18 points helped the Brethren nudge the Independents, 30-28, while the Trojans smashed the MCC's, 55-24. The Imps downed the Lucky 13's, 38-32, and the Toads blitzed APO, 44-27.

WIND GROUNDS . . .

(Continued from page 16)

harassed by Gordie Kutz, the Eagles' defensive end. Nevertheless he moved the Redmen well, particularly in the second half. On his last throw of the year, which was intercepted by John Salmon, Greg was hit while releasing the ball.

The junior quarterback set two records in the game. He now has 168 career pass completions, breaking Jerry Welchel's record. He also set a season record for rush attempts with 174.

Thus ended a 6-3 season for UMass, a fine record considering the handicaps that the Redmen played under. "I'm happy with the year we had," Fusia said, "considering we played with limited depth, limited speed and many injuries. When you win as many games as we did in the fourth quarter, this reflects a true competitor."

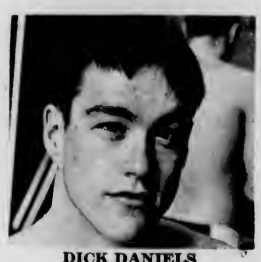
Looking ahead to next year, Fusia said that the greatest losses will come at one linebacker spot and the tackles on defense, with the graduation of Rod Brooks, Dick Qualey and Ed Toner. But there have been many other bright spots.

Record Setters, Talented Sophs Lift Swim Hopes

by JERRY KASSOY
Sports Staff

Coach Joe Rogers, entering his 35th year of coaching the UMass swim team, will present a sophomore-studded squad in hopes of a winning season. The squad also has eight returning lettermen including four school record holders coming back from last year's team, which set seven out of 10 varsity swimming records.

Leading the team this year is Captain Dick Lennon, the University record holder in the 200-yard breaststroke. The ace from Lynn is a versatile performer and Coach Rogers is presently uncertain of which events Lennon will compete in.



Other returning seniors are hard-working Steve Levy, holder of the 200-yard butterfly mark; Chip Wyser, a fine freestyler; Ted Severn, a good breaststroker; and Norm Lovitch, a steady performer in distance events. Lennon, Levy, Wyser, and junior Ken Nowak also comprise the medley.

Nowak, Wyser, and the multi-talented Lennon make up three-fourths of the unit which broke the school freestyle relay mark last season, but trying to replace last year's Captain Dick Daniels is no easy task for Rogers. The team's divers are well set with Rick D'Andrea and Dave Larson.

Notable members of last year's freshman team, which established seven out of 10 frosh marks, are Tony Cassis, a distance man; "Flip" Morton, a freestyler; Dave Keating, a breaststroker; and prep-school All-American Bob Asquith who can be called upon in a number of events.

Coach Rogers says, "We should have a good varsity," while Captain Lennon goes further in saying, "We've got a good team with a great coach and we're going to go places. That's a promise."

The mermen open their season on December 3 against Tufts with the first home meet on the 7th against cross-town rival Amherst.

DICK DANIELS
Tough man to replace

Redmen Bow, 14-7, to B.C. In Thrilling Finale; End 6-3

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Staff

Suspense, the spice that makes it all worthwhile, has given flavor all season long to the weekly feast of UMass gridiron epicures. The last course was Saturday at Alumni Stadium, and although the Redmen showed their characteristic second-half flourish, Boston College emerged with a 14-7 victory.

So the spice that made it all worthwhile left the gourmets with a bitter taste. The Redmen wound up with a 6-3 record, beating all five Yankee Conference flies and Boston University, but bowing to Dartmouth, Holy Cross and B.C.

The game did have its bright moments for the Redmen. Greg Landry, who only Thursday rejoined his mates at practice after a week-long bout with a virus, set an all-time UMass passing record. With a sub-par, 12 for 30 performance, he established a new mark of 168 career completions, breaking ..the old record of 160, set by Jerry Whelchel two years ago. ....

The Redmen held the upper hand in first downs, 18-10, and in total offense, 208 yards to 185. But of course it's not how the statistics appear, but whether you win or loose.

"Opponent is Worse"

Just this week Coach Fusia reiterated the most basic principle of athletic competition — "You don't really win on your own merits; you win because your opponent is worse." One mistake by the Redmtn helped the Eagles to an early 5-0 lead. Safety Dave Giarla picked up a B.C. punt on his own one-yard line and was nailed in the end zone for a two-point safety by Jim Kavanagh and Paul Della Villa.

B.C.'s Jim Grace returned the ensuing kickoff 28 yards to the UM 34, and five plays later, Mike O'Neil booted a 34-yd. field goal with only 36 seconds left in the first period. It was O'Neil's first three - pointer in four tries this year.

The Eagles were beating the Redmen at their own game — position football. And the answer to that fact, my friend, was blowing in the wind. The Redmen seemed to be victimized by a stiff southerly breeze.

Punting Woes

Nick Warnock of UM punted three times against the wind in the first quarter—for seven, 24 and 14 yards, in that order. Meanwhile the Redman attack was having its troubles against the head - hunters from the Heights. So UM spent the period backed up against the south scoreboard.

The Redmen had the wind in the second quarter, but Warnock punted only once, for 44 yards. UM moved the ball 60 yards in 19 plays late in the period. Bruce Cochrane's 27 - yard field try, however, was wide to the left in the last minute, and Jim Miller's men still led, 5-0, at the half.

Warnock again battled the breeze in the third period. After

(Continued on page 15)

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

sports

MONDAY, NOV. 21, 1966

Page 16 Vol. XCV, No. 27

Statistics

	UM	BC
First Downs	18	10
Passes	12-30	5-21
Interceptions by	0	2
Yards Passing	141	65
Yards Rushing	67	120
Total Yards	208	185
Punts	8-21.2	6-30.3
Yards Penalized	15	52
Fumbles Lost	0	0

Photo by Wish

B.C. quarterback Joe Marzetti rolls around left end, followed by Roger Prefontaine (68) and Dick Qualey (78).

Photo by Seiniger

Greg Landry is run out of bounds by a B.C. player with Bill Stetz (55) also in pursuit.

B.C. Coach Lauds Redmen

by GLENN BRIERE

Boston College coach Jim Miller stood in the Eagles' locker room after Saturday's game, and from the look on his face it was as if he had just beaten Holy Cross.

He likened the B.C. win over UMass to a win over the Crusaders, since both schools are state rivals. Miller, winding up his fifth season as head coach of the Eagles, has had a rough fall but a win over Holy Cross next week combined with this one over the Redmen may assuage the B.C. alumni.

Praises UMass Defense

"UMass played with a lot of intent," he said. "It was a battle all the way." Like Vic Fusia, Miller said that the wind helped his team more than anything else. He called the Redmen a "good defensive club, hard to run against."

"We went into this game in tough shape physically," he continued. "We've had tough luck all season. We needed this win." Looking ahead to Holy Cross, Miller said that the Eagles should be stronger than in the past few weeks.

He believes that the UMass-B.C. series will develop into a fine rivalry. "It was hard fought, and UM deserves a lot of credit."

B.C.'s Miller:

"A battle all the way."

Coaches' Comments

UMass' Fusia:

"Percentages didn't work out."

Wind Grounds Redmen; Eagles Fly With Help of Punts, Interceptions

by GLENN BRIERE
Sports Day Editor

An ill wind blew out of the north and helped send the Redmen down to defeat against Boston College Saturday. It was a tough loss for UMass who had hoped to upset the Eagles and gain a measure of status in the East.

The game was expected to be close, and it was. UMass moved reasonably well against the big B.C. defense, but two Eagle interceptions and a missed field goal attempt stymied the Redmen on three of their drives.

Both UMass coach and his B.C. counterpart, Jim Miller, agreed that the stiff 20-m.p.h. breeze which chilled the 16,700 spectators was a major factor in the game. "When they had the wind against them," Fusia noted, "it didn't hurt them." On the other hand, it kept the Redmen in bad field position when they had the ball.

Part of Fusia's game plan was to wait for the wind at his team's back. He said, "We jockeyed for wind position, never figuring to be in minus territory in the fourth quarter."

Much of his strategy was built on a confidence that the Redmen would score later while holding the Boston College offense. In explaining why he went for a field goal at the end of the first half instead of going for a touchdown, Fusia said, "I didn't think they (B.C.) were capable of scoring in the fourth quarter. We wanted to get up on the board right away." He was looking ahead to the fourth quarter when UMass would have a favorable wind.

He used the same reasoning to explain why, after the Redmen's touchdown in the third quarter, he elected to go for the kick instead of the two points which would have made it 11-8. "I was confident we would score again," he said. "I played the percentages. They just didn't work out."

Punting turned out to be a key to B.C.'s victory. Five of Nick Warnock's punts were into the wind and hardly went at all, giving the Eagles excellent field position. Consequently the Redmen spent much of the game in their own territory. It was a Boston College punt that caused the safety in the first quarter.

On the subject of the first quarter, Fusia said that UMass "literally gave away five points." It is hard to say whether Dave Giarla fielded the punt on the goal line out of overeagerness or because he thought it was not going to bounce into the end zone. At any rate, the safety set up the subsequent Eagle field goal for B.C.'s initial 5-0 lead.

Quarterback Praised

Fusia praised the performance of Greg Landry, who was just recovering from a touch of the flu. Landry was consistently

(Continued on page 15)

Photo by Seiniger

DESPERATION—Greg Landry gets pass away just before he is swarmed by Jim Grace (12) and Gordie Kutz (83).

INDEX
Draft 2
Sam Spark 4
Peanuts 5, 7
PP&M Review . 6
'66 Redmen 12

THE MASSACHUSETTS
collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

URC
Forum
Page 5

VOL. XCV, NO. 28 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1966

SAFETY: FIRST OR LAST AT UMASS?

LIGHTING: LOW ON THE LIST

by MARGIE FLANDERS, Day Editor

Recent problems with temporary lighting near the police station, in the Southwest Complex have been corrected by a new walk and more lights. But there are still areas of the Southwest Complex which are relatively unlighted, notables the road which leads from the complex to the Amherst Creamery.

According to Harry S. Hugill, director of the Physical Plant, the University requested the Building Authority to provide lighting for the Southwest area and the new boulevard, but the builder's contract hasn't yet been fulfilled. Thus, no lights were installed.

Photo by Kelly
In center of campus, lonely coed walks with adequate lighting.

Photo by Kelly
In dorm areas, she walks alone in the darkness.

Eventually, the new boulevard, which runs in front of the complex, will be extended cross-campus, out to North Pleasant Street. This, when funded by the legislature, will be completely lighted, Hugill said.

In the interim, he continued, lights have been rented from the Western Mass. Electric Company and should be installed in the Southwest parking lot and the next to SBA within a few weeks.

Otherwise, according to Hugill, no concrete plans have been made for lighting. To light the campus, and to do it correctly, is a slow and costly process, he said.

"We want to do it permanently and by a standard design," commented Hugill. Eventually, all the walkways on campus will be lit by an antique design lantern which is presently adorning the front of the Student Union. The boulevard and roadways will be illuminated by lanterns of a gooseneck design.

It is estimated that to completely relight the campus will cost at least a half-million dollars.

Hugill added that there has been little student cooperation with the existing lighting. It seems that students have been managing to break "unbreakable" lights.

POLICE RATIO 2:10,000

Colonel John Marchant, Director of University Security, stated today that only two police officers are allotted at any given time to patrol the entire campus of 10,000 residents. While on duty these officers are responsible for unlocked offices, responding to accidents, acting as an ambulance service, providing security for money, and tagging cars.

A bill is being presented by Senator Larry Marcus to the Student Senate to recommend to the University Security that police substations be established in the Quad and Hill areas.

Marcus based his study on the population density of the four largest cities in Massachusetts in ratio to their number of police stations. In comparison to these statistics, the University ratio is seven to one behind these cities.

According to Col. Marchant, there does not appear to be any need for additional officers. With the new residence hall fire and security guard system now in full operation, he feels that the campus is sufficiently patrolled.

But any attempt to expand the campus police force is limited by the Fiscal Autonomy Act, he continued. This act states that any extra police officers have to be hired from existing university personnel, the colonel said.

Security guards on duty in the dormitories have no police power, they are only guards, Col. Marchant said. The only arrests they can make are citizens' arrests. Thus they call the police for major disturbances, he explained.

Thus far there has not been any valid evidence of existing need of additional officers, Marchant related. No attacks or prowlers have been officially reported to either Marchant or the University police, he stated.

Unless students involved in these incidents report them to authorities, nothing can be done about proving the need

(Continued on page 10)

A rumor that there have been a series of attacks and rapes on UMass coeds cannot be verified by the Collegian.

According to the University News Office and Dr. Robert W. Gage at the Infirmary, a single off-campus attack has managed to snowball into a rumored series of rapes on campus.

Extensive coverage of this single assault by the Hampshire Gazette coupled with the standard warnings to females about walking alone at night have given the impression of a number of attacks, according to police officials both on and off-campus.

The Collegian recognizes the possibility that such an attack may occur on campus. Therefore, the Collegian attempts to report on lighting and police protection on campus, two of the major contributors or deterents to such problems.

Medical School Receives Preliminary Accreditation

The UMass Medical School has received preliminary accreditation from the Association of American Medical Colleges, it was announced last week at the University's Board of Trustees meeting in Boston.

Dr. Lamar Soutter, Dean of the UMass Medical School, reported to the trustees on a letter received from Dr. Cheves McC. Smythe, Secretary of the Liaison Committee on Medical Education and Associate Director of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

The letter said, in part, "The University of Massachusetts School of Medicine was formally voted into Provisional Membership in the Association of American Medical Colleges at the meeting of the Institutional Members on Monday, October 24, 1966.

"According to our records your school was surveyed on May 24-25, 1966 and a favorable report returned. This report was approved by the Executive Council of the Association of American Medical Colleges on Sept. 13, 1966 and the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association on Sept. 23.

"A letter of reasonable assurance was mailed from this office to Mr. Gordon Howe, the Commissioner of Education on November 9, 1966."

The letter of reassurance to Commissioner Howe was sent in support of the medical school's application for construction funds under the Health Professions Education Assistance Act.

University President John W. Lederle, commenting on the accreditation said, "We owe the Governor and Legislature a debt of gratitude. When it looked as if accreditation was threatened, Governor Volpe immediately called a meeting

(Continued on page 10)

Dear Advertiser,

As of December 9 the Collegian Advertising staff will experiment with a new policy to better serve our advertisers. The new advertising deadline will be the Friday previous to the week of insertion. There will be a qualified staffer in the office to help you, if necessary, or to give you ideas when you place your insertion order. All advertising must be brought in only on that Friday and there will be no exceptions.

It is our earnest hope that this new policy will be successful, thus helping you to get your "money's worth" from your advertising.

The Advertising Staff

All Nighters?

Security Program in Operation

According to University officials the security program involving Fire and Safety Guards as well as student receptionists is in full operation.

The residences have been divided into six areas as follows:

Area I: Field, Grayson, Webster, Dickinson.

Area II: Baker, Chadbourne, Greenough, Van Meter, Butterfield.

Area III: Hills, Gorman, Wheeler, Mills, Brett, Brooks.

Area IV: Knowlton, Hamlin, Crabtree, Leach, Mary Lyons, Dwight, Thatcher, Lewis Johnson.

Area V: Towers.

Area VI: Low Rise Southwest.

Each of these areas is patrolled regularly from 11 p.m.-7 a.m. seven nights a week by a Fire and Security Guard.

These Fire and Security Guards are in contact by radio with the Police Sergeant on duty at the Police Station from 11 p.m.-7 a.m. seven nights a week. The Sergeant on duty is in full charge of Campus Security during these hours.

In addition, security student receptionists are on duty in each dorm from closing time until 2 a.m. and in some cases 3 a.m.

At least one dorm in each area has a security student receptionist on duty all night until 7 a.m. This gives the students in each area a means of contacting the Fire and Security Guard through the police sergeant.

This way students can gain entrance into their residence halls regardless of the time that they arrive back on campus.

The following Residence Halls are open all night: Webster, Van Meter, Chadbourne, Brooks, Kennedy, Hills, James, John Adams, Washington, and Arnold House.

Photo by Boliver
Large crowd enjoys pre-Thanksgiving concert of Peter, Paul, and Mary. For review, see page 6.

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

Although some may disagree, a thorough knowledge of the synthesis of 2, 4, 6 Tribromobentene is essential to leading a full and productive life.

Interior Design

A NEW MAJOR ON CAMPUS

by SUSAN RUCKSTUHL

The Home Economics Department is organizing a new major in Interior Design. Mr. Paston, who teaches the beginning interior design course, said that interior design probably will be offered as a major by the 1967-68 academic year.

Presently students interested in interior design take Water Color, House Planning, History of Decorative Arts, Interior Design, and Advanced Interior Design courses along with most of the Fashion Merchandising requirements.

Interior Design, Textile Clothing and Environmental Arts (T.C.E.A.) 279, deals with basic concepts in interior design. Mr. Paston said his course emphasizes design, not decorating.

The course is based on the application of design principles to problems and seeking out the best solutions available, instead of accepting the commonplace.

At the end of the course the students should be able to implement their ideas of design to interior design using their own ideas.

As part of T.C.E.A. 279 the students are tested on some of the information in Interiors and Home Beautiful magazines.

Students also study the seven major interior designers in the U.S. However Interior Design is mostly studio work as opposed to studying and taking exams.

Near the end of this semester the students will be designing in a particular period such as Japanese or Early American, thus bringing in all the elements characteristic of their project's period.

The class will be taking a field trip to Boston later in the semester. The students will tour showrooms of better stores of textiles, wall coverings, furnishings, and lights. In the spring the interior design department will go to the National Design Center, New York City.

By the end of the semester each student will have completed a file of brochures, catalogs, and material swatches relating to home planning and decorating.

Each student will also gain experience in elevations, speck charts, renderings and cost analyses.

A portfolio will be completed by each student at the end of the semester containing projects showing they can handle various design exercises. This can be used when applying for jobs after graduation.

A future plan is to offer on-the-job training for Interior Design majors, working with interior designers and in studios. This would give students excellent contacts in the interior design field.

Cost of Education

Survey Reveals College Expenses Rising

College is getting more expensive for most students.

Students at three of every four state colleges and universities are paying more this year for tuition, fees, room and board than they paid last year.

Results of a survey of the 97 members of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges and of the 206 members of the Association of State Colleges and Universities (ASCU) were presented today to the first joint meeting of the two organizations by their jointly sponsored Office of Institutional Research.

Members of the two higher education groups enroll about one half of all students in the nation's colleges and universities.

Tuition figures are up about 7 per cent with the most dramatic rise in costs to out-of-state students. Two years ago only nine state university and land-grant college members charged non-residents $900 or more. The number this year has jumped to 33.

The median yearly most of tuition, room and board for in-state student living at the public institutions was about $1000. For out-of-state students it ranged from about $1200 at ASCU schools to $1500 at the state university and land-grant college group.

The highest tuitions are found in the East and Midwest. Cornell University leads the list followed in order by the University of Vermont, University of New Hampshire, Rutgers University (N.J.), Miami University (Ohio), Kent State University (Ohio), Ohio University, Clemson University (S.C.), University of Virginia and Pennsylvania State University.

The University Park campus of Penn State reduced out-of-state tuition, however, by $300. Institutions ranging from the University of Connecticut in the East to the University of Nebraska in the Midwest and the University of Washington in the West held the line.

Room and board increases varied widely with the hardest hit being women at ASCU schools. For them, room costs were up 15 per cent and food charges up 7 per cent.

STUDENT SENATE

The Student Senate comes to you tonight. It will convene at 7:30 at S.W. dining commons 5.

This is your chance to see the Student Senate in action under the able leadership of Pres. John Greenquist.

There will be an advanced interior design course offered second semester. This course, which is a problem-solution course, will be taught on an individual basis.

Each student will be assigned a commercial project of his choice, such as a lounge, or restaurant, following the study all the way to the cost analysis.

Graduates of Interior Design can work in many different situations. Opportunities include merchandising in a showroom, working with architects, as decorating consultants for department stores, at window displays and interior displays, or free lancing.

Differing Opinions Promote Confusion About Draft

A vast majority of Americans may favor drafting young men for military service, recent Lou Harris polls indicate, but not many of the experts at the Nov. 11-12 National Conference on the Draft in Washington, D.C. could agree on how it should be done.

What few initial objections there were to conscription itself were snowed by the apparent impossibility of raising our present army through volunteers.

The draft itself has not supplied the military with more than a "residual" number of men since 1948, according to Dr. Harold Wool, the Pentagon's Director for Procurement Policy, but it poses a definite "spur" to enlistments.

Wool said he doubted whether financial inducements alone could attract enough volunteers. To maintain an army of the present proportions, he indicated, a large number of men would be needed who are "basically not inclined to military service careers." Beyond a certain point, pay increases would not bring in significantly more people, Wool explained.

"It is argued that we need a draft to supply our large army," one said, "but it is just as valid to say that we have such an army only because it is able to conscript otherwise unwilling citizens."

A poll prepared for the conference by Lou Harris indicated definite public preferences on the direction Selective Service reform, if there is to be any, should take.

By nearly 4-1, however, people favor the idea of a universal service program for all young men between 18 and 26, under which they could choose between a 2-year stint in the armed forces, the Peace Corps, or some other public service.

While much of the conference's attention focused on such alternatives to selective military conscription, some of the delegates said they would be satisfied with changes in the present law, or that a few changes may be all that will prove politically feasible.

Not everyone was as disenchanted with selective classification, however. Representatives from several scientific organizations advocated continuation of deferments and even institution of exemptions for students and employees in critical skill areas.

Pointing to the rapid expansion of knowledge in these fields, one biologist noted that a young scientist may fall hopelessly behind if he takes several years out in the beginning of his career. "Training with a short half-life had better be interrupted before it begins," he said.

Others sought to have all student and occupational deferments abolished, pointing out that such deferments often amount to de facto exemptions which they claim are unfair to those who lacked the opportunity to study.

Besides, several educators noted, in most fields a break in the college years makes students much fresher on their return.

To combat the uncertainty inherent in the system when, during peacetime, the induction age can climb to 24 or higher, many delegates advocated drafting youngest registrants first. Besides, several argued, field commanders prefer younger troops as they are more amenable to military discipline and training.

SKI INSTRUCTORS

Weekend positions available for skiers to instruct high school boys and girls. Prior instruction experience not required. Good compensation.

Excellent Ski Facilities

Shaker Village Ski Group

Write or call:

P.O. Box 1149, Pittsfield, Mass.

Lebanon Springs, (N.Y.)—7-1255

TICKETS NOW ON SALE FOR UNIVERSITY THEATRE'S

"A THURBER CARNIVAL"

Dec. 7, 8, 9, 10

Bowker Auditorium

Call Student Union, Box Office

545-2006

Gen. Admission $1.50 Students $1.00

MARIE'S YARN SHOPPE

Rear entrance to Flavortown Upstairs

Patterns—all styles

Yarn—all weights & colors

Summer vacation is coming slowly,

But reservations are going fast

Make yours now for

EUROPE

Only $285.00 Jet-round trip

N.Y.C. to London or Paris

Contact: Dick Bloom, 253-2893

Alan Fisher, 549-0398

Things go better with Studd

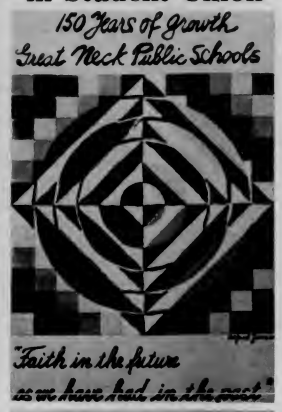
The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:



$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:

Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Poster Exhibit in Student Union

Photos by Boliver

University Theatre Presents
'A Thurber Carnival'

The distilled wit and wisdom of the late James Thurber will be presented by the University of Massachusetts Theatre in A Thurber Carnival, Dec. 7, 8, 9 and 10 at 8:15 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

The revue, first produced at the ANTA Theatre in New York in 1960, is a gathering of 12 Thurber stories and sketches with a four-man jazz combo playing between the scenes and a "word dance" by the entire cast at the beginning and the end.

Included are such classic Thurber sketches as The Night the Bell Fell, The Secret Life of Walter Mitty, If Grant had been Drinking at Appomattox, and others. The staging and acting is deliberately two-dimensional in style, in an attempt to approach the flat, black-and-white feeling of a Thurber cartoon.

A Thurber Carnival is directed by Vincent C. Brann, UMass assistant professor of speech who produced last year's Six Times Four for UMass Theatre. Settings are by Keith Michael, faculty designer.

The cast members, all of whom play several roles, are Elizabeth Corea of Hingham, Christine Crowley of Norwood, Jon Hutton of Arlington, Laurence Kornfield of Kensington, Md., James Luippold of Greenfield, Maralynne Nathanson of Medford, Raymond Poole of Chicopee, Judith Webb of Scituate and John Walker of Sutton.

A Thurber Carnival is the second production this year for University of Massachusetts Theatre, operated as part of the educational program of the UMass speech department. Tickets for the production are on sale at the UMass S. U. Ticket Office.

HOMEWORK BY COMPUTER?

Computer Systems Center Go

by Jacqueline Finlay

Students next fall will be doing their homework on UMass' two-and-a-half-million dollar computer.

Dr. Caxton Foster, director of the research Computer Center, is working on a project to connect buildings at the three UMass campuses — Amherst, Worcester and Boston—as well as the other members of the Four-College cooperative with the 3600 computer.

According to Dr. Foster, the main purpose of the "UMass System," as it will be called, is to permit professors and students to carry out research projects and other work with the help of the computer. Although program editing and storage facilities will be provided by this system a student will be allowed only limited day-to-day storage for programs he may be developing.

The system may also be used to obtain programs and information, and the users will be able to hand in programs developed for course work by adding to the intructor's file. "Computer science classes, such as 121, will be able to do their homework on the 3600," said Dr. Foster.

He went on to explain that public teletypes will transmit information to the 3600 through a machine called a PDP-8 (Program Data Processing). Answers will be routed back through the PDP-8 to the original teletype unit. Teletypes will service points within a five-mile radius of the computer center. More distant points will be connected to it by special telephones.

Because the 3600 is already owned by the University, and Dr. Foster and his associates are putting the rest of the system together, the project cost will be greatly reduced.

"Other colleges have already initiated computer systems such as this," added Dr. Foster. "Dartmouth has one, and then there's MIT's Project MAC."

Relatively few of UMass' 13,000 students will be able to use the computer for homework next fall (especially since a knowledge of programming is required), but the time will come, Dr. Foster believes, when such automation will be available to all students.

COLLEGIANS
May Be Picked Up
at Lobby Counter

The Distinguished Visitors Program

Applications are now available in the R.S.O. office and should be returned to the R.S.O. office by December 7. Anyone interested is urged to apply.

The Distinguished Visitors Program is financed and operated by the undergraduate students of the University of Massachusetts for the purpose of keeping the university community sensitive to the world in which it exists. In accordance with this purpose, it seeks to bring to the campus those persons whose experience in international and domestic affairs, the sciences, the humanities and the arts qualify them to interpret, explain and raise questions about life in all its dimensions. Furthermore, the Distinguished Visitors Program seeks to stimulate critical thought and debate by presenting a balanced range of opinion with respect to a given issue.

VISTA Seeks Volunteers

Photo by Donovan

The two persons behind the desk are recruiters for VISTA. They will be looking for volunteers to serve at one of 300 different projects. They will be at the Student Union Lobby until 5 p.m. today.

In the Cheyenne language the word for help is "vista." To many underprivileged Americans VISTA (Volunteers In Service to America) is help. Until 5 p.m. today two recruiters will be on campus looking for volunteers.

The program was set up to be the domestic Peace Corps. However, the VISTA volunteers have just as big a job as the Peace Corps Volunteers.

The VISTA volunteers begin their term with a six week training program. They are then assigned to one of the 300 projects throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, for a term of one year.

The projects are located in urban slums, rural areas, Indian reservations, migrant camps, Job Corps centers, and mental hospitals. The volunteer can choose the field he wants and the area he wants to serve in.

Free Taxi to Plaza

by TOM DONOVAN, Senior Reporter

"We are student oriented to a large extent so why not give the student the means to get here?" This typified one store manager's sentiments as the Campus Plaza last week initiated a free student taxi service between the Rt. 9 plaza and the UMass campus.

According to C. L. Hopwood, manager of McCrory's, the new system will make possible between-class and weekend shopping as well as providing weather-proof transportation to and from the popular shopping center.

The system is not set up so the student need only call a special local telephone which will alert the Amherst Taxi Co. to pick him up at his dorm and deliver him to the Campus Plaza.

After shopping, the student can either wait for the VW bus to arrive on one of its scheduled runs or he may call again for another free pick-up and return.

The free taxi hours are: 3-6 p.m., Fri. and 11 a.m.-6 p.m., Sat.

YD's To Sponsor Senator Ryan

Recently elected State Senator Donald Ryan, brother of Mayor Charles V. Ryan of Springfield, will speak at the Young Democrats meeting this evening at 8:30 in the Middlesex Room.

In his campaign, Ryan stressed specific issues, in particular the streamlining of the State Legislature, implementation of the Crime Commission recommendations, fairer distribution of welfare costs through their assumption by the State rather than by cities which alone are now bearing the whole cost, and a more equal distribution of tax moneys now siphoned from outlying districts for use on Greater Boston projects.

Mr. Ryan is a graduate of Fordham University and is presently Democratic State Committeeman for the Hampden District. His talk tonight will be on the future of the Democratic Party in Massachusetts.

Upcoming plans for the Young Democrats include the National Young Democrats Washington Trip and Seminar Program which will be held Jan. 26-29. The trip includes a tour of the White House, Supreme Court, Arlington Cemetery, and many other sights of the capitol city. There will be seminars featuring nationally known government, labor and civil rights leaders, and a luncheon with Senator Robert Kennedy of New York. The trip is opened to the University Community. Anyone interested may call Janice Bouba at 546-6554.

SUPERIORITY COMPLEX NOW SELLING FOR .50

So you're not a football hero, a big Brain, or a hot Hot-rodder. You can still be top man in the Girl Department!...if you let SHORT CUT take control of your top! It'll shape up the toughest crew cut, brush cut, any cut; give it life, body, manageability. Give you the best-looking hair around —and a feeling of natural superiority. So get with it! Get Old Spice SHORT CUT Hair Groom by Shulton... tube or jar, only .50 plus tax.

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

The Night Light Fight

by Jack Dean, Day Editor

We—the students and administration—have a problem. It is a student problem because students are affected, and it is an administrative problem because the administration is responsible for its solution.

There are rumors of attacks and rapes circulating the campus. University officials claim they "snowballed from a single off-campus attack".

And although rumors themselves are not a basis for an editorial, the circumstances which bring them into being definitely are. It would seem that these rumors are based on the student body's ever-increasing awareness of the poor lighting and scanty police protection afforded the campus.

There is only one word to describe the night lighting situation on this campus—poor. It's unfortunate—and rather ridiculous—that with all the construction now underway, outdoor lighting has such low priority.

While the lighting around the Southwest highway construction has somewhat improved, the rest of the complex is still suffering. And what about the rest of the campus? The girls' Quad, for a very good example? Or the route from SBA to Southwest?

It's also rather disheartening to discover that our dorm security guards have no police authority, but are merely simple citizens the same as we. This in effect makes them as useless as a paraplegic lifeguard. A campus this size should have seven times a many police, according to research done by student senator Larry Marcus. And there is no good reason on this earth why they should have to be hired from among present university employees.

Our problem, then, is this: There should be no reason for co-eds to fear walking the campus alone at night . . . yet right now there is. And steps should be taken immediately to cope with the situation:

1) Red tape should be cut, and improved campus-wide lighting should be given top priority.
2) Police protection should be increased so that it is reasonably proportional to the number of students on campus.
3) Some central facility, such as the Student Union or library, should remain open until 2 a.m.—not merely to provide a place for study and recreation, but also to dispell some of the fears which are a reaction to a campus which "dies" after 11 p.m.

In considering the importance of these recommendations, it is well to remember that today's rumor may become tomorrow's reality. And if by any chance these are something more than just rumors; and if university authorities are withholding information "in our interest"; then the problem is more acute, more complicated, than we suspect.

A false sense of security is an invitation to trouble.

Sam Sparc Speaks Out
How Is It—Really?

The question of whether doors should be left open or closed during an open house when one is entertaining members of the opposite sex has aroused the interest of nearly everyone on campus. Dean Hopkins even issued a memorandum stating that doors should be left wide open.

In an effort to find out how the students reacted to this policy, I interviewed the typical UMie for his views on the subject.

* * * *

"Of course I leave my door open during open house. After all, what are open houses for?"

"That's a good question," said I. "What are they for?"

"Why to have a pleasant conversation with your date in a homey atmosphere. Also your date may want to examine your walls, floor, and ceiling to see how they compare with hers."

"Isn't there any other reason for an open house?" I asked innocently.

"Offhand, I can't think of any others," he replied.

I eyed him nervously and then finally spewed forth what had been on my mind.

"I've heard that some guys use the open house as a place to bring their dates so that they can hold hands and sometimes even kiss in private."

He was stunned. I could tell I had offended him. I apologized and explained that I just had to find out if there was any truth to these stories.

He appeared a little more at ease and said, "I've heard those ugly rumors too. But I can assure you, there's no truth to them. Everybody I know keeps his door open when he has a girl in the room."

I must admit I was disappointed. It appeared that all those stories I'd heard about rampant illicet sex during open houses were untrue. But I decided to make one last-ditch effort.

"Don't you know of even one guy closing his door with a date in the room?" I pleaded.

Suddenly it struck him. "Oh yeah. The first open house of the year. There was a guy on our floor who was caught sitting on the edge of his bed with his arm around his date and repeatedly kissing her—on the lips!"

"Oh no!" I said, horrified. "What did you do to this criminal?"

"We were going to have him thrown out of school, but we decided his character was salvageable; so we had a section meeting and pointed out how corny it was to leave his door closed. Eventually he saw the light and promised never to do it again."

"Did anyone else find out about it?"

"No thank the Lord. We were lucky this time. But everyone in the section is going to make sure it doesn't happen again. You know, its guys like that who can ruin the reputation of an entire dormitory."

"I agree," I said, as I wiped a tear away from my eye. "Thank you for telling me how it really is."

MR. PRESIDENT!

To the Editor:

Once again the responsible administration of the University has dealt in good faith with its students. Last Monday the board of trustees voted to approve the addition of a $10 graduation fee to the second semester bills of 1,851 seniors. No attempt was made to consult any of the officers or members of the senior class or the appropriate officers of the student senate. The administration simply needed revenue and went to the quickest and least powerful of revenue sources—the students.

We feel that this action was both arbitrary and inappropriate. The senior class is already paying for graduation invitations, alumni dues ($5,000) and caps and gowns. They have nothing to say about the conduct of the ceremony, the awarding of honorary degrees, or the commencement speaker. Now the administration is asking the senior class and all classes following to have the same limited say in graduation affairs but pay the whole bill.

We realize that a $10 fee is small compared to the graduation fees of such universities as Cornell or UCLA. However, we strenuously object to the secretive actions of the administration in establishing it. Taxation without representation in a democratic society is reprehensible; lack of open discussion regarding issues of this magnitude in a university is inexcuseable. We feel that the administration has acted in bad faith and we demand answers to the following questions.

1) How was this fee computed? (Do you need $18510)

2) How were graduation expenses funded before and what will happen to that money now?

3) Will the new revenue be used to cover expenses associated with honorary degree recipients (an expense which the University should legitimately cover)?

Mr. President, we demand an explanation!

John Mullin, Pres., Class of '67
John Greenquist, Pres., Student Senate
Bob Fleischner, Pres. of ADELPHIA
John Webster, SWAP CHMN., ADELPHIA
Ken Hardy, URC Chmn., ADELPHIA
Gordon Davidson, Editor-in-Chief, Collegian
Tom Donovan, Senior Reporter, Collegian
Norm Ryan, Station Manager, WMUA

Happiness Is Your Own Pumpkin

To the Editor:

Did you spend all of Hallowe'en night in the pumpkin patch praying? Ha! Just think of all the candy you missed out on. We even had a party.

I heard that the Great Pumpkin told you he doesn't like trick or treating. He said it keeps us out late. So what! I don't get tired and my mother lets me stay out. Besides, she knows I don't smash pumpkins. Awhile ago I saw you breaking all the pumpkins in the neighborhood.

Poor Snoopy! Why did you take him with you? He doesn't want to go out and smash anyone else's pumpkin because he knows happiness is your own pumpkin!

Lucy

Photo by Boliver

Stockbridge Speaks

To the Editor:

It has just recently come to the attention of us Stockbridge students residing in Gorman House that we will be forced to move out of our dorm next semester, or pay the full semester rates, even though we will be living in our dorm for only two months of the semester. It seems to us that it was an exceedingly inconsiderate and irresponsible move on the part of the Housing Authority to put us in Gorman House in the first place, when they must have realized that we would have to be relocated next semester.

The Housing Authority acted with total disregard for the concern of the Stockbridge student in Gorman House. They obviously did not take into consideration the inconvenience imposed upon us.

We realize that we are in a minority on this campus, but we will not allow ourselves to be discriminated against. As students of this University we have a right to a justifiable explanation for the Housing Authority concerning the discriminatory action.

We the students of Stockbridge are deeply concerned with this problem and intend to display to the fullest extent our concern in this matter, until this injustice has been rectified.

Angered Stockbridge Students

Charles Schulz works for the
Collegian . . .
Why don't you?

$ Pay Checks $

To the Editor:

Recently a proposal was made that student pay checks be issued every two weeks rather than once a month. Since permanent employees at the University are paid weekly, is it really asking too much for students to be paid every two weeks? The prime source of income for many students during the semester is money earned working on campus. This money is especially necessary on weekends for big social events, travel expenses, dates, and even weekend meals.

Which brings up a second point. It seems very logical that student pay checks be given out on a Thursday instead of on a Friday. This would spare students waiting for hours in a line that threads around to the front of South College and would spread the workload of the employees at the Treasurer's office over two days rather than wedging it into one hectic day.

Various factors have made it necessary for an increasing number of students to earn money while attending school. It would be beneficial to both students and administration to find a more efficient means of paying students, i. e., paying every two weeks and issuing checks on Thursday rather than on Friday.

VIRGINIA COLE

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68

TODAY'S EDITORS

News: Joyce Harvey '67
Editorial: Jack Dean '69
Sports: Tim Murphy '69

The Campus Forum

The Bell Tolls for UMass

To the Editor:

"Never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee," John Donne warned us three centuries ago. He was talking to those facing a spiritual death because of their lack of involvement with mankind. So am I. He was referring to church bells, but right now I am more concerned with the bells that ring in Bartlett Hall.

We don't have a true learning community here. People watch the classroom clock, and as the fiftieth minute approaches, they poise for the great escape. It is an escape from thought as well as classroom. Slamming books punctuate the teacher's closing remarks with a period where there might only have been a comma, or perhaps a dot, dot, dot . . .

Why do we bother going to class if we're not going to think and talk about the material that has been presented? I have always felt education to be a means to an end—that end being better communication among men. Yet here there seems to be a stigma attached to talking about something even vaguely intellectual.

I can't understand how this feeling came about, or why it lives on so vehemently, or why it is transmitted from one freshman class to the next. But one has only to catch snatches of conversation on a walk around campus to realize that anyone who might care about learning isn't likely to admit it.

It's true that we have much working against us. The pressure of grades and exams can take the fun out of learning. Required courses often seem to have no relation to our lives. The majority aren't able to browse through the stacks or glance through art books in a library lounge. Only a few get to work with a professor in independent study. But none of this explains or excuses the lack of intellectual give-and-take on a personal level.

In a community of this size, organized for the purpose of learning, it is almost absurd that this problem exists. But only in recognizing it do we stand a chance of eliminating what might appear to an outsider as a complete cultural wasteland.

Why, when surrounded by thousands of students, is it so hard to find someone to talk to about an exciting new concept you've learned? And if you do find someone to listen, why do they do so more out of kindness and friendship, rather than to learn themselves or add something they might know about the subject?

Possibly the basis for the problem is that people feel they really don't have anything to add. Perhaps being surrounded by three prestige schools, we have assumed the role of the inferior in our personal lives. Maybe it's the feeling in society today that only a specialist's word can be respected.

We are placing less and less value on the individual opinion, and we shall never be truly educated until we learn how to evoke and understand it. It's impossible to believe that people here are not curious about what their friends are thinking. We just don't seem to be in the habit of asking.

Only a conscious effort can wake us from this long sleep walk. If only we will keep our minds open the next time we close our books as the bell tolls, that would be a beginning.

Lorna Sass
University Reform Committee

University Reform

URC Seeks Campus-wide Debate

To the Editor:

Since its inception last year, the University Reform Committee has tried to be the "gadfly" of the university community. We started with social affairs such as dossiers and curfews because we felt that a person must be responsible for his daily life if his intellectual life is to have anything more than a superficial meaning. We made more progress than we expected, and this year's liberalized rules attest to that success and the success of those groups we worked with. This year we turn to what we feel is the most important aspect of university reform—academics.

(Editor's note: In order to present a more unified attack on problems which are of vital concern to the campus, the Editorial Staff is introducing The Campus Forum—a section which will present student viewpoints on one particular topic. Upcoming topics will be announced in advance on the editorial page. Please take this opportunity to express your views on these issues.

Topics to be discussed soon are: Campus Lighting, Open Door Policy, Destruction in Dormitories, and the Dining Commons. Please type all letters at 60 spaces, double-spaced, and address them to: The Campus Forum, Collegian, Student Union, U. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.)

On this page are several letters which deal with the present state of the university's academic life, particularly as it affects the undergraduate. As you know there is dissatisfaction with the present state of affairs. Administrative secrecy in arriving at certain decisions affecting students, lack of intellectual interest among the students, and the factory-like process which passes for an education of the mind are all sore points.

These letters do not present all that could be said, pro or con, regarding academics at the university, but they do seek to open campus-wide debate on academic issues. However, this debate needs your mind and voice to be successful.

Join those students, faculty and administrators who will be participating in the debate at the U.R.C. coffee hours this week. Change will only come if you want and demand it.

Ken Hardy, Chairman
University Reform Committee

A Dialogue for Total Involvement

To the Editor:

Last year a regulation appeared concerning final examinations. Three examinations, under the new ruling, were not to be considered a conflict.

This regulation, which was of great importance to the students at the University, was not preceeded by any publicity. Unfortunately, similar occurrences are not rare for the University.

In the Fall of 1965 the Senate became aware that basic changes were being discussed and planned in the inter-library loan system. The Senate sent a letter requesting information, but little information of note was received. The issue remained shrouded.

Every week a group, the "Academic Council of Deans" meets to discuss matters affecting students. Few students are aware of this council's existence, and fewer, if any, know of what is discussed in this council's meetings.

There is another shrouded group, the "Faculty Committee on the Curriculum of the College of Arts & Sciences." At one time, through the aide of a "friendly professor" the University Reform Committee discovered this body's existence. There was little more the URC could do.

In a move towards bringing the Curriculum Committee into closer contact with the students the professor suggested that students be made voting members. The committee members recoiled. Another, toned down, suggestion that students be allowed to sit in on meetings as an advisory group only was accepted.

More recently, a ten dollar graduation fee for seniors has been under consideration by the administration and the board of trustees. By the time this article appears in print it probably will have been approved without any consultation with the Student Senate or the officers and members of the senior class. Also, despite the fact that the seniors will be paying for their own graduation, they will continue to have very little to say about graduation procedures and the awarding of honorary degrees.

These examples contain basic elements which point to a serious weakness in student and faculty-administration relations.
(1) The administration avoids giving information on policy and decision making affecting students while such policy and decision making is in process.
(2) Often when students become aware of such policies and decisions debate on them is over and the administration is implementing them.
(3) In order to preview administration and faculty decision and policy making, and in order to be aware of the working of committees relevant to student interests, the students must often engage in a form of detective work—they must drag up the sparce information which is hidden from them.

The University expects its students to be responsible. To ask responsibility of students while denying them responsibility by means of hidden decision-making is negating the administration-faculty expectation of its student body.

The University exists in a nation which proclaims its democracy. To deny students responsibility in policies and decisions affecting them is but one of many actions which lead to a corrosion of American democracy.

At the very least the University should make public to its students any policy changes which affect the students. If should make public all discussion and debate on these policy changes before the final decision is reached concerning them.

There should be a halt to ex post facto awareness of administration-faculty activities affecting students. The University should make public the existence and minutes of committees which deal with student affairs. It should not be a burden upon the student to dig up such information.

If such badly needed awareness-making takes place, the University will probably find that students are better prepared to serve in advisory capacities on matters affecting them. At the least, important questions and matters for students under consideration by the University should be seen as necessitating a plebescite of student opinion.

Such a dialogue between the students and the faculty-administration would provide the campus with a system of participation, of total involvement which would cut misunderstanding and lead to more "responsible" students.

Students would be more aware of matters affecting them, and would have some influence on those matters.

Ignorance, especially ignorance enforced from above, is weakness.

John Brown Childs
University Reform Committee

Schedule of URC Coffee Hours

The University Reform Committee is holding a series of coffee hours concerning academic questions today and December 1. Each coffee hour will consist of a four member panel discussion on a specific topic. The members of the panel are asked to prepare a five minute introductory statement concerning their topic.

The topics are general and discussion is in no way confined to them. The panel discussion should last approximately forty-five minutes after which the discussion will be open to questions from the floor. The schedule for the coffee hours is as follows:

November 30: Thatcher House recreation room 8 p.m.
Topic: Curriculum Change. Robert Wilfong, student, moderator.
Panel: Ken Hardy, student; Robert Wagner, Associate Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; John Brentlinger, Asst. Prof. of Philosophy; Terrence Burke, Asst. Prof. of Geography.
December 1: James House lounge 8 p.m.
Topic: The Residential College and the Future of the University.
Panel: Sidney Finehirsh, student, moderator; Oswald Tippo, Provost; John Hunt, Asst. Master of Southwest Residential College; Ken Hardy, student; I. Moyer Hunsberger, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Free Coffee from URC

For years administration officials have been trying to create an environment on this campus which would be the foundation of a great university. Now that the building programs are completed or well under way, a considerable number of highly competent professors have been added to the faculty, and students are sharper than ever.

But beautiful buildings, good professors, and intelligent students placed together do not insure a great university. Now that some of the most basic problems are on the way to being solved, we can turn our attention to the intangibles which make the difference between a factory and a great educational institution.

The University Reform Committee is sponsoring a series of coffee hours in order to bring students, faculty and administration officials together to discuss problems of curriculum, grades, and the structure of courses. We feel that the university is entering a new phase of its development in which these problems will be faced and, hopefully, solved. We, as students, can have a say in the handling of these problems by voicing our opinions and offering constructive suggestions.

A coffee hour is, of course, just talk. And simply raising questions and offering suggestions does not guarantee that everything wrong with the university will be changed overnight.

But the University is changing. Solutions to problems are being sought, and we can have an influence in these solutions by starting a dialogue between students and administrators . . . by voicing our ideas and coming to understand better the problems we face.

So come to the coffee hours tonight and tomorrow night. (See schedule at left.) Meet some of those mysterious figures who make the decisions, and have them meet you.

Come and listen, and let yourself be heard in the groves of Academe.

(PEANUTS is continued on p. 7)

Peter, Paul and Mary –

Combining Humor, Harmony and Zest in Concert

Had there been curtains, they would have been drawn.

Instead of "lights off" the Cage lights blared on.

The group ran on stage
to the audience's laud.

Paul Stockey was dressed in conservative Mod.

"The lights will stay on all night," said he,

"And the blowers will vie with the sound of us three."

The audience laughed and the concert began.

The group had their attention—
down to a man.

(To capture a college audience is commendable,

For its enthusiasm is highly expendable.)

They had fun with a rarely-used instrument—

An unusual way of accompanyment

When they all played kazoos

To "'Frisco Bay Blues."

Each of the Trio
Had His Own Charm Alone

Paul played a boxing announcer in Arkansas

And polked fun at Johnson and his new son-in-law.

"In red, white and blue is Lyndon Baines Johnson."

"In this corner, in nothing, is George Hamilton."

Photos by Boliver

And When Singing Together
The Lively Group Shone

Mary and Peter returned to the stage,

And throughout the evening their warm sound filled the Cage.

Their harmony was perfect through songs tender and rough.

They brought back old favorites like the dear dragon "Puff."

Peter, Paul and Mary
performed at their best.

A concert elating! A trio with Zest!

We Want

YOU!

join the Collegian

Family Planning

UMass Professor Attends Conference

Dr. William A. Darity, Associate Professor of Public Health was one of the major speakers at the Region VII Conference on Family Planning. The conference, sponsored by the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare held on Nov. 21-22 in Dallas, Texas, and was attended by approximately 300 persons from Arkansas, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas who are involved in family planning program formation and implementation.

Dr. Darity's paper entitled "Family Planning: Some Implications for Program Development" will deal with problems in family planning programming as related to overall Public Health programming and the establishment of communication patterns through which to facilitate implementation of family planning programs.

Dr. Darity also presented a paper at the Conference on Public Family Planning Clinics on Sept. 19-20 which was sponsored by the G. D. Searle & Co. Reference and Resources Program and was held in San Francisco. That conference involved approximately 600 persons mainly from California, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, and Colorado who are involved in the planning and establishment of family planning clinics.

Dr. Darity's speech on that occasion "Communication Patterns as Related to Health Education in Family Planning" dealt with problems in communication and attempts to alleviate such communication problems in the area of sex and contraceptive education when they arise between Public Health professionals and recipients of Public Health services; between young adults and their parents and between young adults and Public Health professionals.

On Dec. 3, Dr. Darity will present a paper at Brown University before the New England College Health Association which will be entitled "Variations in Sex Attitudes and Knowledge Among 164 College Females." This paper will be based on findings of a research project at a New England University which is now being carried out by a research group composed of University of Massachusetts faculty members.

Theologian To Speak: "The Existential Christian"

"The Existential Christian".

Is this a hybrid from a theological zoo or just a highbrow term for a faith-fanatic or a fitting label for someone who is for "real" in striving for authentic being?

So asks Dr. Gwyn Walters who will seek to answer these and similar questions on Dec. 2 at a meeting sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship chapter on campus.

DR. GWYN WALTERS

Dr. Walters is at present the Professor of Ministry at Gordon Divinity School in Wenham, specializing in the area of contemporary communication and counseling. He was born in Wales and graduated B.A. with honors in Philosophy and B.D. with distinction in theology and ethics in the University of Wales and a Ph.D. in the University of Edinburgh.

He served as an intervarsity traveling secretary in the British Isles and the continent of Europe before coming to this country to teach in Temple University in Philadelphia and Princeton Theological Seminary. He has spoken on many campuses in the U.S.A. and Canada to student groups.

Dr. Walters will speak on Friday, Dec. 2, at 7:15 p.m. in the Plymouth Room, on the subject of "The Existential Christian."

All students and faculty are invited to attend.

CAREERS IN STEEL

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Our representative will be on campus

DEC. 15

to interview undergraduate and graduate candidates for Bethlehem's '67 Loop Course —our highly regarded management training program

OPPORTUNITIES are available in steel plant operations, sales, research, mining, accounting, and other activities.

DEGREES required are mechanical, metallurgical, electrical, chemical, industrial, civil, mining, and other engineering specialties; also chemistry, physics, mathematics, business administration, accounting and liberal arts.

If you would like to discuss your career interest with a Bethlehem representative, see your placement officer to arrange for an interview appointment.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Some young engineers will go through almost anything for a future with "P.S.E.&G."

Even if you have to slay dragons, be sure to find out if you can qualify for our personalized training program. Engineering positions with Public Service offer you the opportunity to enjoy a career filled with excitement, reward and challenge . . . a chance to grow with a dynamic growth company. See our representative when he visits your campus.

INTERVIEWER ON CAMPUS:

DECEMBER 7

PUBLIC SERVICE ELECTRIC AND GAS COMPANY NEW JERSEY

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

ONE OF AMERICA'S LARGEST AND MOST PROGRESSIVE SUPPLIERS OF ENERGY

Finals

CONFLICTS: Three examinations in one calendar day do not classify as a "conflict".

Students having direct conflicts should report to the SCHEDULE OFFICE, (third floor, entry D, South College) to fill out report form as soon as possible, in any event NOT LATER THAN DECEMBER 9.

Conflicts reported after December 9 will not be processed by the Schedule Office

CODE:

Day Identification
1. Fri., Jan. 13
2. Sat., Jan. 14
3. Mon., Jan. 16
4. Tues., Jan. 17
5. Wed., Jan. 18
6. Thurs., Jan. 19
7. Fri., Jan. 20
8. Sat., Jan. 21

Period Identification
A. 8:00-10:00 a.m.
B. 10:20 a.m.-12:20 p.m.
C. 1:10-3:10 p.m.
D. 3:30-5:30 p.m.

Illustration
A&F EC 110 8B—A&F EC 110 will have its final examination on Saturday, January 21 at 10:20 a.m. (8th day, B period)

JUNIOR-SENIOR EXAMINATION SCHEDULE — i.e. for courses numbered "200" and above. These courses are examined according to the weekly schedule of the section during the semester. ILLUSTRATION: English 251, section 2, which meets TUTH 2:30, will be examined in period 1C.

MWF 8:00 2A
MWF 9:05 4A
MWF 10:10 7A
MWF 11:15 3C
MWF 12:20 7D (change)
MWF 1:25 4C
MWF 2:30 1A
MWF 3:35 7C
MWF 4:40 3C
TUTHS 8:00 6A
TUTHS 9:05 5A
TUTHS 10:10 8A
TUTHS 11:15 1D
TUTHS 12:20 7D (change)
TUTH 1:00 5C
TUTH 1:25 5C
TUTH 2:30 1C
TUTH 3:35 6C
TUTH 4:00 6C
TUTH 4:40 2D
Any evening 8D
A&F EC 110 8B

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE EXAMINATION SCHEDULE — i.e. for courses numbered below "200".

ACCTG 125 6D
ACCTG 126 6D
AIRSCI 111 3D
AIRSCI 121 3D
AN SCI 121 8B
ANTHRO 103 6B
ANTHRO 104 6D
ART 115 *
ASIANS 150 *
ASTRON 101 5D
ASTRON 103 8B
BOTANY 100 7B
BOTANY 101 7B
BOTANY 125 7B
BOTANY 321 8B
C E 100 7D
C E 101 6B
C E 140 3D
C E 141 4B
CH E 125 6D
CHEM 101 5D
CHEM 111 5D
CHEM 113 5D
CHEM 127 1B
CHEM 140 5D
CHEM 165 8B
CHINSE 101 1B
CHINSE 107 *
COMSCI 121 5D
COMSCI 123 5D
COMSCI 191 *
E E 141 6B
ECON 125 4D
ECON 126 4D
ECON 103 7A
ENGIN 103 7A and 7B
ENGIN 104 7C and 7D
ENGL 111 1B
ENGL 112 3D
ENGL 113 2B
ENGL 125 2B
ENGL 126 3D
ENGL 128 3D
ENT 126 7B
ENT 150 *
FN 127 6D
FN 140 4B
FN 141 5B
FN 156 7D
FRENCH 003 3B
FRENCH 101 3B
FRENCH 102 3B
FRENCH 107 3B
FRENCH 108 3B
FRENCH 125 4D
GEOG 125 6D
GEOL 101 8A
GEOL 103 8A
GERMAN 101 4D
GERMAN 102 3B
GERMAN107 7D
GERMAN 108 3B
GERMAN 109 *
GERMAN 111 3B
GOVT 100 6B
GOVT 150 6B
GOVT 160 6B
GREEK 101 3D
GREEK 107 2B
HEED 120 2D
HIST 100 2D
HIST 101 2D
HIST 150 2D
HTLMGT 100 1D
HTLMGT 102 1B
I E 151 6B
ITAL 101 3B
ITAL 107 3B
JAPAN 101 1B
LATIN 101 4D
LATIN 107 4D
LD ARC 123 8B
LD ARC 125 1B
M E 135 6D
MATH 011 7D
MATH 111 5B
MATH 112 4B
MATH 118 5B
MATH 121 6D
MATH 123 5B
MATH 124 5B
MATH 125 5B
MATH 126 5B
MATH 151 5B
MATH 173 5B
MATH 174 5B
MATH 185 5B
MATH 187 2D
MEN PE 101 8A
PORT 101 2B
PORT 107 7D
PSYCH 101 1D
PSYCH 105 1D
PUB HL 123 3B
REC 101 2B
RUSS 101 4D
RUSS 107 3B
RUSS 109 3B
SOCIOL 101 8A
SOCIOL 102 1B
SPAN 101 3B
SPAN 102 3B
SPAN 107 3B
SPAN 108 3B
SPAN 109 3D
SPAN 125 3B
SPEECH 101 4B
SPEECH 115 4D
SPEECH 135 3B
SPEECH 140 6D
SPEECH 142 1B
STATIS 121 8B
TCEA 123 6B
TCEA 124 8B
TCEA 128 3D
TCEA 141 1B
WO PE 105 5B
WO PE 122 1B
WO PE 130 *
ZOOL 101 7B
ZOOL 125 1B
ZOOL 135 *
ZOOL 137 1B
MEN PE 141 1B
MICBIO 140 7B
MICBIO 150 7B
MUSIC 101 *
MUSIC 111 6B
MUSIC 113 3C
NURSE 110 4B
PHIL 105 8B
PHIL 110 8A
PHIL 125 8B
PHIL 161 1B
PHYSIC 101 2B
PHYSIC 103 6D
PHYSIC 105 1D
PHYSIC 106 8A
PHYSIC 107 1B
PHYSIC 111 8B
PHYSIC 113 1B
POLISH 101 7D
MATH 186 5D

*This course will be examined by sections according to the Junior-Senior Examination Schedule—see page 1.

Notices

UNIVERSITY REFORM COMMITTEE
There will be a discussion on curriculum change at 8:00 P.M., Nov. 30, in Thatcher Lounge. Panelists will include Robert Wagner, Assoc. Dean, College of Arts and Sciences; John Brentlinger, Asst. Prof. of Philosophy; Terrance Burke, Asst. Prof. of Geography; and Robert Wilfong, student.
There will be a discussion on the residential college at 8:00 P.M. on Dec. 1, in James Lounge. Panelists will be Provost Tippo; John Hunt, Asst. Master of Southwest Residential College; I.M. Hunsberger, Dean of College of Arts and Sciences; and Ken Hardy, student.

ROISTER-DOISTERS
On Dec. 1, at 6:30 P.M. in Hampshire Room, S.U. there will be discussion of plans for Tom Jones, and Executive Board and Staff Heads meeting.
At 7:00 P.M. there will be a meeting for general membership.
Tryouts for Tom Jones will be held Dec. 4, 5 and 7th at 7:30 P.M., and Dec. 6 at 3:30 P.M. in Bartlett 61. Scripts are available in the R&O office of S.U. There are parts for 13 men and 11 women. The Roister-Doister production will appear on Feb. 3, 4 and 5th.

MATHEMATICS LECTURE
Prof. Edgar H. Brown, Jr. Brandeis University will deliver two lectures on "Characterization of Manifolds by Homotopy Invariants" at 4:40 P.M. on Thurs., Dec. 1, and Fri., Dec. 2. Both lectures will be given in the Engineering Building; Room 118 on Thursday, and 220 on Friday. Coffee will be served both days at 4:00 P.M. in the Mathematics Lounge on the first floor of Arnold House.

LITERARY SOCIETY
On Nov. 30, at 7:00 P.M. in Bartlett Faculty Lounge there will be an evening with e. e. cummings.—Recording and discussion of the poet's works. Everyone is welcome.

S. R. L.
On Sunday, Dec. 4, in Farley Lodge there will be a panel discussion on "Should Birth Control be Available to Unmarried People?" Dr. Henry Schoenberger, Amherst Physician, Dr. Robert Gage, Director of Univ. Health Services, and Dr. William Darity, Associate Prof. of Public Health will participate.

JUDSON FELLOWSHIP
On Sun., Dec. 4, at 6:30 P.M. in First Baptist Church there will be a discussion of "Morality—Black and White or Grey?"

ITALIAN CLUB
Anyone interested in participating in a weekly Italian table at the Copper Kettle please contact Lorna Sass (546-8501). Arrangements can be made for all meal tickets to be honored.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
On Thurs., Dec. 1, at 6:30 P.M. in Hampden Room, S.U. there will be an important meeting of publicity committee.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE CLUB
On Nov. 30, at 7:30 P.M. in S.U. Ballroom, all cubes are invited to make a square.

UMASS BARBELL CLUB
On Tues., Dec. 13, at 8:30 P.M. in Council Chambers, S.U. films of the 1965 and 1966 "Mr. Universe" contest and the 1956 Olympic Weightlighting championships will be shown. Open to the public.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB RESEARCH COMMITTEE
On Thurs., Dec. 1, at 7:00 P.M. in Senate Chambers, S.U. there will be an important meeting. All should try to attend.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
On Fri., Dec. 2, at 7:15 P.M. in Plymouth Room, S.U. Dr. Gwyn Walters, from Gordon Divinity School will speak on "The Existential Christian." All are welcome to attend.

RUSSIAN PARTY
On Dec. 2, at 8:00 P.M. in Memorial Hall 2nd floor, a Russian Party will be held featuring vocalist Vera Brynner. Russian food will be served. Donations of 50c per person will be collected at the door. The party is open to the public.

MOUNT HOLYOKE PRESENTATION
On Dec. 2 and 9, Mount Holyoke Dramatics Club will present "The House of Bernarda Alba", Garcia Lorca's drama of suppressed emotion under Spanish sun. The show will be in Chapin Auditorium at 8:00 P.M. and tickets may be secured by calling the box office between 1 and 5 P.M. Monday through Thursday the week of each performance.

1. How come you've been getting such swinging computer dates?

I guess you haven't seen my personality questionnaire.

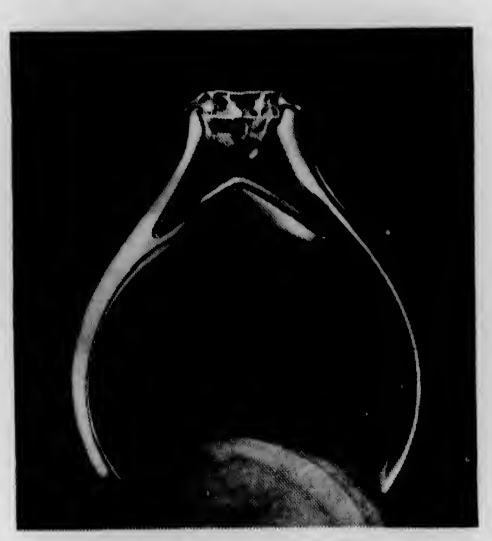
2. "Five foot two. 113 pounds. Nearsighted."

3. "Play the ocarina."

4. "Like cucumber sandwiches."

5. You mean to tell me those great-looking girls go for these things?

It's the last item that really clinches it.



6. "Stepping into swell job with Equitable Life. Good pay. Fascinating work. Plenty of chance to move up."

I think I'll see Jane tonight, Susie tomorrow and Fran the day after.

For career opportunities at Equitable, see your Placement Officer, or write to Patrick Scollard, Manpower Development Division.

The EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society of the United States
Home Office: 1285 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019 © Equitable 1966
An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F

ARE YOU SURE YOU KNOW WHAT YOU'RE DOING?

People in love have a crazy way of getting wrapped up in each other and forgetting about everything else. So, unless you want to make a mistake, forget about love when you're buying a diamond ring.

If you'd like some expert help, in fact, go see your ArtCarved jeweler. He has beautiful diamond rings from $150 to over $1000. Every one has a gemologist's evaluation inscribed on the inner band. Every one is guaranteed.

So don't get emotional at a time like this. Get careful. If you don't know anything about diamonds, see your ArtCarved jeweler. He does. ArtCarved®

ADAMS
LEON'S JEWELERS
BEVERLY
DESJARDINS JEWELERS
BOSTON
E. B. HORN CO.
ROGER JEWELRY
BROCKTON
GURNEY BROS.
ROMM & CO.
CAMBRIDGE
ROGERS JEWELRY
CHATHAM
CHATHAM JEWELERS, INC.
CONCORD
H. S. HOWE
EASTHAMPTON
LEO L. DEGRANDPRE
FALL RIVER
MULLEN BROS.
FALMOUTH
FALMOUTH JEWELRY SHOP
FITCHBURG
ELLIOTT'S
FRAMINGHAM
ROBERTSON'S
GREENFIELD
CLEARY JEWELERS
HOLYOKE
BISHOP'S JEWELERS
HYANNIS
GUERTIN BROS.
LAWRENCE
KUHN JEWELERS
LEOMINSTER
M. M. SABATELLI
LYNN
ARTHUR STERN
MELROSE
GOFF BROS.
NANTUCKET
J. P. LENNON
NEW BEDFORD
NOVICK JEWELERS
PALMER
E. S. BROOKS JEWELER
PITTSFIELD
DENNO'S JEWELERS
PLYMOUTH
LORING'S JEWELERS
QUINCY
ROUSAYNE'S JEWELERS
SALEM
JOSEPH R. RICHARD
SOUTHBRIDGE
ART'S JEWELERS
SPRINGFIELD
FREDERICK'S JEWELERS
M. J. KITTREDGE
TAUNTON
HOMER'S TAUNTON JEWELRY, INC.
WAKEFIELD
FISHER JEWELERS
WEBSTER
ART'S JEWELERS
WESTFIELD
FELIX MABEK

Resident College Proves Successful on Hill

"Our purpose here on the Hill is to provide buildings relatively quiet and private in atmosphere, and an academic tone in which faculty-student contact is ordinary or normal," says Dr. H. Leland Varley, coordinator of the UMass Orchard Hill Experiment.

Begun in 1964, the experiment has involved Eugene Field and Emily Dickinson, women's houses, and Noah Webster and David Grayson, men's dorms. Approximately 320 students live in each. "Distribution within the dorms is about one third freshman, one third sophomores and the rest juniors and seniors," says Varley.

A "seminar atmosphere" prevails in the study lounges for each class, limited to 25. Students seem to "like this more intimate, talky atmosphere" rather than the large, informal auditorium. Courses include introductory freshman and sophomore English, history, language and math.

Though the main aim of the experiment emphasizes the academic, the Hill also promotes social and cultural activities. Initiated by the students, events often take place among corridors and between houses.

A corridor's week of social events, for example, may range from dining and dancing with Faculty Fellows to reading poetry of Emily Dickinson to holding a classical record concert in the lounge. Coffee hours and discussions with professors are frequent, Dr. Varley reported. As another case of unusual activity, the Orchard is broadcasting on WMUA a series of taped discussions carried on in the dorms.

In addition to student enthusiasm and participation, success on the Hill may also be attributed to the Faculty Fellows, each of whom is associated with a corridor in one of the four houses. There are 12 Fellows in each dorm; they may or may not teach classes in the Orchard. Though these people do not live in the dorm, their relationship with the corridor is maintained by dining together once a week in the North Commons and by informal get-togethers over coffee.

Through the Faculty Fellows, the aim of normal student-faculty contact is achieved. They act as resources for cultural events that the students desire. Dr. Varley comments that the "Faculty Fellows are a deliberate mixture" of people for they can, with their variety of tastes and interests, widen the scope of the students. Among the Fellows are Mrs. John W. Lederle, wife of the UMass President; a retired home economics teacher, a practical agricultural engineer and Leon Barron of the UMass English department. All of these people volunteer their time and attention and enjoy their job "because they want to do it," Dr. Varley said.

His assessment: "the program has gone very well. But improvement is possible, he believes. Plans include "more public definitions of aims and present Orchard Hill activities"; an increase in the number of upper level courses to encourage juniors and seniors to continue in their major on the Hill; and finally, an increase in the number of faculty residents. There are now four faculty residents on the Hill; only one of these actually lives in the dorm.

Dr. Varley, pleased with the success of the experiment, expects an even brighter social and academic future up on the Hill.

Suicide Rates Climb
College Students Seek Tragic Ends

Suicide is the No. 2 cause of death among college students. Among those aged 15 to 19 it is the No. 3 cause of death. There are nearly three known adolescent suicides a day, and some experts say the true figure may be 5,000 a year.

WHY SHOULD such young people kill themselves, or try to?

"There are five categories of problems most troubling to adolescents," answers Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, director of the institute.

They are: parents, poverty, peers, broken romances, and pregnancy."

In the college atmosphere, there is what becomes an intolerable pressure for some young people.

SCHOOL PROBLEMS—focused almost entirely upon the worship of high grades—make students a high risk group. The New Jersey Department of Education said a three-year study showed that 41 students killed themselves and 738 tried to do so but failed. Thousands made suicide threats.

The most universal reason is the pressure to achieve high grades. The danger period is that time before examinations. A recent study indicates that by the time 1966 ends, as many as 9,000 college students will have threatened suicide and 1,000 will have succeeded.

There is in suicide or in each potential suicide a cry for help. It is contained in repeated talk of death, which sometimes seems casual, and is contained in remarks such as:

"My family would be better off without me."

"I won't be around much longer for you to put up with me."

"I don't want to be a burden."

"This is the last straw; this is all I need."

IN DEFINING suicidal people, the Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center concluded: "They are no longer able to sweep their feelings under the rug of indifference and denial. They must face their feelings of hopelessness, helplessness, and dependency."

When a young person commits suicide, he gives birth to a trail of trouble.

The survivors are confronted with enormous questions: What did I do? Why couldn't I help? Where did I fail?—for which there rarely are easy answers.

AND SO, in the years after the child kills himself, each of these survivors could become psychotic.

One of the myths about suicide is that it is spontaneous. The Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center reports that "the typical suicidal victim is seen as psychiatrically ill for a considerable period before his death."

Dr. Robert E. Litman of the Los Angeles Center says that the suicidal person faces his problems with "tunnel vision." This is described in these terms:

"IF AN UNMARRIED girl should become pregnant or believe she is pregnant, she may begin considering her problem by listing her alternatives. So she says, 'A—I could have the baby and keep it. B—I could have the baby and give it up for adoption. C—I could go to Japan for a legal abortion. D—I could go to Mexico for a safe abortion. E—I could try to have an abortion here. F—I could force Joe to marry me. G, H, I . . . S—I could commit suicide."

As the girl gets deeper into her problems her vision narrows and she keeps coming back to "S"—suicide.

RECENT STUDIES show she is more prone to attempt suicide if she has a background in which a parent, relative or close friend attempted suicide; if one or both of her natural parents was absent from home through divorce, separation or death; if there was a step-parent with whom she could not get along; if communication with her parents was poor.

Now in paperback

V333	A GIANT STEP by Clyde T. Ellis.	$1.95
V334	THE PROTESTANT ESTABLISHMENT by E. Digby Baltzell.	$1.95
V335	CITY POLITICS by Edward C. Banfield and James Q. Wilson.	$1.95
V336	ESSAYS 1958-1962 ON ATOMIC PHYSICS AND HUMAN KNOWLEDGE by Niels Bohr.	$1.45
V337	BEYOND GOOD AND EVIL by Friedrich Nietzsche. Translated and edited by Walter Kaufmann.	$1.95
V338	LANGUAGE AND THE DISCOVERY OF REALITY by Joseph Church.	$1.95
V339	THE REIVERS by William Faulkner.	$1.95
V340	CONTEMPORARY CHINA Edited by Ruth Adams.	$1.95
V341	EDUCATION AND THE NEW AMERICA by Solon T. Kimball and James E. McClennan.	$1.95
V342	AESTHETES AND DECADENTS OF THE 1890's Edited, with an Introduction and Notes, by Karl Beckson.	$2.45
V343	THE THERMIDORIANS by Georges Lefebvre. Translated by Robert Baldick.	$1.95
V344	FROM GORKY TO PASTERNAK by Helen Muchnic.	$2.45
V345	THE HISTORIAN AND HISTORY by Page Smith.	$1.95
V346	THE MAKEPEACE EXPERIMENT by Abram Tertz.	$1.95
V347	SELECTED ESSAYS by Robert Penn Warren.	$1.95
V348	THREE MEN by Jean Evans. Introduction by Gordon Allport.	$1.95
V349	LETTERS OF MARCEL PROUST Translated and edited with notes by Mina Curtiss. Introduction by Harry Levin.	$1.95
V350	THE FOOD OF FRANCE by Waverley Root. Introduction by Samuel Chamberlain. Illustrations by Warren Cheppell.	$1.95
V351	THE UNVANQUISHED by William Faulkner.	$1.95
V352	THE PRICE OF PROSPERITY by Peter L. Bernstein. Rev. Ed.	$1.45
V353	REPORT ON THE JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY 1966 by Benjamin R. Epstein and Arnold Forster. Foreword by Dore Schary.	$1.45
V354	THE VIETNAM HEARINGS Introduction by J. William Fullbright.	$1.95
V355	AFTER 20 YEARS The Decline of NATO and the Search for a New Policy in Europe. by Richard J. Barnet and Marcus G. Raskin.	$1.95
V357	TRIUMPH OR TRAGEDY: REFLECTIONS ON VIETNAM by Richard N. Goodwin.	$1.45

Vintage Books

UNIVERSITY STORE

"Coca-Cola" and "Coke" are registered trade marks which identify only the product of The Coca-Cola Company

We admire your spirit, but you just don't fit into the team.

Coca-Cola is on everyone's team. That's because Coca-Cola has the taste you never get tired of... always refreshing. That's why things go better with Coke... after Coke... after Coke.

COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY OF NORTHAMPTON
NORTHAMPTON, MASSACHUSETTS

Cookie Sale Sponsored By Scrolls

This is a warning to all chocolate chip cookie fans. Stay away from the Student Union kitchen from Friday, Dec. 2 to Sunday, Dec. 4. Dozens of chocolate chip cookies are going to be made by the Scrolls and their tantalizing odor might be overpowering to those who have a weakness for fresh, homemade cookies.

The final product will be sold for $.50 a dozen by the Scrolls in all girls dorms this Sunday afternoon. The money will go towards a scholarship fund.

Area 2
Judiciary Selections and Interviews will be held
Dec. 4th at 1 P.M.
in the S.U.
Council Chambers

Needed:
1 Stockbridge ('68 or '67)
2 Seniors ('67)
1 Junior ('68)

Pick up and return applications at R.S.O. by Dec. 1

CORRECTION

Seniors graduating in January will have their pictures taken for the Index on December 13 and 14.

Honorary Society Initiated At UMass

Amherst, Mass.—The national industrial engineering honorary society Alpha Pi Mu has installed a chapter at the University of Massachusetts and has initiated ten from the UMass School of Engineering as members.

Alpha Pi Mu membership is open to industrial engineering students of exceptional academic interest and abilities. The aim of the honorary is to promote academic excellence during college years and to provide a common ground of experience during the professional career.

Charles F. James, Jr., associate professor of industrial engineering, is faculty advisor to the UMass group, which has been designed as Massachusetts Chapter.

Shown with the charter and insignia of Massachusetts Chapter of Alpha Pi Mu, national industrial engineering honorary, is Bryce S. Genzlinger, left, national executive secretary, and Charles F. James, Jr., associate professor of industrial engineering at UMass, chapter faculty advisor.

"English Press Partisan But Fair"

by MELINDA KRIENSKY

"The American press is excellent, but it would do well to look at the English press."

In his charming Irish brogue, acquired after spending 20 years in Dublin, Prof. Barney Emmart, the latest addition to UMass' journalism faculty, discussed this and the British press in general in an interview with the Collegian.

"The European press regards ideas as a form of news," said Dr. Emmart. They have a greater number of special correspondents with bylines. This licenses them to print more comment and opinion, thus publishing a more interesting paper.

"English news is treated from a point of view," Emmart stated. The papers are partisan and tend to take sides on issues. The difference between today's English press and America's early partisan papers is that the English accompany their partiality with fairness. They do not sling mud at their opponents, he explained.

England has a national press—newspapers distributed nationwide—which is made possible by the small size of the country. Several country-wide newspapers reflect the diverse interests of British citizens. There are also provincial journals which are solely dedicated to local happenings.

Emmart said, "There is a tendency toward a national press in this country." With the United States becoming "smaller" because of better distribution of papers and technological breakthroughs a national press seems likely to evolve, he believes. The New York Times may be an example of the American trend to emulate the British newspapers, he cited.

Other points—There are physical differences to be noted between American and English newspapers. The British do not break up the news with ads. Instead, the sports page often bears the burden.

There is little "kiddie stuff" in British newspapers. Quality papers excepted, comic strips and appeal to the young are replaced with news Dr. Emmart calls trash. On the whole, British papers display more sensationalism than do American papers.

A man of his Times, Barney Emmart reads New York and London papers—and enjoys both.

MED SCHOOL . . .

(Continued from page 1)

with the trustees and legislative leaders including Senate President Maurice Donahue, Senate Ways and Means chairman James F. Burke, Senate Majority leader Kevin Harrington and House Ways and Means Chairman Anthony Scibelli.

"They moved swiftly to provide additional funds for library books, appointments of consultants and necessary staff. Through their vigorous cooperation we have been able to attain this important goal."

POLICE RATIO . . .

(Continued from page 1)

for more protection on campus, he believes. Action cannot be stimulated from rumor, but must be based on fact, he stated. To encourage factual reports, students are assured that their names will not be mentioned.

Arts And Sciences Maintain Student Faculty Ratio

Although the student population has doubled since 1960, the number of faculty positions in the University's College of Arts and Sciences has risen from 235 to 533, exceeding the growth of the student body.

The number of professors has grown steadily, while the number of instructors has decreased, indicating a larger percentage of mature teachers.

However, a high ratio between faculty members and student enrollment is difficult to maintain, says Associate Dean Robert Wagner. "This institution," he explains, "is growing so fast that the number of mature professorial level faculty doesn't grow as fast as the student body."

There is a need for more professional awareness, the dean believes. "Because of the speeding up of things," Dean Wagner continues, "it is important for teachers to be more than just teachers. They must have a broad, diverse knowledge. This wasn't important a hundred years ago; then, their field stayed essentially the same over the years, but now there is a rapid rate of change within the departments.

"There are two ways to get these professors," says the dean. "You can go out and lasso them, or you can wait for your own teachers to mature." The former is quite difficult since most professors are settled somewhere and often reluctant to move; and the latter method takes several years, in which the student body rapidly continues to expand. "We need about 100 additional faculty per year the way this university is growing," the dean adds.

Are classes larger because of the rapid rate of student growth? "It's hard to say," Dean Wagner feels, "the size of classes varies with the type of course."

Many of the Arts and Sciences classes have remained about the same. "The foreign language classes are no larger than they were several years ago, and neither are the English 125 classes. The introductory history classes may appear larger to the students but it's actually the method of teaching that has changed; there is now one large lecture and several smaller discussion groups, rather than several sections of lectures."

So the student population rapidly enlarges, and the administration struggles to keep the faculty enlarging as rapidly. For the College of Arts and Sciences, at least, the battle is being won.

Parking Ban Effective Dec. 1

Police Chief Francis E. Hart warns motorists that the yearly ban on overnight parking in the Amherst streets is effective at midnight Dec. 1.

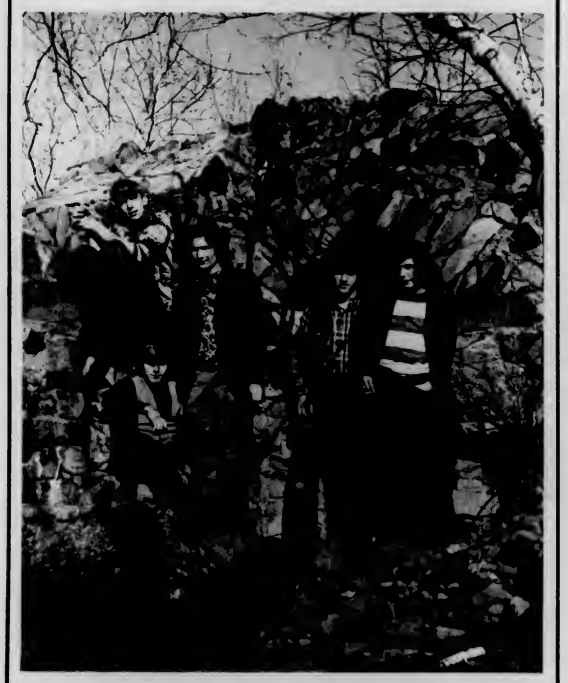
Because of snow removal, Hart said, that parking of cars in the streets overnight is forbidden from December 1 to April 1 each year. Vehicles left on the streets will be towed.

Hart issued a reminder that bans on both street parking and soliciting rides are town laws and violators are subject to penalty.

Professor Speaks At Convention

Dr. Arthur Musgrave, professor of journalistic studies and English at the University of Massachusetts, will address the convention of the New England Society of Newspaper Editors (NESNE) in Portland, Me., on Dec. 2. He will talk on the subject, "Journalism Education and Recruitment."

Professor Musgrave is a member of the education committee of NESNE and director of the fellowship program for journalists that has been conducted by the University and NESNE since 1964. At present 20 New England newspapermen and women are participating in this program, which provides weekend seminars and a three-week summer course.



Open House

Once again the Collegian is on the prowl searching the nooks and crannies of campus for talented people to cover the news, review the arts, analyze sports and write the hard-hitting, facual editorials that make the Collegian the best newspaper on campus.

In caes we missed your little snook or cranny be sure to stop in at the office between 2:00 and 5 Tuesday afternoon and shoot the breeze with the crew over a cup of coffee. We think you'll like what you find there.

Alpha Phi Gamma

Presents

the Pariahs

S.U. Ballroom — Friday, December 2, 1966

8:00 P.M. — 50¢ Admission

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Part time—3 eves and Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply Rm. 20, Masonic Bldg., 25 Main St., Northampton, Fri. eve. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

Agent wanted for picking up shoes that need repairing. Commission basis. Call 584-4208.

AUTOMOBILES

1958 T-Bird conv, V-8, automatic, new top, radio, heater, good condition. $600 or best offer. Call 253-7778 after 5:00 p.m.

FREE: 1963 Convair Monza
- 4 speed
- radio & heater
- new brakes
- 2 new tires—WSW
- engine rebuilt
- excellent condition—25 MPG

When you buy the ashtray
Call Rick or Brenda after 5 p.m.
584-4016

Corvette 1962. Red with white top. With 1965 300 H.P., 327 engine. 4 speed trans. Metal studded snow tires. $1950 or best offer. John Freiman, 455 Hills South, U of M.

FOR SALE

1950 Packard Straight "8". Good condition. $50. New tires and battery. Call Don at 665-2607, 30 Mt. Rd., So. Deerfield, Mass.

View Camera—5 x 7 Linhof color kardon. Would the professor who was interested in this equipment this summer please call Worcester (617)-754-3060 collect.

LOST

Will the male student who took a gold lady's Hamilton watch from a couch in the lobby of South Commons, Sunay evening, Nov. 20. Please return it to 316 Emily Dickinson.

PERSONAL

Take an Indian to lunch this week.

I. L. Y.

Bring Back Gilly.

For Rent

Room for rent. Central Amherst location. Quiet study atmosphere. Call AL 3-5024 after 3:00 p.m.

STUDY IN SOUTHERN FRANCE

A University year in Aix-en-Provence under the auspices of the University of Aix-Marseille (founded 1409).

EUROPEAN AREA STUDIES
FRENCH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE
HONORS PROGRAM
(courses in French University exclusively)
ART AND ART HISTORY
SOCIAL SCIENCES
MEDITERRANEAN AREA STUDIES

Classes in English and French satisfying curriculum and credit requirements of over 280 American Colleges and Universities. Students live in French homes. Total costs equivalent to those at private universities and colleges in the United States.

"SEMESTER PROGRAM IN AVIGNON"
"SUMMER PROGRAM IN AIX-EN-PROVENCE"

Write:
INSTITUTE FOR AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES
(founded 1957)
2 bis, rue du Bon Pasteur
AIX-EN-PROVENCE, FRANCE
Telephone: France (Code 91) 27.82.39 or (Code 91) 27.69.01

English Taught As A Foreign Language

"I have taught English to students from as many as fifteen different countries, all in the same room. I can do it without knowing their native tongue." So comments Dr. Lili Rabel, professor of English at the University.

For two and one half years Dr. Rabel has taught English to graduate and undergraduate foreign students here. The course was discontinued this fall because a new test administered abroad "is supposed to screen out" students not proficient in English,, she reports.

The course, not a remedial one, was a basic English course taught from the view of English as a foreign language.

As a linguist, Dr. Rabel knows methods by which she can extract the minimum amount of information needed to communicate with people. With this she can speak to anyone, she claims.

Dr. Rabel tells of a Korean boy who was to be sent home because his English was very poor: "I could see by his eyes that he was intelligent, so I worked with him whenever I could. He stayed on to become an electrical engineer, although he never spoke fluently."

Dr. Rabel teaches a foreign language by speaking it from the first day on, using gestures and repetition. The black-haired, soft-spoken woman believes "that one should learn a foreign language by first understanding it orally, second speaking, third writing and fourth reading."

The linguist found that one of her problems was that the students, in their native countries, were not taught with the stress on oral communication. "Consequently, they have trouble understanding your direction, and they cannot tell you that they do not understand," Dr. Rabel remarks.

Another problem encountered by the professor was that, until recently, foreign students had to keep a full course load to stay in this country. So they had little time to spend on their English. Dr. Rabel tried to stress that time spent on their English would make other subjects easier.

Being a woman presented another problem. Female teachers are uncommon in several countries. Consequently, some foreigners had to make a further adjustment to taking instructions from a woman.

Under her direction, the class provided a place for the students to let down their hair. Dr. Rabel says that she would discuss anything they wanted to, especially American customs and habits.

An example of a custom foreigners find unusual is the greeting "How do you do." Dr. Rabel points out that they wonder why one should answer "Fine!" if he is not feeling well. "I tell them that it is just a formula, similar to ones in their own language."

This professor has found that some foreigners are engrossed in learning English, while others are not. Among those who are interested, some can speak within two weeks. Some cannot grasp it in two years. Dr. Rabel relates it to a difference in natural ability. Whatever their ability, she admits to endless patience, "if they want help."

Dr. Rabel, a native of Germany, speaks French, Italian and Spanish, along with German and English. She says, however, "I have always loved English ever since I had my first lesson when I was 10." Gratification in the course comes from doing what she loves to do—teaching a language, especially English. She also teaches freshman English and history of the English language.

Friendships are other gratifications. "This is not an essential part of the course, but it is a wonderful extra," Dr. Rabel claims. "And it is the sad part of the course, too, because, after a few wonderful months, you must let them stand on their own and say good-bye."

Foreign students planning to visit Washington during the Christmas holidays are offered local assistance by the Foreign Student Service Council of Greater Washington. Free assistance includes providing a schedule of holiday events in Washington, arranging for accommodations in reasonably priced hotels, a Christmas-season dinner with a Washington family and (for groups only) a guide for touring the Nation's Capital. To avail themselves of such services in Washington, interested foreign students should consult the Foreign Student Adviser and give the Council in Washington at least ten days advance notice.

—Notices—

POLISH LITERATURE COURSE
The Department of Slavic Languages is planning to offer a special course this spring entitled "Polish Literature after World War II." Visiting Professor Andrzej Wirth (Warsaw) will teach this course in Polish.

The course number will be Russian 386—Special Problems, and the classes will meet on Tuesday-Thursday 2:30-3:45 in French Hall, Room 102. All interested students are asked to preregister for Russian 386 on Counseling Day, Dec. 6.

NEWMAN CLUB
On Nov. 30, at 7:00 P.M. there will be a Bible Vigil in the Chapel.

On Nov. 30, at 7:30 P.M. Fr. Bennett's Philosophy of Freedom class will meet in Newman Center Classroom #2.

On Dec. 1, at 8:00 P.M. "The Art of Being Human" will take place in the Newman Lounge.

On Dec. 2, at 7:30 P.M. the movie "I Cry Tomorrow" will be shown in the Newman Center social hall. Admission free to members, 25¢ to non-members.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS
State Senator Donald Ryan will speak at the Young Deograta Meeting 8:30 tonight in the Middlesex Room.

LOST
Auto Registration Plate, Mass.—1966. No. R9 Z57, lost behind T-4. Call Ron—6-7711 if found.

Small brown leather shoulder bag containing contact lenses in round pink case, Borel watch, eyeglasses and ID papers in brown leather case. Lost in vicinity of Parking Lot F. Reward for bag or any contents. Contact Lorna Sass ,546-8591), 2215 J.Q. Adams.

Gold woman's watch somewhere in area of Public Health and Orchard Hill. Please contact Karen, 546-6593.

German Shorthair Pointer, brown and white, chain collar. Reward for return if any information. Call collect, Greenfield 773-3718.

Girl's purse in vicinity of Bartlett on Nov. 21. Call Bill, AL 6-8108.

Woman's cigarette lighter in Mike's Thursday nite. Has initials SAM on back. Sentimental value—Reward. Contact Mrs. Sheryl Andre, 29 Pelham Rd., Amherst AL 6-6611.

PINNINGS
Diane Buker, class of '70, Crabtree, to Lawrence Caannon, class of '69, Phi Delta Pi, Fitchburg State College.

Joy M. Weinmann, class of '67, Hamlin, to Paul White, class of '68, Hills south.

Lesli Sanderson, class of '68, Kappa Kappa Gama, to Bruce Greon class of '67, Beta Theta Pi, Amherst College.

Lynn E. Maus, class of '69, Johnson, to Kenneth N. Day, class of '69, Theta Chi, Lafayette College.

ENGAGEMENTS
Christine Crowley, class of '68, Crabtree, to Larry Benedict, class of '67, Leverett, Mass.

Margie Cotton, class of '68, Johnson House, to Charlie Sisitshy, class of '67, AEPi at W.P.I.

Lorraine M. Mennino, Everett, Mass., to Richard Whitehouse, class of '68, Wheeler.

Anna B. Dalton, class of '68, Van Meter, to Karl O. Polson, class of '66, APO.

NOTICE

To all men who have completed active duty in the Navy. You can earn up to $15 for one evening's work a week and continue advancement of your rating. Positions are available in your local Navy Reserve Unit. For further information call 545-2688, Extension 101A any Wed. or Thurs. between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Yes! It's getting cold again.

But next spring, in

BERMUDA

It'll be hot!

8 days, 7 unbelievable nights

only $175

Contact: Dick Bloom, 253-2893

Alan Fisher, 549-0398

INTRAMURALS

LCA, Maroons Win; 43 for Patriots Stanelis

by ROGER KIPP
Sports Staff

Basketball takes the spotlight as both Dorm and Fraternity action starts to hit high gear.

In Fraternity action, LCA hit on just about everything as they trounced TKE, 71-38, behind Jeff Larson, Jerry Forgit, and Bob McNeil, who got 22, 21, and 16 points respectively. Bob Corradi banged home 20 points for TKE, but it was far from being enough. Elsewhere, ASP downed PMD, 37-25, APE, behind White's 19 points, bumped off PSD, 61-21, and ATG won a big one over Kappa Sig, 52-27.

Beta Phi handled SAM, 63-40, and TEP had little trouble in disposing PSK by, 48-20. SPE, winners of the football crown, may also have a good chance at a similar title in basketball. In a low scoring game, they nudged Theta Chi for their second straight, 31-23. Zeta Nu, after an opening loss, bounced back to tromp over QTV by 58-27. Brian Lajoie led the way with 18 markers.

Turning to the Dorms, the Chadbourne Maroons are at it again. They have come up with another star in Willis Frisbee. Frisbee racked up 28 points as the Maroons crushed the Grants, 75-47, making it the second time that they have scored over 70 points in a game. The Briuns squeezed by the Eagles, 44-32, to complete action in the East league. In the North, the Rams beat the Chestnuts, 56-47, and the Lemons mauled the Hawks, 67-23.

The Grayson Aces, Dorm champs of a year ago, looked the part as they raked up a victory against the Limes, 73-54. John Thomas was the hero with 27 points. Grayson's Flaming A's also look very good as they trampled the Panthers by 70-32. Dick Meyer popped 18 for the A's, and it looks as if it may be a showdown in this league between the A's, Lemons, and of course, the Aces.

Ray Stanelis, the scoring and foul shooting champ of a year ago, turned in the top performance of the season Monday night as he scored 43 points and grabbed 17 rebounds in his team's (Patriots) victory over the Panthers, 82-31. The Colts won over the Colonials, 49-45, in a close one, but the Patriots have to be rated as the favorites in this Southwest League, mainly because of Stanelis.

French Corridor Sponsors The Film "Rififi"

RIFIFI is coming tonight! Don't miss it! Yes, the fourth in a series of prizewinning French films is being presented tonight in Mahar Auditorium at 8 p.m. by the men's and women's French Corridors.

RIFIFI is Jules Dassin's first French film, and it could certainly be said that he has achieved here one of the finest crime pictures ever made.

RIFIFI is the story of a carefully planned, shrewdly executed jewel robbery. Its characters are so developed that you find yourself attached to them, hoping for their success. But the robbery itself is the masterful part of the film: a full thirty-five minutes without dialog! Each moment and each action is so carefully timed that suspense is built to a supreme height.

Starring Jean Servais, Carl Mohner, and Perlo Vito (?) and directed by Jules Dassin, RIFIFI promises to be an evening of outstanding movie entertainment. Tickets will be on sale at Mahar Auditorium before the film at 50c apiece.

COLLEGIANS may be Picked up at Lobby Counter

STUDENT UNION GOVERNORS BOARD

ELECTIONS TODAY

Nov. 30—9-5 p.m., SU

Elect

Wayne Sawchuk

Representative

CLASS OF 1968

Get off your fanny &

Vote for

Liz Damiani

incumbent member

SUG Board

BILL OLDAKOWSKI
(B.S. Industrial Admin.) of the Bethlehem Steel Loop Course knows where the action is. He's on the move at our big, bustling Lackawanna Plant, near Buffalo, N.Y.

Join the action.
First step: pick up a copy of "Careers with Bethlehem Steel and the Loop Course" at your placement office. Then sign up for a campus interview. Our 1967 Loop Class has openings for technical and non-technical graduates (and post-grads) for careers in steel operations, research, sales, mining, accounting, and other activities.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

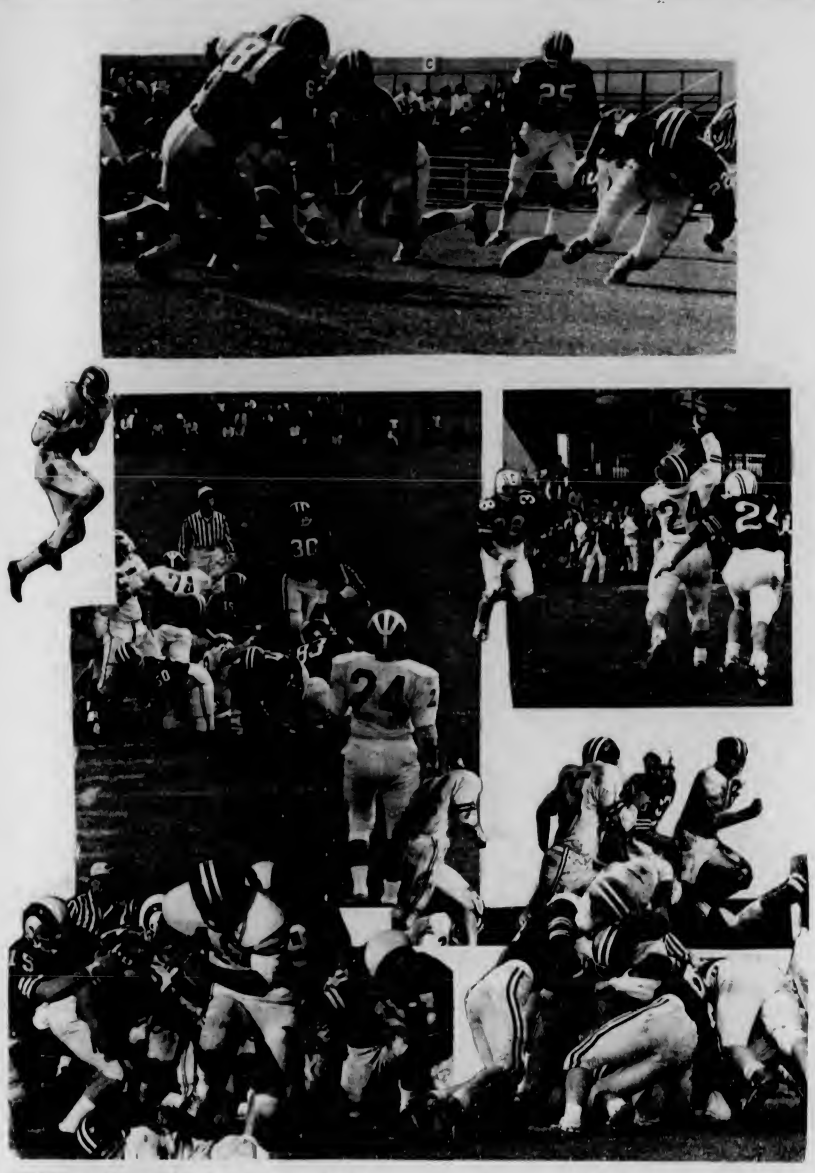
BETHLEHEM STEEL

dreaming about your future?

then stop!

Here's a once in a lifetime opportunity for adventure and challenge.

A civilian career with the Army Recreation or Library Program in Europe or the Far East.



On campus interviews for women who are single, a U.S. Citizen and have a degree in Recreation

Social Science
Arts & Crafts
Music
Dramatics or Library Science

DECEMBER 2nd

SPECIAL SERVICES SECTION
IRCB
DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
WASHINGTON, D. C. 20315

SOUND AND FURY—From the sound and fury that was UMass football 1966, a measure of order was derived. Contributing to the Redmen's success were safety Dave Giarla (22), top photo; end Bill Carty (82), silhouetted at left; kicker Bruce Cochrane (30), center photo; halfback Bob Detore at left center; linebacker Ernie Smith (65), lower right; and in photos at bottom, halfback Don Durkin (40) and quarterback Greg Landry (11).

'66 Redmen Gridders Accentuate Defense

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

It was a season that had the hearts of UMass football fans pounding constantly.

Despite an enormous number of injuries, the Redmen put together a commendable 6-3 record and won their third Yankee Conference championship in four years.

Every game was close, with only one being decided by more than a touchdown. Coach Vic Fusia's team seemed to specialize in fourth quarter rallies, goal line stands and overall team play. No one player stood out above the others.

The offense did not have the awesome power that Redmen teams of the past three years had, but the defense was outstanding in almost every game. Tackles Dick Qualey and Ed Toner, ends Randy Robinson and Bruno Debiak, linebackers Rod Brooks, Ernie Smith and Paul Campbell, and defensive backs Dave Giarla, Mike McArdle and Bob Ellis all helped make the UMass defense a good one.

New Targets

On offense, quarterback Greg Landry did not throw as much as last year when he had Bob Meers and Milt Morin, but the Redmen found some fine receivers in Nick Warnock, Bill Carty and Mike Casey. All will be back next year.

The Redmen's ground attack was led by Don Durkin, Bob Detore, Bruce Cochrane and Tim Driscoll. Of these only Detore will not return next season.

Things went badly for UMass right from start as Toner, guard Bob Santucci and center Dan Harrigan were sidelined by injury. Fusia juggled his lineup all season as more injuries hit the squad. Among the wounded were safety Ed Cody, fullback Dick Benoit, tackle Bill Connor, and cornerback Mike Keblin.

Cochrane Kicks

The opening game was billed as the most crucial of the conference as UMass hosted defending champion Maine. It looked like it would end in a 7-7 tie, but the Redmen's offense suddenly perked up at the finish. Sophomore Cochrane kicked a field goal which barely cleared the posts with 21 seconds remaining to give UMass a 10-7 win.

Heriocs continued after a close 17-7 loss to Lambert Trophy champion Dartmouth. McArdle intercepted a UConn pass and ran 52 yards to pace the Redmen to a 12-6 win.

Another tingler took place at Rhode Island a week later as UMass nipped the Rams, 14-9. Touchdowns by Detore and Durkin put the Redmen into the lead, and Ernie Smith's goal line interception with 30 seconds left preserved the victory.

Homecoming Win

Thereafter, the Redmen took the measure of Boston University 12-7, before a Homecoming crown of 18,700 at Alumni Stadium, and topped Vermont in Burlington, 27-21, in a game which decided the Yan Con championship.

Much-improved Holy Cross provided the opposition next, and the Crusaders cruised to a 16-0 lead by the fourth quarter. UMass retaliated with a score by Landry, and a Landry to Detore aerial capping an 88-yard drive brought the contest to 16-14. A two-point conversion attempt failed and the Crusaders prevailed.

Al Caruso, subbing for the exausted Landry, led UMass to the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter against New Hampshire. The 14-7 win clinched the Beanpot for the Redmen.

A stiff wind helped Boston College, suffering through a bad season, to a 14-7 win in the Redmen's finale. A safety, two field goals and a TD provided the Eagles with their margin of victory while the Redmen scored on a pass to Detore in the third quarter. The six-point toss was the only one of the season scored on Alumni Stadium turf.

In view of the multitude of injuries that plagued UMass throughout the year and the quality of the teams to which the Redmen lost, the 6-3 record compiled by the Redmen must be praised. There will be tough losses of personnel next year, particularly on defense, but Fusia looks forward to an outstanding season.

Skins-Giants Comedy Earns Four Stars

by MIKE GOULD, Sports Editor

Get Smart was hilarious Saturday night, but the Giants—Redskins game Sunday afternoon was side-splitting.

It looked like the early days of the AFL all over again as the Giant defenders treated the Skin ball carriers as if they carried the plague instead of the football.

The Washington tacklers were not exactly blocks of granite themselves, but the crowd at D.C. Stadium loved every minute of the fiasco. So evidently did first-year Skin coach Otto Graham, who let the emotional contagion of the crowd get to him at the end. Graham joined the "We want more" chant of the fans and sent in Charlie Gogolak to kick a rub-it-in field goal with but a few seconds left.

Otto later apologized publicly, but this was unnecessary, for Go-go's three pointer made millions of blood-thirsty fans ecstatic at the sight of the final score: 72-41. In this day of Vietnam and Neo-Nazi worry, Graham's was an act of kindness to the American people — it made them laugh.

Allie Sherman and his post-grads did indeed smart from the absurd score, but their woe cannot detract from the joy felt by the TV viewers as the points came bon marche.

- COLLEGIANS OVERSHADOW PROS -

Outside of the N.Y.-Washington basketball game, weren't the pros overshadowed by the collegians during Thanksgiving?

The 49ers-Lions game hardly met the standards of the great Green Bay-Detroit Turkey Day brawls of the past. As John Brodie towered apart the Lions, the turkey somehow lost its flavor. The meat tasted better when Bart Starr used to do the picking.

The Buffalo-Oakland contest, closely watched by Patriot fans, was no improvement over the Detroit game. The Raiders and their fans showed little enthusiasm. The Bills did, and they won easily.

The boredom of the pro games led viewers to change their channels to the last resort—a college game, and weren't they surprised. The spirit and excitement of the Oklahoma-Nebraska feud made the pro games look like ballet work-outs by comparison. The hitting was fierce, and the crowd was forever screaming as the Sooners upset the Huskers, 10-9, on a last minute field goal.

The Big Eight thriller had the pros bowing their heads until the Skins and Giants performed their defensive wizardry on Sunday. After that memorable comedy, the pros ran away and hid.

Varsity Hoopsters Nip Frosh, 49-43

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

"Oh, no, no, no, no, no, baby something's wrong . . ." go the lyrics to a popular tune, one that Coach Jack Leaman may be singing after the unspectacular performance of his cagers against the frosh Monday night.

True, the varsity won, 49-43, but it didn't exactly attain national ranking with the victory. The Redmen apparently weren't just looking ahead to Saturday's debut; they were staring. The opponent, by the way, will be Bob Cousy's Boston College Eagles—who have been placed as high as fifth in the nation in pre-season polls.

The varsity starters Monday were Tim Edwards, Bill Tindall, and Pete Gayeska up front with Bob Murphy and John Lisack in the backcourt. None performed as well as expected, but Murphy did can three jumpers. Freshman hustler Dan Sweeney was high man with 14 points.

Captain Frank Stewart came off the bench to spark the Redmen with some strong offensive rebounding. Others who saw action were Mike Gemel, John Dreyer, Rick Perkins, Greg Rand, Jim Girotti, Gary Gasparack and Mike Meola.

Sophomore Joey DiSarcina, the expected floor general of the team, was sidelined with a pulled tendon, but he should be ready for the Eagles Saturday.

The only two players assured of starting berths Saturday are veterans Edwards and Tindall, and although both were subpar against the frosh, it's a good bet they'll be one of the outstanding forecourt duos in UMass history.

Tracksters Report

Any freshman interested in participating in indoor and Spring track, please report to Curry Hicks Gym on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday, Nov. 30, Dec. 1, and 2 after 4 p.m.

Detore, Brooks To Be Honored

Scatback Bob Detore and linebacker Rod Brooks, winners of the most weekly citations from the Varsity "M" Club, will receive the grand awards as the top offensive and defensive players of the 1966 Redmen at the annual sports banquet of the Boston Alumni Club of Boston.

B.C. Hoop on Closed Circuit

Plans for a closed circuit telecast of the Boston College-University of Massachusetts basketball game from Curry Hicks Cage to Boyden Gymnasium on December 3 have been announced by Assistant Athletic Director Chet Gladchuk.

"Since it is evident that the seating capacity of Hicks Cage is not adequate to handle all the students who will want to attend our first home game," Gladchuk stated, "arrangements have been formulated with Station WWLP-TV of Springfield for this one game only."

The telecast, broadcast by Bill Rasmussen, will originate in Curry Hicks Cage and will be closed circuited to Boyden Gymnasium where accommodations for 2,500 students will be available. The telecast will also be available live in the Boston area and there will be a video-tape delayed showing over WWLP-TV starting at 11:30 p.m. on December 3.

INDEX
Faculty Senate . 2
Assault 5
Peanuts 5
Notices 9
Cagers 12

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Putala
pg.
4

VOL. XCV, NO. 29 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1966

Student Shoplifting On the Rise In Amherst

Photo by Donovan

In an apparent effort to prove that the hand is quicker than the eye, students have taken in large numbers to shoplifting in the Amherst area.

On Campus—Case for the Dean

by DANIEL MADDEN, Staff Reporter

"It's a constant problem with us," University Store Manager J. Cummings said in an answer to a question on shoplifting. "I've caught an average of one a day and on occasion as many as four in a single morning," he added.

Students, it appears, will steal just about anything from hair spray to student directories.

Cummings related stories of people paying for as much as $20 of merchandise while trying to steal something as small as a pocket comb, or the ex-student who made a policy of always taking something small—"like diamonds"—Cummings noted.

In any case, the store's policy is fixed. "When we detect someone shoplifting (which Cummings defined as trying to leave the store with an article that hasn't been paid for) we call the University Police and the matter is out of our hands."

After the University Police, the matter is handled by the appro-

(Continued on page 7)

Off Campus—Merchants Take Action

by DANIEL MADDEN

"The situation became intolerable, so we decided to take action." Thus, J. Bussin, general manager of the local branch of Zayre's explained his decision to refer the cases of UMass shoplifters to the police.

Elaborating, he stated that his security force apprehends a University shoplifter, typically a girl taking a small item of clothing, twelve or more times a week.

SHOPLIFTERS

A new policy has been announced by Zayre's, one of the leading Hadley department stores, that all student shoplifters will be turned directly over to the Amherst Police. The University has added it will not protect the apprehended student.

In the past he would inform the University of the act and then release the student. However, he was not receiving "satisfaction" from the Deans and in light of this decided to change his policy.

Is it the Univeristy's place to give "satisfaction"? The concensus of officials concerned with the problem is an emphatic no.

Typical of the comments from merchants and officials at U-Mass when this subject is breached are: The student off campus is a free agent, presumably able to tell right from wrong and make normal decisions," as one puts it.

"WE take a position of positive non-interference." "Our function is educational, not judicial." "The University will not function as a court of law." "In outside cases we accept judicial responsibility reluctantly if at all."

The general policy appeared to be that the student is on his own in secular society, the University will not protect him from it or prosecute him for it.

The General Laws of the Commonwealth and the community takes precedence over UMass action. If the law chooses to deal with an offending student the University will recognize the fact.

If no legal action is initiated, the University will not prosecute a student for his actions. In either case it reserves the right to deal with a student if he shows himself an unfit member of the school community.

"If a student is an habitual thief or drunkard or has homi-

(Continued on page 7)

Photo by Donovan

An unidentified student shoplifter deftly defies the law in one of the area leading department stores. The student was apprehended upon leaving the store and will not be protected by the University.

Photo by Donovan

With the rise of shoplifting area merchants have stepped up programs for apprehending and persecuting thieves. All the students in these pictures were apprehended.

Role of Counselor Changes

Students Assume Responsibilities

Ed. Note: This is the second article in a two part series on the role of the counselors.

by MARSHALL NADAN
Staff Reporter

The roles of counselors and heads of residence regarding dorm government have under gone a change. Students must now assume the responsibility for the management of their residence calls. Counselors and heads of residence are to advise students on their new responsibility.

But, the role of the counselor and the role of the student in his relationship with him cannot change by University decree alone. This seems to be the opinion of those who have been working closely with the problems of residence hall staff (i.e. heads of residence and counselors) and who have had a hand in bringing about their new roles.

An atmosphere in which students actively seek and assume their new responsibility, and in which residence hall staff willingly hand it over to them is a prime prerequisite for true social reform.

Commenting on the work of the Student Life Committee of which he is a member, John Lemoine said, "All of the recommendations thus far have been in the spirit of more participation by students. In this realm students will have a right to live as they choose, but this imposes a responsibility on students themselves to see that their community is run in an adult, and responsible fashion." Lemoine, class of '67, added that the obligation is now on the students themselves.

Dr. Mark Noffsinger, Chairman of the Student Life Committee, said that he would like for students to be able to start out fresh and then add rules only as needed. "I don't desire a police state with students running up and down the hall," he continued. "I expect a common code of behavior."

Noffsinger also said that he was aware that pockets of resistance to the new spirit of student responsibility existed among Heads of Residence and counselors. To assume otherwise would be naive, he stated. He emphasized that more cooperation and understanding are needed.

Jackie Hall, Chairman of Women's Affairs Committee of the Student Senate, believes that counselors will not be broken away from the authority figure image in one year. Miss Hall, who is also a member of the Student Life Committee, explained that the locking of doors and informing male callers to leave at dorm closing hours is still the responsibility of the counselor. "The minute she walks through the lobby with those keys she is an authority figure," Miss Hall declared.

Asked if this was not just what the Student Life Committee was trying to get away from, she replied "exactly." She added, "This cannot be done until the administration learns that it will take more than a weekend work-shop. The University doesn't train counselors to counsel. They are not adequately prepared." She continued, "It will

(Continued on page 3)

Still Hazardous!

The fire hoses in the Towers, reported inadequate several weeks ago by the Collegian and Amherst Fire Chief Doherty, have not yet been brought up to safety standards.

Student Senate Recommends Change in Mandatory Board

by FRAN BORONSKI

In the appropriate environment of Southwest Dining Commons on Wednesday night, the Student Senate passed a proposal to recommend to the Board of Trustees that the policy of the Southwest dining area be changed.

The proposed change would allow Southwest residents who are members of fraternities or sororities, seniors, or over 21, to be subject to the same rules that govern students in other campus residential areas. At the present time all residents of Southwest Complex are obligated to purchase a meal ticket.

Gerald Grady, Business Manager of the University, appeared before the Senate to answer questions regarding the $35 raise in meal tickets for next semester.

He cited several reasons for the increase:

- increase in interest rates on buildings by the University Bond Authority.
- increased fringe benefits for regular Commons employees
- increased prices of wholesale food.

Any students who have complaints about Commons operations should channel these complaints through their senators who will transmit them to the Committee on Food Services.

As a result of another motion passed by the Senate, Stockbridge Freshmen and swing-shift freshmen will now be included in and given copies of the Freshman Directory. A fee of one dollar will be included on the first semester bill for these students.

Changes in the Student Senate Loan Policy were also approved. The policy, whereby students may borrow money at the beginning of the semester to purchase books, will go into effect in February, 1966.

The constitution of Alpha Phi

(Continued on page 7)

MANDATORY PHOTO STAFF MEETING
Monday, Dec. 5th at 7 p.m. in the Collegian Office. All personnel with Collegian photo equipment must attend.

Collegian Opens Training Program For Future Editors

An extensive two phased training program, the most extensive in the Collegian's history, will be launched by this newspaper Monday.

In an effort to recruit talented staffers as well as train new editors prior to February's election the Collegian will conduct an open house Tuesday between 2 and 5 pm and has established a nine session training program for future editors.

The open house Tuesday will be to introduce the campus community to the operations of the paper and to sign up new staff members.

The open house will be followed up by three introductory training sessions in the areas of writing, copyediting, headlining, business and advertising.

The detailed nine session program for future editors begins Monday and is open to the entire campus.

However, Editor-in-Chief Gordon Davidson expressed hope that a good number of juniors would turn out for the program.

"The Collegian is always looking for new staffers but we especially want upperclassmen to fill the editor positions," Davidson said.

He said that the entire staff would be on hand "with open arms" to greet new staffers over a cup of coffee on Tuesday.

All training sessions for editors will last an hour and will be informal. A minimum of six of the nine sessions will be required.

The following is the schedule for the program: All sessions begin at 4:00 p.m.

Middlesex Room, Dec. 5, Identifying the Newspaper's Audience, Mr. Oickle

Middlesex Room, Dec. 6, Libel and the Law, Mr. Politella

Middlesex Room, Dec. 7, Headlines, Makeup and Photos, Mr. Oickle

Plymouth Room, Dec. 8, History of the Collegian, Mr. Musgrave

Middlesex Room, Dec. 9, Taste and Ethics, Mr. Politella

Middlesex Room, Dec. 12, Staff Organization and Delegating Duties, Mr. Oickle

Hampden Room, Dec. 13, The Collegian Constitution, Mr. Musgrave

Nantucket Room, Dec. 14, Opinion Writing, Mr. Politella

Middlesex Room, Dec. 15, Responsibilities of the Press, Mr. Musgrave

COUNSELORS' ROLE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

take education of both counselors and students. And it will take money."

Miss Hall further explained, "In many ways it is the same situation for the Heads of Residence. The old Heads of Residence should not be fired; rather they should be given intensive training."

Asked what immediate things could be done to break away the counselor from the authority image, Miss Hall suggested that counselors could be relieved of the responsibility of locking the dorm doors at night by turning this job over to the security guards. She also suggested that telling male callers to leave at closing hours could perhaps be taken over either by the night receptionist or by a member of the elected house council.

John Greenquist, President of the Student Senate, agreed that the old system is still in effect to a great degree. "The counselors still accept the old idea of enforcing rules," he said. Greenquist, who is also a counselor at Thatcher House, continued, "Until a new system is developed within the dorm in which the residents accept the responsibility for themselves, the counselor will continue to have a dual role —advisory and enforcement. Any open or flagrant violation he will have to stop."

Greenquist seemed to sum up the opinions of most of those interviewed when he said, "Right now it is a period of learning. Once residents accept their new role, this system will really work, will really develop."

He also added that if a house council chooses not to set up a system of enforcement, then it is up to each individual. If an individual does not accept his responsibility, then he should have no complaints about infractions.

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price: $4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office: Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Faculty Discuss Lighting, Approve New Courses

by PAM METAXAS
Staff Reporter

Several interesting topics, including campus sign posts and campus lighting, were discussed at the Thursday meeting of the Faculty Senate in SBA auditorium.

The Faculty Senate also approved the following appointments to the Student Communications Board: Harry Allen, Leone A. Barron, William Havard, Albert Hulsen, Isidore Silver.

During the Question Period Kenneth W. Johnson, treasurer of the Faculty Senate, was questioned about permanent sign posts. He said such signs would be placed at main points on campus to direct people. Such signs would "cost from $10-12,000."

He also answered questions concerning the traffic light at Ellis Drive that is still out of operation. He remarked that the Senate has asked the Department of Public Works repeatedly to fix the light and as of yet it has not been. The light has been out of operation since summer excavation in the area. Some members of the Senate felt the lack of this light was hazardous to driving while others believed it was better as the traffic moved faster, eliminating the bottleneck.

In the field of safety "precautions in traffic situations," Johnson continued by explaining that "Money for lights, walks, parking areas and landscaping will come out of capital appropriations."

Last year the University received $500,000 in appropriations from the governor for "road-work on campus."

"Areas not related to construction were cut back $1,000,000 by the legislature," he added. He cited evidences of such road-work: There are temporary lights in Southwest. Also on North Hadley Rd, leading to SW, a paved sidewalk has been constructed, along with fences and temporary lighting.

He noted that the lighting for the entire SW area has been confused because the designer up to

(Continued on page 7)

Photo by Donovan

Two years ago Gordon Davidson started out with the Collegian as a reporter with a very minimal salary.

Now Gordy is Editor-in-Chief of the finest newspaper on campus, has thumbed 8,000 miles around the country during the summer and goes out with the best women at UMass.

This is what the Collegian can do for you. Stop in at our Open House Tuesday getween 2:00 and 5 and let the Collegian make you a success.

Student's Wife Commits Suicide

The 23-year-old wife of a University of Massachusetts grad student died of a self inflicted gunshot wound in the Lincoln Apartments on the University campus Wednesday.

Mrs. Theresa M. Buziassy, wife of Charles Buziassy, a grad student in food and technology, died of external hemorrhages from the self-inflicted wound, according to Medical Examiner R. Sheldon Clapp of Amherst. A 308 semi-automatic rifle was found beside the body.

Mrs. Buziassy was discovered on the living room floor of her apartment at 12:43 p.m., Wed.

Police were unable to question Charles Buziassy, who is under a doctor's care at the University of Massachusetts Infirmary.

Mrs. Buziassy was born in Hungary, Apr. 19, 1943, and had been employed in the purchasing department of the UMass treasurer's office.

(Reprinted from Springfield Union)

GET A HEAD START...

. . . As you leave school and begin your working career, you will be hearing about the changes that have been taking place at Allis-Chalmers. New products! New markets! New growth!

But why not GET THE WORD NOW, from our representative who will be on campus. Perhaps you can get a head start—be part of the action.

Today, Allis-Chalmers has professional career opportunities for all engineering graduates with emphasis on Electrical, Industrial, and Mechanical backgrounds. Also available are unexcelled opportunities for the Business Administration graduate.

CONTACT YOUR PLACEMENT OFFICE FOR A CAMPUS INTERVIEW ON:

ALLIS-CHALMERS
AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

AMHERST Cinema
Now • Ends Tues.
on screen 6:40-9:00

—EXCITEMENT!—
BURT LANCASTER
LEE MARVIN · ROBERT RYAN · JACK PALANCE
RALPH BELLAMY with CLAUDIA CARDINALE as Maria
THE PROFESSIONALS
Written for the Screen and Directed by RICHARD BROOKS
A COLUMBIA PICTURES RELEASE · PANAVISION® TECHNICOLOR®

Vote December 7

For your choice

of

Winter Carnival Queen

DEERFIELD
Drive-In Theatre
Route 5 & 10
South Deerfield, Mass.
Tel. 665-9701

Fri. - Sat. - Sun.

WARREN BEATTY SUSANNAH YORK
KALEIDOSCOPE
TECHNICOLOR® FROM WARNER BROS.

also

CHAMBER OF HORRORS
TECHNICOLOR® FROM WARNER BROS.

Showtime 7:30
Sun.: Kaleidoscope 7:30

Volunteers Needed To Critique Courses

OK, baby, so you held out. You didn't buy your Critique for 50¢. You thought, "I know those guys at Critique....if I wait they'll sell them much cheaper later in the year....like for 25¢." Well baby, you're wrong. How could we possibly sell those wonderful magazines for a quarter? Instead, for one day only, in the SU lobby, Monday, Dec. 5, we're letting them go for 20¢!!!! Why, you ask? Why, to help you out for Counseling Day of course. Why else?

More important: As most of you know by now, Critique is going into classes this week and next. We desperately need volunteers to help us distribute questionnaires in classes. If you have any free time next week, please sign up Monday at the Critique table in the Student Union lobby, or in the office. The total time involved is only 30 minutes. (You might even get your name in print.) Remember: Critique is your magazine — don't let us down.

Small Voting Turnout Determines SUG Board Election Results

Class of 1968

35	Liz Damiani
43	Neal Waldman
*78	Jerry Paquette
*92	Jacquelyn H. Hall

*Winners

Class of 1969

79	Ed Bowe
*137	Susan Brady
60	Robert G. Ross
*115	Neal Whitman
12	Charles Schultz
15	Amy Fraade
99	Cathi Sullivan
49	Chuck Smith

*Winners

Class of 1970

15	Daniel P. Madden
3	Wayne Sawchuk
*63	Sander Sandy Ross
21	Mike McAndrew
32	Bob Silva

*Winner

Placement Schedule

The Placement & Financial Aid Office has scheduled the following organizations to conduct on-campus employment interviews on the dates indicated. This list is accurate as of Nov. 30. However, you are reminded that you should read the Placement News each week to be informed of changes that might occur in the schedule.

It is necessary for those interested in taking interviews to register with the Placement Office before making an appointment with an employing organization.

New organizations are periodically being added to this schedule throughout the year.

There are many school systems which recruit on campus during the months of February and March but they are not listed on this list.

You are also reminded that the on-campus interview is only one source of potential employment. The Placement Office may also be able to assist you with direct referrals.

December 1
General Foods Corporation
U.S. Public Health (Boston)
Eastman Kodak Company
Federal Mogul Corporation
Hooker Chemical Co.
Worcester County National Bank
American Optical Company

December 2
General Tire and Rubber Company
David Taylor Model Basin
United Illuminating Company
Worthington Corporation
Sikorsky Aircraft
American Optical Company
Internal Revenue Service

December 5
Pratt & Whitney
Grinnell Corporation
American Electric Power Service
National Center for Health Statistics
Rohm & Haas Company
Detroit Civil Service
U.S. Army Audit Agency

December 6
New Jersey Zinc Company
Monarch Life Insurance Co.
New England Gas & Electric
Ford Motor Company
Metcalf & Eddy Company
Babcock & Wilcox Company
National Security Agency
General Dynamics/Electric Boat

December 7
City of Philadelphia
Diamond Alkali Company
Naval Ship System Command
Morgan Construction Company
Standard Oil Co. of Ohio
Public Service Electric & Gas Co.
General Electric Company
Ford Motor Company

December 8
Chandler Evans, Inc.
Union Carbide Corp.—Group 1
Torrington Company
Standard Oil of Ohio
General Electric Company
Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada
New York Dept. of Health
New York Dept. of Public Works
Northeast Utilities Service Co.

December 9
Naval Ordance Laboratory
U.S. Dept. of the Navy
Borden Chemical Company
United Shoe Machinery Company
Morse Chain Company
Owen-Corning Fiberglas Corporation
Haskins & Sells
Armstrong Rubber Company

December 12
Shell Companies
E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.
Ingersol—Rand Co.
Rogers Corporation
International Voluntary Services
Arthur Young & Company
Sprague Electric Company
Atlas Chemical Industries, Inc.
Western Union Telegraph

December 13
Parke, Davis & Company
Howard, Needles, Tammen & Bergendoff
Xerox Corporation
Sanders Associates, Inc.
Hamilton Standard
E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.
Central Intelligence Agency
Perkins Elmer Corporation

December 14
Eastman Kodak Company
Hercules Powder Company
Parke, Davis & Company
Leeds & Northup
Vitro Laboratories
Hamilton Standard
New England Gas & Electric
Central Intelligence Agency

December 15
Health Survey Consultants
Bethlehem Steel Corporation
Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co.
Eastman Kodak Company
York Corporation
U.S. Army Material Command
Atlantic Refining Company
New Britain Machine Company
Monsanto Company
Central Intelligence Agency

December 16
Rex Chainbelt, Inc.
Bell Systems
Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery
Monsanto Company
Union Carbide Research Center
Central Intelligence Agency
Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co.
Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.

December 19
Sinclair Research
Upjohn Pharmaceutical Company
Sylvania Electric Products, Inc.
Factory Mutual Eng'g Division
Ara Slater School & College Service
Algonquin Gas Transmission Co.
I.C.I. (Organics), Inc.
Touche, Ross, Bailey & Smart

January 3
Filene's
Lycoming Div./Avco Corporation
Marine Midland Grace Trust Co.
U.S. General Accounting Office
Marine State Highway Commission
U.S. Army Corps of Engineers

January 4
Campbell Soup Company
General Motors Corporation
United Aircraft Corporate System
Union Cabide—Carbon Products
Price, Waterhouse & Company
Underwriters Labs Inc.
U.S. Geological Survey
National Life Insurance Co.

January 5
Arthur Andersen & Company
Campbell Soup Company
General Motors Corporation
Johnson & Johnson
Simonds Saw & Steel Company
Union Carbide—Carbon Products
Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation
Grumman Aircraft Engineering
United Fruit Company

January 6
Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.
Airborne Instruments Lab.
Dun & Bradstreet Inc.
U.S. Naval Underwater Weapons
Factory Insurance Association
Edwards & Kelcey, Incorporated
New England Electric System
Food & Drug Administration

January 9
FMC Corporation—Chemical Division
Sanborn Division—Hewlett Packard
Naval Propellant Plant
Veterans Administration Hospital
Chevron Chemical Company
Bureau of Federal Credit Unions
Aveo Corporation
Burndy Corporation
Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co.

NEWMAN CENTER
FIRST FRIDAY
MASSES:
6:50, 12:15, 5:00

Campus Campaign To Cancel Clutter

Photo by Kelly

Clutter cans, and paper cups don't belong here . . .

Photo by Kelly

But here . . .

Musigals
TRY-OUTS
ALL PARTS
DECEMBER 6 & 7
STUDENT UNION
6:00 P.M.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE A PEP RALLY?

ANNOUNCING
VISIT YOUR SNACK BAR WEEK

NORTH
7:00 A.M.-11:00 P.M.
WEEKDAYS
11:00 A.M.-7:00 P.M.
WEEKENDS

DON'T FORGET OUR NEWEST ADDITION

GREENOUGH
4:00 P.M.-11:00 P.M.
WEEKDAYS

FEATURING
HAMBURGS
MILK SHAKES
FRENCH FRIES

SPECIAL THIS WEEK
HAMBURG and LARGE COKE—40¢

SOUTHWEST 7
5:00 P.M.-MIDNIGHT
DAILY
11:00-11:00 WEEKENDS

While at Greenough, tell us what you think of our interior decorating done by R. G.

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

Wilson's Nightmare

by Chet Weinerman, Editorial Chairman

Last week, the United Nations Security Council censured Israel for its reprisal raid commited by Israel against Jordan. The November 13 attack on Jordan is reportedly the seventh "retaliatory raid" in the last two years. Estimates of attacks in the same time period by Middle Eastern countries against Israel have been reported as high as seventy-one.

Israel's neighbors have wanted to "drive her into the sea" since her inception. Whether or not the U.N.'s creating a State of Israel was legal should not be argued today by the Arab bloc—nearly twenty years later. The decision was made by the world's single instrument of peace and should be respected as final law.

Yet, this same United Nations has chosen to all but ignore the scores of attacks against Israel. One cannot help but wonder why the U.N. failed to pass a resolution against Syria following a series of border incidents in which Israel did not retailiate. Certainly the United Nations of the world should realize that Israelis have built out of what was largely desert land the most modern and prosperous country in her part of the world, and she has everything to lose and nothing to gain by a war. On the other hand, the Arab countries resent Israel's possession of her 8050 square miles and her great success. From the eighteenth day of May, 1948, the Arab League has been trying to crush Israel, both militarily and economically (TIME magazine reports this week that Lebanon refused to let Walt Disney's Sleeping Beauty be shown in that nation because the horse in the film was named Samson. Also reported is the total Arab boycott of all companies—including Coca Cola and Ford—who deal with Israel). Israel has no such military or economic blockade against the Arab countries. The Arab countries admittedly refuse to rest until Israel is destroyed.

But because of "expedient politics"—the Soviet Union is supporting the Arab world (not for altogether noble purposes) and the ever-truthful United States does not want to antagonize several countries at the expense of one tiny but honest and strong ally—Israel has been charged as the aggressor. It is just one more failure for a United Nations that intentionally has been made nothing more than a crippled political puppet, and it is one more victory for world power plays and Middle East squeeze plays.

It is better that Woodrow did not live to see his dream become the nightmare that it is fast becoming.

"Heads Will Roll"

by JOE ROSS, Editorial Staff

In a certain Botany 101 class, over 90% of the class flunked a recent exam. This is a disturbing situation, to say the least.

Equally disturbing, however, is the proposal which has been made that the students involved complain to their state legislatures.

We can just picture a well-known State Senator as he slams down a botany exam in front of President Lederle and yells "Heads will roll!" Or a certain female Senator who, on discovering references to sexual reproduction in plants, agrees that an investigation is needed.

There are many channels open on campus for students to complain about a professor or anything else without going to Our Men in Boston.

If so many students think their grade was unfair, they can complain to the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee, the Faculty Senate Academic Matters Committee, the head of the Botany Department, the Dean of Arts and Sciences, the Provost, the President, or the Board of Trustees.

If they feel justified, they can organize a stay-out from lectures or from the next exam, a mass boycott of the professor, or anything else that they may, in their ingenuity, devise.

The University has long suffered from too much interference from Beacon Hill. Only when all other avenues have failed should complaints be directed to the Legislature. Let's not make the University any more of a political football than it already is.

Cool It

by PAUL ROBERT HALLOCK, Editorial Staff

If you drive, don't read this bit of insulting rubbish. It couldn't apply to YOU.

If you don't drive, and if you haven't been warned already, for God's sake watch out when you're crossing the street.

Your mother told you this when you were young, but the point needs to be driven home for the benefit of anyone who happens to walk the campus.

I usually wait a half an hour to cross the street—after the race has sped by. Others don't. I was talking with a young lady the other day who said she just closes her eyes and walks. I asked her if she'd gone bananas.

She said, "Oh, they always stop."

#¢(!@)°!!

If you drive, cool it.

It doesn't cost anything.

"Putridala" Predicament

To the Editor,

I would like to call the student body's attention to the fact that there is a certain non-entity, Mr. Putala of the Botany department, on the UMass faculty whose efforts to educate the chimpanzees (Remember?) on campus should not go unheralded. This modern-day Socrates says he is "trying to teach us the right way to think."

If Socrates were to continue his quest today to learn whether or not he was the wisest man on earth, he would discover a new holder of the title. Yes, for Mr. Putala, who should be crowned with a wreath of his laurels, has posed questions to students for years designed to make them think; and after a trial and error method, these chimps discover their mental processes are in need of correction. This man believes students to be intellectually deficient, and his tests prove it. See how few pass his exams! Come now, don't be a sore sport! Loaded exams?

To continue the Socratic analogy, Socrates' questioning used to make people squirm; Mr. Putala's tests have the same effect and then some. He enjoys the "wailing and gnashing of teeth" of student complaints; he revels in it!

In Mr. Putala's opinion "97% of the world thinks incorrectly about what goes on around him." We Botany students should appreciate the fact that we are some of the few "chosen" to benefit from this man's omniscience. He may be a saint incognito. What appears to be his aura of superiority, may actually be a halo. The fact that he should expend his valuable ideas on us, when the entire world is in dire need of his services, should make us tremble with eagerness for his discourse. So support this intellectual crusade to save our minds.

Not only can he teach Botany, but also humility. The topics are not unrelated. If you do not feel humility (outrage?) after taking one of his tests, you do not qualify as one of his potential disciples. Either you passed it, and are satisfied with your way of thinking (maybe his, whatever that may be) or you are just too stupid to know any better.

Thus once your mental self-confidence has been shaken, your mind is ripe for the fruits of "Putridala." It is a tearing down, building up process. After all, he says, "it's not my fault you're not all college material," so give him time to make something of you. If anyone can teach you to think logically, Mr. Putala can; he is of the other 3%.

This great man has also solved the problem of student deferment on draft status. Anyone who passes his test is college material, thus there will be plenty of soldiers left for Vietnam—why there may even be a surplus for a war in Africa, motherland of the chimpanzee. How ironic!

So, fellow Botany students, please don't despair over your recent humility (and stop gnashing your teeth!). Your failure will make your success in "Putridala" all the more sweeter. So lift up your hearts, and open your eyes (don't let the light blind you!) and let's pay due respect to our Botany teacher.

What's this? Cursing? Undertones of dissension? Don't rock the pedestal! Holy rebellion! Humility seems just too much for 97% of Mr. Putala's potential disciples who flunked his first hourly this semester. Put hemlock in his coffee? What price genius!

Patrick Flaherty '69

Charlie Brown
is smart . . .
he works for the Collegian.
Can you say the same?

The American Way . . .

To the Editor:

The Botany master has struck once again. Professor Putala has risen to newer and even greater heights of academic glory. Never one to be satisfied with mediocrity, the Professor has achieved an even higher pinnacle of academic perfection

Not content with a spring '66 record of a mere 58 per cent failing an exam, the grand professor established a new ECAC, NCAA, AND AAU record by defying all the pre-season critics and failing 97 per cent of the Botany 101 class on his first exam in October. Yes, that's right—97 per cent. Let's hear it for the professor, not just anyone can fail 97 per cent of a class. It's good to see that the academic standards of UMass are ever rising.

But oh—what of the poor 451 out of 466 students who failed. Obviously, these wretched outcasts of society can only be the entire cause for this fiasco. Everyone knows that the average student never studies enough for an exam. In the interest of journalistic enlightenment, I must confess that I too did not study enough. It's common knowledge that 15 hours of study in 2 afternoons and an entire night can never fully prepare anyone for an hour exam. There is, of course, another reason—there always is, isn't there?

For young and inexperienced as I am, I was foolish enough to actually study Botany. Had I but known, I could have studied those things that really matter and must be expected on an exam of this type. Necessary things—like the use of double negative, parlor tricks in semantics, and the derivation of vital botanical terms like "Buckwheat": You know, important stuff like that.

But who are we to complain? Isn't that the American way—for things to ever rise and ever expand? So lets all give good old Professor Putala a hearty cheer. It's wonderful to be shown at last what the American University system is really supposed to be and to have men like Professor Putala around to show us what the U. Mass academic system is actually all about. Thanks a whole bunch, Professor, for finally opening our eyes.

An enlightened student

An Open Door Problem

To the Editor:

There are five exits to the hatch, two of which open directly to the outside, with an entranceway at the North door. I assume the purpose of this entrance-way was to provide an air cushion in hopes of minimizing cold blasts of air during the winter months.

The South exit, opening to the outside, has no such provision. Since this door is locked from the outside, it is obvious that the intention is for it not to be used as an entrance, yet it is used freely as an exit. While this may be convenient for those leaving the hatch, it certainly is not for the unfortunate individuals who happen to be seated near this doorway.

Now, to make a bad situation worse, it seems that both the North and South doors malfunction to the extent that if someone opens either wide enough, the door will remain open until some person seated inside leaves his meal and walks over to close the door. Which, in view of the traffic these passages receive, may total 8 to 10 times in a 5 minute span.

The problem is one of administration by those responsible, and one of consideration on the part of students for their fellows.

Can't something be done?

Citizen

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68

TODAY'S EDITORS

News: Marjie Flanders '69
Editorial: Ellie Skinner '70
Sports: Mike Gould '67
Photo: John Kelly '69

Campus Comment

A Conscience Salver?

To the Editor:

The editorial by Mike Hersh, "A Conscience Salver," is something of a masterpiece. It reads well, and, as with most dangerous propaganda, contains some truth. It is admittedly reprehensible that the only thing, or at least the first thing, that the national press has to say about Brooke is that he is a Negro. The whole point is that they, as is also true of Mr. Hersh, cannot see anything in the man beyond this point.

I can understand that Mr. Hersh was disappointed by the failure of Mr. Peabody to win election. I cannot understand that he feels something to be inexcusable in one man (Brooke) because of his color, which was excusable in another. If Brooke disclaims "black power," he is disclaiming what that phrase means to the majority of his listeners, not "representation in government" as defined by Mr. Hersh.

The idea that "black power is the very reason that a black man would want Brooke elected" is the most extremely racist editorial statement I have read outside of the Jackson (Mississippi) Daily News. To imply that other men may vote for a person on the basis of his beliefs, actions and stature as a man, but that a Negro cannot, can be considered as nothing else but racism.

I voted for Edward Brooke because: (1) He has maintained his integrity in public office in Massachusetts (something of a miracle); 2) He recognizes the danger of the present course in Viet Nam; and (3) He had the courage to publish and elaborate on his views in position papers (which I searched in vain for from any other candidate), and which I support.

Yes, Mr. Hersh, someone may attempt to dangle Edward Brooke before "his own people" (whoever they are — all honest men perhaps?) but (1) I sincerely doubt if Mr, Brooke will allow himself to be dangled by anyone, he never has; and (2) Such action could not possibly silence anyone's complaints. Any person who suffers under injustice will not believe that injustice has been corrected.

If Mr. Hersh believes that Edward Brooke will "serve to undermine the Negro position" I suggest he read his position paper on civil rights. Mr. Brooke will be precisely what any just man desires and needs first: an honest and courageous voice and vote in the Senate of the United States.

Neil Hindman, Grad.

Selective Service: Re-evaluation Needed

To the Editor:

It seems incredible that with the controversy and discussions going on throughout this country's campuses, that the President's National Advisory Committee on Selective Service should meet "a massive wave of indifference among the nation's college students" (Oct. 31, article reprinted from the Boston Globe) on the draft issue. One is forced to ask whom the nine-man board is interviewing (have you been asked your opinion?), what questions are being asked, and how the responses are being interpreted.

Granted, a re-evaluation of the selective service system is well over-due. Student discussion on this campus is especially pertinent in the case of the Selective Service Exam. This test poses several questions.

First, what is the nature of a draft deferment and should college students be deferred?

Second, is this exam a proper function of a University concerned with academic studies?

Third, does this test give preferential treatment of college students over those who cannot afford or who are unable to go to college?

Fourth, should scholastic grades be used to determine draft status and should this university automatically give out class standings to draft boards?

Fifth, by taking this exam is the student cooperating with a military machine that is responsible for operations in Vietnam?

It is difficult to be "indifferent" about a system that so directly affects both men and women in this country, and one which is so full of inequities. In the hopes of stimulating thought and discussion, I would like to propose that the Collegian start a running forum on this topic, that the Collegian, the Senate or some other campus organization take the responsibilitiey of conducting a student poll to study reactions to the draft system and new student proposals, and that the results of such a study be forwarded to the President's National Advisory Committee on Selective Service.

A symposium studying the theory behind the draft, the ins and outs of deferment policy, protest action, etc., would also seem to be in order.

Dani Ostrow '67

Why Not?

To the Editor:

A question has arisen in regard to the Peter, Paul and Mary Concert of November 21, 1966.

What precedent has been established that permits the reserving en masse of one hundred plus seats at a concert for which only unreserved tickets have been sold ?

If such continues at future concerts, why not offer reserved seat tickets for sale ?

B. P. '67

On Assault

On November 4 the Collegian published a brief attempt to clarify and define the way in which this board views the problem of thefe on our campus and approaches cases concerning it, but this hardly exhausted the possibilities of a discussion of student responsibility.

It is a commonly held belief that as a man educates himself he depends progressively less upon purely physical means of expressing or asserting himself. However, in view of one repitition of cases involving some form of assault referred to the Men's Judiciary Board, one would be hard put to substantiate an assumption on this campus.

The frustrations of a heavy work load and the anxieties of University life are a source of tension upon all students. Some feel the pressure more than others and are more apt to show it. But this is not justification for a disregard for the physical well-being of fellow students, as is sometimes manifested in assault. It is unfortunately not uncommon that a student is physically accosted by one or more of his peers.

In the cases that have recently been reviewed by this board, provocation has not proven to be justification.

The damage that can be and often is inflicted by the imprudent use of violence is frequently permanent and potentially extensive. Readiness on the part of any man to inflict it can only be a sign of his lack of maturity and appreciation for the respect he owes his fellow citizens—a childish display of uncontrollable temper. It is not nor will it be considered by this board to be excessively harsh for such a man to be suspended from the University.

MEN'S JUDICIARY

Sam Spark was once an eminent journalist . . . now he's working for the COLLEGIAN. Can you qualify? Come in Dec. 5, 2-5 p.m.

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES

for Seniors and Graduates in MECHANICAL, AERONAUTICAL, CHEMICAL, CIVIL (structures oriented), ELECTRICAL, MARINE, and METALLURGICAL ENGINEERING

ENGINEERING MECHANICS, APPLIED MATHEMATICS, CERAMICS, PHYSICS and ENGINEERING PHYSICS

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

MONDAY, DEC. 5

Appointments should be made in advance through your College Placement Office

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft DIVISION OF UNITED AIRCRAFT CORP. UA

An Equal Opportunity Employer

SPECIALISTS IN POWER . . . POWER FOR PROPULSION—POWER FOR AUXILIARY SYSTEMS. CURRENT UTILIZATIONS INCLUDE AIRCRAFT, MISSILES, SPACE VEHICLES, MARINE AND INDUSTRIAL APPLICATIONS.

OPPORTUNITIES IN CITY OF DETROIT

Engineering design and construction of streets, sewers, bridges, water treatment plants, pumping stations, pipelines and municipal buildings; Budgeting, auditing, systems analysis, cost analysis and public utility accounting; Real and personal property appraising; Purchasing; Personnel; Public housing; Recreation and physical education; Analytical and control chemistry; Landscape Architecture; Hospital and public health nursing; Medical technology; Occupational and physical therapy; Nutrition and dietetics.

Campus Interviews DECEMBER 5, 1966

See your Placement Office for an appointment

Dear Freshmen & Transfer Women,

You are cordially invited to attend our informal parties this Sunday, December 4th from 2:30-4:00 p.m. We are looking forward to meeting you. So please don't forget!

Sincerely yours,

THE SISTERS OF:

Alpha Phi Omega
Chi Omega
Iota Gamma Upsilon
Kappa Alpha Theta
Kappa Kappa Gamma
Lambda Delta Phi
Pi Beta Phi
Sigma Delta Tau (at Tau Epsilon Phi)
Sigma Kappa
Sigma Sigma Sigma

UMass Doctors to Discuss Availability of Birth Control

In Farley Lodge on Sunday night at 7:00, a panel discussion on "Should Birth Control be Available to Unmarried People?" will take place. S.R.L., a local chapter of the national Student Religious Liberals, has invited Dr. Henry Schoenberger, Dr. William Darity, and Dr. Robert Gage to discuss this stimulating topic.

Dr. Schoenberger is an eloquent critic of premarital sex. As he stated in Record Week a few week ago, he feels that the marital situation entailing many responsibilities is likely to be very disillusioning to the couple who have partiicpated in premarital sex in a more carefree situation. He will take the position that birth control material should not be available to the unmarried person in most cases.

On the other hand, Dr. William Darity is quickly becoming known for his research on Family Planning and his interest in the sex attitudes and knowledge of the college student. He will be taking the affirmative position.

Dr. Robert Gage will be the moderator and will represent the infirmary.

The initial impetus for the discussion will be produced by the LOOK magazine (11-15-66) article "Sweden's New Battle Over Sex." J. Robert Moskin, the author, remarks that contraceptives "can be purchased by anyone in 40 special shops run by the private National Association for Sex Education and from automatic vending machines that make them available at all hours."

He quotes Dr. Tottie, senior medical officer of the National Health Board and a World Health Organization expert on venerael disease, as asking, "Which is better: for your daughter to sleep with an unknown boy in the forest under a fir tree or for your daughter to sleep with a boy known to you in your own house?"

Mr. Moskin also observes that "those who demand reform say that moralizing goes so far that it is irrelevant to young people's thinking about sexuality. They insist that the moral content has no more impact than a modern Sunday morning sermon and, because it preaches total continuence, is rejected by many youngsters."

Citizens Join in Vigil To Protest Vietnam War

On Sundays, beginning December 4th, members of the Amherst community will be able to join citizens from other communities in the Connecticut Valley in a weekly expression of concern to protest the war in Vietnam.

A Weekly Vigil for Peace will be held on Sundays from 12 noon to 1::00 p.m. on the Amherst Town Common. The Vigil is initiated in Amherst by the Mt. Toby Monthly Meeting of Friends (Quakers), but it is intended as a recurrent and visible expression through which all persons, regardless of religious affiliation, occupation or political conviction, can communicate their sorrow and concern about the war.

Its purpose is a quiet but insistent reminder—to policy makers, officials in other countries, citizens at large, and to the participants themselves—that numbers of people in this country are opposed to the war.

The Vigil has no local, state or national organization. Each local vigil is organized and maintained through the efforts of its own local committee. The first Weekly Vigil for Peace was begun on February 16, 1966, on the Santa Barbara campus of the University of California, and it has spread to fifty communities where its continuing presence involves a varied group of people including housewives, teen-agers, students, professional and non-professional people.

It functions without speeches, marching, or placards other than a sign identifying the group. Participants stand quietly, or sit, in meditation, and come and go if they must during the hour. All the vigils have taken place out-of-doors. The Amherst Vigil for Peace will be the first in Western New England; two similar vigils, in Boston and New Haven, are presently functioning in the New England area.

AFROTC Attends Dining-In Ceremonies

As part of the evening's agenda, several cadets provide entertainment.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 15, the 370the AFROTC Cadet Corps held their annual Dining-In Ceremonies in the Ballroom of the S.U.

Among the guests at the head table were the Distinguished Guest Speaker, Col. George H. Stillson, Jr., USAF (Retired), Provost Tippo, Dean Hopkins, Lt./Col. Roy D. Simmons, Jr., Professor of Air Science, Col. Joseph A. Bohnak, Professor of Military Science, Cadet Col. Richards of the 370th Cadet Wing, and Cadet Maj. Joseph Wright, who presided as Chaplain.

The events of the evening included entertainment by Cadet Charles Seavy, a steak dinner, and an examination of the role of discipline in the Armed Services by Col. Stillson.

Col. Stillson has been an intelligence officer since World War II, and has only recently retired, after 4 years of duty with the Pacific Air Forces.

Col. Stillson expressed his wish to return to the 370th Cadet Wing's Dining-In Ceremonies in future years, and judging also from Cadet response, the evening was a complete success.

Thanks to Donors

Blood Bank Collects 634 Pints

A total of 634 pints of blood were collected at the Blood Bank held at the University Nov. 15-17.

Student chairman Terry Stillson of the Newman Club and Mrs. J. Henry Korson of the University Women, joint sponsors, wish to thank all those who helped make this drive a success.

Although fewer signed up in advance this year, the difference was made up by a great many "walk-ins." Very few were unable to give for medical reasons, compared to previous years, and more people kept their appointments. Many donors gave for specific persons, or to replace blood used. All who donated are covered for the ensuing 12 months by the Hampshire County Red Cross Blood Insurance Program.

The Blood Bank is one of three service projects sponsored by the University Women, the others being New Eyes For The Needy and Foreign Students Financial as well as volunteer assistance contributed to the success of this drive. Over 100 women volunteered more than 300 hours, and more than 50 students assisted for over 70 hours.

REMINGTON
ELECTRIC SHAVER

TUNE UP SPECIAL

ONE DAY ONLY

SAT. DEC. 3

TUNE UP
- Cleaned and lubricated—entire shaver disassembled
- New — head cutter springs
- New — hair stoppers and dust covers
- New — oscillator installed when required

$2.22 plus tax

COMPLETE OVERHAUL
- New shaver heads
- Motor parts replaced — if needed
- Any damaged or worn parts replaced
- Complete overhaul includes cord models and cordless Lektronic* models

$8.88 plus tax

FREE bottle of AFTER SHAVE LOTION with Tune-up or Overhaul — $1.00 value

WINN JEWELERS
SOUTH PLEASANT STREET

Remington's own factory representative will be here to assure you of expert service.

LEKTRONIC Trademark, Sperry Rand Corporation

8:00
S.U.

TONIGHT

$.50

the Pariahs

Draft Policy Approved By Minnesota Students

The Collegiate Press Service

The present draft policy of choosing men for government service while deferring others was endorsed by slightly more than half of the University of Minnesota students voting in a campus referendum here Nov. 16.

By better than a three-to-one margin, however, the students called for giving draftees the opportunity to choose either military service or "alternative government approved service" once they are in. "Approved service" would include alternatives such as VISTA or the Peace Corps.

Although there were frequently long lines at the polls, only 2,436 students voted in the one-day referendum. The University's student population numbers close to 40,000.

On the first section of the complex ballot, students were asked to choose among various alternatives for tapping the national manpower pool to provide for the armed forces.

Twenty-one per cent (529) favored universal military service. A lottery system with the abolition of all deferments was preferred by 10 per cent (252).

A selective system of the present type which grants deferments found approval in 52 per cent of the students (1,272).

Twelve per cent (383) said they thought the government should cease conscription period. Approximately five per cent of the voters did not mark the first ballot section at all.

Under a system of the present type, the students had definite ideas on whom they would like to see deferred. Over 88 per cent favored deferments for students which would continue until the completion of their education.

More than 66 per cent approved of deferring men with "critical skills." Twenty-seven per cent endorsed putting married men without children low on the call-up priority, and 42 per cent indicated that married men with children should be deferred.

On the final section of the referendum, 1,529 students voted to expand the concept of national service to allow draftees, regardless of how they are selected, more alternatives for their service than the armed forces.

OFF-CAMPUS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

cidal tendencies, he's a disruptive factor in this close-knit, high pressure situation, and may need to be removed," Dean of Students William Field noted.

The situation is one of near-total student self-discipline and student self-responsibility.

In contrast, Dean William Swartzbaugh, Dean Field's counterpart at Amherst College, outlined his institution's policy.

Like UMass, if charges are pressed Amherst stands aside.

However, in cases not dealt with in the public courts Amherst will consider disciplinary action, but even here Amherst considers it a matter of the students personal behavior and not a quasi-legal proceeding.

STUDENT SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Gamma, George Washington - middle, and the University Volunteer Fire Department were approved.

Reconsidering the constitution of the University Reform Committee, the Senate amended it on the floor. As a result, no action could be taken by the Senate until the organization ratifies the amendment.

Holding the Senate meetings in Southwest was an innovation, designed to allow students accessibility to these regular meetings. In the future, similar meetings will be held throughout the campus.

ON-CAMPUS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

priate Dean's Office. Here it can go one of two routes.

The first and most traveled is the way of "Procedural Concern."

Loosely translated, this is one-step discipline. The Justice meted out by the disciplinary authority, a board or a Dean, is accepted by the student and the issue ends.

The loss rate at the University Store is approximately 1% of gross, less than the national average of 1.75%.

In the other case the student appeals the decision to the University Discipline Board.

"This would have been unheard of twenty, even ten years ago," Dean Field noted. "A Dean told you to go and you went, no questions."

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS

There will be a bus Sat., Dec. 1 going to Belchertown State School for all those who are interested in spending Sat. afternoon working with the mentally retarded. More volunteers are desperately needed for success of the program. The bus leaves the North Dining Commons Parking lot at 1:20 and the front of the Newman Center at 1:25.

FACULTY DISCUSS . . .

(Continued from page 2)

very recently refused to install outside lights during planning. Johnson said he had decided "the lobby lights would light the area." The temporary lighting has been provided by Western Mass. Electric Co., he said. By Dec. 9, he remarked, new plans will have been placed in operation, including parking lot lights.

Discussing the developing area outside SPA, Johnson emphasized that "construction has been the most delinquent in this area."

He said there has been a work force problem in the last year so the construction has not been done on time. During the summer, Johnson stated nearly all students were hired for these positions. In many cases this was not successful and many had to be fired. "It is impossible to hire people to do this ground work," he said.

The last problem to be discussed during the Question Period concerned the Education Block that Johnson called a "perennial problem."

For many years the question of seniors on the block signing up for a dorm and then being forced to live off-campus to teach has been a stumbling block, he said. "All dorms are on self-liquidating basisis," he noted, so "they must have them filled." This makes it impossible to rent a room for part of the year. "We see no way this policy can be changed," he concluded.

At the conclusion of the meeting, nine new courses were approved after passing through the Academic Matters Committee. These courses are:

Business Administration 724 — Research and Decision Making Methods in Marketing
Anthropology 370, 670 — North American Indians
Anthropology 375, 675 — South American Archaeology
Anthropology 378, 678 — Theory and Methods in Archaeology
Physical Education 731—Theory of Therapeutic Exercise
Home Economics: TCEA 263 — Art For the Young Child
Home Economics: HD 310, 610— Language and Cognitive Devel.
Home Economics: HD 350, 650— Observational Child Study
Home Economics: HD 360, 660— Theories of Human Devel.

COMMUTERS

May pick up their copy of Spectrum in the R.S.O. Office, Student Union, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Monday-Friday.

NEW YORK TRIP

Dr. Hogan of the English department will take a select group of her English 264 Modern European Drama class to New York to see Albee's "A Delicate Balance" on Dec. 3.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS PROGRAM

The Distinguished Visitors Program is a student organization whose purpose is to bring to this campus speakers from various fields. The programs are designed to broaden the students' knowledge and interests through speakers who are well versed and immediately concerned with a particular field. Membership on DVP is open to all undergraduates, freshmen through seniors, and applications may be obtained at the RSO office from December 1 until December 7.

For the best in skiing

SKIING

3 skis tested: Wedel King, Javelin, Snow Prince. 11 Resorts visited, in the U.S. and Europe. Conrad Stäudinger teaches you the garlands. How to buy boots so they fit. A ski tour in the East. Stein Eriksen instructs. Sweaters for Christmas.

Discover the other Colorado, where there's great skiing far from the crowds of Vail and Aspen...explore Vermont's Sugarbush, Glen Ellen, Mad River Glen...check out the merits of the Fischer, Hart and Kaestle skis in SKIING's exclusive test reports... meet Rip McManus, last of the free-lance racers...take a first-hand look at the magnificent Matterhorn...learn how to adjust your own cable bindings, how to get real fit in boots and how to improve your skiing technique with the expert advice of Stein Eriksen, Conrad Staudinger and Doug Pfeiffer.

You'll find all this and much more, in the December issue of

SKIING

Just 60¢—ask about the special half-price student subscription rate available through college bookstores.

Don't just sit there, Wallace Middendorp. Make a noise. Or drink Sprite, the noisy soft drink.

WALLACE MIDDENDORP SAT HERE

What did you do when Joe (Boxcar) Brkczpmluj was kicked off the football team just because he flunked six out of four of his majors? What did you do, Wallace Middendorp?

And when the school newspaper's editors resigned in protest because The Chancellor wouldn't allow the publication of certain salacious portions of "Night In a Girl's Dormitory" you just sat, didn't you?

You've made a mockery of your life, Wallace Middendorp! You're a vegetable.

Protest, Wallace Middendorp. Take a stand. Make a noise! Or drink Sprite, the noisy soft drink.

Open a bottle of Sprite at the next campus speak-out. Let it fizz and bubble to the masses.

Let its lusty carbonation echo through the halls of ivy.

Let its tart, tingling exuberance infect the crowd with excitement.

Do these things, Wallace Middendorp. Do these things, and what big corporation is going to hire you?

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

SPRITE IS A REGISTERED TRADE-MARK

Next week, explore engineering opportunities as big as today's brand new ocean

Talk with on-campus Career Consultant from Newport News —world's largest shipbuilding company—involved with nuclear propulsion, aircraft carrier design, submarine building, oceanographic development, marine automation, all the challenging advances on today's brand new ocean. The New York TIMES calls this "the last earthbound frontier" with "profit possibilities as big as the sea."

Learn what our half-a-billion-dollar order backlog means to you in terms of high starting salary and years of career security with no lid on your future. With orders up $80,000,000 in five months, our need is urgent for imaginative men in all the disciplines listed here. Men who like tough challenges and individual responsibility.

Ask about opportunities for advanced degrees and research. We're next door to Virginia Associated Research Center with one of the world's largest synchrocyclotrons, where graduate engineers study high energy physics. We're across the harbor from Old Dominion College, offering graduate courses in Microwave Theory, Solid State Electronics, Nuclear Engineering. Nearby, too, is the Extension Division of the University of Virginia offering courses toward credits for masters degrees. And within easy driving is The Virginia Institute for Scientific Research, a world leader in solid state physics. Linked up with these opportunities, Newport News offers scholarships, tuition grants, advanced study and research leaves. Ask about them.

Get the facts on pleasant living and lower living costs here in the heart of Virginia's seaside vacationland with its superb beaches, golf, fishing, boating, hunting.

IMMEDIATE ENGINEERING CAREER OPENINGS

Mechanical Engineers
Electrical Engineers
Marine Engineers
Industrial Engineers
Systems Analysts
Naval Architects
Nuclear Engineers
Civil Engineers
Metallurgical Engineers

Mr. K. M. Blanks,
Our Career Consultant,
will be at the Placement Office on Friday, December 16, to answer questions, talk over qualifications, take applications for fast action.

Newport News

NEWPORT NEWS SHIPBUILDING AND DRY DOCK COMPANY, NEWPORT NEWS, VIRGINIA
An Equal Opportunity Employer.

Junior Wins Award In Home Economics

Margaret Anne Herrmann, a 20-year-old junior from the University has been awarded an $800 college scholarship for excellence in home economics.

The scholarship, donated by The S&H Foundation, Inc., in the 4-H Home Economics Scholarship program is one of two presented nationally by the sponsor in the program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Announcement of the award was made at the 45th National 4-H Congress held in Chicago, Nov. 27-Dec. 1.

In 4-H, the national winner completed projects in clothing, foods, crafts, child care, leadership, food preservation, gardening and recreation. She was voted Outstanding Junior 4-H'er in 1960 and Outstanding Senior 4-H'er in 1964.

Miss Herrmann held all elective offices in her club, attended the New England Recreatioh Leadership Conference in 1964 and was selected Interstate Exchange delegate to Iowa and Delaware. Her decision to study home economics was based largely upon the interest and experiences in the 4-H Club program.

MARGARET A. HERRMANN

At the university the national winner is affiliated with the Canterbury Club, Home Economics Club, Equestrian Club and Collegiate 4-H Club.

She plans on a career as an extension agent following graduation from college.

Special Scheduling

Permission can be granted for special scheduling for bona fide reasons of employment only. Students whose continuance at the University is dependent upon such special scheduling should report to the appropriate student personnel Dean prior to Pre-Registration (Counseling Day, December 6) and substantiate their request with a letter from their employer.

Schedule exception cannot be granted at the time of registration. It is incumbent upon all students to plan ahead carefully and to make requests for schedule exceptions at the time of pre-registration. It will not be possible for the Deans' Offices to recommend any schedule changes at the opening of the Spring Semester.

OPEN HOUSE

The COLLEGIAN might be able to use your assistance in helping us bring joy into the hearts of every UMie three times a week. Why not stop in Tuesday and see what you can do to improve the campus.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Part time—3 eves and Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply Rm. 20, Masonic Bldg., 25 Main St., Northampton, Fri. eve. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

Agent wanted for picking up shoes that need repairing. Commission basis. Call 584-4208.

Drummer wanted for Thurber Carnival: one drummer remuneration publicity. Contact John Bulson, 6-6972 or Vincent Brann, 5-2087 S.A.P.! Rehearsals 11/31 and 12/1, 4, 5. Performances 12/7-10. Must have own drums.

AUTOMOBILES

1958 T-Bird conv, V-8, automatic, new top, radio, heater, good condition. $600 or best offer. Call 253-7778 after 5:00 p.m.

FREE: 1963 Convair Monza
- 4 speed
- radio & heater
- new brakes
- 2 new tires—WSW
- engine rebuilt
- excellent condition—25 MPG

When you buy the ashtray
Call Rick or Brenda after 5 p.m. 584-4016

Corvette 1962. Red with white top. With 1965 300 H.P., 327 engine. 4 speed trans. Metal studded snow tires. $1950 or best offer. John Freiman, 455 Hills South, U of M.

FOR SALE

1950 Packard Straight "8". Good condition. $50. New tires and battery. Call Don at 665-2607, 30 Mt. Rd., So. Deerfield, Mass.

View Camera—5 x 7 Linhof color kardon. Would the professor who was interested in this equipment this summer please call Worcester (617)-754-3060 collect.

LOST

Will the male student who took a gold lady's Hamilton watch from a couch in the lobby of South Commons, Sunay evening, Nov. 20. Please return it to 316 Emily Dickinson.

1) Red rectangular-ring set in gold
2) Light green beret with brouch
Please call 6-8877, ask for Doyle

I. L. Y.

Bring Back Gilly.

For Rent

New furnished apartment. 2½ rooms. Close to university. Call 256-6775.

WANTED

Riders wanted to Florida during intercession. Call 546-7091.

COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING PAYS

Stokely Speaks

Quarterly Reviews Social Revolt

"The racial and cultural personality of the black community must be preserved and the community must win its freedom while preserving its cultural integrity."

This is the essential difference between integration as it is currently practiced and the concept of black power, according to an article in the current issue of Massachusetts Review by Stokely Carmichael, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

The article, "Toward Black Liberation," is one of three different perspectives on social revolution that appear in the autumn issue of the quarterly, on sale now.

The other two are "The Embers of Easter," an examination of the Irish Uprising of 1916-1922 by Conor Cruise O' Brien, and "The Perennial Myth: Writing American History Today," by A. S. Eisenstadt. The latter discusses the difficulties encountered by the professional historian in making accurate observations on a revolution in progress as exemplified by the current Negro freedom struggle in the U. S.

In "Toward Black Liberation," Carmichael argues that Negroes are dependent on forces in white society which have little interest in representing them honestly; and that the concern for black power is a response to this, an effort by Negroes to reclaim their history and identity from what Carmichael calls "the cultural terrorism and depredation of self-justifying white guilt."

The concept of integration is challenged by the SNCC leader because it not only continues the traditional dependence of the black community on white power, but also tends to aid only the select group of Negroes who accept white social and educational standards. The answer, Carmichael says, is for the black freedom movement to reject white integrationists, return to the ghetto and organize Negroes there as an independent political force.

"When the Negro community is able to control local office and negotiate with other groups from a position of organized strength, the possibility of meaningful political alliances on specific issues will be increased," Carmichael writes.

Answering the question of whether or not the ghettoes can be organized, Carmichael states that they can because they must. The alternative for the growing Negro ghettoes in America's inner cities is "a constant state of insurrection," he predicts.

The Massachusetts Review is a quarterly publication of literature, the arts and public affairs published at the University of Massachusetts. with the support and cooperation of Amherst, Mount Holyoke and Smith Colleges.

Admission Policy For Concerts

Undergraduate admission to the performance of the Bach Aria Group on Friday, December 9, will be by special passes obtained at the Student Union Box Office. These passes will be free to all undergraduates who present their I.D.'s at the box office between December 5-9. Until 7:45 p.m. admission to the concert will be only by special student pass, season ticket, or previously purchased single ticket. At 7:45 the concert will be open to all desiring admission by I.D. or ticket.

This policy, which will be standard procedure for all future concerts of the Concert Association, has been adopted from the techniques of the athletic department in handling the crush of students desiring admission to football games. Considering the seating inadequacy of all University halls, a modification of this policy becomes essential to the Concert Association programs.

We urge all who wish to attend Friday's performance of the Bach Aria Group to obtain tickets or passes ahead of time. Only in this way can a seat be guaranteed to any undergraduate or non-season ticket holder. Those without either ticket or pass will not be admitted until 7:45 and take their chances on finding seats.

Patricia Pfeiffer, 221 Field

UMass Hits New High For NDEA Fellowships

The University of Massachusetts has again been awarded 45 new National Defense Education Act graduate fellowships for the 1967-68 academic year, it was announced today by Dr. Edward C. Moore, Dean of the UMass Graduate School.

The University currently has 97 graduate students studying under previously granted NDEA three-year fellowships, 10 of which will expire at the end of this academic year. The 45 new awards, plus the 87 remaining from prior awards, will make a new high of 132 NDEA fellowships to be held by UMass graduate students.

Each fellowship carries a stipend of $2000 for the first academic year of study, $2,200 for the second, and $2,400 for the final year. The program is intended to increase the number of well-trained college and university teachers. Awards are made to able students who are working toward the doctorate degree.

The 45 new awards will be distributed among 19 departments at the University, including four each to the departments of history and mathematics; and three each to the departments of chemistry, physics, German, philosophy, psychology, sociology, English, government and Romance languages.

The departments of zoology and chemical engineering will have two awards each, and the remaining six awards will go to the departments of botany, geology, microbiology, veterinary and animal science and plant and soil science.

Eleven Enter Honor Society

A total of 11 sophomore women were initiated recently into the UMass chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, national scholastic honor society, by the chapter president, Nancy Haynes of Chelmsford ,and advisers Dr. Miriam Chrisman of the history department and Dean of Women Helen Curtis.

Parents of the new members were guests at the initiation and at a reception for the new members in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union. Among invited guests at the reception were Dean of Students and Mrs. William Field, Mrs. Oswald Tippo, wife of the Provost, and Mrs. John W. Lederle, wife of the UMass president.

To be eligible for the society, women students must have received a minimum 3.5 cumulative grade average for their first year in college. A cumulative grade average of 4.0 indicates all A's.

Things happen...

with Old Spice Lime

Precisely what things depends on what you have in mind. Whatever it is, Old Spice LIME can help. Its spicy, lime-spiked aroma is very persuasive... but so subtle, even the most wary woman is trapped before she knows it! Worth trying? You bet it is!

Old Spice LIME Cologne, After Shave, Gift Sets. By the makers of original Old Spice.

—Notices—

OUTING CLUB
Sign-up sheet for a fun-filled evening at Mount Holyoke, on Sat., Dec. 12 is now up.

DENTISTRY LECTURE
On Wed., Dec. 7, at 7:30 in Morrill 308, Dr. D. Giddon of Tufts Dental will speak on "Recent Biological and Sociological Developments in Dentistry", and Dental School Admission.

NEWMAN CLUB
On Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m. there will be a dance-mixer "The Novae", in the Newman Center social Hall.

WAA SKI TEAM
There will be a meeting on Tues., Dec. 5, at 7:00 p.m. in WOPA lounge.

ANIMAL SCIENCE CLUB
On Mon., Dec. 5 at 7:30 in Farley Lodge, Mr. Donald Kelso, a recent UMass graduate and International Farm Youth Exchange Student in Venesuela will speak. Refreshments will be served.

LUTHERAN STUDENT CONGREGATION
On Sun., Dec. 4, at 6:00 p.m. in Immanuel Lutheran Church, there will be a supper meeting and film concerning the people who produced the controversial "Dead Sea Scrolls, a Threat to Christianity". All welcome.

SMITH COLLEGE PRESENTATION
"The Streets of New York," will be presented on Dec. 8 and 9 at 8:00 p.m. and on Dec. 10 at 2:30 p.m. in the Smith College Theatre in Alumnae Gymnasium. It is open to the public, and tickets may be purchased from 1:30 to 5:00 p.m. from Mon., Dec. 5 through Fri., Dec. 9 at the theater box office and at the door before performances.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT
On Sun., Dec. 4 at 8:00 p.m., Edwin London will conduct Smith-Amherst Orchestra in its second concert of the season. Philip Naegele will appear as soloist, and the performance will take place in John M. Greene Hall. Concert is open to the public without charge.

SCHOOL OF NURSING
The School of Nursing will have an Open House on Student-Faculty night, Mon., Dec. 5 in the lounge of Emily Dickinson House, from 7:00-10:00 p.m. All freshmen are asked to attend by 7:30 for election for class officers.

CHEMISTRY LECTURE
On Dec. 5, at 4:30 p.m. in Goessman 152, Assistant Professor of Chemistry at Princeton, G. E. LeRoi, will speak on "Far Infrared Spectroscopy".

THE SCHEDULE OF COURSES BOOKLET for the spring semester will be delivered to the mail receiving rooms of academic buildings on Friday, December 2 or Monday, December 5. Departmental offices are asked to see that booklets are picked up and distributed to faculty members, graduate students, and undergraduate majors in time for Counseling Day activities. Faculty members are reminded that this will be the only printing of the Schedule of Courses booklet for the spring semester and all recipients should be urged to retain their copies.

KOISTER-DOISTERS
Tom Jones, a comedy based on the Fielding novel, was selected as the annual production of the Koister-Doisters, for production in early February. Tryouts will be held Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in Plymouth Room, S.U., Dec. 5 at 6:00 p.m., and Dec. 6 at 3:30 p.m. in Bartlett 61, and Dec. 7 at 7:30 in SBA 119. Scripts are available in the Student Union RSO office. There are parts for 18 men and 11 women. All interested students are encouraged to try out.

LOST
Notebook lost at S.U. store Monday afternoon. Contact Martha Strandberg, 546-5228. Reward.
Chemisry 111 lab notebook lost last Friday in vicinity of Student Union and Goessman. Very important—please return to Art Veves, Baker 326 or Beta Kappa Phi.
Watch, Bulova, self-winding lost at Boyden Gym, Wed. night, Nov. 30. Engraved G.J.C. Call 331 Hills North if found. Reward.
Pair of black horn-rimmed glasses lost in Machmer Tues., Nov. 29. They are in a light print case.

FOUND
Blue Girl's English bicycle. Can be claimed at Police Station.

PINNINGS
Toni Hartrich, class '68, John Quincy Adams, to Arnold Kaufman, class of '67, George Washington.

ENGAGEMENTS
Monica Pattangall, class of '67, Tower 4 to Bill Glass, class of '67, Kappa Sigma.
Judith Nicholas, class of '68, Thoreau to David Earle, class of '68, Northeastern University.

Critics Step Forward

WFCR Recruits for New Series

by DONNA LEE UMANA

All qualified book reviewers, please step forward!

Competing with the ticking of the wire service and the pounding of typewriters in his office, this was the plea of Albert Hulsen, station manager of WFCR.

Along with the library of Mark's Meadow School and the equipment rooms of the Audio-Visual Aids Department, WFCR—the four-college FM station—shares the Education Building basement.

Hulsen told the Collegian of the station's need for qualified critics to broadcast on a proposed feature of the morning show, "Daybreak."

Scheduled for approximately 7::15 a.m., the feature, "Magazines of the Air," will present five to six minute reviews of current fiction and non-fiction. The station has agreed to purchase any of the books under review.

Hulsen will be glad to discuss his needs with any applicants.

"Daybreak," which is heard from 7 to 7::45 a.m. Mondays through Fridays, also reviews other forms of art, of interest in the Four-College area. Frances Cushing Hall reports on the current art exhibitions. Theatrical productions are handled by Mary Connie Comfort and musical events are reviewed by Fred Colland, the program director.

In addition, Tom Dunn, who is the host of "Daybreak," interviews people who are visiting the Four-College area. Recently, Dunn talked with Peace Corps representatives recruiting on the UMass campus and UNICEF volunteers selling Christmas cards in the Student Union.

The remaining portion of "Daybreak" presents summaries of national and international news, weather forecasts, announcements of Four-College activities and "short bits of music."

Supported by the four colleges and contributions from the general public, WFCR broadcasts throughout Southern New Hampshire, Vermont, Eastern New York, Western Massachusetts and Connecticut.

STUDENT FACULTY EVENING
Monday evening, December 5th, has been reserved as a Student Faculty evening. Information about individual programs is being disseminated by the individual departments and will appear in next Monday's Collegian.

Taking your M.R.S.?

Do your cramming with MODERN BRIDE

From previews of the newest bridal and trousseau fashions to exciting plans for an off-season European honeymoon, Modern Bride is the modern guide to large and small weddings, first-home furnishings, post-nuptial entertaining, and the planning that makes perfect — before, during and after. See for yourself in the current issue of Modern Bride.

JUST 75¢—ASK ABOUT THE SPECIAL HALF-PRICE STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION RATE AVAILABLE THROUGH COLLEGE BOOKSTORES!

Are you discontented enough to work for G.E.?

Does water pollution bug you? Or smog? Does it concern you that some places in the country never have enough teachers? Or nurses? And when you read about the growing pains of a developing nation, do you wish you could do something?

You can. Thousands of General Electric people are helping to solve the problems of a growing, changing world.

Generating more (and cheaper) electricity with nuclear reactors. Controlling smog in our cities and pollution in our streams. Using electronics to bring the teaching skills of an expert into many classrooms at once, the trained eyes of a nurse into many hospital rooms at once.

If you're not content with the world as it is . . . and if you have the brains, imagination and drive to help build a better one, we'd like to talk to you.

See the man from G.E. during his next campus visit. Come to General Electric, where the young men are important men.

Progress Is Our Most Important Product

GENERAL ELECTRIC

Deferments Still Granted Peace Corps Volunteers

The recent military call-up of two Volunteers from their overseas posts in no way alters the Peace Corps' status as a draft-deferable service.

Charles Butler, the agency's college recruiting director, said this week Peace Corps duty continues to be considered as "service in the national interest" by the majority of the nation's more than 4,000 draft boards.

He said, however, that increased military manpower needs have forced some draft boards to be less liberal in issuing deferments to cover the two years of Peace Corps service.

"The drafting of the two Volunteers came as no surprise to anyone, including the men involved," Butler said. "Both went overseas knowing they had appeals pending and aware they might have to return to the United States for induction if those appeals were denied."

The two were Phillip J. Wagner, 24, of Felton, Calif., a Volunteer in Peru inducted into the army last month and now in basic training, and Fred S. Lonidier, 24, who returned from the Philippines this past week and is scheduled for induction at Oroville, Calif., on Dec. 7.

Butler said both Wagner and Lonidier had 1-A classifications when they began Peace Corps training. They are among 35 Volunteers sent overseas by the Peace Corps with appeals of local draft board denials still pending.

Of these, Butler said, 10 have since received II-A (national interest) deferments and allowed to continue their tours. Wagner and Lonidier are the only Volunteers who have lost their appeals. The other cases remain unresolved.

These cases represent only a tiny fraction of the more than 6,000 men—most of whom are draft eligible — who entered Peace Corps training in the past year, Butler added.

"It may seem odd that we send Volunteers overseas knowing there is some chance we might have to bring them back at Peace Corps expense," Butler said. "But when you consider the nearly $5,000 it costs to recruit and train a Volunteer, the $400 required to return him for induction is negligible." The appeal channel, which can include reconsideration of a classification denial at the local, state and presidential appeals board level, sometimes takes several months.

Volunteers have never been exempted from the draft and many enlist or are induct d into the armed services after completion of two-year Peace Corps tours, Butler said.

The Peace Corps does not request deferments for applicants, trainees and Volunteers—a responsibility of the registrant—but does keep draft boards informed of his training and overseas status.

Agriculture Experience Suggested For Peace Corps Volunteers

Students planning a Peace Corps experience should consider taking the spring-term course on International Agricultural Development (A F E 381, MWF 1:25 3 credits) according to Bradford Whipple, Graduate Student in Sociology here at UMass.

Mr. Whipple served as a Peace Corps Volunteer in the first Rural Community Development Project to Colombia, South America and subsequently served as a Field Training Officer for the Peace Corps. He feels that since many Peace Corps assignments are in rural areas, a knowledge of agricultural change is a necessary tool of the Corpsman.

This course presents the role of agriculture in the development of low income countries, broad government policies designed to increase agricultural production, and the processes of changing agricultural technology and institutions. Dr. John Foster, who teaches the course, has had 3½ years experience in rural India which helps keep the course on a practical, action level.

This information s offered at this time in the hope that it will aid some students to select appropriately on Pre-registration Day, Thur., Dec. 6.

Other students interested in the subject buf not planning to join the Peace Corps are also welcome in the course.

Copies of the course outline can be obtained from Dr. Foster in Room 203, Draper Hall.

Choral Groups Plan Annual Winter Concert

The second annual Winter Concert, featuring the University's choral groups will be h ld on Sunday, Dec. 18 at 4 p.m. There is no admission charg and all are cordially invited to attend. The main work performed by the Chorus and Chorale and direct d by Dr. Richard DuBois will be Haydn's "Te Deum."

Chorus Director Mr. Russell Falvey has announced the organization of two new select groups, the twenty - member Women's Ensemble, and the ten-voice Madrigal Singers.

This fall the Chorus has grown to one hundred members, many of whom are Freshmen. The new officers for 1966-67 are as follows:

Executive Manager - Margaret Franson.

Assistant Manager - Richard Cheney.

Secretary-Treasurer - Marietta Lalikos.

Physical Equipment Manager - Lawrence Jakmauh.

Publicity Manager - Bradley Fitzgerald.

Personal Equipment Manager - Linda Wright.

Prexy Calls Sit-in 'Communist Inspired'

In an unusual reversal of roles, students at the City College of New York (CCNY) have attacked their president for endangering the image of the school.

The students made this charge last week (Nov. 10) following President Buell Gallagher's denunciation of a student sit-in in the administration building as "communist" inspired.

Gallagher rejected demands of the sit in and reacted to the subsequent sit-in with charges that participants in the protest included "communist" student organizations. He cited the Progressive Labor Club, the W. E. B. DuBois Club, Students for a Democratic Society, the Marxist Discussion Club, and the Anarchist Discussion Society as "Communist."

Leaders of the demonstration arranged to meet with Gallagher later in the day. The students said afterwards that Gallagher had persuaded them that the press had misquoted his statement on the demonstration and they helped him draft a denial of his previous day's comments.

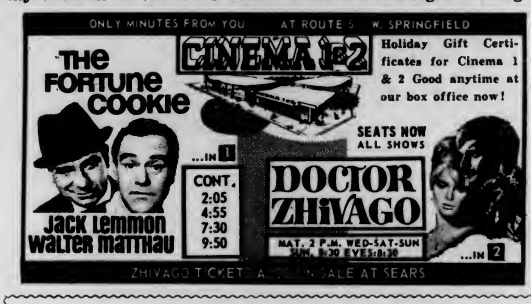
In a new statement, Gallagher said, "I categorically deny that... I intended to say (the sit-in) was 'Communist' dominated...If I had my wits about me, I should have replied at once that political affiliation was irrelevant to the issues at the sit-in."

Tom Jones Scheduled By Drama Group

The Roister Doisters, a campus dramatic organization, has selected Tom Jones, a comedy based on the Fielding novel, for its annual production early in February.

The play will be directed by Jane Helman, a junior Speech major who acted as assistant director for the University Theatre production of The Martyred last year.

Tryouts will be held December 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth room in the Student Union, December 5 at 6:00 and December 6 at 3:30 in Bartlett 61, and December 7 at 7:30 in SBA 119.



Scripts are available in the Student Union RSO office. There are parts for 13 men and eleven women, and all interested students are encouraged to try out.

UMass Gets NASA Grant

UMass has received a $12,660 grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to perform research in automatic control system design — research that should enable the design of more accurate control systems for a variety of functions related to the national space program.

Drs. Richard V. Monopoli and Charles E. Hutchinson, associate professors in electrical engineering at the University, will direct the research project, entitled "Pulse Frequency Modulation in Control Systems." The NASA grant brings the total funded research effort in the UMass electrical engineering department to $40,000, including two recent grants awarded by the National Science Foundation.

In addition to helping engineers provide more accurate control of aerospace vehicles, lasar and telescope satellite tracking systems and satellite position, the NASA research will be of interest to the field of biomedical engineering. The subject of investigation is related to the problem of modeling biological neural networks, of great interest to researchers working to explain the operation of the human nervous system.

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THEATRE PRESENTS

"A THURBER CARNIVAL"

Dec. 7, 8, 9, 10

Bowker Auditorium—8:15 p.m.

Tickets on sale at Student Union

Box office 545-2006

Gen. admission—$1.50, Students—$1.00

HOLIDAY MIXER

"The Novae"

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3

7:30 P.M.

NEWMAN CENTER SOCIAL HALL

The Distinguished Visitors Program

Applications are now available in the R.S.O. office and should be returned to the R.S.O. office by December 7. Anyone interested is urged to apply.

The Distinguished Visitors Program is financed and operated by the undergraduate students of the University of Massachusetts for the purpose of keeping the university community sensitive to the world in which it exists. In accordance with this purpose, it seeks to bring to the campus those persons whose experience in international and domestic affairs, the sciences, the humanities and the arts qualify them to interpret, explain and raise questions about life in all its dimensions. Furthermore, the Distinguished Visitors Program seeks to stimulate critical thought and debate by presenting a balanced range of opinion with respect to a given issue.

MOUNTAIN PARK

RTE. 5, HOLYOKE — GO WHERE THE ACTION IS

SAT. 8 P.M. — IN PERSON

ROCKIN' RAMRODS

PLUS MONTY & SPECIALTIES

SAT. DEC. 17 — IN PERSON

MITCH RYDER

& DETROIT WHEELS

Don't be shy . . . we're friendly folk!

Come visit us

Dec. 5,

2-5 p.m.

Mermen Take Initial Splash at Tufts Sat.

by JERRY KASSOY, Sports Staff

The UMass swimming team opens its 1966 season tomorrow afternoon against the Tufts Jumbos in Medford.

Last season the Mermen defeated the men from Medford decisively by a score of 66-29, but this year's edition of the Jumbos should be much tougher, due largely to the expert guidance of new coach Ed Reed. A graduate of Springfield College, Reed is a former New England swimming champion whose sophomore loaded squad has the best chance in years of upsetting the Mermen, a feat it has not accomplished since 1952.

Tufts' main hope rests with Co-Captain Eric Sachnoff, an extremely versatile swimmer who holds numerous Jumbo records. Sachnoff was the only man to win an event against UMass in last year's dual meet.

Thus far, Joe Rogers' men have not looked exceptionally sharp, probably because of their rigorous seven-day-a-week training schedule. Mentally, however, the boys are sky high for their opener. The varsity meet, preceded by a Frosh contest, will begin at 3:30. The first home meet is Dec. 7 at 7 p.m. against crosstown rival Amherst.

OFFENSIVE DUO—Bill Skowyra (left) and Ed Polchlopek should carry the scoring burden for Steve Kosakowski's skaters again this season. See story page 12.

INTRAMURALS

Tigers Shade Phantoms, 119--28

by TOM CONUEL

Several outstanding individual performers highlighted Tuesday and Wednesday nights basketball action. In the dorms the Maroons won again as they trounced the Giants 85-26. Murphy had 32 points for the Maroons while Bill Frisbee added 21. Ferriter led the Commanches to a 51-15 victory over the Panthers with a game high total of 36 points.

The Lemons downed the Chestnuts 61-52 as Vitolo fired in 38 points for the Lemons. The Rams crushed the Limes 82-27 with Rist leading the way for the Rams with 23 points. Thomas's 22 points paced the Aces over the Panthers 54-20. while the Buffaloes topped the Eagles 41-29.

In other dorm action the Grayson Flaming A's beat the Hawks 57-46, the Colonials stopped the Jaguars 30-24, the Leopards cruised over the Colts 56-37, and the Cougars upended the Patriots 53-38.

Rounding out the Dorm action it was the Smashers upsetting the Redwoods 51-49 in an overtime contest. The Cherry's taking the measure of the Senators 46-29, while the Birches felled the Trojans 35-27. Jack Edgar's 20 points were not enough to save the Spartans from a 38-36 defeat at the hands of the Seagrams. The Flaming A's beat the Hemlocks 65-31, and the Apples stopped the Academics 43-28.

Fraternity action was comparlight. Dick Qualey grabbed 20 rebounds in leading TKE over ATG 38-36. LCA nudged ASP ably 42-41, but Cannata of ASP was high scorer for the night with 21 points.

SAM edged PSK 38-37, while BKP topped TC 36-27. TEP rolled over QTV 62-30. Fisher led TEP with 16 points. ZN crushed SPE 49-30 in a mild upset.

Turning to the Independents the Phantoms, whose name aptly describes the way they play defense, were mauled by the Tigers 119-28. Brito poured in 40 points in leading the Tiger attack. The Blues played two games and won both. The first was a 66-41 triumph over Courtesy Taxi. The next night they topped the MCC's 67-29.

The Independents also played two contests and lost both, first to the Hangovers 51-27; and to the Chem Club 67-29.

Elesewhere, the Buffaloes trounced the Griffins 44-35, while the Toads downed the Selohssas 36-23. Gorman's 26 point performance sparked the Imps over Harry's 50-42, and the Lucky 13's rolled over the Brethren 45-22.

Gymnasts Oppose Best in East

Coach Erik Kjeldsen's gymnastic team will travel to New Haven to tangle with Southern Connecticut Saturday. Last season the Redmen upended the Owls by a 136-114 score. Capt. Al Carver, a competitor on the high bar, trampoline and long horse, is the only senior on the squad which begins a rugged seven-match Eastern Gymnastic League schedule by entertaining the West Point gymnasts in Amherst on Dec. 10.

This is Massachusetts' third year in the strong Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League. Every team on the schedule except So. Conn. is a league member.

UM has improved from 0-7 its first year to 2-5 in the league last winter. The Redmen, led by Coach Kjeldsen, hope to continue the improving trend of the past two years. UM has some solid performers who should be able to hold their own in the league but lack of strong overall team depth will keep the Redmen from a high spot in the standings. Strong points for UM should be their side horse team, which seems very good, and the parallel bar team, which has good potential.

Capt. Carver, only senior, is a 3-event competitor in the high bar, trampoline and long horse. Bob Leclair, side horse and long horse, Fred Babakian, side horse, and Steve Brown, parallel bars, are 3 top juniors. Brown was the only sophomore medalist on the parallel bars in the Eastern League in 1965-66. Best of the sophomores appear to be Dick Dauphinais, floor exercises, and Dick Del Gallo, floor exercises and rings.

Dec. 3	So. Connecticut	Away
Dec. 10	Army	Home
Jan. 7	Penn State	Away
Jan. 9	Pittsburgh	Away
Feb. 4	Temple	Home
Feb. 8	Springfield	Home
Feb. 18	Navy	Away
Feb. 24	Syracuse	Home

Landry, Mitchell '67 Grid Captains

Offensive standouts Greg Landry and Jim Mitchell have been elected co-captains of the 1967 Redmen gridders.

Described as the "complete football player" by Coach Vic Fusia, Landry is a physical education major and a brother of Kappa Sigma.

Mitchell has been the Redmen's "Iron Man" performer during his sophomore and junior years, as he has played every minute of offensive football during that time.

Stockbridge Shooters Take On UM ROTC

The Stockbridge Rifle Team officially begins its shoulder to shoulder season this Saturday, shooting against the University of Massachusetts R.O.T.C. Rifle Team. The match is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. in Dickinson Hall.

The Stockbridge team shoots shoulder to shoulder matches with Dartmouth, Harvard, Yale, Boston College, UMass, Northeastern, U.R.I., and Western New England College. Posted matches are shot against such schools as Princeton, R.P.I., Alliance Col., and Stevens Institute. Col. Marchant, the team coach, is looking forward to a winning season.

HOCKEY . . .

(Continued from page 12)

practice and should turn back many shots tomorrow.

MIT, skating on an outdoor rink on the banks of the Charles, has been plagued by warm weather and lack of ice and should not be at their best. Last year's opener against the same team saw the Redmen win in a squeaker by a score of 5-3. Let's hope for a big win tomorrow.

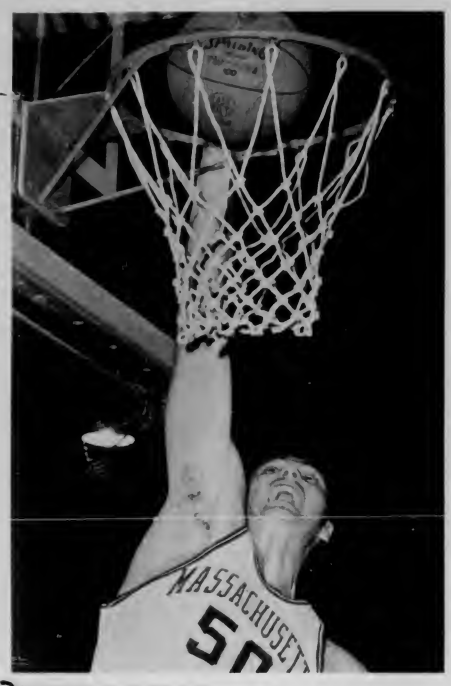
BASKETBALL . . .

(Continued on page 11)

B.C. has produced 22-7 and 21-5 records the past two years and has gone to the NIT both times. It looks like another big year, but Jack Leaman, always the eternal optimist, believes that his team just might spring an upset.

Special College Rates
DRIVE LESS — PAY LESS — SKI MORE
TWO COMPLETE SKI AREAS

• Beginner to Advance Novice Area, Intermediate to Expert Area, each completely serviced by chairs and T-Bars • 24 Trails and Slopes • 2 Double Chairs, 2 T-Bars • J Bar & Rope Tow • Snow Making on 25 acres



. . . And, a special race course for clubs. • Giant Slalom Course • Flags Supplied • Permanent Phones • Ski Club discounts, too, for 20 or more people • 6-day tickets and coupon books. No wonder everybody's skiing at Thunder Mountain.

• Ski Reports 413-339-4986. Res. 413-339-6610.

LARGEST SKI AREA IN MASSACHUSETTS

Thunder Mountain

Charlemont, Mass. Route 2, Mohawk Trail

BOARD BEHEMOTHS — Rebounding should be a Redmen strong-point this season with 6'9 soph Peter Gayeska (left), 6'4 senior Tim Edwards (above) and 6'5 junior Bill Tindall (right) under the boards.

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

sports

MONDAY, NOV. 21, 1966
Vol. XCV, No. 27

Pucksters Oppose MIT

by DAVE HANSON

The much improved Redmen Hockey team opens its 1966-67 season tomorrow at MIT. The first line of Ed Polchlopek, Bill Skowyra, and Frank Buckler should provide the scoring punch for the team. John Ledwick, suffering from torn tendons in the wrist, along with talented sophomore defensemen Joe DiCicco and John Karathanasis and veteran Ed Graney should give the points the strength which they lacked last season.

The glamour line of the revitalized team, Ed "The shot" Quimby, Farn "The Spook" Mulcahey, and Charlie "Golden Boy" Hanifan, give the pucksters the ability to make that second effort so necessary in this fast moving sport. Third liners Jeff Sanborn, John Hartnett, and Bill Robinson should be around for the cleaning up.

Missing from the action this Saturday will be Fred "Moves" Molander, a three year veteran and penalty killing specialist Filling in for Fred will be Ed Kinsella and Ed O'Brian. Fred has been sidelined with a leg injury.

Tending the nets will be Ed Sanborn. Sanborn has been looking at his best ever this year in

(Continued on page 11)

Cagers Open Against Talented B. C.

Wolters, DiSarcina Doubtful Performers in Leaman Debut

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

Three years ago Bob Cousy retired from the Celtics to coach basketball at Boston College. Since then he has has molded the Eagles into one of the best teams in the East.

Therein lies UMass Coach Jack Leaman's problems as the Redmen open up their season against B.C. tomorrow night at 8:00 at Curry Hicks Cage, preceded by a UMass-B.C. freshman game at 6:00.

We'll be ready for a big effort," said Leaman, who will be facing a team which has been ranked as high as fifth in the nation in pre-season polls. "They are a real good ball club," he added, "but we hope they'll be looking by us."

Because of sophomore guard Joe DiSarcina's heel injury, Leaman has had to juggle his lineup somewhat. The probable UMass starters tomorrow night will be 6'0 senior Bob Murphy and 6'2 soph Mike Gemei in the backcourt, and 6'4 senior Captain Frank Stewart, 6'4 senior Tim Edwards and 6'5 junior Billy Tindall up front.

COACH COUSY

DiSarcina, probably the fastest man on the squad, will be out for anywhere from a few days to two weeks.

Leaman made himself clear about how the Redmen hope to upset B.C. "We're going to try to make them play our kind of game and force them into errors. We'll have to hold our own on the boards, especially on defense. We can't allow them second and third shots."

He emphasized that the key to containing the high-scoring Eagles will be on defense. Cousy's men have more depth and would wear down the Redmen if they were to play a fast-moving offensive battle.

Boston College has what Leaman calls "the biggest and strongest frontcourt we'll play against." Leading it will be Captain Willie Wolters, who checks in at 6'8 and 240 pounds. Wolters is one of the strongest rebounders in the nation and can also score his share of points. A native of Germany who did not play basketball until he was 16, the B.C. center owns a good hook shot from in close. Because of a virus, Wolters may not play tomorrow night, according to B.C. officials.

At one forward will be 6'5 junior Steve Adelman. He is a deadly shooter who averaged 30 points over the second half of last season. The other forward will be Jim Kissane, a 6'8 junior who is very fast and shoots well.

In the backcourt, B.C. will start juniors Jack Kvancz, 6'0, and Steve Kelleher, 6'2. Kvancz will act as the playmaker and Kelleher will utilize his excellent shooting ability.

Cousy has a strong bench to work with including two sophomores from last year's frosh squad. Soph Terry Driscoll, 6'7, has looked outstanding in preseason play. He averaged 30 points for the frosh last year.

Senior guard Doug Hice, 6'2, has been used sparingly for two years but will see more action this season. He is a hustler who was a high school All-American. The other reserve guard is 5'11 soph Bill Evans who is expected to develop into a fine playmaker.

Leaman hopes to tame B.C.'s fast break which he calls "probably the best in the country."

Starting Line-Ups at Cage Sat.

UMASS
Bill Tindall	6'5	Jr.	F
Frank Stewart	6'4	Sr.	F
Tim Edwards	6'4	Sr.	C
Bob Murphy	6'0	Sr.	G
Mike Gemei	6'2	So.	G
BOSTON COLLEGE
Steve Adelman	6'5	Jr.	F
Jim Kissane	6'8	Jr.	F
Willie Wolters	6'8	Sr.	C
or Terry Driscoll	6'7	So.	C
Jack Kvancz	6'0	Jr.	G
Steve Kelleher	6'2	Jr.	G

Cousy has done a great job in improving the Eagles' break, one of his specialities in his days with the Celtics.

(Continued on page 12)

BRAINTRUST — Co-Captains Frank Stewart (left) and Bob Murphy discuss strategy with rookie coach Jack Leaman.

Frosh Hoopsters Face Eaglets

by MICHAEL CURRAN

UMass Freshman basketball teams have always played good, exciting ball and this year promises to be no exception.

The Frosh open their 16 game season Saturday night against the Boston College Eagles at Curry Hicks. As with all home games it will prelude a varsity battle and start at 6:00 p.m.

Peter Broaca in his first year as Freshman coach faces an extremely rugged schedule with high hopes. Coach Broaca pins his aspirations on a well-balanced 17-man squad loaded with size and potential.

After two encouraging scrimmages, Monday night against the Varsity and Tuesday evening against Leicester Junior, it appears the starting quintet Saturday night will consist of John Gallagher 6'4, (Trenton, N. J.), Dick Samuelson 6'6, (Brockton), Joe Kostygan 6'6, (Trenton, N. J.), Dan Sweeney 6'2 (Belmont), and Ray Ellerbrook 6'1 (Hawthorne, N. J.).

Frosh coach Peter Broaca

Also destined to see plenty of action are Phil Harrington 6'4 (Cochituate), Bob Perry 6'1 (Spencer), Steve Swartz 6'6 (Brookline), and Kevin Boisjolie 6'3 (North Adams).

Kevin Donovan 6'4 (Belmont), Bob Shea 6'4 (Bedford), Andy Rubin 6'2 (New Hyde Park, N. Y.), Steve Kajander 6'0 (Winchester), Tim Way 6'2 (Westwood), John Niles 6'3 (Champlain, N. Y.), Bob Marshall 6'1 (Westfield), and Dick Hart 5'10 (Avon) round out the spirited hoopsters.

The Little Redmen will fastbreak when possible, employ a number of set plays, and also go into a zone press occassionally. Most of the scoring will probably come from the guards with the big men setting up picks and clearing the boards.

As usual Bob Cousy has corralled a group of prep school stars for his frosh quintet. One of their top players is Whitey Dukret, a 6'3 high school All-American from Livingston, N.J. Dennis Doble and Mike Marks, two Bay Staters who were All-Scholastic last year, are also reported to be starting.

"Nothing Sacred"

Coffee Hours Stress Academic Reform

by JANE ROLAND
Staff Reporter

"A re-evaluation of curriculum, particularly freshman curriculum, is necessary."

This was the consensus of three Coffee Hours presented last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings by the University Reform Committee.

Photo by Furman
PROVOST OSWALD TIPPO

Each coffee hour, presented students, faculty and administrators with a chance to engage in a dialogue over mutual problems in an informal atmosphere.

The first panel discussion, held Tuesday night, Nov. 29, featured Provost Oswald Tippo, Dean of the Class of '70 Gerald McFarland, Assistant Professor of Education Robert Wellman, and student Sidney Finehirsh.

"No course should be sacred," began Provost Tippo in response to the evening's topic, "Freshman Curriculum."

He continued that there is a need for more emphasis on fewer formal classes—more emphasis on two classes with a discussion, or two classes with more reading and independent study.

Advocating the adoption of a four-course plan, Tippo called for "Less teaching in the passive sense and more learning in the active sense."

This would include, he continued, more senior professors in beginning courses, more support of freshmen composition, more papers and longer reading periods—leading to more mature student participation. Many of these suggestions, he felt, could be incorporated in the ideas of the Residential Colleges.

Tippo also advocated more course concentration on general principles, less memory work, and more problem solving.

This led to Gerald McFarland's main point. He is strongly in favor of the need to encourage critical inquiry and the desire for it. He felt the major purpose of a liberal education is to introduce "a style or method for approaching material."

He advanced an idea of units of 30-40 students during the Freshman year. These would perhaps be taught by two professors, plus upperclassmen, and grad students. They would meet nine

(Continued on page 2)

Photo by Furman
From left to right, Ken Hardy, URC chairman, Bob Wilfong, URC member, Dean Moyer Hunnesberger, and Provost Oswald Tippo discuss academic reform at the URC coffee hour.

INDEX

Peanuts 3
UMass-Boston . . 3
The Press . . 6 & 7
Hoop Loss 12

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

CRIMINAL SAVED !
Pg. 10

VOL. XCV, NO. 30 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1966

UM JOURNALIST TO HEAD STUDENT PRESS STUDY

UMass journalism professor Dario Politella has been named president of the 450-member National Council of College Publications Advisors and has also been selected to coordinate a two year study of freedom and responsibility of the American college press by NCCPA.

A former editor of the Collegian and one of the founders of NCCPA, Politella has been active nationally in student publications affairs since he joined the faculty of the School of Journalism at Keent (O.) State U. in 1950, where he also supervised student publication of a daily newspaper and yearbook.

DR. DARIO POLITELLA

At Ball State U., Muncie, Ind., and at UMass, he served as faculty adviser to the yearbook staffs. At UMass, he is also consultant to the editorial page chairman of the Collegian.

The Commission on the Freedoms and Responsibilities of the College Student Press in America was established by the Council at its convention in Philadelphia, Oct. 21.

The Commission has been empowered to conduct a two-year study to make proposals for universal guidelines in the conduct of student publications by the students themselves, their peer groups, college administrators, legislators and the judiciary.

According to Dr. Politella, the commission will attempt to define what constitutes freedom of the student press in America by establishing the legal and ethical responsibilities of student journalists and college administrators.

Other areas which the commission will study are: definition of the need; desirability and functions of publications boards; a workable guide to establish the functions and responsibilities of faculty advisors to student publications; and to suggest a code of ethics or bill of rights for student eeditors and their advisors, "and possibly college administrators," Politella said.

In recognition of his student publications activities, Poiltella has been listed in Who's Who in College and University Publications, 1966-67; Who's Who in Indiana, 1967; and Who's Who in the East, 1967.

Dear Advertiser,

As of December 9 the Collegian Advertising staff will experiment with a new policy to better serve our advertisers. The new advertising deadline will be the Friday previous to the week of insertion. There will be a qualified staffer in the office to help you, if necessary, or to give you ideas when you place your insertion order. All advertising must be brought in only on that Friday and there will be no exceptions.

It is our earnest hope that this new policy will be successful. thus helping you to get your "money's worth' from your advertising.

The Advertising Staff

HATCH EXPANSION PLANNED; SEATING CAPACITY TO DOUBLE

by BRUCE BALBONI
Staff Reporter

The Hatch expansion proposed by the Student Union Governing Board will soon begin. The first step will be the removal of the bowling machines on December 6. The University will advertise for bids on the alteration starting December 9.

The bids are expected back by January 3 and a contract will be awarded on that day. The actual labor will begin at the start of second semester, with completion expected about mid March.

The reasons for expansion of the Hatch were stated by Dick Schinoff, chairman of SUG board. From the academic year 1957-1958 there has been a 200% increase in population. (In 1957-1958 925,000 people used the Hatch while today 1,600,000 people use it—a 73% increase.)

However, 12,000 less people used the games area in 1964-1965 than in 1957-1958. Bowling alley use has dwindled, but the use of the billiards room has risen sharply as evidenced by long waiting lines.

The operation of the present Hatch will not be affected at all. However, the games area will be closed for six weeks beginning about February 1. The renovation will eliminate the ping pong room but the possibility exists that portable ping pong tables could be set up occasionally in some part of the Union.

The billiard room with its eight tables (a ninth will be added later) will be moved into the Lodge. This larger accommodation will allow for the regulation distance between tables.

The bookstore will be enlarged to include the present billiard room. This addition will give the store an extra 400 square feet of space.

The Hatch presently has 550 seats, but following the renovation there will be a 100% increase to 1100 seats. In the area of the ping pong room there will be a speed coffee line. This investment will ease the present burden placed on the main line for the person who wishes to buy a coffee, donut or some other fast snack.

The possibility also exists that the area could be partitioned off so that the new part of the Hatch may be open for extended hours without keeping the entire Hatch staff employed in overtime.

The new section of the Hatch will be carpeted, the old will have a new floor put in and the ceiling will be painted. All of these improvements are being taken care of by the UMass maintenance men which affords the University a $20,000-$30,000 saving.

The bowling alleys will be covered and not removed because they are a large investment and it is possible that they may be used again. The new addition to the Hatch will get new tables and lighting and the entire Hatch will be ventilated for air conditioning to be put into use when the new building behind the Union is constructed. The over-all renovation will cost about $150,000.

The new Campus Center to be built behind the Union will be completed in the fall of 1968. The Student Union facilities in this new building will be housed in the two floors below ground.

The new building will also have a ninth floor formal restaurant, an eighth floor cafete-

(Continued on page 3)

MANDATORY PHOTO STAFF MEETING
Monday, Dec. 5th at 7 p.m. in the Collegian Office. All personnel with Collegian photo equipment must attend.

Photo by Kline
CHOW TIME — Does he have a meal ticket ? ? ? (Photo at lunchtime in dining commons #7.)

UMass-Boston to Hold Founding Convocation Saturday

The founding convocation of UMass-Boston and the installation of Dr. John W. Ryan as Chancellor will be held on Saturday, December 10 at 11 a.m. in the War Memorial Auditorium of the Prudential Center in Boston.

Main speaker for the occasion will be Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., author of the Pulitzer Prize-winning biography of John F. Kennedy, "A Thousand Days" who is Albert Schweitzer professor of humanities at the City University of New York.

In the afternoon at 3 p.m., a symposum, "The University and the City," will be held. Participants will include: David Riesman, professor of social sciences at Harvard University and author of "The Lonely Crowd"; Daniel P. Moynihan, director of the MIT-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies, former assistant Secretary of Labor, and co-author of "Beyond the Melting Pot"; Miss Violet Edwards, executive director of the National Center for Citizens in Education; Glenn Tinder, professor of politics at UMass-Boston and author of "Crisis of Political Imagination."

Chancellor Ryan's inaugural address will be given at a luncheon for academic dignitaries in the Grand Ballroom of the Sheraton Boston Hotel. The Founding Day Convocation and symposium are open to friends of the University and the general public without charge.

The University of Massachusetts at Boston is in its second year of operation. The bill creating the new institution was signed into law in June, 1964. In February of 1965, Dr. John W. Ryan, academic vice president at Arizona State University, was named Chancellor. Four days later, the Boston Gas Company building was selected as the temporary home of the new institution. In the next eight months a faculty was recruited, an entering freshman class of 1277 was admitted, and the University opened its doors in September, 1965. Current enrollment is 2151.

REFORM . . .

(Continued from page 1)

times a week under different circumstances—splitting into several groups for a seminar, or all together for a lecture.

The main goal, McFarland said in summing up, is to disrupt the pattern of passivity and provide an impetus for the rest of the college years.

Sidney Finehirsh, the student representative on the panel, said that he felt people underestimated how poor the Freshman curriculum actually is.

"We lose most students in the first six weeks," Finehirsh said. "There is not the freedom of inquiry that many students expect after high school. Rather, they quickly get accommodated to the system—get their 120 credits and get out," he added.

He advocated a number of reforms to "retain Freshmen idealism": open attendance, pass or fail courses, two to three week course sampling period, and an optional no-grade Freshman seminar on a topic such as the Purpose of a University Education.

The second coffee hour, held Wednesday evening, Nov. 30, stressed the topic of Curriculum change.

Held at Thatcher Dorm, a group of about 40 came to hear Assistant Dean of Arts and Sciences Robert Wagner, Assistant Professor of Geography Terence Burke, Assistant Professor of Philosophy John Brettlinger, and Student Robert Wilfong.

Terence Burke of the Geography department said that although our present curriculum is good for some students, "not everyone is benefiting." He commented on the incredible variety of courses people are compelled to take.

This, he feels, leads to fragmentation and not only a lack of integration, but a lack of depth in undergraduate studies.

"Everybody gets to lick a lot of lollipops," he commented.

Burke warned that there is no such thing as one curriculum for all students, and that any curriculum created must take into account individual motivations.

One of the points stressed by Robert Wilfong was "coercive motivation such as grades and exams," which, he feels, should be replaced by self-motivation. "Complete self-motivation is, of course, the ideal, but the present system motivates against it."

Wilfong added the idea that the curriculum should be taught of in terms of a continuum from a system of complete electives to a completely structured process. Students would be allowed to place themselves anywhere along the continuum as best suits their needs and motivations.

He also suggested a more subjective system of written evaluations of students rather than the A, B, C, D system.

John Brentlinger stressed the necessity to divorce ourselves from the classical notion of "The Curriculum", rooted in the Renaissance concept of the educated man.

Today, said Brentlinger, education is pluralistic; Satisfying the requirements of the curriculum does not make the "Educated Man." The problem, he said, is also one of professionalism versus competing interests among

(Continued on page 3)

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Photo by Kelly

Jim Foudy is a dedicated man. He will let nothing interfere with his work as Managing Editor of the Collegian, not even the attentions of one of the many nubile young females on the Collegian staff.

You will not be able to match the dedication of Jim Foudy. You will be distracted by some of the activities in the Collegian office. But not every one is perfect. Not everyone can be a Jim Foudy. But you're welcome to come on in and try. Drop in for the Collegian open house tomorrow from two to five p.m.

Admission Policy For Concerts

Undergraduate admission to the performance of the Bach Aria Group on Friday, December 9, will be by special passes obtained at the Student Union Box Office. These passes will be free to all undergraduates who present their I.D.'s at the box office between December 5-9. Until 7:45 p.m. admission to the concert will be only by special student pass, season ticket, or previously purchased single ticket. At 7:45 the concert will be open to all desiring admission by I.D. or ticket.

This policy, which will be standard procedure for all future concerts of the Concert Association, has been adopted from the techniques of the athletic department in handling the crush of students desiring admission to football games. Considering the seating inadequacy of all University halls, a modification of this policy becomes essential to the Concert Association programs.

We urge all who wish to attend Friday's performance of the Bach Aria Group to obtain tickets or passes ahead of time. Only in this way can a seat be guaranteed to any undergraduate or non-season ticket holder. Those without either ticket or pass will not be admitted until 7:45 and take their chances on finding seats.

Patricia Pfeiffer, 221 Field

One Too Many

Maralynne Nathanson ('68) offers one too many to Jon Hutton ('68) and Laurence Kornfield ('68) in 'Gentleman Shoppers', one of the many hilarious episodes to be seen in the University Theatre's upcoming production of A Thurber Carnival, Dec. 7, 8, 9, 10, in Bowker Auditorium.

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

"...all the King's horses and all the King's men couldn't put Humphrey together again."

Holiday of Obligation

The Immaculate Conception

December 8

Masses:

6:50, 8:00, 9:15, 12:15, 5:00, 7:00

Hillel's Lecture Series

on

"20th Century Jewish Writers"

Dr. Leon Barron

"BERNARD MALAMUD"

Tuesday 8:30 P.M. Dec. 6th

Council Chambers, Student Union

UMass-Boston

Aiming for Nation's Best

by BOB GORMAN with the Mass Media

Since UMass-Boston is a developing college, it has no traditions or old laws to hold back its growth. Therefore, this university can become whatever the students and faculty want it to be.

For this reason, many scholars and the UMass-Boston administration feel that the university can become one of the nation's best. Already students are aiming for their high goals.

Although the university is only one year old, numerous student activities have been formed despite the shortage of space. Already the newspaper, the Mass Media, is in full swing.

With about twenty activities already organized, there are new organizations being formed constantly. Name an activity and UMass Boston has it or plans to have it.

Presently, a group of students is organizing to form a humor magazine called Bundle. Also, the Music Department and interested students are trying to form an orchestra.

While the students at UMass-Boston are trying to grow internally, they are keeping close contacts with the other colleges and universities in the Boston area.

Recently, the students accepted an invitation to participate in the annual Turtle Race in April held by Northeastern University. The students hope to prove that they can win the race even at a turtle's pace.

In the same spirit the Mass Media has its Feature editor working on the Intercollegiate Newspaper. This paper is a composite of all the colleges and universities in the Boston area. Its aim is to infrom the individual schools of other school's activities.

The students aren't the only one trying to make UMass-Boston a great school. The faculty, composed of professors who left some of the nation's foremost universities are working to form the new university.

Most of these faculty left spacious offices with few annoyances to become part of UMass-Boston. Their major reason for leaving their old positions in favor of the new university was the desire to help establish a near perfect school.

Even some of UMass-Amherst's faculty transferred to Boston. Dr. Paul A. Gagnon was part of the History Dept. from 1952 until 1965 when he went to Boston to become the head of the Social Sciences Department.

Recently, Dr. Gagnon was appointed Dean of Faculty for this school.

Also, Professors Glenn Tinder and George Goodwin, Jr., left Amherst for Boston after resigning in protest to overcrowding here.

This Saturday, Dec. 10 the faculty, students and administration will convene to formally dedicate UMass-Boston. This assembly may greatly affect the U of Mass history because already many of these people have dedicated themselves to this new idea.

HATCH EXPANSION . . .

(Continued from page 1)

ria, a snack bar, a ballroom and private dining rooms for catered affairs as in the Student Union now. The new buildings will be connected by an underground passageway.

Although the atmosphere at the Hatch will become more modern people will like its comfort and better facilities after renovation. The idea of what the Hatch is will not change. In spite of the residential colleges and their snack bars the students will still want to congregate where "everyone" will be. The Hatch is undergoing change in appearance not in function.

MANDITORY PHOTO STAFF MEETING

Monday, Dec. 5th at 7 p.m. in the Collegian Office. All personnel with Collegian photo to equipment must attend.

REFORM . . .

(Continued from page 2)

staff and independent study in close conjunction with advisors.

Faculty, he continued, would be independent of department affiliations, and thus be able to faculty and departments.

The third University Reform Committee Coffee Hour took place Thursday night. Provost Tippo, Assistant Master of Southwest Complex Dr. John Hunt, Dean of Arts and Sciences I. Moyer Hunsberger, the student Ken Hardy were the speakers.

After outlining the proposed plans for University College, Tippo spoke on the emphasis to be placed on a resident teaching totally emphasize teaching.

Dr. John Hunt added that the Residential colleges were formed as a response to student unrest and desires to participate more in their education and the shaping of their institutions. Such unrest, he said, has been evident in many schools, as well as the well - known demonstrations at Berkeley.

Here, he said, the Residential College is encouraging the asking of questions and the challenging of the system.

Dean Hunsberger, the next panelist, stated that the more difficult task is not talking about a college to be built, but one that must be maintained.

He described himself as being unafraid of change, but rather welcoming it. However, he stressed the need to be against rapid and un-analyzed change.

Hunsberger said he wants constructive suggestions rather than negative criticism.

Ken Hardy, the student representative, spoke of the computerization and fragmentation of knowledge, and the problem of the pressure to cover material and relay information within programmable periods of time.

He said that before bringing about any major changes in the curriculum, two de facto assumptions that underlie the present system must be changed:

- that the content of a liberal education should be acquired in the two years between high school graduation and the beginning of professional studies; and
- that all students have the same educational needs with respect to a liberal education and should proceed at the same pace within carefully spaced perimeters.

In summing up, Hardy, the chairman of the University Reform Committee, called the cofdeas of certain figures on the administration, faculty and student fee hours successful.

"They have brought out the ibody.

Also, they have brought discussion on important campus issues into the dorms where more serious discussion of campus issues needs to be encouraged," he added.

The true sportsman appreciates the sights and sounds that the Collegian sports staffer enjoys during his routine duties.

Are you a true sportsman? Tomorrow's Collegian Open House (2-5 p.m.) will give you the opportunity to join the best sports staff in the Yankee Conference.

Come in and meet the boys tomorrow afternoon over coffee and doughnuts in the Collegian office.

Arts and Sciences: Student-Faculty Eve

Several departments have planned activities to promote interaction between students and faculty on Monday, December 5th. All gatherings start at 7:30 p.m. except as noted.

Astronomy - 8:00 p.m., Colonial Lounge, Student Union; majors and prospective majors.

Chemistry - Informal student-adviser conferences by appointment

Economics - Room 134, Hasbrouck Laboratory for prospective majors

German - Worcester Room, Student Union

Government - Senate Chambers, Student Union; for all majors and prospective majors; new courses and course requirements

Mathematics - Rooms 218-221, Student Union; general information for majors with special emphasis on future employment and graduate study opportunities.

Microbiology - Room 202, Section 4 North, Morrill Science Center; informal coffee hour and discussion

Psychology - 7:00 p.m., Bartlett Auditorium

Sociology - Room 407, Machmer Hall; counseling day problems

Speech - Room 114, Bartlett Hall; especially for seniors

Statistics - Room 200, School of Business Administration Prof. James E. Norman, Jr.

NO HOLIDAY

Tuesday, Dec. 6th, has been set aside as Counseling Day. No Holiday, this day is specifically designed to allow adviser and student adequate time for consultation and preregistration for the next semester. Thought and care on this date promote an effortless and speedy registration in Jan.

Many schools and departments are making special arrangements. Students are advised to check departmental bulletin boards for particulars prior to that Tuesday.

iVS

OPPORTUNITIES OVERSEAS

TEAMS IN—
- Education
- Agriculture
- Community Development

IVS needs highly-motivated college graduates to fill openings

IVS seeks people with degrees in liberal arts, education, science and agriculture—apply to

INTERNATIONAL VOLUNTARY SERVICES, INC.
1555 CONNECTICUT AVENUE, N.W., WASHINGTON, D.C.

your Placement Office has further information

The
Distinguished Visitors Program

Applications are now available in the R.S.O. office and should be returned to the R.S.O. office by December 7. Anyone interested is urged to apply.

The Distinguished Visitors Program is financed and operated by the undergraduate students of the University of Massachusetts for the purpose of keeping the university community sensitive to the world in which it exists. In accordance with this purpose, it seeks to bring to the campus those persons whose experience in international and domestic affairs, the sciences, the humanities and the arts qualify them to interpret, explain and raise questions about life in all its dimensions. Furthermore, the Distinguished Visitors Program seeks to stimulate critical thought and debate by presenting a balanced range of opinion with respect to a given issue.

Famous FOSTER GRANT
SKI GOGGLES
$1 — $5
Henry Adams—Druggist
NEXT TO McLELLAN'S

What'll you give 'em this year?

Binoculars
Contact lense supplies
Microscopes
Mineral Kits
Spotting Scope
Hobbyist's Magnifier
Ski Goggles
Magnifying glasses
Tensor lamps
'67 Sunglasses with hardened lenses

Don Call OPTICIAN Has All

Editorial Section

No Favorites

by Chet Weinerman, Editorial Chairman

It is reported that the United States will soon make good on its pledge to deliver some thirty six supersonic fighters to Jordan. Jordan will use these planes to shoot down Israeli planes.

Much of Israel's weaponry has come from the United States. Israel will use these weapons and aircraft to shoot down Jordanian men and planes.

(Jordan is not depending solely upon the United States for its war arsenal. Russia has stocked the Jordanian army heavily with MIG jets and hand weapons. Similarly, Israel is not depending solely upon the United States for its war arsenal. France and Britain have stocked the Israeli army with jets and hand weapons.)

The United States cannot play favorites in the Middle East conflict. Much American industry is located in the Arab bloc countries, and materials vital to our economy come from those countries. On the other hand, Israel is the only true democratic state in that part of the world, and also is America's strongest ally in the Middle East.

So rather than the United States bearing the burden of defeat for one side, all that it objectively may have to do now is to be responsible for the destruction of both sides (and possibly more).

The Darkest Days

Perhaps the season of December darkness is good for us.

It provides the nearest approach to human hibernation.

It is the time when all who can remain indoors, running up the fuel and light bills and maybe incurring some telephone charges. It's temptation to put in a call to an old friend in Scranton, Duluth or Walla Walla.

It is a time for eating and drinking. Now people put on weight. They stuff themselves to ward off cold, as the sparrows do. Then they take no exercise. They take naps.

* * *

Now the basketball season begins, and from somewhere appear boys 6 feet 6 inches tall.

Fifty years ago the hero in the novel was 6 feet tall, a big and imposing figure. Now a 6-foot man is practically a shrimp. Something must have happened. Maybe it was orange juice in the diet and maybe it was nuclear fallout. Anyway, the ideal basketball player, nowadays, doesn't shoot. He stuffs the ball into the net without even jumping up.

Now is a good time for readers, too.

The student doesn't mind going into the public library at 4 p.m. It's dark outside and too cold for loitering, even to talk with the girls.

Besides, the library is warm and well lit.

That's one of the good things about America. The night clubs and the libraries are always well heated. The night clubs are not well lit, it's true, but that's so the patron can't see that his drink is pale, like ginger ale, and not a rich dark red, like the stronger stuff he's paying for.

The small children of the neighborhood are off the streets where, in Summer, they roamed in packs. Some of them have colds. For the most part, their mothers just don't feel up to dressing them in boots, snowsuits, woolly hoods and mittens. It's bad enough to get the school-age children on their way in the morning.

But the little ones, even if housebound for a period, are not hibernating. They are growing. Come the first of May, a new crop of youngsters will be let loose on short legs.

People get up in darkness and get home in darkness.

This could get to be depressing, but the arrangement has advantages. Eight o'clock, the hour at which evening affairs begin, seems like the middle of the night. This gives old folks an excuse to stay at home.

Now the television set is appreciated. The young may squat in front of it, in silent enjoyment. Their elders, unwilling to take their eyes off whatever is offered during the long Winter evening entertain each other by deploring the lack of culture which the programs reffect.

And fortunately, at this season, come the holidays, with their kindly conspiracies and their softening of the human spirit. Outside are cold and darkness, but within are warmth and generosity. These are the shortest days, not necessarily the worst.

Nature, every year, puts us through this dark tunnel, but she always set a light at the end of it. Why, by Jan. 1 the days will be a minute or two longer.

UNCLE DUDLEY

(reprinted from the Boston Globe)

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68
Editorial Chmn.: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports Editor: Mike Gould '67
Feature Editor: Lois Cohen '68
Photography Editor: Eric Wish '68
Advertising Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Circulation Mgr: Bob Godwin '69

MONDAY DAY EDITORS

News: Richard Kline '70
Editorial: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports: Tom Fitzgerald '69

To find out if electrical banana is bound to be the very next phase, come to the
COLLEGIAN
OPEN HOUSE
Tomorrow

Fire!

To the Editor:

While everyone is yelling about the short length of fire hoses in the Towers, the Orchard Hill Complex has no fire hoses at all. Besides this, there aren't any places for hoses to be attached. Since the fire extinguishers are usually partly empty, the situation is very bad. What's going to be done about this?

Larry Kornfield

Sam Spark Speaks Out

Death Valley Daze

With the emergence of ex-movie stars as national political figures, the day may not be very far away when Hollywood will gain control of the entire Nation. Let's now go to Washington, and a high-level cabinet meeting with President Robinson.

* * *

"O.K. Boys, now listen to me, see. I'm the boss around here, see. And what I say goes, see. But I called you boys in here to get your opinions. Now don't get wise, see? I just want to see if you have any ideas as to how we can end this war in Asia, see. Well now, let's see, who's going to start?"

"Start with Judy, Judy, Judy, Juuuudy — she'll tell you everything you want to know. Judy, Judy, Ju-"

"Shut up, Cary. I don't want to hear your stupid voice again see. And besides, Judy tried to knock herself off again today."

"I knew it; it was Peter who drove her to it. Peter; P-P-P-P-P-P-P-Peter. He's always been crude. Oh, P-P-P-Peter, why?"

"You shut up too, Bette, see. This isn't getting us anywhere. Here, Jimmy, you've been tough; how are we gonna lick the Cong boys, Jimmy."

"Those dirty, dirty, stinking rats. Those dirty, stinkkkkin—"

"Yes, Jimmy. We know they're dirty; but how do we defeat them? O.K. Ed, take it."

"Oy think we need a really, really big shew over there. I don't mean small acrobatics. I mean a really really big big big shew—with a cast of millions. Your first move is to make Darryl Zanuck, Secretary of the Army. He knows about really big shews. Next, have June Taylor rearrange the troops into some orderly formation. Then, at a given signal-the crack of my knuckles, say—have the entire cast of millions charge the Cong at once. What a production; a really big shew."

"That sounds good, see. Everyone agree? Everyone except Jackie and Sam. Jackie, put your fingers down. Sam, why do you disagree with Ed?"

"When I was a kid, my mother had more children than the Viet Cong has troops. Ha Ha Ha Ha Ha Ha. And Brooklyn was in worse shape than the Me Kong Delta!! Ha Ha Ha Ha Ha. And Mama told us the way for us to get along was to get along togther. Even though she never went to school, Mama was so smart. And you know, poor as we were, Mama's idea worked. And if it worked with our family, it will work with anyone! Ha Ha Ha . . ."

"You dirty, STUPID rat."

"Cut the cursing, Jimmy; bickering won't get us anywhere. Pearl, you have something to say?"

"Yea, there, Mr. President, honey. Now YOU is a sweetie pie, but I'm sooooo tired of this war, honey babes. I mean, I'm tired; like I can feel it in my feet, sweetheart. Now I think we ought to drop just a couple of them big bombs over there and get the whole thing over with. What do you think about that, Jayne, honey?"

"Yes, I've always thought that effective. But who's truly best at dropping the great bomb?"

"Well, they think that if you're going to do it that way, the one person who can drop in the really big bomb is none other than a foyne young man who's appeared on our stage many many times. Let's really hear it for a really big Jerry Lewis."

"Yea, good thinking, Ed; Jerry really knows how to drop a bomb. That's good, see. That only leaves us with one more problem, see. Who's going to announce this drastic move to the public. Yes, Georgie, you have something to say?"

"Vell, I tink dat as Toastmaster-General of the Voild—and especially of the Catskills—dat the American people would want a great poisen like me to announce this momentous occasion to them, because, after all, even though I'm in my sixteenth retirement, I've still raised $750,000,000.57 for a hundred and seven charities all over the voild. Of course, most notably I built the entire state of Israel myself, but den again, I . . ."

"Ha Ha. You're such a doll. Hee Hee, ho ho; everyone here is so smart and nice. Huh Huh."

"O.K. Doris, enough with the happy talk, see. This meeting has been good, real good, see. This war's going to be over soon, see. The Days of Death in the Asia Valleys are near their end, see, and it's all due to the great statesmanship of we Hollywood stars, especially of our pioneer, Ronald Reagan. O.K., this cabinet meeting is canned—er adjourned. See?

Sage Refute

Editor's note: The following article appeared in the Webster House Sage on December 2, 1966, and is reprinted by permission.

On November 21, 1966, Dean Hopkins issued a directive from the Dean of Men's Office concerning the open and closed door policy during open house. This directive was an official policy statement, not a University rule. Hopefully, it will stay that way. We shall now vivisect the Dean's FIVE POINT PROGRAM below:

Dean: I think to entertain a person of the other sex behind close doors in a residence hall is corny.

Answer: Really? This is rather a highly opinionated "reason" to use in a discussion which should deal exclusively with the facts. Perhaps even more significant is the fact that this reason is also meaningless. Unless "corny" is to mean "of or pertaining to a common vegetable", Dean Hopkins' choice of words remains inarticulate.

Dean: I think that none of the students would be allowed to entertain a member of the opposite sex in his bedroom at his home.

Answer: A house is not a home. It should be remembered that the dormitory room also serves as a study area, conference room, library, concert hall, living room, and art gallery. Most parents encourage coeducational patronage of these areas.

Dean: Any open house which is held by anyone, whether it be his home or fraternity house or residence hall, invites people to those places which are exactly open. Guests do not go into areas which are closed off.

Answer: Huh? Once again it is necessary to hack through the jungle of Hopkins' verbiage. But if we guess at his meaning correctly, there are two principle objections. First, we admit that an open house is an invitation for people to come in and see the dormitory; however, once guests arrive we should be able to have the opportunity to entertain them in privacy. Second, in order to entertain friends; in this way, the door must necessarily be closed, otherwise the host is forced to compete with everyone else's radio, stereo, or conversation.

Dean: If the students are looking for quiet and secluded places in which to have intimate talks without fear of being overheard, there are places other than the individual's bedroom where this may be done.

Answer: Where? Maybe the good Dean had the Orchard in mind, privacy amidst snowdrifts, in sub-zero weather. Or perhaps he means the dorm lounges, seclusion amidst the chattering multitude.

Dean: In the final analysis, I think the open door matter is one which is, in a real sense, educational.

Answer: Since, "in the final anlysis" this doesn't really say anything, we don't consider it worthy of reply.

This enlightened document seems to lack one minor quality; coherence. Sufferin' succotash, in the final analysis, it's corny!

An Opportunity for You

Professor Arthur Musgrave, in a recent journalism class, quoted some comments about newswriting that the Collegian believes may interest students who wish to acquire more skill at writing—a skill that is useful to anyone no matter what profession he enters.

These comments were made by Burges Johnson, former head of the College English Association, a former teacher of English at Amherst College, and the author of several books. He wrote:

"It cannot be merely coincidental that newspapers have trained so many writers who have distinguished themselves outside of the field of newspaper journalism. Their names are legend and range from imaginative writers such as Barrie and Kipling to essayists, biographers, and historians and writers of good verse.

"This record supports the contention that practice in any kind of good writing trains for any other kind of good writing.

"This training of the reporter has in the past emphasized certain techniques that tend to develop skilled writing in any field.

FIRST, there is the recognition of a sharp distinction between news and editorial, fact and opinion. Writing practice with this distinction in mind . . . is as good discipline for the imaginative writer as for the reporter of news events.

"SECOND, is an intensified consciousness of audience: an ability to imagine one's reader while writing, and to adapt word and style to the readers' understanding.

"THIRD, the acquired habit of getting to the point or purpose of the piece of writing as promptly as possible.

"FOUTH, the acquired ability to discover the element of human interest in dry fact, and then to emphasize that interest element without distortion of the truth.

"FIFTH, newspaper writing requires all possible evidence that assertions of fact have been verified . . . by a skillful use of direct quotation as well as by the frequent citation of authority.

"If these several elements which enter into the training of the newspaper-writer explain his success in other fields of writing, there is no reason why they should not be utilized to some extent in all classroom composition writing."

Although the process of writing is the same whether the product is a news story, magazine article, short story, or editorial, news writing has the advantage of giving students training in the discipline of objectivity. In news writing, facts should be presented fairly and accurately after first-hand observation.

Much of the writing done by college students is based on reading words in books and articles rather than on accurate observation of the flux of reality. Reporting for the Collegian offers you an opportunity to acquire a sharper sense of form about writing, and to learn many things about your campus community as well.

Editor's note: The above article first appeared in The Collegian on Dec. 1, 1964, but the opportunity for you to learn to write better by joining The Collegian exists today as then. In fact, since this article first appeared, Mr. Alvin Oickle has become the Collegian's official Technical Consultant, and his teaching services are officially available to non-journalism as well as journalism students.

In addition, Dr. Dario Politella, a former Collegian editor, is now serving as a consultant to the editorial pages.

A Woman Writer Takes a Critical Look at America

Following is full text of an article by May Craig, Washington correspondent, reprinted by permission from the Portland, Me., "Sunday Telegram" of Feb. 9, 1964:

Unless there is a change, deep down, in the American people, a genuine crusade against self-indulgence, immorality public and private, then we are witnesses to the decline and fall of the American Republic.

Death on the highways, a pack a day, cheating from top to bottom in our society, get rich quick, break-up of the family, faltering in foreign policy, reckless debt—these have destroyed nations before us. Why should we think we can take that path and change history?

Look around you, and everywhere you see lack of principle and steadfastness in the right and brave. The disgraceful cover on the recent issue of a publication with a nationwide circulation and its palliating story of sexual immorality adds adult consent to the looseness of our youth, already far down the road of delinquency, shiftlessness, derogation of virginity in our girls who will be the mothers of tomorrow.

There is no financial morality in our Government—"Charge it," is the accepted practice.

Round the world they think they can take our money with one hand and slap us in the face with the other. We talk of our "leadership," but we are apparently incapable of giving leadership.

One listens with dismay to the campaigning for the President that is going on. Oh, for a crusader to call us back to dignity and strength and austerity.

What was that last word? "Austerity" —plain living and high thinking, putting our money into the real things of life, not mink-handled saucepans and three cars in every garage; public servants who are not Bobby Bakers. Schools for the young, care for the elderly, strength so that none will dare attack us, a worthy succession to those men with feet wrapped in bloody bandages at Valley Forges to give us liberty. How have we used the liberty they bought for us so dearly?

Because it is unpleasant to think of unpleasant things, we say the Soviet Union may be changing its determination to "bury us." Red China is bad, of course, but maybe not Khrushchev. Half-heartedly we send American men to die in jungles, where we do not have the guts to go in to win or to stay out.

We sell wheat to Russia to save her from a demonstration that Communism cannot produce enough food for its own people. If we do this to get rid of surplus wheat which, we have already subsidized and which we will subsidize again to give it to the Communists cheaper, we might try discouraging the production of surplus wheat and remember the old-fashioned private enterprise where one grows for the market, not the Government storage bins.

We faltered in Cuba and now she is the homeland of subversion of all Latin America and Africa. Where will we find a strong man to lead us? Would we vote for one if he campaigned, crying in the wilderness that we come and be saved—from ourselves? We could have saved Cuba for freedom, and saved ourselves and the rest of Latin America from this nest of Communism, but we did not. Around the world they do not believe what we say; they look at what we do.

The United Nations was founded in this country, Now it is a messy combination of polyglot nations, old and new, grabbing for our money and ignoring our half-hearted arguments.

The idea of letting in a small nation of fewer than a half million people, utterly inexperienced in governing itself, unproved as a stable, honest state—letting them in within a few days of their establishment! We might at least insist on a period of probation.

The United Nations itself should be forced into financial honesty by the U.S. refusing to keep on paying the bills while many get a free ride while outvoting us. The idea of letting in Red China in the face of the Charter which says, "peace-loving nations! True, we are against letting Red China in, but all we do is get out our handkerchiefs and weep into them while the majority in the U.N. does as it pleases.

We waste untold sums on useless defense, and fail to keep ourselves truly strong in all fields, to be able to fight small as well as missile wars.

We sign test-ban treaties with known enemies, known defaulters on treaties that we will not test as we may need to. Why should we put our defense in such an agreement? If our defense experts—not businessman McNamara [Secretary of Defense]—say we need to test, then let us test without asking permission of friend or foe.

We fiddle-faddle in Southeast Asia, and may be ignominiously pushed out. Maybe we should never have gone in there—let the Reds take it—but there is one thing for sure. If we go in anywhere, we should go in to win.

We are losing the respect of the world, and respect is more necessary to a nation, as to a person, than affection. We get little affection from the people we have helped over the years—and we are losing respect.

Nobody respects a fumbler, a weak man, a wobbler, in policy or deeds.

First, every one of us has to clean out weakness and selfishness and immorality of all types. Then choose leaders who with strength and principle and intelligence will lead us to where we can have self-respect and respect of others.

Would we elect such a man if he campaigned on such a platform?

U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT, March 2, 1964

Tomorrow
is your chance to join the new Collegian.

MUSIGALS MUSIGALS
TRY-OUTS—ALL PARTS
DECEMBER 6 & 7 STUDENT UNION 6:00 P.M.

Now
Ends Tuesday
ON SCREEN 6:40-9:00
AMHERST Cinema
BURT LANCASTER
LEE MARVIN
ROBERT RYAN
The Professionals
with Claudia Cardinale

Vote December 7
For your choice
of
Winter Carnival Queen

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THEATRE PRESENTS
"A THURBER CARNIVAL"
Dec. 7, 8, 9, 10
Bowker Auditorium—8:15 p.m.
Tickets on sale at Student Union
Box office 545-2006
Gen. admission—$1.50, Students—$1.00

Campus Comment

Left Out In the Cold

To the Editor:

One of my friends has been told to remove a refrigerator from his room. This contradicts the dormitory autonomy as set up by the Student Life Committee.

In reviewing the laws, it specifically states that there should be no coil, corn-popper, etc., in the room. It does not directly forbid the use of a refrigerator.

Housing has rules against this use without the benefit of a precedent (the Hand Book), and I feel it should be up to each individual House Council to rule on those particular articles not directly forbidden by the UMass. rulebook.

Philip Lerner '68

This typical UMie can't bear to tear himself away from his copy of the new Collegian.

THE MASSACHUSETTS

COLLEGIAN

In an effort to recruit talented staffers, the Collegian will conduct an open house tomorrow between 2 and 5 P.M. This is also an opportunity to introduce the campus community to the operations of the paper.

Our entire staff of editors and day editors will be on hand to greet all interested students. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

These pages depict the process by which the Collegian is transformed from a jumble of typewritten papers and unique photos into the highly rated college newspaper which you read thrice weekly.

At left, sports day editor Tim Murphy and sports editor Mike Gould are seen as they prepared copy last night for today's issue. This copy was then sent to the print shop in Amherst.

(2) Day Editors Jack Dean and Ellie Skinner, and Managing Editor Jim Foudy were up at the crack of dawn this morning, and are seen here proofreading at 8:00 A.M. before the paper went to press. The fellow working in the background is printer Norm Newell, who supervises the print shop operations.

Photos by Donovan

(4) The composition ma lead type and "composer
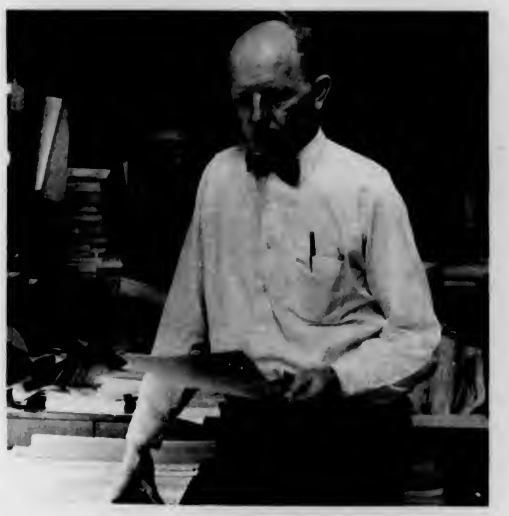
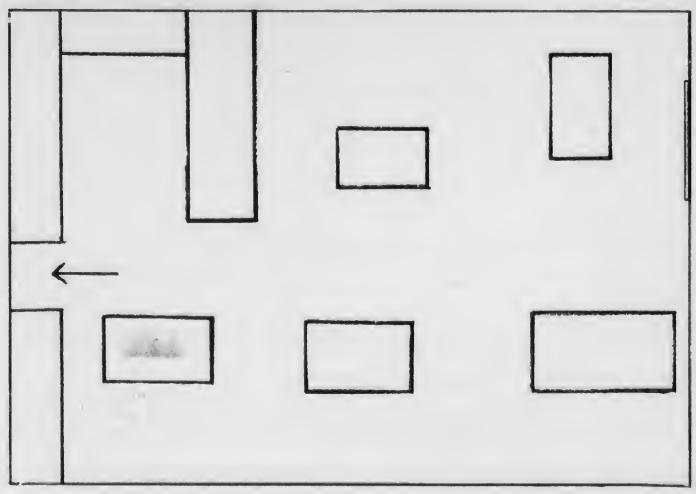
so they fit the editors' s

A Free Press . . .

"Abuses of the freedom of speech ought to be repressed, but to whom dare we commit the power of doing it?"



—Benjamin Franklin



(3) This is one of several linotype machines which transform copy into lines of lead type. Naturally, competent linotype operations are invaluable, and the Collegian has the best.

"Come

If you would process, come d tomorrow betw on the second hind the multi-

Mr. Hamilton I. Newell, our Printer.

From Pencil to Press

Editor-in-Chief Gordon A. Davidson.

(5) Each line of type has to be in its proper place, as do photographs, ads, and headlines. Measurements must be precise.

Layout
by Jack & Ellie

(6) Above: Advertisements, a vital part of any newspaper, must be prepared carefully.
(7) Left: Several more steps were involved before the offset plates were finally ready to be placed in the press.

n takes the
" the pages ecifications.

e On Down!"

like to be part of this amazing wn to the new Collegian office en 2 and 5 P.M. We're located floor of the Student Union beolored Indian blanket.

For your covenience a floor plan of "where it's at" has been included (at left). Upon entering, ask the secretary for an application form. You will then be directed to the staff of your choice.

Come on down . . . to the new Collegian!

Collegian Office Key:

(1) Enter here.
(2) Secretary's desk.
(3) Sports desk.
(4) Photography corner.
(5) Darkroom.
(6) News desk.
(7) Editorial desk.
(8) Feature desk.
(9) Editor-in-Chief's office.
(10) To business and advertising office.

(8) This is the offset press which printed the Collegian you are now reading. The staff can now relax tonight and tomorrow morning before the process begins again.

. . . A Responsible Press

"Liberty means responsibility. That is why most men dread it."

—George Bernard Shaw

The Collegian is responsible to the entire college community. If responsibility is what you desire, come to the Collegian Open House tomorrow, 2-5 p.m.

Sports Day Editor Tom Fitzgerald gazes fixedly at Metawampe as they discuss his Grid Pick successes.

Dr. Barron to Discuss Noted Jewish Author

He suggests the novelists of the 1930's, and yet he is very much our contemporary. He uses the age old myth of the Wandering Jew, and yet he speaks of today's alienated individual.

DR. LEON BARRON

He is Bernard Malamud, the subject of Dr. Leon Barron's lecture which will be presented on Tues., Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. in the Student Union.

Malamud, winner of the National Book Award for Fiction (1959) and writing fellowships from Partisan Review and the Rockefeller and Ford foundations, has quite recently and very swiftly gained popularity among American readers and esteem from the critics.

Dr. Barron, speaker for the evening and member of the UMass English department, is himself a writer of both criticism and creative works. His critical pieces have appeared in College English and Masterpieces of Western Literature: Contemporary Essays in Interpretation. Dr. Barron's poetry has been published in a book entitled A Curious Quire (1962), which also includes the poems of three other members of the English department—Stanley Koehler, David R. Clark and Robert G. Tucker.

In speaking of Malamud, Dr. Barron said: "All his writing attempts to answer the question of Jewish suffering and isolation, and his power comes from the implication that we are all Jews."

Memorial Service Wednesday

Scabbard and Blade, the Army ROTC honor society, and the Arnold Air Society, the Air Force ROTC honor society, will sponsor a memorial service in honor of those who died at Pearl Harbor twenty-four years ago.

The service will be held in front of Memorial Hall at 12:20 Wednesday, Dec. 7. All members of the University community are invited to attend.

Dorm Correspondence

Quad Dorms Elect Officers

Crabtree

by EMIL FILA
Dorm Correspondent

Dorm government is now under way in Crabtree house since Nov. 17 when the dorm elected officers. Those elected to the Executive Board were:

Marianne "Chicky" Langan '67
President
Jeanne Mercier '68
Vice President
Judy Leahy '69
Treasurer
Priscilla Drake '67
Secretary/House Manager
Sybil Mazmanian '67
Standards Board Chairman
Carol Corkum '68
Social Chairman
Mary Alice Burke '67
Scholastic Chairman

Also elected recently was the standards committee, the judicial branch of Crabtree's dorm government. Those elected were:

Peggy Windheim '67
Sue Anderson '68
Dottie McMullen '68
Paula McCarthy '68
Sandy Clark '68
Joyce Smith '69

Second semester, two freshmen will be added to the committee.

At its first meeting the Executive Board made plans for the semester. Corrider meetings were held Sunday night and members of the Social and Cultural, Finance, Scholastic Aid, and House Management committees were elected.

The Executive Board and the Standards Committee met with members from Women's Affairs and Women's Judiciary on Tuesday night, Nov. 29 to get information concerning the functions and responsibilities of dorm government.

Hamlin

by JOANNE ROGERS Correspondent

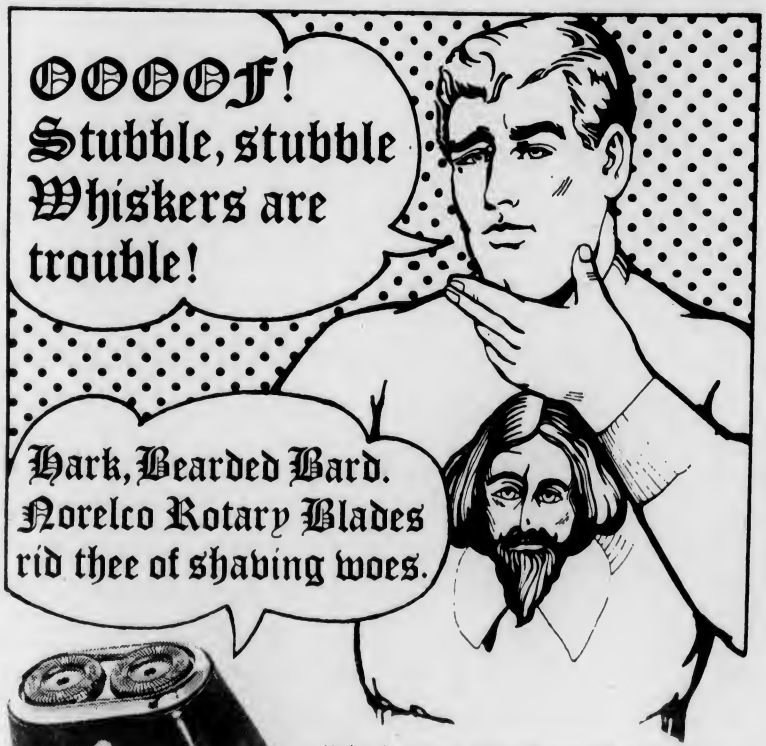
Results

Out of 150 residents in the dormitory, 118 girls registered and voted in the elections. 109 supported the revised Constitution, while 6 opposed and 3 refused to commit themselves.



President
Victoria Farrell 96 votes
Vice President
Cathy Nutter 97 votes
Secretary
Cynthia Webster 54 votes
Activities
Dolores Bazikas 106 votes
Standards
Donna Cande 95 votes
Virginia Chick 96 votes
Kim Garrison 113 votes
Roberta Kelly 95 votes
Beverly Mentes 108 votes
Joyce Nesmith 100 votes
Jane Tebbetts 106 votes
Cultural
Paula Swenson (2nd sem.) 105 votes

There were four write-in votes two each for the unopposed candidates in the Activities and cultural Programs ballot.

Many felt that the election showed the enthusiasm and eagerness of the girls for the new form of government approved by the Deans last spring.

OPEN HOUSE

The COLLEGIAN might be able to use your assistance in helping us bring joy into the hearts of every UMie three times a week. Why not stop in Tuesday and see what you can do to improve the campus.

Hail to the Norelco 'Flip-Top' Speedshaver® 20. Close. Comfortable. And smooth. Famous rotary blades stroke whiskers off, nobly. Never nick, cut or scrape. Easy flip top cleaning, too. Priced as low as a year's supply of razor blades and shave cream!

Eyes right for the new Norelco Tripleheader Speedshaver 35T. You're finished shaving nearly 40% faster than ever before! 18 rotary blades whip away whiskers at 77 miles an hour. So close we dare to match shaves with a blade. With Microgroove floating heads and pop-up trimmer.

Norelco® the fast, close, comfortable electric shave

© 1965 North American Philips Corp., Norelco, 100 East 42nd St., New York 17, N.Y.

First Choice Of The Engageables

And, for good reasons . . . like smart styling to enhance the center diamond . . . guaranteed perfect (or replacement assured) . . . a brilliant gem of fine color and precise modern cut. The name, Keepsake, in your ring assures lifetime satisfaction. Select your very personal Keepsake at your Keepsake Jeweler's store. Find him in the yellow pages under "Jewelers."

REGISTERED Keepsake® DIAMOND RINGS

PRICES FROM $100. TO $5000. RINGS ENLARGED TO SHOW BEAUTY OF DETAIL.
® TRADE MARK REG. A. H. POND COMPANY, INC. ESTABLISHED 1892

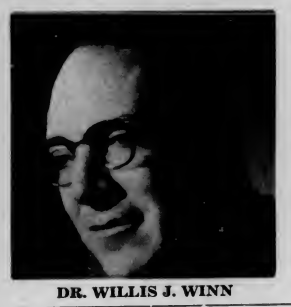
HOW TO PLAN YOUR ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING

Please send new 20-page booklet, "How To Plan Your Engagement and Wedding" and new 12-page full color folder, both for only 25c. Also, send special offer of beautiful 44-page Bride's Book.

Name_____
Address_____
City_____
State_____ Zip_____

KEEPSAKE DIAMOND RINGS, BOX 90, SYRACUSE, NEW YORK

Final SBA Lecture to Be Given



A well-known educator and expert on corporate finance will deliver the third lecture in the UMass School of Business Administration Colloquia on Thurs. Dec. 8, at 4 p.m. in Room 120, School of Business Administration.

Dr. Willis J. Winn, vice-provost of the University of Pennsylvania and Dean of its Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, will speak on "The Impact of Economic Change on Education." His lecture, final one in the fall SBA Colloquia, will be open to the public without charge.

In 1961, Dr. Winn was appointed director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, and currently serves the bank's board as chairman. He is also a director of the National Bureau of Economic Research and the president of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business.

A native of Missouri, Dr. Winn has been at UPenn since 1946, and was named vice-provost and dean of the Wharton School in 1958. He received his B.A. degree from Central College in Fayette, Mo., and his M.A. and Ph.D. from UPenn. He was a research associate for the National Bureau of Economic Research in New York City from 1942-46.

Dr. Winn is a member of the Board of Curators of Central Col. and of the board of trustees of Cedar Crest College in Allentown, Pa. He has been awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree by Central College and by Babson Institute.

DR. WILLIS J. WINN

UNICEF Sale Continues

Panhellenic Council, sponsor of the UNICEF Card and Calendar Sale, is reopening the sale for the week of Dec. 5-9 in the Student Union lobby. Due to the demand for cards which sold out during the first week of the sale, the most popular designs have been reordered.

Each box of UNICEF cards sold means that some underprivileged child, somewhere in the world, will be helped. In more than one hundred lands, millions of boys and girls have been given the gift of life because of the aid UNICEF has provided.

Children of every race and color have been saved from malnutrition, disease, and the curse of illiteracy. By purchasing and sending UNICEF cards, we are able to contribute to this much needed work. With the proceeds from one box alone, 50 children can be protected from tuberculosis.

Most of the designs are available with or without the "Season's Greetings" in five different languages. As notes, they make wonderful Christmas gifts.

The 1967 UNICEF Engagement Calendar, priced at $2.50 each, contains full-color designs centered around the activities and happy moments of children in many lands.

A year ago UNICEF was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for saving young lives ever since 1946. This year all of us can give the world's needy children increased help and new hope by purchasing UNICEF Greeting Cards and Calendars. Come and look at the selection of cards and calendars in the S. U. Lobby, Dec. 5-9, 9-5 daily.

—Notices—

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
On Tues., Dec. 6 at 8:00 P.M. in Mahar Auditorium, "Journey to the Center of the Earth" will be shown, in color. Free to members, 25¢ to non-members.

CHEMISTY LECTURE
On Dec. 7 at 4:30 in Goessmann 157, Professor Frank DiPopp of Clarkson College of Technology will speak on "The Chemistry of Diazo-Heterocycles."

SPANISH CORRIDOR
All students, male and female, who are interested in living in the Spanish Corridor are invited to an informal tea. It will be held at 7:30 P.M. on Wed., Dec. 7 in the Colonial Lounge of S.U. This is an opportunity to learn about the activities and purposes of the Spanish Corridors. Refreshments.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA
On Tues., Dec. 6 at 7:00 P.M. in Memorial Hall there will be a business meeting, at which a well-known campus professor will give a short talk.

OUTING CLUB
On Mon., Dec. 5 at 6:30 in Middlesex Room, S.U. Signup sheet for Mt. Toby overnight this weekend is now posted.

A.U.K.
On Wed., Dec. 7 at 7:30 P.M. in Machmer W-22 there will be discussion and elections concerning making AUK into a R.S.O.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
There are meetings every Tuesday night at 6:45 in Worcester Room, S.U. All are cordially invited.

ORTHODOX CLUB
On Tues., Dec. 6, at 7:00 P.M. in Nantucket Room, S.U. Rev. Steve Papadoulias from St. George's Greek Orthodox Church, Springfield, will speak.

PRE-DENTAL LECTURE
On Wed., Dec. 7 at 7:30, in Morrill 203 Dr. Di Giddon of Tufts Dental School will speak on Recent Biological and Sociological Developments in Dentistry and Dental School Admissions.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
There will be a pledge meeting Dec. 5 at 7:00 in Machmer W-27.
On Dec. 7, at 6:00 there will be an Executive Board meeting in Machmer W-27.
On Dec. 7, at 6:30 in Machmer W-27 there will be a General Business Meeting.

NEWMAN CLUB
On Dec. 6 at 7:00 P.M. there will be choir practice at the Newman Center Chapel.
On Dec. 5, at 8:15 P.M. Monsignor Power's Inquiry Class will meet in Classroom 2 of Newman Center.

LOST
Healther blue winter coat—full length with 2 buttons down front. Had Pi Beta Phi rec. pin on collar. Maker is American Bazare. Call Julie Quincy, 319 Crabtree, or Pi Beta Phi.

FOUND
Girl's gold bracelgt found in front of Goessmann Lab. Contact R. Lambert, 327 Hills North.

ENGAGEMENTS
Carol L. Shappell, class of '68, Eugene Field, to Donald G. Farrington, class of '68, Hadley, Mass.

Getting Drafty—See AFROTC

All male college students who have 2 years of college remaining, now have an opportunity to earn a commission as a Lieutenant in the United States Air Force.

The student must be attending or plan to attend a 4-year college or university offering this program, such as UMass. He must also be interviewed by the Professor of Air Science prior to Mar. 10, 1967 to determine his eligibility.

Following this, applicants will be administered the Air Force Officer Qualifying Test and a physical examination.

After attending a 6-week field training course during the summer of 1967, he will be sworn into the Air Force "Obligated Reserve" and become a paid member of the Air Force ROTC Cadet Wing.

Full academic credit is given for all Air Science courses and subsequent to graduation he will be commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Air Force. For further details concerning this program call or write Lt. Col. Roy D. Simmons, Jr., Professor of Air Science, Dickinson Hall.

Jaguar.
Tame it's not.

This is Jaguar for men. After-shave and cologne combined. Men like it, because it comes on stronger. Stays on longer. Women like it, because it doesn't smell like the stuff they wear. Jaguar. Eight mean ounces, trapped in a cage. Somebody said new Jaguar is the first uncivilized scent for the civilized man. She's right.

Eight mean ounces, cage and all, $9.00. Other items of Jaguar—Soap-on-a-rope, talc and body powder, deodorant, lotion—handsomely gift packaged. From $2 to $9.00.

YARDLEY OF LONDON, Inc.

YARDLEY OF LONDON, INC., NEW YORK MAKERS AND DISTRIBUTORS U. S. A.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Part time—3 eves and Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply Rm. 20, Masonic Bldg., 25 Main St., Northampton, Fri. eve. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

Agent wanted for picking up shoes that need repairing. Commission basis. Call 584-4208.

AUTOMOBILES

1958 T-Bird conv, V-8, automatic, new top, radio, heater, good condition. $600 or best offer. Call 253-7778 after 5:00 p.m.

FREE: 1963 Convair Monza
- 4 speed
- radio & heater
- new brakes
- 2 new tires—WSW
- engine rebuilt
- excellent condition—25 MPG

When you buy the ashtray
Call Rick or Brenda after 5 p.m.
584-4016

Corvette 1962. Red with white top. With 1965 300 H.P., 327 engine. 4 speed trans. Metal studded snow tires. $1950 or best offer. John Freiman, 455 Hills South, U of M.

For Rent

New furnished apartment. 2½ rooms. Close to university. Call 256-6775.

WANTED

Riders wanted to Florida during intercession. Call 546-7091.

Sigma Delta Tau pledges are willing to do housework and other material household jobs including babysitting, for a nominal fee. If interested, Call 546-7950 or leave message for Debbie Card at 545-2304 or 253-9256.

FOR SALE

1950 Packard Straight "8". Good condition. $50. New tires and battery. Call Don at 665-2807, 30 Mt. Rd., So. Deerfield, Mass.

View Camera—5 x 7 Linhof color kardon. Would the professor who was interested in this equipment this summer please call Worcester (617)-754-3060 collect.

Brand new Admiral radios still in original boxes. 2AM-FM models—$20 and $25. Great Xmas gift. Call Ralph Prolman, 313 Butterfield.

P.A. system—2 cobreflex horns; 2 60-watt drivers; horn stands; bogen amp & 4 mike mixer; electra-voice and share mikes, call Dave Lang (Butterfield)

Head competition giant slaloms, Barrecroft metal poles(new), Miller racing toe, Marker heel. $100 takes all. Contact Bob Miller, Sig Ep, phone AL 3-9112 between 5-7.

LOST

O.U.R. Agents—urgent. Publication AFSD No. 09016 is missing. If you have it or know of its whereabouts contact UMass Division Headquarters.

Will the male student who took a gold lady's Hamilton watch from a couch in the lobby of South Commons, Sunay evening, Nov. 20. Please return it to 316 Emily Dickinson.

1) Red rectangular-ring set in gold
2) Light green beret with brouch
Please call 6-8877, ask for Doyle

I. L. Y.

Bring Back Gilly.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE COLLEGIAN

INTRAMURALS

Talented Hi-Lo's Triumph; Untouchables Win by 71

by TOM CONUEL, Sports Staff

The Hi-Lo's highlighted Thursday night's intramural basketball activity with a 59-46 victory over the Maples. Dave Armstrong and Rick Fredericks paced the powerful Hi-Lo's attack with 18 and 17 points respectively.

Meanwhile the Smashers won again by downing the Seagrams, 49-25, after a slow start. Dick Klemanski led the Smasher attack with 18 points. The Redwoods also won another as they felled the Apples, 47-40. High scorer in that contest was Chevett of the Apples who tossed in 20 points.

Terrors on Top

Daszkiewcz had 16 points and 22 rebounds as he led the Terrors to a 49-28 victory over the Cherry. The Flaming A's stopped the Spartans, 49-46, in a close contest with Verresult leading the A's with 15 points.

In other dorm action, the Trojans smashed the Senators, 51-33, as Gibson tossed in 15 points for the Trojans. The Elms took the measure of the Hoovers 37-27, while the Pines, paced by Pease's 18 points and a tenacious defense, buried the Hicks, 36-14. The Hemlocks pounded the Academics, 35-21.

Among the Independents, there were several high scoring affairs. The Untouchables ran up the highest score of the night as they administered a 96-25 trouncing to the Numerals. Yates poured in 34 points for the Untouchables while Al Garsys added 26.

Courtesy Cruises

Courtesy also had a good night, cruising over the Leftovers, 70-54. Goggins scored 24 points and Tudryn scored 19 points for the Courtesy team.

Athanas and Swanson had 16 points apiece ofr the Zeroes, who had only mild trouble in registering a 50-40 decision over the Trojans. The Chem Club won another low scoring contest as they edged the Toads, 36-29. Harry's topped the Independents, 55-42.

Photo by Gleason

GAYESKA GAMBLES — Redmen center Pete Gayeska (50) takes first shot of his varsity career against BC as Terry Driscoll (51) and Doug Hice (21) watch.

Gymnasts Clip Southern Conn.; Army Here Sat.

The University of Massachusetts' gymnastics team outmaneuvered Southern Connecticut, 156.85 to 150.85, Saturday at Connecticut to start its 1966-1967 varsity schedule auspiciously.

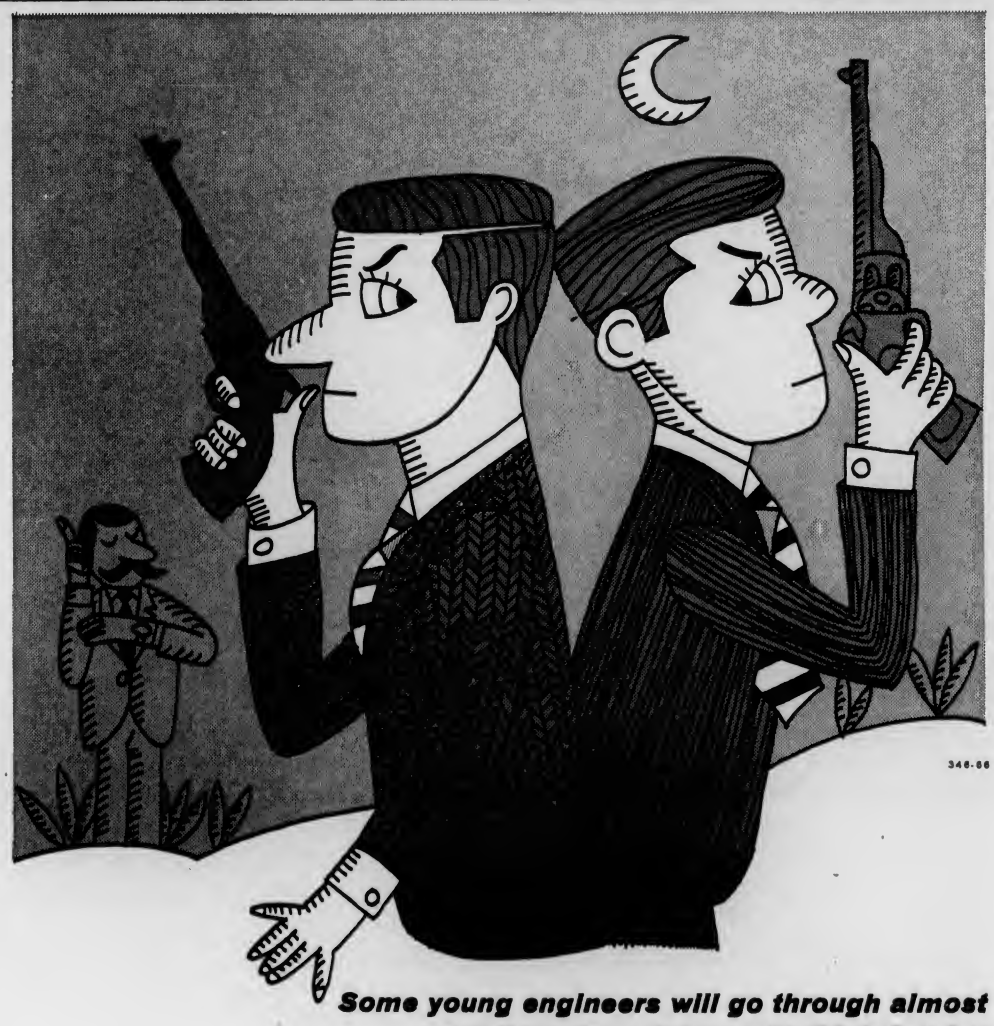
The Redmen displayed unusual strength in subduing SC as they annexed first places in four of the contest's seven events, including a sweep of the first three places on the side house.

Fred Babakian cut his side-horse routine for a score of 8.80 and was followed by Bob Lectair at 8.15 and Bill Estes at 8.05. In all events scores are evaluated on a 10-point basis with fractions of points deducted for various slips and faults depending on the difficulty of the movements and the degree of the infraction.

In the floor exercise, a test of mobility and body control on a flat surface, Dick Dauphinais finished with a 9.05 first-place routine. Steve Brown took first on the horizontal bar and Al Carver first on the trampoline with scores of 7.95 and 7.30, respectively.

The Redmen accumulated 25 points on the side horse and 24.65 on the long horse to pace UMass team totals on individual events. Weak point for Coach Erik Kjeldsen's gymnasts was the rings. Dick DelGallo was able to finish only fourth in the event with an 8.70.

CRIMINAL SAVED!



From this . . . . . to this

Photo by Mazel

Three days ago John Kelly was a shoplifter. He has been led away from his sordid life of crime, rehabilitated by the Collegian staff, and is now co-photo editor of the Collegian.

Do you have a problem? Are you a kleptomaniac, a paranoic or a schizophrenic? Drop in the Collegian Office on Tuesday, Dec. 6 from 2-5 p.m. and talk over your problems. We can help you. And while you're here, why not join the staff?

346-66

Some young engineers will go through almost anything for a future with "P.S.E.&G."

Don't fight. We'll be glad to see both of you. And if you qualify for our personalized training program, you've taken the first step on an exciting, rewarding career with a dynamic growth company. See our representative when he visits your campus.

INTERVIEWER ON CAMPUS:
DECEMBER 7

PUBLIC SERVICE ELECTRIC AND GAS COMPANY NEW JERSEY

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

ONE OF AMERICA'S LARGEST AND MOST PROGRESSIVE SUPPLIERS OF ENERGY

'Didn't Expect Trouble'--Cousy

by GLENN BRIERE
Sports Staff

Although Boston College rolled to a 23-point win, the game was closer, as both UMass Coach Jack Leaman and B.C. Coach Bob Cousy agreed after the game.

The Redmen held the Eagles even in field goals, and the final margin was determined from the foul line as B.C. outscored U-Mass, 32-9, in free throws. It was not an unimpressive performance by the Redmen, who are bound to improve as the sophomores gain experience and Tim Edwards rounds into form.

Just how much improvement remains to be seen, but UMass faces a strong test tomorrow night at the Cage against the perenially strong Rams from Rhode Island. It will be a crucial game in two respects: first, it should serve as a measure as to how the Redmen will do in the Yankee Conference, and second, it will show how well UMass is able to bounce back after losing to a strong and talented team such as B.C.

After three years as head coach of the Eagles, Cousy is expected to have one of the best teams in the East this year. After Saturday night's game, the former Celtic great admitted that his Eagles did not exactly look like world-beaters.

"UMass hustled well," Cousy said. "On paper, we didn't expect to have as much trouble as we did." He praised the Redmen's hustling off the boards and their defense.

"We were bothered by the job UMass did off the boards," he continued. "They forced us into a lot of errors. Because of this, we weren't able to run our offense the way we wanted to." Cousy was referring in particular to the first half, when B.C. outrebounded the smaller Redmen by only three.

He also pointed out that the absence of 6'8 center Willie Wolters hurt. Wolters is in the B.C. infirmary with a virus, and according to Cousy should be back next week in time for Wednesday's game against Fairfield. "We kind of need him," Cousy understated.

COOL COOZ — Nattily attired Coach Bob Cousy, former Mr. Basketball while a player with the Boston Celtics, adroitly surveys the early goings-on of the UMass-BC tussle.

Photo by Gleason

Looking ahead to the rest of the season, the B.C. coach said, "We're optimistic—not quite as optimistic after tonight, but we're still happy with our win."

Leaman, while not overjoyed at losing, was also optimistic. "We played well," he said, "and the final score is not indicative of the game." He pointed out that UMass was behind by only 11 when Billy Tindall fouled out. After that, the Eagles rolled the score up.

Leaman said that he did not use 6'9 soph Peter Gayeska much because of a neck injury. But U-Mass fans will see more of "the big guy" in coming weeks.

The UMass coach, who had his first game as varsity mentor, is confident that the Redmen will improve. With the return of Joe DiSarcina and Tim Edwards to top form, Leaman said, "They'll win their share."

UMass came out in new uniforms and warm-up jackets for the packed house of 4200. The new jerseys read "Redmen" instead of the cumbersome "Massachusetts."

Frosh Bow, 85-83, To B. C. in Thriller

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

Despite one of the most amazing comebacks seen at Curry Hicks Cage in recent years, the UMass Frosh dropped an 85-83 decision to the Boston College Eagles Saturday night.

Down 79-62 with only six minutes left in the game, the Little Redmen score 15 points in a row to pull up to within a two-point deficit with 1:30 left. After the Redmen traded hoops with the Eagles, UMass guard Ray Ellerbrook sank a 15-footer to knot the score at 83-83.

Boston held the ball for the last 45 seconds, and with four seconds remaining Bob Dukiet drove the base line to score the winning hoop.

One-Man Show

The first half was strictly a one-man show as Dukiet canned 25 points to give Boston College a 43-31 margin at the break. Dan Sweeney's shooting and Phil Harrington's rebounding kept the opposition from running away with the contest.

The situation grew more serious for UMass when Sweeney and Dick Samuelson fouled out early in the second half. At the same time, Jack Gallagher and Harrington were in serious foul trouble.

Suddenly Assistant Coach Al Wilson threw his men into a zone press, which completely flustered the Eagles. The fans, who had already packed the Cage, went wild as Ellerbrook, Harrington and Bob Perry converted B.C. errors into UMass points. Boston Colleeg, however, retained its poise long enough to win.

Play URI Tuesday

Ellerbrook and Harrington led the UMass scorers with 19 points apiece while Gallagher and Perry finished with 13 and 10, respectively.

Dukiet, former high school All American, and Pete Sollene dominated the Boston College scroing, each with 33.

The Frosh go for victory number one against a highly-touted Rhode Island unit Tuesday at P.M. at Curry Hicks. Chuck Fultz, 6'6 former Sudbury star, is one of the leading players for U.R.I.

Pucksters Ram MIT, 6-1

by DAVE HANSON

CAMBRIDGE — Boasting a balanced attack, the Redmen pucksters handily defeated MIT, 6-1, here Saturday evening. Six different players scored for UMass.

Captain Ed Polchlopek, high-scorer last year, took a pass from linemate Frank Buckler and slammed it home for the first score after only two minutes. At 7:28 Buckler tipped in a loose puck in front of the net to put the visitors ahead, 2-0. Ten minutes later, sophomore defenseman Joe Dicicco took a pass from classmate Charlie Hanifan and slammed in a screamer from the blue line.

Skowyra Scores

Second period action saw veteran Bill Skowyra and sophomore John Hartnett score within a minute of each other at the midway mark. Sophomore Fran Mulcahey scored on a breakway at 11:14, beating two defenders and netminder Carlton Bryant for an unassisted tally.

In the third period, UMass peppered the MIT nets with 22 shots but couldn't seem to score against substitute goaltender Steve Eriksen.

ARE YOU SURE YOU KNOW WHAT YOU'RE DOING?

People in love have a crazy way of getting wrapped up in each other and forgetting about everything else. So, unless you want to make a mistake, forget about love when you're buying a diamond ring.

If you'd like some expert help, in fact, go see your ArtCarved jeweler. He has beautiful diamond rings from $150 to over $1000. Every one has a gemologist's evaluation inscribed on the inner band. Every one is guaranteed.

So don't get emotional at a time like this. Get careful. If you don't know anything about diamonds, see your ArtCarved jeweler. He does. ArtCarved®

ADAMS
LEON'S JEWELERS
BEVERLY
DESJARDINS JEWELERS
BOSTON
E. B. HORN CO.
ROGER JEWELRY
BROCKTON
GURNEY BROS.
ROMM & CO.
CAMBRIDGE
ROGERS JEWELRY
CHATHAM
CHATHAM JEWELERS, INC.
CONCORD
H. S. HOWE
EASTHAMPTON
LEO L. DEGRANDPRE
FALL RIVER
MULLEN BROS.
FALMOUTH
FALMOUTH JEWELRY SHOP
FITCHBURG
ELLIOTT'S
FRAMINGHAM
ROBERTSON'S
GREENFIELD
CLEARY JEWELERS
HOLYOKE
BISHOP'S JEWELERS
HYANNIS
GUERTIN BROS.
LAWRENCE
KUHN JEWELERS
LEOMINSTER
M. M. SABATELLI
LYNN
ARTHUR STERN
MELROSE
GOFF BROS.
NANTUCKET
J. P. LENNON
NEW BEDFORD
NOVICK JEWELERS
PALMER
E. S. BROOKS JEWELER
PITTSFIELD
DENNO'S JEWELERS
PLYMOUTH
LORING'S JEWELERS
QUINCY
ROUSAYNE'S JEWELERS
SALEM
JOSEPH R. RICHARD
SOUTHBRIDGE
ART'S JEWELERS
SPRINGFIELD
FREDERICK'S JEWELERS
M. J. KITTREDGE
TAUNTON
HOMER'S TAUNTON JEWELRY, INC.
WAKEFIELD
FISHER JEWELERS
WEBSTER
ART'S JEWELERS
WESTFIELD
FELIX MAREK

Junior Year in New York

Three undergraduate colleges offer students from all parts of the country an opportunity to broaden their educational experience by spending their

Junior Year in New York

New York University is an integral part of the exciting metropolitan community of New York City—the business, cultural, artistic, and financial center of the nation. The city's extraordinary resources greatly enrich both the academic program and the experience of living at New York University with the most cosmopolitan student body in the world.

This program is open to students recommended by the deans of the colleges to which they will return for their degrees. Courses may be taken in the

School of Commerce
School of Education
Washington Square College of Arts and Science

Write for brochure to Director, Junior Year in New York

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY
New York, N.Y. 10003

B.C. Bumps Redmen, 86-63, In Curtain Raiser at Cage

by DAVE JARNES, Sports Staff

At least they didn't get bombed like a lot of people thought they would. The Redmen actually were only behind by 11 points with five minutes left when Boston College opened up to win, 86-63, at the Cage Saturday night.

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
sports
Monday, December 5, 1966
Page 12 Vol. XCV, No. 30

UMass began like a house afire. Early hoops by Billy Tindall and Frank Stewart gave the home team a 4-0 lead. For most of the next ten minutes the lead see-sawed back and forth. Steve Adelman, who makes scoring look easy, provided most of BC's punch while UM's hustlers, led by Bob Murphy, compensated for many mistakes and kept the Redmen in the game.

Final Lead

Hoops by Mike Gemei and Murphy gave UM its last lead at 16-15. An Adelman hoop with 10 minutes left in the half put BC on top for good, 17-16. The closest the Redmen came after that was 24-23 after a Tindall foul shot.

The Eagles' zone press forced UM to throw the ball away, enabling BC to take a 39-30 halftime bulge into the locker room. Sophomore Bill Evans was the key to BC's pressure tactics. A fine ball-handler and a 16-point scorer on offense, Evans stole the ball several times to set up easy lay-ups for his teammates.

The Redmen tried to adjust to BC's man-to-man in the second half by working give-and-go plays, with the guards weaving in and out of the pivot area. For a while it seemed as though UM was going to make its move when Bob Murphy hit a jumper to cut the lead to 46-39 with 15:30 left, but backets by Jim Kissane and John Kelleher quickly brought the lead back to 11. For the remainder of the game BC capitalized on numerous one-and-one foul situations (the Eagles were an amazing 32-36 from the charity stripe) to build up the final margin of victory.

Two Weaknesses

Although UM wasn't even expected to come this close to Bob Cousy's team, the opening game pointed out two Massachusetts weaknesses: a lack of adequate shooting and poor ball handling. Tindall was supposed to be UM's high scorer this year, but the guards were having trouble getting the ball into him. He had only eight points.

Gemei, who scored 15 points, appears to have the potential to be UM's best outside shooter. Murphy, who shot well and was high scorer with 16 points, is most effective as a play-maker rather than a gunner.

Tim Edwards certainly doesn't lack in muscle, but he hasn't regained the timing that he lost during last year's absence from basketball. Big (6'9") Pete Gayeska may be seeing more action in an effort to get more rebounds.

B. C. Wins Boards

BC outrebounded UM, 54-43. The Eagles frequently got four and five shots at the basket while the Redmen rarely if ever got more than one shot.

Statistics

UMASS	B	F	Pts
Stewart	3	0	6
Tindall	3	2	8
Edwards	4	2	10
Murphy	7	2	16
Gemei	6	3	15
Lisack	3	0	6
Girotti	1	0	2
Gasperack	0	0	0
DiSarcina	0	0	0
Gayeska	0	0	0
Meola	0	0	0
Totals	27	9	63

BC	B	F	Pts
Adelman	10	0	20
Kissane	4	10	18
Driscoll	3	5	11
Kvancz	1	0	2
Kelleher	5	3	13
Evans	3	10	16
Hice	1	4	6
Pacynski	0	0	0
Totals	27	32	86

Score at halftime: BC 39, UM 30

UMass Frosh	B	F	Pts
Gallagher	4	5	13
Harrington	7	5	19
Samuelson	2	0	4
Sweeney	4	0	8
Ellerbrook	9	1	19
Kostygan	2	2	6
Perry	4	2	10
Swartz	1	0	2
Way	1	0	2
Totals	34	15	83

B.C. Frosh	B	F	Pts
Doble	3	2	8
LaGrace	2	1	5
Verroneau	1	1	3
Dukiet	11	11	33
Downey	0	3	3
Sollene	12	9	33
Totals	29	27	85

Score at halftime: BC 43, UMass 31

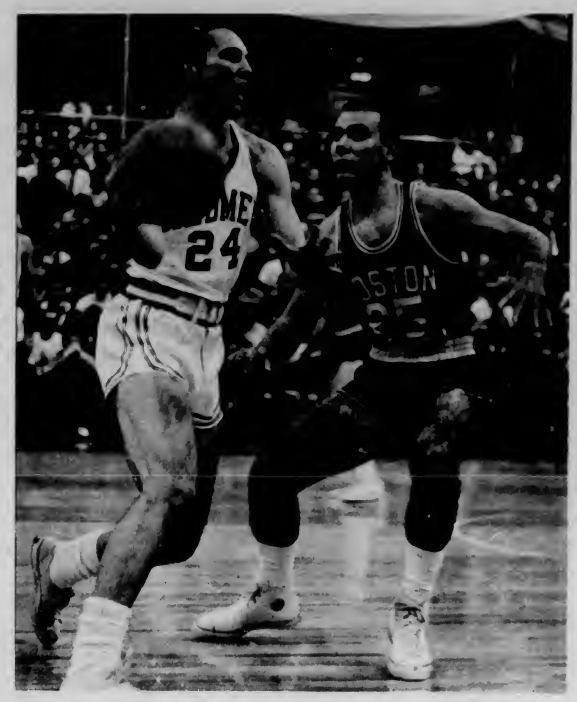


Photo by Gleason

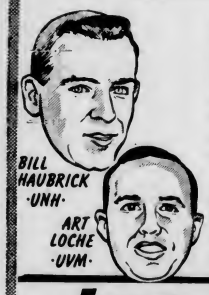

MURPH ON THE MOVE—Redman court marshal Bob Murphy (24) spearheads early drive against Boston College. Guarding tightly is BC guard Jack Kvancz (25).

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Dec. 6	Rhode Island at Massachusetts
Dec. 7	Connecticut at New Hampshire
Dec. 10	Rhode Island at Maine
	Vermont at Massachusetts
Dec. 13	Maine at New Hampshire
Dec. 15	New Hampshire at Rhode Island
Dec. 17	Maine at Massachusetts
Jan. 7	Connecticut at Vermont
	New Hampshire at Massachusetts
Jan. 10	Vermont at New Hampshire
Jan. 13	Vermont at Maine
Jan. 14	Rhode Island at Connecticut
	Vermont at Maine
Jan. 16	Vermont at Connecticut
Jan. 18	Vermont at Rhode Island
Jan. 21	New Hampshire at Vermont
Jan. 28	Massachusetts at Vermont

Feb. 1	Massachusetts at Connecticut
Feb. 4	Maine at Connecticut
Feb. 6	Rhode Island at Vermont
Feb. 9	Massachusetts at Rhode Island
Feb. 11	Massachusetts at New Hampshire
Feb. 13	Connecticut at Maine
Feb. 17	Rhode Island at New Hampshire
Feb. 18	Connecticut at Massachusetts
	Maine at Rhode Island
Feb. 21	New Hampshire at Connecticut
Feb. 25	Connecticut at Rhode Island (2 P. M.)
	Massachusetts at Maine
Feb. 28	New Hampshire at Maine

Experts Favor Connecticut In 20th Year of Conference

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

The Yankee Conference celebrates its 20th anniversary this season, and most pre-season observers think Connecticut will lead the festivities. The action begins tonight at the Cage with UM vs. URI.

Massachusetts—(5-5 in the Conference, 11 - 13 overall) Better rebounding is key to Coach Jack Leaman's hopes. Someone must take up scoring slack left by departure of Clarence Hill and Jim Babyak. Looked good in spots Saturday night against Boston C.

Connecticut — (9-1, 16-8) Fred Shabel's veteran unit sparked by 6'2 Wes Bialosuknia's shooting. Addition of 6'4 sophomore Billy Gray in the lineup should help 6'7 center Bill Corley under the boards. Their loss Saturday night to Yale is cause for optimism among the other members of the Conference.

Rhode Island — (9-1, 20-8) Only Art Stephenson, 6'4 center, and Bob Johnson, 6'1 guard, return from last year's championship team. At least two sophomores will be in Ernie Calverley's starting lineup so defense may be weak. Beat Fordham by 12 points Saturday.

Vermont—(3-7, 12-8) Sophomore contingent led by Dave LaPointe, 6'3 high school All-American, should make Art Loche team tough to handle especially in the latter part of the season. Bill Librera, 6'3 forward, and Russ Boardman, 6'5 center, are two of the better veterans.

New Hampshire—(0-10, 3 - 21) Last year's excellent freshman team gives Coach Bill Haubrick hopes for better record this season. Only three lettermen back, however.

Maine—(4-6, 9-13) Lack of size will hurt Black Bears this year. Look for senior Terry Carr, 6'1 guard, to do much of scoring for Brian McCall's quintet.

Yan-Con Action Opens Tomorrow: UM vs. URI

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

Rhode Island's basketball team lost four of its five starters through graduation, but URI Coach Ernie Calverly appears to have come up with another strong squad this year.

That team will be the Redmen's opponent in a crucial game at Curry Hicks Cage tomorrow night at 8, preceded by the Frosh game at 6:00 p.m.

The Rams, defending co-champs of the Yankee Conference, have a good, young team that will provide a good test for Jack Leaman's Redmen. Rhody is one of the opponents that UMass will have to beat if it entertains any aspirations of going far in the Conference.

The Rams looked impressive in beating Fordham, 73-61, Saturday night. They are very strong under the boards, led by powerful center Art Stephenson. They also have some fine shooters.

Stephenson, a 6'5 junior, scored 27 points and hauled in 18 rebounds in the Fordham game. He is one of the strongest rebounders in New England and also has a good jump shot from 10 ft. out. He exerts an excellent second effort off the boards. How well UM is able to contain Stephenson may determine the outcome of the game.

One of the forwards is Co-captain Don Kaull, the only senior on the squad. At 6'5, Kaull has excellent shooting range for his size.

At the other forward will be 6'5 sophomore Tom Hoyle, who scored 14 points and grabbed 11 rebounds Saturday night. He drives well and is a good shooter. He is also a valuable backup to Stephenson on rebounding, but has a lot to learn yet on defense.

One of the guards is junior Larry Johnson, a 20-point scorer against Fordham. Johnson is an outstanding outside shooter who has to be played closely. His favorite shot is a jumper at the top of the key. Last year, he was a great sixth man. A 6'2 native of Newark, N.J., he is not a strong ball - handler but his shooting makes up for this.

Guard Joe Castaldi, a 6'3 sophomore, is the other half of the Rhode Island backcourt. He was the leading scorer for Rhody's outstanding freshman team last year.

Dick Coleman, a 6'7 soph, should see some action as well as Leon Mintshenko, a 5'10 guard

Photo by Gleason

RING AROUND THE HOOP BALL—UMass' Bill Tindall (32) feeds Mike Gemei (14) as Jim Kissane (11) of BC moves to block drive.

INDEX
Door Policy 5
Thurber 6
Bologna 7
Swimmers Win . 8

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

UMASS
OVER
RHODY
Pg. 8

VOL. XCV, NO. 31 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1966

COLLEGIAN STAFF GROWS

Photo by Harvey

The Collegian open house in the Collegian office yesterday proved very successful with over 75 stopping in during the afternoon for coffee and donuts. Editor in chief Gordon Davidson is seen here talking to one of the new staff members. New members are always welcome and are reminded of the seminar classes available in the late afternoons.

Pro and Con

Birth Control Methods Available?

by PAM METAXAS,
Staff Reporter

At a seminar conducted at Farley Lodge Sunday night, Dr. Henry Schoenberger and Dr. William Darity discussed the question of whether birth control methods should be available to unmarried persons. Dr. Robert Gage, head of the University Health Service, was the moderator.

Dr. Schoenberger, speaking first, felt it was really a discussion of "whether we feel that unmarried persons should engage in sexual intercourse."

"My main interest is . . . to see if there is some way to decrease the number of pregnancies in college students," he added. He doesn't think birth control methods should be made available to unmarried persons.

"If birth control tablets were freely available there might possibly be an increase in the number of illegitimate children," he explained. Young people, still being immature in some respects, would forget to take the pill daily or believe it would work even if not taken continually. He also added that the use of any birth control methods "requires a conscious intent on the part of the user to have intercourse." College students are usually swept into it without forethought. There is no "conscious intent" here.

"Physical intercourse on a continual basis is bad judgment in the sense it is a poor idea for individuals involved from a practical, not a moral point of view," Dr. Schoenberger said. He does not see such premarital activity as a good basis for marriage later on. The basis for marriage, according to the doctor, is to establish family unity and to bring up children.

"You have to abandon this if you believe in free intercourse and you are jeopardizing the security of unborn children," he added.

"Physical intercourse (between unmarried persons) on a continuing basis is an ideal that doesn't exist in reality." he emphasized. Since there is no commitment and no responsibility in such a situation, the persons involved get "a wrong idea of what marriage is," he said.

"Where it (premarital intercourse) becomes a way of life without responsibility, it is detrimental," he remarked. He also said such a situation may be the reason for so many divorces later on.

Dr. William Darity first divided all unmarried persons into three categories: those that have never been married, the divorced or separated, and the widowed group.

He noted that if an unmarried patient comes to a physician, tells him he or she is having intercourse and plans to continue having it, the doctor should prescribe birth control methods for both the boy and girl. In other words he felt that each situation should be looked at differently.

"I don't think we can say yes or no. Each case has to be handled on its own merit," said Dr. Darity.

He added there is a correlation between the frequency of sexual intercourse and the types of methods used. On campuses where most students live in dorms, he felt, "there is very infrequent sexual intercourse."

Generally, however, Dr. Darity felt that "all information on birth control methods should be available to those who want it," even though he does not think "the pill should be available to all."

"I think this is a medical decision," he said. It is up to the doctor to decide if unmarried persons should receive birth control materials."

Federal Fellowships Available For Doctoral Study in '67

An additional 6,000 graduate students who show promise of developing into good college and university teachers will receive fellowships for doctoral study during the 19967-68 academic year, the U. S. Office of Education said.

Approximately $82 million will be obligated during Fiscal Year 1967 to cover the cost of the 6,000 new graduate fellowships plus some 9,000 awards continuing from previous years.

The fellowship program, administered under Title IV of the National Defense Education Act of 1958, has a double purpose: to increase the number of well-qualified college and university teachers and to develop and expand the capacity of doctoral study facilities throughout the country.

Fellowships have been granted to 193 institutions representing all 50 States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Nominations of fellowship candidates are made to the Commissioner of Education by the graduate institutions for use in 2,692 approved programs. The number of grants for Massachusetts is 336.

National Defense Graduate Fellowships provide three years of full-time study leading to the Ph.D. or equivalent degree in virtually all fields of instruction. Stipends provide $2,000 for the first year, $2,200 for the second, and $2,400 for the third, plus an allowance of $400 a year for each dependent. An additional stipend of $400, and an allowance of $100 for each dependent, are available for summer study.

Institutions are allowed $2,500 per fellow to cover tuition and fees and to help defray educational costs.

The following distribution was made of fellowship programs for 1967-68: 43 percent in the humanities, social sciences, and education; 57 percent in the biological sciences, physical sciences, and engineering. Because of the several alternative programs now supporting natural science and engineering, institutions are being urged to allocate two-thirds of their fellowships to other fields of study.

In-Depth Analysis

Bureau Director Views State Constitution

The University Bureau of Government Research has published an in-depth analysis on "The Problem of Simplifying the Massachusetts Constitution."

Written by Dr. Robert A. Shanley, assistant director of the Bureau, the 40-page publication studies the problem of simplifying the Commonwealth's Constitution of 1780. As amended, it is the oldest constitution in continuous use in the United States.

Dr. Shanley's monograph includes a summary of past efforts at simplification, identification of the areas he feels need simplification, and some suggestions for the document's revision. "The principal objective," he writes, "is to enhance citizen control and understanding of the governmental process, and to achieve a greater knowledge of the framework and fundamentals of state government by non-governmental groups."

Morris M. Goldings, counsel to the Commonwealth's Special Commission on Revision of the Constitution, has called the publication an ". . . excellent document." The lawyer said Dr. Shanley has "done a fine job and made a real contribution to an area that . . . has few authoritative works of merit."

The perplexity of the Massachusetts constitution, according to Dr. Shanley, "is due to the fact that (1) approximately one third of the Constitution and its amendments contain nullified and obsolete material, (2) that the growing number of amendments (now 85) were added to the end of the document rather than incorporated into the text, (3) that in a number of cases, amendments have been amended and in several cases amendments have been revised several times, and (4) that the method of organization is difficult to follow."

Thus, he writes, "The 1780 Constitution is deficient in constitution-making standards of clarity, simplicity and attention to fundamentals."

The obsolete material, statutory detail, violations of the United States Constitution, il-

(Continued on page 3)

UMass Student Arrested On Narcotics Charge

by DICK KLINE. Day Editor

Carmine N. Coletta, 20, a UMass junior from Lawrence, Mass., was arrested yesterday at 2:15 p.m. in room 323 of Webster House and charged with "unlawful possession of narcotics." He was released on $1000 bail.

Coletta was arraigned at 9:30 a.m. this morning in Northampton District Court, at which time he pleaded not guilty to the charges. His case was continued to Dec. 31. No University action is planned at this time, the University News Office said.

The arrest was a result of a search by campus and state police and in conjunction with a state police narcotics investigation in the area, according to State Police Lt. Daniel Schwartz.

Lt. Schwartz said that he and Trooper Joseph Jagadowski with campus police office John Taylor, found a quantity of marijuana in Coletta's possession. At this time no one else is implicated, the Lieutenant reported.

Thurber Carnival Coming!

Director Vince Brann speaks to Ray Poole ('68) Maralynne Nathanson ('68), and Judy Webb ('68) who will appear in the University Theatre's production of A Thurber Carnival on Dec. 7, 8, 9, 10, in Bowker Auditorium. For carnival spread, see page 6.

DUCKS FLEE POND!!

Photo by Harvey

As the University campus slowly becomes white with the snows of the winter months, the campus pond is slowly becoming frozen over. Isn't it time for the ducks to enjoy warm surroundings?

Committee Formed to Aid Homeless Families in Italy

Severe destruction due to recent flooding in Central Italy has evoked sympathetic action among members of the University community. A student-faculty committee has formed to raise funds for a University donation to the Italian government or an appropriate United States committee concerned with aid for homeless families and/or art restoration.

Recent reports indicate that the homes of 50,000 families have been totally destroyed by the deluge, and that inestimable damage has been done to great art of the Renaissance and before.

One Italian has been quoted as saying "All of our work over the past ten centuries has been destroyed in one day."

True to the spirit of great Italian optimism, he added, "There is nothing to do but say that it could have been worse, and get ready to clean away the mud and start all over again."

The best way to help Italy is through financial support, and contributions in the form of personal checks or cash can be directed to the Relief to Italy fund, Art Department, Bartlett Hall, University of Massachusetts. Coin collection boxes will be left in convenient places all over campus.

UMass Doctors To Answer Health Questions

by Infirmary Doctors

In conjunction with the editors of the Collegian the medical staff of the University Health Services has decided to inaugurate a bi-weekly column to discuss medical topics of interest to the student body. We will try to follow a question and answer format and therefore will rely on questions submitted by the students for our subject matter.

Obviously it will be impossible for us to answer each question individually and some selection will be necessary. We will try to choose those questions which reflect a general student interest and application.

A question box will be provided in the lobby of the student health service or questions may be submitted either directly to the infirmary or the Collegian office.

The medical staff is commonly asked questions on pregnancy, the use of drugs, venereal diseases, acne, smoking, weight loss, anxiety, the use of tranquilizers, or depression. This will also give us an opportunity to discuss any conditions which are 'making the rounds' on campus.

Undoubtedly we will succumb on occasion to the irresistable urge to comment on the use of the health service facilities. We will also consider seriously any criticisms.

The success of an undertaking such as this depends primarily on student interest and the value of the material contained in the column. On our part we will make every effort to answer your questions frankly and openly and to make our subject matter informative, accurate and useful.

From Alopecia to Zypholditis, the subjects depend on you. Any questions?

U. Chicago Examines Draft Deferments

Amidst the war in Vietnam and the growing concern over the draft a conference is presently taking place at the University of Chicago to take an intellectual look at the nation's Selective Service System.

The question which has been facing the group since Sunday is how to improve or replace the draft.

It appears likely that the conference will recommend continuation of draft deferments for college students and reject proposals for any form of compulsory "national service" for all young Americans.

Conferees include world-famed scholars, government officials, businessmen and students representing a broad spectrum of political belief. Some are hawks; some are doves and some are undecided.

The conference is the third in the past four weeks to discuss the draft, but University of Chicago officials have given this meeting the look of a graduate level symposium.

About 30 working papers have been prepared and distributed to each delegate. The public will not be invited to the working sessions but will be informed of the conference's recommendations at the close of the meeting Wednesday.

In Washington it was reported that a White House review of the Selective Service Act is nearing completion, and an insider said Sunday the report to President Johnson will be "frank and candid" about suggestions for overhaul of the draft.

A spokesman for the 20-member national advisory commission on Selective Service said the report's findings, a closely guarded secret at this point, will be submitted to Johnson by January 1.

It was widely expected that the commission, headed by former Assistant Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall, will recommend major revisions in the present draft, which Johnson has called a "crazy quilt" system in need of change.

- Notices -

CRITIQUE
All members not present without valid excuse will no longer be considered members on Wed., Dec. 7.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE CLUB
On Wed., Dec. 7, at 7:30 P.M. in the S.U. Ballroom plans for a Christmas party will be discussed between dances.

LUTHERAN STUDENT CONGREGATION
On Dec. 11, at 6:00 P.M. in Immanuel Lutheran Lounge there will be a Christmas Supper and festivities. All are welcome.

A.C.S.C.
On Dec. 7, at 7:00 P.M. in Dukes Room, S.U. there will be an organizational meeting of the campus young conservatives.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
On Wed., Dec. 7, the Northampton Volunteers will leave the Union for the hospital at 6:30 P.M. from the Lobby of S.U. All are welcome. Transportation provided.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
On Monday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 in Hasbrouck 244 there will be an important business meeting. A new sate of officers will be drawn up at this meeting. All interested are invited to attend.

YOUNG INDEPENDENTS
On Wed., Dec. 7, at 6:00 in Hampshire Room, S.U. there will be a meeting, with discussion of position papers on American foreign policy.
On Thurs., Dec. 8, at 8:00 n Hasbrouck 134 there will be films of Mariner 4, Mars Fly-by shown.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
The library will be open in 203 Berkshire House from 3:30 to 8:00 P.M. Monday through Friday. All volunteer librariana please call 6-8668.

PRE-DENT LECTURE
On Wed., Dec. 7 at 7:30 in Morrill 203 Dr. Dl Giddon of Tufts Dental School will discuss "Recent Biological & Sociological Developments in Dantistry," and Dental School Admissions.

A.U.K.
On Wed., Dec. 7, at 7:30 P.M. in Machmer W-22 there will be elections and discussion concerning making AUK into a R.S.O.

EMPLOYEES UNION LOCAL #1776
On Dec. 9, at 7:30 P.M. there will be the regular monthly meeting of A.F.S.C.M.E./AFL-CIO in S.U. Council Chambers.

MURDER IN THE CATHEDRAL TRYOUTS
Tryouts for T.S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral," to be presented in Grace Church in January, will be held in Kirby Theater, Amherst, tomorrow and Friday from 3-5:00 P.M. Cast includes Becket, four knights, three priests, attendants, and a chorus of women. Women, in particular, are urged to try out.

LECTURE ON AUTOMATION
Harvey Swados, author and professor of English at Sarah Lawrence College and Columbia University, will conduct a seminar, "Affluence and Automation: The Future for Students," in Morrill Auditorium, on Thurs., Dec. 8, at 2:30 P.M.

ARCHAEOLOGY MEETING
Residents of this area interested in archaeology are invited to a meeting Friday, Dec. 9, at 8:00 P.M. in S.U. Middesex Room, to organize a local chapter of the Massachusetts Archaeological Society.

LOST
Black pocketbook taken from North Dining Commons. Please return to Room 825 Dickinson or call 546-6606. No questions asked if personal items are returned.
Raincoat, lgiht brown, plaid lining. Brand name "Fox Hunt", lost at Peter, Paul and Mary Concert. Reward. Call 6-6933.
Auto Registration Plate Number R 9Z57, lost behind Tower 4. Contact Ron, 546-7711.

PINNINGS
Janice R. Tiberii, class '68, Sigma Kappa, to Richard H. Booth, class '68, Beta Kappa Phi.
Sharon Staney, class '70, Van Meter North, to Arthur H. Laberis, class '70, Greenough.

ENGAGED
Linda Soncraut — exchange student from Univ. of New Mexico, to Robert Rossell, Youngstown University, Ohio.

AMHERST Cinema
NOW SHOWING on screen 6:50-9:00

Blazing action by these internationally famous stars

TERENCE YOUNG's
the poppy is also a flower

SENTA BERGER • STEPHEN BOYD • YUL BRYNNER • ANGIE DICKINSON • GEORGE GERET
HUGH GRIFFITH • JACK HAWKINS • RITA HAYWORTH • TREVOR HOWARD
TRINI LOPEZ • E. G. MARSHALL • MARCELLO MASTROIANNI • AMEDEO NAZZARI • JEAN CLAUDE PASCAL
ANTHONY QUAYLE • LAYA RAKI • GILBERT ROLAND • HAROLD SAKATA • OMAR SHARIF • BARRY SULLIVAN

Announcing—
the existence, at the University of Massachusetts main library, of

The Objectivist

an outstanding journal of ideas edited by

Ayn Rand

(author of "Atlas Shrugged" and "The Fountainhead" and originator of the revolutionary new philosophy known as Objectivism) and

Nathaniel Branden

(coauthor of "Who Is Ayn Rand?" and creator of the Objectivist psychology).

This journal should be of particular value to anyone seriously interested in the relevance and application of ideas to his (or her) life.

Of special interest to students of philosophy will be four of a series of articles by Miss Rand which contain an introduction to Objectivism's theory of knowledge (i.e., epistemology).

Ask the librarian at the desk of the Periodical room for the journal (as it is not yet on the open shelves).

Christmas Concert of Newman Choir

December 11, 5 P.M.

Everyone is welcome !

Would You Believe?

University Reform Committee Meeting

Thursday, December 8, 1966
6:00 P.M. — Middlesex Room

Agenda
Curriculum Change, Faculty Evaluations, Student Power!

Govt. Professor to Address Consular Law Society

A UMass professor of government and former legal adviser to the Hungarian ministry of finance will address a meeting of the Consular Law Society in New York City on Wednesday, Dec. 7.

Dr. Ferenc A. Vali, a recognized authority on international law, will address the exclusive organization on "Viewpoints on Germany's Status in International Law." The Consular Law Society comprises about 80 members, including consuls, legal advisers to consulates, members of delegations accredited to the United Nations, and prominent lawyers.

In announcing Prof. Vali's acceptance of the invitation to address the society, Andrew Freeman, its secretary, said "The problems of Germany's post-war status in international law have greatly concerned statesmen and scholars alike since the termination of hostilities. Prof. Vali is a noted expert on the subject."

Dr. Vali's interest in modern Germany is a long standing one. In 1963, in connection with a $7,291 grant to UM from the Rockefeller Foundation, Dr. Vali carried out a study of the complexities of the interrelationship between German nationalism and the Cold War problem of German partition.

A book he has just completed on the subject, titled The Quest for a United Germany, will be published in mid-1967 by the Johns Hopkins Press in Baltimore, Md.

Born in Budapest, Dr. Vali is a graduate of the University of Budapest and the University of London. A distinguished lawyer and professor of law in Hungary, he taught at the University of Budapest until he was banned from the faculty by the Communists early in 1949.

In 1951, he and his wife were arrested because of their connection with the West. He was released just prior to the unsuccessful revolution in 1956, during which he aided in an effort to reorganize the Hungarian Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

When the revolution was crushed by the Communists, Dr. Vali and his wife fled to Austria. From there they went to London, Paris and The Hague, and in 1957 came to the United States. From 1958-61, Prof. Vali was a research associate at the Harvard Center for International Affairs working on a book, Rift and Revolt in Hungary: Nationalism Versus Communism, which was published in 1961 by Harvard University Press.

He joined the UM faculty in September, 1961, where he teaches courses in international law and international relations. Among his other publications is a standard work, Servitudes of International Law, eight other books and nearly 40 articles.

James House Commissions Sculptor

by LEONARD RADIN

William James house is named after one of the most profound and influential behavioral psychologists and philosophers of the nineteenth century.

To eulogize its namesake, and to introduce the fine arts to the Southwest Residential College, the William James House Council voted unanimously to commission Jerome Radin, a noted sculptor from Springfield, to portray in clay the famed philosopher. The portrait, in the form of a terra cotta bust, will be glazed with a bronze stain finish.

When asked to comment on how he created this vivid and powerful interpretation of William James, Mr. Radin replied, "For subjects no longer living like William James, I read most of his published works, especially his personal letters, which were fortunately plentiful. I find this necessary to portray his actual personal feelings. I find that I can never achieve true characterization through biography, which I have found somewhat distorted."

Sculptor Jerome Radin of Springfield is shown with his terra cotta portrait of William James.

Mr. Radin related his findings in the following paragraphs: "There are two meanings that I tried to portray in the statue. One is his pragmatic or practical approach toward the meaning of truth or belief, or fact, which to James was continually changing. What is a belief or fact today may not be the same tomorrow. This completely changed the philosophical concept of the search for the absolute truths. James' favorite expression was, 'd a m n the absolute'."

Mr. Radin continued: "The second phase that I tried to portray in this statue was his unusual daring of his imagination probing into the value of the intuitive mind into the realm of feeling. William James was one of the first to experiment with the use of drugs to probe the subconscious. He would inhale nitrous oxide to induce hallucinations.

"I tried to portray him in the complex state of his power of reason, plus his moment of entrance into hallucinary experience," he said. "I want to emphatically infer that it takes such daring and imagination to produce such giants like William James. On the other hand, I tried to show, though very subtly, his human frailties. Neurasthenia left him extremely sensitive to any light, sound, or odor. He also had frequent depressive melancholia."

A quotation from one of James' letters brings out the above mentioned concept of constantly changing array of ideas. "Truth is prospective rather than detrospective. The truth of a thing or idea is its meaning or its destiny, that which grows out of it . . . reversing the opinion of the empiricists that the meaning of an idea is that which it has grown from."

The newly formed Student Union Cultural Fund contributed more than half of the funds used to purchase this portrait, the first of its kind on campus. It has been said that this fund should increase in future semesters.

In a recent interview, President Lederle mentioned that there are many aspects which constitute a scholarly atmosphere and an atmosphere conducive to study. The fine arts are among those aspects of dormitory life which help inspire the studious resident.

Bach Aria To Perform Friday Night

The Bach Aria Group, nine celebrated instrumentalists and vocalists who specialize in performing the works of Johann Sebastian Bach, will be heard in concert at the University on Friday, Dec. 9, at 8 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

Directed by William H. Scheide, the group was founded in 1946 to perform the arias and duets from Bach's cantatas, a repertoire comparatively unknown but remarkable for its vigor, its melodic qualities, its beauty, and its infinite variety.

The Bach Aria Group comprises instrumental and vocal soloists: Sam Baron, flute; Robert Bloom, oboe; Norman Farro, bass-baritone; Maureen Forrester, alto; Bernard Greenhouse, cello; Richard Lewis, tenor; Lois Marshall, soprano; Oscar Shumsky, violin; and Paul Ulanowsky, piano.

Tickets for Friday's performance are available from the Ticket Office at the Student Union and will be available at the door.

INTRAMURALS . . .

(Continued from page 8)

baskets in the final minutes and pull it out, 47-44. The game left KS at 1-1 on the year and LCA at 3-1.

AEP used balance in scoring and good team play to overcome Ron Merrill's 18 points and squeeze by a big, rugged TKE outfit, 55-54. TEP remained undefeated, knocking off BKP, 57-41, getting 18 big ones from Don Alberico. ATG outlasted ASP, 43-37, TC licked PSK, 31-25, and Zeta Nu bounced SAM, 50-31.

SPE, behind Terry McDonough's 22 points, bested QTV, 57-51, and PMD beat PSD, 32-21.

In Independent action, the Untouchables were just that as they brushed off the Blues easily, 51-30. The high scoring Tigers (119 points in their last outing) got only 39, but it was enough as they downed the Buffaloes, 39-24. Paul Whalen had 15 to take scoring honors. The Independents rolled over the Bismarck's, 86-31, and the Hangovers had little trouble in their 44-13 win.

Professor to Speak At Press Conference

How to "Write Good Like (As) A Journalist Should" will be discussed with about 200 of the high school students attending the fourth annual Pioneer Valley Press Conference at Cathedral High School, Springfield, Dec. 10.

Speaker will be Dr. Dario Politella, associate professor of journalistic studies and English at UMass.

A free-lance writer, magazine editor and teacher of article writing courses at four universities, Politella is listed in "Contemporary Authors" and the "Blue Book of Magazine Writers." Editor of "The Collegiate Journalist," he has been on the editorial staffs of "Skyways" and "Flying" magazines. He is author of "Operation Grasshopper," a history of Army lightplane operations in Korea.

BUREAU DIRECTOR . . .

(Continued from page 1)

logical organization and archaic and hortatory language are outlined and documented in the publication. Simplification, Dr. Shanley suggests, can be accomplished either by a constitutional convention, by constitutional commission or by a codifying type amendment. However, any changes suggested by these methods, would eventually have to be ratified by the electorate.

Dr. Shanley concludes that the constitution "seems to have become more of a historical document than a working framework of government." He submits that the problem of simplification should be given further consideration and investigation, adding that simplification is legally feasible and that there are a number of techniques available to Commonwealth officials in dealing with the problem. The easiest of these, he says, would be to eliminate the scattering of material caused by the growing number of amendments.

Male Intruders Pay Early Visit To Coed at Mount Holyoke

Two unidentified male intruders casually entered a Mount Holyoke dormitory at 5 a.m. Saturday and visited a friend in a third-floor room.

The girl, who—according to Dean of Students Ruth Warfel, writing the Mount Holyoke News —"because of fright . . . could not think what to do," would not leave the hall with her two visitors. "They departed after five or ten minutes," wrote Dean Warfel, "presumably by the door they had entered earlier."

When the two men entered the dormitory, they went to a first-floor room and asked two freshmen where to find their friend. They were given incorrect directions, but — undaunted — they tried the third floor, where two sophomores directed them to the corect room.

The girls, reported Dean Warfel, "did not report the incident, . . . did not check . . . to see if their fellow student was safe. They didn't want to become involved."

Comparing the incident to a murder in Kew Gardens, N.Y. in which 38 people watched while a woman was beaten to death, Dean Warfeel wrote:

"Unbelievable that this could happen at Mount Holyoke? And yet it did! What measures can the student body take to make each member of the community realize that the security and welfare of each one of us must be the concern of ALL?"

The "shocked" housemother at the dormitory made no comment.

(Reprinted from Amherst Student)

The Latin professor made mention
Of his problem: commanding attention!
"Try Studd," said the Dean
"and you'll see what they mean
About giving new life to declensions!"

Student Senate Elections for Senators from:

Coolidge Upper
Wheeler
Butterfield
Dwight
Thatcher
John Adams Lower

Pick up applications in the RSO office

Applications must be submitted before 5:00 p.m., December 9.

Final elections will be held Dec. 15 from 6:00-9:00 in the dorms

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

Try to Remember . . .

By JACK DEAN, Day Editor

Perhaps a few Frenchmen can still recall the days when they ecstatically waved American flags and gratefully hugged American GI's . . . when they wept for joy and thanked God that there was a United States. But for most the memory seems to have grown dim.

According to Granma (Nov. 13, 1966), the official newspaper of the communist party of Cuba, the Cuban ship Uvero arrived in Havana from Marseilles on November 12th bearing 25 bulldozers, 12 steam shovels, 8 graders, and 16 winches of different types. This is "the first lot of the 1,260 graders and road-rollers bought by the Revolutionary Government in the 35 million dollar, long-term payment contract with French enterprise 'Richard Freres Continental'."

This modern equipment will be used by the Castro government "in the construction of some 70,000 kilometers of roads, hydraulic works, and in cultivating about 46,000 caballerias of land." During 1967 alone the contract calls for the delivery of —among other things—240 bulldozers, 64 steam shovels, 44 graders, and 44 steam rollers.

In all, this agreement between Cuba's "Tractoimport" and the French enterprise provides for a total import of 900 bulldozers, 155 steam shovels, 90 graders, and 115 steam rollers.

This, combined with France's withdrawal from NATO, DeGaulle's recent visit to Moscow, and his denunciation of our Vietnam policies, has made it clear that France feels she no longer has any need for the U.S. In his play to make France the leader in European politics, Charlie seems to have forgotten that without American aid neither he nor France would now occupy their present positions.

And this should awaken the United States to the reality that not all of her old allies will remain "forever grateful" for services rendered decades ago.

Sadly enough, memories can sometimes be very short.

Parade of Opinion

What Is a College Newspaper?

Associated Collegiate Press

The takeover of the University of Arizona Daily Wildcat by the student government after the regularly appointed editors and staff quit led the State Press, Arizona State University, to define the role of a college newspaper. The staff had refused to put out another issue because of "impossible working conditions" arising out of a new printing contract.

The State Press said:

The most difficult task that confronts a college editor is that of publishing a paper which students feel is theirs. To be good, it must possess an intangible personality which is as much a part of campus life as Friday afternoons.

With each issue, the editor faces the harshest critics of his journalism career—his college peers. College-age people have a sixth sense for recognizing phonies. College newspapers are born of one necessity—that of being a bulletin board. If the paper stops at that point, it is failing the students and has no right to call itself a newspaper. It must develop, under competent leadership, the personality that is so important to the success of a college newspaper.

The paper's basic function as a bulletin board must be served. But the paper must also be alive with humor, questions, answers, criticism, praise and comments on life in a community where young people are finding answers to life that are sometimes harsh, sometimes soft. It must report the news in a fair and straightforward manner, for the newspaper is the mirror of the campus to the outside community.

An editor, because he is human, will make mistakes when he tries to publish a daily paper which attempts to cover the happenings of a University. But this is part of his education.

The editors and staff have a duty not to become so involved in student government or other campus activities that they cannot stand back to accurately evaluate and report the activities of campus organizations. When clubs and organizations send out newsletters, they are nothing more than press releases. How can the Arizona student government truly believe it can produce a student newspaper which is more than a press release for the organization? Staff members have no choice but to report the good side of student government and let the mistakes and discrepancies go unnoticed. The paper will become phony and the new staff may see to it that it reverts to a bulletin board and nothing more.

It is sincerely hoped that the situation at Tucson is soon back to normal so politicians may return to governing and journalists can keep them on their toes.

The Vietnam Vigil

by Jane Roland, Editorial Staff

Despite sub-freezing temperatures, well over 125 people stood outside on the Amherst Common for an hour last Sunday. They were students, faculty, and community people from the four-college area who were gathering together as part of a vigil organized by the Mt. Toby Monthly Friends' Meeting Group.

The quiet demonstration was held "Because Americans are killing and being killed in Vietnam." It was silent — no one spoke until the bells in the center of town rang at 1:00, then each person turned and shook hands with his immediate neighbors before leaving.

The vigil was held to protest the war in Vietnam. It was quiet because it was a time for thought and reasoning, not a noisy march where slogans might cover up the true sentiments of the people involved. Each vigilant holds a sincere opposition to the way American policy is being handled in Vietnam. The specific opinions may vary:

"It seems that the mass media is trying to cover up the fact that people are dying by referring to them as VC or 'they.' But real people are dying. . . ."

Or. . . ."According to the plans for next year's military aid to Vietnam, if the money were instead divided up among the citizens, each person would receive $2,000, giving Vietnam one of the highest per capita incomes in the world. Only, it's all being used for the War...."

Despite different reasons for opposing the war, people come to the vigil because the common feeling that the war is wrong, overrides differences of opinion as to why it's wrong. Some joined the vigil after attending morning church services, others went instead of going to church, and others came who customarily spend Sunday morning sleeping.

This vigil was one of many of its kind held weekly across the country, and will be held regularly every Sunday afternoon from 12-1. It's a chance to participate and show disagreement with present policy in a function that unites University people with the people of the Community. Perhaps the success of the first week's meeting will encourage some to question what they have always taken for granted, and join the Friends another week.

A Simple Solution

To the Editor:

As I was glancing through the Collegian the other day, I noticed the final exam schedule had undergone some subtle changes. The administration seemed to be continuing its policy of allowing a day as a pre-exam reading period, but then I noticed that they were no longer considering three examinations in one day to be a conflict. These two decisions seemed to be at odds, so I decided to do a little more research.

First, on the problem of reading days, a little time at the library turned up some interesting information. Smith College, for example, has a five day reading period. Very well, you might say, but what about state universities such as ours, which must answer to some Higher Authority. Consider three typical state universities—Michigan, Wisconsin, and Texas. The first has a four day reading period, the second has five days, and the third has four. True, there are some schools such as Bob Jones University which have no reading period, but I think this is not a typical case.

Second, on the question of examination schedules. I do not doubt that the Scheduling Office has made every effort to minimize the chances that someone will have three exams on Friday and two on Saturday. However, I would guess that the chances are much better that many people will have two exams on Friday and two exams on Saturday. When one considers the amount of time per semester spent in class, and the amount of time spent in outside reading, and the amount of time alloted for such as a two and two combination, the result is only slightly absurd.

The problem, as I see it, is that the administration wants to have its cake and eat it, too. They believe that one of the requisites of a great university is size, and so there is a tendency to keep enlarging. As the number of students increases, the facilities and time devoted to examinations shrinks proportionately. Result—three examinations in one day is no longer considered a conflict.

On the other hand, a great university is built upon the reputation of its graduates, so that every year the administration makes it a little bit harder to get in, and a little bit harder to graduate. Result—the necessary cumulative averages go up every year.

And so these two tendencies continue to converge, and as the pressure builds up upon the student, he is often faced with only one result—academic disintegration. The plain fact is this: the University demands better performance from the student, yet at the same time so obstructs him that it becomes impossible to fulfill either his own or the school's expectations.

A simple solution to the problem is the institution of an extended reading period. I would suggest (and I believe most students would concur in this) that this semester the proper authorities set aside January 9, 10, 11, and 12 as a reading period. I am sure that such a suspension of classes by 'mutual agreement' among faculty, departments, and administration is a possibility, so why not begin action while there is still time before finals.

Victor Aronow Graduate Student

Who Is the Aggressor?

To the Editor:

Mr. Weinerman, Editorial Chairman, has simplified a most complex problem in the Middle East and judged it as a one-sided desire by Arab States to "destroy Israel" and "drive her into the sea." I would like to present a few facts hoping Mr. Weinerman might better understand the complexity of the problem. The tragedy is that the indigenous population of Palestine was uprooted from its homeland by force and terrorism by the Zionites who declared Palestine their national home (based on God's promise and Britain's Balfour Declaration). In 1918, Palestine had a population of 765,000 of whom 708,000 were Arabs of Christian and Moslem faith and 57,000 of Jewish faith. In 1947, Palestine population was 2,115,000 of whom 1,280,000 were Moslem and Christian Arabs and 700,000 were Jews (a majority of which entered the country illegally).

The United Nations partition resolution called for the establishment of a "Jewish State" and an "Arab State" although the Jews owned less than 10% of the total area of Palestine. Terrorist Zionist gangs (Haganah, Irgun, Stern) attacked and occupied Arab villages and towns (example: Haifa, Feb. 21, 1948; Deir Yasin, Apr. 10, 1948; Jaffa, Apr. 26, 1948; Acre, Apr. 27, 1948; etc.). Before the declaration of the State of Israel and before the entry of Arab armies into Palestine. Of these territories some were reserved by the partition plan for the Arab State.

Thus the entry of the Arab armies was not an attack on the State of Israel (which was to be declared in July, 1948, and not May, 1948 unilaterally by the Zionists), but to protect the Palestinian Arabs. Mr. Erskine Childers, British historian, has written, "The West was in effect, asking this indigenous people to acquiesce in their own political extermination and physical eviction, in order to enable the West to pay for crimes of which the Arabs were innocent; crimes committed by the West, in the West, against Western Jews. No other indigenous people has ever been asked to make such third-party payment by obliteration. It can scarcely be held surprising, or immoral, or 'unrealistic' that the Arabs have been refusing to accept such a fate ever since."

The United Nations resolution 194 of Dec. 11, 1948, declared "... the refugees wishing to return to their homes and live at peace with their neighbours should be permitted to do so at the earliest practicable date..." but Israel has never accepted this resolution because its policy is based on the Zionist concept that all Jews are one nation and must return to "Iretz Israel." The Zionist program rests on racial self-segregation in a Zionist State, racial exclusiveness and eviction of Arabs, and occupation of all so-called "Iretz Israel."

Since 1948, Israel has repeatedly attacked the Arab States and was thus condemned by the Security Council or the General Assembly on eleven occasions. Arab States have never attacked the territory of Israel, but individual Palestinian refugees have infiltrated their occupied homeland after a desperate exile of eighteen years of waiting for some kind of justice.

Mr. Weinerman refers to Pres. Wilson, and for his information Pres. Wilson at the Paris Peace Conference in 1919 championed the principles of non-imperialism and national self-determination and opposed the secret agreements of the Allies and the Zionist plans for colonizing Palestine. He appointed an American commission (King - Crane Commission, that toured Arab lands) and wrote in its report, "For a national home for the Jewish people is not equivalent to making Palestine into a Jewish State; nor can the erection of such a Jewish State be accomplished without the gravest trespass upon the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine."

In light of these facts, who is the aggressor in the Middle East? The Arabs have lost their homes and lands and have ever since been calling for justice. This great country is based on the principle that all men are created equal and that they should enjoy equal rights regardless of race, religion, or color. On the basis of this principle there is no need, and there has never been a need, for an Israel in the Middle East.

It is a historical fact that people of the Jewish faith lived in harmony with Christians and Moslem Arabs throughout history in the Middle East and found refuge and prosperity in Arab lands when anti-Semitism swept throughout Europe. The solution to prejudice and discrimination is not the creation of separate states on basis of race or religion, but a sacred struggle for guaranteeing equal rights to people regardless of their religion or race.

I wish Mr. Weinerman would call for justice for the Palestinian refugees, Moslem or Christian, the same way I, an Arab, call for justice for the Jews wherever they are discriminated against.

Faik A. Rasool
Graduate Student (Iraq)

Hopkins' Five Point Program:

From: Robert S. Hopkins, Jr.
To: All Heads of Residence and All Staff
Re: "Closed and Open Door Policy"

At the request of several students and several groups of students I have enunciated a policy concerning the position of doors to individual rooms during an open house.

The doors of all rooms which occupy participants in an open house function are to be open all during the open house period—this means that they are to be open all the way, wide enough so that a couple of people can walk side by side through the doorway.

I would like to emphasize that this is not a University rule. This is a policy of the Dean of Men and is applicable to all residence halls which accommodate male students. It is effective at once and is to remain effective unless and until changed by the Office of the Dean of Students.

This matter has been discussed with Dean Field, and the manner in which I have stated the policy has met with his understanding and approval.

I do not want to indulge in a debate with anyone over the exact meaning of "open door."

My reasons for enunciating this policy are as follows:

1. I think to entertain a person of the other sex behind closed doors in a residence hall is corny.
2. I think that none of the students would be allowed to entertain a member of the opposite sex in his bedroom at his home.
3. Any open house which is held by anyone whether it be in his home or fraternity house or residence hall invites people to those places which are exactly open. Guests do not go into areas which are closed off.
4. If students are looking for quiet and secluded places in which to have intimate talks without fear of being overheard, there are places other than the individual's bedroom where this may be carried on.
5. In the final analysis, I think the open door matter is one which is, in a real sense, educational.

Robert S. Hopkins, Jr.
Dean of Men

Self-Government?

To the Editor:

In a recent bulletin to the men's residence halls, Dean Hopkins expressed his "policy" concerning open doors during open house functions. It is clearly evident from this administrative decree that Dean Hopkins is riding the fence concerning chivalrous intentions.

Dean Hopkins states, "The doors of all rooms...during the open house period...are to be open all the way, wide enough so that a couple of people can walk side by side through the doorway." According to Amy Vanderbilt, however, the lady always precedes the gentleman through the doorway.

Continuing in Vaudevillian manner, Mr. Hopkins remarks, "I think to entertain a person of the other sex behind closed doors in a residence hall is 'corny'." It was always my impression that corn grows in fields, Battlecreek, Mich., little boy's ears, and Stockbridge, but never in residence halls!

Perhaps Dean Hopkins, while conceiving his Sullian decree, was daydreaming or thinking of some utopian novel for he most plainly wrote down, "If students are looking for quiet and secluded places in which to have intimate talks without fear of being overheard, there are places other than the individual's bedroom where this may be carried on."

I hope that our poor deluded administrator was not referring to Grand Central Library!

In one final lunge into the absurd, Dean Hopkins places this statement in his list of reasons for open door policy, "In the final analysis, 'I' think the open door matter is one which is, in a real sense educational."

Utterly disgusted,
W. L. L.

POLICE PROTECTION
and
CAMPUS LIGHTING
will be the topics of a
STUDENT SENATE
PRESS CONFERENCE
Monday, Dec. 12—12 noon
Colonial Lounge

The Campus Forum

Riding the Fence

To the Editor:

Obviously Dean Hopkins' recent ruling for "open doors" is causing much excitement among the residents of the University. This letter is not just one of complaint. It is also a plea to the students of the University to demand their right of self-government. It is a letter representing George Washington Upper.

A resolution has been passed by the George Washington Upper House Council stating that it would adhere to the University policy of open doors in accordance with its Charter, Article II, paragraph A which states: "The function of the house council shall be to govern the dormitory within the regulations of the University."

George Washington Upper's house council recognizes the authority of the University although it cannot condone its action in this instance because it feels the "open door" policy infringes on its right of self-government. The policy conflicts with the house council's previous ruling which allowed for open or closed doors at the discretion of the resident.

Not only is the "open door" policy an infringement on the rights of house government; it is also a direct insult to the character of University students. First the University recognizes the maturity of its students by eliminating upperclasswomen's curfew; then it comes back to make a ruling for open doors during open house. What is the reason for this abrupt change? Is it to compensate for the elimination of women's curfew? That would be like closing the lid on a coffin so the corpse would not catch cold!

Our student senator is in the process of drawing up a formal complaint in the form of a petition to be submitted to the Men's Affairs Committee. The petition's main grievance is the nullification of house government by Dean Hopkin's recent action in declaring an "open door" policy.

A petition by one dormitory alone cannot initiate the necessary action by the Men's Affairs Committee. It needs support. The students of George Washington Upper call upon every dormitory on campus to stand behind them in their demand for self-government.

Submitted by David Zucker

Written in accordance with the decisions of the house council of George Washington Upper regarding the ruling of open doors during Open house.

Dean Hopkins says, "the open door matter is one which is in a real sense educational."

AMHERST Cinema
LATE SHOW FRIDAY AT 11:15 P.M.

Things happen...
with Old Spice Lime

Precisely what things depends on what you have in mind. Whatever it is, Old Spice LIME can help. Its spicy, lime-spiked aroma is very persuasive... but so subtle, even the most wary woman is trapped before she knows it! Worth trying? You bet it is!

Old Spice LIME Cologne, After Shave, Gift Sets. By the makers of original Old Spice.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

WANTED

Riders wanted to Florida during intercession. Call 546-7091.

Five men moving off campus in Jan. If you are vacating an apartment, let us know. Will pay for info. 266 Hills South.

Female roommate wanted: To share expenses with 2 co-eds in 5 room house. 5 miles from campus. Transportation no problem. Rent low. Fully furnished. Call 256-6144.

Sigma Delta Tau pledges are willing to do housework and other material household jobs including babysitting, for a nominal fee. If interested—Call 546-7950 or leave message for Debbie Card at 545-2304 or 253-9256.

AUTOMOBILES

1958 T-Bird conv, V-8, automatic, new top, radio, heater, good condition. $600 or best offer. Call 253-7778 after 5:00 p.m.

1961 Citroen, I D — 19. This French automobile rides well; needs some body and mechanical work. Best offer. Write E. Willensky. P.O. Box 132. So. Hadley, Mass.

FOR SALE

P.A. system—2 cobreflex horns; 2 60-watt drivers; horn stands; bogen amp & 4 mike mixer; electra-voice and share mikes, call Dave Lang (Butterfield)

FOR SALE

Ducati motorcycle. 250 cc — Monya, 1966 model. Call William Sheldon — 545-1320 or 549-0144.

Brand new Admiral radios still in original boxes. 2AM-FM models—$20 and $25. Great Xmas gift. Call Ralph Prolman, 313 Butterfield.

Head competition giant slaloms, Barrecroft metal poles(new), Miller racing toe, Marker heel. $100 takes all. Contact Bob Miller, Sig Ep, phone AL 3-9112 between 5-7.

LOST

O.U.R. Agents—urgent. Publication AFSD No. 09016 is missing. If you have it or know of its whereabouts contact UMass Division Headquarters.

1) Red rectangular-ring set in gold
2) Light green beret with brouch
Please call 6-8877, ask for Doyle

For Rent

Room for rent. Central Amherst location. Quiet study atmosphere. Call AL-3-5024 after 3:00 p.m.

1 large sunny room with twin beds available for 2, and one smaller room for single student. Board available if desired. Located in center of town. Call 253-9806.

the LATKES* are coming!
* potato pancakes

Hillel Chanukkah Party (with entertainment)
Sunday, December 11, 6:30 P.M.
North Dining Commons
Lines 4 & 5—FREE TO ALL

Caricatures Come Alive in A Thurber Carnival

UT Presents a Medley of James Thurber's Comic Stories

Photo by Williams

Photo by Williams

By N. C. Scanlon, Staff Reviewer

Tonight the University Theatre begins a four night run of A Thurber Carnival. This Broadway revue is the second of four UT offerings this year and this stock comedy comes in the form of a blue chip.

In 1960 at the ANTA Theatre, Thurber's collection featuring Tom Ewell, Peggy Cass, and Paul Ford, won awards and clean, favorable reviews from the New York probate judges.

The collection of short dramatic scenes include such concrete comedy as "If Grant Had Been Drinking at Appomattox", in which the man from Grant's tomb, recovering from a big drunk, surrenders to Lee; and "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" which made public the life of James Thurber. There are ten other shorts.

The UT production will be directed by Vincent C. Brann. Mr. Brann broke the pattern of college drama last year presenting Six Times Four a creature from the Reader's Theatre which he is fond of.

In A Thurber Carnival, Mr. Brann brings this year's change-of-pace in the revue form. The form fits Thurber's style well.

A cast of nine, evenly distributed players will draw Mr. Thurber's pictures. Elizabeth Corea, Jon Hutton, and Larry Kornfield are three of them. Their tasks will be to keep cartoonish in a two-dimentional way. Through dialogue, dance and mime, characterization will approach the golden mean, stereotypy. The players will be backed by a jazz combo, which will augment rather than accompany.

Keith Lincoln, who did admirably in Liliom, is back at the sets. They will include some Thurberish caricatures.

The curtain swings open on "The Last Flower", the first and last scenes of the production featuring the entire cast tonight at 8:15 at Bowker Auditorium. The carnival ends Saturday night. Tickets are available at the Union.

Photo by Williams

Photo by Williams

Bologna Summer Program: Education, Italian Style

Summer Study in Italy Brings Students to Renaissance Art

By Lois Cohen, Feature Editor

It wasn't like "school" for the students who spent last summer at the UMass Summer Session in Bologna, Italy.

They learned Baroque history at the center of its greatest development—Bologna.

They read Italian literature in the environment in which it was produced.

Renaissance Art came alive when they visited the cathedrals at Florence and the Vatican in Rome.

UMass juniors Linda Cucci and Carolyn Levosky are two of the sixty-five students from UMass and several other colleges who still bubble at the thought of the summer they spent in Bologna.

One of the weekend trips took the students at the UMass Summer Session at Bologna to Florence — a city steeped in Baroque and Late Renaissance art and atmosphere — to see first-hand the works presented in their courses.

Linda enjoyed the opportunity to view personally the works of art presented her courses. "We had the great masters right there. And Baroque history was alive because we saw the places we read about."

The students found every aspect of living conditions completely satisfying. They were housed in apartment buildings—four students in each five-room apartment with kitchen facilities.

"Our housing was above and beyond what we had expected."

Classroom and library facilities were located at the Bologna Center of the John Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, surrounded by the University of Bologna.

"Bologna itself is an urban, industrial town," Linda explained. "The women are very conscious of their femininity. Their dress is more modern than the men's, and they never wear slacks."

"And the men are very consciuos of the women," Carolyn added. "They stop their cars to wave and watch as you walk by."

Classes were held four days a week and ended by noon. Weekend trips' up to four days in length, were planned to Florence, Venice, Rome, and to the outstanding native festivals.

Because reactions to last year's program were enthusiastic and encouraging, UMass is sponsoring the Summer Session at Bologna Program again this year. Total cost for students wishing to attend is $800.

This summer's group will include sixty-five students. There are still some places open. Applications must be filled with Professor William C. Harvard, Director, Summer Session in Bologna, Machmer Hall.

WMUA TO PRESENT DOCUMENTARY

Tonight WMUA will present a special documentary entitled "December 7, 1941" at 9:30 p.m. This program, produced by the news department of the campus radio station, will be presented in recognition of the attack of Imperial Japan upon Pearl Harbor and America's entrance into the Second World War. Be sure to tune in WMUA, 91.1 FM for this evening's Memorial presentation.

Bologna is an industrial city, built outward from a church and its surrounding square located in the heart of Renaissance, Italy. Its streets are collonades; its brick buildings are ancient and handsome.

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 -- 549-1311

LAS VEGAS 50¢
GAMBLING THE QUEEN + HER COURT
REFRESHMENTS
PRIZES @ ENTERTAINMENT
ALL NEW CURRY HICKS CAGE
NIGHT (8-12PM)

Keyed-up students unwind at Sheraton... and save money

Save with weekend discounts! Send for your free Sheraton ID card today! It entitles you to room discounts at nearly all Sheraton Hotels and Motor Inns. Good over Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, summer vacation, weekends all year round.

SEND FOR YOUR FREE ID CARD!

COLLEGE RELATIONS DIRECTOR
c/o Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington, D.C. 20008

Please rush me a free Sheraton Student ID Card (or a free Faculty Guest Card). I understand it entitles me to generous discounts all year long at most Sheraton Hotels and Motor Inns.

Name_____

Address_____

_____ Student ☐ Teacher ☐

Sheraton Hotels & Motor Inns

This week, explore engineering opportunities as big as today's brand new ocean

Talk with on-campus Career Consultant from Newport News —world's largest shipbuilding company—involved with nuclear propulsion, aircraft carrier design, submarine building, oceanographic development, marine automation, all the challenging advances on today's brand new ocean. The New York TIMES calls this "the last earthbound frontier" with "profit possibilities as big as the sea."

Learn what our half-a-billion-dollar order backlog means to you in terms of high starting salary and years of career security with no lid on your future. With orders up $80,000,000 in five months, our need is urgent for imaginative men in all the disciplines listed here. Men who like tough challenges and individual responsibility.

Ask about opportunities for advanced degrees and research. We're next door to Virginia Associated Research Center with one of the world's largest synchrocyclotrons, where graduate engineers study high energy physics. We're across the harbor from Old Dominion College, offering graduate courses in Microwave Theory, Solid State Electronics, Nuclear Engineering. Nearby, too, is the Extension Division of the University of Virginia offering courses toward credits for masters degrees. And within easy driving is The Virginia Institute for Scientific Research, a world leader in solid state physics. Linked up with these opportunities, Newport News offers scholarships, tuition grants, advanced study and research leaves. Ask about them.

Get the facts on pleasant living and lower living costs here in the heart of Virginia's seaside vacationland with its superb beaches, golf, fishing, boating, hunting.

IMMEDIATE ENGINEERING CAREER OPENINGS

Mechanical Engineers
Electrical Engineers
Marine Engineers
Industrial Engineers
Systems Analysts
Naval Architects
Nuclear Engineers
Civil Engineers
Metallurgical Engineers

Mr. K. M. Blanks,
Our Career Consultant,
will be at the Placement Office on Friday, December 16, to answer questions, talk over qualifications, take applications for fast action.

Newport News

NEWPORT NEWS SHIPBUILDING AND DRY DOCK COMPANY, NEWPORT NEWS, VIRGINIA
An Equal Opportunity Employer.

BIC Medium Point 19¢

BIC Fine Point 25¢

BIC

Despite fiendish torture dynamic BIC Duo writes first time, every time!

BIC's rugged pair of stick pens wins again in unending war against ball-point skip, clog and smear. Despite horrible punishment by mad scientists, BIC still writes first time, every time. And no wonder. BIC's "Dyamite" Ball is the hardest metal made, encased in a solid brass nose cone. Will not skip, clog or smear no matter what devilish abuse is devised for them by sadistic students. Get the dynamic BIC Duo at your campus store now.

F-25 FINE PT. ¼ (.6mm) U.S.A.

WATERMAN-BIC PEN CORP.
MILFORD, CONN.

ZAP

TIM EDWARDS
Strong defense

JOE DISARCINA
Extra spark

BILL TINDALL
Top rebounder

FRANK STEWART
Hustling captain

BOB MURPHY
Steady guard

JOHN LISACK
Eagle eye

One for the Coach

Redmen Stun URI ,79-71, in Yan-Con Premiere

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

sports

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 7, 1966
Page 8 Vol. XCV, No. 31

Leaman Bags First Win; UMass Defense Sparkles

by TOM FITZGERALD, Day Sports Editor

The first really is the toughest. Ask Jack Leaman, whose first victory as UMass head basketball coach came only after a stomach-turning final two minutes. But when the smoke cleared at the Cage last night, the Redmen had pulled a 79-71 upset of defending Conference co-champ Rhode Island.

After several years of coaching in the shadow of Matt Zunic and Johnny Orr, Leaman was able to take his first real bows last night. Although he is one of the youngest head coaches in the country, he might have acquired a few gray crew-cut hairs during the hectic finale.

The Redmen were on top by 15 points, 72-57, with three minutes left when Rhody applied the heat. Larry Johnson swished a pair of jump-shots, and Dick Jenkins hit on two free throws. While the only UMass offense consisted of four foul shots by John Lisack, the Rams narrowed the gap to 76-71 on points by Johnson, Dick Coleman and Joe Zaranka.

UMass, however, was able to hang on to the ball during the last half minute and toss a few points from the line for good measure.

A sticky defense did the trick for the Redmen. It had to, since the UMass offense worked only in streaks. The top individual effort had to be that of hefty Tim Edwards, who shut the door on URI's big man, 6'5 center Art Stephenson. Besides limiting Stephenson to only five points, Edwards paced the Redmen with 17 points.

After holding only a 33-31 edge at the half, the Redmen threw a zone press at the Rams after the break. With the impetus provided by sophomore scrambler Joe DiSarcina, UMass built a 54-38 margin with 14 minutes left. The margin eventually reached 71-53 with 5:45 remaining, just before Rhody made the big push.

The victory was a group effort for the Redmen. Bill Tindall followed Edwards with 16 points and added 15 rebounds, while DiSarcina had 14 points. Lisack, one engineering major who appreciates efficiency, took three shots from the field and six from the line. He didn't miss. Frank Stewart and Bob Murphy repeatedly showed what the word hustle means.

A jubilant Coach Leaman lauded the play of Edwards and Tindall under the boards, but as an old guard himself, he reserved a special word for DiSarcina: "He came off the bench to spark us. They all played hard and that's all you can ask."

The fans, and that peppy 10-piece band, will be back in their seats for Saturday's game with Vermont, hoping that victory number two for Leaman comes a bit easier.

Statistics

UMASS	B	F	Pts	RHODE ISLAND	B	F	Pts
Stewart	4	1	9	Kault	3	3	9
Edwards	7	3	17	Hoyle	4	3	11
Tindall	5	6	16	Stephenson	1	3	5
Murphy	1	4	6	Johnson	10	3	23
Gemel	0	3	3	Castaldi	3	1	7
DiSarcina	3	8	14	Mintschenka	0	0	0
Lisack	3	6	12	McGovern	1	0	2
Gasperack	1	0	2	Zaranka	2	2	6
Rond	0	0	0	Jenkins	1	4	6
				Coleman	1	0	2
Totals	24	31	79	Totals	26	19	71

Score at halftime: UMass 33, Rhode Island 31.

UMASS FROSH	B	F	Pts	R.I. FROSH	B	F	Pts
Gallagher	7	3	17	Fultz	5	2	12
Harrington	6	0	12	Frazier	2	1	5
Samuelson	7	2	6	Metcliff	3	6	12
Perry	2	7	11	Fine	6	0	12
Ellerbrook	7	2	16	Gariepy	2	0	4
Kostygan	1	0	2	V'Oudenhoue	3	3	9
Sweeney	4	1	9	DeSisto	2	1	5
Swartz	2	2	6	McMahon	2	0	4
Donovan	1	0	2
Rubin	0	0	0
Shea	0	0	0
Totals	37	17	81	Totals	25	13	63

All Yan-Con Team

OFFENSE

Name	Pos.	Cl.
Jack Schweberger, Vt.	E	Sr.
Frank Geiselman, R.I.	E	Jr.
Bill Pasquill, Maine	T	Sr.
Bill Connor, Mass.	T	Sr.
Roy Lawrence, Conn.	G	Jr.
Ivan Brawn, Maine	G	Sr.
Dan Martin, Vt.	G	Jr.
Dennis Murphy, R.I.	C	So.
Greg Landry, Mass.	QB	Jr.
Bob Mitchell, Vt.	HB	Jr.
Bob Detore, Mass.	HB	Sr.
John Thompson, R.I.	HB	Sr.
Brent Kaufman, R.I.	FB	So.
Bill Estey, N.H.	Utility	Jr.

DEFENSE

Pete Norris, Maine	E	Jr.
Nick Turco, Conn.	E	So.
Bill VanBennekum, Vt.	E	Sr.
Ed Toner, Mass.	T	Sr.
Dick Qualey, Mass.	T	Sr.
Joe Soldano, Vt.	MG	Sr.
John Huard, Maine	LB	Sr.
Rod Brooks, Mass.	LB	Sr.
Leon Spinney, R.I.	LB	So.
Norm Tardiff, Maine	DS	Sr.
Dave Giarla, Mass.	DS	Sr.
Dave O'Donnell, R.I.	DS	Jr.

Stockbridge Shooters Win

The Stockbridge rifle team began its season Saturday with a win over UMass R.O.T.C. rifle team, 1222-1100, at the Dickinson Hall range.

In target shooting, the five highest individual total scores are added to give a team score. In Saturday's match they were:

Stockbridge		R.O.T.C.
Clough	237	Monette	246
Andrews	243	Darling	239
Welcome	252	Ignatovich	232
Miller	240	Woodward	192
Enselek	250	Outram	191
Total	1222	Total	1100

Grapplers Compete At Coast Guard

The UMass varsity and freshman wrestling teams fared well against most of the East's major wrestling powers last weekend in the Coast Guard Tournament.

Varsity victors were sophomore Gene Paltrineri, a double winner, and senior Art Keown.

Swimmers Sink Tufts

by JERRY KASSOY, Sports Staff

MEDFORD—The UMass Mermen opened their 1966-1967 season with an impressive 65-38 drubbing of Tufts Jumbos here last Saturday. Many of the sophomores from last year's outstanding freshman team gave stellar performances in their first varsity competition.

Little Redmen Triumph, 81-63

by MIKE CURRAN
Sports Staff

The hustling UMass frosh shot their way to an impressive 81-63 victory over the Rhode Island freshmen last night at Curry Hicks Cage.

A jump-shot by Jack Gallagher gave the Little Redmen a 4-2 lead after two minutes of play that they never relinquished. The shooting of Ray Ellerbrook and Gallagher stretched the UMass advantage to 43-34 at halftime.

After intermission the frosh gradually extended their margin despite the ball-hawking efforts of the Rams.

Gallagher led the Redmen scorers with 17 points on seven for 11 from the field and three for three at the line. Others in double figures for UMass were Ellerbrook with 16, Phil Harrington 12, and Bob Perry 11.

Besides shooting at a 48 percent clip, UMass outrebounded Rhody, 51-47. Harrington, a 6'4 jumping-jack, was especially effective off the boards, picking off 16 stray shots.

The victory was Coach Peter Broaca's first at UMass.

To open the meet, the medley relay team of sophomores Bob Asquith, Dave Keating and Flip Morton and senior Steve Levy defeated the Jumbos' medley quartet. Keating, a fine breast-stroker, also won his specialty followed by Ted Severn who took second.

In the 200 yard individual medley, Captain Dick Lennon set a school record with a 2:14.7 timing, shaving a tenth of a second off his previous school mark. Finishing third in that event was Norm Louitch, who also finished second to Tony Cassis in the longest event, the 500-yard freestyle. Cassis competed in the 200-yard freestyle event as well and placed second behind Ken Nowak, the pacesetter.

One of the Best

Dave Larson was the winner in the diving competition with teammate Dick D'Andrea placing third. These two form one of the best diving duets at the University in recent years.

In the freshman meet the UMass first-year men were defeated by Tufts, although they established four frosh marks. Among the record setters were Mark Miller in the 200-yard freestyle and Steve Klubock who was elected captain after the meet. Their next meet is this afternoon against Dean Jr. College.

This evening at 7:00 in the Boyden Pool the mermen will host Amherst College.

INTRAMURALS

Maroons Win Again, 120-22

by ROGER KIPP
Sports Staff

The Chadbourne Maroons, Kappa Sig, and AEP made the biggest noise in Monday's basketball action. Chadbourne rolled up 120 points in an East League victory, Kappa Sig won a big encounter over arch-rival LCA, and AEP won a one-point decision over tough TKE.

Chadbourne's Maroons can look forward to the playoffs now as they virtually wrapped up the East League title with a smashing 120-22 victory over the Broncos. Willis Frisbee, a consistently high scorer popped 26 points but his supporting cast was also superb. Bob Correia had 22, Pete Bakum 24, and John Murphy took game high honors with 29. Besides a perfect 4-0 slate, the Maroons have averaged 88 points per game, by far the best in the Dorms.

In other East league action, the Buffaloes used the two-pronged attack of Chuck Webster and Ken Maconis, with 17 and 25 points respectively to down the Bruins, 46-35, and the Grants received 22 points from Earle Richardson and another 18 from Pete Gavrillen to dump the Eagles, 54-36.

In the North League, the Flaming A's, who downed the Chestnuts, 54-41, are 4-0 and tied for the lead with the Lemons. The Rams are still in it with a 3-1 record after bumping off the Aces, 54-40, despite 23 points by the Aces' John Thomas. Finally, the Hawks had little trouble in disposing of the Limes, 61-27.

The Cougars claim the top spot in the Southwest League, undefeated in four games. They upended the Colts, 43-30, Monday to remain so. The Leopards got the best of the Commanches, 48-39, the Colonials likewise over the Panthers, 49-39, and The Patriots, led by Burt Cady and Terry Carpenter, edged the Jaguars, 56-55.

Kappa Sig pulled a big win over LCA Monday in one of the most exciting games of the season. Behind the playmaking and shooting of Paul Vaccaro, and rebounding of Greg Landry, Kappa Sig caught LCA by surprise and bounded out to a 20-7 lead, before Jeff Larson and Co. started their comeback. Behind Larson and Jerry Forgit, who were high scorers with 17 and 14 points, LCA tied it up in the second half, only to see KS score a couple of clutch

(Continued on page 3)

INDEX
I Like Putala ... 5
Vegas Queen ... 6
Thurber 7
IM Star 11

THE MASSACHUSETTS
collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

UMASS LEADS YAN CON Pg. 12

VOL. XCV, NO. 32 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1966

Secretary McCartney Promises Seniors Voice in Commencement Task Force

by PAM METAXAS

At a senior class Executive Council meeting Wednesday evening, Robert McCartney, Secretary of the University, informally spoke at an open meeting concerning the recent controversy over the $10 addition to the seniors' semester bill. Many do not understand why the Board of Trustees voted to approve the fee for graduation without consulting any of the officers or members of the senior class . . . The fee involves 1,851 seniors.

"I don't stand up here to approve or disapprove," began McCartney. "The board (of trustees) did approve a $10 fee for commencement," he added.

He explained in answer to several questions that the fee is necessary because past sources of such a fee are now unavailable due to the rapid growth of the university.

"Most universities of our size and kind have graduation fees," he noted.

He felt that commencement is getting to be a "big operation" and what the university was able to take care of out of state funds up to 4-5 years ago, it cannot do now, he said.

"The proposal was $10," he remarked, "and proposals of this kind are recommended out of our business area office." Then it goes to the Board next to pass or reject, he said. He added that the proposals offered ranged "from $5-20."

"My general impression of the cost of commencement is well into 5 figures," McCartney said.

He continued by saying the Trustees did not calculate the additional money when voting on the fee. "Nobody told the trustees it would come in the area of five figures (graduation)," he said. In other words, there was no actual talk of a budget at the time.

"The trustees action has been taken," McCartney stated, and "they are not bound by law to have to discuss these things."

(Continued on page 2)

Petition to President Lederle

At the December 7 meeting of the Class of 1967 Executive Council, the representatives of the Class voted unamimously to present to you the following petition:

1. That the present $10. "graduation fee" be reached,
2. That a tri-partite committee composed of appropriate students, faculty and administrators be convened,
3. That the purpose of said committee be to compose a budget for graduation expenses and propose a fee that spreads the financial burden on the appropriate segments of the University Community.
4. That this proposed fee be ratified by the executive council of the senior class before submission to the Board of Trustees.
5. That the procedure outlined in parts one through four be followed for all subsequent graduating classes.

COEDS DISCUSS NIGHT SAFETY

Photo by Kelly

UMass coed begins the long night walk back to the dorm. Bad lighting may hinder her return.

by SALLY DOLGIN, Staff Reporter

Editor's Note: This article written by a staff reporter attempts to give her interpretation of the attitude coeds have about traveling the campus at night.

Q. Do you mind walking around the campus at night?
A. Yes.
Q. Why ?
A. I am afraid.
Q. What is the basis of your fear ?
A. Rumors, newspaper headlines, and dread of the dark.
Q. How do you propose to combat your fear ?
A. More policemen, more lights would help.
Q. How many policemen do you think are necessary ?
A. Between five and ten. They should be placed strategically around the campus. Two or three police sub-stations at the quad, on the hill, and by Southwest might be effective.
Q. What about lights ?
A. They should be set up around the cage, by the President's hill, and near the North Commons. Proper lighting has three purposes: to illuminate paths, to combat fear of dark, and to hinder the probability of night attacks.
Q. How do you feel about Security Guards ?
A. They give me a feeling of security even though I know their job is restricted to letting students into their dorms.
Q. What do you think about the breaking of lights and the recent episodes of stealing in the dorms ?
A. Destructive students on the campus are just as bad as harmful strangers. More policemen are necessary to catch them, more laws are needed to control them.

The new "liberal" Southwest policy of having counselors in a purely advisory role is working out very poorly. Regulation and law is the only solution to combat students and other destructive persons who cannot control themselves. If wire mesh will not prevent lights from being broken, we must put their destructors behind the wire cage.

Q. Do you mind walking around the campus at night ?
A. No. I often go to the Hatch, the libe, and the grinder wagon by myself. One time a group of boys started to bother me when I was alone at night. I wasn't afraid, just disgusted. By ignoring them, I was left unharmed, but not unaffected.
Q. How do you suggest such incidents be handled ? Do you feel the answer lies in better lighting, more policemen, stricter laws, or do you have other solutions ?
A. A splurge of lights is not necessary. To prevent wasteful spending of money, only a few direct pathways need to be completely lighted.

(Continued on page 3)

UMass-Boston Holds Founding Day Convocation

UMass President John W. Lederle will preside at the Founding Day Convocation of the University of Massachusetts at Boston, to be held this Saturday, Dec. 10, in the Prudential Center War Memorial Auditorium in Boston.

Dr. John W. Ryan will be installed as Chancellor in ceremonies that will begin at 11 a.m. with an academic procession. Delegates from institutions of learning and learned societies will march with faculty from UMass-Boston and UMass-Amherst, and members of the University Board of Trustees.

The invocation will be given by Dr. Paul Gagnon, acting faculty dean at UMass-Boston, after which the act of the General Court founding the Boston facility will be read by Senate President Maurice A. Donahue.

The investiture of Chancellor Ryan by President Lederle will be followed by the convocation address, "The University in an Urban Society," by Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., author of the Pulitzer Prize-winning biography of John F. Kennedy, "A Thousand Days," Dr. Schlesinger is Albert Schweitzer Professor of Humanities at the City University of New York.

A recession will close the morning program. Music will be by the UMass-Amherst Band and the UMass-Boston Chorus.

Chancellor Ryan's inaugural address will be given at a 12:30 luncheon for academic dignitaries in the Grand Ballroom of the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

Final Founding Day Convocation event will be a symposium at 3 p.m. in the War Memorial Auditorium on "The University and the City." Participants will include: David Riesman, Harvard University professor of social sciences and author of "The Lonely Crowd"; Daniel P. Moynihan, director of the MIT-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies and author of "Beyond the Melting Pot"; Miss Violet Edwards, executive director of the National Center for Citizens in Education; and Glenn Tinder, UMass-Boston professor of politics and author of "Crisis in Political Imagination." Panel moderator will be Louis M. Lyons of WGBH, UMass alumnus and trustee, and former curator of the Nieman Foundation.

The Founding Day Convocation and Symposium are open to friends of the University and the general public without charge. UMass-Boston, created by a legislative act in 1964, opened its doors to its first class of 1227 in September of 1965. Current enrollment is 2151.

Men Will Be Boys

Chanting Residents Disrupt Southwest

A few minor snow flurries brought out the pent up frustration of Southwest residents last Monday. Boys threw snowballs and hurled obscenities as coeds peeked out from behind curtains. Some minor damage was reported.

Smith College Auctions World Masterpieces

Leonard Baskin, sculptor and professor of art at Smith College, has donated his bronz relief, entitled "Prometheus," as one of the works of art to be sold at auction on Friday, December 9, for the benefit of the Italian Flood Relief.

The auction will be held in Scott Gymnasium on the Smith College campus, (Northampton, Mass.) at 7:30 p.m. Objects for sale will go on exhibit at 5:00 p.m.

According to James Holderbaum, professor of art at Smith and chairman of the benefit committee, the auction may be the most important art sale ever held in Northampton.

Items already donated include original works by Pisasso, Matisse, Manet, Goya, Cantarini, Wolgemut, Rowlandson, Giacometti, and old Japanese print masters. There are paintings, engravings, etchings, lithographs, wood and linoleum cuts; also unique 18th century English and Italian china, antique jewelry, sculpture, graphic arts, antique and modern medallions, silver, crystal, glass, copper, porcelain, important antique miniature portraits, potters, bric-a-brac, old maps and furniture.

Several members of the Smith College art department have contributed original pieces of their own work: Oliver Larkin, George Cohen, Mervin Jules, Elliot Offner, and Edward Hill. Also, Jerold Maddox, Carl Schmalz, and Frank Trapp, members of the fine arts department at Amherst College, have given originals for the benefit of the colossal restoration projects already underway in the Italian cities recently ravaged by flood.

Many items for sale, large and small, have been received from the public but the committee is urgently appealing for more donations, because of the critical need for funds to support the salvage work.

Persons wishing to contribute objects to be sold should bring them to Hillyer Gallery at Smith College, or telephone the are department to arrange for collection. Individuals from out of town who will attend the auction on Friday are urged to bring their donations with them to Scott Gymnasium.

Anyone wishing to discuss an item as a possible contribution for the benefit may telephone the art department at Smith College, at 584-2700, area code 413. Those persons wishing to support the restoration effort with a check may mail it to CRIA, Inc. (Committee for Rescuing Italian Art), care of the Fogg Museum, Cambridge, Mass.

William Hubbard of Sunderland, Mass., dealer in antiques, and Ray Murphy, auctioneer of Florence, Mass., have volunteered their services to conduct the auction. All are welcome to attend.

Liquor Regulations Plague Universities

University of British Columbia housing Car Malcolm McGregor has vetoed liquor in campus residences there, but stateside collegians are having an easier time of it.

George Washington University has dropped its regulations probibiting liquor at campus social event.

At Northwestern coeds are working to establish a Key Club on campus so students at their otherwise dry University can be spared the walk into town for a drink.

McGregor, commenting on a story which appeared in the campus newspaper, the Ubyssey, which reported that drinking was now allowed in dorms at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., said. "I don't care what they do in any other part of the world. Any students caught drinking in UBC dorms will be expelled.

Georgetown officials said they legalized liquor to help students develop personal responsibility and to end the pretense of enforcing an unenforcable rule.

"UBC is a public institution and must obey the provincial drinking laws," McGregor said, noting that Georgetown is a private Catholic university.

At George Washington, which became the second D.C. institution to liberalize liquor regulations this year, drinking has been allowed in the residence halls for several years. Revised regulations now permit student organiations or faculty groups to serve alcoholic beverages at their meetings and social gatherings as well.

The permission applies to the faculty club, student union and other campus meeting places.

Acting Dean of Studen's Paul Bissell said that the old tradition of not serving liquor on campus may date back to the days when GW was a Baptist institution. "What we have done is attempt to treat this as a practical matter, to treat the students as adults.

At Northwestern University. coeds Bobbi Fairchild and Drew Velde have introduced the Key Club concept to the campus. The idea grew out of an Associated Women Students executive board meeting, Miss Fairchild explained. "Drinking is essentially a social act," she said.

The club would include a small grill and a party room, subsidized through a membership fee. The club would not necessarily sell liquor, just provide a place to store and drink it.

AWS has recommended that the proposal be turned over to the full Student Senate for deliberation. "This proposal is something on which we need men's opinions," another girl remarked.

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2560 — 549-1311

Health Services Prescribe More Contraceptive Pills

Nearly half of the nation's college health services will now prescribe contraceptive pills, but only one in twenty-five will do so for single women who do not intend to marry in the near future.

Compiled earlier this year, a national survey released Nov. 23 showed that out of 315 institutions polled:

—55 per cent do not prescribe contraceptive pills;

—26 per cent prescribe only to married women students;

—7 per cent prescribe only for medical purposes;

—8 per cent will prescribe for single, unmarried women who take a premarital exam or show other intent to marry in the near future; and

—4 per cent will prescribe for single, unmarried women.

No individual institutions were identified by Dr. Ralph M. Buttermore, president of the Pacific Coast College Health Association, who released the study.

Most institutions which would not prescribe the pill said this was not an appropriate function of a college health service, but required continued supervision by a personal physician, he reported.

"Others thought prescribing the pill would express (tacit) approval for premarital relations, implying that colleges accept a responsibility that does not properly belong to it and runs counter to the great majority of parents."

(Continued on page 3)

Santa Comes To UMass At Frosh Sing

The traditional Freshmen Sing will be held on December 18. All of those who are going will meet at 7:30 on the lawn beside the Student Union.

A decorated truck with Senate on it will lead the singers to all the dorms on campus.

Caroling books will be distributed for those in the group who have forgotten some of the old favorites.

Somewhere bewteen 8:30 and 9:00 the group will return to the back of the Union where hot chocolate, donuts and candy canes await them. The brass section of the Marching Band will be on hand to entertain the hearty singers.

Santa will make his grand entrance, light the bonfire so everyone can get warm after the march around campus.

Frosh class officers anticipate that it will be lots of fun, lots of laughs and it is a real cheap date so c'mon FROSH let's make our class the loudest ever—come to the Christmas Sing.

McCARTNEY . . .

(Continued from page 1)

In answer to a question asked concerning the possibility of the administration reviewing the Board's decision, he said "I would think that the committment has been made."

He emphasized that there has been recognizable capital improvement from student graduation fees such as a new commencement platform, larger diplomas and leather-like wrappers for the diplomas.

McCartney noted that there is a Commencement Task Force which is the "official body producing commencement." Different from the past, the Task Force includes all branches of the university and students representing the class, he added. The students will have a big part in the Task Force and all funds collected will be "devoted to commencement activities," he said.

"The Task Force will be in a position to make specific recommendations for funds," he said. He doesn't think there will be any restrictions on the students who are on the Task Force in terms of spending the money although McCartney didn't think "we can review the burlesque on class night."

The commencement fund will cover graduation fees, he said and he felt the "fund ought to be used directly for commencement of that class." "Last year's commencement was a credit to the University," he added. He concluded by saying that the students of the graduating class would have a lot to say how the money would be spent and he hoped the commencement would be as much a success as the past year's.

Senators Improve Vending Machines

A number of Student Senators have been working on improving vending service in dorms which in many cases involves initiating communication with the vendors through the University channels.

The rise number of coffee machines reflects the policy decision that as soon as possible every dormitory shall have one. Postmix coke machines, according to Mr. James West of the Student Automatic Service, dispense crushed ice along with six choices of tonic.

Questions and requests regarding vending service may be directed to the Senate Services Committee through your senator or made directly to the Student Automatic Service, housed at the Old North Infirmary, (545-2128).

The surprisingly small number of sandwich machines on the recent list reflect the decision, taken of course with the vending interests, that sandwich machines shall not be placed in every dorm. Instead it is hoped that students from other dorms will use the machine which have been strategically scattered across campus.

"This is all reasonable and, I suppose, to be accepted," Pat Petow commented the senator from Crabtree. "Sixty-three residents in my dorm requested a sandwich machine; naturally the in-dorm convenience was the main reason. But there is also a question of choice: we are right next to the Snack Bar in the old Commons; but it is true that there are only certain foods available there. On most weekends the "little" Hatch is crowded and a long line forms during meal times. I think what we really need now are the grinder wagons."

"They have a freshness and choice worth leaving the dorm for. Their business was good before. The only reasons why they are not here is that the Administration hasn't given them permission."

"Well we have had a reasonable and prompt answer from Mr. West on why we can't have in-dorm machines. How about an answer from the Administration on the trucks. I would hope that the University is not so large and bureaucratic that we have to go hungry—obviously our "choice" possibilities have been effectively limited."

UM Professor Is Suicide

Bertram Gersten, 38, of 78 Forbes Ave., Northampton, an assistant professor and chemist at the University of Massachusetts, was pronounced dead on arrival at Cooley Dickinson Hospital, Northampton around 4:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Medical Examiner Thomas F. Corriden of Northampton attributed death to cyanide poisoning. Dr. Corriden said he was satisfied with tests performed to determine cause of death and an autopsy would not be performed.

The medical examiner officially ruled Gersten's death as a suicide.

Another chemist, Edward Vlach, who was with Gersten in the west experimental station located on the UMass campus, notified campus police. Gersten was taken to the hospital in the Amherst ambulance.

A native of Providence, he graduated from the University of Rhode Island in 1952 and came to the University of Massachusetts the same year. He received his masters degree in food technology in 1955 from UMass.

Besides his wife, Frances, he leaves three children.

Funeral arrangements at the Harold R. Ascher Memorial Chapel in Springfield are incomplete.

(Reprinted from Springfield Union)

GIFTS FOR A SPECIAL PERSON

We have: Coty Jean Nate Yardley Faberge Clairol Lanvin Shulton Dana etc.

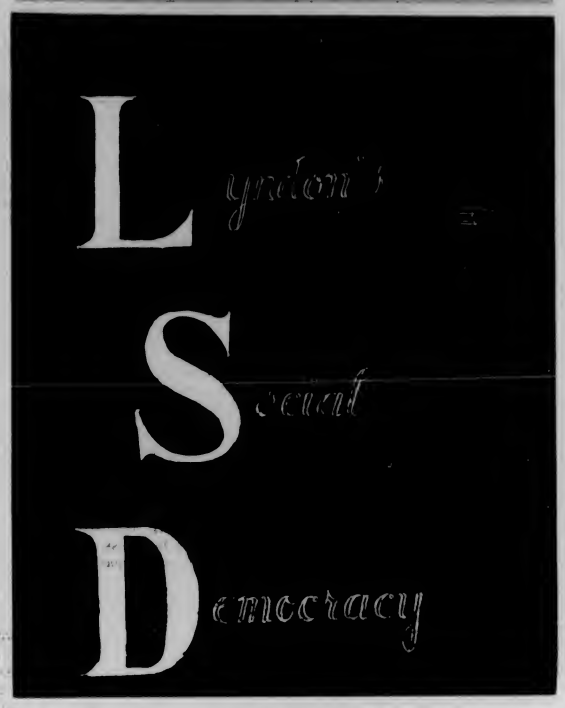
HENRY ADAMS - Druggist - 5 So. Pleasant St.

LAST CHANCE GIRLS!



We cordially invite Freshman and Transfer women to Attend the LAST of our informal parties this year on December 11 (this Sunday) from 2:30 to 4:00 at:

Alpha Chi Omega
Chi Omega
Iota Gamma Upsilon
Kappa Alpha Theta
Kappa Kappa Gamma
Lambda Delta Phi
Pi Beta Phi
Sigma Delta Tau at (TEP)
Sigma Kappa
Sigma Sigma Sigma

We'll Be Expecting You!

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

Y. D.'s Attend State Convention

Delegates from the University Young Democrats attended a state wide convention at Boston University, Sunday, December 5.

Two hundred and sixty - four delegates from twenty - six colleges and universities participated. A new constitution was adopted and election of officers for the coming year was held.

Dennis Kanin of Harvard was elected chairman and Nathaniel Akerman, President of the Young Democrats at the University, vice-chairman.

It is felt that with officers from the western part of the state greater coordination will be achieved.

In meeting with delegates from UMass-Boston, plans for closer cooperation between the two schools were discussed.

The next meeting will be December 14 in the Student Union. All interested students are invited to attend.

COEDS DISCUSS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

An increase in the campus police force is also unnecessary. We are at the University to become independent. The more security we are subject to, the more our purpose is hindered.

I believe the answer lies in personal high values. A girl who is afraid of the dark must overcome her own fears. The student who sees some "wise guy" breaking lights or stealing merchandise in the dorm must not remain aloof, assuring himself of his own high standards. He must consider the welfare of others and report the destructive persons.

The solution to the problem does not lie in the hands of the police or in regulations. It is a problem of individual responsibility.

Leather from Soot

Shed Open for Gift Giving

Have you been putting in extra hours cramming for Christmas finals lately. Well now there is no need to equate the grind of annual Christmas gift-giving with Dr. Putala's botany 101 "class."

The answer to all of your problems is nestled in the quaint New England town of Amherst.

In a delivery alley behind Thompson Clothiers and Wellworth Pharmacy, Dick Muller, Jr., fights a never ending.... (Would you believe that the Leather Shed is open from 10-6?)

Dick opened the Leather Shed a little over a year ago and now plans to expand over the Christmas Holidays.

What is now the leather shop was once a coal bin for over forty years. Dick and some friends cleaned out the soot and redecorated in antique barn wood which they appropriated from some abandoned chicken coops.

Garbed in long hair and comboy boots Dick is strictly in keeping with the "Village" atmosphere of the store.

Like the store, most of the merchandise in the leather shop is of Dick's own making.

As the name indicates leather is the prime material for most of the Leather Shed's articles. Sandals are custom crafted to the separate feet of each individual in over fifty styles, with a three year-thirty thousand mile guarantee.

Sandals are fitted once when ordered and once when picked up to insure perfect fitting.

Also featured at the Leather Shed are; custom cloths by Sandra Camp in suede, leather, and fabric, and silver jewelry made by silversmith Kit Dorau of Hartford.

Dick explains that everything in leather is made by himself on the premises and hand stained.

Dick likes to work with the customer's ideas for leatherware and will make anything imaginable in leather.

Dick plans to knock out his work room and carry a line of highly imaginative clothes for men. A one wall art gallery featuring the best of graduate art work will undoubtedly add to the colorful atmosphere.

Photo by Seiniger

Concentration is the key.

Photo by Seiniger

Leather is the thing; imagination the tool

HEALTH SERVICES . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Those health services prescribing contraceptive pills felt they should be treated the same as any other drug. Most prescribed for unmarried women in conjunction with a premarital examination. Some indicated that parental approval was required for unmarried minors, even when the prescription was made solely for medical reasons.

Only 19 institutions had written policies covering contraceptives.

Chorale to Honor Bezanson In Annual Winter Concert

Four pieces by Dr. Philip Bezanson, chairman of the music department, will be presented at the Winter Concert performed by the University Choral Groups Dec. 18 at 4 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

The Chamber Singers selected from the University Chorale will perform "Morning, Noon, and Evening" which was well received in Shelburne Falls Dec. 5. Miss Dorothy Dadmun, a junior music major, will perform a solo piece, "The Lamb."

The combined Chorus and Chorale will present Franz Joseph Haydn's "Te Deum" at the Winter Concert. The Women's Choir will present Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" and both the Madrigal Singers and the Chamber Singers will perform.

The University Chorale, the original choral group on campus, will present eight pieces for A Cappella Choir.

FACTORY OUTLET

25 Market Street, Northampton

Sweaters for the Entire Family

MEN'S PULLOVERS $6 to $11 Turtlenecks & Cardigans	values to $18
LADIES CARDIGANS $4.95	values to $7.95
LADIES PULLOVERS $3.95	values to $6.95
CASHMERES $11.95-$17.50	values to $30

Mon. thru Fri. — 10 a.m.-9 p.m.

Saturday — 10 a.m.-5 p.m. until Xmas

Market St. is across from Jack August

Congrats to DICK QUALEY
for making the All-star Yankee Conferernce Team.

S _ _ _ _
69

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

The Real Murderer

By Chet Weinerman, Editorial Chairman

Responding to Governor John Volpe's request, the Executive Council sagaciously voted a six month respite from the electric chair for convicted killer Charles E. Tracy.

Certainly, Charles Tracy did commit murder against Boston Police officer John Gallagher and was—at the time of the trial-found guilty of first degree murder. However, for man to be empowered to take the life of another man is really no less crude than the heinous act committed by the criminal.

So many circumstances come to light—and subsequently to doubt—during and after murder trials. Was the murder premeditated? Was the criminal sane at the time he committed the crime? Is he definitely the murderer? And was the accused granted all of his constitutional rights?

Is the judge who condemns a man to the electric chair so positive about all of these "ifs" that he can hang up his robe after the trial and know he has done absolutely right that day in condemning another man, an equal, to death?

Absolutely. There are very few absolutes in this world. Death, for example, is not absolutely the way to punish those who have killed. A jury may be sure of the facts presented at the time of the trial, but later new facts pertinent to the trial may evidence themselves and change the entire outlook on the case. Such factors as violations of constitutional rights and the accused's mental condition at the time of the crime often do not become clear until long after the trial, as may now be the case with Tracy.

One of the great themes of world literature has been the fallibility of man. Man does not possess immortality; he makes mistakes. Man is not capable of absolutely judging the worth of another man's life against his own. The mistakes of man are irrevocable when the wronged man is dead, and then those who have committed the wrong are the criminals truly guilty of murder. The Executive Council seems to have realized all of this, and is to be commended for its sane and realistic decision.

Remember How Great...

By Jack Dean, Day Editor

Roger Maris is gone — traded to the St. Louis Cards for Charlie Smith, a relatively "unknown" in the world of baseball. Five years ago this would have been big news—probably the biggest sports news of the year. Now it's just another trade.

In less than five years the New York Yankees have plummeted to the bottom of the American League. They no longer dominate as they did during the 50's and early 60's, and to Yankee fans the change is unbelievable, unacceptable, and tragic. But it is there nevertheless.

And as each trade is made this winter the former "Bronx Bombers" will lose a little more of the glamour that was theirs even during the fiascoes of the last few seasons. How could any avid Yankee fan ever forget the days of Tresh, Mantle, and Maris in the outfield; of Boyer, Kubek, Richardson, and Skowron in the infield; and of batteries such as Ford and Berra, Terry and Howard, Stafford and Blanchard.

It appears as though most of the team will go. The front office relaxed for too many years, letting too many Yankee superstars age and lose their sparkle. Now, in a desperate effort to rectify the situation, a complete turnover of players has been called for.

Mickey Mantle

But while Yankee fans may despair over the plight of their now impotent heroes, there is still something about which to rejoice: Mantle is returning.

He's not the Mantle he used to be, but he IS Mickey Mantle.

The Yankees may remain in the cellar of the American League; they may be called names worse than the Mets; and they may become the laughing-stocks of baseball. But as long as Mickey Mantle is part of the team they will never be totally devoid of the sparkle, the glamour, the excitement, and the respect that was theirs when they were truly the greatest team in baseball.

Fear Not Freedom

To the Editor:

Every University campus must have its cliche—here at UMass we have decided upon "Student Responsibility." Student responsibility through student self-government; student responsibility through your Student Senate; student responsibility in academic reform. Yes, 1966—the birth of the new UMass student image—the symbol of individualism; the symbol of intellectualism; the symbol of responsibility.

Well, maybe you have read about this ideal student in "Ripley's Believe It or Not," but I have yet to read about such a celebrity in the Collegian. If the sensational truth has not been splashed on the front page, you have probably heard about it—or experienced it.

> "We shall not escape our dangers by recoiling from them."
> —Winston Churchill

For example: Another false alarm at Southwest; Reporter killed; Co-ed shot; Revellers boozing instead of booing at B.C.; Student seriously injured when he encountered the minor construction inadequacies; and Sleep tight tonight—the National Guard will protect you from all prowlers.

This is UMass 1966—it is not a campus of freedom but of fear. The cause is that trite cliche, "Student Responsibility." It is as false as the ideal student image and if the situation is to be rectified, it must begin with the student. Out of fear for the future, I think that every student should re-evaluate himself and the role he plays in this campus community. For this process of re-assessment and self-actualization is also part of your responsibility—Begin to use it.

Maureen Rynn '68
3 Leach House

A Fraternal Invitation

To the Editor:

In just eight short weeks formal rush will begin. Therefore on behalf of the 1300 fraternity men on campus, I cordially invite you to investigate the opportunities offered by U Mass. fraternities.

In the next four years you will establish relationships and set patterns of behavior that you will carry with you throughout your life. The nature and quality of these relationships and patterns will be determined by the kind of decisions that you make. One of the most important decisions will be concerned with the kind of living arrangement you choose for yourself.

The fraternity system here at the university offers you the opportunity for small group living outside the large university residence halls. The comaraderie and the fellowship of this kind of living experience can prove beneficial in your personal and social life and can enhance your total learning experience.

There is a great potential for self-expression within the fraternity system. The individual does not have to feel submerged, for he can creatively contribute to whatever constructive direction the system assumes.

If you are undecided in your decision on the Greek way of life, it would be wise to participate in rush so that you can make your final decision based on personal contact.

During this rush period we are sure that you will be impressed by the fact that race, religion, and creed will provide no barriers for entry. The only barrier will be self inflicted!

Showing its ever-increasing concern for academics, the interfraternity council, with the full support of the sixteen houses on campus, has stipulated that no student may pledge a fraternity unless he has maintained a 2.0 average. We hope that any student wishing to join a fraternity will strive to meet our academic standards.

Good luck, gentlemen, no matter which way of life you choose on campus.

Robert B. Hilson
President I.F.C.

POLICE PROTECTION
and
CAMPUS LIGHTING
will be the topics of a
STUDENT SENATE
PRESS CONFERENCE
Monday, Dec. 12—12 noon
Colonial Lounge

The Israeli Question

To the Editor:

Mr. Weinerman wrote on December 5 that "Russia has stocked the Jordanian army heavily with MIG jets and hand weapons." It is common knowledge that Jordan does not own one Russian MIG and has never received arms from the Soviet Union. Moreover, he wrote, "Israel is the only democratic state in that part of the world." Again this is amazing misinformation.

There are a number of democratic countries in the Middle East; for example, Lebanon and Turkey represent States with Western democratic institutions, Jordan and Iran represent constitutional monarchies with parliaments elected by the people (British type).

Moreover, he wrote, "Israel . . . is America's strongest ally in the Middle East." Israel is not an ally of the United States in the Middle East (because an ally means States united by treaty or alliance). Turkey and Iran are examples of United States allies in the Middle East (Turkey is a member of NATO and CENTO, Iran is a member of CENTO). Moreover, Mr. Weinerman wrote on U.S. military aid to Israel and Jordan "the United States . . . is to be responsible for the destruction of both sides".

In defense of the U.S. policy I would like to point out that this country's official policy concerning military aid to Middle Eastern States is that the aid be used for defensive purposes only. The U.S. decision to consider delivery of military aid to Jordan came after a deliberate military attack by the Israeli Army against the Jordanian villages of Es Samu and Jimba the result of which more than fourteen innocent Arabs died. Therefore the aid to Jordan is for defensive purposes from Israeli attacks. (On November 25, the United Nations resolution stated that "the Security Council . . . 2. Condemns Israel for this large-scale military action in violation of the United Nations Charter and the General Armistice Agreement between Israel and Jordan.")

The State Department moreover is investigating the Jordanian complaint that U.S. Patton tanks (delivered to Israel for defensive purposes only) were used in this attack. Thus the official policy of the U.S. is to specifically forbid the use of its military aid for aggressive military action.

Hatem Hussaini
Graduate Student (Jordan)

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68
Editorial Chmn.: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports Editor: Mike Gould '67
Feature Editor: Lois Cohen '68
Photography Editor: Eric Wish '68
Advertising Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Circulation Mgr: Bob Godwin '69

FRIDAY DAY EDITORS
News: Marjie Flanders '69
Editorial: Jack Dean '69
Sports: Tom Fitzgerald '69
Photo: Bill Gleason '69

I Like Mr. Putala

To the Editor:

Strange as it may seem to many students, I happen to like Botany 101, and Mr. Putala. And it may also seem strange to some that my feeling is shared by a good many who failed his first exam.

Personally it is a matter for great rejoicing when I, who would rather talk about Dylan Thomas than Charles Darwin, and who barely passed high school biology, can get excited about whether carbon dioxide plays an essential part in photosynthesis. If Mr. Putala were merely an average botany teacher there would be no excitement, and no reason for rejoicing.

I will admit that Mr. Putala has shown himself to be overly zealous in the making up of his exams. He is right though in wishing that we students would learn to think. Many of us just refuse to learn, or if we've learned already, we refuse to put our learning into practice.

Basically what this university needs, if it is to become more than a slightly advanced diploma mill, more than a few academic departments annexed to a football team and its multi-million dollar stadium, are more teachers like Mr. Putala, and not less. Go ahead and try to make his exams more reasonable, but for God's sake, and for the University's too, don't try to stop Mr. Putala from making us think. If you do, you will merely be proving that you are the chimpanzees, that Mr. Putala suspects you are.

A Botany 101 Student

If you must criticize, leave the person with the idea he has been helped.

Campus Comment

Stop Crying and Think!

To the Editor:

It is inappropriate to find letters in a college newspaper ostracizing (not criticizing) a professor. These bits of sarcasm do no justice to the good points of the man and do even less for the writer. I refer to a recent "Campus Comment" concerning Mr. Putala of the Botany Dept. Mr. Flaherty compared Putala to Socrates, but he must remember that Socrates was condemned for making people think, and, when compared to Mr. Putala, he would be condemned on this campus today. Socrates was the gadfly of his period and "stepped on many toes" and for this reason was censured; Mr. Putala is, likewise, the "gadfly" of this University and is condemned for making people think.

It is obvious after reading the two letters in the Dec. 2nd "Collegian", that these two students not only failed the exam, but their lack of logical argument shows they lack the power of reason which is needed in Botany 101 and almost every other course in this or any other university.

To these childish and illogical letter writers I remind you, you could have taken Botany 100. It would have involved merely one extra hour per week, but even here you could not be guaranteed a passing grade. Mr. Putala had a reputation last year, so why does he have one more section this year than last? I think it's about time the students here stopped crying about their grades and started to think.

Jeffrey A. Levine '69

Letters to the Editor

MUST

be signed. Names will be withheld on request

The Student Senate Objects

Dear President Lederle:

At it's meeting of December 7, 1966, the Student Senate passed the following motion:

Whereas, the Board of Trustees of the University of Massachusetts on November 21, 1966 passed and did institute a $10.00 "graduation fee" payable by the members of the class of 1967.

and;

Whereas, the administration in proposing said fee to the Board of Trustees failed to consult the appropriate student organizations before the fact in direct conflict with its philosophy of the tripartite community as articulated by the President in his September 20, 1966 address. He said, "For the University, after all, cannot move ahead solely by the dictates and policies of a single element of the community." He also said, "...the modern university does not move ahead on exclusive determinations by any single segment of the tri-partite whole, especially not to the detriment of any other segment; not by students, not by faculty, not by administration."

Whereas, we feel that the present action (i.e., the $10 fee) was initiated and recommended by one segment of the community (the administration) to the financial detriment of another segment (the students) without the presentation of appropriate supportive budgetary documents to warrant a $10 fee.

Moved that the Student Senate affirm the actions of the executive council of the class of 1967 in requesting the following:

1. That the present $10 "graduation fee" be rescinded.
2. That a tri-partite committee composed of appropriate students, faculty and administrators be convened.
3. That the purpose of said committee be to compose a budget for graduation expenses and propose a fee that spreads the financial burden on the appropriate segments of the University Community.
4. That this proposed fee be ratified by the executive council of the senior class before submission to the Board of Trustees.
5. That the procedure outlined in parts one through four be followed for all subsequent graduation classes.

Be it further moved that the Student Senate send this resolution to the President of the University and the Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Passed by acclamation
December 7, 1966

We would request that this motion be considered at the December 13, 1966 meeting of the Board of Trustees.

We would further ask that any questions, comments or other information you have be forwarded to the Student Senate.

Very truly,
John R. Greenquist, President
Student Senate

This week, explore engineering opportunities as big as today's brand new ocean

Talk with on-campus Career Consultant from Newport News —world's largest shipbuilding company—involved with nuclear propulsion, aircraft carrier design, submarine building, oceanographic development, marine automation, all the challenging advances on today's brand new ocean. The New York TIMES calls this "the last earthbound frontier" with "profit possibilities as big as the sea."

Learn what our half-a-billion-dollar order backlog means to you in terms of high starting salary and years of career security with no lid on your future. With orders up $80,000,000 in five months, our need is urgent for imaginative men in all the disciplines listed here. Men who like tough challenges and individual responsibility.

Ask about opportunities for advanced degrees and research. We're next door to Virginia Associated Research Center with one of the world's largest synchrocyclotrons, where graduate engineers study high energy physics. We're across the harbor from Old Dominion College, offering graduate courses in Microwave Theory, Solid State Electronics, Nuclear Engineering. Nearby, too, is the Extension Division of the University of Virginia offering courses toward credits for masters degrees. And within easy driving is The Virginia Institute for Scientific Research, a world leader in solid state physics. Linked up with these opportunities, Newport News offers scholarships, tuition grants, advanced study and research leaves. Ask about them.

Get the facts on pleasant living and lower living costs here in the heart of Virginia's seaside vacationland with its superb beaches, golf, fishing, boating, hunting.

IMMEDIATE ENGINEERING CAREER OPENINGS

Mechanical Engineers
Electrical Engineers
Marine Engineers
Industrial Engineers
Systems Analysts
Naval Architects
Nuclear Engineers
Civil Engineers
Metallurgical Engineers

Mr. K. M. Blanks,
Our Career Consultant,
will be at the Placement Office on Friday, December 16, to answer questions, talk over qualifications, take applications for fast action.

Newport News
NEWPORT NEWS SHIPBUILDING AND DRY DOCK COMPANY, NEWPORT NEWS, VIRGINIA
An Equal Opportunity Employer.

THINKING OF GETTING ENGAGED

Student Diamond

BUYING SERVICE

(WITH SPECIAL PRICE CONSIDERATION)

by

HERB COHEN

in association with his father

NATHAN COHEN
Jeweler & Diamond Merchant
"In the Bowles Building"
Room 206 - Second Floor
1618 MAIN STREET. SPRINGFIELD 3, MASS.
Established 1912 Phone RE 2-5244

Dear Student,

"A diamond engagement ring--one of the most personal and important purchases in an individual's life--is often one of the most difficult.

"I believe that young adults in general, and university students in particular, would welcome a straight-forward unembellished presentation of the facts by someone qualified by training and experience, who is sincerely interested in assisting them in making an intelligent and informed selection."

Qualifications:

N.Y.U.—B.S. Marketing

G.I.A. (Gemological Institute of America)—Specialized Diamond Training

SUE HEWITT

JUDY GOODWIN

SANDRA RICHARDS

A Queen for Las Vegas Night

Have you ever been in a Vegas night club? Well, here is your chance. Complete with tables, refreshments, band, and lots of money changing hands. The night is this Friday, December 9, in Curry Hicks' Cage at 8:00 P.M. It's for only 50¢ sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega and there will be a beautiful queen and her court chosen by you.

Ten semi-finalists have been chosen and are being presented to you in the Student Union Lobby from Tuesday thru Friday. There you can vote for your choice while helping the Jimmy Fund. The semi-finalists are: Marcy Ballard-1970, Marilyn Berg-1970, Chris Conner-1970, Judy Goodwin-1969, Sue Hewitt-1970, Barbara Kopiecki-1970, Patricia Masterson-1969, Suzanne Norgress-1968, and Sandra Richards-1969.

Pictures of these girls are being placed in the Union. Voting will be done by placing coins in the appropriate container for each girl. Each cent will represent one vote. All proceeds of the voting and the Las Vegas Night will be donated to the Jimmy Fund. Come out and select a queen, have fun, and help a good cause.

Friday night at the Cage the five finalists will be voted on in the same way. Along with the presentation of the queen, an auction will be held with the money won during the night. Prizes include tickets to Cinema 1 & 2 in Springfield, a camera, radio, dinner at Lord Jeffs and many more.

SUZANNE NORGRESS

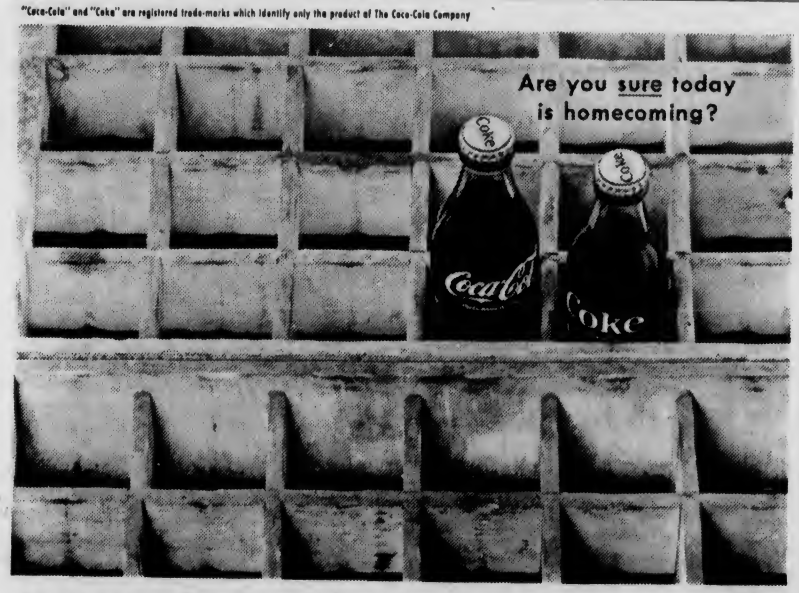
CHRIS CONNER

MARCY BALLARD

PATRICIA MASTERSON

BARBARA KOPIECKI

MARILYN BERG



COME TO THE

Sorority Declamation

Monday, Dec. 12

Mahar Auditorium

"Coca-Cola" and "Coke" are registered trade-marks which identify only the product of The Coca-Cola Company

Any game is more fun with ice-cold Coke on hand. Coca-Cola has the taste you never get tired of . . . always refreshing. That's why things go better with Coke . . . after Coke . . . after Coke.

Coca-Cola

Bottled under the authority of The Coca-Cola Company by:

COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY OF NORTHAMPTON, NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

UT Presents a Medley of Thurber Caricatures

by JAN SULLIVAN, Staff Reporter

From the raising of the curtain Wednesday night, no even before that, from the delightful musical introduction (which continued throughout the performance, and which added much to the total enjoyment), until the last sound of applause had died down, Vincent C. Brann's production of Thurber's black-and-white-striped Thurber Carnival rolled along merrily, and for the most part, smoothly (it seems the curtain refused to cooperate just before intermission).

The two "Word-Dances," in which the dancers quipped wittily to music, like well-polished bookends, held the play-sketches together as a unit.

* * *

While none of the sketches was high dramatic art, or of world-shaking significance (except, perhaps for the touch of truth in "The Last Flower," which was beautifully done), each let the audience in for a smidgin of identification with, or sympathy for, the cartoon-yet-real characters, and inevitably quite a few chuckles.

Several sketches, notably "The Night the Bed Fell," sounded better in print, and it seemed at one point that "File and Forget" should have been filed and forgotten.

Two of the scenes at least may be familiar to the audience: "Mr. Preble Gets Rid of His Wife" (Let's go down cellar. . .you never want to go down cellar with me anymore.") and "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" (who liked to daydream now and then on the side when his wife wasn't looking).

* * *

The cast as a whole was commendable; fourteen different scenes, with numerous different characters were acted out by the nine actors and actresses.

Elizabeth Corea and James Luippold were outstanding. Miss Corea was suitably irrefutable as Mrs. Preble; Luippold ranged from dancer to drunkard to day-dreamer with equal facility. He certainly smokes with absolute savoir-faire in "Walter Mitty."

Jon Hutton Marlon (gasp) Brando Wolf (until he opened his mouth) was much more convincing with an English accent in "Macbeth Murder Mystery" (maybe it was the brandy); Laurence Kornfield was best as Mr. Preble.

There are deep questions to be pondered ("Is there no bomb in Gilead?") and great truths to be learned (bears don't like bowling balls) from Thurber Carnival. It's well done, it's light and it's carefree and it tickles your whatever-it-is that makes you giggle like a little kid.

Photo by Williams

Mr. Prebble (Laurence Kornfield) "gets rid of his wife" (Elizabeth Corea) in their cellar, in this scene from the University Theatre production of Thurber Carnival.

Photo by Williams

In Thurber's "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," the distinguished surgeon (James Luippold) prepares to operate, assisted by Christine Crowley and Jon Hutton.

WMUA

"A New Dimension in Radio"

by DAN WEIR

(Editor's note: Dan Weir has interviewed one of the exciting people who are planning a new concept in WMUA radio—Dan Weir. Yes, he's a zany character; a quality which will undoubtedly help to make his show a success.)

"This could quite possibly be the start of a New Dimension in Radio," I, the Weirdian voice, said to me, the Weirdian ear, in reference to mine, or rather, our new Radio Program, "Nighttime Radio." Across from us sat Patricia Wood, famous fashion designer, adding a bit of much needed color to the interview.

"You see," I said to me again, "Howard Sherman, my good friend, and the producer of the show, suggested we try to wake up just a few of those people who fall asleep during WMUA's one o'clock news on Friday nights. The result of that suggestion turned out to be "Nighttime Radio," a two hour trip into the realms of controlled insanity."

When asked by me, the interviewing ear, what kind of things I would be doing on the show, I replied, "Talking to people like Patricia here. No, I take that back. She's frightfully good at adding color to things, but just how much color can there be in Radio? I mean, I personally have a black-and-white FM Radio. If we can raise the money to do the program in compatible, or even incompatible, color, I'll ask Patricia to come on the show. As it is, her dresses aren't really too exciting coming through a speaker in only black and white.

Trying to explain to me what the show was all about, I pointed out that this Friday, on our second show, we would be talking to Ken Hardy of the University Reform Committee, Fran Boronski of the Student Senate, and Betty Chambers of both the Senate and the URC.

"We'll be talking about all sorts of student problems, and taking phone calls from our listeners. This particular show was Pete Ward's idea. Oh, yes, he's another regular part of the show, along with Howard. They are both very funny fellows, those two, but isn't that what FM stands for, Funny Men?"

I, the interviewer, winced at that answer, stifling a terrific urge to kill both of me. I went on then to ask the last possible question.

"Is the show high or low camp?" I asked, fearful of my own answer.

"Neither "High Camp" nor "Low Camp," I replied, once again talking in capitals. "If it wasn't on Friday Nights, I'd call it "Day Camp." Maybe it'll have to be called "Night Camp."

I, the voice, smiled the smile of the slightly demented, and with famous fashion designer Patricia Wood colorfully beside me, I took leave of myself.

Photo by Furman

Pete Ward (left) and Dan Weir are intent on keeping people awake all night. They plan to do this by capturing their complete attention on a late night show over WMUA.

Xanadu Shop Opens

The Xanadu Freedom Cooperative is open for business.

A small store that's managed and staffed completely by volunteers, the Xanadu sells mostly articles made by the Poor People's Cooperative (PPC) of Mississippi.

The PPC is split into several independent cooperatives throughout Mississippi. The workers in these co-ops are Negroes, many of whom lost their jobs with white employers because of their participation in the Civil Rights Movement. Others were unemployed farmers or sharecroppers, or striking against intolerable social and working conditions.

By means of intensive training problems, intelligent coordination and help with marketing, these workers have taught themselves new skills and have become economically independent.

The profit from all PPC items sold goes to the PPC. The profit from any other article goes into overhead and donations to the PPC and other freedom organizations.

In Amherst, the Xanadu Freedom Cooperative is staffed by volunteers from the four colleges and the community. Located in the Alley, it is open everyday from 1:00 to 5:00, 10:00 to 5:30 on Saturdays.

For the Discriminating Person on your Christmas List:

Barometers, Telescopes

Fancy Optical Equipment

Catalogue Sale! It'll be in a week

SEE DON CALL OPTICIAN

NOW AVAILABLE

PHONE LOCKS at CHENEY LOCKSMITHS

Keys & Rubber Stamps

10% DISCOUNT ON ALL MERCHANDISE EXCEPT KEYS

24 HR. SERVICE

Next to Louis Foods, Amherst

MOUNTAIN PARK

RTE. 5 HOLYOKE — GO WHERE THE ACTION IS

EVERY SAT. 8 P.M.

COLLEGE MIXER

WITH NEW ENGLAND'S NO. 1 ROCKING BAND

NEXT SAT. — IN PERSON

MITCH RYDER & Detroit Wheels

AMHERST Cinema

LATE SHOW TONIGHT 11:15 P.M.

"FALSE SHAME"

TRUTH BEHIND 'NICE' GIRLS IN TROUBLE!

Engineers Initiated Into Honor Society

Last Tuesday, the Massachusetts Zeta chapter of Tau Beta Pi, the national engineering society, initiated 11 new members into the association.

Tau Beta Pi was founded in 1885 at Lehigh University in order "to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America."

To be eligible for membership, an undergraduate must be in the top eighth of his class in his next-to-last year or the top fifth of his class in his last college year. These scholastically eligible students are then further considered on the basis of personal integrity, breadth of interest both inside and outside engineering, adaptibility and unselfish activity.

The initiates are: Class of 1967: James Carvalho, Gerald Couture, Stephen Hartley, John Hayden, Philip Rzasa and Dana Vrooman. Class of 1968: Michael Daley, Kenneth Ewell, John Kelliher, Emery Messenger and Wayne Niederjohn.

Current Tau Beta Pi officers are: James Barretto, president; Mark Anderson, vice-president; Gerald Johnson, Corresponding Secretary; Peter Hull, recording secretary; and Charles Wyman, cataloguer.

Notices

UMASS BARBELL CLUB
On Tues., Dec. 13 at 8:30 P.M. in Council Chambers, films of the 1965 and 1966 Mr. Universe contest and the 1956 Olympic weightlifting championships will be shown. Open to the public.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
On Mon., Dec. 12 at 7:00 P.M. in Council Chambers there will be an important emergency meeting. It is imperative that all members attended. Non-members are also welcome.

EDUCATION CLUB
On Wed., Dec. 14, at 7:45 P.M. in School of Ed. Auditorium, the Education Club is presenting a panel discussion on "Religion in the Schools." Refreshments will be served, and all are welcome.

EDUCATION 09
The Tuesday 10:10 and 12:20 Ed. 09 classes of Mrs. Case will not meet again this semester.

LOST
Brown leather pocketbook, in Southwest #5. Please return personal items. Prescription sunglasses, license, I.D., etc., useless to anyone else. Turn in to Lost & Found S.U. or Nancy, 711 J.Q. Adams House. No questions asked.

ENGAGEMENTS
Janet Cohen, class '68, Tower 2, to Paul Richard Saronson, (Jelly Bean II), class of '67, Amherst College.
Keigh Kenyon, class of '68, Tower 2, to Richard Paul O'Connor, (Jelly Bean I), West Springfield.

Only 34
More Studying Days
Til Finals !

For the best in skiing

SKIING
3 skis tested: Wedel King, Javelin, Snow Princs · 11 Resorts visited, in the U.S. and Europe · Conrad Staudinger teaches you the garlands · How to buy boots so they fit · A ski tour in the East · Stein Eriksen instructs · Sweaters for Christmas.

Discover the other Colorado, where there's great skiing far from the crowds of Vail and Aspen...explore Vermont's Sugarbush, Glen Ellen, Mad River Glen...check out the merits of the Fischer, Hart and Kaestle skis in SKIING's exclusive test reports... meet Rip McManus, last of the free-lance racers...take a first-hand look at the magnificent Matterhorn...learn how to adjust your own cable bindings, how to get real fit in boots and how to improve your skiing technique with the expert advice of Stein Eriksen, Conrad Staudinger and Doug Pfeiffer.

You'll find all this and much more, in the December issue of

SKIING

Just 60¢—ask about the special half-price student subscription rate available through college bookstores.

Applications Due For East-West Center

Application deadline for 70 East-West Center scholarships for graduate degree study in fields relating to Asia and the Pacific Ocean area is Dec. 15, 1966.

The East-West Center in Honolulu is a project of the United States government in cooperation with the University of Hawaii. It was founded by Congress in 1960 to promote understanding among the people of the U.S., Asia and the Pacific.

Scholarships are for the June or September 1967 class. Basic grants are for a year and cover transportation, tuition, necessary books, housing and food. Scholarships may be extended for students meeting high academic standards to allow them to complete degree programs. Outstanding students may be granted field study in Asia or the Pacific.

Students must major in the Asia-Pacific field and are required to take an Asian or Pacific language appropriate to their area of interest. They attend classes at the University of Hawaii where the Center is situated.

The Center has more than 600 scholarship students who come from 31 countries, including one third from the United States. Senior specialists-in-residence (leading scholars and government officials) and technical participants are also invited to study and work in programs extending educational horizons and developing international understanding.

For applications and additional information, students should contact the dean of their college or write to the Director of Student Selection, East-West Center, 1777 East-West Road, Honolulu, Hawaii, 96822.

War Debate Provokes Disturbance

(UPI) — Campus police at the University of Maryland moved into a throng of students in the Student Union Wednesday to break up fist fights and shoving matches growing out of a debate over the Viet Nam war.

The disturbance involved about 200 students. It was the second consecutive day that members of the Students for a Democratic Society and students backing U. S. policy in Viet Nam tangled in the lobby of the union.

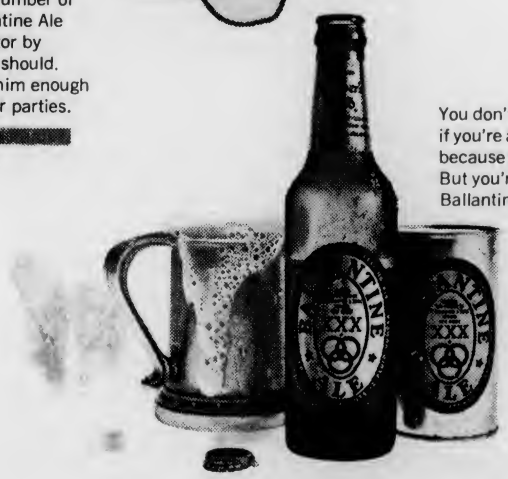
Both incidents started when members of the SDS set up a table next to a Marine Corps recruiting table. The SDS is protesting recruitment by the Marines on the Maryland campus. The four Marine recruiters, two officers and two enlisted men, were not involved in either incident.

Famous INDEX portrait photographer needs models for informal and formal portraits. Models will receive their selection of prints as compensation. Shooting sessions will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays and perhaps on weekday evenings in the Student Union. Send inquiries to:

INDEX — Box 13, R.S.O. Office
Student Union Building

How to tell if you're an Ale Man

You'd rather play football than watch.



You don't let a little thing like cold weather interfere with your surfing. You wear a wet suit and go, go, go.

You still think James Bond books are better than James Bond movies.

You know the name and phone number of your Ballantine Ale distributor by heart. You should. You've called him enough to arrange for parties.

"Your friends think that four-on-the-floor is it. Your last car had a five-speed box."

You don't have to read an ad like this to find out if you're an Ale Man. You know you're an Ale Man because you graduated from beer ages ago. But you're still explaining to your friends how Ballantine Ale is light like beer but packs a lot more taste. You wish they'd discover the clean, dry, tangy taste of Ballantine Ale for themselves—and let you do the things an Ale Man likes to do.

Dedicated to Ale Men everywhere.
May their numbers increase.
P. Ballantine & Sons, Newark, N. J.

TV Series Seeks Help Of Science-Fiction Club

An atmosphere of urgency hit the Science-Fiction Club Wednesday when its vice-president, Don Hetsko, received a letter stating that the TV series Star Trek was in danger of being cancelled.

The letter was written by author Harlan Ellison on behalf of a committee of nine leading science-fiction authors, none of whom are affiliated with the show.

The Science-Fiction Club has scheduled an emergency Club meeting for Monday evening at 7:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers. The Club's president, Renee Lautzenhiser, expressed the hope that all members and any non-members interested in saving Star Trek would attend.

Weary of childish portrayals of science-fiction in movies and on TV, Star Trek's producers have attempted to prove, according to Ellison, "that science-fiction need not be situation comedy in space suits."

Special preview showings received standing ovations at the World SF Convention in Cleveland last September, and the program's creator, Gene Roddenberry, received a special citation.

The program is about the adventures of the crew of the "U.S.S. Enterprise," an interstellar space ship on a five-year scientific mission to explore other worlds and civilizations in the galaxy.

Ellison's letter said, "We've learned this show, despite its healthy growth, could face trouble soon. The Nielson Roulette game is being played. They say, 'If mature science-fiction is so hot, howcome that kiddie space show (Lost in Space) on the other network is doing so much better?'"

Stating that "Star Trek's cancellation or a change to a less adult format would be tragic," Ellison asked that letters be written to TV stations, sponsors, and TV columnists. He termed the situation "critical."

The program is broadcast Thursday nights at 8:30 p.m. on the NBC network and is seen in this area over channel 22.

New Campus Center Will Provide Additional Conference Space

Ed. note: This written by Dean Leo F. Redfern, Chairman of the Campus Center Building Committee, appeared in the Amherst Record to better explain the purpose of the Campus Center.

In addition to providing expanded facilities for the Student Union program, the Center will provide classrooms and offices for continuing education activities, dining facilities and overnight accommodations. At the present time the limited University Confeernce Program brings approximately 19,000 participants to Amherst each year. For this Program 13,400 overnight accommodations are provided in the student dormitories.

You can readily see that our ability to arrange conferences of longer than one-day duration is severly restricted by the availability of dormitory space during vacation periods. This restriction has kept the size of the Conference Program, and the number of visitors coming to Amherst, far below the level of demand and need for such programs. This has also created difficulties in the use and maintenance of student rooms, furnishing of rooms for conference attendees, and in scheduling renovaton work in the dormitories. Further, as the University Summer Session continues to expand, the availability of dormitory rooms for conferences and institutes continues to shrink.

In a similar manner, present dining arrangements for conference participants largely utilize the student dining commons or Student Union cafeteria on campus. These facilities, designed to handle given loads during short periods of the day, are thus forced, in many cases, to work on an "overload" basis to handle conference members along with the regular student clientele. This is especially true of one-day conference programs which can be held during the school year while classes are in session. Our students have been understanding and gracious about this imposition. but it does lead to crowding and some delays in their own schedules.

Therefore, the Campus Center is designed to provide some relief for these problems. It will also enable conferences, institutes, workshops and seminars in continuing education to be scheduled more evenly throughout the year. These facilities, including overnight accommodations, are restricted, of course, to those on the campus who have some direct connection with the University. They are not available to transients passing through Amherst, such as tourists, salesmen or casual visitors.

Because of the new classroom and seminar facilities, we anticipate considerable expansion of the Conference Program in the years ahead, including the possibility of scheduling more regional and national professional and academic meetings than have been feasible in the past. We expect that this will cause even more "peaking" of demand at certain times, as with large conferences, which may require some participants to seek off-campus accommodations.

The rapid growth of the University has inevitably caused some "dislocations" and has required some adjustments in Amherst and, to some extent, in surrounding communities. Because of a healthy spirit of cooperation and understanding, these difficulties are overcome and the constructive advantages of University growth are capitalized upon by those affected. We are confident this will be the case with the addition of the Campus Center, which wil further enhance Amherst as a distinguished educational center of New England.

We're Not Alone!

Shoplifting Troubles Yale, Too

Amherst isn't the only town with student shoplifting problems. The Yale Co-op in New Haven reports loses of over $90,000 and growing.

Private detectives and plain clothesmen have been hired to protect the store and the University has sent a letter to all undergraduates explaining to them the consequences of stealing.

The Co-op on the Yale campus is a modernistic two-story department store. It has a large book department always full of browsers, joined by the un-uniformed guards and detectives.

Membership of the Co-op is restricted to Yale students, faculty members, employees and alumni. Non-members may shop there but cannot share in the profits of the private corporation.

"Mounting losses indicated a casual attitude toward petty thievery and a failure to understand the effect an arrest for stealing can have on a student's career," Mr. Willoughby told members in a recent memo. He referred to the threat of expulsion for shoplifting.

One recent Yale undergraduate gave his own theory for the shoplifting: "It's an unrealistic atmosphere. Everything is paid with one large check at the beginning. Then your meals are free.

"The idea that money is paid in exchange, you kind of forget about. You feel like you're living in the ultimate welfare state."

Besides heavy security at the Co-op, Mr. Willoughby says his job is to keep drumming away at the consequences. "It's a reminding process, because you're always getting a new class in," he said.

His message is: "a moment of weakness can destroy 20 years of integrity."

(Reprinted from Boston Globe)

'Tis the Season

Students Trim Tree

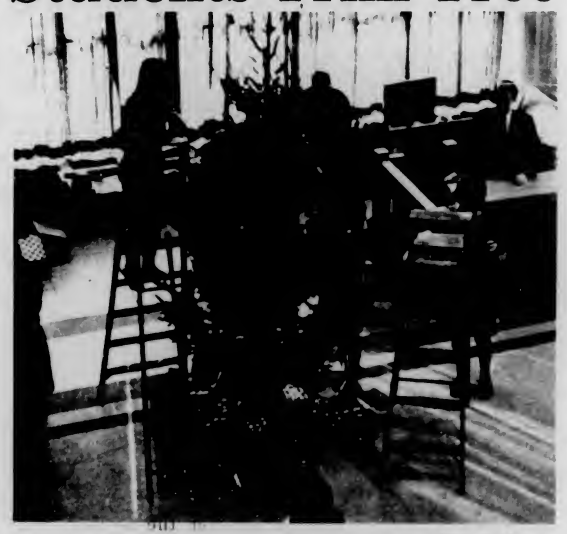


Photo by Kline

Dressing up the Student Union, several students decorated a Christmas tree Tuesday. The tree has been placed in the lobby and is lit up every night during the holidays.

Presenting The Drinking Song for Sprite:

"ROAR, SOFT-DRINK, ROAR!"

(To the tune of "Barbara Fritchie")

Traditionally, a lusty, rousing fight song is de rigeur for every worthy cause and institution. But we wrote a song for Sprite anyway. We'd like you to sing it while drinking Sprite, though this may cause some choking and coughing. So what? It's all in good, clean fun. And speaking of good, clean things, what about the taste of Sprite? It's good. It's clean. However, good clean things may not exactly be your idea of jollies. In that case, remember that Sprite is also very refreshing. "Tart and tingling," in fact. And very collegiate. And maybe we'd better quit while we're ahead. So here it is. The Drinking Song For Sprite. And if you can get a group together to sing it--we'd be very surprised.

Roar, soft drink, roar!
You're the loudest soft drink
we ever sawr!
So tart and tingling, they couldn't keep you quiet:
The perfect drink, guy,
To sit and think by,
Or to bring instant refreshment
To any campus riot! Oooooh--
Roar, soft drink, roar!
Flip your cap, hiss and bubble,
fizz and gush!
Oh we can't think
Of any drink
That we would rather sit with!
Or (if we feel like loitering)
to hang out in the strit with!
Or sleep through English lit' with!
Roar! Soft drink! Roar!
Yeahhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh, SPRITE!

Sprite

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

SPRITE IS A REGISTERED TRADE MARK

Police Protection
and
Campus Lighting
will be the topics of a
Student Senate Press Conference
Monday, Dec. 12 — 12 noon
Colonial Lounge

Student Senate Elections for Senators from:

Coolidge Upper
Wheeler
Butterfield
Dwight
Thatcher
John Adams Lower

Pick up applications in the RSO office

Applications must be submitted before 5:00 p.m., December 9.

Final elections will be held Dec. 15 from 6:00-9:00 in the dorms

BACH ARIA Group
Fri., Dec. 9
8:00 p.m.
Students remember* to pick-up passes.

NOTICE !

Because the statement of final examination conflict policy is incorrect as it appears on page 36 of the current issue of SPECTRUM, note the following:

Students who are scheduled for two final examinations at the same time are to report this situation directly to the schedule office of adjustment. Dates for such reported will be published each semester. .

Tips for Winter Driving

Registrar Urges Safe Winter

Good visibility is the first step to safe driving . . . especially in winter. Check your icesight: Be sure your windshield wipers have live blades, proper tension, and do not streak.

Good defrosters are vital in winter . . . if they aren't in top shape, get them fixed. When rain and snow turn to ice, use a scraper to clear the windshield.

Bruch all snow off your car, including that on the lights, hood and roof, and front, back and side windows.

Wipe windshields thoroughly to eliminate streaks after using commercial spray de-icers. SEE YOUR WAY CLEAR TO AN ACCIDENT-FREE SEASON.

When you suddenly come upon an icy patch of pavement, be sure your front wheels are rotating if you are trying to turn. Hard braking will lock them. Then the tires act like sled runners and you slide straight ahead.

Pump your brakes and slow down, they coast over the ice. Above all, when streets and highways are slippery, avoid sudden moves.

Give yourself time. Don't count on getting anywhere in a hurry in winter. Speed limits are for perfect, dry conditions.

On winter's icy streets, it may take ten times as far to stop as on dry pavements. Far lower speeds are essential to safe driving on snow or ice-covered roads.

Even though the weather may be bitterly cold, drivers are urged to open a window slightly to keep from becoming drowsy.

Winter calls for plenty of stopping room, so keep a king-sized interval between your car and the car ahead. Approaches to intersections often are packed and polished with snow or ice.

Slow down early so you won't slide into cross traffic. Avoid side streets—they are especially dangerous as they are usually the last to be salted.

Give yourself more stopping and steering control with quick, hard jabs on the brake pedal.

During big winter storms, use public transportation . . . But if you must use a motor vehicle, be sure that the vehicle is in top shape for winter driving.

Stalled cars are a deterrent to snow removal and cause unnecessary traffic tieups. It is a good idea to carry emergency equipment in the car for difficult situations such as a bucket of sand, a shovel, booster cables, tire chains, and a tow chain or strap . . . Police and fire equipment must be able to move at all times.

INTRAMURALS . . .

(Continued from page 11)

a night of shutouts, with all the contests in the dorms. The Buffaloes whitewashed the Maroons, 8-0, the Eagles did likewise to Aces, despite Chuck Tiberio's 528 triple, and the Trojans took all 8 from the Phallics behind Kenney's fantastic 542.

The Pines also pulled a shutout, over the Elms, 8-0, the Maples took 6 of 8 from the Redwoods, the Hemlocks beat the Oaks, 6-2, the Hemlocks' Fenner getting a 523 triple, and the Chestnuts rounded the night's activity taking all 8 from the Hi-Los, winning the last game by only four pins.

Newman Center Sponsors Christmas Concert

The Newman choir will hold a Christmas concert this Sunday evening at 8:15 p.m. in the Newman chapel.

The choir will be accompanied by the faculty from UMass and Amherst. The string ensemble will be under the direction of Prof. Donald O. White from Amherst College. The selections are from the Christmas Oratorio by Saint-Saens and Magnificat in D by J.S. Bach.

The organist, Robert E. Ezold of Parish of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, will accompany the choir.

Soloists are: Mezzo Soprano, Kathlyn O'Sullivan '67 Ann Pamela Smith '70; Bass, Robert Roger Lebel; Tenors, Philip Hendel '70, David Andrew Carlson '70; Baritone, Vincent Desilets '69; Alto, Marie Therese Scenkiewicz '70. The choir invites everyone to join them in welcoming Christmas.

News Roundup

Dr. Archer Appointed to CE Post

UMass School of Engineering has announced the appointment of Dr. Robert R. Archer as professor of civil engineering.

Dr. Archer, a 1952 graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a Ph.D. from that institution in 1956, comes to UMass from the engineering division of Case Institute of Technology, where he has served since 1961.

Dr. Archer specializes in engineering mechanics, applied mathematics and computation; he is the author or co-author of more than a dozen published papers dealing with the vibrations, stability and stress analysis of structures. He is co-author of the McGraw-Hill book "Introduction to the Mechanics of Solids."

* * *

The National Science Foundation has granted the University $25,300 for a research study of deformation and non-Newtonian behavior of suspensions to be directed by Dr. E. E. Lindsey, associate dean of the School of Engineering, and Dr. David C. Chappelear, lecturer in chemical engineering.

The UMass researchers hope that the results will help lead to better engineering design in the handling of latex and other suspensions and emulsions. Blood is one suspension of deformable cells that may be investigated.

Some help in explaining the relatively high fluidity of concentrated suspension of blood cells may be a by-product of the work.

* * *

The staff of the University Labor Relations and Research Center will be delegates to the 19th Annual Meeting of the Industrial Relations Research Association and Allied Social Science Associations, to be held in San Francisco Dec. 27 through 29.

Prof. Ben B. Seligman, LRRC director, will attend meetings of the American Economic Association, Association for Evolutionary Economics and IRRA. Joseph J. Cass and Harvey L. Friedman, assistant directors of the UMass center, will be delegates to the IRRA sessions.

A highlight of this year's program will be a luncheon meeting of directors of university labor and industrial relations centers throughout the U. S. The keynote speaker for the IRRA general membership meeting will be U. S. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

* * *

Rodney Croteau of Springfield, top-ranking senior in the University of Massachusetts College of Agriculture, has been given the 1966 Borden Agricultural Scholarship Award of $300 by the Borden Foundation.

Croteau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armand J. Croteau of 231 Osborne Terrace, is a student in the department of food science and technology.

He is a Honors Thesis candidate, a member of the academic honorary society Phi Kappa Phi and last year was awarded a $1000 scholarship by the Institute of Food Technologists.

* * *

How to "Write Good Like (As) A Journalist Should" will be discussed with about 200 of the high school students attending the fourth annual Pioneer Valley Press Conference at Cathedral High School, Springfield, Dec. 10, by Dr. Dario Politella, associate professor of journalistic studies and English at the University of Massachusetts.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Waitresses for Cocktail Lounge
Waiters for Cocktail Lounge and Dining room
Call 323-9301 after 7:00 p.m.

WANTED

Two riders wanted to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., morning or afternoon of Dec. 21. Share driving and expenses. Call 253-2218.

Five men moving off campus in Jan. If you are vacating an apartment, let us know. Will pay for info. 266 Hills South.

Female roommate wanted: To share expenses with 2 co-eds in 5 room house. 5 miles from campus. Transportation no problem. Rent low. Fully furnished. Call 256-6144.

Two or three female roommates wanted to share apartment next semester in Boston. Would like a graduating senior or an undergrad. taking semester off. Call 546-6863.

Sigma Delta Tau pledges are willing to do housework and other material household jobs including babysitting, for a nominal fee. If interested—Call 546-7950 or leave message for Debbie Card at 545-2304 or 253-9256.

AUTOMOBILES

1958 T-Bird conv, V-8, automatic, new top, radio, heater, good condition. $600 or best offer. Call 253-7778 after 5:00 p.m.

1959 Chevy Impala convertible V-8, 280 cu. in., automatic, power steering. Contact: John Hardy, 201 Wheeler.

1961 Citroen, I D — 19. This French automobile rides well; needs some body and mechanical work. Best offer. Write E. Willensky. P.O. Box 132. So. Hadley, Mass.

LOST

O.U.R. Agents—urgent. Publication AFSD No. 09016 is missing. If you have it or know of its whereabouts contact UMass Division Headquarters.

For Rent

Room for rent. Central Amherst location. Quiet study atmosphere. Call AL-3-5024 after 3:00 p.m.

1 large sunny room with twin beds available for 2, and one smaller room for single student. Board available if desired. Located in center of town. Call 253-9806.

FOR SALE

Skis 6'11". Excellent condition—used one season. $40. Tel 253-3830.

Ducati motorcycle. 250 cc — Monya, 1966 model. Call William Sheldon — 545-1320 or 549-0144.

1 pr. Innsbrook skis 6'3". Lamanated bottoms, Dover binders. Excellent condition. Call 253-9693 before noon.

Brand new Admiral radios still in original boxes. 2AM-FM models—$20 and $25. Great Xmas gift. Call Ralph Prolman, 313 Butterfield.

P.A. system—2 cobreflex horns; 2 60-watt drivers; horn stands; bogen amp & 4 mike mixer; electra-voice and share mikes, call Dave Lang (Butterfield)

Head competition giant slaloms, Barrecroft metal poles(new), Miller racing toe, Marker heel. $100 takes all. Contact Bob Miller, Sig Ep, phone AL 3-9112 between 5-7.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE COLLEGIAN

SKI MORE!

PAY LESS DRIVE LESS

- New Beginners To Advance Novice Area
- Intermediate To Expert Area
- Each Serviced by Chairs, T-Bars and J-Bar
- 24 Trails and Slopes
- Natur Teknik Ski School
- Snow Making

Latest Ski Reports 413-339-4986
Room Reservations 413-339-6610

Where the Action Is!

Thunder Mountain

Charlemont, Mass.
Route 2, Mohawk Trail

COMING TO NEW YORK?

MAKE WILLIAM SLOANE HOUSE YMCA YOUR HEADQUARTERS IN N. Y. C.
REASONABLE • COMFORTABLE • CONVENIENT

Save money. Go further. Stay longer. The William Sloane House YMCA has 1491 rooms available to men, women and groups, sensibly priced at $3.15-$4.60 single; $5.00-$5.20 double. Rates include YMCA membership. Enjoy convenient transportation to everything.

Coffee Shop • Cafeteria • Laundry
Barber Shop • Check Room
Tailor • Sightseeing • TV Room
Information

REQUEST BOOKLET C

The Professionals

Three recent graduates of UMass are currently playing their football skills in the professional ranks. They are, in clockwise order: Milt Morin of the Cleveland Browns, Phil Vandersea of the Green Bay Packers, and Bernie Dallas of the Philadelphia Bulldogs of the Continental League.

'73 College Catalogs: A Touch of Grid Theory

By MIKE GOULD, Sports Editor

College football is becoming so big that someday soon it might well become a major field of study at many of our great American universities.

Picture a page out of a typical 1973 catalog:

DEPARTMENT OF FOOTBALL

Courses in Defensive Football

Defense 125 — Introduction to Defense — an introduction to the art of defensive football. Topics included are: methods of tackling, basic formations, and a brief introduction to the killer instinct. No prerequisite. Mr. Sherman and staff.

Defense 126 — Principles of Defense — further basic foundations of defensive football featuring an introduction to pursuit and the blitz. Continued study of tackling methods including a brief look at gang-tackling. Prerequisite: Defense 125 or permission of parents. Mr. Huff.

Defense 150 — Defensive Theory — effects of intellectual thought on the art of defensive football from Homer to Schenkel. Included are the theories Plato, Euclid, McClellan, Chamberlain, Truman, and Allie Sherman. Comparison of clean versus dirty theories of defense with an introduction to quarterback racking. Prerequisite: Defense 126, Math 326, History 351, or a high school diploma. Professor Lombardi.

Defense 179 — Advanced Defensive Formations — extensive study of the intricacies of the various formations with special emphasis on the umbrella, prevent, and goal-line arrangements. Prerequisite: Defense 126, Karate 254, or a subscription to Sports Illustrated. Professor Bryant.

Defense 201 — The Safety Blitz — Methods of concealing and compensating for the safety blitz and advanced quarterback racking. Emphasis also on methods of self-protection when an opposing lineman sees you coming. Prerequisite: Defense 150 and a lot of nerve. Professor L. Wilson.

Defense 275 — Introduction to Pass Coverage — merits and weaknesses of both zone and man-to-man systems. Other topics include: how to interfere with a receiver without really getting caught, and how to shy away from an open-field tackle without really looking chicken. Prerequisite: Defense 179 or membership on an Olympic team. Professors Adderley and Whitsell.

Defense 312 — The Killer Instinct — teaching and instillment of the killer instinct using modern methods of brainwashing. Prerequisite: five ticket stubs to Chicago Bears games. Professor Butkus and staff.

Defense 386 — Advanced Topics — included are: methods of play-deciphering, kick blocking, and clock stopping. Prerequisite: survival of Defense 312. The staff.

AMHERST Cinema
Daily at 6:50-9:00
SUN. - Continuous 2:00
BLAZING ACTION by those internationally famous stars...
SENTA BERGER • STEPHEN BOYD • YUL BRYNNER • ANNE DICKINSON • GEORGE GERET
HUGH GRIFFITH • JACK HAWKINS • SUSAN HAYWORTH • TREVOR HOWARD • TONY LOPEZ • E. G. MARSHALL
MARCELLO MASTROIANNI • ANDREA NAZZARI • JEAN CLAUDE PASCAL • ANTHONY QUAYLE • SAMI RAU
ELMER ROLAND • HANNS SAKATA • JOHN SHARP • MADY SULLIVAN • MARIA TILLER • ERIK WALLACH
the poppy is also a flower
The story of another war more deadly more destructive against the world ever known to mankind
Directed by TERENCE YOUNG • Script by IB ESKINGER • Music composed by GEORGES AURIC

'Very Tough Competition'

UMass Gymnasts Boast Experience; Kjeldsen Optimistic in 5th Season

By TIM MURPHY, Sports Staff

The young man sat at his desk, a characteristic smile creasing his face as he plotted a chart advertising the 1966-67 gymnastics season.

He is Erik Kjeldsen, UMass coach of varsity gymnastics.

Putting finishing touches on his carefully stenciled project, Kjeldseen, now entering his fifth year of gymnastics coaching at the University, offered comments on the team's campaign, on individual performers and on the Eastern Inter-collegiate Gymnastics League, of which UMass is a member.

The E.I.G.L. is one of the oldest gymnastics leagues in the entire United States and can trace its ancestry back to the years immediately following World War I.

"Massachusetts," Kjeldsen began, "is the newest member of the league. We joined in 1964."

Other members of the E.I.G.L. are Army, Navy, Temple, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Syracuse and Springfield. Penn State is a perennial powerhouse and two years ago was national champion, Kjeldsen noted, "so, you see, we're up against some very tough competition."

Last season, Penn State slipped to a national rating of sixth but retained sufficient aplomb to take the E.I.G.L. championships and administer a 184-148 defeat to the Redmen.

"In addition to Penn State," Kjeldsen went on, "Army and Springfield are usually particularly strong, and, this year, it looks as though Temple has produced another fine squad."

He noted that last year Springfield finished second in the league and Temple third. "We are optimistic about our chances against Pittsburgh, whom we beat last year (152-146), and we may have enough to take Syracuse. As for the others, we have a team that could give any of them a sound battle."

Kjeldsen pursed his lips as he checked a data sheet before him on the desk. "We're definitely in better shape than we were a year ago," he said. "Al Carver, our captain, should fare quite well on the trampoline, his specialty, and Steve Brown, a medalist at the league championships last year, looks better."

Brown competes on both the parallel bar and the high bar, while Carver compliments his trampoline routine with stints at the long horse vault and the horizontal bar.

"Steve will be our all-around man," said Kjeldsen, explaining that a team which designates one member of its squad as all-around is eligible to insert a fourth man into events in which the all-around man competes. "Therefore," Kjeldsen said smiling, "it behooves a team to have such a person. We are fortunate to have a performer like Steve."

Kjeldsen also voiced particular confidence in Dave Marsh, who plies his dexterity on the parallel and horizontal bars as well as the rings.

Others mentioned were Fred Babakian, side horse, Dick Dauphinais, floor exercise, and Dick Del Gallo, floor exercise and rings. All distinguished themselves in UMass' opening win Saturday against Southern Connecticut.

The Redmen entertain Army in the auxiliary gym of Boyden Gymnasium, Saturday at 1 p.m. at which time Kjeldsen hopes to begin E.I.G.L. competition with an impressive performance.

Captain Jack Ouellette heads the list of eight returning lettermen for the West Point team that opened its season witth a win last weekend over Merchant Marine Academy. Dana Groover, Andrew Allen, Charles Beckwith, and Dick Adams are some of the other outstanding performers on Coach Frank Wells' squad.

Last year, the Cadets trounced UMass, 169-154, and a measure of revenge seems to be in order.

INTRAMURALS

Patriot Star Hits 72; Cougars Nearing Title

By ROGER KIPP, Sports Editor

Ray Stanelis grabbed the spotlight once again Wednesday night as he poured in 72 points in intramural action. Stanelis also has a 43 point effort to his credit this year. His team, the Patriots of the Southwest Dorm League, of course, won the game over the Commanches, 111-28.

However, Stanelis will probably not see any playoff action, for the Patriots are 3-2, and the Cougars, who won, 54-15, over the Colonials, are undefeated and appear ready to take the league title.

The Leopards also won over the Panthers, 51-16, to keep them within one game of the Cougars at 4-1. Len Mees, Norm Robertson, and Al Nordling each had 12 points in that win. The Colts dropped the Jaguars, 31-27, in the other contest.

The Maroons continued to roll in East League action, clinching a tie for the title with a convincing 80-42 victory over the Bruins, while the Giants edged the Eagles in a very low scoring game, 23-19. John Murphy grabbed scoring honors for the Maroons with 33 markers, while Will Frisbee had 20.

In other dorm action, the North League remains tied between the Flaming A's and the Lemons, who are each 5-0. The Lemons whipped the Rams, 48-36, behind the shooting of Russ Vitallo and Tony Garfield, who had 17 and 14 points. The Aces bumped the Chestnuts, 38-30, and the powerful Hawks, with Tom Sinnamon getting 25, bounced the panthers, 48-25.

Fraternity action was relatively light with only four games. Kappa Sig continued to play great ball. Bob Detore scored 16, and Greg Landry popped 11 with many rebounds, as KS bumped TKE, 57-39. TKE, who lost their second in a row after a heartbreaker at the hands of AEP Monday night, was obviously hurt by the absence of star Ron Merrill.

Elsewhere, QTV nudged TC, 19-18, for their first win of the season, ASP downed PSD, 42-25, with 21 points from Rich Ward, and Al Sagesse, leading scorer in the Fraternity division picked up 27 more as SPE stunned BKP, 58-42.

The Independents, in independent action, preserved their unbeaten record, drubbing the Phantoms, 61-26, with four men in double figures, a la Celtics style. The Foundreymen picked up a one-point decision over the Griffins, 44-43, and the Buffaloes (4-1), edged the Bismarcks also by one point, 35-34.

In intramural bowling it was

(Continued on page 10)

HILLEL
Chanukah Party
ENTERTAINMENT — FUN — LATKES
Sunday, Dec. 11
6:30
North Dining Commons
Lines 4 & 5
FREE TO ALL!
*potato pancakes

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN

sports

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1966
Page 12 Vol. XCV, No. 32

Redmen Host Vt., Eye Yan-Con Lead

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

Eyeing a chance to take undisputed possession of first place in the Yankee Conference, the UMass basketball team will be after its second victory as an improved Vermont squad invades the Cage tomorrow night at 8.

The frosh, now 1-1, will meet Franklin Pierce College in a 6 o'clock prelim.

Redmen Coach Jack Leaman, pleased with his win over Rhode Island, said of the Vermont game, "I look for an interesting ball game. It's important for us because a win will put us in first place."

The Redmen have always had trouble with Coach Art Loche's Catamounts. Last year, they barely won at Burlington, Holding off a determined UVM rally for a 61-60 victory. In the other game, UMass won by a score of 94-83.

UVM Defense Strong

This year the Cats are improved, and many observers feel that they can make some noise in the conference. Their main strength is on defense with a tough man-to-man alignment. They do not run much and generally play slow, conservative ball. Leaman describes Vermont as a "pretty good shooting ball club." However, they appear to lack height and rebounding.

The Vermont pivot man has the appropriate name of Russ Boardman, a strong 6'5 center. Boardman, a senior, is the Cats' top rebounder and a fair-scorer.

One of the forwards is 6'4 junior Aldon Hale. He is described as a good rebounder and has a good right-handed jump shot from 10 feet.

Completing the front line is one of Vermont's l ading scorers, Bill Librera, a quick 6'3 junior.

In the backcourt, UVM is led by former high school All-American Dave LaPointe, the son of the Vermont baseball coach. A 6'3 sophomore, he is expected to make quite a difference on the Vermont club.

The other guard is Captain Bruce Hanna. He performs the ball-handling chores.

Leaman was still savoring his surprising win over Rhody. "I thought we played a steady game until the last two minutes," he said. He attributed the Redmen's late decline to cockiness. The Redmen, who remembered last year's 27- and 24-point losses to the Rams, suddenly found themselves way ahead of URI.

Leaman indicated that he will use the same starting line-up against Vermont. Joe DiSarcina, however, should see plenty of action after his standout performance last Tuesday.

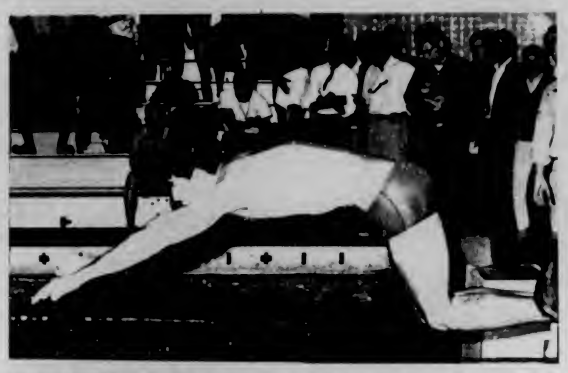
Footrick Pinning '67 Track Hopes On Sophomores

by AL PEAKES
Sports Staff

The homeless wonders, better known as the UMass indoor track team, are already in training for an arduous season that begins at the Boston Garden on January 14, with the Knights of Columbus meet.

Coach William Footrick's 42 man squad will be out to defend their Yankee Conference Indoor Championship, which UMass won last year at Storrs. Footrick, while quite optimistic about the forthcoming encounters, believes that Connecticut and Maine will be the chief tests for the Redmen this season.

A strong band of sophomores are expected to take up the slack left by departing senior superstar John Medeiros. Pacing this band of speedsters will be Paul Hoss, John Ariansen, Bob Hasselbaum and Diego Gonzales.



When emphasizing his strong points, Coach Footrick places his dash men, hurdlers and distance runners in the forefront. Steve Burrell, the defending Yan Con champion, and Art Larvey are tops among the dashmen, while Jon Hall and John Ariansen are expected to be the tape breaking hurdlers. Captain Terry Carpenter, Paul Hoss and Steve St. Clair can perform equally well in the mile and two-mile distances.

While several of the more prominent Eastern meets stress relay squads, the Redmen hope to hold their own with John Anderson, Greg Bowman, Bill Thoms and Steve Burrell forming their top unit.

A new freshmen coach has been added this year in the person of Ken O'Brien. O'Brien, a UMass alumnus, won the Yankee Conference championship in the half-mile three years ago.

The Sun Also Sets

Tempus fugit. Roger Maris, who in 1961 was homerun king of all time, was traded yesterday by the New York Yankees to the St. Louis Cardinals for one Charles Smith. M and M is no more.

There was action aplenty Wednesday at Boyden Pool as 400 onlookers saw the Amherst mermen sink UMass, 57-38. Above; Bob Asquith of UMass arches for start of 50-yard freestyle event. At left, Dick Lennon, captain of the Redmen contingent, sets a new UMass record with a time of 2:28 in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Brooks, Giarla Selected to All-N.E. Squad

Two University of Massachusetts players were named recently to the Associated Press 1966 All-New England football team and three others captured positions on the second team.

The Redmen, who enjoyed a fine 6-3 season, are represented by linebacker Rod Brooks, team captain, and back Dave Giarla on the first defensive team.

Bill Conner, a season-long standout for UMass, nailed down an offensive tackle position on the AP second team, while fellow senior Dick Qualey, injured for part of the year, was awarded a defensive tackle spot.

Rounding out the Redmen selectees was soph Randy Robinson, who was named to the second defensive team as an end.

Lennon Cuts Record, But . . .

Mermen Dunked by Amherst, 57-38

by HARVEY ELMAN, Sports Staff

Despite a new school record set by UMass Captain Dick Lennon, the Amherst College swimming team downed UMass, 57-38, Wednesday night at Boyden Pool before 400 spirited fans.

Lennon eclipsed his own school mark of 2:29.7 by 1.7 seconds in the 200-yard breaststroke event. Ironically, the old mark was set last year against the same opponent, Pete Schlieman, at the Amherst pool. Both swimmers are close friends and have been competing against each other for eight years. In the last two meets between the two, Schlieman has been nosed out by Lennon's record-breaking performances.

The only other UMass winner was Dave Larsen in the diving competition. Senior Steve Levy came back from a disappointing performance at Tufts last Saturday to cop second place in the 200-yard butterfly event. Amherst's Pete Stoeckle took the 50 and 500-yard freestyle events to pace the winners.

Lennon Pleased

Lennon was pleased with the team's overall showing against the strong Jeff team. "Everyone showed improvement since the Tufts meet and came through with their best individual times," said Lennon. He also praised the coaching, noting that Scott Woodburn, assistant coach, has helped greatly

"We have good spirit and effort. The team is working hard, seven days a week for two hours daily, and I'm proud to be the captain of this t am," stated Lennon, who, with Coach Joe Rogers, is looking to improve last year's 5-6 mark.

Senior medley swimmer Ted Severn summed up the squad's general feeling by stating that "this Amherst meet was a good one to get under our belts."

Frosh Win

Led by captain Steve Klubock, the UMass frosh swim team drowned Dean Jr. College, 57-38, Wednesday afternoon at the Boyden Pool.

Klubock broke the 100-yard butterfly record with a 59.4 clocking. He also won the 50 and 400-yard freestyle events. Mark Miller took the 100 and 200-yard freestyle events as the Little Redmen grabbed seven of 11 events.

The varsity and freshman teams now own 1-1 records and will travel to Wesleyan next Thursday.

Winter of Woe Looms For Punchless Matmen

by ROGER KIPP, Sports Staff

Inexperience pervades the UMass wrestling scene this year. With only one regular holdover from last year's outfit and one or two promising newcomers from last year's freshmen team, things look bleak this winter.

Coach Homer Barr, in his first season at UMass, predicts that this season will be one of the longest in his life, and a dreary one for UMass wrestling fans, who were delighted with last year's team and such stars as Dave Kelly and Jesse Brogan. Barr's fears were substantiated Wednesday night as the varsity dropped their first match of the season to Coast Guard, 41-0, which is just about as bad as it can get.

For any who are not acquainted with wrestling on the college level, there are nine matches in weight classes ranging from 123 lbs. to unlimited. Points scored for the team are five for a pin, three for a decision, and two for a draw. In a meet of nine matches, the most that can be scored by a team is 45 and Coast Guard got 41.

The next meet is Saturday against Rhode Island. Barr expects to make a better showing down, there. Nevertheless, very strong opponents lie ahead in such teams as M.I.T., Williams, Amherst, and Dartmouth.

The freshmen team, did surprisingly well and according to Coach Barr "showed a lot of poise," in winning their first meet over the Coast Guard freshmen, 24-13.

The freshmen authored three pins and a like number of decisions in amassing their total. Ron Cruys, (130), Bob Livingston (152) and Bob Spousta (177) all pinned their opponents, Spousta's coming at 1:45 of the first period. Brian Urqubart (145), John Atkins (160), and Miles McKenna (137), all picked up decisions.

Williams Pops Late Goal to Top UMass, 5-4

by DAVE HANSON

WILLIAMSTOWN—The Redmen sextet dropped its first game of the season here Tuesday night to Division II power Williams, 5-4, on a goal with only 23 seconds left.

The pucksters oppose cross-town rival Amherst tomorrow afternoon in a 2 o'clock game at Orr Rink. The contest is the first in the battle for the Pioneer Pot, the large silver trophy emblamatic of hockey supremacy in the Pioneer Valley.

Coach Steve Kosakowski is predicting a victory in this game after viewing Amherst's, 6-3, win over UConn Wednesday at Amherst.

UMass struck early against Williams, when sophomore standout Charlie Hanifan hit on an unassisted tally at 3:37 of the first period. Williams bounced back quickly when Bill Olmsted scored only 14 seconds later.

Captain Ed Polchlopek put the Redmen back in the lead at 11:41 when he took a Bill Skowyra pass and slammed it home from the right face-off circle. UMass took the lead into the dressing room and maintained it throughout the second period.

Both teams came out on the ice with fire in their eyes as the third period got underway. Williams struck first when Moore caught goaltender Ed Sanborn out of position while the Redmen were shorthanded. Hanifan put the Redmen ahead, 3-2, with his second unassisted tally of the evening at 2:50 when his high bouncing shot found its way past Williams goalie Bill Stableford.

Williams struck again to even the score 40 seconds later, but sophomore Don Robinson gave UMass the lead for the fourth time at the five-minute mark.

Ten scoreless minutes followed while the Redmen continually pressed at the Williams end.

A malfunctioning clock which held up play for 10 minutes allowed the Ephs to catch their second wind.

Immediately after the difficulty was remedied, Williams tied it up when Greg Bartholemew scored at 15:19. Williams went out in front to stay when John Comstock flipped the puck out from behind the net, off the pads of a defended and into the net with only 23 seconds remaining.

UMass goalie Ed Sanborn was outstanding in the losing effort as he turned aside 33 shots.

Scoring:

First period—UM Hanifan (un) 3:37; WC Olmstead (Moore) 3:53; Polchlopek (Skowyra) 11:41. Penalties: UM 2 (3:08, 11:12); WC 3 (10:28, 12:53, 15:53).

Second period—No scoring. Penalties: UM 3 (3:08, 6:49, 17:45); WC 3 (6:49, 12:44, 14:04).

Third period: WC Moore (Sullivan) 2:03; UM Hanifan (un) 2:50; WC Gordon (Brown, Comstock) 3:30; UM Robinson (Sanborn, J.) 5:00; WC Bartholemew (Moore) 15:19; WC Comstock (un) 19:37. Penalties: UM 3 (1:00, 11:10, 16:49); WC none.

UMass-Boston Founding Day

Need for Urban Universities Presented

by BOB GORMAN, Staff Reporter

Editor's Note: Throughout the week there will be further articles dealing with the significance and the activities of the founding Day Convocation.

The Founding Day activities of UMass-Boston, Saturday at the Prudential Center in Boston left everyone who was there with many new ideas.

Perhaps one of the biggest points brought out was the need for urban universities. The newly inaugurated Chancellor John Ryan first elaborated on urban universities.

The Chancellor said that the urban university must stand with the city and reply to its needs as "keeper, maker, and teacher of knowledge and wisdom be saved in the 20th century," urban community.

He further stated that UMass-Boston comes at a time when it must be a 20th century and an urban university.

To be a 20th century university it must be big, highly diversified, problem-solving (it will work with the city where it is located), it must be a mirror which will reflect the city as it is, and it must do research of the city.

In order to be an urban university, it must be located in or around the city.

Pulitzer Prize winning historian, Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., of N.Y.U., author of A Thousand Days with Kennedy, emphasized the need for urban universities in his key-note address.

Schlesinger suggested that as more people move to the cities, "the city will increasingly become the battleground where the great issues of American society will be fought."

Also, he stated that the old American tradition of having universities and colleges in quiet towns away from the cities came from England when it attempted to keep all municipal policies away from the universities.

Furthermore, Dr. Schlesinger emphasized the need for urban universities to provide a high quality education available to all persons.

At the symposium later in the day, Prof. David Riesman of Harvard University, author of The Lonely Crowd, Faces in the Crowd, and Variety in American Education, spoke on the importance of UMass-Boston.

He stated, "In the past Boston has provided a sort of twist center for collegiate education in the area's institutions, while local students have had to search elsewhere, if only Amherst, for an education."

Riesman further said that UMass-Boston will provide an education for many students who would have been unable to attend college because of their low family income.

Daniel P. Moynihan, Director of the Harvard-M.I.T. Joint Center for Urban Studies, summed up the urban universities job in the same symposium that as the city grows it will bring its problems into the urban university. When the university returns its ideas of how to solve the problem, it must also insist upon the "scholarly standards of self-criticism."

President John W. Lederle of UMass-Amherst and Chairman of the Board of Trustees Frank L. Boyden present the scrolls of the duties of Chancellor of UMass-Boston to Dr. John W. Ryan. (Left to right): Lederle, Boyden and Ryan.

INDEX

Vegas 2
Peace Vigil 2
Phantom 4
Hoopsters 10

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Sparc Speaks Out
Pg. 4

VOL. XCV, NO. 33 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1966

Seniors to Pay $10 Graduation Fee

by JIM FOUDY, Managing Editor

Student Senate President John Greenquist and Senior Class President John Mullin agreed Friday to the $10 graduation fee levied by the Board of Trustees, providing that the University would pick up the expenses for caps and gowns.

This decision means that while $10 will be added to next semester's bill for seniors, the $4 normally paid for caps and gowns will be removed. The total expense to seniors will be $11, an actual increase of $6 since students previously paid $5.

After consultation with University officials, Mullin and Greenquist discovered that the original request for a repeal of the move by the Board of Trustees is almost impossible at this time.

Billing for next semester begins today and will be well underway before the Trustees could have an opportunity to consider a repeal, according to University secretary Robert McCartney.

The question of holding up the $10 fee until the Trustees could consider the motion again was termed nearly impossible by University officials. The tight schedule under which the computer works leaves no time for a supplementary billing at a later date.

The $4 cap and gown fee was removed from the $5 Student Activities Tax normally charged to seniors for graduation. A move of this kind requires action by the senior class exec council and the Student Senate.

Although Mullin and Greenquist acted without consent of their respective organizations, they hope that an explanation of the circumstances and the necessity for an immediate decision will suffice to bring about an immediate ratification of their actions.

President Lederle and Secretary McCartney explained that the Trustees are under no legal responsibility to consult students.

They both felt, however, that the request of the students for a reconsideration would be brought up by the Board. Any repeal of the fee would be applicable only to the class of '68 and after.

Lederle explained that the fee was a result of rising costs of commencement and parallel fees levied by a number of other colleges and universities.

Commencement costs the University almost $17,000 last year with an increase expected this Spring.

While Mullin and Greenquist saw the necessity for a fee, they objected to the University's failure to consult the students.

In a petition to President Lederle last week, they requested that the fee be repealed until a committee of students, faculty and administrators could look into the question and make a recommendation to the Trustees.

Mullin realized the legality of the action of the Trustees, but felt that the students still should have been consulted.

He said: "In an academic institution, where students are being taught how to be responsible citizens, the normal procedure of seeking out the interests and opinions of all parties concerned in an action should prevail."

The tight schedule of the computer and the inability to consult with Trustees before billing left the two students with little opportunity to seek a reconsideration.

Greenquist explained that their action was with the interests of the students in mind and he felt

(Continued on page 2)

480 UNDERGRADS TO TAKE THREE FINALS IN ONE DAY

by JANE ROLAND, Staff Reporter

Fourteen students at UMass will have four finals in one day; over 480 will have three exams in one day this semester.

Therefore, the need for a longer reading period has been researched by Victor Aronow and Robert Wilfong for the University Reform Committee. They have received information from the Scheduling Office on the finals' situation.

Classes end Wednesday, January 11; Reading Day is Thursday, January 12; and the first two days of finals fall on Friday and Saturday the 13th and 14th.

According to Wilfong, discussing Freshman and Sophomore courses, "Such perennial favorites as English 111, 113 and 125; Psychology 101 and 105; History 100, 101 and 150; and Physics 101 and 105 are all scheduled for finals on the first two days."

"The enrollment of some of these courses is well over 1000—up to 2684 in English 111 and 2280 in English 125. Over 1500 students are enrolled in History 100, over 1400 in Psychology 101.

"It is then quite possible for a Freshman to have English 111 and Psych 101 finals on Friday (645 have this conflict) and then History 100 and Physics 101 finals on Saturday."

There are over 360 students taking Psych 101 and Hist 100 this semester. 1054 are taking Hist 100 and English 111.

"Therefore," continued Wilfong, "Many students can have four exams in the first two days. Many more can have three."

Further research is planned to determine the exact number of students with three exams on Friday and Saturday.

Also, there is a total of 70 sections of upper-level courses with exams these two days. The possibility is high of having three exams right after classes are over.

The conclusion come to by this research is that there is a definite need for at least three Reading Days or "Review Periods."

A Review Period would differ from a Reading Day in that classes may be held, but are

(Continued on page 2)

Art Exhibit In Southwest

Every night this week from 8-10 p.m., JFK middle is displaying ceramics, sculptures and paintings by graduate students. From a 600 lb. wooden elephant sitting in Southwest dining commons #5, to a blue female statue, six foot chrome bug, etc., on the 12th floor of JFK you'll find the excitement of an art exhibit in Southwest.

If you are interested in modern art, don't miss the jungle of colored blocks or the three giant road maps of paint. Inscriptions on the sides of bowls and vases reveal ancient secrets on how to ace final exams. Take a study break, come on down, and let your imagination run wild!

Any graduate art student interested in hanging one of his paintings in this exhibit contact Bob Boulanger, 1005 JFK, 546-7737.

Photo by Gerri

DOG DAZE—Is there a vet in the house? Students await medical attention in the waiting room of the Infirmary, but the patient in the center of the picture appears to need the most urgent care of all.

Student Senate

Disapproval Voiced

by PETE WARD

Last Wednesday, the Student Senate forcefully expressed its disapproval of the Administration's unilateral action of levying a tax on all seniors to cover commencement costs.

Ken Hardy, who presented the Senate resolution to rescind the tax, expressed the Senate view that such actions are directly opposed to the Administration's stated policy of open cooperation between the three segments of the University.

The resolution calls for the establishment of a committee to investigate the need for such a tax and to assure such unilateral decisions will not occur in the future. The Class of 1967 sponsored the measure, which was passed unanimously by the Senate.

In another area of Student taxes and fees, President Greenquist announced that the Board of Trustees has accepted the constitution of the new Fine Arts Council which sets up a committee of faculty and students to administer a new Fine Arts Fee. The amount of the fee will be determined through consultations between the Senate, the Council, and the Trustees in the near future.

Coinciding with the current campus concern over security, the Senate passed a motion recommending the establishment of police sub-stations in the Orchard and Southwest complexes. Sen. Larry Marcus, in introducing the measure, noted that at present the University has only two policemen on night duty to protect a population of over 10,000, while it has many more "tagging and towing" during the day.

The senator also expressed concern over the inadequate lighting in many areas of the campus and noted that repeated requests to the administration on this matter have produced few results.

In other actions, the Senate approved funds for the Haymakers Square Dance group and the Education club. Sen. Lew Gerwitz, chairman of Services Committee, introduced a measure recommending that towing of cars on campus be restricted to violators of State regulations. The measure was passed.

The Senate also passed a motion recommending that individual residence halls determine their own Open Door Policies and voted to accept the constitutions of Hamlin House and the American Conservative Students Club.

Throughout the meeting it was evident that the Senate is still having a high rate of absentees as at times there was just barely enough Senators present to form a quorum.

AVOID THE AFTER CHRISTMAS RUSH

The Maroon Keys are sponsoring an express chartered bus from the Port Authority Terminal in New York to the campus on Jan. 2.

This bus will leave the Port Authority Terminal at 5:00 p.m. and proceed non-stop to UMass. The price is $5.75.

Tickets go on sale Wednesday at the Student Union ticket counter.

Dean Field Big Winner At APO's Las Vegas Night

by DONALD EPSTEIN
Staff Reporter

"Easy come easy go" was the saying around the Cage Friday night as UMass students turned amateur gamblers at Alpha Phi Omega's annual Las Vegas Night.

The brothers of APO turned the Cage into Bird Cage Casino as 900 students and faculty members tried their luck at the roulette wheel, black jack, chuck-a-luck, dice, and the wheel of fortune.

For just 50 cents each gambler was given 1500 dollars in Bird Cage money. For some the money went fast, for others with more luck, the money multiplied into thousands of dollars.

Unlucky number 13 proved to be lucky for Dean Field as he was a big winner at the roulette wheel; however, he lost most of his profits at the dice table.

The most popular game was the wheel of chance, run by Lionel Willoughby, Irene Menard, and Betty Hachigian. At times there were almost 40 people trying their luck at that table.

Continuous live music was provided by the Group Therapy band.

The highlight of the evening was the election of a Las Vegas Night queen. Each dormitory, fraternity, and sorority nominated a candidate. A board of impartial APO judges selected 10 semifinalists.

Photo by Furman

Sue Hewitt (Class of 1970) as she is crowned queen of Las Vegas Night.

Last week at the Union, students picked five finalists by voting with money. Each cent was worth one vote. The same procedure was used to elect the queen and her court at the Cage Friday night.

Elected to the Queen's court were Barbara Kopiecki-1970, Sandra Richards - 1969, Judy Goodwin - 1968, and Suzanne Norgress-1968.

Chosen to be Las Vegas Night Queen was Sue Hewitt, an 18 year old freshman English major from Natick, Mass. Sue, who lives in Tower 4, was nominated by George Washington Middle House.

The evening concluded with an auction. The participants were able to bid with their special bird cage money which they had won during the night. A scarf went for $68,000, a seven transistor radio for $150,000, and a phonograph for

(Continued on page 9)

Bach Aria Group

Photo by Williams

A blend of vocal and instrumental Bach ensemble music was presented in last Friday's Bach Aria Group concert. The music, done in quite strict baroque style, was presented with few liberties taken. Good individual musicianship showed through from the start, but the need for an adequate concert hall became more apparent at the Ballroom acoustics proved.

Care for Christmas

"Care for Christmas", a special program on the work of Care, Inc., will highlight this week's Kaleidescope series on WMUA, 91.1 FM.

Richard Calandrella, the assistant director of Care's New England office, will be the guest of Kaleidescope host, Dan Weir, on Tuesday's evening program.

The show will cover all phases of Care's work, but particular emphasis will be placed on a Christmas fund - raising campaign for Care, currently underway on campus.

Kaleidescope is broadcast Monday through Thursday at 9:30 p.m. Features range from lectures on "The Real World of Democracy" with Canadian political scientist C. B. Macpherson, to poetry readings by local poets on "Orchard Hill Repertory."

GRADUATION FEE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

that it was the "best possible under the pressing conditions."

They hope that such a proposed committee could be established to look into the question of graduation fees for future classes.

Peace Vigil

Attendance Up Nearly 100

by ED PARKER, Staff Reporter

The second weekly Peace Vigil initiated by the Mt. Toby Monthly Meeting of Friends, a Quaker group, was held on the Amherst Common from 12-1 p.m. Sunday. At one point, 246 people took part in the silent protest, an increase of almost 100 people over last week.

Robert Williams, one of the initiators, explained that the Vigil was "not meant to be a Quaker effort, but a community effort, one of more than 50 across the nation."

Visibly pleased at the turnout, Williams looked forward to what he described as "a fitting community effort on Christmas." He explained that the weekly Vigils would continue as long as people wish to express their personal sorrow and protest against the killing in Vietnam.

A flyer, which was distributed, urged silence on the part of participants and requested participants to "not answer to any provocation by non - participants." The flyer also requested participants not to bring signs. The initiating group brought four signs announcing the nature of the Vigil and placed one on each corner of the Common.

The participants silently lined up along the perimeter of the Common facing out; twice they marched along the perimeter. At one o'clock participants shook hands with each other and silently departed.

FINALS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

optional at the discretion of the professor. He may hold classes to review the entire course, or hold office hours all day, but it is a day of review, and no new material would be assigned.

According to Aronow, a graduate student in Sociology, it is impossible to ask for more reading days this semester because a certain amount of class hours is necessary each semester.

Research is planned into the question of other schools in the area seemingly having many fewer class hours than the University.

International Student?

A panel discussion on "Why Be An International Student?" will be held Wednesday, December 14th, 6:15 p.m., in the Governor's Lounge. International students will evaluate the advantages and disadvantages of studying as a foreign student.

The event is sponsored by the International Club, and will be preceeded by the coffee hour at 5:30 p.m., in the Governor's Lounge. Public is invited.

Angel Flight

presents

Glamour magazine's

"Best Dressed College Girl"
Contest on the UMass Campus

Nominate your "Best Dressed" candidate today. Applications are now available at RSO.

Closing date — December 19th

SOUTHWEST COLLEGE CHRISTMAS DANCE

featuring

The Dick Wright Orchestra

Dining Commons #7

Friday, December 16

8:12 p.m.

semi-formal

Admission: $3.00 per couple

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Student Shoplifting In Amherst Area

by DAVE FLOREEN
Staff Reporter

Why does a college student shoplift? What happens to him, if anything, when or if he is apprehended? These are the two questions this reporter had to answer by talking to the leading merchants in the Amherst area; plus the Dean of Students at the other three colleges.

According to Augie, owner of perhaps the most popular store in Amherst to college students, Augie's Tobacco shop, a student often will steal because he has no money with him at the time. The theory seems to bear out, for since Augie's has inaugurated his loan policy to college students of five dollars with only the presentation of one's I.D, shoplifting has decreased considerably.

There are other reasons for stealing, such as on a dare or "I did it on the spur of the moment, I don't know why?" However the most common explanation still remains, lack of money when one sees something he desires.

In talking with the Dean of students at Mt. Holyoke and Smith, this reporter discovered that Mount Holyoke and Smith coeds don't shoplift. We don't have any set policy concerning shoplifting cases involving our girls, because to my knowledge, there have been no cases reported to my office in the last few months.

One Amherst merchant discussed the fact that it was utterly useless to prosecute; it often involves more time and money than it's worth. The students would be likely to boycott the establishment, bringing on greater losses than if no prosecution was brought.

One possible suggestion was given by Augie. What about turning over all apprehended shop lifters to the school judiciaries and let them handle the punishment? A student might have more of a guilty feeling if his peers knew that he steals.

How To Drink Coffee And Still Live

by DENISE De LEEUW

The way to get through the day may not be the way to live long. If you drink more than five cups of coffee a day, you may be shortening your life.

Around 600 A.D., an Arabian goatherd noticed that his goats "danced" after eating coffee berries. Soon the berries were used to make beverage. Not until the sixteenth century did the Turkish merchants spread coffee through Europe. Captain John Smith brought coffee to the United States in 1607. After the Boston Tea party, coffee became the "patriotic" drink in America.

Perhaps because Americans do drink so much coffee, doctors have done research on its effects. Caffeine, a white crystalline chemical, is the principal active ingredient in coffee. It stimulates the brain and lessens fatigue. But in excessive amounts, caffeine will cause irregular heartbeats—cardiac arraythmias.

Each cup of coffee has 100-150 milligrams of caffeine, which is an average medical dose. Those who drink more than five cups a day, get an excess of caffeine. They run a greater risk of having coronaries.

Even though scientists have said and shown that the stimulant caffeine is noxious in large quantities, there have been some tests to show that small amounts of caffeine not only won't harm you, but are good for you. At Cornell University tests were done on rats. Those given a daily ration of coffee, equivalent to two cups of humans, lived longer than the rats given none.

A large amount of coffee might be alright once in a while. But for long life and better health, you should not drink more than three to five cups of coffee a day.

Semi-Formal Dance An Effort To Upgrade Entertainment

In an effort to upgrade the level of entertainment on campus, the Middle House of John F. Kennedy Tower will sponsor a semi-formal dance in Southwest Commons No. 7 on Friday night, December 16.

The event is called the Southwest College Christmas Dance, featuring the Dick Wright Orchestra, a full nine piece dance band.

This dance is unique in several ways. It is a rare attempt to provide the University community with a semi-formal dance with music that is not in the vein of straight rock and roll.

The sponsoring dorm feels that there is a demand for such an event on campus, and has decided to provide one. Its success will determine whether or not there will be another one.

The Dick Wright Orchestra, making its first appearance on this campus, consists of nine men playing a total twenty instruments, all of them well. Their music is often similar to that of the Tiajuana Brass, a group that has now become a national favorite. Their versatility, however, allows them to mix in rock and roll and straight jazz as the show progresses.

They have had many featured engagements in the Boston area, including eight months residence at the Inman Social Club, Cambridge. They have been spotlighted at other New England campuses, where the reaction was enthusiastic.

This is an experiment to determine whether it would be feasible to hold more such events in the

(Continued on page 6)

DICK WRIGHT

Photo by Brown

A Time of Need

It's Hero Time

by PETE WARD

While sitting in the Senate Office the other day, as I am often prone to do, I chanced to hear a cry of anguish from a next-door office. It was a horrible and mournful sound that jarred me back to what remains of my senses. Immediately I jumped to my feet, thinking perhaps I might be in time to save some poor soul from a fate worse than Speech I.

Running into the next room, I found the editor of Critique sitting at a desk piled high with assorted loose sheets of paper on top of which sat a stapler. It was apparent that he was faced with a tedious and sorrowful task of Herculean proportions.

"What" I asked, "is the story here?" "I am deserted" he cried, in pain that would arouse the maternal instincts in any of our many UMass coeds. As it turned out, it seems his staff always happened to disappear when tasks such as this one turned up. He had phoned, talked, cajoled, and all to little effect.

It strikes me that this is not a unique situation, for almost every major organization on campus seems to face a chronic shortage of reliable help. I am always seeing ads in the Collegian asking help for Index, Critique, Collegian and the Senate.

I would think that on a campus of over 10,000, there would be plenty of willing students to go around, but obviously I am wrong. Even then, a certain number of people do sign up to take part in many of our distinguished campus organizations.

The problem is more than a lack of volunteers, it is a lack of SERIOUS volunteers. There are plenty of heroes around these days. I'm always running into "idea men" and "theorizers" in the Senate and elsewhere. I've got more pieces of peoples' minds than I know what to do with.

Yet these same people never seem to have the conviction to help turn ideas into realities. You know who I mean. Like the staff members of Critique who can't be bothered stapling. Like the Senators who can't be depended on to distribute Senate notices to their dorms. Like the Collegian writers who always have great ideas, but can't be bothered typing them out in the proper form. Such "Brain Trusters" are really of debateable value.

Now I'll bet there are some people out there in UMie Land who are both thinkers and doers. Well, you're the ones that we need. If you've got some spare time, why not pick out a campus organization and volunteer your brains and hands for service. I'll bet you could walk into the Senate, the Collegian, or the Critique today, and have a job tomorrow.

As for our "Brain Trusters," they can go off into some corner and think for a while about their value to such organizations. As for me, I think I'll go give Critique some help, as soon as I find someone to type up this article for me.

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

I'll trade you my recording studio in California for your office in Washington.

SPACE ALLOCATION COMMITTEE of the STUDENT UNION GOVERNING BOARD

IS NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR

CONSIDERATION OF ROOM SPACE IN THE NEW

CAMPUS CENTER

And in the present Union.

SEND LETTERS OF APPLICATION TO SUG BOARD -- RSO OFFICE

Editorial Section

The Phantom

by STAN LEVCO, Day Editor

At the last two basketball games, the team and the fans have been treated to the historinics of a mysteri-phantom. The phantom has been making a valiant attempt to induce the crowd to cheer for the team.

Unfortunately, in his initial two attempts, the phantom has had only limited success in capturing the imagination of the spectators.

There is some scattered applause when the audience spots the phantom, and a lot of laughing at his rather unique style of running. But in keeping with the UMass tradition, the basketball fans have responded with characteristic apathy.

Photo by Harvey

The student body will have a chance to redeem itself Saturday night against Maine.

Let's help "the spirit" show the spirit that the basketball team deserves.

University Reform Committee

Editor's note: The piece that follows is the first in a series which the University Reform Committee hopes to make a regular feature in the Collegian. The URC intends to present a continuing series of articles and letters setting forth their guiding philosophy and exploring the aspects of the University which they feel deserve examination and re-evaluation. Signed pieces will represent the opinion of the writer himself, while unsigned pieces such as today's will represent general URC policy statements. The Committee will welcome contributions from the administration and faculty, as well as from the student body; and will publish those which it feels make a contribution to the Committee's over-all concern, which is the up-dating and liberalizing of the general undergraduate curriculum. The series is under the editorial coordination of Richard W. Story, and articles or letters in contribution should be addressed to him.

The problem of reading days between the last class day of a semester and the first day of the final exam period has not yet been faced seriously, and no sign has been given that it will be in the forseeable future.

Last year the Student Senate proposed that more than one reading day be fitted into this year's schedule, and the proposal was rejected. This semester we have one reading day, January twelfth. This semester also marks the beginning of the new policy that three final exams in one day do not constiute a conflict. Four hundred and eighty-eight students will be taking three exams in one day this semester, and fourteen will be taking four. This situation does not reflect negligence on the part of the Scheduling Office; on the contrary, it was the best the office could do under the circumstances. Yet we still have only one reading day.

Consider another aspect of the situation: many students will be taking three and four exams the first two days of the exam period. 33 freshman and sophomore courses have final exams scheduled for Friday and Saturday, among them English 111 and 125, History 100 and 150, and Psych 101. Seventy sections of upper level courses from almost every department of the College of Arts and Sciences will also be examined those first two days. And we have only one reading day in which to prepare.

Something can be done about this situation this semester. It is too late to change the formal academic schedule of the University. Extra reading days as such cannot be added to the calendar without disrupting many classes. But an informal arrangement can and must be made. The last three days of classes can be designated as review days, which could be administered in a number of way at the discretion of the professor. Class could be held those days with no new material to be covered; instead, the semester's work could be summer up, important points reiterated by the professor, questions asked, etc. Or the professor could simply be in his office during class hours to answer questions. These are, of course, only suggestions; every professor will decide how best his course course and class can benefit from the extra time. But the time itself must be given. If final exams are to be anything but "cram tonight-regurgitate tomorrow-forget it all tomorrow night," then we must have a little more time to prepare.

The extension of preparation time should not be limited to this semester. One or two reading days before exams is not enough. Many other state universities, such as Michigan, Wisconsin and Texas, have four and five reading days. Surely a greater reading period is possible here, and a necessity if the University takes finals seriously.

Sam Spark Speaks Out

The Late Flick

Nearly every Friday night around 11:15 a unique sociological phenomenon occurs at the Amherst Cinema; it is known affectionately as the "late night flick."

At least an hour before movie time, a throng of rambunctious, red-blooded males begins to gather in line outside the theatre. By 11:00, emotions begin to reach, a fever pitch.

The doors are opened and the impatient mob stampedes into the movie theatre, pushing and shoving everyone in its way. But the rude behavior that goes on outside is nothing compared to the "grossities" that occur inside the theater.

Last Friday, about five minutes before movie time, a member of the feminine sex arrived with her escort. Instead of politely minding their own business, two or three members of the audience began to applaud her entrance. Well, you can imagine how embarrassed the young lady was at the tremendous commotion.

And if that weren't enough, a ruffian in the back row arose and shouted: "Let's have a cheer for the girl!" The whole audience then erupted in a wild chant of "G—I—R—L, G—I—R—L, G—I—R—L" . . . It was disgusting!! The poor girl was so flustered that she hysterically ran out of the theatre, thoroughly insulted by the crude behavior of the college crowd.

Some of the young gentlemen who obviously were not interested in the cultural aspects of the picture began to make a general nuisance of themseves. A few began to cough loudly to make it difficult to listen to the profound dialogue. Others dispayed their ignorance by laughing in the middle of the most poignant scenes.

By the middle of the movie, it was apparent that some of the "men" didn't understand the philosophical significance of the underlying theme that was so subtly and effectively presented. They were bored, so instead of letting everyone else enjoy the movie, they yelled out inanities like: "I do not understand the philosophical significance of this picture," or "so's your old man", and "I do not believe that this movie is worth the $1.25 that I paid for it", and finally the most ignorant of all "This movie is not very good."

* * * *

Needless to say, the whole movie was spoiled, for not only me but also for the others who came to be intellectually stimulated, by the childish misconduct of five or six "bullies."

I am appalled at this situation and I recommend that the Amherst theatre staff institute the following policies to rectify this situation.

1. Require all those who attend to wear sport jackets and ties.
2. Anyone heard using any words stronger than "gosh" and "gee-whillikers" will be ejected from the theatre immediately, and a letter will be sent to his parents.
3. Anyone whispering in a loud voice will be asked to leave the theatre.
4. Anyone who brings in a noisemaking instrument such as a whistle or a horn will be subject to immediate dismissal from school.
5. At the conclusion of the film, a room should be provided for interested students to participate in a discussion of the movie.

Only until these five steps are enacted by the management will the Friday late movie gain the respect it truly deserves.

WEBSTER WEEK-ENING?

To the Editor:

Noah Webster House, once noted for its cultural events and winning floats, has of late been acquiring a reputation of an entirely different nature.

It all started when Webster raffled off a Playboy at one of its dorm dinners last year. Apparently, it took a while for this moral degeneration to take root, but this past week has witnessed an unprecedented barrage of dissent, immorality, and lawlessness in the Orchard dorm.

The first indication of this breakdown was a letter in Monday's Collegian complaining about an absence of fire hoses in the dorm. After two and one half years, someone finally had the courage to speak out. This initial move opened up the floodgates and released a wave of comparable social infractions.

Next came the revelation of the presence of a five foot refrigerator in one of the student's rooms. On the same page was a reprint from Webster's reputedly left-wing publication, The Sage, snidely castigating Dean Hopkins' "open door" policy.

No one knows what will happen next, but it appears that Webster House may possibly be going to pot, and we demand to know who is responsible for this sudden downfall.

Bob Gaudet '68
Al Levine '68
Dick Wimberly '67

THE MASSACHUSETTS collegian

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68
Editorial Chmn.: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports Editor: Mike Gould '67
Feature Editor: Lois Cohen '68
Photography Editor: Eric Wish '68
Advertising Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Circulation Mgr: Bob Godwin '69

MONDAY DAY EDITORS

News: Richard Kline '70
Editorial: Stan Levco '68
Sports: Glenn Briere '69
Photo: Paul Boliver '68

Campus Comment

Peace in the Middle East?

Mr. Rasool's exposition on the historical background leading to the present explosive situation in the Middle East was intended to bring about a better understanding of the complex situation. Not only did it fail to achieve that goal, but in addition Mr. Rasool avoided completely the only issue of real value that should be discussed whenever the Arab-Israeli conflict is presented to the public —the possibilities for a peaceful settlement of the dispute.

Before I turn to a discourse of this all important issue, I would like to set the record straight on a number of points which Mr. Rasool has mentioned.

According to Mr. Rasool "The tragedy is that the indigenous population of Palestine was uprooted from its homeland by force and terrorism by the Zionists who declared Palestine as their national home . . ." The facts show however that the Arab countries bear a very clear responsibility for the creation of this problem. On Nov. 29, 1947 the General Assembly of the U.N. approved a recommendation to partition Palestine into independent Jewish and Arab States linked in an economic union. The Jewish Agency (then the provisional government of the Jewish community in Palestine) and the Jews, albeit critical of some of the resolution's provisions, accepted partition as a compromise, and animated by a desire to reach a peaceful settlement pledged cooperation in carrying the plan into effect. Representatives of the Arab States, however, declared from the very rostrum of the U.N. that they would not abide by the U.N. resolution and threatened to use force against its implementation. The U.N. Secretary General at the time, Mr. Trygve Lie, reported."

From the first week of Dec. 1947, disorder in Palestine had begun to mount. The Arabs repeatedly had asserted that they would resist partition by force. They seemed to be determined to drive that point home by assaults upon the Jewish community in Palestine" (In The Cause of Peace, p. 163). A five Power commission established by the General Assembly to supervise the implementation of the resolution stated in its Report of April 10, 1948: "Armed Arab bands from neighboring Arab States have infiltrated into the territory of Palestine and together with local Arab forces are defeating the purposes of the resolution by acts of violence" (U.N. Doc. A/532, ch. V par. 2).

On May 15, 1948, the day of the termination of the British Mandate and a few hours after the proclamation of Israel's independence the armies of Egypt, Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Iraq with Saudi Arabian contingents crossed its frontiers at several points. The aim of the invasion was defined by then the Secretary General of the Arab League, Azzam Pasha in brutal words: "This will be a war of extermination and a momentous massacre which will be spoken of like the Mongolian massacres and the Crusades" (BBC, May 15, 1948). The U.N. Secretary General averred: "The invasion of Palestine by the Arab States was the first armed aggression which the world had seen since the end of the war." (In The Cause of Peace, p. 174).

* * *

The Arab war against Israel failed to destroy the Jewish State, but it succeeded in nullifying certain clauses of the Partition Resolution including those dealing with the establishment of the independent Arab State and the economic union, and certain of those pertaining to boundaries. The other direct upshot of the Arab invasion was the Arab refugee problem. This was created by the Arab States plunging the country into anarchy followed by full scale war and next by urging the Arab inhabitants to withdraw to the neighboring countries.

The objectives of their Arab leaders in urging this were to clear wide areas for the operations of the invading armies; to demonstrate to the world that no Arab would agree to live under an Israeli government; and to make mistreatment of Jews easier without fear of reprisals against a local Arab population. Thus the responsibility for the creation and existence of the refugee problem falls directly on the shoulders of the Arab countries which have initiated the hostile activities.

Mr. Rasool also contends that Arab countries have never attacked the territory of Israel. He presents the various terrorist activities of Arab infiltrators as being the actions of individual Palestinian refugees. But these infiltrators, whether they be Egyptians fadauins or Syrian El-Fatah members, have always been trained and supplied with arms and explosives by their respective governments. The main reason why the Security Council's record shows only condemnations of Israel, is that the Soviet Union for reasons of its own vetoes any resolution that even "smells" of blaming the Arabs for hostile acts against Israel; a recent example being the Israeli complaint against Syria of late October 1966. In short, the question "who is the aggressor in the Middle East?" may have a completely different answer than the one suggested by Mr. Rasool.

Now, I have said at the beginning that the only important issue that ought to be discussed whenever the Arab—Israeli conflict is brought up is that of—the possibilities for a peaceful settlement of the dispute. It is to this issue that I want to turn next.

The Government of Israel has always stated "that there is no inherent collision between the legitimate interests of the Arab States and Israel. Given Arab readiness to negotiate all problems can be solved at the conference table" (Facts About Israel 1963, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Jerusalem, Israel, p. 21). For various reasons the Arab answer to such suggestions has always been a negative one. They have put as a precondition the settlement of the refugee problem. The Arab States who in 1948 refused to abide by the U.N. Partition Resolution had all of a sudden accepted another U.N. resolution which stated that those refugees who wish to return to their land and home and agree to live in peace with their neighbors should be allowed to do so." Doesn't it look as if the Arab States find the U.N. useful only when its decisions are in their favor?

Bearing in mind the previous argument that the Arab States carry the responsibility for creating the refugee problem, the Israeli Government has for many years said that the solution to the problem is to integrate the refugees in the Arab countries among their own people. This has been the way in which massive post World War II refugee problems of that nature in India and Pakistan, Korea, Germany, Finland and elsewhere have been solved. Reflecting this trend, U.N. resolutions and organs have envisaged the integration of the Arab refugees in the cognate countries of the Middle East, and in 1952 a 200 million dollars fund was authorized for this purpose. Israel has also declared her readiness to make a contribution towards this constructive solution by compensating the refugees for their abandoned land and by sharing with the Arab States the experience which she had acquired in integrating over one million Jewish refugees in the last 18 years.

* * *

To further prove its desire for peace in the Middle East, Israel has offered to the Arab countries a non agression pact, the parties of which would undertake to respect each other's territorial integrity and independence, to refrain from all hostile acts of military, economic and political character and to settle all differences by pacific means. She has also proposed an agreement on regional disarmament with mutual inspection and control.

All this has been of no avail. The Arabs refuse continuously to terminate the existing state of war. Lately they have embarked on a stepped up campaign of guerilla type attacks on Israel, as any follower of world news can tell by himself.

The Middle East and the whole world for that matter stand to gain nothing by a continuation of the present hostilities. On the contrary, they can only lose. If the situation will explode and a major war between Israel and the Arab States will take place, the damage to both sides, no matter who the victor will be, will set the whole region a few years back in its development. However, if peace will be achieved everybody will benefit from it. The Arab nations, for example, could acquire and put to their own uses some of the advanced technological knowledge that is used and developed in Israel. Israel will have large new markets opened to its goods. Regional development projects will become a reality. The list of possible benefits is almost infinite.

* * *

I would be the first one to agree that changes in the situation will not happen overnight. They would involve, among many other things, the education of future generations and changes in public opinion and political realities, both in Israel and in the Arab States. But the first step must be taken in order to initiate the processes that will work towards the establishment of peace in the region. Military action will certainly never achieve this goal. Recently, an American newspaper called for a conference to be arranged between the big Powers and Israel and the Arab countries. This may be an excellent way to start peace negotiations, but if it is to be effective, it has to be done before it is too late.

Another avenue which may lead indirectly to peace is that of promoting understanding among individuals. Many young Israeli and Arab citizens are studying abroad today. For the first time they are given an opportunity to meet each other, talk to each other and to try and understand each other's point of view. These people may eventually become leaders in their own political or intellectual communities, and hence may be able to exert some influence on the direction which their nation will follow.

If we as human beings and intelligent people are unable to reach a level of mutual respect and understanding, and peace among ourselves, what can we expect of states?

Yehoshua Tidhar '67
Wheeler House 202

Birth Control

To the Editor:

I think many important points were omitted in your article concerning birth control.

I fail to see the doctor's reasoning in stating that birth control pills might increase the number of pregnancies. Most persons who engage in premarital sexual intercourse have no desire to bear children. Therefore they will take many precautions to prevent this occurrence. If they have reached this stage in life then they should be able to follow simple directions concerning the use of a pill.

It was stated that premarital sexual intercourse might be detrimental to a future marriage. The aspects concerning the reverse of this statement were not, however, discussed. A strong marriage should be first based on love. However, many married couple swho obviously love each other, find it impossible to live togther because they are not sexually compatable.

The article argues whether premarital sex is right or wrong. Is it wrong to prevent an unwanted child from being born? Is it wrong to prevent an unwed mother from an illegal operation, suicide or a nervous breakdown?

Peter Campbell '69

For information about Living Insurance, see The Man from Equitable. For career opportunities at Equitable, see your Placement Officer, or write: Patrick Scollard, Manpower Development Division.

The EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society of the United States

Home Office: 1285 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019 © Equitable 1966

An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F

NEW MEMBERS FEATURED

First UMass Symphony Concert

JOEL KROSNICK

RONALD STEELE

Cellist Joel Krosnick, newest member of the UMass music department faculty, will be a featured soloist at this season's first concert by the University of Massachusetts Symphony Orchestra Tuesday, Dec. 13, at 8:15 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Conductor Ronald Steele will open the program with the Academic Festival Overture of Brahms. Krosnick, an assistant professor of music, will be heard in the Concerto in D for Cello and Orchestra Opus 101 by Haydn.

The program will also include the Concerto in C for Two Trumpets, Strings and Harpsichord by Vivaldi and Four Dance Episodes from "Rodeo" by Aaron Copland. Soloists for the Vivaldi Concerto will be trumpeters Paul Amundsen and Douglas Purcell, undergraduate music majors.

Krosnick came to the UMass music department this year from Iowa State University, where he had been a member of the Iowa String Quartet. He has given concerts in this country and abroad as a member of the quartet and as a soloist.

The concert is open to the public without charge.

Labor Expert To Address Pre-Law

Professor Harvey L. Friedman, assistant director of the Labor Relations and Research Center and assistant professor of government at the university, will address the Pre-law Association on Tuesday, December 13, at eight o'clock in Worcester A and B of the Student Union. Coffee will be served, and all interested students and faculty are urged to attend.

A graduate of Clark University and Boston University School of Law, Professor Friedman has had extensive experience in hte labor movement and labor law, served with the National Labor Relations Board, the staff of Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, as vice-president of the Massachusetts State Labor Council AFL-CIO and chairman of its committee on education.

Currently, this noted lawyer is a member of the Boston Bar Association, Labor-Management Relations Committee, a director of the Mass. Consumer Association, and a member of the Mass. Council on Social Welfare.

At an organizational meeting on Tuesday, the following officers of the association were elected: Allen Davis, president, Joseph Cefalo, vice-president, Mike Segal, treasurer, Helen Falkson, secretary.

The Pre-law Association is designed to familiarize students interested in law with the processes of admission to law schools, to make them aware of the various occupational opportunities available through law, and to facilitate the placement of seniors in law schools.

Interested students in all classes are urged to register as soon as possible by contacting one of the above officers or Kenneth Suid of the Provost's office.

COLLEGIANS may be

Picked up at

Lobby Counter

-Notices-

PRE-LAW ASSOCIATION
On Dec. 13th, at 8 p.m., in the Student Union, Worcester Rooms A and B. Professor Friedman will speak on Labor Law. All students and faculty are invited. Coffee will be served.

NEWMAN CLUB
On Dec. 12th, at 8:15 p.m., the Inquiry Class will meet in Classroom 2.
On Dec. 14th, at 7:30 p.m., Fr. Bennett's Philosophy of Freedom Class will meet in Classroom 2.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
On Monday, Dec. 12th, at 7:00 p.m., in the Student Union Council Chambers, there will be a very important emergency meeting about attmpts to save STAR TREK from cancellation. Interested non-members are invited.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
At 6:45 on every Tuesday there will be a meeting in the Worcester Room of the Student Union. All are cordially invited.

ALPHA PHI GAMMA
On Wednesday, Dec. 14th, at 7 p.m., there will be a meeting in the Essex Room of the Student Union. All members are urged to come.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA
On Monday, Dec. 12th, at 7:00 p.m., pledge elections will be held in Memorial Hall. All brothers are asked to be present to choose pledges to be your brothers next semester.

UNIVERSITY ECONOMICS ASSOCIATION
Mr. Harold Lent of the Central Intelligence Agency will speak to the Association on Tuesday, Dec. 13th, at 7:30 p.m., in Hasbrouck 109. His topic will be "Career Opportunities in Economic Intelligence in the C.I.A."

OUTING CLUB
There will be an important general meeting on Monday, Dec. 12th, at 6:30 p.m., in Middlesex Room. All members are urged to attend.

YAHOO
On Tuesday, Dec. 13th, at 7:00 p.m., there will be a manditory staff meeting in Franklin Room in the Student Union. All staff and anyone who wishes to join must attend! If cannot attend contact one of the Editors!

STOCKBRIDGE SENATE
On Dec. 13th, at 7:00 p.m., there will be a meeting in the Student Union Council Chambers.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB
On Monday, December 12th, at 8:30 p.m., in the Council Chambers of the Student Union, the Sociology Club is showing the film "Manhattan Battleground" to all interested persons.

EDUCATION CLUB
On Wednesday, December 14th, at 7:45 p.m., in the School of Ed. Aud., the Education Club is presenting a panel discussion on "Religion in the Schools."

Refreshments will be served, and all are welcome.

ENGAGEMENTS
Ellayne Elias, class of '68, 405 Mary Lyon, to Charles Sapienza, Lawrence, Mass.

Leslie Britton, class of '68, Calvin Coolidge Lower, to Richard Kramer, class of '64, Franklin Institute.

LOST
Brown leather pocketbook. Southwest Dining Commons #5. Please return personal items. Prescription sunglasses, license, I.D., etc., useless to anyone else. Turn into Lost and Found, Student Union or Nancy, 711 J.Q. Adams. No questions asked.

Would the person who took a beige London Fog raincoat from Munsun Annex, Thursday afternoon, please put it back with contents of pocket.

Grey kitten, white paws—Friday afternoon on campus. Reward. Call 256-6333.

SEMI-FORMAL DANCE . . .
(Continued from page 3)
comparatively elegant surroundings of the new commons. If successful, it might signal a new trend in University policy concerning the use of facilities.

Tickets for the dance are now on sale at the Student Union Ticket Office and at both Southwest Dining Commons. The admission charge is $3.00 per couple, which will provide four hours of entertainment, plus refreshments.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Waitresses for Cocktail Lounge
Waiters for Cocktail Lounge and Dining room
Call 323-9301 after 7:00 p.m.

WANTED

Combo needed for Dinner Dance, Feb. 11, 1967. Call HO 7-7699.

Furnished apartment for 4 seniors. Call AL 3-9121. Ask for Cage, Blur, Tub, or Zeke.

Two riders wanted to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., morning or afternoon of Dec. 21. Share driving and expenses. Call 253-2218.

Five men moving off campus in Jan. If you are vacating an apartment, let us know. Will pay for info. 266 Hills South.

Seniors, grads, others 21 or over to have a blast at Brook Senior House this Friday night, with Go-Go Girls, Band and Mountain-Dew!

Female roommate wanted: To share expenses with 2 co-eds in 5 room house. 5 miles from campus. Transportation no problem. Rent low. Fully furnished. Call 256-6144.

Two or three female roommates wanted to share apartment next semester in Boston. Would like a graduating senior or an undergrad. taking semester off. Call 546-6863.

Grad student or upperclassman to share quiet apartment spring semester. Write Bruce Dobratz, 72 Triangle Street, Amherst. Within walking distance to campus.

For Rent

Room for rent. Central Amherst location. Quiet study atmosphere. Call AL-3-5024 after 3:00 p.m.

LOST

Pearl ring with 3 diamonds, set in white gold. Left on 3rd floor of Public Health Dec. 5. Please contact Beta, 1806 Coolidge, 6-8196 Reward.

FOR SALE

Ducati motorcycle. 250 cc — Monya, 1966 model. Call William Sheldon — 545-1320 or 549-0144.

1 pr. Innsbrook skis 6'3". Lamanated bottoms, Dover binders. Excellent condition. Call 253-9693 before noon.

Ski equipment BLITZ WOOD SKIIS—190 cm., good condition. Binding-Dovre, excellent condition. Boots-Perker, excellent condition, size 6½.
Contact Etel Tumma, Kappa Kappa Gamma, 545-0320 or 545-0321. (between 5-7)

OPPORTUNITIES

The presidents of Austria, Denmark, Norway and Iceland urge the use of the international language Esperanto. Learn it now. Telephone 253-7647 between 7 and 10 p.m. for information.

AUTOMOBILES

1959 Chevy Impala convertible V-8, 280 cu. in., automatic, power steering. Contact: John Hardy, 201 Wheeler.

1961 Citroen, I D — 19. This French automobile rides well; needs some body and mechanical work. Best offer. Write E. Willensky. P.O. Box 132. So. Hadley, Mass.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE COLLEGIAN

Studd
FOR MEN
After Shave Lotion $3.75
Cologne for Men $5.00
Deluxe Gift Set $8.75

He: Hortense . . . they're playing our song!

She: Yes, Edgar, it brings back those wonderful days when we first met in the lobby of the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel . . . seven years ago.

He: Seven wonderful years . . . and every college vacation since then we've been coming back to New York and the Sheraton-Atlantic. For Thanksgiving, Christmas, Mid-years, Spring vacations . . .

She: And the Sheraton-Atlantic has such convenience to theatres, museums, libraries, Lincoln Center, Fifth Avenue shops, and with such swinging restaurants right in the Hotel and dancing nightly and such low prices . . . no wonder we students always make out best at the Sheraton-Atlantic.

He: You were always such a romantic, darling.

STUDENT RATES:*

Single ..... $8.00 per person
Twin ..... 6.00 per person
Triple ..... 4.50 per person
Quad ..... 4.00 per person

Faculty rates are low too:
Single . . . $8 • Twin . . . $12
For reservations contact your Sheraton Student Representative or in Boston dial (617) HU 2-2004 for immediate confirmation of student rates.

*Student rates do not apply March 17-18, 1967.

SHERATON-ATLANTIC HOTEL Broadway and 34th St., N.Y., N.Y. 10001 (212) PE 6-5700
Ralph Hitz Jr., V. P. & Gen. Mgr.

R. S. O. Helps Students to Help Themselves

This Office Makes It Possible for Student Organizations to Exist

by JUDY KUHN, Feature Staff

Three hundred and eighty UMass organizations are under the jurisdiction of one office on campus. That same office handled over a million dollars last year and without it there wouldn't be any Winter Carnival, or Homecoming or Harry Belafonte or Peter, Paul and Mary. The R.S.O. office.

Its location (second floor, Student Union) and the significance of its initials (Recognized Student Organizations) are well-known but its exact functions remain nebulous to most students who have had little contact with it.

R.S.O. is actually only one office of three that comprise what is known as the Student Activities Office. The other two involved are the Calendar and the Program offices. The entire office was founded in 1948 under a directive of President Van Meter who appointed a student activities committee.

Today the three offices function separately yet are very much involved with each other. The Program Office handles all the events that take place on campus. For example for an event such as Winter Carnival, this year under the direction of Mrs. Lois Frey, planning of entertainment bookings, dances and other events of the weekend beings months in advance.

Photo by Boliver

The Student Union Program Office, one of the three divisions of R.S.O., handles all campus events—such as Winter Carnival, weekend dances, and entertainment bookings.

The Calendar Office schedules all University events. If an organization wants to show a movie or hold a dance it checks not only with R.S.O. which approves the function, but also with the Calendar Office which tells the organization what buildings are available for use on a particular date.

The R.S.O. office itself is concerned with approving organizational activities and with the finances that go along with these activities.

R.S.O. does not tell an organization what it can or cannot do with its money after it is allotted by the Student Senate. It prefers to allow the students to handle their own business.

According to Mr. Gerald Scanlon, R.S.O. Business Manager and Student Activities Co-ordinator, "Our main job is advisory." R.S.O. wants to give students the responsibility of handling their money themselves.

The office and its personnel are always available for advice and for handling research, negotiations with agencies, and contracts for the organizations that request such aid.

Photo by Boliver

Miss Sheila McRevy is part of the office under whose jurisdiction come 380 UMass organizations—R.S.O.

Feature

Lois Cohen, Feature Editor

UMass Janitors

'The Responsibility of Maintenance'

by LORRAINE BALCH
Feature Staff

To the casual observer it was the skyline of a pulsating 'city'. To the student with his suitcase full of dreams, it was a gaudy carnival. To the janitor it is a yawning carcass with bleached concrete and steel ribs. It is a titan with spectral eyes of glass. It is a depersonalized matrix of mops, brooms, and dust rags.

The word "janitor" has its derivation in the Roman Janus, the god of the gates. The two-faced divinity could see in both directions. Like this Olympian, the janitor must assume the responsibility to efficiently maintain a mammoth, peopled network.

Six days a week the janitor meets the challenge of the classroom. While thousands affiliated with campus life are returning to the peaceful confines of hearth and home, the janitor is just beginning his "day". Armed with the proper fumigation paraphernalia, this ambitious worker prepares to vanquish the Gargantuan world of gossamer cobwebs, dust, and dirt. With his cauldron of "eye of newt and toe of frog," he tackles the creeping unknown.

The janitor charged with the dormitory complex gives a three-dimensional perspective to university life. He is a part-time meteorologist who determines whether the temperature meets "cream of wheat" specifications.

He is the dauntless Hercules who tests his valor with scrubbing a sink dotted with globs of greasy macaroni and frothy soap bubbles or removing a dusty rat from an overflowing trash barrel.

The janitor can easily be recognized by the smile that is reflected in his crinkly eyes. He can be seen in a number of buildings taking the controls of a '67 delux vacuum cleaner. He takes enormous pride in his labors only to have them destroyed by mud-crusted shoes, dull beads of Coke, monogramed furnitur rotten leaf skeletons. Yet, desp countless setbacks, the jani never replaces his smile with thing inferior.

Teaching machines have come a reality. Perhaps, some will invent a "janitor machi Who will do the smiling th

Photo by Soffer

Photo by Soffer

This figure is a familiar one — he's the janitor who appears periodically above the entrance to the Student Union to dust, clean windows, water plants, (and feed the bear?).

Fog

Photo by Kornfield

Photo by Williams

Photo by Kornfield

College Basketball

A.I.C. 113, W.P.I. 85
Boston College 87, UConn 69
Yale 90, Holy Cross 73
Rhode Island 115, Maine 83
Brown 86, Boston U. 70
Cornell 59, Army 52
Providence 72, St. Francis 62
Northeastern 98, New Hampshire 74
Bowdoin 71, Amherst 67
Harvard 91, Springfield 81
West Virginia 90, Illinois 88
Michigan 71, Davidson 68
Texas 76, Oklahoma State 70
Vanderbilt 88, Wake Forest 82
Michigan St. 103, Wichita 68
Duquesne 72, Pittsburgh 65
St. Joseph's 83, St. Francis (Pa.) 71
South Carolina 65, Maryland 63
Kentucky 118, Northwestern 116
St. Louis 73, Missouri 71
Southern Cal. 82, DePaul 79
Temple 74, Canisius 72
Villanova 80, Marquette 78
Purdue 99, Butler 98
Bowling Green 81, Wisconsin 69
West. Kentucky 123, Tampa 57
Ohio State 73, Wash. St. 63
Fordham 79, Seton Hall 77
Cincinnati 45, Miami (O) 44
Rutgers 118, Colgate 75
U.C.L.A. 107, Duke 90
Georgetown 91, Catholic 78

Frosh Pucksters Bow to Jeffs, 2-1

by TOM CONUEL

The UMass frosh hockey team succumbed to Amherst Saturday afternoon at Orr Rink by a narrow 2-1 margin. Despite the loss the freshmen showed promise of better things to come.

Neither team was able to score in the first period. With 8:24 remaining in the second period Amherst drew first blood. UMass tried vainly to fight back and even the score, but the second period ended with the Little Redmen on the short end of a 1-0 score.

The third period provided plenty of excitement for UMass hockey fans. Billy Fallon, a former high school All-American from Springfield who had narrowly missed scoring on several previous occasions, finally whistled in a shot with 7:05 remaining in the game. Bob Grat picked up an assist on Fallon's shot.

The ensuing seven minutes of play were frantic. On several occasions the Redmen fired at the Amherst net but each shot was blocked.

With just 32 seconds remaining misfortune struck the Redmen. The puck was kicked out to midice where Amherst took possession. After a wild scramble in front of the UMass goal, Climb of Amherst scored the winning tally.

Despite its loss UMass looked good in spots. Particularly impressive for the little Redmen were Billy Fallon, the outstanding center on the team, and Tim Moylan, a solid defenseman.

Fallon is an outstanding skater and a slick stick man. Moylan anchors the defense and seems to excel in taking the puck away from his opponents.

The frosh hockey team's next opponent will be A.I.C. Wednesday night as seven at Orr Rink. Coach Joe Faucette rates A.I.C. as one of the toughest teams on the schedule, but he feels the Little Redmen are ready for their first victory.

Basketball Statistics

	B	F	Pts.	Ave.
Edwards	17	6	40	13.3
Tindall	14	11	39	13.0
Murphy	14	8	36	12.0
Stewart	12	3	27	9.0
Lisack	7	7	21	7.0
Gemei	6	6	18	6.0
DiSarcina	4	8	16	5.3
Gasperack	3	1	7	2.3
Gayeska	2	0	4	2.0
Rand	1	1	3	1.5
Girotti	1	0	2	1.0
Dreyer	0	0	0	0.0
Meola	0	0	0	0.0
Perkins	0	0	0	0.0

Hockey Statistics

	G	A	T	Pen. min.
Polchlopek	4	2	6	0
Sanborn	3	3	6	2
Skowyra	1	5	6	6
Hartnett	2	2	4	0
Robinson	2	1	3	0
Hanifan	2	1	3	0
Dicicco	1	2	3	6
Buckler	1	2	3	0
Mulcahey	1	0	1	7
Goldberg	0	1	1	0
Ledwick	0	1	1	8
Quimby	0	0	0	8
Graney	0	0	0	8
Karathanasis	0	0	0	2

Hockey vs. A.I.C.
Orr Rink, 7:30
Tomorrow Night

Frosh Gymnasts Roll Over Army, 154-107

The highest team total ever by a UMass frsehman gymnastics team was run up Saturday as the Little Redmen made their debut by overwhelming the Army Plebes, 154.20-107, at Boyden.

UMass frosh coach Julius Gundersheim was understandably elated at the showing of his squad, which he calls "potentially one of the best freshman teams we have ever had here." He was quick to point out, however, that it was an outstanding team effort and that no one man deserves all the credit, despite several great individual performances by UMass.

In the floor exercise, Bill McCauley scored an 8.0 Gundersheim also cited the excellent showing by Frank Dean who tallied 8.3 points in the side horse.

On the trampoline, Jeff Hardin won with a 7.8 and Scott Stover took an 8.55 on the high bar. Steve Carey received a score of 9.05 for his routine on the long horse.

Joe Reed won two events, the parallel bars with an 8.35 and the rings with an 8.3. Gundersheim calls Reed his all-around man and pointed out that he did a good job in four events Saturday.

The frosh gymnasts are now idle until February 8, when they travel to perennial powerhouse Springfield. If Gundersheim's prediction comes true, it augurs well for UMass gymnastics in the future.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

'TIS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY

I know how busy you are—studying, going to class, helping old grads find their dentures after Homecoming—but, hark, the Yuletide is almost upon us and it's time we turned our thoughts to Christmas shopping.

We'll start with the hardest gift problem of all: what to give the man who has everything. Well sir, here are some things I'll bet he doesn't have: 1) A dentist's chair. 2) A Mach number. 3) A street map of Perth, Australia. 4) Fifty pounds of chicken fat. 5) A pack of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades.

"What?" you exclaim, your eyebrows leaping in wild incredulity. "The man who has everything doesn't have Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades? What arrant nonsense!" you scoff, making a coarse gesture.

But I insist. The man who has everything doesn't have Personna because everyone in the dorm is always borrowing them. And small wonder! Wouldn't you be there with an empty razor and a supplicating sidle if you heard somebody had super-blades that were super-sharp and super-durable; that scrape not, neither do they nick; that shave you easily and breezily, quickly and slickly, scratchlessly and matchlessly; that come both in Double-Edge style and Injector style? Of course you would!

So here is our first gift suggestion. If you know a man who shaves with Personna, give him a safe.

Next let us take up the thorny problem of buying gifts when you have no money. Well sir, there are many wonderful gifts which cost hardly anything. A bottle of good clear water, for example, is always welcome. A nice smooth rock makes a charming paperweight. In fact, one Christmas back in my own college days, these are exactly the gifts I gave a beauteous coed named Norma Glebe. I took a rock, a bottle of water, a bit of ribbon, and attached a card with this tender sentiment:

Here's some water
And here's a rock.
I love you, daughter,
Around the clock.

Norma was so moved, she seized the rock, smashed the bottle, and plunged the jagged edge into my sternum.

Here now is a lovely gift for an American History major—a bronze statuette of Millard Fillmore with a clock in the stomach. (Mr. Fillmore, incidentally, was the only American president with a clock in his stomach. James K. Polk had a stem-winder in his head and William Henry Harrison chimed the quarter-hour, but only Mr. Fillmore of all our chief executives had a clock in his stomach. Franklin Pierce had a sweep second hand and Zachary Taylor had 17 jewels and Martin Van Buren ticked but, I repeat, Mr. Fillmore and Mr. Fillmore alone had a clock in his stomach. Moreover, Mr. Fillmore was the first president with power steering. No wonder they called him "Old Hickory!")

But I digress. Returning to Christmas gifts, here's one that's sure to please—a gift certificate from the American Society of Chiropractors. Accompanying each certificate is this fetching little poem:

Merry Christmas, Happy New Year,
Joyous sacro-iliac!
May your spine forever shine,
Blessings on your aching back!

May your lumbar ne'er grow number,
May your backbone ne'er dislodge,
May your caudal never dawdle,
Joyeux Noel! Heureux massage!

* * *

© 1966, Max Shulman

And greetings of the season from the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, Double-Edge or Injector, and from Personna's partner in shaving luxury, Burma-Shave, regular or menthol.

AMHERST Cinema
NOW ENDS TUES.
at 6:50-9:00
"THE POPPY IS ALSO A FLOWER"
All Star Cast

Starts Wednesday
WARREN BEATTY
SUSANNAH YORK
KALEIDOSCOPE

FACTORY OUTLET
25 Market Street, Northampton
Sweaters for the Entire Family
MEN'S PULLOVERS $6 to $11 values to $18
Turtlenecks & Cardigans
LADIES CARDIGANS $4.95 values to $7.95
LADIES PULLOVERS $3.95 values to $6.95
CASHMERES $11.95-$17.50 values to $30
Mon. thru Fri. — 10 a.m.-9 p.m.
Saturday — 10 a.m.-5 p.m. until Xmas
Market St. is across from Jack August

Europe in '67?
- SAVE $300 to $1000 and more!
- TRAVEL IN A NEW CAR $1. per day
- FREE 62 PAGE GUIDE on Buying, Leasing or Renting a Car in Europe
- SEND this coupon: Michael Skaling* 147 Woodside Ave., Amherst, Mass., Tel. 253-7670

Name: Phone:
Address:
*Campus Rep. for Car-Tours in Europe, 555 Fifth Ave., N.Y., N.Y.

ART CLUB MEETING
3 FILMS
Dec. 14 - 7:30 p.m.
Bowditch

THE ROUND HEARTH STOWE VT FUN 'ROUND THE Round Hearth
STOWE'S GREAT SKI DORM
$7.75 per day
(with breakfast and dinner)
$49.00 per week
Special Ski Weeks
5 day plan—$70
7 day plan—$94
Plans begin on Sunday nights and include lodging—lifts—lessons.
Starting dates: Jan. 1, 8, 15, 22, 29; Feb. 5, 12, 26; Mar. 5, 12, 26; April 2, 9.
Write for folder or phone Stowe, Vt. 802-253-7223

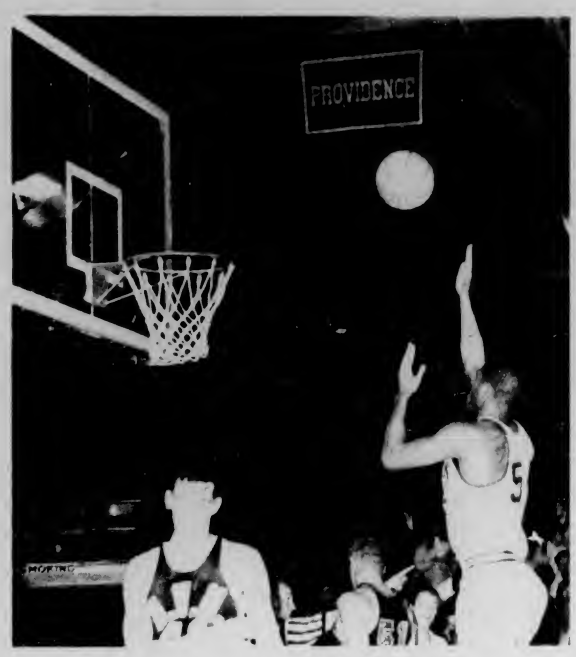

Photo by Seiniger

ON ITS WAY—Tim Edwards sails a shot off his fingertips in the second half of the UVM game. Edwards scored 18.

Improved Gymnasts Fall To Cadets By Just Two

by TIM MURPHY, Sports Staff

Satisfaction derives from a job well done. More than 400 spectators at Boyden auxiliary gymnasium Saturday were satisfied. Gymnastics coach Erik Kjeldsen was satisfied. The performers, they felt they could have done more.

The atmosphere was one of victorious vagary, not at all reflective of the loss accrued during the afternoon's activity.

The fact of the matter was that the UMass gymnastics team absorbed its first loss of the year in its initial Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League encounter at the hands of Army, 164.65-162.75.

It was, however, a definite improvement upon the 169-154 loss of a year ago. According to Kjeldsen, the performance was "one of th ebest in my five years at UMass."

The match was so close that "a single fault by Army at any time during the match would have been enough to give us the win," Kjeldsen said.

With the score 140-138, UMass headed to the rings, the final event, with a two point lead. Dave Woods, Dave March and Dick DelGallo combined to score 22.85 on the crucial event, but Army, producing its top score of the afternoon, was awarded 26.50, sufficient to provide the margin of victory.

Earlier, UMass had claimed the lead after two events on the side horse performances of Bob Leclair and Fred Babakian. Leclair accumulated a 9.2 with a very difficult and nearly flawless routine and Babakian followed with an 8.55 to boost the Redmen contortionists to a 49-46 advantage.

Lady Luck, smug proprietress of a front row seat during the entire activity, then saw fit to award the Cadets a 12-point victory on the trampoline.

The Redmen, however, remained unfettered and on the horizontal bar regained some of the lost ground. Captain Al Carver, a victim of the haughty mistress on the trampoline, put together an 8.15 routine on the bars to lead UMass to an event total of 23.75. Steve Brown followed with an 8.0, while March turned in a 7.6.

After impressive performances by Clarence Fraser, (8.75) Carver (9.15) and Leclair (8.95) on the long horse vault, UMass climbed to within 1.4 points of Army at the outset of the parallel bar competition.

March this time was joined by Jack Bradbury and Brown, UMass' all around man. In an excellent performance, Brown compiled an 8.90, March an 8.65 and Bradbury an 8.25 for an event total of 25.80 and a match total of 140.20.

Army was able to negotiate a 22.35 on the event and rested with a match total of 138.15 prior the pivotal rings.

It may be noted that in scoring, four judges grade each exercise. Scorekeepers eliminate the high and low scores compiled by the judges and average the remaining two to obtain the participant's score. Where there is a notable discrepency between the middle two scores the judges may confer.

Also, except in vaulting, the participant is expected to present a routine of eleven parts, connected in a "harmonious pattern and performed in an aesthetic manner." Judges grade on how difficult the routine was (3.4), how it was put together (1.6), and how well it was executed (5.0). A perfect routine, thus, merits a score of 10.0.

Next gymnastics meet is with Penn State at Penn State on January 7. The Redmen will not perform at home again until February 4 when Temple, touted this year as a league power, invades Boyden Gymnasium for a 1:30 performance.

Untouchables Shoot Their Way To--That's Right--148-58 Victory

by TOM CONSUL, Sports Staff

There seems to be a growing rivalry among the intramural basketball teams to see who can score the most points in a single game. The Chadbourne Maroons appeared to have a stranglehold on the honor when they poured in 122 points in a single contest recently. But now even that lofty mark has been shattered.

Astonishing as it may seem, the Untouchables of the independent league scored 148 points in downing the MCC's in Thursday nights action. The MCC's managed a mere 58 points.

Al Garsys tossed in 44 points in leading the Untouchables, but he had a fine supporting cast. Shea had 34 points. Repetta 26, and Yates 22 for the winners. Handel managed 30 points for the unfortunate MCC's.

In other independent action the Zeroes put away the Leftovers, 67-28, with Swanson leading the way with 20 points. The Chem Club continued its winning ways with a 39-34 decision over the Lucky 13's.

Widdiss sparked the Toads over the Independents, 66-30, with 20 points. Harry's buried the Brethren, 46-34, while the Selohossas dumped APO, 48-25.

In dorm action the Elms maintained their hold on first place by trouncing the second place Oaks, 41-33. The Birches also continued to win as they topped the Terrors 43-37.

Dick Klemansky paced the Smashers with 29 points as they whipped the Hemlocks, 61-26. The Spartans crushed the Apples, 54-35, as Edgar was high scorer for the Spartans with 18 points.

The Redwoods showed a balanced attack in cruising over the Academics, 86-23. Five men hit double figures for the Redwoods. The Hi-Lo's felled the Pines, 59-43, with Dave Armstrong and Rick Fredericks each tossing in 18 points for the Hi-Lo's.

Lagoy scored 27 points as the Bulldozers crushed the Cherrys, 59-31, and the Trojans toppled the Monuments 62-30.

The only fraternity action of the night saw AEP whip ATG, 48-39. Although his team lost, ATG's Romano took individual honors by scoring 26.

DEAN FIELD . . .

(Continued on page 9)

$550,000.

Chuck Schultz and Mike Sissenwine headed APO's Las Vegas Night committee. Ten girls from Gamma Sigma Sigma assisted the brothers of Alpha Phi Omega.

There were many winners and losers at the Bird Cage Casino, however the big winner of the night was the Jimmy Fund. Proceeds from the night, including the money used in the election of a queen, will be donated the Jimmy Fund; money needed to help cure children of cancer.

Photo by Seiniger

TIM TAKES ONE OF TEN—Tim Edwards (54) of UMass pulls down one of his ten rebounds against Vermont Saturday night.

Matmen Pin Rhody For Initial Triumph

by ROGER KIPP, Sports Staff

KINGSTON, R. I.—The first victory is often if not always the hardest, but the UMass varsity wrestlers can breath a sigh of relief for the first big one is now history. Saturday, at the University of Rhode Island, they came away the victors in their meet, 20-13. After a disappointing loss at the hands of Coast Guard in their first match, the victory was refreshing.

UMass won six of the nine matches, including one pin and five decisions. Rob Gilbert of the unlimited weight class got the pin for Coach Homer Barr's outfit and it came at a crucial time, as the score was only 15-13 in favor of UMass at the time. Marc Ryerson (130), Gene Poltrineri (137), a Massachusetts state champion in high school, and Wayne Duckworth (145) got early decisions to put UM out in front, 9-3, in the early going. Duckworth's accomplishment was noteworthy because it was the first match of his career, as he had been called upon to sub for another wrestler who was ill.

Art Keown (152), the senior member of the team in experience, came through with a decision, and Chet Rubelczyk, a pleasant surprise to Coach Barr this season, captured three more points with another decision, setting it up for Gilbert's pin which clinching the victory. There was no freshman match scheduled.

The action gets thicker and heavier this Wednesday when the Redmen take on Amherst, a team with a lot more experience and skill than URI. According to Coach Barr, they have "three or four boys who will give us real trouble." But the team will probably be "up" for it as they were for their match with URI.

The freshmen, with one victory to their credit in one start, will tangle with the Amherst freshmen at 6:30 in Amherst, while the meeting of the varsity squads will start at 8:15.

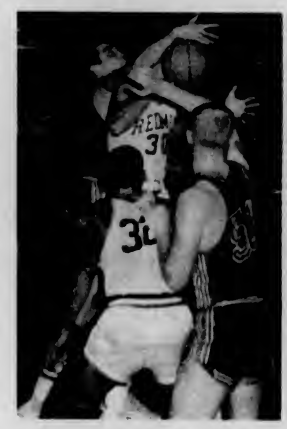

Photo by Seiniger

A HAND ON RAND — Greg Rand (30) finds hiimself the target of a flagrant foul by Vermont's Bill Librera (33).

FRESHMEN!

What don't you know about fraternities?

Come to the discussion given in your dorm by the IFC

Time and date to be announced

Attention
Accounting Association!
Wednesday, Dec. 14
7:00 Business Meeting
Constitution Ratification
7:30 Student-Faculty Night
Colonial Lounge - Student Union

Science Fiction Club
Special Meeting
TONIGHT—7:00 P.M.
S.U. Council Chambers
Very Important

Strong Redmen Defense Stops Vermont, 71-51

by DAVE JARNES, Sports Staff

It has often been said that a strong defensive team is less likely to have an off night than a team that relies soley on its shooting. Against Vermont the Redmen were far from impressive on offense, but their tenacious defense carried them to an easy 71-51 win before another poor crowd of 2200 at the Cage.

Vermont's strategy was to minimize UMass' edge in height and speed by slowing down the pace of the game and applying an aggressive defense. The Catamounts did succeed in bottling up the UMass attack, but their own offense was virtually nonexistant.

After seven minutes the score was 11-3 UMass. While Vermont's alternating 2-3 zone and man-to-man defense kept Massachusetts off balance, Jack Leaman's boys forced the visitors into many errors. Vermont had thirteen turnovers in the first half, making just 7 of 22 shots from the floor and only three for ten at the foul line.

The closest Vermont got was 18-13 after a Bill Librera hoop. The Redmen, led by some fine shooting by the ever-improving Bob Murphy, outscored Vermont 12-4 during the rest of the half to take a 30-17 lead at intermission.

UMass' shooting percentage in the first half was almost as bad as Vermont's (12-35), but some fine hustle off the boards by Timmy Edwards and Billy Tindall enabled the Redmen to get three and four shots at a time. The Cats were badly beaten on the boards, 30-20 in the first half and 59-39 for the game.

With UMass leading 35-24 early in the second half, Captain Frank Stewart hit four jump shots in a row to help balloon the bulge to 20 points (46-26). Vermont never got any closer than 17 points thereafter and Coach Leaman was able to substitute freely.

Although no one was particularly prolific on offense, the individual scoring totals show a true team effort. Four men hit double figures (Stewart-12, Tindall-15, Edwards-13, and Murphy-14). Joe DiSarcina wasn't quite as spectacular as he was against Rhode Island but he set up several key baskets and played well on defense before fouling out.

UMASS	B	F	Pts
Stewart	5	2	12
Tindall	6	3	15
Edwards	6	1	13
Murphy	6	2	14
Meola	0	0	0
Gemei	0	0	0
Perkins	0	0	0
Lisack	1	1	3
Girotti	0	0	0
DiSarcina	1	0	2
Dreyer	0	0	0
Gasperack	2	1	5
Rand	1	1	3
Gayeska	2	0	4
Totals	30	11	71

VERMONT	B	F	Pts
Librera	6	0	12
LaPointe	1	2	4
Boardman	2	2	6
Jacobs	6	4	16
Hanna	0	2	2
Katz	0	1	1
O'Yeary	3	2	8
Hale	0	2	2
Schmidt	0	0	0
Kellogg	0	0	0
Totals	18	15	51

Score at halftime—UMass 30, Vermont 17.

UMass Frosh	B	F	Pts
Gallagher	7	1	15
Harrington	3	3	9
Samuelson	4	3	11
Perry	3	2	8
Ellerbrook	5	5	15
Kostygan	6	2	14
Sweeney	1	0	2
Swartz	2	0	4
Donovan	1	0	2
Niles	2	1	5
Rubin	2	1	5
Totals	36	18	90

Franklin-Pierce	B	F	Pts
Johnson	0	0	0
Drill	3	0	6
McMahon	4	4	12
Brown	4	0	8
Brezinski	2	12	16
Eason	2	2	6
Rubin	2	1	5
Bertolozzi	2	7	11
Henry	0	0	0
Totals	19	26	61

Score at halftime: UMass 50, Franklin-Pierce 30.

Leaman Happy With Showing; Stew Praised

by GLENN BRIERE
Sports Day Editor

"We're satisfied," said UMass coach Jack Leaman after the Redmen's 20-point victory over Vermont which thrust them into first place in the Yankee Conference, a familiar spot for UM athletic teams.

The Redmen did not look exactly overpowering over the Catamounts, Leaman noted. But he also pointed out that they were still complacent over their win against Rhode Island and tended to slack off against UVM.

Leaman had predicted an "interesting game" on Friday and reemphasized this after the game. "I knew it would be tough all along," he said. "I thought we missed too many easy shots early in the game." He mentioned that Vermont Coach Art Loche had prepared the Cats well for Saturday night.

At the same time Leaman was not unhappy, as may well be expected after a 20-point win. He said, "I thought we played a good defensive game." He praised the balanced scoring of the Redmen in which four men hit double figures. He also praised the work of Captain Frank Stewart who played his best game to date.

Only one game now remains before the Redmen hit the tournament trail over the holidays. That game is on Saturday as UMass, Phantom and all return to the Cage to play Maine. After that contest, UMass heads for Boston Garden the week before and Oklahoma City the week after Christmas.

Special student tickets are on sale at the Boyden ticket office for the Boston Garden tournament on December 20 and 21, in which the Redmen will be playing the Jaspers of Manhattan College in the first round. Two regular season UMass opponents, Boston College and Syracuse, will clash in the other game.

Frosh Cagers Win Over Pierce, 90-64

by MIKE CURRAN
Sports Staff

The UMass freshmen got off to a fast start Saturday night to score a convincing 90-64 victory over Franklin Pierce Col. at Curry Hicks Cage.

After only four minutes had elapsed, the score stood 17-3 in favor of UMass and from there on the outcome was never in doubt. Jack Gallagher and Dick Samuelson led the early surge, each hitting double figures in the first half which ended 50-30.

The entire squad saw action in the second half which featured "shoot-em-up" type basketball. The final score of 90-64 wasn't even indicative of the difference between the two ball clubs. It was obvious to all that the frosh were far superior. ....

The Little Redmen controlled the backboards, 61-28. Phil Harrington grabbed ten missed shots to lead in that department. Like the last game, the freshmen shot 49% from the floor and close to 80% from the line.

Ray Ellerbrook and Gallagher each got 15 points to lead the UMass scorers. Joe Kostygan and Samuelson finished with 14 and 11 respectively.

Dick Brezinski, a 5'10" guard from Taunton, led the Ravens with 16 points, 12 of these coming from the line.

The freshmen next travel to Great Barrington tomorrow night to play Cornwall Academy. The prep-schoolers are led by Sam Provo, former Agawam star.

MORE SPORTS

PAGES 8, 9

Two More for Murph

Photo by Seiniger

UMass guard Bob Murphy (24), who scored 14 points in the game, lays one up and in against Vermont at the Cage. Dave Lapointe (25) of the Catamounts tries unsuccessfully to block it.

Pucksters Check Jeffs, 7-2; Soph Line Nets 5

by DAVE HANSON, Sports Staff

The sophomore line of the Redmen sextet scored five goals to help defeat Amherst College, 7-2, at Orr Rink on Saturday afternoon.

Jeff Sanborn started off the scoring at 15:06 of the first period when he took a pass by John Hartnett from behind the net and slammed it home from eight feet out.

Ten minutes later Sanborn picked up a loose puck in front of the net and tucked it between Lord Jeff goalie Bill Blair and the left post. Hartnett finished off the first period scoring when the Amherst goalie fumbled a high rising shot and dropped it into the cage to send UMass out in front, 3-0.

Early in the second period, sophomore defenseman Dave Goldberg brought the puck up from his own blue line, made the shot, and Captain Ed Polchlopek slammed home the rebound. Don Robinson made the score 5 - 0 when he tipped in a slap shot by linemate Hartnett at 9:16.

Amherst got on the scoreboard at 16:04 when Jeff Willius slammed in the third of a series of shots while the Redmen had two men in the penalty box.

The third period saw almost 14 minutes go by before Ed Polchlopek tipped in a shot by John Lewwick from the left point. Jeff Sanborn turned the hat trick at 16:25 when he scored on a breakaway while the Redmen were shorthanded.

Driving for another goal, Amherst finally managed to score with only ten seconds remaining in the game when Brian Potter knocked in a loose puck in front of the net.

UMass netminder Ed Sanborn turned in another fine game as he thwarted twenty shots by the Lord Jeffs.

Photo by Seiniger

Sophomore wing Fran Mulcahey of UMass (No. 8 in white) takes a shot, but Amherst goalie Colin Blair makes the save.

Hockey Tuesday vs. AIC, 7:30

The UM hockey team faces off at 8 p.m. tomorrow night against perennial local power AIC in what promises to be a fierce battle at Amherst's Orr Rink.

AIC is undefeated in its first three games while the Redmen are 2-1. AIC numbers Colgate, Boston State and Merrimac among its conquered. The Merrimac game was played at Amherst last Thursday and saw the Yellow Jackets tmerge on top by a score of 7-6 in an overtime contest which found Merrimac as a stronger team.

The Redmen will be looking for a good performance from the line of Fran Mulchahey, Charlie Hanifan and E. Quimby, all of whom were scoreless in Saturday's game with Amherst. Strong showings by the sophomore line and last year's one-two punch, Ed Polchlopek and Bill Skowyra, combined with continued strong defensive work and another good night for goaltender Ed Sanborn could very well produce a victory for the underdog Redmen.

4-Page Sports Special on Holiday Tourneys Wed. After Xmas

INDEX
Infirmary 2
Festivities 3
Peace Vigil 4
Basketball 10

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

WHO's WHO Pgs 6 & 7

VOL. XCV, NO. 34 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1966

Are UM Fire and Safety Conditions Adequate?

University Fire Safety: "Additional Staff Is Needed"

by ERIC GOLDMAN
Staff Reporter

The University's fire safety staff consists of a grand total of one. He is Mr. Edmund Goetzl, officially, the Fire and Safety Officer of UMass.

"The tremendous growth of the University," said Mr. Goetzl, "is making it more and more difficult for me to perform my duties efficiently. Additional staff is needed if the growing facilities are to be fully protected from fire." He expressed his confidence in the administration, however, saying that it is aware of his desperate need for help, and is doing its best to comply with his requests.

Mr. Goetzl's job entails the surveillance of the more than 2000 fire extinguishers on campus. He inspects the extinguishers in every building, and services them annually. He also serves as coordinator bettween the Amherst Fire Department and the University; in other words he is approached when the town fire department must use UMass fire equipment.

In 1963, Mr. Goetzl became chief fire officer here, and in that year initiated a replacement for the traditional fire drill, or "elementary school fire drill," as he described it. Instead of the evacuation of students from the dormitories, a program of education has been instituted.

"I believe that merely familiarizing the students with the sound of the fire alarm is all that is required of them," commented Goetzl. He added that "a training program for the Heads of Residence, floor counselors, and area supervisors has proved to be most successful." This program teaches the dorm leaders how to use the fire extinguishers, and what to do in the event of a fire. He concluded his views on this matter by stating that the traditional evacuation was "a waste of time." He believes that as adults, the students have responded to his method of education in a most positive manner.

It is Mr. Goetzl's impression that the University buildings are exceedingly adequate, regarding their fire protection facilities. He is content with what the University is doing to supply the buildings with fire prevention needs.

Strides were made in 1963 to prevent fires in Fraternity and Sorority houses; an unwritten code between the houses and Goetzl was agreed upon, whereby it is mandatory that each house has an automatic fire alarm system. Each floor is required to have a fire extinguisher, and a chemical extinguisher was ordered to be placed in the vicinity of every kitchen and boiler room.

As a member of the National Protection Association of the Massachusetts Institute of Fire Department Instructors, and of the New York City Fire Department for 21 years, Mr. Goetzl

(Continued on page 2)

Photo by Kline

Amherst Fire Chief John Doherty (center) responds to false alarm in Southwest complex.

Amherst Fire Chief Dissatisfied with Conditions

by ED PARKER, Staff Reporter

Amherst Fire Chief John Doherty, in response to questions resulting from a Collegian interview, expressed general dissatisfaction with fire safety conditions in the Orchard Hill Complex.

In response to a question regarding a possible deficiency of standpipes and hose in these dorms, Doherty explained that they could legally have been omitted. He emphasized that had these buildings been required to conform to any nationally recognized code or to the Town of Amherst Building Code, adequate standpipe and hose facilities would have been required prior to occupation.

It is the lack of a requirement in the Commonwealth Building Codes, he explained, that allowed the Commonwealth to build these dorms without standpipes.

In regard to the exact fire protection situation on the Hill, Doherty admitted that "the expectations of fire-load, fire-incidence, and fire-spread are relatively low," and "the probabilities of severe life hazard are consequently low."

But the Chief felt these conditions to be inadequate if one realizes that despite the nature of the term "fire-proof," a fire could happen there. Lacking confidence in such terms, Chief Doherty analyzed other aspects of fire protection.

Chief Doherty pointed out that in a letter dated June 9, 1966, sent to the University Fire and Safety Officer, he stated that "the superior construction and adequate means of exiting in no way provide complete fire safety for the student population of these buildings."

He continued by listing "three crucial factors" that would hamper Fire Department operations. These factors are lack of interior standpipes, low hydrant pressure on the Hill, and lack of access to the court area and to the eastern faces of Field and Grayson.

Thus far he has received only verbal assurance that improvements would be made.

Draft Expert to Speak On Alternatives

Steve Hedger, an expert on draft problems at the American Friends Service Committee office in Cambridge, will talk on "Alternatives to Military Service" in the Middlesex Room of the Student Union, Wednesday evening, December 14th, at 8:30.

He will also be in the lobby of the Student Union during the afternoon of that day to answer any questions that students may have concerning the problems that they face.

The draft law is intricate in its details and some aspects of deferment possibilities are not readily apparent. Student deferment classification will be discussed and so will non-military service under the draft, which can be done both as a conscientious objector doing non-combatant service with the armed forces as one who objects to

(Continued on page 2)

ACADEMIC PRESSURES NOT SUICIDE CAUSE

by PAMELA METAXAS, Staff Reporter

The rate of student suicide is 1 per 7,500-10,000 according to Dr. Julian Janowitz, Director of Mental Health at UMass. He said most suicides are due to an overdose of barbituates.

He stated most students commit suicide for the same reasons as other people. They probably have "sustained some great object loss." These people feel "very much alone," he said. There is also the feeling of "being bad and of being angry at oneself." The person feels he is an unworthy person. Suicide, noted Janowitz, is usually "intra-physic not extra-physic."

Academic pressures "never make people commit suicide," he said. Those who are disturbed enough will commit suicide anyway.

On a campus, it doesn't "matter whether there is a mental health service or not" in relation to the number of suicides. The potential suicide is the person "who hasn't made the connection, the untreated person," emphasized Janowitz.

And tall buildings, such as the towers in South West, have no relation to the number of suicides.

Although there are "favorite modes and places of suicide," he said, the suicide rate will not change because of the absence or presence of tall buildings.

The person who commits suicide has "usually told someone before it happens," he added. Suicide gestures are symptoms of emotional disturbance. After a suicide attempt has been made, a student may be asked to leave school if it appears to be serious. It "depends on how much control they appear to have after the episode," he said.

Janowitz stated that potential suicides exhibit "traits of deep depression, withdrawal and poor communication." For friends who wish to help these potential suicides, it is possible, according to the doctor, to appeal to their responsive, sensitive natures.

"The most helpful thing they can do is to show an increased level of concern from one person to the next," he concluded.

Near Tragedy at Southwest; Construction Worker Pinned

by ERIC GOLDMAN
Staff Reporter

On Monday, Dec. 12, a pick-up truck weighing an estimated 12 tons, with an additional load of several tons, accidentally tipped over on its side, pinning a construction worker for approximately 45 minutes. The freak occurrence took place at the construction site in the Southwest Complex. The worker, Norman Barton of Leydon, Mass. was conscious throughout and actually directed the truck-raising procedures himself.

The probable cause of the accident was the wet soil that resulted from the weekend's damp weather. It was suggested, however, that had the road been wider, the accident would not have occurred.

Mr. Barton was fortunate in that he was in a hole, thus preventing the full weight of the truck from killing him.

An ambulance reported less than 10 minutes after the near-tragedy, immediately followed

(Continued on page 2)

Photo by ed sam rizotto

Workers attempt to free carpenter Norman Barton from entrapment under twelve ton truck.

Coed Made 2nd Lieutenant

Colonel Joseph A. Bohnak, Professor of Military Science, presents Miss Ann Louise Burke with the certificate appointing her a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army. Miss Burke, a student at the University, is receiving her education under the auspices of the Army Student Nurse Program and will graduate in June with a BS degree and a commission as a 2nd Lt. in the Army Nurse Corps.

First Snow Dumps Five Inches on UMass

Heavy snow warnings were issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau station, Bradley International Airport, late Tuesday with an expected accumulation of six inches. Snow began falling about 7 p.m.

A spokesman at the Springfield City Yard said that spreaders with salt worked through Tuesday evening and that snow plow crews were on standby.

The weatherman said the snowfall was produced by a storm system that developed off the Carolina coast Tuesday afternoon. This storm moved up the coast during the night and is expected to pass just south of Nantucket Island this morning.

He said the snow will end this morning followed by a partial clearing during the afternoon. Highest temperatures will reach the mid and upper 30s.

A high-pressure system in the lower Mississippi Valley will follow the storm into southern New England tonight and Thursday, the weatherman said. Thursday will be partly cloudy with low temperatures in the 20s.

He said snow or snow mixed with rain may occur on Friday or Saturday. The normal high for this time of year is 37 and the low 20, it was reported.

Approximately five inches fell in the Amherst region.

(Reprinted from Springfield Union)

CONFERENCE

A conference presented by the Men's and Women's Affairs Committee for the proposal of providing information to the members of residence judicial bodies and other students who act in a judicial capacity within residence hall student government will be on Dec. 17 in the Student Union between 12:45 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. The program will be in the S.U. Ballroom. Four speakers will present topics relevant to the student judicial system. Coffee and discussion groups will follow.

NE Editors Sponsor Program

by JOAN FITZGERALD
Feature Staff

Don't be surprised if you happen to see newspaper reporters stalking the campus this weekend. It's not a story they're seeking but the means of writing one.

UMass is host this year to a Fellowship Program sponsored by the New England Society of Newspaper Editors. The program is under the direction of Dr. Arthur Musgrave of the Journalistic Studies department at UMass.

Newspapers from all over New England are enrolling reporters in the program which aims to advance journalism as a profession and as an area of scholarship, and to improve journalistic techniques.

The program offers a certificate to those who complete two eight-month courses which will provide a background in the problems of writing, freedom of the press and communication research.

Supplementary to the reading are 20 seminars conducted at the University during five weekends, and a three week course in June. Six credits are to be earned from two eight-month reading course and these credits are applicable toward a Master of Arts degree.

"Doctor, I've been wondering..."

by The Infirmary Doctors

Here are the questions that we have received at the University Health Services during the past week:

Q. Does the Infirmary offer dental service to students?

A. The health service can diagnose and treat conditions of the mouth and gums. However, if dental care is needed, you will be referred to one of the dentists in the Amherst area. Emergency dental care is usually available in Amherst but there is often a wait for routine dental care. For this reason, it is wise to see your dentist at home during vacations for routine care.

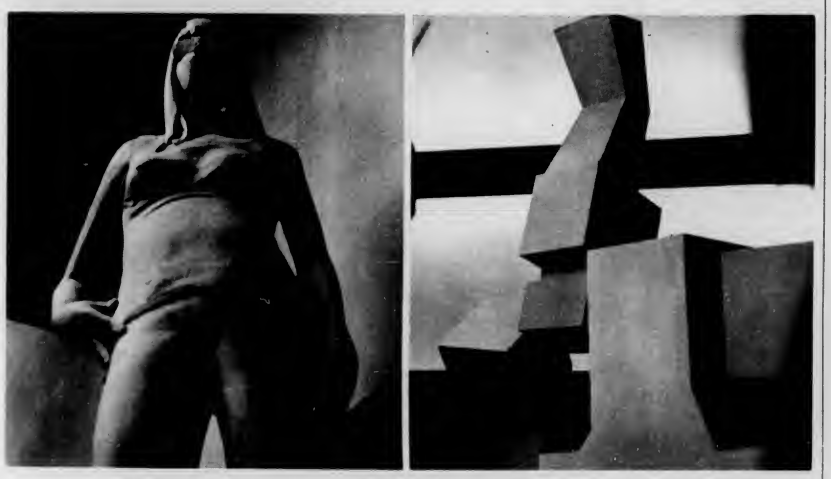
Q. What causes acne (pimples) and what can be done about it?

A. Acne is a disorder of the oil glands in the skin in which the oil becomes thickened and plugs the opening of the gland. When this occurs a comedo (or black head) forms. If this comedo becomes infected with bacteria normally present on the skin, a pustule (or pimple) forms. With squeezing, a skin abcess may form which may scar the skin. Frequent washing with a soap such as "Dial", sunlight, and drying lotions often help acne. If your acne is of a moderate or severe degree, you can get specific treatment at the Infirmary.

Q. What are the symptoms of mononuclesosis?

A. Mononucleosis is an acute illness in which the throat becomes sore and swollowing is painful. The lymph nodes (or glands) in the neck become enlarged and tender, especially those in the back of the neck. Because a fever is often present, the patient may notice unusual fatigue even with recreational activities. In general, mononucleosis is not a severe sickness and most patients are able to continue in college even if they are hopitalized in the Infirmary.

Q. Can I get sleeping pills from the Infirmary if I am unable to sleep at night?



A. Insomnia usually only lasts a night or two and is most often due to worry or tension. If you are unable to sleep after the usual remedies of extra physical exercise, a hot bath or shower, and avoiding coffee, tea, and coke, the Infirmary can offer a mild sedative for a night or two.

All medical questions can be brought either to the Infirmary Lobby or Collegian office or mailed to:

Medical Questions
Infirmary
U. of Mass.
Amherst, Mass.

or

Medical Questions
Collegian
Student Union
U. of Mass.
Amherst, Mass.

Photos by ed sam rizotto

The above photos are a couple of examples of the fine pieces of art and sculpture presently on display on the 12th floor lounge of Kennedy Tower (T-1).

The display was arranged by Bob Boulanger and will continue tonight and tomorrow night from 8 to 10 p.m.

Already 70 students from the southwest area have viewed the works of art contributed by grad students on campus.

One of the works of art, a wooden elephant, is on display in the entrance of Dining Commons # 5.

NEAR TRAGEDY . . .

(Continued from page 1)

by a fire truck from Amherst. Dr. Brandfars, of the UMass Health Service, was rushed to the scene and was in constant attendance.

Mr. Barton, who has five children, is employed as a carpenter for the Puffer Construction Company. His condition is reported as "uncomfortable" during the first night, according to hospital authorities.

DRAFT EXPERT . . .

(Continued from page 1)

killing personally, but not to war in general.

These and many other issues, both legal and moral in scope, will be explored by Mr. Hedger in his talk.

FIRE SAFETY . . .

(Continued from page 1)

certainly has the credentials to be the Fire and Safety Officer of the University.

But the question arises, whether one man, no matter how capable, can efficiently check and maintain every fire extinguisher in the University, as well as see to it that every building has adequate fire preventative equipment.

In the words of Mr. Goetzl himself, "The job is a relentless battle. The lack of manpower for this job is an urgent matter."

Attention
Accounting Association!

Wednesday, Dec. 14

7:00 Business Meeting
Constitution Ratification
7:30 Student-Faculty Night
Colonial Lounge - Student Union

FACTORY OUTLET

25 Market Street, Northampton

Sweaters for the Entire Family

MEN'S PULLOVERS $6 to $11 Turtlenecks & Cardigans	values to $18
LADIES CARDIGANS $4.95	values to $7.95
LADIES PULLOVERS $3.95	values to $6.95
CASHMERES $11.95-$17.50	values to $30

Mon. thru Fri. — 10 a.m.-9 p.m.
Saturday — 10 a.m.-5 p.m. until Xmas

Market St. is across from Jack August

AMHERST Cinema

NOW SHOWING
Wed. - Thurs. - Fri. - Sat.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Sun. • "ARABESQUE" Sophia Loren

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Festival Concert

Worcester Chorus to Perform

The Worcester Chorus will be performing at the University on Friday, Dec. 16 at 8:30 p.m. in the ballroom.

The chorus is made up of 150 members from every walk of life who sing only for the enjoyment. This year's Festival chorus repertory includes Orff's "Carmina Burana" and Rachmaninoff's "The Bells" as major works.

Alfred Nash Patterson has been the director since 1961. He is presently Organist and Director of Music at the Old South Church in Boston and Founder and conductor of the Chorus Pro Musica, Boston. He has prepared for Erich Leinsdorf the chorus for Bach's "St. John Passion" and "Magnificant."

The Worcester Chorus Winter Concert is sponsored by the Arts and Music Committee of the Student Union Program Council.

ALFRED N. PATTERSON

Crabtree Dorm Makes Plans For Holiday Activities

by EMILY FILA
Dorm Reporter

On Sunday, Crabtree residents enjoyed a spaghetti supper prepared by the members of the Social Committee. The menu included spaghetti with meat sauce and cheese, garlic and Italian bread and tonic, all at a minimal price. The supper was well received with everyone joining in the clean-up afterwards.

Many rules and regulations were passed by a house ballot on Thursday night. Some of the items on the bill were the following:

Laundry hours will now be from 8 a.m.-11 p.m. to allow those residents above the laundry room uninterrupted sleep.
Hair dryers will no longer be allowed in the corridors before 8 a.m. and after 12 p.m. They will be allowed in the rec room after 12 p.m.
Eating is allowed in the lobby and date rooms if everyone cleans up. This is for the convenience of dates as well as residents.
A toaster has been purchased for the dorm and is now in the kitchenette.
The dorm has voted to set up a library with the Scholastic Committee to be responsible for its maintainance. Books are now being solicited for dorm use.

Thursday, Dec. 8, the Executive Board held a meeting and decided on the following proposals:

A filing cabinet has been purchased and the girls are urged to contribute old exams, papers, quizzes and speeches.
A meeting will be arranged with Mr. Wells from Housing to discuss heat and furnishings in the dorm. It is now planned for the week after vacation.
The Executive Board is planning an unprecedented project, that of publishing a pamphlet for dorm use explaining the functions and responsibilities of dorm government. Each committee chairman will be responsible for a specific section of the pamphlet. It is expected to be ready by the start of next semester.

Last Sunday night, the residents of Thatcher joined Crabtree in a trim-a-limb party in our lounge. Punch and cookies were served afterwards to the decorators. Many Crabtreeites attended and enjoyed this party.

On Sunday, Dec. 18, a buffet will be held at 1 p.m. with open house from 12-6 p.m.

AVOID THE AFTER CHRISTMAS RUSH

The Maroon Keys are sponsoring an express chartered bus from the Port Authority Terminal in New York to the campus on Jan. 2.

This bus will leave the Port Authority Terminal at 5:00 p.m. and proceed non-stop to UMass. The price is $5.5.

Tickets are on sale at the Student Union ticket counter.

Would You Believe
CHEERLEADERS
in a
PEP RALLY
in the SNOW?

SHI--
69

Christmas Is for Those Who CARE

by DAN WEIR

Christmas means a great deal to a child in Worcester or Springfield or Amherst. There's usually a big tree in his living room, with presents piled high underneath it. After he's opened all his presents, he can sit down to a big meal of turkey or roast beef or anyone of a number of traditional Christmas foods.

The Christmas picture is radically different for millions of children overseas, in places like Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia; Can Tho, Vietnam; or Madras, India. For them it is usually just another day, filled with the same hunger and suffering that fills every other of their lives.

For the past twenty years, CARE has been working to make the differences between life in America and life in all the poor countries of the world less radical. Traditionally, Americans have been more conscious of these differences at times like Christmas, when our affluence is so apparent. It is at these times that contributions to the work of CARE are greatest.

In recent years, CARE has initiated a particular campaign to raise money for its many programs at Christmas. Through CARE's Christmas Card campaign, Americans can contribute to CARE, while selving some of their Christmas gift-giving problems.

Every Christmas approximately fifteen thousand New Englanders contribute dollars to CARE, CARE in return, sends out a special kind of receipt for that gift. For every dollar, CARE mails, to one of the people on the contributor's gift list, a Christmas Card acknowledging that gift.

In this way many New Englanders have found a way to give a very good present to the person who has everything or to the friend or relative who never needs the traditional tie or sweater at Christmas.

This Christmas, the staffs of the Massachusetts Collegian, and Radio Station WMUA are encouraging members of the University community to take advantage of this unique gift idea. For students with little time to spend shopping and with an urge to help someone outside their own family and community, CARE's Christmas Card program should be extremely helpful.

CARE hopes that, with the help of students, faculty members and everyone in America, it can come one step closer this Christmas to putting itself out of business.

As CARE goes about its daily task of feeding 40 million people, 28 million of whom are school children, it gets closer and closer to the day when its work will no longer be needed. That day is admitteedly a long way off, but it's considerably closer than it was twenty years ago when CARE started.

So that as many as possible may help this Christmas, blank forms are being distributed all over the University campus, forms that can be filled in with the names of those people in whose names gifts are to be given. The members of the staffs of both the Collegian and WMUA encourage you all to pick up one of these forms along with your copy of the Collegian, read it, and then use it.

The CARE food package perched atop the head of this woman in Hong Kong will help to feed her family for a month or more.

With their only cash crop — grapes — destroyed by a blight, and their few acres of cereals and garden truck ruined by a drought, this old farm couple on the island of Crete was left in despair until CARE began to distribute emergency rations among the most needy families. This Food Crusade package they received, provided supplementary rations for almost two months for the old couple.

COLLEGIANS may be Picked up at
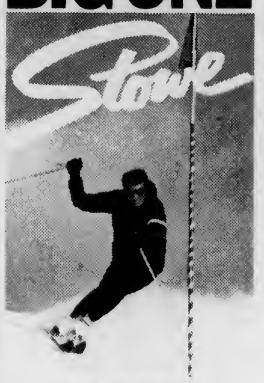
Lobby Counter

READING HOUR

The general public is invited to attend an Oral Interpretation Reading Hour presented by selected students from Speech 200.

This Reading Hour will be held at Tower 6, 12th floor lounge on Thursday, Dec. 15, at 8:00 p.m.

"Coca-Cola" and "Coke" are registered trade-marks which identify only the product of The Coca-Cola Company



Oh-oh, better check the punch bowl.

Ice-cold Coca-Cola makes any campus "get-together" a party. Coca-Cola has the taste you never get tired of... always refreshing. That's why things go better with Coke... after Coke... after Coke.

COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY OF NORTHAMPTON, NORTHAMPTON, MASSACHUSETTS.

SKI THE BIG ONE

Ski Weeks
5-DAY PLAN $35
5 days. 5 lessons. Monday-Friday.
7-DAY PLAN $45
7 days. 7 lessons. Monday-Sunday.
STARTING DATES:
Dec. 12, 19; Jan. 2, 9, 16, 23, 30; Feb. 6, 13, 27; Mar. 6, 13, 27; Apr. 3, 10.
Contact:
STOWE AREA ASSOCIATION, INC.
Box 206, Stowe, Vermont.
Tel.: (802) 253-7321
(These cooperative plans available only to guests of Stowe Area Assn. member lodges.)
SKI CAPITAL OF THE EAST

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

The Poorest Alternative

By Ellie Skinner, Day Editor

As suicidal tendencies on U.S. College campuses reach frightening new heights, it is estimated that 1,000 college students will kill themselves this year and that 9,000 will try and fail. These figures are considered by many college counselors to be conservative.

College psychiatrists report that the student suicide rate is about 50% higher than that for either the general population or non-students of college age. Proportionately more graduate students commit suicide than undergraduates, and men are reportedly more serious in their attempts than women.

Dr. Edwin Shneidman, a consultant at the National Institute of Mental Health, attributes the suicidal increase to the "unremitting anxiety" prodded by rising tuition costs and greater competition for grades. Students are further disturbed by shifting sexual attitudes. Many feel compelled to take advantage of the permissiveness characteristic of the "new morality", only to find confusion in the emptiness of a physical relationship devoid of emotion.

Today's college students are guilty of taking grades, specialized studies, and themselves far too seriously. It is inconceivable that so many young men and women, at a time affording so many opportunities, feel that they must choose the one alternative that is irrevocable. Certainly the weakness lies within the students, but it would also seem that American colleges can and must take steps to ease the stresses, both academic and social, which are plaguing their students.

1) Colleges and Universities should have well-staffed psychiatric departments to aid the student in discovering the cause of his emotional problems. Our University must be praised in this respect, for our Mental Health Department is well staffed and someone is always on call after office hours.

2) Students must be given an opportunity to participate in self government and to achieve a close relationship with the faculty. In our Residential College system and Dorm Constitutional Policy, these aims are being realized.

3) The student must be given more of an opportunity to formulate and formalize his own education. This includes the relaxing of senseless requirements and an increase in independent study programs. This is one area in which the University has yet to make sufficient advancement.

It is only when these solutions are thoughtfully considered universally that colleges will be on their way to lessening the anxieties that contribute to college suicides.

The Choice to Choose

By Paul Robert Hallock, Editorial Staff

Dean Hopkins has been criticized recenty for stating his opinion regarding open doors at open house.

Hopkins is not exercising his right to be free, but his privilege to be responsible. He has a case, and, in this case, he has chosen to narrow the possbilities for infringement on the reputation of the university.

He also has a job. His job is not to "protect" students who are quite capable of protecting themselves but to eradicate the question of choosing a moral route, applied to a problem which has arisen—whether or not to keep doors open at open house. He would like to keep his job.

What the press can bloat and what the legislature can press is evident in the example of "Yahoo vs. religion" last spring.

Much can be made of an issue that is not an issue. Think of the implications of a real issue: for instance, "Mr. and Mrs. Asquith Duckworth (Penelope's parents) vs. ('education???').

Some people just are not responsible—to the university, other people, or themselves. Hopkins knows this and was considering the minority group (a very rare instance) when he took his stand.

Mr. Hopkins is in a delicate position. So is the individual, who has the choice to choose his ethics or to ignore the question.

Freedom is fictional. The choice isn't. Hopkins is supporting the freedom of the individual by eliminating the choice to choose between something that may be right or may be wrong but which the majority of a warped society looks on with indignation and regret.

He has made the choice for those who have proven themselves, in one way or another, well unable to choose for themselves.

Self Government--A Sham?

To the Editor:

In recent months there has been much talk of "Autonomous Self-government of Residence Halls" on this campus. This is a new concept in dorm administration, and has been a source of much pride to the University.

As explained to this Council by various representatives of the administration, the objective is for each dorm to determine how it wants to live as a group. This means that the compromises necessary when any group of people live together in close proximity, sharing the same facilities, are to be effected by those directly involved, acting through democratically elected representatives. This is indeed a laudable objective.

We of John F. Kennedy Middle House submit that under the existing state of affairs, this shining ideal of "Residence Hall Self-government" is little more than a sham and a farce. The House Governments must be able to decide for themselves how their facilities, (lounges, etc.) are to be used, and how House Events are to be conducted, subject only to basic requirements to protect property and individual rights such as privacy, and so forth. They must be able to act without the constant threat of having whatever action they may take overridden by any member of the administrative hierarchy who cares to do so.

There presently exist two major areas of conflict between the elected governments and the administration. They are:

1. The conduct, timing, and frequency of "Open Houses".

2. The Question of visitors in lounges after the dorms are locked at night.

In both of these areas, Kennedy Middle House has attempted, either through Executive Council Resolution or by direct petition, to establish a ruling that the residents felt was necessary or desirable to make life in this house comfortable, and to effect the aforementioned compromises. In each case it was discovered that some level of the administration had a policy which either conflicted with the proposed course of action, or shortly afterwards negated it.

Many of these and other "policies" have been enacted out of fear of what might happen, without allowing the House Governments even a trial period in which to conduct affairs their own way. Others do not serve the purpose for which they were enacted. (i.e.: requiring female, but not male, visitors to leave men's lounges at lock-up time, for reasons of "security".) This situation is hardly conducive to "Self-government".

Unless and until these areas of conflict are resolved, and the control of the dorms is really given to the House Governments, those bodies will be unable to discharge their functions as outlined above. "Residence Hall Self-government" will become a joke, a mere sop thrown to appease the students.

Respectfully submitted
Richard H. Staples
Representative, 15th floor

Adopted by the John F. Kennedy Middle House Executive Council as a Statement of Position, December 9, 1966.
Samuel D. Cannavo, Chairman

The Collegian editorial staff welcomes your comments and questions. It is requested however, that all letters be typed 50-60 spaces per line, and that only one side of the paper be used. All letters MUST be signed with your real name and address — withheld upon request.

The staff reserves the right to edit all letters and guest editorials for reasons of length and clarity.

All letters should be addressed: Campus Comment, Collegian, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. Letters may also be left in the Collegian office between the hours of 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. Your cooperation will be appreciated.

The Moral Objector

To the Editor:

Some University students oppose the war in Vietnam on moral grounds and find they cannot conscientiously participate in it. Where such feelngs are genuine we believe they deserve the respect of the academic community and such support and counsel as it can provide.

Like many others in the University, the signers of this letter have grave doubts about U.S. policy in Vietnam. We believe the Johnson-McNamara escalation of the war to be morally bankrupt and strategically futile. Most of us have expressed these convictions in the channels open to us, e.g., letters to government officials, participation in demonstrations and teach-ins, subscribing to paid statements in the newspaper. A further expression of this position is to declare our support for those students of draft age who share our views and feel they cannot participate in the Vietnam conflict.

Most students are deferred under a II-S classification which allows them to stay in school so long as they maintain a particular rank in class. But if the moral objector leaves school, or has his deferment removed for other reasons, he can refrain from fighting only by proving himself a sincere Conscientious Objector (I-O), or by refusing military induction and risking prison. These last two are difficult options. We stand ready to counsel with any student who wishes to discuss these alternatives and who sincerely seeks not to lend his support to a war he feels is wrong.

Dean A. Allen
Leone A. Barron
Gerard Braunthal
David R. Clark
Loren Farmer
John H. Foster
Joseph Havens
F. W. Holmes
William D. Hummon
Milton Mayer
Gerald W. McFarland
David A. Purdy
Trevor Robinson
Jay Savereid
David Wyman

Peace Vigil

To the Editor:

In an attempt to bring directly to the University the spirit of the recent Peace Vigils held in Amherst, a call is being issued to all concerned to form a weekly silent march from campus to the vigil itself on the town common.

Because of the relative isolation of the University—and more so because of the lack of involvement by the University community—this march has been called to bridge the gap between local and compus activity and to rekindle the flame of concern and protest about American activity in Vietnam. For as the debate, the protest, and the action dwindle, so inversely grows American involvement and complacency.

Participants are asked to assemble in front of the Student Union on Sunday at 11:40, and, as with the vigil itself, to march silently to town in the spirit of sorrow and protest.

Louis Pellissier '67
Judy Mostek '67
Steve Krinsky '68

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68
Editorial Chmn.: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports Editor: Mike Gould '67
Feature Editor: Lois Cohen '68
Photography Editor: Eric Wish '68
Advertising Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Circulation Mgr: Bob Godwin '69

WEDNESDAY DAY EDITORS

News: Joyce Harvey '67
Editorial: Ellie Skinner '70
Sports: Tim Murphy '69
Photo: Paul Boliver '68

Campus Comment

Anti-Normal or Anti-Fear?

Dear Psycollegian,

I think I have a schizophrenic personality. Every evening, at 11 or 12 o'clock, I change from a confident collected coed into a shaky, shivering shadow—jumper.

Instead of calmly closing my textbook and anxiously looking forward to a lovely moonlight walk from the library to my dorm on Orchard Hill, I feel like creeping into a corner of the stacks and sleeping there all night.

My fears are obviously ungrounded. I know perfectly well that six security guards are stationed strategically around the campus to keep their eyes wide open for some 5,000 coeds who, at one time or another, may be walking back to their droms. There is nothing that makes me feel more secure than 6 pairs of protective "eyes" who are ready to run to the nearest telephone the minute they note any disturbing situations.

My other fear — of darkness — is also quite ridiculous. Why, instead of stumbling gropingly up black pathways, I should invent a game of counting lights —every other ten yards.

The only way to solve a problem is to face it squarely. I have three alternatives in mind:

(1) I could carry a paring knife in my pocketbook or slip a hatpin into my coat lining—like some of my friends do;

(2) I could refrain from attending any evening lectures, entertainments, meetings, snack breaks, exams, or study sessions in favor of happily hibernating in my dorm;

(3) I could request the university to triple their police service of two officers or add a couple more lights around the campus.

These ideas can possibly be attributed to my unique, helpless case. On the other hand, I may not be anti-normal, I am only anti-fear.

A Shaky Shadow-Jumper

There Oughta Be a Law

To the Editor:

When the University Police tow your car from a tow-away-zone, it is your fault. It is up to you to find a way to get to Anderson's garage to pick it up and pay the eight dollar tow bill. But what happens if it is a mistake?

Last week my car was towed twice! The first time was my fault, and I walked and paid. But the second time was, as the Police said, "just a mistake". They were willing, after only a short argument, to call and have the car freed so that I need not pay the tow fine. Meanwhile I was stuck on campus, with the car in South Amherst, and an important appointment in fifteen minutes in Northampton.

Did the Police offer a ride to the garage? NO. When I asked if possibly there would be a patrol car going that way soon . . . NO. "Well," I said, "how am I to get the car?" "Walk" was the answer.

When we make an honest mistake, we pay for it, but what of the intrepid officers of the law? Can they tow at will without need to worry about the consequences? Huh?

Sorry about that, Chief.

S. W. resident

On Bussing

To the Editor:

Why can't a limited bus service be instituted? The administration seems to have overlooked the necessity of such a system. Even if such a transportation system were dependent on student funds, the cost to each individual student would be meager in consideration of the daily trek from Southwest to Engineering in the rain, or the marathon from Chadbourne to Boyden at 8:00 on a snowy morning.

Since our campus is so rapidly expanding, it is evident that facilities must be established to cope with the growth. A campus bus service is necessary now

Alan Sirota '70

The Problem of China

To the Editor:

As a consequence of the great problem Russia has represented for mankind since it imposed communist imperialism, the world now, including Russia itself, confronts the problem posed by communist China, a Marxist-Leninist power created by Russia and by the incapacity of the big western powers, which could not prevent China's fall into the communist clutches.

The Chinese problem, independently from the Russian, should be the object of careful study on the part of all the countries of the free world, both the big as well as the small ones, because, if they are careless, one and the other might come to be enslaved by the future Chinese power.

The immenseness of the country and the huge population it has, factors made worse by the wickedness and imperialist aggressiveness of communism, make China a nation highly dangerous for the fate of the Christian civilization and of the democratic freedoms.

Most certainly in Russia there are already specialists who study day and night, without absurd shifts in the posts they occupy, carefully analyzing each and all of the present and future steps of the Chinese Government. These specialists, who certainly are not transferred to posts alien to what they have been doing, as it sometimes happens in the United States, are naturally trying to find a solution to the problem that would benefit Russia and would harm the free world and China.

The big democratic powers, especially the United States of America, should be doing something similar, designating statesmen and strategists, truly statesmen and strategists, with tactical and practical sense, to study the Chinese problems with the aim of solving it in favor of the United States and of the free world, and against the interests of Russia and China.

In a democratic nation like America, it is necessary to create little by little the civic conscience with respect to the big international problems, so that the people may back the formulas which the Washington Government may have to adopt according to the circumstances and and to the moment. Therefore, the statesmen and strategists who study the Chinese problem not only should concern themselves with finding the formulas for how to destroy the aggressiveness of the said Asian enemy, but also the way of how to prepare the American people so that they understand the problem and support the decisions that may be necessary to solve it.

China, it must be repeated always, should be a matter of great concern for the free world. And the fact that it also constitutes a big worry for the Soviet Union should not serve as excuse for the free world to get careless, candidly thinking that the problem of China should be solved by Russia. Because if Russia solves it, it would be wholly in detriment of the democratic destiny of mankind.

Bienvenido Garcia
107 Gorman House

Let's Have It!

To the Editor:

I am an interested student here at UMass representing a large number of students. We would all like to know where the cheerleaders are at the basketball games. The only one to stir the crowd thus far has been "The Phantom".

What is the cheerleaders' job? Just to cheer at the football games??? The football season is over now, so let's get these cheerleaders at the basketball games and get a little spirit going. The team can't win alone—they need support. Let's have it!!!!

An Annoyed Student

"The heart has its reasons which reason knowest not"
—Pascal

Photo by Kelly

SOUTHWEST COLLEGE CHRISTMAS DANCE

featuring

The Dick Wright Orchestra

Dining Commons #7

Friday, December 16

8:12 p.m.

semi-formal

Admission: $3.00 per couple

BULLETIN No. 23 U. of Mass. Students · Faculty · Staff WINTER 1966-1967

OVER 10,000 TIRES IN STOCK INCLUDING FOREIGN AND COMPACT SIZES

U. of MASS. IDENTIFICATION CARD REQUIRED

MAY PURCHASE

WINTER TIRES

At Wholesale Prices

NEW Perfect Quality GOODYEAR

FULL RETREADS
Perfect Quality
GOODYEAR Suburbanite
$10.95
ALL 13" & 14" SIZES
NO TAX TRADE-IN REQUIRED

		F.E.T.
600/650x13	$10.98	$1.83
775/750x14	$13.95	$2.20
825/800x14	$14.95	$2.36
855/850x14	$16.95	$2.57
775/670x15	$13.95	$2.21
815/710x15	$14.95	$2.35
845/760x15	$16.83	$2.55
900/915/820x15	$18.80	$2.70

No Trade-In Required

NATION-WIDE GUARANTEE
NO LIMIT ON MILES • NO LIMIT ON MONTHS
(Adjustment Prorated on Tread Depth. Based on Actual Cost Price)

THIS LITTLE SPIKE

CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE

SAFETY - SPIKED WINTER TIRES GIVE YOU
Up to 60% reduction in braking distance.
Up to 500% greater traction on ice or packed snow!

Terms Available
FREE TIRE MOUNTING

BAK TIRE CO.
55 DAMON RD., NORTHAMPTON
TEL. JU 4-4769
OPEN MON.-FRI. 8:00 A.M. TO 5:30 P.M.
SAT. 8:00 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

BATTERIES
FREE INSTALLATION Most Cars
6 VOLT $12.00 Exch.
12 VOLT $13.00 Exch.
FULL Guarantee provides for battery replacement FREE within 90 days

OVER 10 YEARS OF SERVICE

JOHN GREENQUIST

BARBARA TASKA

JIM WILKEY

The Best from UMass

37 Campus V. I. P.'s C

A total of 37 students have been honored as representatives of the University of Massachusetts in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. During their UMass careers, these students have given time, energy, and spirit to their respective organizations and studies and have contributed a great deal to the campus community.

The task of selecting a well-rounded representative of exceptional students was indeed a great responsibility for the nomination committee. In attempt to consider all eligible students for this honor, the committee accepted written recommendations from faculty, staff, and students.

Who's Who is a national organization developed to give nation-wide acclaim to students who have distinguished themselves in scholarship, leadership, cooperation in educational and extracurricular activities, general citizenship, and promise of future contribution to society.

Therefore, it is with much pride that the University of Massachusetts lauds and congratulates the following people:

ANNE YAKAVONIS, CLAIRE AMIOT, BETTE CHAMBERS, EILEEN WHITE

As a goal to inspire greater effort;

As a reminder that time must be used intelligently to bring the best results from one's college experience;

As a means of compensation for understanding effort and achievement;

As a standard of measurement for students comparable to other recognized scholastic and service organizations.

From Who's Who Bulletin

Amiot, Claire
Benezra, Jerry E.
Butler, Bette J.
Cassoli, Helen M.
Chambers, Elizabeth A.
Cunningham, Timothy
Davidson, Gordon
Dean, Alexander E.
Fisher, Melbourne C. III
Fleischner, Robert
Gordon, Stephen F.
Greenquist, John R.
Grieco, Daniel II
Hamill, Gwendelyn J.
Hardy, Kenneth
Hartstone, Joel
Harvey, Joyce E.
Higgins, Carol A.
Johnson, Elizabeth L.
Lebel, Robert R.
Levine, Ellen M.
Lisack, John
Meehan, Patricia
Mroz, Thomas J.
Mullin, John R.
Pilon, Frederick R.
Sass, Lorna
Schinoff, Richard B.
Shelley, Karen L.
Sydney, Howard R.
Taska, Barbara J.
Wardrop, Thomas W.
Webster, John III
White, Eilleen
Wilkey, James R.
Wimberly, Richard D.
Yakavonis, Anne C.

KEN HARDY

BETTE BUTLER, TIM CUNNINGHAM, LORNA SASS

Chosen for "Who's Who"

FRED PILON

JOHN MULLIN

GWEN HAMILL

JERRY BENEZRA, HELEN CASSOLI

JOYCE HARVEY

GORDON DAVIDSON

Photos by
Paul Boliver
John Kelly
Tom Donovan
Gerri Cote

Layout by Phil Goepp

University Theatre:

"J.B." Portrays the Contemporary Dilemma"

J.B. and his wife Sarah appear as modern characters, facing modern disasters.

Lawrence J. Wilker, Director of "J.B.", has himself had many acting roles in University theater.

by JUDY KUHN
Feature Staff

On December 11, 1958, a play that caused a storm of comment ranging from the highest praise to the highest disapproval opened in New York. On December 16, 1966, this same play, J.B., by Archibald MacLeish, will open in Bartlett Auditorium to run for two nights.

J.B., differing in form and style from the other University Theatre offerings of the semester, is a Master of Fine Arts Production under the direction of Mr. Lawrence J. Wilker, graduate student in the Department of Speech. Mr. Wilker chose J.B. for his Master's production because of its relevance to today and its challenge to a director.

"I was drawn to J.B. because of its tremenodus capability to communicate to an audience. The poetry, the situations, and the fact that it is based on the Book of Job make the play an exceptionally well chosen vehicle for Mr. MacLeish's ideas. I see in the sharp criticisms of the play intense personal responses to this modern drama."

J.B. has often been criticized because it is poetry. Upon learning that the play is in verse, many people tend to keep away from it. Because J.B. is not what people are accustomed to in theater, the director's major problem is to dispel the idea that J.B. is, as poetry, not acceptable theatre.

A great deal of audience acceptance depends on the way the lines are spoken, and this in turn depends on the actor. This is another of Mr. Wilker's problems as a director. He is working with actors of various degrees of talent and experience. Some are graduate students who have done a great deal of previous work in the theater, some are students who have never been on a stage before. With a play of this type, the disparity of acting talent presents a major problem.

The action of J.B. takes place in a deserted circus tent. God and Satan are portrayed by two unemployed actors. When Job (J.B.) appears, he is recognizable as a modern American. The messengers, sent by Satan to teli J.B. of the disasters that befall his children are roustabouts from the circus. The disasters are modern disasters—an automobile accident, a war death, a murder, an atomic explosion.

J.B.'s comforters, too, are modern. The interpretation is modern, but the basic theme is the same—that of man's relationship to God. J.B., who all his life has been faithful to God, is utterly destroyed for no apparent reason. He screams over and over, "Show me my guilt, O God." In the end he never does get a satisfactory answer.

MacLeish himself has said about Job: "Job, who, like all human beings had dared to ask his Why of Life, of the Universe, has been answered, as men are in fact so often answered, by new and greater questions. Which means that he has not been answered at all—he has merely been silenced."

J.B. may get no real answer, but in his final resignation, when his wife returns to him, he shows faith in man's abiliity to carry on under terrible and overwhelming conditions.

J.B. (second from right) is played by (coincidence!) John Brown. In this scene, he and his wife Sarah (far right, played by Judy Jordan) are seated at Thanksgiving Dinner with their children.

January Graduates

Educational-psychological research career. Help design, develop, engineer, test new instructional programs for elementary-secondary education. Annual salary $6000. Twelve graduate credits per year at university of your choice.

Qualifications: Overall B average. High B in major. High performance on selection tests. Send credentials and letter of application to:

DR. N. SIDNEY ARCHER, Director
Eastern Regional Institute for Education
111 Furman St., Syracuse, N.Y. 13205

ATTENTION!! FACULTY & STUDENTS
SPECIAL HOLIDAY OFFER

16 FABULOUS DINNERS for only $5 (Reg. $7.50) with the DINE OUT TONIGHT CLUB

At These Fine Restaurants

- ARMANDO'S
- BRASS RAIL
- CHARLEMONT INN
- COLLEGIAN COURT
- COPA
- OLD DEERFIELD INN
- HILLBROOK HOUSE
- LAKESIDE INN
- ORCHARD GROVE
- THE PALMER INN
- RED BARN
- RIVERVIEW CLUB
- TEKOA COUNTRY CLUB
- TINTI'S
- TRASE'S
- WHATELY INN

(Above restaurants subject to change)

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE NEW DINE OUT DINNER BOOK

- 13 Dinner checks valid Saturdays and/or Sundays.
- Better menu selections than ever before.
- All restaurants are happy to serve dine out members.
- Dinner books now valid one full year from date of purchase.

COMBINATION DINNER, ENTERTAINMENT AND SPORTS PLAN

A dinner, entertainment and sports guest check plan consisting of theatres, bowling, golfing, skiing and other 2 for 1 privileges, as well as dinners, is also available at $7.50. (Reg. $9.00)

PLUS THESE YOUR-GUEST-ADMITTED-FREE FEATURES

- 36 THEATER TICKETS
- 8 COMPLIMENTARY BOWLING GAMES
- 8 AMUSEMENT PARK TICKETS
- 4 SKI LIFT TICKETS
- 4 GOLF TICKETS
- EXTRA DINNER CHECKS

BOOKS AVAILABLE AT COLLEGIAN OFFICE AT STUDENT UNION
Contact: RENA JOHNSTON

Mail this Application to: DINE OUT TONIGHT
401 Johnson's Bookstore Bldg.
Springfield, Mass. 01103

SPECIAL DISCOUNT APPLICATION

Enclosed is $5 cash, check or money order for each membership book containing 16 Dinner Checks.

(Please Print Clearly)

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

City, State & Zip .....

MEMBERSHIP DINNER BOOKS MAKE IDEAL GIFTS!

I have ordered ..... Gift Dinner Books (Enclose Names and Addresses).

Photo by Cote

When John J. Templeton lends his advice on the art of beard-growing, he speaks from experience. He is, to use his expression, a true Beard. (A Beard is a beard-owner.) He has been through the trial period, and has suffered the usual (and unusual) barbs about his tuft, so his word is valid.

Hair-Raising Scheme

Bush-men "Civilize" Little Shavers

by JOHN J. TEMPLETON

America has progressed to the point where a man can let hair grow on his face. However, before growing a beard, a man should recognize one basic fact: beards in our land are greeted much as illegitimate children.

People are not disposed to acknowledge their potential existence until one pops into sight. Like the bearer of a nameless child, a Beard (owner of a beard) will be urged to account for giving birth to an unpopular growth.

A Beard will be aided in his attempt by the changing attitude in America toward beard growing. It is becoming evident to American men that what they have been told by Mom, Dad, and Gillette Razor is true.

That is, "If you don't shave religiously each morning your face will grow a bush. It will be just like the bush on the top of your head."

Like the League Of Nations, beards are coldly overlooked. It is reasoned that they too will fade away.

Of great aid to the beginning Beard will be friendly advice. This can be obtained from more experienced Beards. Within a hundred mile radius of every American home there undoubtedly lives at least one Beard. They can be found in the dimly lit corners of cafeterias. They may suddenly appear from mysterious and empty spots such as the local library or art museum.

Some of the more daring Beards have been known to sit on the impersonal steps of state capitols. There they perch in plain view of the clean-shaven legislators who pass by infrequently on their way to work. It has been rumored that an alert C.I.A. agent recently spied a Beard attempting to enter Disneyland.

TRIAL PERIOD

A beginning Beard should aim first at acquiring a six-week growth. This period will be the most difficult.

It is during this time that people who are close to the new Beard will begin to show concern. At first they will remark that the growth is merely an attempt at exploring new sensations. They will say he is trying to look like a dirty pig.

After passing the six week mark the Beard will be glad to find that remarks of this nature will cease. People seeing that he is sincere in his attempt, will resign themselves to the fact that he is mentally deranged.

If able to withstand the first wave of disgust from his peers, the Beard will have success in sight. He will then need only to take several steps to dwell in peace with his neighbors.

PUBLIC DEBUT

First and foremost a Beard must not seek companionship of any sort with bearded women. Society has not yet the stomach to endure the sight of a bearded couple holding hands and drinking coffee from matching mustache cups.

A Beard should avoid pul protests. He should not join anti-Vietnam or auti-war p tests. Nor should he take p in movements suggesting t Ronald Reagan receive an car for performing the brilliant cartoon series of

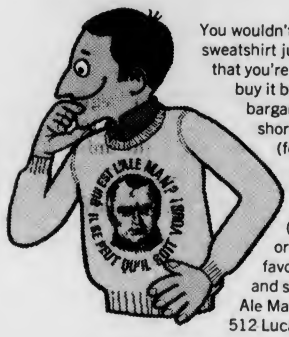
If a Beard publicly opp accepted opinions, he will that the public looks on hi a double denial. That is, h beard, a denial of modern bodily balance and harmony, will be coupled with his denial of the rightness of the public intellect. The public when angered at a protesting group will grab first at the nearest double denying Beard and drag him down.

There is a bit of inconvenience involved but a man, if he really wishes to, can grow a beard. The tight traditions of America are slowly loosening.

There might even come a day when we will see co-eds at Harvard or even male students at Smith.

How to tell if you're an Ale Man

You've been offered a fortune for your little black book.



You didn't learn how to surf last Summer. You gave lessons in Hawaii.

You think lightweight motorcycles are for kids. You ride the big hairy bikes.

When you see a beautiful girl you don't whistle. You get a date with her.

You wouldn't buy an Ale Man sweatshirt just to announce that you're an Ale Man. You'd buy it because it's a bargain at $2.00 (with short sleeves) or $2.40 (for the long sleeve job). Sweatshirts show famous Ale Men of the past (Shakespeare, Caesar, or Napoleon). Pick your favorite, specify size — and send your money to Ale Man Sweatshirt Offer, 512 Lucas Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

When movie buffs start discussing the films in which Bogie starred, you discuss his great stage roles.

You'd rather drink Ballantine Ale than read about it in an ad. You know it's light like beer but packs more taste. You go for that clean, dry, tangy taste. You think that ads like this one are really for people who haven't graduated from beer to Ballantine Ale. You're right!

Published with the thought that this would be a happier world if there were more Ale Men like you. P. Ballantine & Sons, Newark, New Jersey.

ALE MAN VOTING

IN S.U. LOBBY

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Who Is the Ale Man?

The "Soft-Sell"

Professor Notes Sophisticated Commercials

by JACQUELINE FINLAY

The soft-sell ad is aimed only at those few people intelligent and sophosticated enough to appreciate its subtlety.

According to Lawrence A. Johnson, who teaches Advertising 273 at UMass, the soft-sell ad is characterized by its implication of pleasure to be derived from the product rather than a direct statement to that effect.

"For example," cited Johnson, "take that Alka Seltzer ad. Someone is sitting there looking kind of miserable and a voice says, 'You forgot your anniversary!' Then you hear 'Plunk, plunk' as two Alka Seltzer tablets are dropped into a glass of water. Obviously they are trying to tell you something."

Another familiar example of soft-sell ads are those VW and Avis ads. It is their humility that is also appealing.

The request for purchase of the produce is usually also implied. "Not everyone can understand this type of message," the teacher continued, "That's why you don't find too many soft-sell ads on TV or other mass media of communication."

It only works on a small percentage of the population, and is lost on the majority. However, within its own range, it is much more effective than the so-called hard-sell (where they come right out and tell you to buy)."

Soft-sell ads are found often in such magazines as Time and the New Yorker; infrequently in the true story and sports type of publication.

"If I were going to decide whether or not to use the soft-sell approach," said Johnson, "I would first look at my audience. They must be of a certain sophistication to appreciate what you're trying to do."

Besides determining if the audience is capable of understanding and responding to a soft-sell ad, one must take into consideration the product itself.

Certain products lend themselves readily to the soft-sell technique because, he implied, the group which is in a position to obtain them is also of the caliber to respond to the soft-sell art.

For instance, an expensive brand of clothing can usually be afforded only by well-to-do people. Well-to-do people are generally well-educated.

"These are the people on whom a soft-sell ad is most effective," stated Johnson. The perfect example is Peck & Peck's "There is a certain kind of woman..." ad, at least one of which is found frequently in the New Yorker.

"A product meant for the use of everyone, such as soap, fares best," said Johnson, "under the more direct hard-sell method."

Yet these appear to be certain products and a certain audience that are better soft-soaped.

Bored?

Find Intellectual Fulfillment Working for the Collegian.

You may even become an Editor

ALPHA ZETA INITIATES NEW MEMBERS

Honored Sunday at a banquet at the Hatfield Club were the thirteen newly initiated members of Alpha Zeta. Following the meal, a very informative and enjoyable talk explaining the use of radio telemetry in tracking wildlife was presented by Dr. Brander of the Forestry and Wildlife Management Department.

Alpha Zeta is an honorary fraternity in the four year College of Agriculture. To be considered for membership in Alpha Zeta, a person must exhibit high standards of scholarship and character.

As pledges, many of these new members participated in setting up the Science In Agriculture Fair sponsored by Alpha Zeta last October.

The following people were initiated into Alpha Zeta Sunday: Steven Weckstein, James Higgins, James Crevelling, Howard Bridgman, Marcus Phelps, Walter Kordek, William Kenney Wayne MacCallum, Arthur Raymond, Richard Frost, David Caporello, Arthur Keown Jr., and Robert DeWire.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE COLLEGIAN

WMUA's 'Night Time'

Due to fantastic audience response, WMUA's "Night-time Radio" is moving to a new time this week. No longer will hosts Dan Weir and Pete Ward be heard at 1 o'clock on Friday nights, but rather, right after the 11 o'clock news on Thursdays.

This Thursday the program will be devoted to a discussion of "Christmas and the Christian." Listeners are invited to call in questions and comments to this week's guests, the Rev. J. Joseph Quigley, Assistant Chaplain to University Catholic students, and the Rev. James Carmichael, Pastor of the Pelham United Church.

The good sounds of WMUA can always be found at 91.1 on the FM dial.

W1PUO Offers Message Service

The UMass Amateur Radio Association, WIPUO, again offers its message handling capability to the campus community.

As a public service, the station will send messages of importance to any place in the U. S. and many foreign countries at no charge. The messages will be relayed to "Ham" operators near the destinations for delivery.

Message blanks are available in the R. S. O. office. They all should be returned to R. S. O. Box 306. UMass has one of the better equipped college amateur radio stations and the students are thus invited to make use of these facilities.

Notices

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
On Wed., Dec. 14, at 6:30 in S.U. Lobby, volunteers will meet and be given transportation to Northampton State Mental Hospital.

CRITIQUE
Meeting Wed., Dec. 14, at 6:00 in Franklin Room, S.U. for all members. Pictures taken.

SKI CLUB
On Mon., Dec. 19, at 7:00 in S.U. Ballroom there will be a meeting. Last chance to sign up for ski trip to Sugarbush. Movie, etc., also.

HOMECOMING, 1966
Homecoming Float Parade Trophies may be picked up in the RSO office.

J.F.K. LOWER CULTURAL AFFAIRS
On Wed., Dec. 14 at 8:0 P.M. on 5th floor, T-1, there will be a seminar discussing "Consequences of the Elections of 1966: Within the U.S. and in Europe."

OUTING CLUB
On Sat., Dec. 17, there will be the Mt. Holyoke Range hike to be followed by a taffy pull party at th farmhouse. Come to one or both. Sign up sheets on the bulletin board.

ALPHA PHI GAMMA
Meeting tonight at 7:00 in Essex Room, S.U. Mike DeSherbinin of Amherst Record will be the speaker. Coffee and donuts.

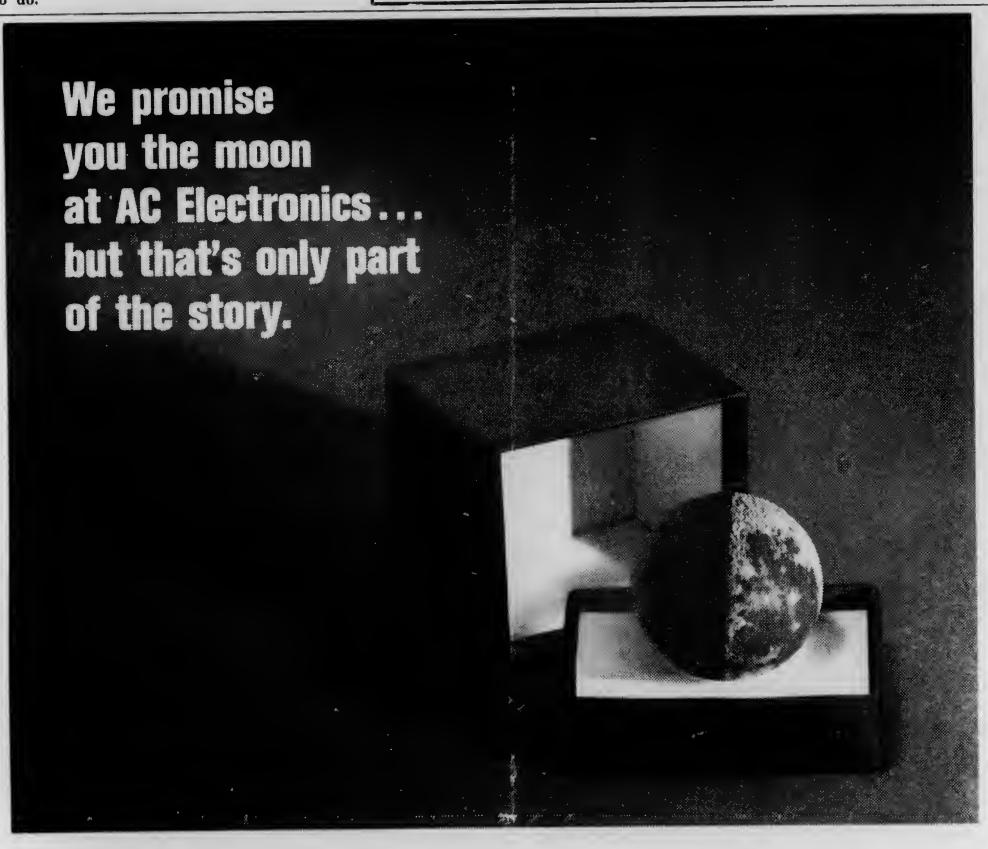
EDUCATION CLUB
Panel discussion on Religion in the Schools on Wed., Dec. 14 at 7:45 P.M. in School of Ed. Auditorium. Refreshments. Open to all.

BROKEN EGG
On Fri., Dec. 16, at 8:00 P.M. the experimental film "Very Nice—Very Nice" will be shown.

DAMES CLUB
On Thurs., Dec. 15, at Farley Lodge, at 8:00 P.M. there will be Christmas skits. Refreshments will be served. For information or transportation, call Linda Martin after 4:00 P.M. at 549-0614.

VETERAN STUDENTS
I.B.M. certification cards for December and January benefit payments should be made out for the full months of 12-1-66 to 12-31-66 and 1-1-67 to 1-31-67 and should not be marked to indicate any holiday or semester breaks.

ART CLUB
Meeting tomorrow, Dec. 4 is cancelled.



STOLEN:
One 26 inch American Middleweight bicycle. Has no fenders: basket on rear. Would appreciate information concerning whereabouts. 546-8650.

LOST:
$5.00 reward for return of identification, licenses and personal papers lost in brown wallet. Ugent. Contact Mary Alice Buck, 1613 J.Q. Adams, 546-8497.

Gray kitten, white paws on Friday afternoon on campus. Reward. Call 256-6333.

One white ivory stud earring lost in vicinity of the construction. D. Radulski, 1807 T-4.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Mary Alice Moore, class of '67, G.S.S., to Antonio J. Spinelli, UMass '66.

Want to help land men on the moon? Fine. We're building the guidance navigation system for the Apollo and LEM spacecraft that will put them there. But that's only a sample of the challenging and rewarding career opportunities waiting for you at AC Electronics . . . specialists in research, development and production of guidance, navigation and control systems for military, space and commercial applications.

You'll work in research, design and development on such advanced projects as the new Self-Aligning Boost and Reentry system for missiles (SABRE); Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL); a self-contained Navigation System for naval ships (SSCNS); Titan III-C Space Booster; on avionics systems for supersonic aircraft; and on a fire-control system for the new Main Battle Tank, a joint U.S.-Federal Republic of Germany program, and advanced digital computer development.

Your opportunities for growth and advancement in a career at AC are limited only by your own ability and initiative. Our Career Acceleration Program covering both technical and management preparation helps pave your way. Our Tuition Plan pays your tuition costs when you complete college-level courses. In addition, you enjoy full General Motors benefits.

If you are completing your B.S. or M.S. degree in EE, ME, Math or Physics, we invite you to inquire about opportunities at any of our three locations:

MILWAUKEE — AC's Main Research, Development and Manufacturing Facility. SANTA BARBARA — AC Electronics-Defense Research Laboratories specializing in Hypervelocity Flight, Oceanography, Advanced Airborne Computers, Ballistic Missile and Space Booster Guidance/Navigation Systems. BOSTON — Research and Development Laboratory specializing in Advanced Inertial Components and Avionics Navigation/Guidance Systems.

PhDs, please note: Positions are available in all three AC locations for PhDs, depending upon concentration of study and area of interest.

See your Placement Office about an AC Electronics Div./AC on-campus interview, or write to R. C. Schroeder, Dir. of Scientific & Professional Employment, Dept. 5753, Milwaukee, Wis. 53201.

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
Wednesday and Thursday
January 4 & 5, 1967

AC ELECTRONICS
DIVISION OF GENERAL MOTORS
GM

Named to the Yankee Conference All-Star soccer team for 1966 were goalie Larry Martin, upper left, fullback Many Leito, lower left, and wing Jerry Cellilli, lower right. Accorded honorable mention by the conference were Marty Smith, upper right, Aba Ayanaba, lower right, and Captain Mike Russo, not included above.

Three UM Soccer Players Named to Yan-Con Team

Three UMass players were named yesterday to the 1966 All Yankee Conference soccer team following a vote of the six league coaches. Three others were accorded honorable mention.

Larry Martin was selected as goalie and was only one of two repeaters from last year's team. In addition, the Redmen placed fullback Manny Leitao and left wing Gerry Cellilli on the 11 man team.

Given honorable mention for UMass were halfbacks Mike Russo and Aba Ayanaba, and forward Marty Smith.

UConn, which finished third in the overall league standings, placed four men on the squad, fullback Ray Strong, center halfback Dennis Danko, wing Paul Ingram, and forward Chris Kovlakas.

Forward Pete Baldwin was first-place Vermont's only other first team selection, New Hampshire fullback Calvin Fisk, an honorable mention recipient a year ago, tied Leitao in the voting for left fullback position.

Rhode Island placed league-leading scorer Steve Collis at one of the forward berths, and Jairo Osuna at the left halfback slot.

Vermont Coach Hal Grieg was named coach of the year for the second consecutive season.

The list of honorable mentions included: goal — Mike Dill (UConn) and John Hilton (Vt.); fullback — Fred Butterworth (NH); halfback—Bob Schroeder (Vt.), Jack Semler (Vt.), and Nat Santoro (UConn); forward —Bob Heaton (NH), Ferrington Langa (UConn), and Dean Jackson (NH); and wing—Jim Isaac (NH).

Varsity, Frosh Swimmers at Wesleyan Thurs.

The UMass swim team travels tomorrow to do battle with a perennially strong Wesleyan and, according to Coach Joe Rogers, hopes for a victory lie in a strong team effort.

The mermen, still wet with a victory over Amherst last Wednesday, are counting heavily on such individual performers as Flip Morton, Kenny Nowack, Dick Lennon, Bob Asquith, Chip Wyser and Steve Levi.

Chief threat in the diving event, according to Rogers, is Dave Lawson. The meet will get under way at 3:30 at Wesleyan pool.

After the meet, the Redmen have nearly a month before their next contest. The contingent will visit UConn at Storrs on January 10 for its next scheduled meet.

In February, the mermen meet Bowdoin, Vermont, W.P.I., Holy Cross and Coast Guard. On March 9-11, Rogers' swimmers will compete in the N.E.I.S.L. meet at Southern Connecticut.

Intramurals

Kappa Sig, TKE Continue Streaks

by TOM CONUEL, Sports Staff

Kappa Sigma and TKE continue to win in the intramural basketball league. KS bombed PMD by a score of 64-25 on Monday night. Greg Landry was the main cog in the KS attack with 10 points and 12 rebounds. TKE meanwhile dumped PSD, 54-41, with Dick Qualey leading the way for TKE by grabbing 19 rebounds.

Don Alberico led his TEP team over SPE by a 57-37 margin and in the process scored 17 points himself. In other fraternity action, QTV topped SAM, 49-39, while AEP edged ASP, 34-33. Bill Cannata of ASP was high scorer in that contest with 17 points.

A's Win Big One

In dorm action the Flaming A's and the Lemons from the North League met in a battle for first place. The A's emerged with a decisive 47-33 victory over the Lemons. The Hawks, sparked by Cinnamon's 30 points smashed the Aces, 68-44.

Ray Stanelis' 23 points were not enough to bring victory to the Patriots as they succumbed to the Colts, 57-55. The Colonels led by Steve Hilton, who tossed in 22 points, downed the Leopards by a narrow 50-48 margin.

Healey sparked the Cougars over the Comanches by scoring 22 points and grabbing 17 rebounds, while the Jaguars mauled the Panthers, 41-24.

Rams in Rout

In other dorm action, the Giants nudged the Bruins, 30-23, while the Grants stopped the Buffaloes, 41-34. The Rams crushed the Panthers, 63-24. Chet Zabek led the Rams with 21 points.

Independent action was light. The Tigers won by another big margin as they trounced the Foundrymen, 75-35. Mike Brito paced the Tigers with 34 points. The Hangovers sunk the Bismarks, 38-35.

The Independents remained unbeaten, dumping the Buffaloes, 57-31. Starsiak scored 19 points for the victors. The Phantoms had no trouble in gaining a 43-26 decision over the Griffins.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

WANTED

Combo needed for Dinner Dance, Feb. 11, 1967. Call HO 7-7699.

Furnished apartment for 4 seniors. Call AL 3-9121. Ask for Cage, Blur, Tub, or Zeke.

Two riders wanted to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., morning or afternoon of Dec. 21. Share driving and expenses. Call 253-2218.

Seniors, grads, others 21 or over to have a blast at Brook Senior House this Friday night, with Go-Go Girls, Band and Mountain-Dew!

Two or three female roommates wanted to share apartment next semester in Boston. Would like a graduating senior or an undergrad. taking semester off. Call 546-6863.

Grad student or upperclassman to share quiet apartment spring semester. Write Bruce Dobratz, 72 Triangle Street, Amherst. Within walking distance to campus.

LOST

Pearl ring with 3 diamonds, set in white gold. Left on 3rd floor of Public Health Dec. 5. Please contact Beta, 1806 Coolidge, 6-8196 Reward.

HELP WANTED

Waitresses for Cocktail Lounge
Waiters for Cocktail Lounge and Dining room
Call 323-9301 after 7:00 p.m.

FOR SALE

1 pr. Innsbrook skis 6'3". Lamanated bottoms, Dover binders. Excellent condition. Call 253-9693 before noon.

Ski equipment BLITZ WOOD SKIIS—190 cm., good condition. Binding-Dovre, excellent condition. Boots-Perker, excellent condition, size 6½.
Contact Etel Tumma, Kappa Kappa Gamma, 545-0320 or 545-0321. (between 5-7)

OPPORTUNITIES

The presidents of Austria, Denmark, Norway and Iceland urge the use of the international language Esperanto. Learn it now. Telephone 253-7647 between 7 and 10 p.m. for information.

AUTOMOBILES

1959 Chevy Impala convertible V-8, 280 cu. in., automatic, power steering. Contact: John Hardy, 201 Wheeler.

SKI MORE!

PAY LESS DRIVE LESS

- New Beginners To Advance Novice Area
- Intermediate To Expert Area
- Each Serviced by Chairs, T-Bars and J-Bar
- 24 Trails and Slopes
- Natur Teknik Ski School
- Snow Making

Latest Ski Reports 413-339-4986
Room Reservations 413-339-6610

Where the Action Is!

Thunder Mountain

Charlemont, Mass.
Route 2, Mohawk Trail

Yellow Jacket Pucksters Sting Redmen, 6-2, for 4th Victory

by TIM MURPHY, Day Sports Editor

Threats of a storm of blizzard proportions failed to keep nearly 500 persons assembled at Orr Rink away last night, and those who attended the event were treated to a rough, hit-em-when-the-ref-ain't-looking hockey game.

Though the powerful and fast skating American International College sextet commandeered its fourth successive win of the year by a 6-2 count, UMass displayed an aggressive and spirited counter-attack and at times outplayed the Eastern hockey power.

The game progressed for the first nine minutes on an even keel, with both teams missing on several scoring attempts. The checking and body contact was noticeable for its vigor from the drop of the first puck.

At 9:35, however, the Yellow Jackets' fine sophomore wing, Ian Caldwell manipulated a pass from the stick of linemate Bob Findlater past Ed Sanborn who was tending the UMass nets. Findlater was initially fed the puck by right winger, Gary Socha, who showed himself to be the classiest skater on the ice during the evening's activities.

Almost before Sanborn had cleared the puck from the nets Caldwell was again on top of him. Aided by his mates, Socha and Findlater, Caldwell skated toward Sanborn and, while throwing a shoulder fake, nestled the puck to the right of the confused goalie at 10:12.

The Redmen finally negotiated at 19:42 of the same period when little Ed Polchlopek, who skates with a modified football helmet instead of the customary headgear, took a pass from defenseman Dave Goldberg and buckled the twine behind A.I.C. goalie Gary Young.

In the second period, A.I.C. missed on several scoring attempts, most notably on shots by Socha and Caldwell which glanced menacingly off the cross-bar of the UMass goal.

At 7:80 of the second canto, a Socha screamer did not go awry as he beat Sanborn on a neat one-on-one breakaway.

With the score at 3-1, A.I.C. upped the margin with rapid-fire tallies at 13:20 and 13:34. On the first, Socha again negotiated, this time deflecting in a slap shott from the stick of Findlater. Caldwell followed up seconds later with his third goal of the night with Socha assisting.

In the third period, Ed Graney scored for the Redmen on Bill Skowyra's goal-mouth pass at 2:12. At 9:16, Pete Wodzicki took the measure of Sanborn to end the scoring. Wodzicki was assisted by Tom Nolan and Dick Meyers.

Sanborn, bearing the brunt of the potent Yellow Jacket stings, was forced to save 26 shots in addition to the six which got past him. Young made 19 saves, many of them excellent.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

The Collegian, in a cumekilling struggle to keep UMass sports fans well-informed, will present a four-page extra on Tuesday to wrap-up the Christmas tournaments. The Redmen's showing at the Boston Garden Tournament Dec. 20-21 will be related by Day Editor Tom FitzGerald and photographer John Kelly.

Our man at the Oklahoma City Tournament Dec. 27-30 will be Day Editor Glenn Briere.

Another dateline will be Durham, N.H., where the UMass hockey team will be competing in the Yankee Conference Tournament Dec. 27-30.

DEAR JOHN—Senior John Lisack has been named to this year's edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." A chemical engineering major from Allendale, N.J., Lisack is the Redmen's best outside shot. The two-year letterman is a Captain in UMass' ROTC program and a brother of Tau Epsilon Phi.

Want that good, knowledgable feeling?
Join the Collegian Sports Staff

Photo by Seinlger

ON THE GO—Sophomore wing Charlie Hanifan moves the puck past an Amherst skater during Saturday's 7-2 victory over the Lord Jeffs.

Frosh Lance Cavaliers, 103-41

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

GREAT BARRINGTON — Shooting and incredible 67 per cent from the floor, the UMass freshmen basketball team rolled over Cornwall Academy, 103-41, here last night enroute to their third straight triumph.

Joe Kostygan started the flood of points just five seconds into the contest. Dick Samuelson put in an offensive rebound and the Redmen were off. By halftime the score read 51-11, much to the dismay of the highly partisan fans.

The second half was just like the first. Everything the frosh threw up went in, while Cornwall was unable to hit or rebound effectively. Kevin Boisjolie hit a 15-footer to push UMass over the century mark.

The game was played in four eight minute quarters, which made the Little Redmen's point total seem even more phenomenal.

Reserve Bob Shea had a big night as he lead all UMass shooters with 18 points on a torrid nine for 10 from the floor. Kevin Donovan and Ray Ellerbrooke each canned 15, while Kostygan put in 14. Boisjolie and Phil Harrington were also in double figures, with 11 points apiece.

Tim Way and Dan Sweeney were both perfect from the floor, canning three and two field goals, respectively.

Fliers Here

Sam Provo, former Agawam ace, had an off-night but still managed to pace the Cavaliers with 24 markers.

The frosh entertain the Westover Fliers of Westover Air Force Base at Curry Hicks Cage Saturday. Westover always has an experienced unit and plays an exciting brand of ball. The action starts at 6 p.m.

After that contest the Little Redmen will rest up for their next and toughest opponent, the Providence College freshmen. The two will meet January 5 at Providence.

UMass Frosh	B	F	Pts	Cornwall Academy	B	F	Pts
Samuelson	3	2	8	Bias	2	1	5
Harrington	5	1	11	Joralimon	0	0	0
Sweeney	2	0	4	Provo	8	8	24
Ellerbrook	7	1	15	Triggs	1	0	2
Kostygen	7	0	14	Dickerson	3	0	6
Perry	0	1	1	Sullivan	1	2	4
Way	3	0	6
Donovan	6	3	15
Boisjolie	5	1	11
Shea	9	0	18
Hart	0	0	0
Totals	47	9	103	Totals	15	11	41

Score at halftime: UMass 51, Cornwall 11.

Baseball Monopoly to Continue...For a While

By TIM MURPHY

Yesterday's decision by the United States Supreme Court not to review a Wisconsin Supreme ruling prohibiting the application of the state's antitrust law to block the transfer of the National League Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta can only be construed as judicial shot in the arm to an already elite monopoly exercised by baseball.

By abstaining from review of the Wisconsin Supreme Court decision, the U.S. Supreme Court in effect voiced agreement with the ajudication.

The state high tribunal had held that baseball's immunity from Federal antitrust law left Wisconsin powerless to enforce its own antitrust law against the sport. It said state action would be interference with interstate commerce in violation of the Federal Constitution.

LaFollette Dissatisfied

Dissatisfied with the decision at state level, Wisconsin Attorney General Bronson C. LaFollette had appealed to the Supreme Court for review.

LaFollette said in his appeal that the Wisconsin decision made baseball "the only non-regulated industry in the United States completely free to disregard both Federal and state antitrust laws." Apparently, the Supreme Court views baseball on a somewhat different basis than an unadulterated business.

Perhaps it is because of the enjoyment it dispenses. If this is so, all professional sports should be accorded the same privilege. But, according to the New York Times, "baseball has a special status other pro sports don't enjoy."

Apparently the basis for singling out baseball from the myriad other businesses in the U.S. and even for its lofty isolation in the realm of professional sports is a 1922 Supreme Court decision.

Precedent Set in 1922

On that occasion, the Supreme Court ruled that the Federal antitrust laws were not intended to apply to a business of baseball's type. In 1953, the Court expressed, as it did indirectly yesterday, unwillingness to reverse the 1922 decision, when it held that it was up to Congress to spell out jurisdiction if Congress so desired.

Since that time, several, indeed many, bills specifying the application of Federal laws to major professional sports have failed to pass.

Most recently, Representative Clement Zablocki, a Wisconsin Democrat, introduced such a bill in January, 1965, after the Braves had announced their intention to move. The move, however, met with defeat as it died in committee when Congress adjourned.

Still, the judicial shot in the arm may be of little aid to professional sports, especially baseball, in the future. The proviso for Congressional decision on the administering of antitrust laws does not augur well for the future of unrestricted sports.

New Bill Drawn Up

In the works, according to Rep. Zablocki, is a bill similar to the one which he submitted last year. He would remove the Federal antitrust exemption for baseball.

Observers agree, however, that the road to curb antitrust activity on the part of professional sports will be long and arduous. But, the fact that the Federal judiciary has washed its hands of the deal leaves the field, though rock filled and hill laden, to Congress.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, a lawyer and judge in his own right and baseball's first commissioner and guiding light during its formulative years, must be resting uneasily in his grave.

INDEX
Art Show 3
Food 4
WMUA 8
Symphony 10

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

XMAS '66
Pages 6 & 7

VOL. XCV, NO. 35 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1966

BILL COSBY FEATURES '67 WINTER CARNIVAL

Comedian Bill Cosby will appear along with Tom Rush at the Saturday night concert during Winter Carni.

Winter Carnival '67 will be headed by one of the finest comedians in the world today—Bill Cosby, who will be featured Saturday night, Feb. 25, with Tom Rush, noted Boston folksinger.

Winter Carni '67 will be literally ignited Friday night, February seventeenth with a giant bonfire and a spectacular display of fireworks at a rally in the snow. The all-important basketball game against the University of Connecticut will highlight Saturday night along with the presentation of the five queen finalists at a captivating half-time show.

The spirits of two generations will be united both on and off

(Continued on page 10)

Dean Field Discusses Open Door Policy

Photo by Furman

Dean Field answers questions at a discussion in Washington Middle. Questions concerned open doors, Greeks, and places to go after closing hours.

by ED PARKER, Staff Reporter

Dean Field answered a barrage of questions Wednesday evening in the lounge of Washington Middle. Most of the questions were concerned with Open Door Policy now in effect in Residence Halls during Open Houses.

The Dean explained the complex history of the policy that has been met with disapproval on the part of students. The present ruling was approved last spring by the Board of Trustees that assumed the Open Houses would proceed just as those that were held in Women's Residences once or twice during the year; that is, if a student took part, he would keep his door open.

This fall, Dean Hopkins was unexpectedly requested by students to make an interpretation of the rulings as printed in the handbooks.

(Continued on page 10)

Faculty Senate Proposes 2.0 Graduation Requirement

by PAM METAXAS, Staff Reporter

A proposed amendment to the Academic Matters Committee from the Faculty Senate was passed Thursday afternoon, on raising the graduation cumulative average to 2.0. If accepted by the Board of Trustees, the graduation retention will be effective for the class of 1972.

President John Lederle who presided at the meeting stated that his impression "is that a 1.8 at this school is a 2.0 at other schools." But he still felt it would be "highly desirable" to adopt the national level of 2.0 at UMass. We now have a 12% dismissal rate and he noted that a higher graduation requirement will not necessarily raise the fail-out rate.

"We are getting better and better students all the time," he said. The President remarked that a higher graduation requirement would improve the quality of the student body. "We have a public responsibility to get good students admitted," he said.

During discussion which followed several faculty members felt the higher average would discourage the graduation of "submarginal students." They emphasized that a 2.0 is accepted in many other schools of our size and that the present 1.8 requirement is even below a "C" average.

Others argued that the raising of the cumulative requirement would not improve the quality of the student body since the potential students in high school are not even concerned with the graduation requirement when they apply. They said that we (UMass) are too concerned with maintaining the status quo and our "image." A university is not "made" on the graduation requirement it has but on other factors, they said.

Senate President John Greenquist commented during the meeting that he didn't think students would approve of raising the graduation requirement to 2.0. He felt the graduating system at UMass "represents the lowest possible grade a student can get." The present grading system is arbitary, he said since there are no distinctions between letter grades. He urged the Faculty Senate to "study the total grading system" before passing the raising of the graduation requirement.

There was a resolution accepted concerning the establishment of a review period during finals. The resolution follows:

Resolved: that the Faculty Senate urges to Department Heads and Faculty members the extension of the present reading period (January 12, 1967) into a review period to include

(Continued on page 10)

UMass Seal Stolen at Founding Day Convocation

Photo by Harry Trask, UMass-Boston

This huge seal was removed from the War Memorial Auditorium after the UMass - Boston Founding Day Convocation. The seal is worth about $1,000.

by BOB GORMAN, Campus Editor

The great seal of the University of Massachusetts is missing. The 250 pound colored fiberglass seal was last seen at the UMass-Boston Founding Day Convocation on Saturday in the War Memorial Auditorium in Boston.

A UMass-Boston student called the Collegian and said that his group had stolen the seal from the War Memorial Auditorium.

Also, after contacting a reliable source, it was discovered that mimeographed sheets are being circulated to UMass-Boston students. The sheets state that a group of students have the seal and will give it up Wednesday night at a UMass-Boston mixer. However, ten students from Amherst will have to be on hand to receive the seal.

However, the Chancellor of UMass-Boston, Dr. John Ryan, has stated that the head of his physical plant has located it and it is in good hands.

Furthermore, the seal will be given to the proper authorities in Amherst following a dance on Wednesday, the Chancellor stated.

Food for Thought

Hatch Will Extend Hours for Finals

Recently, the Senate Food Services Committee has been in touch with Dr. Mark Noffsinger, Co-ordinator of Student Activities and Director of the Student Union, in reference to a request by Senator Dick Homan of Baker House that the Hatch and Union facilities be open all night during finals.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY:

". . . Nature tells us that man was born for liberty; experience shows us man enslaved. His rights are written on his heart; history is the story of his humiliation."

— Robespierre

Dr. Noffsinger said that because of help problems, a cost factor, and the long period of finals, this request would have to be denied; but that Hatch hours would be extended.

On the 13th and 14th of January the Hatch will be open until 1 A.M., an hour after the library closes. Dr. Noffsinger was not sure if all the facilities of the Union would be open or just the Hatch area.

Dr. Noffsinger said that if there is any appreciable business, not necessarily profit-making, he would do his best to accommodate with facilities until 12 midnight the rest of the finals period.

Photo by Gerri

Students crowd the Hatch for late night snacks.

Student Senate Supports Fine Arts Program

by PETE WARD, Staff Reporter

The Senate took a giant step toward the establishment of a broad and coördinated Fine Arts Program at the University.

By an affirmative vote of close to 2/3 of the Senate, a motion was passed that recommended that the Trustees approve the Fine Arts Council's expanded 1967-68 budget of $68,000.00. In addition the Senate approved the raising of student payments for Fine Arts by $2.00 per year.

This new budget would allow such proposals as a jazz-folk series to become a reality.

Speaking for the measure on the floor, Pete Ward, of the Council, expressed his belief that the University has delayed too long in supporting a Fine Arts Program that an institution of this size should have. The senate's action demonstrated the students desire for a program of this nature.

Regarding the University Reform Committee (URC) the Student Senate voted to reverse its prior acceptance of the constitution in general.

The constitution was returned to the Senate Activities Commit-

(Continued on page 2)

Schlesinger Urges Support Of Institutions of Higher Learning

by ERIC GOLDMAN
Staff Reporter

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., one-time advisor to the late President Kennedy, spoke last week on the "The University in an Urban Society." The occasion was the Founding Convocation at UMass-Boston.

Mr. Schlesinger feels that the city is increasingly becoming the battleground where the great issues of American society will be fought, and that "the urban university promises to be a central agency in the national response to the urban challenge."

"The ultimate problem of our century," he added, "is the problem of living equably and productively in the high-speed, high-pressure, high-technology, urban society." He believes that these demands will fall with special force on the universities of our cities.

The former Kennedy aide strongly advocates the proposed Urban Land Grant Act, which presently is being debated in the U.S. Senate.

This act, originally initiated by former Mass. Governor Peabody, calls for the creation of new, and support for existing public institutions of higher learning in metropolitan areas.

It would be an attempt to do for an urban society that the Morrill Act did for the rural, "by teaching, training, research and extension work."

Schlesinger believes that Congressional action to this end "would greatly streengthen the urban university as a national weapon to promote the task of humanising our industrial society."

Mr. Schlesinger is adamantly opposed to institutions which discharge professional and technical training alone. "It is just as important to give our young people a perspective, as a profession," he said, "to lead them to values as well as to techniques."

Photo by Harry Trask, UMass-Boston

Pres. John Lederle (left), UMass Boston Chancellor John Ryan (middle), and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. (right) discuss the many ideas proposed for UMass-Boston.

He added that the university which pursues professional and technical training at the expense of the human and liberal studies "is feeding its body and starving its soul."

Schlesinger also emphasised the importance of quality in a university. He said that the obligation of quality rests on the faculties, students and administration alike. "And it demands the most unlimited freedom of inquiry and expression."

Continuing on this vein, he expressed his dismay over the recent student protests of the reading of Huckleberry Finn at UMass-Boston. Following his statement on this subject, several Negro students walked out of the auditorium.

Mr. Schlesinger concluded his speech by referring to the university as "a community of reason." He urged students to have "other models than Latin American Universities and other ambitions than working for their L.S.D.

The obligation to live by the standards of excellence and freedom which will protect and enrich the cultural society, falls on the city university."

Schlesinger cited the University of Massachusetts at Boston as a perfect example of an institution with the tremenous responsibilities and obligations of today and the future.

Plans Being Formed For Library Tower

by SUE TOMKINS, Staff Reporter

"Plans for the new library tower are definitely being worked on and we hope to have the preliminary plans in February" said Robert M. Agard, Assistant Librarian of Reader's Service at Goodell Library.

Last week, traffic patterns in Goodell Library were studied in preparation for the building plans of the tower which will serve an estimated 25,000 people.

All entrances but the front door were locked in order to get an accurate picture of the traffic patterns at all hours of the day. The purpose of this survey was to find out how many elevators would be needed to accommodate the traffic.

According to Agard, analysis of the data showed that there is a peak about 10:00 a.m., another at noon, and the highest peak about 3:00 p.m. of over 800 persons. After 6:30 p.m. the number of people going in and out of the library slows down.

Analysis of the data also showed that use of the library is highest on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with a decrease on Thursday and another increase on Friday.

Counts taken in October showed that for 1966 the average number of people using the library was 1,087.4 per day, while for 1965, it was only 608.1. In this period of a year, circulation has increased 20 per cent.

Consultation with Warren J. Haas, Director of the University of Pennsylvania Library and the architects of the firm of Edward Durell Stone, has resulted in diverse opinions as to the number of elevators needed to accommodate traffic in the tower. The estimates range from three to five. Agard commented, "It is my notion that we should have five because one will always be broken down."

Students Object To Huck Finn

by ERIC GOLDMAN

The famed American classic, The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, has created a stir of controversy at UMass-Boston.

The book is required reading for a course at the University; some of the students have requested the abolishment of this requirement because they believe that it gives a one-sided picture of the Negro.

As a result, the Huck Kinn Petition Committee was formed. The committee is not so much against the reading of the book itself, but rather protests the fact that there is no other book to read in the course, to counterbalance this view of the Negro.

By "this View of the Negro," the committee is referring to Twain's descriptions of Nigger Jim such as "watermelon chewing" and "lazy eyed." The fear is that this negative view of the Negro would be misconstrued by white readers.

Reaction to the interpretation of the book and the subsequent protest has been mixed. One faculty member commented that as a protest, it unfortunately ties itself with sides that have restricted and unliberal views.

A Negro student, however, regarded the required reading as being "low and meant to undermine the students."

President Lederle, when asked about the protest, said that when such a problem is brought into a university, it reflects misinterpretation of the university's principles.

"This," added Lederle, "is against the principle of non-censorship in a free university." It was this attitude that allowed the showing of the racially controversial movie Birth of a Nation at UMass several weeks ago.

Petitions have been signed and presented to the University at UMass-Boston. The administration's ruling on the matter has yet to be publicized.

Chorale Gives Winter Concert

On December 18, 1966, in Bowker Auditorium, at 4:00 p.m. the Music Department Choral groups will present under the direction of Dr. Richmond du Bois the most all-inclusive Winter Concert ever attempted. Five groups will perform.

The University Chorale and Chorus together will present Franz Joseph Haydn's Te Deum as the major joint choral piece. They will also present To Each, to All, by William Schuman and Blessing, Glory, Wisdom and Thanks.

Two new groups will make their first on-campus debut at this concert—The Madrigal Singers and the Women's Choir. The Madrigal Singers will present various madrigals and the Women's Choir will present Benjamin Britten's Ceremony of Carols.

Both groups have been selected from members of the Chorus and have been directed by Mr. Russell Falvy, graduate student in Music.

The Chamber Singers, formerly called the Madrigal Singers, will present Morning, Noon and Evening, an original work by Dr. Philip Bezanson, Chairman of the Music Department.

The University Chorale will present eight A Cappela pieces which include two pieces for alternating choirs. The Alleluia, by Scarlatti will feature a six-voice girls group from the Chorale.

Journalism Vocational Seminar

A vocational opportunities seminar for students interested in journalism-communications will be conducted Monday at 7 p.m. at the Student Union Commonwealth Room.

Arranged by Alvin F. Oickle, lecturer in journalistic studies, the seminar will give students an opportunity to meet informally with professionals in public relations, newspapering and radio.

The professionals will be available at least until 8:30 so students may stop by anytime before then to chat about educational and experience requirements, salaries, part-time jobs, training programs and any other phrases that interest them.

STUDENT SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

tee last week. When it was brought to the floor Wednesday night, Dave O'Connor, spokesman for the Activities Committee announced that his committee had reconsidered the URC constitution.

O'Connor said that his committee now considered URC "an assault on the Student Senate and a duplication of effort.

During the debate which followed, many members of the Activities committee reversed their opinions again, denying statements made earlier and admitting that URC served a vittal and needed function.

The arguments finally settled around a provision in the URC constitution which allows any member of the organization to hold office. Some members of URC are graduate students. For them to hold office would be directly opposed to the Senate policy allowing only undergraduates to hold office in RSO groups.

Disagreement over this point, which was approved one week ago, caused the constitution to be defeated and sent back to the Activities committee for further study.

The URC constitution is now back in the Activities Committee pending further study. (Further explanation of the URC debate will be forthcoming in the Collegian Senate Page.)

In actions relating to the academic field, Senator Lou Smith introduced a measure to recommend the setting aside of January 10th and 11th as reading days.

ATTENTION! Springfield Area Students

An opportunity to discuss CAREER OPPORTUNITIES with Springfield area firms will be provided

Dec. 29 and 30 at

SPRINGFIELD COLLEGE

for information call or write the sponsor.

JOINT CIVIC AGENCIES
Tel. RE 4-5671

134 Chestnut Street
Springfield

NOW AVAILABLE

PHONE LOCKS at CHENEY LOCKSMITHS

Keys & Rubber Stamps

10% DISCOUNT ON ALL MERCHANDISE EXCEPT KEYS

24 HR. SERVICE

Next to Louis Foods, Amherst

FACTORY OUTLET

25 Market Street, Northampton

Sweaters for the Entire Family

MEN'S PULLOVERS $6 to $11 Turtlenecks & Cardigans	values to $18
LADIES CARDIGANS $4.95	values to $7.95
LADIES PULLOVERS $3.95	values to $6.95
CASHMERES $11.95-$17.50	values to $30

Mon. thru Fri. — 10 a.m.-9 p.m.

Saturday — 10 a.m.-5 p.m. until Xmas

Market St. is across from Jack August

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1811

Cultivate the Art

Art Show Slated for January

by SUE AROUETTE, Staff Reporter

In a recent Collegian interview, Professor Walter Kamys of the Art Department discussed the 5th Art Acquisition Show to be held at thee University in late January or early February.

The show will consist of a collection of over 300 originai works in painting, sculpture, water colors, and drawings valued at $95,000.

The works to be shown are the products of American and foreign artists. There is no student work in the collection.

This year's exhibit will be placed in the art corridor in the Student Union and in the Colonial Lounge.

Professor Kamys explained that the acquisition show came into being five years ago when it was decided that, in order to effectively teach art to students, it was necessary to have some sort of art work to show them for demonstration purposes.

In previous years students and professors had been forced to visit other college art exhibitions to meet this need. But, as Professor Kamys stated, "An art department without art is comparable to being in love with no one to love," and thus the idea of an art acquisition program for the University was born.

Collecting for the show begins around the first of the year and the cut-off date is the first week in December. Any work of art obtained after that date will be used in the next year's exhibition.

Most of the works are gifts of museums, societies, or artists, but now there are also some funds available from a research grant which can be used to purchase more material for the show. In fact, Kamys has recently bought nineteen drawings for this year's collection with this money.

After the acquisition show is over, the art works are dispersed to various rooms and offices all over the University. Faculty and administration members are given first choice and any fraternity sorority, or society which has donated money for acquisition may also request some work.

The exhibits are never stored because Kamys feels that the collections are meant to be lived with and enjoyed continuously. Many departments and offices employ a rotating system so that every picture is constantly in use.

Kamys could not offer too much information on the proposed Fine Arts Center other than to note that the center is second on the priority list after the muiti-story library. He estimated that it will be five or six years before the center is a reality.

When the center is built, it will include two different galleries, one for a rotating permanent collection and the other containing art works for teaching purposes.

In conclusion, Kamys added some of his personal opinions on art and the beholder. He said, "Art is ideas . . . you are stimulated by it in some way. You may hate it or love it, but if it doesn't stir you at all, you are a vegetable . . . insensitive.

Art is for the quick, not the dead. It is meant to expand your horizons and make you a more knowledgeable human being."

So when the fifth annual acquisition show comes next semester, go over to the Union and expand your horizons a little. You may even find something you like!

Committee Views Possibilities Of Religious Studies at UMass

"Religious studies at UMass—Yes or No?" was the title given to a lecture-meeting held on May 17, 1966 in the Bartlett Hall lounge. Professor William May, then of Smith College religion department and now of Indiana University, made the presentation.

In attendance were a handful of UMass faculty and students who were concerned about the answer to this questtion. Professor May relayed to these people some of his views on the question, and a discussion followed.

Earlier in the Spring of 1966, the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate accepted as one of its projects the question of feasibility of teaching religion courses for credit at UMass. Meeting with faculty and administrators, the students of the Committee began to gain some perspective as to the actual implications involved.

Correspondence with other Universities and public and private agencies could expand their activities.

Should UMass offer "Religious Studies?" The students on the special sub-committee of Academic Affairs, set up this fall to devote full attention to this issue, feel the answer is yes.

Throughout human history, religion has had a profound influence on man and his society. It follows that an understanding of man's society will be enhanced by a fuller understanding of religion as it influences society's development.

It would seem that it is a matter of "how" rather than "why" as to the question of religious studies at UMass.

ROOM CHANGES

The final date for requesting residence hall room changes is December 19 1966. To receive approval all requests must be received at the Housing Office by this date.

Students in residence halls who are eligible and intend ti iive off campus should notify the Housing Office by January 10, 1967.

Campus Judges Scheduled to Listen, Discuss and Learn

by RICHARD LANE, Staff Reporter

Orientation to and discussion of Residential Judiciary Bodies and the Student Judiciary system at the University will be the aims of a Joint Judiciary Conference to be held Saturday, Dec. 17th from 12:45-5:30 in the Student Union Ballroom.

Among the highlights of the four hour conference will be addresses given by speakers Isador Sylva (Professor of Law at the University School of Business Administration), Robert Stanfield (Asst. Professor of Sociology at the University), and Dr. Mark Noffsinger, Director of the Student Union and Coordinator of Student Activities.

In an interview with Collegian Dick Wimberly, member of the Student Life Committee and Executive Secretary of the Men's Affair Committee, said the Conference was intended to bring out, "mature and responsible attitudes and ideas," by participants on the campus' judiciary system.

Wimberly also said that the Conference will try to answer any questions and settle any doubts or problems that arise by those attending.

This will be done by free discussion groups of ninety minute length.

The afternoon's proceedings will start off with Professor Sylva's speeech at 12:45. Sylva will talk on the social system and judicial aspects, such as due process of law, individual opportunity of the student, and protection of the individual against untrue allegations.

Professor Stanfield will then speak on the rule breaking individual and ways of dealing with him. He will discuss the formal sanction by student government as a legitimate means versus social pressure from the student's peers.

Dr. Noffsinger will then speak on the spirit behind the rules of student government and newly approved judiciary operations procedures.

A Discipline Board representative will then speak on expectations of the Board and problems arising on issues. Expulsion will be brought up and its significant relevance and what to do about it.

At this point, 2:45, there will be Judiciary Presentations and the men and women will split up. This will last an hour and will consist of free ideas, comments, etc. brought up.

There will then be a final breaking up point into five male and an equal number of female discussion groups.

Among points to be brought up will be questions concerning student life recommendations, structure of the judiciary set up, maintenance of continuity and experience and importance of presidents.

Stress of the spirit and letter of the laws and application of sanctions, as well as responsibility of the board to house, individual student, university as a whole, administration or state will be other points.

Twenty-two Story Treetop

Residents Raise Xmas Spirit

Photo by Rizzoto

Christmas tree is being hauled to the top of 22 story Kennedy tower to celebrate the holidays. The lighted tree can be seen at a great distance every night and is a credit to those who were responsible for the unusual idea.

by ED PARKER
Staff Reporter

The Christmas tree on the top of Kennedy is a symbol of true Christmas spirit on the part of the many people who went out of their way to help President Richard Donoghue and the residents of Kennedy House succeed in carrying out the idea that occurred to Donoghue four weeks ago.

In a Collegian interview, Donoghue requested that special thanks be given to all who aided in the operation, especially Assistant Director of Housing, Mr. Trotman and Fire and Safety Officer Goetzl.

Others whose aid was necessary to carry out the operation are Mr. Welles of Housing, Mr. Conway of Maintenance, Col. Marchant of Security, D. O'Connell's Sons, and Amherst Fire Chief Doherty who provided equipment and counsel, as well as manpower, in aiding Goetzl to get the tree to the top.

SPECIAL HATCH PRE-CHRISTMAS DINNER THIS SUNDAY

The aroma of a home kitchen at Christmas will prevail in the Student Union hatch on Sunday, Dec. 18th. A roast turkey dinner with all the fixings will be served between 11:30 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. - 7:00 p.m. Pumpkin, mince and apple pie will be available plus dinner mints.

The hatch is now permeated with holiday atmosphere, attractive decorations, and buzzing of student gatherings.

TYPEWRITER CLINIC
HOLIDAY SPECIAL for $4.95
General cleaning and new ribbon installed during the holidays.
HAMPSHIRE BUSINESS MACHINE CO.
79 So. Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
Sales — Service — Rentals

Flowers can say
SEASONS GREETINGS TOO
and maybe even better!
KNOWLES FLOWER SHOP
172 No. Pleasant St. 253-3805

SHIN-
69

LIVING ROSARY
Dec. 18, 7 p.m.
by Campus Pond
Bring flashlights!
Dress warmly!

FRESHMAN SPONSORED Dorm to Dorm
CHRISTMAS SING
Sunday, December 18
Float leaves S.W. Terrace
at 7:30 p.m.
Join as for BONFIRE and
FREE REFRESHMENTS

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

'Looks Almost Human'

by Paul Robert Hallock, Editorial Staff

A million superlatives to the Dining Commons. We knew they could do it. And what a feast!

No one needs to be reminded of the night of December 15, 1966. Hardly anyone will forget it.

First, we walk into the Commons expecting, well, you know, the usual. What strikes our eyes but Christmas placemats! We stand in line. We take a casual glance to the left or right. My God! Sirloin steak, french fries, green beans, rolls, cranberry juice, salad, pumpkin pie and ice cream, coffee, milk, and, would you believe it, candy canes.

The comments were equally surprising.

"I don't believe it! I just don't believe it!"

"LOOK at it! Unbelievable!"

"Looks almost human."

Be it the Christmas spirit or I don't know what, it certainly deserves praise. All the people involved, including the cute dishwasheress who topped it off with a Christmas bow, deserve praise.

No more will we be forced to eat at The Lord Jeff.

Hopefully.

His Spirit Lives On

by Jack Dean, Day Editor

Walt Disney is gone.

But the joy he spread among so many children — and adults — will remain for quite some time. Mickey Mouse is part of America.

Disney was unique among movie producers—he succeeded without the sensational devices which now characterize the industry. The knowledge that crime and sex have no place in a Disney movie has eased the mind of many a parent.

Disney is gone, but his shows will go on. We are a little less for his loss, but had he never been, the world would have missed two generations worth of warmth and laughter.

The FBI and 'Security'

by Mike Hersh, Editorial Staff

Senator Robert Kennedy and J. Edgar Hoover are presently engaged in a verbal battle over the use of electronic surveillance equipment by the omnipotent Federal Bureau of Investigations. Their fruitless altercation, however, is not in question here, but the use of bugging devices by the F.B.I. is.

The Bureau contends that it eavesdrops only in security cases that directly affect the welfare of the nation. But "security" is an elastic term that can be stretched to cover a wide swath of suspicion, and the devices have been used with whimsical frequency in the past. Indeed, their use by the Bureau in many cases is "not reported to the Attorney General or to the Congress." (The FBI Nobody Knows, Fred Cook)

Wiretapping, for example, although outlawed in 1934 by the Communications Act, is admittedly utilized by the F.B.I. through a liaison which has been established with telephone companies throughout the nation. This may be seen in a circumstance which occurred in Nevada on February 1964. The Central Telephone Company, which was being sued by Las Vegas casino operators for $6 million for invasion of privacy, "grudgingly admitted that during the 1961-63 period they had filled F.B.I. orders for 25 leased lines which were used to channel wires connected to bugs . . ." (Ramparts, November)

A similar invasion of privacy is sometimes practiced on a person's mail. In this case the F.B.I. receives cooperation from the Post Office Department. "Neither the Post Office Dept. nor the F.B.I. likes to advertise the fact that this is going on. But in incoming mail, particularly, it's easy for the F.B.I., through contacts they have at the local post offices, to keep a close watch on this." (Cook)

To wiretapping and mail surveillance may be added the "bag job", which is entering an individual's home in hs absence without a search warrant. This, of course, is in direct violation of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, yet it is "done every day in the Bureau." (Cook)

It is time for this sacrosanct organization to be exposed. The right of the individual to privacy, the basis of the Bill of Rights, is regularly ignored by the F.B.I. in its obsession to gain convictions. Legislation must be passed to once and for all curtail the powers that it holds.

Alpha Chi Salutes . . .

To the Editor:

We, at Alpha Chi, would like to tell you about someone who is very special to us: Mrs. Vera Sheppard, our housemother. Mrs. Sheppard first came to know us in 1962 when we lived in the white house near the School of Education Building. During the year we resided in Van Meter while our present house was being constructed, she served as Thatcher's housemother. Once the house on Nutting Ave. was completed, she resumed her position with us and has been an integral part of our college and sorority life ever since.

It is difficult to express verbally the qualities that make Mrs. Sheppard so very dear to us. She does so much beyond the basic responsibilities entailed in her position as a housemother. She knows us personally, as individuals and as sisters. She knows our names, where we're from, dreams and ambitions.

She is truly concerned with our house whether it's planning a menu with our favorite foods, encouraging people to mix at an exchange, or getting new curtains for the shower room. She takes pride in our successes and shares our disappointments.

She's never too busy to give someone a ride, to listen to a problem, to instruct a floundering organist. She's aware of our moods, separately and collectively. After working together on a house project, for example, she sometimes surprises us with hot chocolate and cookies, a small gesture, perhaps, but so characteristically thoughtful and considerate.

She has constructive, intelligent suggestions to offer but ultimately, she regards us as self governing young adults. She is a part of our sisterhood, not a necessary fixture to be politely tolerated or a domineering symbol of authority.

We have a mother's pin at Alphi Chi which is customarily given to outstanding housemothers who have served for a period of at least five years. Although Mrs. Sheppard has not been with us for quite that long, special permission was granted from our national allowing us to give the pin to her this year. The pin, an outward symbol of the part Mrs. Sheppard plays in our sisterhood, was to be presented at our Christmas Formal, Saturday evening, December 10. Also to be presented that night was a gift we had chosen some time ago.

For quite a while, we had sought some concrete way to express our gratitude to this woman. Knowing of her plans to travel and of the slow progress she was making towards the attainment of this desire, last spring a few sisters began talking about how happy we'd be if we could expedite matters and send Mrs. Sheppard to Europe this summer.

What began as wishful thinking blossomed into a reality. We opened a savings account for her and our active members and alumnae contributed over the summer and fall until the sum grew to over a thousand dollars.

At Christmas, our houseboys traditionally give Mrs. Sheppard a gift. Because she has always been much more than an employer to them, they too decided to select a special gift for her this year. For her European trip, they chose a movie camera.

After weeks of mounting excitement and preparation, the gifts were finally presented at the formal last Saturday. They came to her as a complete surprise as we had hoped. They were our way of expressing our love and appreciation to one of the finest people we have had the good fortune to know.

The Sisters of Alpha Chi Omega

Happy Birthday
to Ludwig von Beethoven

An Open Letter to Dean Field

Dear Dean Field:

We, the undersigned Presidents of the Southwest Complex, do feel that Dean Robert Hopkins' ruling on open door policy during an open house is in disagreement with the right of students to set and enforce their own house policies.

In signing this, we state our belief that the policy regarding open or closed doors during an open house should be determined by the individual house. This stand is taken in the belief that college students are capable of governing themselves in a responsible manner.

Furthermore, we feel that the reasons against a closed door policy as presented by Dean Robert Hopkins are based on poorly made and thought out arguments; therefore we support the Student Senate bill, S 48, with regard to this matter.

Paul A. Holton — J.F.K. Upper
Brian Nolan — Adams Lower
Steven Camara — Adams Middle
Charles F. Hopkins — Adams Upper
Susan D. Falkhurst — Melville
Mary Frances Procak — Emerson
Samuel D. Cannavo — J.F.K. Middle
Edwin A. Doty — Washington Upper
Neil Sweet, Jr. — Washington Middle
Ruby Parker — J.Q. Adams Lower
Marion "Wendy" Barbeau Thoreau
Richard G. Donoghue — J.F.K. Lower
Joe Miafty — James

A Note from a Websterman

To the Editor:

'Twas the night of the twelfth, and all through Webster House
Not a Umie was stirring, not even a louse.
Then arrived a disturbance, one it would seem
To be a member of Reagan's 20 mule team.
He took our constitution and chewed it to bits,
And everyone on House Council began to have fits.
He scorned an idea we thought we should try,
Because with it, he thought, all would go awry.
Because of the fellow's personal feelings,
All were made ready to hit the ceiling. ceiling.
He persisted so much with speeches and threats
That we finally gave in, fools made to fret.
It may now be too late, but don't you be punished similarly
By the amazing notions of this person, Dick Wimberly.

Ed Rubin '69
Webster House

Vigil Correction

To the Editor:

Leaders of the Peace Vigil, upon reconsideration, thought the proposed march from the University to the Amherst Town Common might alter the spirit created at the Vigil.

In order to maintain a sense of sorrow and quiet dignity, and to avoid moving in the direction of more militant protest, we are cancelling the march, but hope those who would have joined with us in the march will attend the Vigil, 12:00-1:00 every Sunday afternoon, on the Amherst Common.

Louis Pellissier '67
Judy Mostek '67
Steve Krinsky '69

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68
Editorial Chmn.: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports Editor: Mike Gould '67
Feature Editor: Lois Cohen '68
Photography Editor: Eric Wish '68
Advertising Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Circulation Mgr: Bob Godwin '69

FRIDAY DAY EDITORS

News: Marjie Flanders '69
Editorial: Jack Dean '69
Sports: Tom FitzGerald '69
Photo: Bill Gleason '69

During the Day

by HOWARD MOFFETT

SAIGON (CPS) — Saigon is probably the world's most relaxed center of intrigue, violence and war. It doesn't seem like a city under seige.

Sloe-eyed will-o'-wisp girls dressed in soft slit ao dai's and spiked heels walk narrow boulevards with green elms or tropical palms.

In the market old men squat on the curb over a game of Chinese chess. Their women are nearby, chewing betel nut, grinning and spitting the juice through red-stained teeth.

At the Cercle Sportif Vietnamese and European girls lounge in bikinis beside the pool, while wealthy white-clad warriors shoot tennis balls at each other on beautifully groomed courts.

In low-slung French colonial office buildings, civil servants who have kept papers moving for nine governments in three years go on stamping and filing, conversing in French on difficult bureaucratic questions, and drinking tea.

The university opens a month late, and even then no one seems to know the exact date until one day classes break out.

Young women and middle-aged men wear silk or cotton pajamas much of the day. It does save time, because from 12 to 3 in the afternoon the city shuts down and people sleep.

Newcomers are often baffled by the casual air that hangs over much of Saigon. "I thought there was a war going on here," one five-day veteran said recently.

Saigon is hot and muggy. It is also a place where a war is no longer an emergency condition but the normal state of things. A certain percentage of the population has been engaged in killing as a profession for many years, and the tendency has been to turn it into a nine-to-five job. A nine-to-five job loses its excitement after a while.

Though it doesn't move very fast, Saigon is one of the world's busiest and most crowded urban areas. There are two and a half million people living here now, one-sixth of the population of South Vietnam. The city was built for about half that number: it has doubled in the last five years.

Saigon wakes early. Curfew ends at 4 a.m. and the ten great markets of the capital open for business. A stream of peasants brings chickens, pigs, rice, vegetables and fruit into town. By noon all the food has been bought, the central market is deserted, and rats the size of kittens scuttle along the cement gutters gnawing on vegetable husks and other refuse.

The stalls of the 'common man's PX'" have been set up downtown. Army ponchos are spread on sidewalks and vendors hawk everything from French toothpaste to American whiskey and C-rations. Mothers nurse their babies as they sit cross-legged in the sun, teenagers hold out sunglasses or cigarette lighters, tiny little girls grab your hand and stuff a bag of peanuts into it, and everybody asks, "You buy? Cheap, cheap."

Everywhere people are building—hotels, apartments, offices, private homes. Saigon's first department store is going up on Tu Do Street. Off a back alley near a sewer-canal, truckloads of rubble fill in a plot of swamp, and two weeks later workers are finishing the second story of a new house. Bricks are thrown up one by one to a middle man who stacks them while a third lays them in with cheap mortar.

Time for Taking

To the Editor:

After spending almost four years at the University without losing a coat, notebook, pen, or Student ID, my record was finally broken.

Thanks to the smiling janitor "with the crinkly eyes" who located my pocketbook in Goodell Library, my faith in goodwill was restored, however. After a night of frustration, phonecalls (cancelling my checkbook etc.) and useless searching, I received a pleasant Tuesday morning phonecall.

I imagine I was taking a chance when I left my pocketbook under my coat on the counter outside the bound periodicals on Level 5 Monday at 4 P.M. (After all, it is the Christmas season and money is scarce.) For at 5 P.M. when I emerged from the stacks, my pocketbook had disappeared.

Yet, I still fail to understand how a University of Massachusetts student could be so petty. ID, driver's license, glasses and checkbook remained intact. But the wallet I found empty of all change and bills, amounting to no more than three dollars total.

I certainly hope that the gift bought with my money is well received. I also hope it is given with pride and true Christmas spirit!

Thank you again, Mr. Janitor, for returning my pocketbook from Level 4 to Lost and Found. If I knew your name I would thank you personally. But I can only call you a true Santa "with crinkly eyes" and a smile.

Jean Hammersley '67

Campus Comment

Look Within . . .

To the Editor:

Some immature Webstermen, obviously bored with their sheltered lives, wrote a pointless, illogical letter which should challenge and disgust any aware observer. This farcical letter caused many Orchard Hill students to sense the apparent immaturity and blindness of these three "men."

For example, these "men" were wholeheartedly disgusted with "Playboy" magazine (or perhaps sour for having lost the raffle themselves?)

These "courageous men" were holding within themselves the terrible guilt and knowledge concerning the lack of fire hoses within their dorm . . . To think of the courage it took to reveal such a lawless act.

These "valiant men" realize that the peak of immorality is concealing a five foot refrigerator within the confines of the dorm (or perhaps they thought a 5' blonde was captured in deep freeze for frequent use?)

We realize that this sudden, two-year downfall must be upsetting. The final shock is the birth of a "left-winged" (?), original newspaper. Of course, "left-winged" implies that the editor lives on the left-wing of the dorm (that is if you are facing Amherst).

Do these "men" feel that one unfortunate incident concerning narcotics can stereotype the entire dorm? If so, their letter on December 12th will blemish all Webstermen as an immature, illogical group of jokers.

Living on Orchard Hill within the Residence College, we feel that Webster is still noted for its cultural events and tremendous spirit. These three "men" should look within themselves and would certainly find the problem there—not in Noah Webster House!

Gail Danckert '70
Celia Mandel '70

Letters to the Editor

MUST

be signed. Names will be withheld on request

If after all this time you still don't know what a Uniroyal is, we (the U.S. Rubber Co.) ought to be shot. Uniroyal is the new world-wide trademark of the U.S. Rubber Co. and it also replaces the dozens of different names and trademarks we've been using in 150 countries.

But—what's wrong with the good old-fashioned name of U.S. Rubber?

The answer is—we have neither been old-fashioned nor exclusively U.S. nor exclusively rubber for a very long time. Just look at some of the exciting non-rubber products we make:

Royalex,® a thermoplastic for auto and truck bodies which is not only harder to dent than steel but, if dented, pops back as good as new under heat. Sexy Eskiloos® boots for the ladies, and Keds,® the famous line of soft, colorful family shoes that are as easy to look at as they are to wear. Wet suits for aquanauts. Polycrest,® our new olefin fiber, that's more stain resistant than any other kind of carpet fiber alive. Alanap,® a smart weed killer for weeds that are too smart for other weed killers. SBR, a synthetic rubber (from which we make our Rain Tires™ and Tiger Paws ™) that's tougher, safer and longer-lasting than natural rubber.

Now you can see why we had to change our company's trademark—we needed a new trademark to better suit our derring-do. But we're never going to forget our forebear, the U.S. Rubber Company. Never! In fact, some of us here would feel a great deal better in our hearts if our new world trademark read, "Uniroyal, son of U.S. Rubber."

UNIROYAL
U.S. RUBBER

A man who actually knows what a UniRoyal is will be on campus soon.

(Check with your placement office for the exact date and time)

Merry Christ

Christmas is sugarplumarvelous . . .

Silent Night . . . the glowing hearth . . . smoldering birch logs . . . the play of shadows . . . "and the stockings were hung" . . . the fresh spicy evergreen . . . cranberry and popcorn chains . . . lustrous mirror-balls . . . a golden star . . . gifts nestled among fallen needles . . . ruddy crimsons and ambrosial greens . . . splashes of bows Christmas is gumdropwonderful . . .

The velvety umber turkey . . . sunny squash and incensed mince . . . ruby cranberry . . . burnt sienna pumpkin . . . twin-kling tabers and subtle wintergre peppy peppermint and auburn almo fawn hickory and plum raisins . . . Christmas is candycanemiraculous .

O Holy Night . . . serene eggshell of snow . . . flake-white ivory car rejoice! . . . God rest ye merry azu . . . glimmering starry host shimn the tranquil radiating manger . . . g toward the pale angelic halo . . . t matic virgin smiles . . . the sile breathes love . . .

— Gerald W.

Ingrid-Ingrid walks on past
Santa with the brass bell
Santa with the long johns
Santa with the high voice

Ingrid-Ingrid walks on past
Santa from the River Dells
Santa from the Babylons
Santas of the people's choice

Ingrid-Ingrid walks on and on just shining presents pleasant people
the steeple in the snow
she has someplace to go

Ingrid-Ingrid, not the gift
but a thought has brought you to the last cold plot of sky
not yet Christmas bought or sold

here is your gift

Ingrid-Ingrid walked on past some sky where she had seen at last

— N. C. Scanlan

I think that I shall never write,
A poem as lovely as Christmas night,
Decked in colored lights galore,
Bought at the local discount store

— Dan Weir

"Lift up your head,
There is no more time for walking so engrossed.
Consider that this day will never dawn again!"

Finals right around the corner.

Thanksgiving is just over, the last of the turkey is just a fond belch.

Christmas is coming: vacation starts the 21st.

Have to find a ride home before this weekend, get packed Monday night, bring all the textbooks home, try to cop some money from the parents to buy Christmas presents for them and the relatives, have to write a paper sometime, and oh, save five or ten of that present money for New Year's eve, send some cards to relatives who always send back a dollar or five in a card.

Can't forget to send a hearts-and-flowers, one dollar card to the girl at her house. (it's a good thing that came up — have to start lining up some dates for vacation at home . . . particularly New Year's).

Hope the slopes are open, have to con the car from Dad and get some of the g go to New Hampshire, great part girls there, hope none of her frie me, must be more to do this vacat yeah, be a good time to go and loc summer job, impress the employer tle kissin' never hurt.

Should be some good ballgames o Frank's place—a few sixpacks and got to call Frank about that ride, r bit of icefishing if the weather is cold.

Christmas day: open presents, long-distance and talk to her pare some dates and go to Frank's (have for the car, Dad'll scream).

Get that skiing in then and back party, have to sleep at Frank's night, probably be sick as a dog after, some more good games on can't forget to hit Frank for a ride Monday . . .

"Thou hast conquered, O pale Galile The world has grown gray fro breath!"

— Tom Do

Photos by Dick LaFontaine

Layout by Lois Cohen

mas, UMass!

Christmas is walking in a city park, just after sunset when the lights come on. Walking with your arms around each other, looking at glowing orange lights and crisp green trees that smell of pine and fresh-cut wood.

Chasing each other through undisturbed snow, towards a huge golden tree. The snow is golden from its lights. The new snow crunches beneath you as you run, arms outstretched as if to embrace the outline of the golden tree.

At the doorstep, you both shake off the powdery snow from black, knee-high boots in a hurry to get in from the cold.

Christmas is coming in to a warm fireside and drinking hot buttered rum trying to warm up your red hands and nose. Listen to the wood crackling, and a Christmas carol on a music box while you sit together on a fluffy, fuzzy bear rug. The decorations on the tree rustle as you examine the unwrapped gifts under it.

Christmas is seeing dear friends you haven't seen for a year. You pour eggnog from a crystal bowl into silver-bottomed glasses. You all remember last year's turkey dinner as you smell this year's in the kitchen.

Christmas is your two little ones, sneaking a peek at the tree and guests from the stairway. You all wrap their presents. They whisper a little too loudly to be good sleuths, but you let them watch anyway and pretend not to see them.

Christmas is tinsel, and light, and warmth. Christmas is feeling warm inside just being together. Christmas is love.

— Joan Lezar

Snowflakes fall, covering me with whiteness,
I close my eyes, trying to breathe in the snow,
Trying to shut out tinsel
trees,
And all their permanence.
And in the snow-filled brightness of my mind-
May cease-fires lead to an end to hatred.
May I come to know
The non-electric brightness of holiness
And of love-
Come to see in the meager,
Dirty faces of children,
Myself,
Or maybe God-
To see Christmas born again,
In some manger, with no
spot-lights shining,
No crowds gaping, laden
with gifts for themselves,
With real angels, instead of plastic ones,
And may I at last find peace-
Within and without.

— Dan Weir

Christmas is —

— a sun-streaked smile
— wool-cuffed hands clasped in singularity
— brandy-glowing faces
— a snow-spotted card from the runny-nosed paperboy
— a rosy-cheeked greeting from the person who's a stranger during the rest of the year

Christmas morning is—

— wrapped up in the caressing folds of a calico quilt
— globs of satin jelly enhancing humble pancakes
—love, the monetary kind
— the lace-encrusted handkerchief from Aunt "Somebody-orother."

— Lorraine Balch

Only two more hours—two more hours, then this torture will be over until next year. I don't know if I can make it. First they cry, and throw temper tantrums. Then they climb all over me, kick me, and punch me. While they sit there demanding the impossible of me, their grimy, sticky hands pull at my clothing. All of them step on my toes and bruise my shins climbing onto my lap. Once there, the little demons pull at my hair, yank my beard, and pinch my nose. They must make sure that I'm real. Now that they have assured themselves of my existance, they fire batteries of questions at me. Where do I grow the oranges? Who makes the new rockets? Can I bring them a baby sister rather than a baby brother? What happens if it doesn't snow? What do I do Christmas day? Would I prefer hot chocolate or cold milk? After they have satisfied their intellectual curiosity, the "dears" begin with their long line of "I wants." Naturally, the mother signals either yes or no with a turn of her head. Of course, I must comply by discouraging such wishes as ponies, drums, and jet pro-pelled planes. Cheerfully I send them off with a sugary candy cane and promises of goodies to come. Alas, the seemingly endless line has ended. Five o'clock is here; Christmas day is tomorrow. Thank God I'm Santa Claus only once a year!

— Josephine Granfield

Excitement on the Air

On the other side of this door is a conglomeration of technical broadcasting machinery, "mikes" turntables, tapes, and a group of students who work hard to run a radio station — and enjoy every minute of it.

Open the door to room forty-two in the Engineering Building and you have entered a world of excited, motivated and responsible people. This world is the fourteen-hundred square foot home of W.M.U.A. — the voice of Amherst radio.

It is one of the closest fraternal houses on campus, where there is strong sense of belonging and a desire to socialize. The diversity of personalities run a wide gambit from the super-conceited who want to show everyone that they are just that, to the inadequates who want to show everyone that they are not that.

They are thrown together into a united effort — the production and delivery of a radio broadcast.

Their job is challenging and enjoyable. It is also professional and fun. Their only pay is personal satisfaction.

Pete Ward (left) and Dan Weir, WMUA Educational Director, present a silly but interesting pair on Dan's new and so-far-successful show. Lively conversation is a prerequisite for any radio broadcaster, and this is one of Dan's specialties.

As Norm Ryan, Station Manager, chose to put it, "Some people collect stamps; some people play cards; Some people play chess; I play radio."

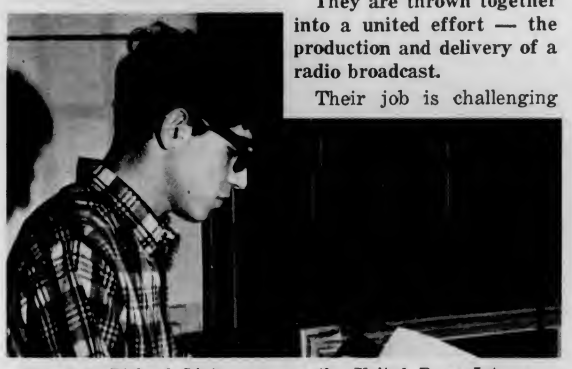
In short, W.M.U.A. means a hobby of excellence where it may take thirty hours of work to prepare an hour's program.

The world of W.M.U.A. is an attractive outlet where students can express themselves. It is live-spontaneous-good. It is enjoyable challenge in responsibility.

Operations Require Skill and Initiative

There are four main subdivisions of operations. They include the disc-jockey, the engineer, the newsman, and the program director. Each has his own specialty, and each takes a personal pride in producing a good product.

PERSONALITY MAN



The disc-jockey must have his own personality characteristic. A high-pitched, crackling, or accented voice gives him a distinct personality. He has to present an 'image'—something different that will attract a listening audience to him.

He also must possess an extensive backlogue of knowledge in order to be informative. The job of dic-jockey is quite creative, and demands a sense of spontaneity.

UNSUNG HERO

The technical engineer is the unsung hero of the operation. He has to have the technical knowledge to keep the operation running smoothly. He also assists the man behind the mike on time, cut-offs, and tapes. He is even capable of changing the tone and quality of the sound. He, in many ways, has the most responsibility since he is the nerve center of a complex mire of meters, jacks, and electrical output.

The newsman must have a 'nose' for the news. He must present the pertinent facts accurately and quickly. The news department of W.M.U.A. has filtered people throughout the campus at strategic locations, and it is their responsibility to call into the station when any news breaks.

Newsman Richard Lipton screens the United Press International news wire for pertinent releases, to be read over the air on the next news broadcast.

Also W.M.U.A. has the services of United Press Int rnational which produces a continuous composit of news twenty-four hours a day.

The station programmer is responsible for directing personel and making sure that the station keeps a certain standard at all times. He is the innovater—the creator of news and the improver of existing shows. In short, he lubricates the operations so that they will 'jell' into a smoothly running procedure.

FUTURE FORECAST

What about the future of W.M.U.A.? Its future lies within the plans of the new Student Center. The new studios will be more scientific and more radio - oriented. Programming will be extended to a year-round basis with broadcasting during the summer months.

Certain shows will be preprogrammed and the station will slowly begin to have a more forceful voice in campus activities.

W.M.U.A.'s future responsibility lies in its ability to play a more professional role through experience, but never letting loose of the enjoyable aspect.

Standards Must Be Set and Met

Program Director Charles Lawrence alternates between speaking to the staff, typing programs and plans, and handling telephone calls. His job is an important one! It is the Program Director who innovates shows, improves existing ones, and sets and keeps high standards for his station.

What'll you give 'em this year?

Binoculars
Contact lense supplies
Microscopes
Mineral Kits
Spotting Scope
Hobbyist's Magnifier
Ski Goggles
Magnifying glasses
Tensor lamps
'67 Sunglasses with hardened lenses

Don Call OPTICIAN Has All

AMHERST Cinema
NOW • Ends Sat.
"Kaleidoscope"
with
Warren Beatty
Susannah York
in COLOR

SUN. - MON. - TUES.
ULTRA-MOD MYSTERY
GREGORY PECK SOPHIA LOREN
A STANLEY DONEN PRODUCTION
ARABESQUE

MOUNTAIN PARK
RTE. 5, HOLYOKE — GO WHERE THE ACTION IS
SAT. 8 P.M.
IN PERSON
MITCH RYDER and the DETROIT WHEELS
Devil With A Blue Dress On & Good Golly Miss Molly"
SAT., DEC. 29 — IN PERSON
SAM THE SHAM & THE PHARAOHS
"How To Catch A Girl"
EVERY SAT. 8 P.M. COLLEGE MIXER

..... says
MARLON BRANDO
in
One Eyed Jacks showing at
MAHAR AUDIT.
Monday, December 19
8 p.m.
50¢ Soccer Club

WMUA Radio

It Caters To All Tastes

W.M.U.A. is a professional business that caters to a possible three-hundred thousand people in a radius of thirty miles from its antenna location on top of the Engineering Building. The station is equipped with thirty-thousand dollars worth of technical machinery, and its facilities are probably the best in Western Massachusetts.

It is by far the most fully equipped ten watt F.M. station in the country. About twenty-five 'hard core' people grind out most of the work daily, with about sixty or seventy people connected in one way or another. In all, the station is a highly intricate, interdependent student-run undertaking.

The station differs from a commercial station by one important factor—it is student-operated with a listening audience set in a campus environment. It is licensed by the Federal Communication Commission as an 'educational station'.

Alternating turntables, taking calls, checking equipment, are WMUA staffers Stu Goldman and George Drake. The masses of machinery no longer seem awesome to them—with experience comes competence and confidence.

However, it is much more than this. It caters to a homogeneous group (college students) that has many diversified interests.

It is the purpose and function of W.M.U.A. to cater to each characteristic listening audience proportionately with 'rock' and middle-of-the-road receiving most of the attention, and jazz and classical getting a less proportionate amount. The idea is to service every interest — at the same time, not sacrificing the minority in the process.

WMUA has a collection of over 6,000 albums and 1,000 45's from which it broadcasts a

This, then, has been a limited capsule view of UMass's radio center and the people who make it 'tick':

Turn your dial any evening to 91.1 mega cycles and you may hear Norm Ryan say, "You're listening to Amherst radio, W.M.U.A. . . ."

Text by Jerome S. Horvitz
Photos by
Stan Furman
Layout by
Lois Cohen

THE SPREAD-EAGLE OF TECHNOLOGY AT GRUMMAN

Ranges from inner to outer space

Grumman has special interest for the graduating engineer and scientist seeking the widest spread of technology for his skills. At Grumman, engineers are involved in deep ocean technology...engineers see their advanced aircraft designs proven daily in the air over Vietnam, and soon...in outer space, the Grumman LM (Lunar Module) will land the astronauts on the lunar surface. Grumman, situated in Bethpage, L.I. (30 miles from N.Y.C.), is in the cultural center of activity. Universities are close at hand for those who wish to continue their studies. C.C.N.Y., Manhattan College, New York University, Pratt Institute, Columbia University, State University at Stony Brook, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, Hofstra University and Adelphi College are all within easy distance. The surroundings are not hard to take. Five beautiful public golf courses are in Bethpage—two minutes from the plant. White sand beaches stretch for miles along the Atlantic (12 minutes drive). The famed sailing reaches of Long Island Sound are only eleven miles away. The informal atmosphere is a Grumman tradition, matched by an equally hard-nosed one of turning out some of the free world's highest performance aircraft systems and space vehicles.

Taking their place in a long line of Grumman aircraft that have contributed to the national defense, the aircraft shown below are performing yeoman service in Vietnam.

Currently, Grumman engineers, pulling the state of the art relentless forward, are engrossed in still more advanced aircraft and aerospace vehicles. These include:

Here then is the opportunity for graduating engineers . . . AEs, CEs, EEs, MEs, IEs, Physic majors and Chemical Engineering majors . . . to take their place in the continuum of technology that is Grumman. Grumman representatives will be

ON CAMPUS JANUARY 5

If an interview is not convenient at this time, send a comprehensive resume to: Mr. Peter C. Van Putten, Director of Employment, Dept. GR 251.

GRUMMAN
AIRCRAFT ENGINEERING CORPORATION
Bethpage • Long Island • New York
An equal opportunity employer (M/F)

Audience Greatly Enjoys UMass Symphony Orchestra's Season Opener

By PAT GROTH

Last Tuesday night the University Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Donald Steele opened its season with a concert in Bowker Auditorium.

The program opened with Brahms "Academic Festival Overture", a piece that requires a great deal of control. The seventy - six member orchestra played it with that control, that quickly put the audience in the spirit of the piece.

The highlight of the evening was the second number on the program, the "Concerto in D" for Cello and Orchestra" by Franz Joseph Haydn. The orchestra was cut down to strings, oboes and horns to accompany Joel Krosnick, the soloist executing this difficult work.

As he played Mr. Krosnick demonstrated a mastery of his instrumtnt that is rarely seen. Delicately and sensitively, he wove the ornaments and trills around the sonorous themes that Haydn had written.

The last movement, "Rondo; Allegro, was particularly pleasing to the audience. It managed to combine cheerfulness and high spirits with the essentially lyrical nature of the cello.

Mr. Krosnick's fingers were flying, yet even at the fast tempo, the orchestra never once covered the soloist.

The second half of the concert opened with a work by Vivaldi, "Concerto in C for Two Trumpets, Strings, and Harpsichord."

The trumpet soloists were Douglas Purcell and Paul Amundsen. Though standing far back on the stage, they projected clear, bright brass sounds far into the audience.

Members of the University Symphony Orchestra prepare for the first concert of the season.

Their lines were contrapunta, actually in round form, in nature, and the two exhibited exquisite precision playing them. The harpsichord sound, however, was lost, covered entirely by the strings.

The final number done by full orchestra was "Four Dance Episodes from Rodeo", by Aaron Copland. This was an extremely modern work that truly brings the country western theme into the concert hall.

The work suddenly was a change form the more classical pieces the orchestra had played. "Buckaroo Holiday", the first of the dances, brought the audience to the edges of their seats with exciting dissonances, and short solo passages passed from one section to another.

"Corral Nocturne", the second dance, was a soft slow lullaby, a far cry from the vigor of the previous movement. "Hoe-Down", the final dance, was again full of spirit. It repeated many of the themes established in the first dance, but approached them even more vigorously.

The percussion section was especially active in "Hoe-Down", with all sorts of special effects on the cymbals and tympani, and a repeated pattern throughout. It was a particularly fitting end to the concert.

The entire concert was extremely well executed with some minor intonation problems, and a decided lack of space. The orchestra played with a sensitivity that was astounding.

The works themselves were diversified enough to hold the attention of the audience quite easily. Everyone present could not help but value the musical adeptness of those on stage.

Certainly those who attended will be looking forward to the Orchestra's last performance in May.

FACULTY SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

January 9, 10, and 11, 1967. The structure of the review period shall be left to the discretion of the individual faculty member, but in keeping with the concept of a review period, it is strongly recommeneded that no new material be introduced during the time, and that class attendance should not be made mandatory during this period.

Dean Discusses Open Door Policy--

(Continued on page 2)

He explained that, "There's not a school in the country that's been happy with a closed door policy." With respect to opinion off campus, Dean Field went on to say that a closed door policy "scares people to death."

Citing Oberlin College as a school where such a policy has created problems, he told those present, "I think you'd find a closed door policy impossible since the administration would be forced by outside pressure to act as policemen during these sessions."

He went on to explain, "No group of students would want to police a closed door policy. The only way to police a closed door policy is to knock on the door, go in and see what they're doing. No student group in the country would take this responsibility."

As far as a possible change in the policy is concerned, Dean Field said that any such change would have to follow the course of the no curfew regulation, all the way from the Student Life Committee through the Board of Trustees.

While he termed such a change as "absurd," he admitted that a year ago he would have called a no curfew policy "absurd" also.

From still another point of view, Dean Field pointed out that other groups watch students for a possible situation that would prove them to be unworthy of the funds available from the state. The new library calls for one-fifth of the money allotted annually. An incident that occurred behind closed doors could, he felt, be used by a group competing for that money to show us not worthy of it.

A further discussion of the open door policy is likely this Saturday at a conference on Judiciary that Dean Field hopes will be attended by a representative of each House Council or Judiciary.

Turning to a question concerned with a place for students to go after midnight, Dean Field expressed the view that there is far too little demand for this. But he did announce that the library will probably be available later than usual during finals, and the Hatch would remain open for one hour after the library closed.

In regard to a lack of activities in this area, Dean Field said he would support the current proposal for greater bus service service throughout the four college area.

Before concluding his talk, Dean Field entertained questions on his interest in fraternities. A firm belief, he said, that students should have a variety of modes of residence, has made his a supporter of fraternities and sororities.

As to the possible feeling that Greeks regard him as unfavorable to their system, he pointed out that the faculty considers him to be pro-fraternity.

He continued to say that if the University was really trying to destroy the system, it would not have helped SDT or any other House to obtain a loan. Since this is not what the Administration has done, he indicated that a charge of trying to destroy the system is unfair.

WINTER CARNI . . .

(Continued from page 1)

the stage as parents and students alike revel in the sound of Benny Goodman and the Ramsey Lewis Trio. The suspense will be culminated by the crowning of the queen after weeks of judging events.

Midweek will snowball into the conclusion of the "Winter Happening" with an inspiring jazz concert by vivacious Miriam Williams. It will also include an all night dance featuring old records, a fun-filled ski trip and a delicious pancake breakfast. The traditional Friday night ball has been replaced with a simulated nightclub atmosphere.

A program of Winter Olympics, toboggan run, ski show and powder puff hockey on the campus pond will fill Saturday's agenda. That evening folk singer Tom Rush and Bill Cosby will perform.

Sunday, February twenty-sixth, will provide a sensational close to Winter Carnival with a concert with the Lovin' Spoonful and the Young Rascals.

–Notices–

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
There will be a bus Saturday, Dec. 17, going to Belchertown State School for all those who are interested in spending Sat. afternoon with the mentally retarded. Volunteers are desperately needed—Anyone can qualify—Bus leaves North Dining Commons parking lot at 1:20 p.m. and stops at Newman Center at 1:25 p.m.

FREE TUTORING SERVICE
Call Phi Eta Sigma Brothers:
Astronomy 101-102—A. Carson, D. Robertson
Chemistry 111-112—J. Bernat, T. Hoffman, W. Lafleur, G. Sheppard, G. Hertz
Chemistry 113-114—J. Bernat, W. Lafleur
English 111-112—G. Hertz
Engineering 103-104—J. Fredette
Geology—R. Vall
German—D. Cohen
Math 123-124—J. Bernat, T. Hoffman, G. Sheppard, L. Immonen
Math 135-136—J. Fredette
Spanish—G. Hertz
Psychology 105-5—P. Toyama, W. Rhodes
Zoology 101—W. Lafleur, D. Cohen, G. Hertz
Information—G. Sheppard, W. Rhodes

YOUNG INDEPENDENTS
At 6:30 on Mon., Dec. 17, the meeting that was postponed last Thursday will be held in Nantucket Room, S.U. There will be more discussion on the University position paper.

OUTING CLUB
Mt. Holyoke Range hike and taffy pull party on Sat., Dec. 17. See bulletin board for details.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
On Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 8:00 P.M. in Hasbrouck 134 there will be election of officers. All voting members please attend.

PRE-MED, DENT ADVISORY COMMITTEE
On Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 7:30 P.M. in Colonial Lounge, S.U. there will be an Xmas Party.
All invited—opportunity to meet individually the members of the advisory committee. Refreshments will be served.

AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION
On Monday, Dec. 19, there will be a business meeting in EBE 104. All members must attend.

LOST:
Class ring from Silver Lake Regional High School. Blue stone. Initials DRF. Reward. Contact 415 Chadbourne.
UMass class ring '68, blue stone with Phi Sigma Kappa Emblem. Initials DAA. Please call 256-6607.

PINNINGS:
Esther Green, Boston, to Edward Brilliant, class '68, Sigma Alpha Mu.
Ava J. Schwartz, class of '69, Boston State College, to Michael K. Goldstein, class of '68.
Polly Perreault, class of '68, Lewis, to Carl Paquette, class of '68, Springfield College.

SKI MORE!
PAY LESS DRIVE LESS

- New Beginners To Advance Novice Area
- Intermediate To Expert Area
- Each Serviced by Chairs, T-Bars and J-Bar
- 24 Trails and Slopes
- Natur Teknik Ski School
- Snow Making

Latest Ski Reports 413-339-4986
Room Reservations 413-339-6610
Where the Action Is!
Thunder Mountain
Charlemont, Mass.
Route 2, Mohawk Trail

STUDENT UNION DANCE COMMITTEE PRESENTS
BATTLE OF THE BANDS
- POOR LIL RICH BOYS
- SOMETHING NEW
- THE BOSS TWEEDS
- PLAGUE
- THE KEGGS
- THE PARIAHS

ACTING JUDGES:
KEN GRIFFIN — WDRC
STU GOLDMAN — WMUA
GLENN SPATOLA — WMUA

STU. UNION BALLROOM
75¢ ADMISSION
8:00 P.M.
DECEMBER 17

Discount Ducats For Tournament

Special student discount tickets for the Boston Garden Holiday Basketball Tournament next Tuesday and Wednesday are on sale at the Boyden Ticket Office. Prices are $2.00 and $1.50. UMass will be meeting Manhattan in the first round on Tuesday at 7 p.m., followed by Boston College-Syracuse at 9. On Wednesday, the consolation game will start at 7 p.m. and the final will be played at 9.

FAST EDDIE—UMass goalie Ed Sanborn has been outstanding during the Redmen's first few games.

Line-up Shuffled as Redmen Enter Ice Tourney Opener vs. Williams

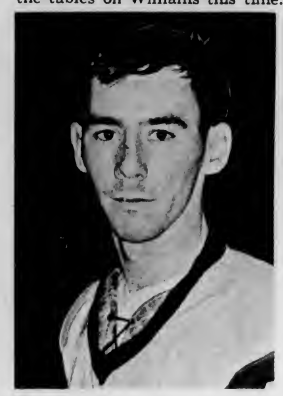
by DAVE HANSON, Sports Staff

Hoping to bounce back from their 6-2 defeat at the hands of A.I.C. Tuesday night, the UMass hockey team will shuffle their personnel for tomorrow's opening game of the Amherst Holiday Tournament. The Redmen will face Williams College at 1 p.m. at Orr Rink.

First-line center Ed Quimby has been shifted to defense with Bill Skowyra moving over from second-line center chores to fill in at wing for Charlie Hanifan, who has taken Quimby's spot. Sophomore Fran Mulcahey rounds out the trio at left wing.

Captain Ed Polchlopek will center the second line with penalty - killing specialist Jim O'Brien at left wing and veteran Frank Buckler at right.

The third line, consisting of sophomores Jeff Sanborn, John Hartnett and Don Robinson, will remain intact and will be out to match their five-goal performance of last Saturday against Amherst.



Aiding on the points will be sophomores Joe Dicicco and Dave Goldberg and seniors Ed Garney and John Ledwick. Netminder Ed Sanborn, averaging about 25 stops a game, can be counted on for another fine performance as the locals fight for their third victory in five starts.

Key to a victory over Williams tomorrow will be containing Jim Roe, an ECAC College Division All-Star last year, who was instrumental in the Ephs' 5 - 4 victory over the Redmen last week at Williamstown.

Other first round tournament action will include defending champion A. I. C. against dark horse Norwich at 3:30, Amherst against Hamilton at 6:45 and Bowdoin against UConn at 9:30.

A.I.C., off to an excellent start this year, could be upset by Norwich. Hamilton and Bowdoin could skate to easy victories, while the Redmen should turn the tables on Williams this time.

WHO'S WHO ON THE ICE — Two of the most talented performers to appear during the Amherst Holiday Tournament will be Jim Roe (left) of Williams and Roger Guillemette of Norwich.

INTRAMURALS

LCA, KS and AEP Struggle For Top in Frat 'B' League

by ROGER KIPP, Sports Staff

Three of the six dorm leagues are wrapped up in intramural basketball, while TEP appears a winner in the Fraternity "A" loop. The Fraternity "B" League is a three-way tussle between LCA, KS and AEP, and there are likely to be playoffs in the West, South and Tower Leagues.

Independent action sees the Chem Club (6-0) out in front of Harry's Heroes and the Imps, both 5-1, in the American Division, while the Tigers and Independents are both 5-0 in the National Division. The Untouchables are the apparent winners in the International Division.

Tuesday's actions in the Independent Division, saw the Brethrens top the Selohssas, 41 - 33, Chem Club over APO, 76-30, and Harry's over Lucky's, 64-51. The powerful Blues, who may still have a chance to unseat the Untouchables, walloped the Left - overs, 109-33. The Blues had no favorite scorer as Kent Stevens has 26, Joe Divincenzo, 24, and John Forys, 26.

The Untouchables have lost the services of valuable Al Garsys, but seem to show no ill-effects as they clobbered the Trojans, 89-37, with the help of Charlie LaPier (25 points) and John Yates (30). The Flashers, behind 20 markers from John Alberti nudged Courtesy Taxi, 62-58.

In dorm action, the Spartans of the tower League played the role of spoilers as they knocked off the Smashers, 59 - 47. The Smashers, who were hoping to do in basketball what they had done in football, had their hopes crushed as they forgot to keep an eye on Steve Maloney, who pumped 28 points. The loss leaves the Smashers 5-2, one game behind the Redmooks (6-1), who bested the Hemlocks, 49-28, and the Flaming A's (also 6-1), who were successful in beating the Apples, 50-30. In a game which had no bearing on the league championship, the Seagrams got a one-point non over the Academics, 37-36. The Flaming A's and the Redwoods now tangle in a playoff for the title.

The West League likewise has a close race. The Elms won Tuesday night over the Pines, 51-34, but couldn't shake either the Hi-Los, who won by forfeit, or the Oaks, who bumped off the Maples, 71-50. The Elms are 6-1, but both the Hi Los and the Oaks are 5-1, are hot on their trail.

East League plas is finished, with the victorious Maroons waiting for playoff competition. They finished their regular season with another smashing victory. This time the victims were the Eagles, who succumbed, 77-34. As might be suspected, the league's two leading scorers are Will Frisbee and John Murphy of the Maroons.

The Cougars are the class of the Southwest League, going undefeated in seven games. Their most recent triumph came at the expense of the Panthers, 84-23. The Patriots bested the Colonials, 67 - 58, and biggest noise came from, you guessed it, Ray Stanelis who got 33 points. Leopards ripped the Jaguars, 53-11, and the Commanches hipped the Colts, 35-33.

The Flaming A's have won the North League with a perfect 7-0 slate, beating out the Lemons, who trailed by a game at 6-1. The A's finished the season by thumping the defending champion Aces, 51-32, while the Chestnuts won over the Panthers, 54-43, and the Rams bucked the Hawks, 46-42.

Fraternity action saw the B loop knotted up between LCA, KS and AEP. LCA, 4-1, used foul shooting to down AEP, 40-39. AEP is now 4-1, as is Kappa Sig. KS, a well - organized club which handed LCA its only loss, crushed ASP, 59-32. AEP and KS have yet to play each other, so when these two excellent clubs bump heads, one will probably be eliminated from the championship circle.

Elsewhere, PSD pulled a surprising, 60-59, victory over ATG, while PMD had the best of it in its game with TKE, 46-39. SPE's Al Sagesse had a good time of it against a relatively small SAM team as he pulled down 14 rebounds and popped 21 points in his team's 53 - 23 triumph.

TEP outclassed TC, 60 - 39, Wednesday to virtually clinch the A title. They had only to beat SAM last night to go to 7-0 and clinch it. If they lose to SAM (1-5), Zeta Nu, with only one loss, could tie it up. ZN preserved what slight chance they had by edging BKP, 45-44.

In other games, the Hangovers stoned the Phantoms, 60-39, the Blues white-washed the Zeroes, 54-43, the Tigers roared past the Griffins, 59-20, and the Foundrymen cemented the Bismarks, 31 - 28.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

WANTED

Combo needed for Dinner Dance, Feb. 11, 1967. Call HO 7-7699.

Furnished apartment for 4 seniors. Call AL 3-9121. Ask for Cage, Blur, Tub, or Zeke.

Seniors, grads, others 21 or over to have a blast at Brook Senior House this Friday night, with Go-Go Girls, Band and Mountain-Dew!

Beginning January, faculty member has room in comfortable house, with privacy for student, in exchange for babysitting, 1 Child. Call 253-7679.

GRADUATE STUDENTS ONLY —One large sunny room with twin beds available for 2, and one smaller room for single student. Board available if desired. Located in center of town. Call 253-9806.

HELP WANTED

Part time — 3 eves and Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply Rm. 20, Masonic Bldg., 25 Main St., Northampton, Fri. eve. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

AUTOMOBILES

MGA parts engine (1600), seats, radio & wire wheels. Call 256-6851.

FOR SALE

Ski equipment BLITZ WOOD SKIIS—190 cm., good condition. Binding-Dovre, excellent condition. Boots-Reiker, excellent condition, size 6½.
Contact Etel Tumma, Kappa Kappa Gamma, 545-0320 or 545-0321. (between 5-7)

LOST

Will person who found a black wallet in or near Boyden. Please call 549-0626.

Pearl ring with 3 diamonds, set in white gold. Left on 3rd floor of Public Health Dec. 5. Please contact Beta, 1806 Coolidge, 6-8196 Reward.

For Rent

Rooms to rent in Sunderland. Private entrance, room care and linens furnished. 10 min. to campus. Call 665-4688.

OPPORTUNITIES

The presidents of Austria, Denmark, Norway and Iceland urge the use of the international language Esperanto. Learn it now. Telephone 253-7647 between 7 and 10 p.m. for information.
201 Wheeler.

Please don't zlupf Sprite. It makes plenty of noise all by itself.

Sprite, you recall, is the soft drink that's so tart and tingling, we just couldn't keep it quiet.

Flip its lid and it really flips. Bubbling, fizzing, gurgling, hissing and carrying on all over the place.

An almost excessively lively drink.

Hence, to zlupf is to err.

What is zlupfing?

Zlupfing is to drinking what smacking one's lips is to eating.

It's the staccato buzz you make when draining the last few deliciously tangy drops of Sprite from the bottle with a straw.

Zzzzzlllupf!

It's completely uncalled for. Frowned upon in polite society. And not appreciated on campus either.

But. If zlupfing Sprite is absolutely essential to your enjoyment; if a good healthy zlupf is your idea of heaven, well...all right.

But have a heart. With a drink as noisy as Sprite, a little zlupf goes a long, long way.

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

SPRITE IS A REGISTERED TRADE MARK

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN

sports

FRIDAY, DEC. 16, 1966
Page 12 Vol. XCV, No. 35

Maine Here Sat.; Joey D. to Start

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

Victory number three for Coach Jack Leaman and the UMass basketball team should be the entree on tomorrow night's hoop menu as the Redmen host winless Maine in an 8 o'clock start at the Cage.

The Redmen frosh meet Westover Air Force Base in a 6 o'clock prelim.

The Black Bears have failed to win in their first three starts, losing to St. Anselm's, Rhode Island and New Hampshire. Yet last year the Redmen had their hands full with Coach Brian McCall's quintet, losing by a score of 70-63 at Amherst and winning, 73-69, at Orono.

This year, Maine finds itself at a definite disadvantage—a noticeable lack of height. The Black Bears, however, held their own off the boards and managed to brew a second half rally against UNH, only to fall, 74-69.

Maine's high scorer is 6'3 soph Jim Stepheson. A swing man who splits his duties between forward and guard, Stephenson is averaging 19.3 points a game. The other forward is 6'3 junior John Eisenhard, averaging 7.0.

The Black Bear's center is Walt Edgecomb, a 6'6 junior. He is the Bears' leading rebounder although he is not especially proficient at scoring.

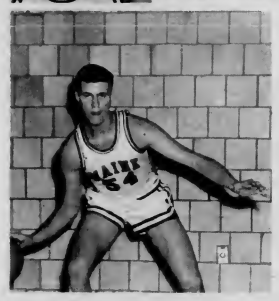
In the backcourt, Maine is led by the only senior in the starting lineup, Terry Carr. The 5'10 guard was one of Maine's leading scorers last year, and this year he is devoting more of his talent to ballhandling while averaging 12.3.

The Black Bears have come up with a surprise in 5'9 sophomore guard Dean Chase, who pumped in 20 points against UNH. He averages 12.7 points a game.

Backing up the starting five is reserve guard Tom Farrell, who at only 5'9 is one of Maine's top rebounders.

For the Redmen, Joe DiSarcina's heel is much improved after the week-long layoff, and he is expected to start at guard. The rest of the lineup, Bill Tindall, Tim Edwards, Frank Stewart and Bob Murphy, will remain intact.

Edwards is leading the balanced Redmen attack with a 13.3 average and is second with 28 rebounds. Tindall leads with 36 rebounds and is second in scoring at 13.0. Murphy has the best field goal percentage, .538, leads with 11 assists and is third in scoring at 12.0.



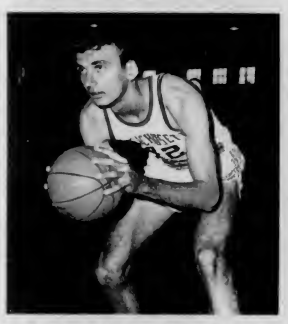
After the Maine game, the Redmen will head for Tournament, playing at Boston Garden Tuesday night against Manhattan.

Maine's Black Bears, who will visit the Cage tomorrow night, include (clockwise from upper left) guard Terry Carr, forward John Eisenhard, forward Jim Stephenson, guard Tom Farrell, center Walt Edgecomb and guard Dean Chase.

Swimmers Sub-par, Swamped by Wesleyan

by HARVEY ELMAN, Sports Staff

MIDDLETOWN, CONN.— "I thought they would do a lot better," a disappointed Coach Joe Rogers as the UMass swimming team was submerg'd by Wesleyan College, 60-35, yesterday afternoon at the Wesleyan pool.



As usual, Captain Dick Lennon captured the 200-yard breaststroke event and Dave Larson emerged with first place in the diving competition. The rest of the squad, however, came up with sub-par performances. Several swimmers recorded their worst times so far in this year's competition.

"The team wasn't up for this meet. We just didn't do our best," stated Rogers.

Coach Rogers expects the team to do a lot better after vacation. UConn is the next opponent on Jan. 10 at Storrs.

Despite a new school record set by the 400-yard freestyle relay team, the UMass freshman swim team lost a tough 51-40 duel to the Wesleyan frosh. Captain Klubock, Such, Enyon, and Miller set the mark at 4:00.8. Klubock also grabbed the 50 and 100-yd.

UMass varsity point-makers:
200-yd. freestyle—Cassis 3rd. freestyle—Nowack 2nd, Wyser 3rd; 200-yd. individual — Lennon 2nd, Asquith 3rd; diving—Larson 1st; 200-yd. butterfly—Levy 3rd; 100-yd. freestyle—Nowack 2nd, Wyser 3rd; 200-yd. backstroke—Asquith 2nd; 500-yd. freestyle—Cassis 3rd; 200-yd. breaststroke—Lennon 1st.
UMass frosh point-makers:
200-yd. freestyle—Miller 2nd, Such 3rd; 50-yd. freestyle—Klubock 1st; 200-yd. individual — Northrup 2nd; diving — MacNeill 1st, Burns 2nd; 100-yd. freestyle—Klubock 1st; 200-yd. backstroke—Enyon 2nd; 500-yd. freestyle—Miller 2nd, Such 3rd; 200-yd. breaststroke—Northrup 3rd; 400-yd. freestyle relay (Klubock, Such, Enyon, Miller) 1st, set new school record of 4:00.8.

WARY GARY—Reserve guard Gary Gasperack, an alert and agile defender, should see plenty of action tomorrow night against Maine.

Redmen Frosh Win

Jeffs Pin Matmen, 27-8

by ROGER KIPP, Sports Staff

The varsity wrestling team took it on the chin for the second time in three matches Wednesday at Amherst, as the Lord Jeffs grappled to a 27-8 win. UMass Coach Homer Barr was well pleased, however, with the team's improvement and confidence against the more experienced Jeffs.

Two bright spots in the U-Mass line-up were Eugene Paltrineri and Bill Duckworth, who between them picked up the eight points for UMass. Paltrineri, looking better every time, won a decision in his 137 weight class, and Duckworth, wrestling in the 145 class, pinned his opponent. Many of the Redmen who were defeated showed considerable poise.

The team, Barr says, is hurt by the absence of experienced wrestlers in the heavier weight divisions. It is Barr's opinion that there are many potentially good wrestling candidates on campus who could aid the team.

The freshmen, for the second straight time, were impressive, winning over their Amherst counterparts, 22-16, with a pin in the last match by Dick Gnatek deciding it. Successive decisions by Bill Goodwin (123), Ron Cruys (130), Brian Urquart (137) and Mike McKenna (145) got the frosh off to a 12-0 lead.

But it soon disappeared until a pin by Bob Spousta (177) put the Redmen back on top, 17-16, going into the final match. Then Gnatek, wrestling in the unlimited class, put it away.

Metawampe's Christmas Gift Suggestions

Photo by Kelly

Editor's Note: 'Tis the season to be jolly—even for the stone(d) soothsayer of the Student Union, Metawampe. In the spirit of an old-time Christmas, the Ghost of UMass' Christmas Past humbly offers the following gift suggestions and joins with the rest of the Collegian sports staff in wishing his fans a perfect prognostication for a happy holiday.

For the Red Sox, a new owner who can pitch.

For the Collegian, some competition.

For Gary Lewis, Barry Sadler and Ev Dirksen, vocal lessons.

For Snoopy, the Red Baron and a Piper Cub.

For the Celtics, a healthy Sam and one more flag for the Garden rafters.

For the Dining Commons, a plague on both your chefs.

For the intramural refs, competence.

For Lew Alcindor's teammates, credit.

For Ara Parseghian, guts.

For the Bruins, center-ice seats at the playoffs.

For Jack Leaman, a victory at Storrs.

For the gymnastics team, a victory at Penn State.

For the Mick, the fourth monument at Yankee Stadium.

For the UMass hockey players, about 700 square feet of their own ice.

For Milt Morin and Phil Vandersea, lengthy careers in the NFL.

For the New York Giants, some advice: draft Bubba instead of Steve.

For the pep band at the Cage, uniforms.

For track coach Footrick and his trackmen, a track.

For Springfield Daily News sports columnist Sam Pompeii, a book—Modern Rhetoric by Brooks and Warren.

For Rosmarie DeCamp and the Old Ranger, high state offices in California.

For Bernie Dallas, a shot at the NFL.

For Allie Sherman, anything.

For Boston, a new stadium before 1984.

For intramural hoop star Ray Stanelis, a hundred - point game.

For Collegian photo-bug John Kelly, longer lenses and prettier cheer leaders.

For Reggie Harding of the Detroit Pistons, an understanding parole officer.

For Collegian editors, rest and relaxation.

For the spring concert, the Supremes.

For Cassius Clay, some K- rations and an M-14.

For Mike Bernard, another chance.

For the Boston College sports fans, some black coffee.

For the New York hockey faithful, a Stanley Cup.

For the Yankee Conference, a Forty Formula.

For the Patriots, a cut of the Super Bowl take.

For interested parties, who's who on the "Who's Who" selection board.

And for our printer, twelve pages of sports three times a week—on time.

INDEX
Eye On You .... pg. 2
Kennedy Book .. pg. 4
Gasket ..... pg. 3
God In Bartlett .. pg. 6

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

MICROFILM

HOLIDAY SUPPLEMENT Pages 1-4

VOL. XCV, NO. 36 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | TUESDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1966

Photo by Selniger

A large number of UMass students turned out Saturday night for the Battle of the Bands at the Ballroom. Shown here is one of the six bands competing for top place.

IFC CHECKS UMASS FRATERNITIES FOR WOMEN IN RESIDENCE AREAS

by GORDON DAVIDSON, Editor-in-Chief

The executive board of the IFC checked all fraternity houses on the UMass campus this weekend for possible infractions of the University's ruling regarding women in men's residences, according to Robert Hillson, IFC president.

This action was in response to the IFC meeting last Tuesday night, where University policy concerning women in men's residences was reaffirmed.

According to University rules no women are allowed in the residence areas of men's residences except during open house.

One IFC member explained that "possibly a lot of fraternity brothers were under the impression they were allowed to have girls in their rooms. The stricter policing and punishment for violation is aimed at preventing infractions of the University's rule."

IFC President Robert Hillson told the Collegian that last Tuesday's meeting served to "reaffirm that we understand University policy. There was no pressure from the administration."

The responsibility lies with the president and executive boards of the house, and if there is an infraction, it goes before IFC judiciary. It would not be uncommon for the IFC executive board to make a social visit to see that the policies are maintained.

Hillson continued by saying, "We don't consider girls in rooms to be a problem, and we don't expect it to be one." He then emphasized there was no vote not to have girls in the rooms, only an effort to reconfirm the IFC's understanding of University policy in this area.

In concluding, Hillson explained that "Our main concern now is to put 100% effort into our rush program to attract the kind of individual who is willing and able to accept responsibility."

UMASS BOSTON: PART OF A STATE-WIDE UNIVERSITY

AN INVOLVED 2 YR. HISTORY

by BOB GORMAN, Campus Editor

The University of Massachusetts-Boston has had an involved history since its conception in 1964.

In June of that year Senate President Maurice Donohue publically announced the need for an extension of the University of Massachusetts in Boston at a breakfast talk in the Newman Center here.

Senator Donohue revealed the need for the Boston branch to handle urban problems. Shortly afterwards, Donohue sent a bill to the Senate for the purpose of establishing UMass-Boston.

The bill received immediate support from both Governor Peabody and Speaker of the House, John Davoren. In April, 1965, the bill was passed into law.

Immediately after the bill was passed the faculty and administration in Amherst began work to establish the Boston branch.

One of the first moves was the appointment of Dr. John

(Continued on page 3)

UMass Boston

"A Self-Sufficient University"

The reasons for setting up the University of Massachusetts were, as President Lederle recently stated, to establish a university that would provide educational services to the eastern and urban areas of the Commonwealth.

Also, at that time Boston had no quality public institution of higher learning. The idea of having a branch of the UMass was to provide a statewide system of universities.

The universities will be relatively self-sufficient. President Lederle further stated, "a common Board of Trustees that is developing a statewide university system", will be the common bond of the branch universities.

One of the major advantages of having a single university system is that all budgeting will be done by one Board of Trustees.

If there were separate public university systems, there could possibly be an unhealthy competition for funds. In order to avoid this, a network of universities is being set up.

As President Lederle said, "We have the mandate for a statewide university system, so we will provide them wherever they are needed."

Presently, the system has a non-residential urban university in Boston, a medical center in Worcester, and a residenical campus in Amherst.

Dr. Paul Gagnon, Boston Dean of Faculty, recently explained how the UMass-Boston branch will be developed. Differing from Amherst, it will have no fraternities, sororities, major sports, or residence halls.

UMass-Boston will have autonomous colleges which will

(Continued on page 3)

"NEED FOR UNIFORMITY"

Judicial Conference Discusses Rules

by MARSHALL NADAN

A Resident Judiciary Conference was held Saturday afternoon for members of the newly-established dormitory judiciaries.

A small group showed up to hear several University professors speak on the different problems that will face the judiciary boards.

Professor Isidore Silver, of the department of Law at the School of Business Administration, started by speaking on the nature and purpose of rules.

He was followed by Dr. Robert Stanfield, professor of Sociology, who gave an address on the rule-breaking individual and discussed the need for uniformity along with discretion.

Citing examples from the Student Life Committee, Dr. Mark Noffsinger, Director of Student Activities, stressed the need to discuss differences in order to reach a just decision.

Dr. Loren Beth of the University Discipline Board spoke on the growing problems of shoplifting among students.

Following the speeches, the men and women participants split into groups with several members of Men's and Women's Judiciary for further discussion.

The Conference was sponsored by the Men's and Women's Affairs Committees of the Student Senate, under the direction of Richard Wimberly.

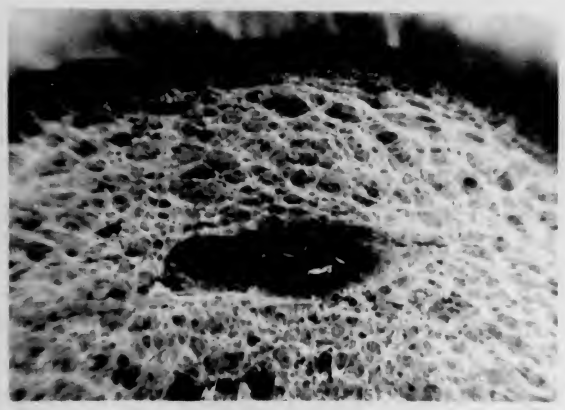

Photo by Bolliver

So THIS is what we're eating! The above photograph is of a piece of bread served in Dining Commons #7 several weeks ago.

SPECTRUM

Commuters may pick up SPECTRUM in R.S.O. Office Monday - Friday, 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Photo by Davidson

Christmas is for kids! Or at least it appeared that way with all the children's parties sponsored by various UMass organizations this past weekend. For more photos and story, see page 2.

"Christmas is for Children"

UMass Students Give of Themselves

UMass students, often criticized for their apathy, proved this weekend that they are interested in helping others. Various student groups on campus held Christmas parties this weekend for different needy children and patients in hospitals.

The tutors for the National Educational service, students from the four colleges, held a Christmas party on 19th floor of T-1 for needy children from Springfield. Another party, sponsored by the brothers of APO and sisters of Gamma Sigma Sigma was held in Farley lodge for other children being tutored in the Springfield area.

Northampton Hospital volunteers held a party for men and women's wards of the Belchertown hospital. The gifts for the party were made possible by contributions from the fraternities on the UMass campus.

Other fraternities on campus held parties for underprivileged children. Several members of the UMass Recreation Club assisted at the Mass. Civic Club Christmas party, held for the children of the area. Other parties were held in Van Meter, and by other student religious affiliated groups on campus.

Photo by Davidson

"Hey, see that fat man over there? He doesn't look like the Santa I saw mama kissing."

Photo by Davidson

Smile, Santa is making his list.

Photo by Gerri

Happiness is a Christmas party with people who care.

We're Watching and Listening!

Whether in the isolated confines of your quiet cubicle, or in the crushing crowds of the Hatch, there is one thing you can be sure of: the Collegian is watching and listening to YOU!

We, the editors, scrutinize, analyze, and categorize UMass students in all of their natural habitats. If you don't like being in a goldfish bowl, and don't enjoy being analyzed, why not come in and get in on the other end of the operation? Be the observer instead of the observed. JOIN THE NEW COLLEGIAN!

Photos by Boliver

BROOKS HOUSE LEADS IN RESPONSIBILITY

by JACQUELINE FINLAY

There's no compulsory rule about or against decorating dorm doors at UMass this year and, as a result, a real spirit of Christmas has caught on in most houses. This is the story of a typical dorm.

As a senior women's dorm, Brooks House rules itself without benefit of a housemother or counsellors. The corridors are usually quiet but tonight laughter and friendly voices echo infectiously. One by one, girls have gotten the annual Christmas spirit and started decorating their rooms and doors. Little groups of passers by on the corridor stop to admire and discuss each 'work of art.'

"We were going to use some real ones, but they're illegal... fire hazard, you know," one voice says. Instead of the old "see how much you can get away with" attitude, everyone in Brooks seems to have a sense of responsibility toward the dorm. Maybe it's because they're all in it together, and there's no one to complain about any more. They have voted on the rules they want to live by and, to change them, all they have to do is vote again. This dorm is theirs and the women want to show the world they are mature enough to run it successfully without outside help.

The Christmas spirit in Brooks this year is really the students' own. Besides just decorating rooms, they have decided to have a tree-trimming party and, maybe, a mixer. Whether or not Christmas ever reached this dorm depended entirely upon the spirit of the girls who live there.

"It's good to know traditions are carried on because they mean something to the people involved, not because of rules," one resident summed up.

Try it!

Collegian Living Pays!

NOW AVAILABLE
PHONE LOCKS at CHENEY LOCKSMITHS
Keys & Rubber Stamps
10% DISCOUNT ON ALL MERCHANDISE EXCEPT KEYS
24 HR. SERVICE
Next to Louis Foods, Amherst

ENDS TUESDAY
ON SCREEN 7:00-9:00
PLUS SHORTS
AMHERST Cinema
GREGORY PECK SOPHIA LOREN
A STANLEY DONEN PRODUCTION
ARABESQUE
TECHNICOLOR PANAVISION
SUN. ROCK HUDSON in
MON. "SECONDS" a film
TUES. By John Frankenheimer

SEMESTER BREAK HOLIDAY!

NOVICE INN & MOTEL
MT. SNOW, VERMONT
The swingingest inn this side of St. Moritz. 2 min. from Mt. Snow lifts at W. Dover, Vt. Ski-weeks: Sunday buffet thru Friday breakfast at Novice inn, 5 days of lift tickets and daily ski lesson at Mt. Snow ... from $70 in dorms to $95 for room with private bath. Daily midweek rates from $7 in dorms to $12 for rooms with private bath. Weekends $9-$11 dorms; to $15 room with private bath. Write for color brochure: W. Dover 15, Vt. or phone 802 464-8884.

The date for Senate Nomination Papers has been extended to
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 20
All interested students from:
John Adams Upper
Coolidge Upper
Thatcher
Butterfield
Dwight
Wheeler
Dormitories may pick up sheets in R.S.O.
Elections will be held Jan. 5

FACTORY OUTLET
25 Market Street, Northampton
Sweaters for the Entire Family

MEN'S PULLOVERS $6 to $11 Turtlenecks & Cardigans	values to $18
LADIES CARDIGANS $4.95	values to $7.95
LADIES PULLOVERS $3.95	values to $6.95
CASHMERES $11.95-$17.50	values to $30

Mon. thru Fri. — 10 a.m.-9 p.m.
Saturday — 10 a.m.-5 p.m. until Xmas
Market St. is across from Jack August

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

UMASS CAMPUS ALIVE DURING HOLIDAY REST

By JEANNE MERCIER

While the majority of the UMass community is heading off campus this week to celebrate the holidays, the place will not be completely deserted.

A number of graduate and foreign students and several crews of non-student workers will keep things going while the others head for feasts, parties and papers.

Among those remaining are graduate students, including foreign students, who will be unable to return home because of distance. Many foreign students who reside in dormitories will spend the holidays with the families of their UMass friends. Those who live off campus will get together. They usually celebrate the holidays according to the customs of their homelands.

Two dormitories for male and female students will be kept open for campus residents who remain here.

For the convenience of students, several campus facilities will also be kept in operation for most of the 13-day holiday.

Library hours will be from 5 p.m. each week day. On Dec. 24-26, the library will be closed. The regular full-time library staff will be working the usual weekly hours.

The Hatch will be in operation most of the vacation.

With the evacuation of most campus buildings, custodial and maintenance crews will move in to work. Floors in all dorm and classroom buildings will be washed and waxed over the Christmas recess. Minor repairs will be taken care of, also.

For the most part, the non-student help resides in area towns and they will be able to spend the Christmas and New Year's holidays with their families.

TOM JONES IN ACTION

Photo by Bolliver

The notorious Tom Jones is in action here as Amherst's Bob Hardaway and UMass' Barbara Fieldman practice for the Roister Doister production to be held on Feb. 2, 3, 4, and 5th.

Attention All Science Fiction Fans!

The Science-Fiction Club Library, consisting of more than 800 volumes by well-known authors, has been moved. It is now located at 203 Berkshire (County Circle) and will be open from 3:30 to 8:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For a minimal charge, students and faculty may avail themselves of the reading materials loved by every S.F. fan. Members of the Science-Fiction club are entitled to borrow books and magazines at no charge.

Donations of magazines or books will be gratefully accepted since this is how the library has grown to its present size.

A SELF-SUFFICIENT . . .

(Continued from page 1)

be limited to 3,000-4,000 students. After the number of students exceeds this quota, a new college will be formed. All these colleges will have their own administration and they will be in a centralized area to form UMass-Boston.

Sports Special ..... January 4
Collegian ..... January 6

A Happy Holiday to All from all of us at the Collegian

GASKET by Jack Mack

AN INVOLVED . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Ryan as Chancellor of UMass-Boston in June, 1965. In the following three months a building was renovated, a faculty and staff set up, and 1000 students were admitted.

Today additional space is being sought for both a temporary and permanent UMass-Boston. The ninth floor of the new Liberty Mutual Building now provides faculty offices.

I.B.M. certification cards for December and January benefit payments should be made out for the full months 12-1-66 to 12-31-66 and 1-1-67 to 1-31-67 and should not be marked to indicate any holiday or semester breaks.

SHINE
69

if she doesn't give it to you...
—get it yourself!
JADE EAST®

Cologne, 6 oz., $4.50
After Shave, 6 oz., $3.50
Deodorant Stick, $1.75
Buddha Cologne Gift Package, 12 oz., $8.50
Spray Cologne, $3.50
Buddha Soap Gift Set, $4.00
Cologne, 4 oz., $3.00
After Shave, 4 oz., $2.50
SWANK, NEW YORK — SOLE DISTRIBUTOR

Forums To Be Conducted in Great Decisions Program

The Foreign Policy Association's Great Decisions Program will again be conducted at the University this year during the Spring semester; and, as last year, will be centered at Webster House on Orchard Hill.

The program will be expanded over last year's structure. In addition to regular Monday night public forums it will include weekly radio broadcasts, receiving state-wide coverage over two FM stations (WFCR and WGBH).

Participants will be selected weekly (per topic), and will include three UMass students and one student each from Amherst, Smith, and Mount Holyoke colleges. This year's topics will be (in this order):

Communist China and the U. S.
India and Pakistan
Vietnam
Yugoslavia and Rumania
The Spread of Nuclear Weapons
New Deal in Chile
NATO in Crisis
The War on Hunger

Interested students may register and receive information in the Webster House library between the hours of 7-11 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Jan. 3-5; and Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Jan. 9-11. For any additional information contact Dr. Allen of the Government Department either at his office or at his residence in the Webster House dormitory.

MERRY CHRISTMAS
from John F. Kennedy Lower House who present to you
The HIGHEST
Christmas tree on the East Coast on top of J. F. Kennedy Tower.

Dear Freshmen and Transfer Women

This is just a little reminder that Formal Rush begins the second week of second semester with convocation and registration on February 7th and Open Parties on February 8th. We hope you're looking forward to it as much as we are. In the meantime—have a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR !

Yours truly

All of us at:

Alpha Chi Omega
Chi Omega
Iota Gamma Upsilon
Kappa Alpha Theta
Kappa Kappa Gamma
Lambda Delta Phi
Pi Beta Phi
Sigma Delta Tau
at our new home at last!)
Sigma Kappa
Sigma Sigma Sigma

Editorial Section

A Christmas Story

by Chet Weinerman, Editorial Chairman

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a true story; The names have been changed.

About twelve boys enthusiastically charged into the study lounge on the third floor. Bob walked in first, with a sketch in his hand of what the area should look like when it was completed. Bob had collected two bits from everyone in the section. Everyone had willingly given; it was Christmas.

Mike and Jack began to hang streamers from the ceiling. Bob carefully stenciled out "MERRY CHRISTMAS" with that 'snow in the can' stuff. Dick started cutting out a Santa Claus, and Charlie, who'd kept his nose in his books all semester, shocked the world by coming in, cracking a joke, and stringing the lights around the tree. Joe started decorating the door with a drunken looking Santa.

By 1:30 a.m. the lounge was empty—but only of people. McCrory's light blinked every 3.4 seconds, revealing the balls and tinsel that adorned Zayre's fire-proofed tree. A red bell hung from the center of the lounge, and it seemed to all the final touch of creativity to the room designed by two guys from South Boston and one from Brooklyn. All the doors were decorated by now, and, as justice would ask, a light snow began to cling to the windows. Bruce and Bud go back about 2, and they couldn't believe that this was the room where the evening before they'd led a water fight to a victorious end.

About 6:30 the next morning, Mal and Tom arose to study for an 8:00 Economics exam. Tom had an 'F' on his first hour exam, and Mal promised to help him get ready for this one. Before beginning to book, neither could resist peeking into the lounge just once. Walking to the lounge window, they glared in amazement. The bulbs of the tree had been maliciously tossed out the window, and lay smashed on the ground. The snowflake lettering had been marred with shaving cream. The lights from the tree had been dismantled. And the red bell was gone.

That evening, about 6:30 or so, new materials—purchased by a second collection—were being put up, but this time just about everyone in the section was helping to decorate. By 7:15 the room was restored to it form of the night before; it maybe even looked a little nicer. 7:30 signalled the beginning of open house, and by 8:00 the section party had begun. The party got over about 12:00, and day 8:00 the next morning, the decorations had been torn down again.

Peace on Earth

by MAL KESSELMAN, Editorial Staff

Once again it is Christmas and most of us will go home to enjoy the well earned rest which the yuletide season affords us. We will gather with our families and friends in the spirit of goodwill towards men.

And at that time loved ones unable to be with us will lay down their arms to insure peace on earth. But only a short time afterwards hostilities will be renewed and the peace on earth and good will towards men that we knew only hours before will be shattered by the rattle of machine guns.

Christmas Day we might drive to a friend's house to enjoy a turkey dinner. On our drive we might be forced to drive through a neighborhood we'd prefer to ignore. We might see a hungry man who we'll pretend doesn't exist. We might see a drunk slouched on a park bench only half conscious in his stupor. And we will drive on.

We claim to be children of the Christian tradition. We claim to be the avant guards of democratic principles. Killing is not Christian. Forcing ones political views upon others is not democratic.

While satiating our appetites, this Christmas we might think of the starving. While in communion with God we might think of those dying in war. While listening to the national anthem before the Rose Bowl game we might think upon whom we are forcing our democratic ideals.

But probably never will you or I stop to feed that man, or help that drunk, or stop that murder. Our society has taught us to temper our good ideals. It has taught us that it is alright to think good thoughts but that to carry them out is unrealistic and often socially unacceptable.

Merry Christmas.

Tournament Troubles

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Day Editor

Jack Leaman enters his first tournament tonight as head basketball coach at UMass. His team is playing Manhattan in the opening round of the Boston Garden Holiday Tournament.

For Manhattan coach Ken Norton, tournaments are old hat. His teams have competed in eight National Invitational Tournaments and two N.C.A.A. festivals.

And yet it was Norton, along with several other coaches and Garden officials at last Tuesday's press luncheon, who proposed an eleventh-hour change in the tournament pairings. With powerhouses Syracuse and Boston College meeting in the first round, they figured, tomorrow's championship would be anticlimactic.

Leaman himself agrees that the opponents may have been poorly matched. But he was irritated, and justly so, by the last-minute effort to correct the lack of foresight of the tournament committee. UMass had scouted Manhattan extensively and could only expect disaster if suddenly matched with Syracuse, the likely opponent if a change were made.

The die had been cast, the tickets printed. And although the press conference was intended to promote the tournament, the young UMass coach was forced to be a loner in an angry atmosphere.

Censorship of History?

by RICHARD KLINE, News Day-Editor

Mrs. John F. Kennedy has now filed a court injunction to halt the publication of "Death of a President" by William Manchester, (UMass '46) whom she chose personally to record the events of the assassination.

The book, according to Mrs. Kennedy, is "tasteless and distorted." William Attwood (Editor-in-Chief of Look), feels however, that cancellation of scheduled publication would amount to "censorship of history."

Associates of the Kennedy family have said that "the suit does not involve truth or accuracy but a breach of faith. Manchester has refused to take some material out and has refused to talk about other changes." The suit is for breach of contract by Manchester who had agreed that the book would be approved by both Mrs. Kennedy and Senator Robert Kennedy. A spokesman for the Kennedy family said this has not been done.

The assassination is indeed a part of our history, as are all the events concerning John F. Kennedy and his entire family. Although she may wish her personal feelings withheld from the public, Mrs. Kennedy on becoming first Lady relinquished her rights to privacy.

Naturally, the author's personal viewpoint will influence his work. It is in part, at least, the interpretation and viewpoint of William Manchester which displeases Mrs. Kennedy. It is too bad that the author's interpretation and views should be considered an invasion of privacy.

The book in question should indeed be printed.

Campus Comment

What Are They Doing?

To the Editor:

I must disagree with Dean Field's comment that "There's not a school in the country that's been happy with a closed door policy," as quoted in last Friday's Collegian. The dorms at Amherst College have had closed-door parietal hours since 1962. While there have been frequent conflicts between students and administration over the setting of hours for parietals, the college administration has never proposed an "open-door" policy.

The University, like the College, seems to suffer from an absence of official policy on undergraduate sex. Dean Field says: "The only way to police a closed door policy is to knock on the door, go in and see what they're doing." But why bother, if there are no rules to prohibit "What They're Doing?" (The obvious question that arises is whether students are permitted to have sexual intercourse with the door open.) This is, regrettably, absurd.

The Administration ("outside pressures," "student responsibility") and the students ("dormitory sovereignty") are both hedging. The real issues are privacy and sex. And there are not simple issues: they involve the very real question of how much freedom a 17-year-old freshman can handle, and whether the rules that apply to him are appropriate for a 21-year-old senior. But until both students and Administration are willing to discuss the real issues, the controversy and the rules will be neither educative nor fruitful.

Robert P. Sather
Amherst College, Class of '69

Is Webster Burning?

To the Editor:

As a visitor to your campus this past weekend, and having the opportunity to read some of your campus literature, I'm prompted to comment on your Webster House letter, "Webster Week-ending" in the Dec. 12 issue of the Massachusetts Collegian.

I was shocked to see such a letter in the major University publication condemning an individual dorm within the University. This attempt at 'propaganda' was a very poor satiric attempt, and one made in very poor taste. It has all the earmarks of a senseless scheme to ruin the reputation of an entire dorm in an effort to strike out at a specific person.

As for the same three students (one of which is not even a resident of Webster) commenting on supposed "left-wing" activities of The Sage, you should consider the inadequacies of your own paper, the Collegian. It even lacks a calendar of events pertinent to campus dorm living. The Sage is obviously the great informer to Orchard readers.

Furthermore, had there been no true grievance about an "open door" policy during open houses aired in a recent issue of Webster's Sage, I feel certain there would have been no article in your paper dealing with the subject. As it turned out, the article that did appear was a reprint from The Sage. Had there been no reprint of the article, there would have been no letter on Dec. 12, and had there been no opportunity to write a letter, these three infantile minds would have had to find other means to "strike out" to accomplish their real purpose.

William J. Winslow
Editorial Staff of the Clarion
Student Publication at the University of Denver
Denver, Colorado

The Collegian wishes to remind everyone to drive safely over the holiday vacation. Remember, the life you save may be your girlfriend's!

The Collegian editorial staff welcomes your comments and questions. It is requested, however, that all letters be typed at 60 spaces per line, and that only one side of the paper be used. All letters MUST be signed with your real name and address — withheld upon request.

The staff reserves the right to edit all letters and guest editorials for reasons of length and clarity.

All letters should be addressed: Campus Comment, Collegian, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. Letters may also be left in the Collegian office between the hours of 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. Your cooperation will be appreciated.

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Gordon Davidson '67
Business Manager: Lynn Stowe '68
Managing Editor: Jim Foudy '68
Editorial Chmn.: Chet Weinerman '68
Sports Editor: Mike Gould '67
Feature Editor: Lois Cohen '68
Photography Editor: Paul Boliver '68, John Kelly '69
Advertising Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Circulation Mgr: Bob Godwin '69

TUESDAY DAY EDITORS

News: Gordon Davidson '67
Editorial: Jack Dean '69
Sports: Tom FitzGerald '69
Photo: Bill Gleason '69

Peace With Justice

Campus Comment

To the Editor:

Mr. Tidhar's comments (Dec. 12) on the prospects for peace in the Middle East would have had greater value had he been willing to confront the issues squarely, and had he given an informal answer to the questions he raised. A careful examination of the discussions raised in the General Assembly of the U.N., the Security Council, and the findings of eminent Western scholars such as Arnold Toynbee and Erskine Childers would immediately reveal the underlying causes of tension between Israel and the Arabs.

The most fundamental cause of the tension, and perhaps the only one from which all others flow, is the continued violation of the basic and inherent right of a people to live peacefully in their own homes and in their natural land. The people of Palestine, regardless of their faith, language and ethnic origin, have an uncontested right to continue to live in Palestine and it is the violation of this right by alien colonial settlers induced to ingather in Palestine which accounts for the hostility prevailing between Arabs and European Zionists.

The military triumph of Zionist colonial forces, supported by an Imperial power does not confer a legal right to the occupier and equally does not deprive the citizens of Palestine of their legitimate title to their homes, lands and property. This is a basic rule of international law, and the U.N. Charter has embodied this rule by outlawing colonialism as a system in this world.

It is natural for the people of Palestine to resist this colonial aggression and it is the moral duty of men of good will everywhere to come to their support and bring to an end European colonial aggression in Palestine; the U.N. has continually reaffirmed the right of Palestinian citizens to live in their own homes and it has called upon Israel to facilitate the implementation of this right. This Israel has resisted continuously for the past 19 years.

Furthermore, not only did Israel expel these citizens from their homes and expropriate their territory and property, but additionally it has consistently refused to abide by the U.N. resolution calling for the internationalization of Jerusalem which it had occupied by military force and turned into its capital. The world community continues to condemn Israel for this flagrant violation, and among others, the U.S. has refused to accord this action any semblance of recognition.

Finally, the continued military occupation of Arab territory assigned to the Arabs by the U.N. resolution which partitioned Palestine, has been equally condemned by the U.N. (this is about ¼ of the territory of the present state of Israel).

* * * *

I would like to refer Mr. Tidhar to a document published in Israel which is an example of an individual effort on the part of Jews to find a just solution to the problem. This is the Hebrew Manifesto declaring Israel to be an integral part of the semitic region which called for the federation of Israel, Jordan and Gaza as the "Union of Jordan," the full partnership of the Arab minority in Israel, the right of the Arab refugees to return to their homeland, the complete separation between religion and state to be guaranteed by a written constitution, and the abolition of the dependence of the Israeli economy on Jewish fund - raising and foreign aid.

This manifesto, rejected by the Israeli government, is an example of where the just solution lies. I will not take specific issue with all quotations out of context which Mr. Tidhar presents. I will just remind him that when referring to historical developments in Palestine from 1910-48 it should be made clear that this was an Arab land with a majority of Arabs as the indigenous population who rejected the Balfour Declaration and the partition plan (which gave a minority of Jews 56% of the land when they owned only 6.5%).

Moreover, he makes the Arab states responsible for uprooting the Palestinians forgetting the fact that it was Zionist military groups (Haganah, Stern, Urgen) that attacked and occupied Arab villages and towns before May 15, 1948, i.e., before the entry into Palestine of Arab armies (example: Salameh, Mar. 1, 1948; Kastal, Apr. 4, 1948; Dier Yasin, Apr. 10, 1948; Tiberias, Apr. 10, 1948; Haifa, Apr. 22, 1948; Jerusalem, Apr. 25, 1948; Jaffa, Apr. 26, 1948; Acre, Apr. 27, 1948; Safad, May 7, 1948; etc.).

The entry of Arab armies, therefore, was not an invasion but for the protection of unarmed Arab Palestinians. When quoting the Secretary of the Arab League Mr. Tidhar should refer to more reliable sources than the BBC (British Broadcasting Corp.). Moreover, Mr. Tidhar has twisted the quotation, for Mr. Azam was speaking about the Zionist massacres at Deir Yasin and comparing them to the earlier Mongolian and Crusader massacres of innocent Arabs.

Mr. Tidhar speaks about peace while his Zionist government has been for the last 19 years following a policy of aggression and expansion. The late Moshe Sharet, Israeli foreign minister, wrote in

(Continued on page 7)

Son, your father might think that you're not old enough to understand. But we're going to try to explain it to you so you will understand.

Uniroyal is the new international trademark for the U.S. Rubber Company.

(That only sounds complicated. A trademark is kind of like a nickname for companies. And an international trademark simply means that no matter where that company goes in the world, everybody knows its nickname right away without asking.)

Why did we need a new trademark?

Because we've outgrown our old one, "U.S. Rubber," the way some kids outgrow their nicknames.

You see, about half the things we make —such as Royalex® (a modern plastic that's tougher than steel) or Keds® (the canvas sneakers that you wear to play baseball) or even your father's new Royal® golf clubs—have very little to do with rubber. So you can see that the "Rubber" part of our nickname doesn't fit anymore.

As for the "U.S." part, we make a lot of our things in 23 different countries all over the world. So that doesn't fit either, does it?

But our new nickname, Uniroyal, fits everything we make. No matter where we make it.

Isn't it all clear now?

Could you explain it to your dad tonight?

Atta boy.

UNIROYAL
U.S. RUBBER

A man who actually knows what a UniRoyal is will be on campus soon.

(Check with your placement office for the exact date and time)

He: Hortense . . . they're playing our song!

She: Yes, Edgar, it brings back those wonderful days when we first met in the lobby of the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel . . . seven years ago.

He: Seven wonderful years . . . and every college vacation since then we've been coming back to New York and the Sheraton-Atlantic. For Thanksgiving, Christmas, Mid-years, Spring vacations . . .

She: And the Sheraton-Atlantic has such convenience to theatres, museums, libraries, Lincoln Center, Fifth Avenue shops, and with such swinging restaurants right in the Hotel and dancing nightly and such low prices . . . no wonder we students always make out best at the Sheraton-Atlantic.

He: You were always such a romantic, darling.

STUDENT RATES:*

Single . . . . . $8.00 per person
Twin . . . . . 6.00 per person
Triple . . . . . 4.50 per person
Quad . . . . . 4.00 per person

Faculty rates are low too:
Single . . . $8 • Twin . . . $12

For reservations contact your Sheraton Student Representative or in Boston dial (617) HU 2-2004 for immediate confirmation of student rates.

*Student rates do not apply March 17-18, 1967.

SHERATON -ATLANTIC HOTEL Broadway and 34th St., N.Y., N.Y. 10001 (212) PE 6-5700
Ralph Hitz Jr., V. P. & Gen. Mgr.

"GOD COMES TO BARTLETT AUDITORIUM"

by N. C. Scanlan

God came to Bartlett Auditorium Friday night to re-enact Archibald MacLeish's JB and to prove through J.B.'s suffering that the existential rumors are not true. Rest assured, he is still alive but "it is in man's love that God exists."

Larry Wilker, directing for a partial fulfillment of his Master's thesis, did a remarkable job with the 1961 Broadway hit. Given the drab, familiar Bartlett stage, given only two nights for performance, given the stigma of "free admission", Wilker overcame the initial obstacles and did well.

Besides the powerful text, Wilker had two things in his favor; Les Titcomb and Pat Freni. These graduate veterans of the UT wars, reduced to selling balloons and popcorn, decided to have a go at the Job play. Titcomb, as tall, gaunt, grey-bearded Mr. Zuss has God written all over him; short, dark, and dressed even darker, Freni as Nickles plays the bad guy. They act in their own little play slowly forgetting the balloons and the popcorn as their divine/demonic lines start coming naturally.

Photo by Harvey

J.B. refuses to believe news of his son's death, the first incident in a long train of bad luck.

Wilker's work was at a minimum with these two.

In the beginning, it was hard to know who to root for. Then J.B., the earthly arbiter, America's every man, the spiritual voodoo doll, entered innocently. Played by colorless, clean-cut John Brown, J.B. was ordinary enough to be anyone. This is a good point. Over-acting might have made J.B. something he was not . . . an actor. He was just a father and a successful businessman. Nickles said he was the only one who wasn't acting. Aside from a few strained cries to heaven, John Brown played J.B. well enough.

Photo by Harvey

J.B. and his family gather in prayer around Thanksgiving dinner, thankful for all the luck they have always had.

All of J.B.'s possessions played well, too. Judy Jordan as wife Sarah, had reared some excellent children including the youngest, Rebecca, played by Lisa Savereid. MacLeish's verse showed through in the timing and the rhythm of the children's turkey feast. A point for Larry Wilker here.

Photo by Harvey

J.B. kneels over his wife after the explosion which destroyed all his wealth and ruined his property.

The best of the supporting people were Joe Oleksiewicz as the bringer of the bad news, Anne Agard who's getting stereotyped lately as an old lady, and comforters Richard Tirrell and Pedro Silva.

The stage was well executed bringing the audience even closer, having Mr. Zuss's heavenly podium out where the audience usually takes notes for Abnormal Psychology or History of Film. The stage was plain and simple just suggesting the circus tent and side-show. The lighting by William Segal, was best identifying Mr. Zuss with a heavenly blue and Nickles with red (which stands for fire). Unfortunately, no special tricks augment John Brown's agony . . . but no big thing.

Larry Wilker should be very happy with his production. He has taken a Pulitzer Prize play which is more significant than A Thurber Carnival, more relevant than Lilliom and beaten these two previous UT offerings.

Like Nickles who devilishly prompts J.B. to say "no" in spite, and Mr. Zuss who silently awaits a "yes" in ignorance, J.B. has left the stage. But J.B. left with his own answer: man's love.

JB has left seen by too few, due to time and space, not interest. It was an excellent production; well done, Larry Wilker.

Photo by Harvey

The devil, played by Pat Freni, takes his mask from God, played by Les Titcomb.

R.S.O. Treasurers

All books MUST be returned to R.S.O. for semi-annual audit before Christmas Vacation

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

WANTED

Seniors, grads, others 21 or over to have a blast at Brook Senior House this Friday night, with Go-Go Girls, Band and Mountain-Dew!

Beginning January, faculty member has room in comfortable house, with privacy for student, in exchange for babysitting, 1 Child. Call 253-7679.

GRADUATE STUDENTS ONLY —One large sunny room with twin beds available for 2, and one smaller room for single student. Board available if desired. Located in center of town. Call 253-9806.

AUTOMOBILES

MGA parts engine (1600), seats, radio & wire wheels. Call 256-6851.

LOST

Will person who found a black wallet in or near Boyden. Please call 549-0626.

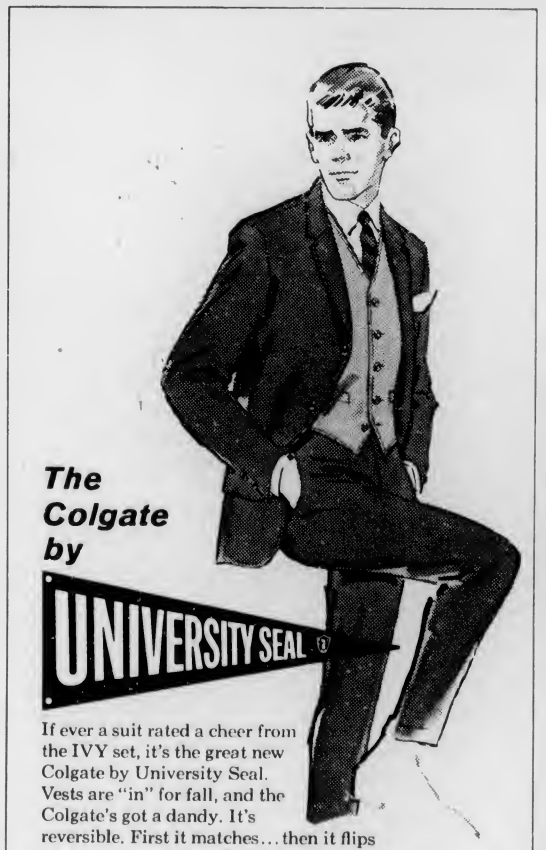
PERSONAL

I. L. Y. D.

HELP WANTED

Part time — 3 eves and Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply Rm. 20, Masonic Bldg., 25 Main St., Northampton, Fri. eve. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

For Rent



For rent: 2 room efficiency apartment. $90.00 pays all. Married couple only. Call 256-6286.

Rooms to rent in Sunderland. Private entrance, room care and linens furnished. 10 min. to campus. Call 665-4688.

3 room, furnished, modern kitchen, wall to wall carpet, utilities inc., air cond., ½ mi. from campus. $145, Crestview Apts., J. Gilbart, 549-1388 or Bob Malone 549-0108.

OPPORTUNITIES

Black & white kitten, housebroken, FREE to a good home. Off-campus only. Call 253-7894.

The Colgate by UNIVERSITY SEAL

If ever a suit rated a cheer from the IVY set, it's the great new Colgate by University Seal. Vests are "in" for fall, and the Colgate's got a dandy. It's reversible. First it matches... then it flips to a snazzy new suede look! The Colgate is the traditional 3 button coat. It's all yours in 100% wool town and country hopsacks and classic herringbones. Groovy autumn colors include Martini Olive and Rococco Brown to name a few. Only $55!

UNIVERSITY SEAL, Students Division, Brookfield Industries, Inc.
1290 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Holiday Supplement

Student Groups Sponsor Needy Children Parties

By HELEN LAZZERI

A throng of children are laughing and whacking with sticks at a huge Christmas-colored pinnata hung overhead, until it finally bursts and candies shower down on them.

In the background, there's a tree that's nearly animated with red and yellow lights and shimmering tinsel; a table piled high with pink ice cream, piquant fruit punch and Christmas tree cookies; and scintillating chords of "Jingle Bells" penetrating the large room.

The occasion—a Christmas party last Saturday in Springfield for a group of needy children.

THIS CHRISTMAS celebration, sponsored by the Newman Center, was one of several parties given in the last few weeks by University students for underprivileged and handicapped children.

The children from the North End of Springfield are largely Spanish and Puerto Rican, often with insufficient food and clothing. In conjunction with a parish priest of that area, Monsignor David Power of the Newman Center chose a large group of children, ranging in age from three to 14, and a large hall—and there were the beginnings of a Christmas party. From this point on a group of University students proceeded with most of the remaining arrangements.

The party evolved quite rapidly from a series of hectic meetings, shopping jaunts, sessions of decoration-making and gift wrapping, and a surge of imagination and anticipation. The gifts were mainly slightly-used or new toys supplied by members of the student body, plus hats, mittens and scarfs bought with donations. The refreshments were provided by Mr. Gianetti of the Newman Center food service, and through his gentle requests and persuasion, by campus culinary colleagues.

On Saturday, the hall was jumping with color, sparkle and lights... a piano player filled the room with notes of Christmas carols... the fresh scent of pine needles streamed from the spreading limbs of the glowing tree... and the sight and smell of hot chocolate, candy, cake and pop excited the flocks of children hovering around the tree.

As the chattering kids sprawled out on the floor to watch Bugs Bunny, Santa and Scrooge flashing across the screen on one wall, the students put the final touches of cotton on the next attraction.

* * *

THEN, the movies ended, the lights flicked back on, and in whizzed Santa (a tall, slim, well-padded student), red and white bearing a sack of gifts. Their eyes sparkled as each child received a scarf or mittens and a toy or book.

As Santa concluded his gift-giving, the students distributed cake and ice cream. Clusters of children devoured more it seemed than their tummies could hold. The food was followed by games and songs and, finally, the pinnata dangling overhead was the center of attraction. It cracked open after numerous whacks from the children and the candy poured down.

Now everyone broke into Christmas carols, led by the students, and the party ended with "O, Little Town of Bethlehem", and in the midst of the gaiety one could find a hint of reverence in the glowing faces.

THE CHRISTMAS celebration slowly broke-up and the children were piled into cars and taken home. Now, in the empty hall where the students returned to clean up the remaining remnants of the party, there was a feeling of warmth and happiness about the success of the event and the happiness that the children shared while there.

And this same feeling is arising at similar parties taking place on and off the UMass campus, where Christmas spirit is renewed for another season.

See Page 4 . . .

Mele Kalikimaka

"We had another party but I liked the kids more."

by ANDREY WYKE

For an underprivileged child, Christmas does not always mean lots of presents and parties. Keeping this in mind, the Greek organizations on the UMass campus celebrated the holiday season by giving to others.

Almost every fraternity, aided by a sorority, planned afternoon parties last weekend for children in the area—many who are orphans, mentally retarded or deprived. At each party, Santa Claus gave gifts to everyone and had each child sit on his knees.

The packages had been wrapped and labeled a day before by his "helpers" (Greek members), who made a list of the ages and sex of each guest to buy appropriate presents.

Entertainment at most parties featured cartoons. At some houses, the Greeks read stories to the children. At one house, the brothers waited for their guests, children from a Springfield orphanage, to help trim the tree.

A Kappa Sigma member commented, "It was sort of gratifying watching the kids. After they left we had another party but I liked the kids' more." About Alpha Sigma Phi's party, a member reported: "We sat around and sang carols, decorated the tree and just enjoyed the kids."

Although parties for the underprivileged are the highlight of the season for Greeks, they are not the only holiday activities.

Many Greeks exchanged gifts within their houses. Pi Beta Phi used the "Peanut Pal" idea, similar to the "Secret Santa" program used in the dorms. At Theta Chi, brothers gave gag gifts at their annual Christmas dinner-dance.

Many of the houses were decorated, boasting a holiday spirit buoyed principally by the parties for children.

CHRISTMAS: UMASS STYLE

Photo by Gomes

Chanukah History

The Eight-Day "Miracle"

By ALBERT BELSKY

Chanukah and Christmas are very distinct and separate holidays.

Whereas Christmas is one of the most important Christian holidays, Chanukah is a rather minor festival commemorating the revolution of the Jews against their Hellinic Syrian rulers about 165 B.C.

The first Book of Maccabees records that King Antiochus, a Hellenic Syrian ruler whose domain included ancient Israel, issued decrees forbidding the practice of Judaism. Although the penalty for breaking these laws was death, a band of rebels opposed them.

The rebels were led by Mattathias, a "kohah" or priest in the city of Modin. Mattathias and his five sons denounced the decrees, refusing to accept a reward offered them by officers of the king if they would set an example for their city by forsaking the Jewish faith.

* * *

ACCORDING to the Book of Maccabees, Mattathias replied to the officers' proposal: "Though all the nations that are under the king's dominion obey him, and fall away every one from the religion of their fathers, yet will I and my sons and my bretheren walk in the Covenant of our fathers."

"Mattathias cried out in the city with a loud voice, saying, 'Whosoever is zealous for the Law, and maintaineth the Covenant, let him follow me.'"

The war for religious freedom was under way.

The rebels' strength grew and the rebellion became a revolution. After Mattathias' death, his son, Judah, led the Jewish forces.

Known as Judah Maccabee, or Judah the Hammer, he instilled faith in his small army, declaring: "Victory in battle standeth not in the multitude of a host, but strength is from Heaven."

Photo by Soffer

UM Chanukah at the Commons.

The king's forces were eventually defeated and, the Book of Maccabees reports, the army immediately set about rededicating the Temple with the monarchial decrees.

* * *

THE HEATHEN ALTARS were dismantled and the Temple vessels were restored, including the "menorah" or candelabrum. When the time came to kindle the menorah's seven branches, however, only a small jar of sacred oil remained undefiled.

The jar contained enough oil to burn one day, yet the oil lasted for eight days—the miracle of Chanukah.

To recall these events today, Jews celebrate Chanukah by lighting an eight-branch menorah, one branch for each day of the miracle. A candle is added each night of the festival until the menorah's branches are filled on the eighth night.

The festival is held during the Hebrew month of "Kisley", which usually corresponds to November or December.

The late Chief Rabbi of the British Empire, Dr. J.H. Hertz, found particular significance in the menorah.

"Through its association with Chanukah," he wrote, "the Menorah has come to typify spiritual conquest, and that spiritual conquest is achieved neither by might nor by power, but by God's spirit."

Is Christmas Dead?

By Jacklyn Muse

Christmas is an extreme mental disorder—a psychotic reaction to the world of mass confusion, individual insignificance and hatred.

It is a disillusioned fantasy that effortlessly attempts to restore peace in a society torn by strife. Every year from Nov. 26 to Jan. 1, man lays down his weapons of bitterness and resentment to cloak himself in the so-called "spirit" of love and giving. The entire phenomenon is a reaction formation against a world lacking love, lacking joy and lacking peace.

The Christmas spirit is nothing but a myth lost centuries ago in a desolate manger in the small town of Bethlehem. The trees, the lights, the shimmering ornaments, the snow stained window panes are all second hand efforts to create an image of something real and true, but such things are merely physical forms to be broken, tossed off and forgotten until another year. Once, as the story tells it, a Babe was born and the heavens resounded with the message, "Peace on earth, good will to men." What has happened to that message, which has gone untended while false frivolities prevail?

There is no meaning to Christmas except that represented by materialism, unreality and insignificant symbols. Each day, man kills man, strife exists in every element of society intense hatred breeds in the hearts of many. Gifts, carols, beautifully decorated trees are supposed to instill love. It is a farce—there is no peace and, by all means, there is no good will among men.

Headline: "Two-day Christmas Truce in the Trenches of Vietnam." It should read: "Do Not Kill until the Tree Is Down"; send a greeting to Mao Tsung and the next day curse the dirty red dog.

Bah humbug! What is the sense of celebrating something that no longer exists? What is the point in decorating a tree, or singing carols preaching peace on earth when their meaning is a figment of unreality? What is the sense of giving gifts which are just physical possessions that outlive the thought?

The Christmas spirit should be something which lives every every day, 365 days a year, in the hearts of men and which is celebrated in its appropriate season by tradition and ritual. Peace on earth, good will to men should be practiced throughout the world — but there never has been and, for that matter, there never will be so long as men remain self-centered and frightened individuals.

Christmas is dead and has been suitably destroyed by the hatred deeply ingrained in contemporary society. Its tombstone is an evergreen decorated with hollow ornaments; a carol with inaudible words; a manger that is merely a stable where Christ was born. These are the symbols of the Christmas spirit that now lies buried under the weight of materialism and fear.

Students Plan Hard Work For Yuletide Vacation

By JOHN M. CAHILL

Hard work is in order for the average UMie during the Christmas vacation. The majority of students interviewed in a Collegian survey stated that they had term papers or projects of one sort or another which must be done during the holidays.

Nevertheless, class assignments constitute only a part of the many, diverse Christmas plans. Vacation employment is highly popular. But there exists one problem: the late dismissal date.

"I had a real good job lined up until they found out that I wasn't getting out of school until the 21st!" This statement was echoed again and again by students worried about where they can find jobs which will not require them to start before Thursday of this week.

All is not complete gloom, however many pleasure trips are also being planned. These range from short hops to cross-country junkets. Paul Longo, '69, will be going towards the state's North Shore area to buy a fish net for his room, because "they're cheaper out of season".

Bob Reed, '67, is planning to drive to Detroit to spend the holidays with friends.

Despite the rapid approach of the period a number of students have made few, if any, set plans. About the only decision reached by them is that they "will do as little as possible for the entire time". But these are in the minority.

After all has been taken into account, students at the University have one desire which is common to them all—to make the vacation as enjoyable as possible.

STUDENT UNION TREE: "I FEEL SILLY"

By JEAN FULTON

I really thought you people had something with that one—because, after all, what is nicer than a lovely green spruce tree? That's what I thought, anyway.

But then I heard—"Would you believe red, and green, and blue, and yellow, and white?" And now that's me—red, and green, and blue, and yellow, and white, and feeling very silly to top it all off (along with that crazy star!) I look more like the Northern Lights than a Northern Spruce!

Don't get me wrong—I'm not really complaining. After all, I suppose I should be used to it by now—for the past eight years I've been lit up like a Christmas tree (sorry, folks)! When the weather gets cold, I even anticipate the parade of little round green men engulfed in 1,800 feet of wire and juggling over 600 bulbs.

Perhaps the worst part is that cold ladder. Put yourself in my place. How would you like to have little men running over your head, hanging colored bulbs from your ears and chin, and running wires over the back of your head where they can't be seen?

And when they leave...! "Hello Beautiful," coos the pine from across the walk. "Is that a new fad in pine cones, dearie?", drifts over from near the Pond. Have you ever seen a Spruce blush? They never could figure how some bulbs were found smashed against the tree down the walk, but all that frustration was building up inside me, and...I mean, I don't mind being teased up to a certain point, but...

I can take it, I guess. I've got company anyway—two cousins—one on the Hill and the other in the Quad. And it's only a few weeks a year—although sometimes I know it looks like months!—but they tell me that in January I will go back to the woods as a real tree. The kind they write poems about.

Soon it may be Metawamme's fate to be the "ornament" of UMass—striped, solid or spotted.

Deck The Dorms

By JOANNE D. ISAACSON

Deck the dorms with boughs of holly,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
Christmastime at UMass, jolly,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.

* * *

Decorate and is that clear!
Yell the counsellors far and near.
Santa Claus will soon be here.
Fa la la la la, la la la la.

* * *

Hang that wreath and trim that tree,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
Brooks, Brett, Chadbourne, and Crabtree,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.

* * *

Towers strung with angel hair,
Stockings hung at Hills with care.
Candles in the Orchard fair.
Fa la la la la, la la la la.

* * *

Bells and berries, balls and lights,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
Make the campus quite a sight,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.

* * *

Makes one kind of sorry when,
Vacation comes, you leave and then...
Decorate all over again.
Fa la la la la, la la la la.

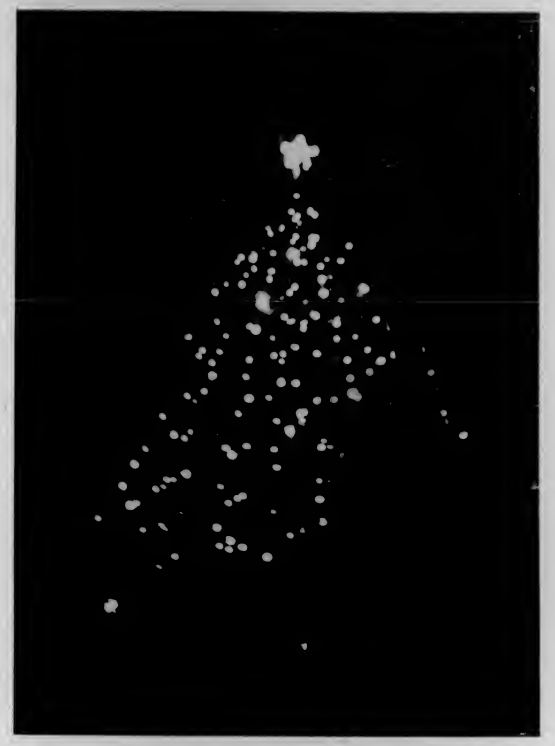


Photo by Kelly

The Night Before...

by MELINDA KRIENSKY

T'was the night before vacation, when all through the college
Not a student was studying, or caring for knowledge . . .
Suitcases were packed not with much care,
In hopes that a ride soon would be there.
The guys were nestled all snug with their beers,
While sounds of "class is over" rang in their ears.
The president on the hill and the deans all home,
The records in South College would be all alone.

* * * *

It's been a busy year with a lot the matter,
The Senate in Boston stirred quite a clatter.
To the YAHOO issue Harrington flew like a flash,
While the school budget they tried to slash.
The moon, on the dome of our state capitol,
Shone on some troubles architectural.
When, what to our wondering eyes should appear.
But a medical school, sited right here!
With a fine team, so lively and quick,
A winning season was coached by Vic.
More rapid than eagles his Redmen they came,
And he signaled, and shouted, and called them by name:
"Now, Landry! now, Mitchell! now, Durkin! and Bailey!"
"On, Toner! on, Ellis! on, Campbell and Qualey!"
Down on the field for a goal they fought!
And walked away with the Yankee Bean Pot!

* * * *

As dry leaves before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the Tower-tops the construction flew,
With a truck full of bricks — and cinder blocks, too.
And then in a twinkling, without procrastination,
Goes up a new building for the Administration.
Walk around campus and just look around,
A new building comes up and one's torn to the ground.
The way we're growing, we're destined to be
The number one state university.
The building we dine in remains the same,
The food in the Commons is still a guessing game.
The salads how shriveled! the meat's not too tasty!
The jello's like rubber, and the pudding is pasty.
Lucky for us to vacation we're looking,
We can use some of Mother's home cooking.

* * * *

Between classes it's where the kids all meet,
And the smoke, it encircles the Hatch like a wreath.
From there they head for some Newman scenery,
Then maybe on down to the Amherst Creamery.
The Reform Committee's work should be lauded,
Their move to end curfews is much applauded.
About coming in late and losing her head,
A co-ed now knows there is nothing to dread.
They could not be daunted or deterred,
Till responsibilities on students were conferred.
We've had a good year and have just cause for elation.
We'll crown it with a Winter Carni celebration.

* * * *

We're back to vacation and it's time to leave,
The housemother sighs relief with a heave.
But I heard her exclaim as she went back to her room;
"Happy Christmas to all and to all a good cume."

Next Year: No Classes After Yule Holiday

This may be the last year UMass students will encounter the "lame duck" week of classes between Christmas vacation and final exams, according to Hills Skillings, University scheduling officer.

The schedule for the 1967-1968 academic year provides a trial two-day reading period immediately following the Christmas holidays and before exams begin in January. If approved after trial operation, this idea may become standard University policy, he said.

Elimination of this final week of classes may arouse differences of opinion and emotion among students. Some use this week as an excuse to leave their books on the shelves during vacation, intending to finish all the odds and ends when they come back. Others, who study industriously over the holidays, can return and relax before the pressure of exams mounts.

But, with classes ending before Christmas in 1967, students will not be plagued with research projects and term papers every New Year's Eve. If the method is approved as permanent scheduling policy, the student can adapt himself to relaxing completely and enjoying Christmas with no worry of deadlines to meet. He may leave his books at school with no pangs of conscience, although he may choose to take them along to refresh himself for exams.

Another idea to consider is this: Since students will return from Christmas, take exams and leave for semester break, this might result in annoying or expensive transportation problems. Why not speed up the program, have finals before Christmas, and be able to enjoy a long Christmas-Intercession? This is a very controversial subject, with advantages and disadvantages accompanying each alternative, and with policies varying greatly among different schools.

"Finals before Christmas for UMass," said Skillings, "is unforeseeable." Unless drastic changes are made to speed up the academic program, this method could never be considered, he added.

Yet, looking on the sunny side, if the student had finals before Christmas, he could look forward to only one vacation. With the current and the proposed schedules, he can enjoy two!

DREAM OF SANTA!

Photo by Kelly

Cage Team May Even Play Some Basketball

by KEN DAHL

"Oh, there's no place like Oklahoma City for the holidays!" That isn't how the song is usually sung, but that's how basketball Coach John A. Leaman is singing it this year.

The University of Massachusetts backetball team will be playing in the Oklahoma City Tourney from Christmas night until New Year's Day.

How do the boys feel about spending the holidays away from home ?

"They're tremendously excited," Coach Leaman remarked, "And I'm real, real happy for them."

The educational value of the trip is "far greater" than the athletic experience, the coach said, because, "for many of the boys, it will be the first airplane ride, and the first time they've ever seen a different part of America."

All eight sections of the country will be represented at "basketball's oldest tourney." UMass is representing the Northeast. According to Coach Leaman, this provides a "tremendous experience" for the team members. "They will meet the other players and come in contact with wholly different backgrounds, ideas and points of view," he explained.

"In fact," the coach confided, "we're the kings out there. Everyone in Oklahoma City will know all our players' names. What's more, we're given cars to tour the city and visit all over."

Small wonder the varsity players are "tremendously excited," even if they must sacrifice vacations at home.

"Oh, by the way," Coach Leaman added, "with all this, we do hope to play a little bit of basketball."

Christmas in the Hatch

Photo by Soffer

HATCH GETS THE BIRD

By NANCY E. CLARK

Hot roast turkey with creamy giblet gravy and old-fashioned New England-style dressing.

Sound good? The Hatch served this special pre-Christmas dinner Sunday. Russell Colvin, foods service manager at the UMass Student Union, expected approximately 400 U-Mass graduate and foreign students and employees to take advantage of the 95-cent feast.

On the menu were roast turkey, New England dressing, whipped potato, giblet gravy, buttered butternut squash, buttered green beans, cranberry sauce, roll and after-dinner mints.

Traditional mince and pumpkin pies completed the meal.

The Hatch also offered other dinners of roast pork and lamb but, Colvin commented, turkey dinners were the "most popular".

Preparations for the dinners began on Saturday for the following day's meal. Making its own dressing, the Hatch staff stuffed six to eight fresh turkeys, each weighing about 26 pounds. Once the birds were dressed, they were ready to be cooked on Sunday.

Employees arrived before 9 a.m. Sunday and popped the turkeys into the oven. In three hours, the birds were sizzling golden brown, the dressing piping hot and the students starved. As the dinners were served cafeteria style from 11:30 to 2 p.m. and again from 4:30 until 7, Christmas carols were played in the background to add to the Hatch's holiday atmosphere.

The Spirit of Christmas transformed the Hatch about two weeks ago when some of the food service staff and their wives had a wonderful time decorating Christmas tinsel and greenery. It took them "four or five hours", said Colvin, but all enjoyed climbing ladders to give the Hatch a holiday touch for UMass students.

A small green Christmas tree, dozzling with tinsel, shiny ornaments and brightly colored lights, catches the eye of passersby as it commands a tabletop in the center of the Hatch.

Christmas is the time of good eating, good cheer and good music. The Hatch in its way adds to the students' celebration of a happy holiday.

Library's Business As Usual

by JACK DEAN

Although the students and faculty of UMass will be scattered far and wide during Christmas vacation, it will be "business as usual" for the Goodell Library staff.

The student staffers will be gone but the permanent employees will be on hand to provide regular service under the vacation schedule.

According to library officials, the vacation provides a chance to sort and shelve the many volumes which were returned during the "week before" rush. It is also a time when reserve lists requested by the faculty for next semester are prepared.

Approximately 50-60 students will make use of the library each day, many of them graduate students or college students living in the area and who are home for the vacation from other schools.

It would appear that the 100 or so students remaining on campus during Christmas will have an unequalled opportunity to obtain books, with the ratio being approximately 45,000 volumes to each person.

VACATION SCHEDULE

Wednesday, Dec. 21 — Closed at 5 p.m.

Thursday, Dec. 22 through Sunday, Jan. 1—Vacation Hours:
Monday-Friday—8:30-5
Saturday and Sunday—Closed

Monday, Jan. 2—Study Hall 6 to Midnight

Tuesday, Jan. 3—Classes rerune; regular schedule.

Bookstore's Christmas Began Many Months Ago

By EILEEN MANLEY

Christmas brings thoughts of snow, vacations, the smell of greens and homecooked food, and the Student Union Bookstore is no exception.

The University Store ordered Christmas cards months ago. Plans were made weeks ago to bring in extra inventory and decorate the store window.

According to Winthrop L. Cummings, store manager, the volume of seasonal shopping increased annually until the past few years. It has been fairly consistent since. "It varies with the vacation," Cummings commented. "This year, because the vacation doesn't start until quite late, I expected a heavier flow of shoppers."

Cards On Order

Cards are the only thing that the store orders specifically for Christmas. Cummings said: "Most of the merchandise we sell are things we have in stock all the year round. However, we keep a heavier inventory."

Having a larger inventory presents a problem. Cummings pointed out that the store is crowded as it is and there is no room to store extra stock. As a result, it must be brought from central storage more often. Student Union expansion may alleviate this, according to the store manager.

Peanuts Popular

Cards are a major item; however, other pieces are first in dollar volume. Such things as mugs, sweatshirts, Peanuts books and ashtrays are big

This year, books of all descriptions are also a big item. Cummings feels that this is due, in part, to the Bookstore Book Fair.

Each year, the store sells strips of yard-wide colored paper. Female students use them to decorate their dormitory room doors. Cummings anticipated a heavier demand for this item because of the additional rooms in the Southwest Quad. A lattice-work was constructed to hold the rolls of paper and ease the job of measuring and cutting.

The Bookstore also has a special gift wrapping service. Manager Cummings points out that the staff is glad to do it, although it does take up space and slows checkout. Any gift bought in the store can be wrapped there.

The biggest tasks lie ahead, however. The year-end inventory will be conducted during Christmas vacation. All store employes and six to eight students will tabulate goods on hand in the store and in the warehouse. The inventory should take four days.

And while the inventory is progressing, Richard Dietzel will be ordering books for next semester. He hopes to "have all our books ordered by the first of the year."

Christmas in Hawaii

Santa's Ride--A Surfin' Safari?

By DONNA LEE UMANA

"Does Santa Claus arrive on a surf board?"

"No, not quite," said Shirley-Jean Inouye, who described for the Collegian some of the Christmas season activities in her native State of Hawaii.

Shirley-Jean, known as Cookie, is a junior transfer student from Middlebury (Vt.) College who is majoring in fashion merchandising and resides at Eugene Field House.

* * *

WITH A LEI or garland, of flowers hanging on a wall above her and a record album of the island's latest popular singer perched on a bed next to her, Cookie told the Collegian that in general Christmas festivities on the islands are much like those of the mainland—minus snow and cold weather.

Lack of snow has forced Hawaii's Santa Claus to dismiss his reindeer. Cookie reported that when she was home a few weeks ago the "traditional Ho-Ho Santa Claus arrived in Hawaii via an airplane and accompanied by movie star Eva Gabor." Because of the prevelance of the palm tree, all evergreen Christmas trees must be imported from the mainland.

An Episcopalian herself, Cookie reported that the Christians of the Hawaiian population observe the customary religious activities of the holiday. But the unique aspects of Christmas in Hawaii center on participation by the non-Christian population.

Although the teachings of Buddhism are completely removed from the precepts and doctrine of Christianity, its followers in Hawaiian take full participation in the Christmas festivities. Citing her Buddhist grandmother as an example, Cookie said that the participation of the non-Christian is mainly "for business and social reasons. They are merely conforming to the Christmas spirit around them." They even display creches beneath their Christmas trees, which by necessity are adorned with false snow. Cookie feels that the manger scenes are used merely "for their artistic value."

* * *

THE ORIENTALS OF the islands contribute a little bit of their culture to the rituals of Christmas. The Japanese, for example, have traditionalized special foods for the holidays. This year, Cookie will spend Christmas at the home of a friend in Alexandria, Va. While she is eating turkey, munching on fruit cake and sipping eggnog, her Japanese parents and her brother, a freshman at Amherst College, will be eating Sashimi (raw fish) and mochi (pastries of rice).

The Chinese participation in the Christmas activities, Cookie added, is mainly in anticipation of their more important holiday, New Year's. They also, however, take part in the island's caroling, open houses and gift exchanging.

Reflecting on the weather in Hawaii during the December holidays when it is going through the rain season and temperatures average in the 60s, Cookie glanced out of her sixth floor window facing the Orchard. Noticing the barrenness of the trees and a very light coverlet of snow on the for a white Christmas in Virginia.

She wishes the students and faculty at UMass Mele Kalikimaki (Merry Christmas) and Hauli Makahiki Hou (happy New Year).

CHRISTMAS WITHOUT CHRISTIANITY

By Jacqueline Finlay

What does Christmas mean to an agnostic?

"It's just a pagan festival left over from the past," stated an anonymous 22-year old co-ed who professes to be an agnostic. "Actually I like to get carried away in the spirit of things, too," she said, "My parents are Christian and I guess the whole thing has sort of been ingrained into me since childhood."

This co-ed feels Christmas in the same way that everyone else does . . . the excitement of decorating, the friendliness of people, the bustle in the stores, the groups of carolers singing their way from house to house.

"Christmas carols are some of the most beautiful pieces of music in the world," she said "and I love to sing them, but when I stop and think about the words, I feel like a hypocrite."

Although she enjoys doing Christmas shopping, she feels the best part of Christmas is getting presents. "Oh, and the parties, too," she added. "It's so great to get home and see all the old gang again. We get together and celebrate the vacation from school with at least three big wingdings."

Although she doesn't believe in the divinity of Christ, this co-ed takes part in and enjoys the festivities of the Christmas season. But not to the point of going to church!" That, she felt, would be a little too hypocritical.

After all, Christmas is a part of a culture, she reasons, just like Thanksgiving or the Fourth of July. "Even Jews celebrate it, and so do the Buddhists in Japan, thanks to the influence of the West.

"I guess you might say it's 'Christmas around the world, not Christianity around the world'."

A Nine-Year-Old's View: "Santa has a rozy nose and roze cheacs"

By Beverly Giard

As seen through the eyes of a nine-year old, Christmas takes on a new light. Here are some of the things the fourth graders of Marks Meadow School at UMass thought of:

"Santa is a nice person when you get to know him. He has a rozy noze and roze cheacs. JOLLY OLD SANTA."

Marsha

* * *

Alan Oldershaw wonders if Santa will use his Batplane or not:

"If there was know snow what is the sense of having a sleigh? Santa could use a hot rod but that would make to much noise and it could wake people. He could use the Batboat but that would be awful slow because Batman goes after the animal how lives in the sea. So what is left? The Batplane is left isn't it? Santa could go fast and quiet so if there is know snow you just might know if Santas going to use the Batplane or not."

* * *

Robert Spink considers snow important:

"WHY SNOW IS IMPORTANT"

Snow is important because if there is no snow Santa will have to drive a hot rod. I doubt that will sound good in your backyard."

Jonathan Smyser also appreciates snow:

SNOW

The shining flakes of snow
Drifted softly down
Dressing the world in white
Then through the stormy night
Then moon began its flight
And shown throughout the night
Upon the silent earth.

* * *

Sally Holme's spirit of Christmas is seen in her poem:

The night is dark and cold and the animals are gloomy,
But people are dancing and singing they feel so roomy.
It's the night before Christmas and all mouses squeek,
Santa won't come down if the children might peek.
If you're awake the reindeer will skip your house,
Even if your very much quiet as a mouse.
Tomorrow morning children's sugarplums will turn into laughter and presents,
They even think one of their presents might be phesants.

* * *

Timothy Hunter recalls the story of Rudolph—perhaps in a slight new light:

Once there was a Reindeer named Rudolf. Everyone laughed at him because he had a big red nose. His father always tried to hide Rudolfs nose, especially when Santa came around.

One day Rudolf ran away.

He came upon an old man that was running away from something. Rudolf went over to see what was going on. "Come on the old man shouted, The gient snow-man is coming."

Rudolf started to run too. Suddenly they saw the ocean. When they came to the edge of the water the old man cut out a piece of ice and they both got on. The ice iceberg started to float out into the fog. The giant snowman could not see them. The old man said the fog was a thick as peanut butter.

Little by little Rudolf got tired of riding the iceberg. So he said to the old man "I think that if you hopped on my back I could fly you to shore."

When they both got back to shore Rudolf went home and the old man went home.

When Rudolf got home it was Christmas and it was so foggy that Santa could not see his way. So he went up to Rudolf and he said "Rudolf will you guide my sleigh tonight?"

* * *

Anticipating the approach of a new year, Alan Oldershaw wrote: "On new Years day people sometimes might say hello Mr. Nineteen Sixty Seven and good-by Mr. Nineteen Sixty, thougt I haven't really heard anybody say that at all but I've thought about it before and I'm sure other people have to."

FEELING BARRED UP LATELY?

Photo by Rizzotto

Do you have that caged up feeling with finals approaching?

UMass Students Big Buyers; "They Better Keep Coming"

by GEORGE ZEBROWSKI

With Christmas nearing, more and more students at the University are heading for town these days.

University coeds are buying decorations for their rooms as well as for their doors in large numbers.

The off-campus store receiving perhaps the biggest play in this area is Zayre's Department Store in Hadley. Store manager Stewart Bussin reports that in addition to a "significant amount of decorations being bought by students, roughly half of our record and cosmetic sales are made to students."

Many Christmas trees are bought every year by the University. Dormitories, fraternities, sororities, the Student Union, and the Newman Center all have trees. The Amherst - Pelham Boy Scouts' tree sale in town always does a substantial business from the University. It was estimated that over thirty trees have been sold to UMass groups.

The biggest business the town stores do on UMass students, however, is on presents.

Most clothing stores report that about fifty percent of its sales are to students.

After being asked how many students have been coming in, a clerk at one of the local stores perhaps best described the reliance placed on student business when he replied "A hell of a lot of them! And they better keep coming!"

Men's stores report that sweaters and shirts are the best selling items this year. In women's apparel all types of sportswear are selling well this year.

Reports from men's stores say that half of the student customers are the opposite sex. Women's stores don't see as much of the opposite sex. Five to ten percent of the student customers being men was a common estimate.

With the final shopping days before Christmas rapidly decreasing, it is sure that the town businessmen will be looking forward to seeing more students heading for town, and hopefully, "a hell of a lot of them!"

CAMPUS COMMENT . . .

(Continued from page 5)

Jerusalem Post (Oct. 29, 1966) "if we had sought a different approach, if we had sought to minimize incidents rather than play them up, if we had not taken the course of Kibya, Gaza, and so forth, then the political development of the other side would have assumed a different pattern." (p. 5.)

The invasion of the Gaza Sprip on Oct. 29, 1956, and Israel's insistent refusal to withdraw from the strip while it declared it as an "integral part of the homeland" is only one example of the insincerity of Israel's disavowals of expansionist aims. Prime Minister Ben Gurion declared in the Israeli parliament on the eve of invasion that "the army didn't make any effort to occupy enemy territory in Egypt proper and limited its operations to free the area from Northern Saini to the tip of the Red Sea." (N. Y. Times, Dec. 8, 1956).

Ibrahim Othman, Graduate Student (Jordan)

Scrolls' Sale Yields $1000

The Scrolls 1966 Cookie Sale held December 4 in women's residence halls brought a profit of well over one-hundred dollars.

This money will constitute part of the Scroll scholarship awarded Student Leaders' Night.

In the dormitories, feeling the holiday spirit, Scrolls are sponsoring unique events each month, in addition to ice-cream and grinder parties.

Lower House of Calvin Coolidge is decorated by a collage made at a Scroll-sponsored collage party.

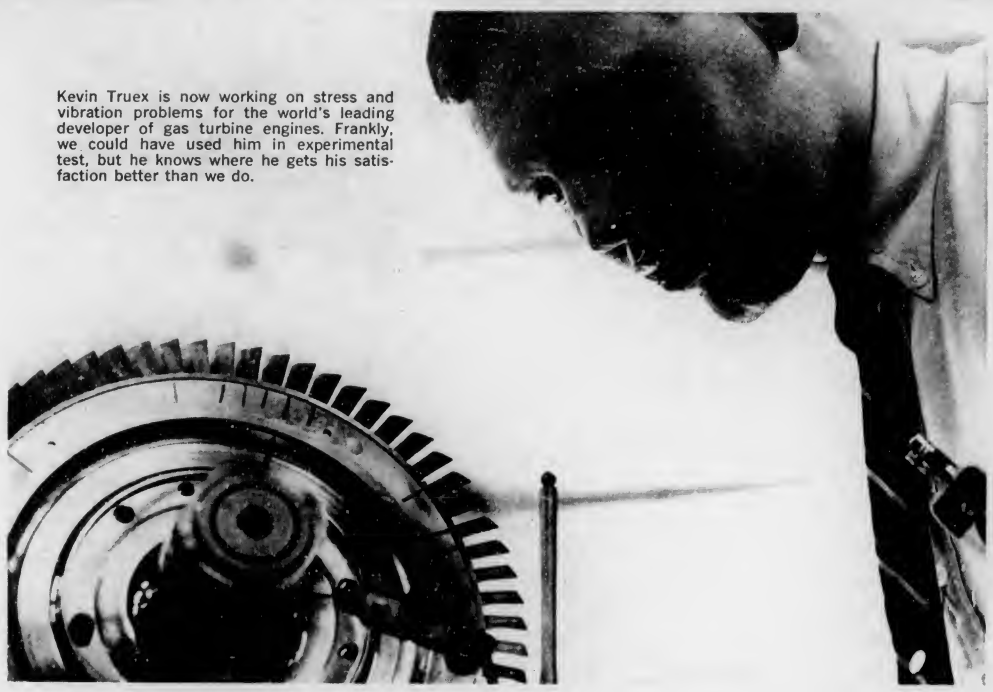
At a popcorn party, Crabtree Scrolls encouraged the girls to write Christmas messages to soldiers in Vietnam, while the Scrolls of Johnson House assembled girls to decorate cards for patients of state hospitals in this vicinity.

The Scrolls are now looking forward to a special convocation for returning swingshift freshmen.

The Scrolls extend to the University wishes for the merriest of holidays and a prosperous new year.

Coeds Warned at Maryland U.

UMass is not the only school troubled with problems of lighting and security.



Following two attacks on coeds on the College Park campus, University of Maryland students were warned last night to avoid walking alone or going into poorly lighted areas.

Administration officials also announced they would improve campus lighting, especially in fringe parking lots, and increase campus police patrols.

All parking lots, the officials said, will be patrolled at least every half-hour.

A freshman girl was stabbed in the hand Thursday night in a robbery on the campus. On Wednesday night a girl was abducted from the campus and raped.

Kevin Truex is now working on stress and vibration problems for the world's leading developer of gas turbine engines. Frankly, we could have used him in experimental test, but he knows where he gets his satisfaction better than we do.

This is Kevin Truex, Class of '66.
We want to move him up a notch.
Are you good enough to take his place?

Kevin Truex is just one of many '66 grads whose future looks very promising at Avco Lycoming. We've known that for some time — even though we've known Kevin for less than a year.

Good men like Kevin Truex get recognition fast at Avco Lycoming.

For one thing, they quickly find themselves in a job that fits not only their qualifications, but their own particular interests as well. Avco's Engineering Training Program gives them a chance to see . . . and actually work in . . . many different areas of engineering before they settle on one to grow in.

For another, their formal education needn't stop when they come to work with us. Graduate programs at Columbia, NYU, RPI, Bridgeport, Connecticut, and Brooklyn Poly are among those available under a full tuition reimbursement plan to all Avco engineers.

A CAMPUS INTERVIEW IS YOUR FIRST MOVE TOWARD A GROWING FUTURE!

Sign up with the College Placement Office for an interview. Avco Lycoming will be on campus

Tuesday, January 3

ABOUT AVCO LYCOMING . . .
Avco Lycoming has been a leader in the research, development and production of aircraft engines since 1928. In 1953 we introduced the first gas turbine engine for helicopter applications. Today we are the world's leading developer of gas turbine engines for helicopters and other power applications. As evidence of our leadership in this constantly growing field, more helicopters throughout the world today are powered by Avco Lycoming engines than by any other manufacturer. We are also a producer of components for America's space program.

Explore the challenging world of Avco Lycoming.

AVCO LYCOMING DIVISION
STRATFORD, CONNECTICUT
A DIVISION OF AVCO CORPORATION

—Notices—

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

There will be a meeting each Tuesday evening in Worcester Room, S.U. All are cordially invited.

PRE-MED & DENT ADVISORY COMMITTEE

On Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 7:30 in Colonial Lounge, S.U. there will be a Christmas party. All are invited. This is an opportunity to meet individually the members of the advisory committee. Refreshments.

CRITIQUE

No meeting before vacation. Important meeting after vacation.

WAA SKI TEAM

On Tuesday, Jan. 4, at 7:00 P.M. there will be an important meeting in WoPe building fencing room. Practices at Mt. Tom will be scheduled.

LOST:

Brown suede coat Saturday night at the Union. Please call Howard Altman, T-6, Room #2111, 6-9231. Reward.

Black pocketbook stolen from the North Dining Commons. Please return the personal items to Emily Dickinson, room 325, or call Maureen Hoar at 6-6606. No questions will be asked.

LOST:

UMass classring '68 in Morrill washroom, Monday. Contact Pete 6-7085 or S.U. Lost and Found.

PINNINGS:

Linda Stefin, class of '68, Melville, to Steve Horenstein, class of '68, J.F.K. Lower.

Janet Goguen, class of '68, Hamlin, to North to Jeffrey Rees, class of '69, Mills House.

ENGAGEMENTS:

Roberta Day, class of '68, Hamlin, to George Mackenzie, Danvers, Mass.

Marion Eshbach, class of '68, Amherst, to Norman Newell, Amherst College '64.

SUMMER JOBS UNDER WORK STUDY

Students who are presently working under the Federal Work Study Program and students who think they might also qualify for the program should see Mr. Siegrist in the Placement Office in reference to obtaining a summer job with a non-profit organization in their community.

There are a limited number of these jobs available and eligibility is based on the student's financial need as determined by the Placement & Financial Aid Office which is located in Machmer Hall.

MODERN SCULPTURE?

Photo by Gerri

Looking like modern sculpture, the seats to the bowling alleys of the games area are in the process of being torn down.

150 Member Worcester Chorus Performs Handel's Music

One-hundred members of the 150-voice Worcester Chorus performed Friday evening in the Ballroom, in a program of Handel, Bach and Britten. Lacking their usual accompaniment of the Worcester Symphony, the group was supported by a single rather weak pianist.

After opening with a brief selection from Johann Sebastian Bach, the Christmas chorale "Break forth, O beauteous heavenly light," the group moved immediately to the first of their two portions of the "Messiah." Two selections by the full chorus were balanced very effectively by two soloists.

Gordon Gurney, a Bass, and Muriel Watt, Contralto, captured well the majesty that Handel intended the piece to convey; and the chorus complementing them responded in a presentation that was truly well done.

Two more soloists alternated with the full chorus in renditions of four well-known portions of the "Messiah." The moving "Hallelujah" chorus, a piece that stands high in the area of sacred music, concluded the program.

Patterson brought forth the full power and expression of this classic Handel, in a manner which did great credit to the members of this century-old musical organization.

The Worcester Chorus is an independent Worcester - area group open to all qualified singers. The group is well-known for its annual week-long festival done in conjunction with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

1. What's eating you?
Can't decide on dessert?

Worse. Can't decide on a job.

2. How come? The recruiters are swarming the campus.

The kind of job I want just doesn't exist.

3. Give me the picture.

I'm searching for meaning. I want to be of service to mankind.

4. You can get a job like that with your eyes closed.

The trouble is, I also want a slice of the pie.

5. Then why don't you get in touch with Equitable. Their whole business is based on social research. As a member of their management development program, you'll be able to make a significant contribution to humanity. And pie-wise, the pay is fine.

Make mine blueberry.

For career opportunities at Equitable, see your Placement Officer, or write to Patrick Scollard, Manpower Development Division.

The EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society of the United States

Home Office: 1285 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019 ©Equitable 1966

An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F

Westvaco... part and parcel of the huge growth in data handling.

Growth industries look to Westvaco for leadership in paper, packaging, building materials and chemicals.

Want to grow with Westvaco? With over 20 locations to choose from and openings for B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. engineers and scientists; M.B.A.'s; business and liberal arts majors, we've probably got the career combination you seek. Your Placement Office has more detailed information and will arrange an interview with a company representative. All students considered regardless of draft status.

CAMPUS INTERVIEWING ON: FEBRUARY 17, 1967

West Virginia Pulp and Paper

230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017

UT Finishes Semester With Three Films

by N. C. SCANLAN
Staff Reporter

The best of this year's UT Film Series offerings has come and gone and too few people took time out to see it.

The sixth program in Mr. Stromgren's series consisted of two experimentals, The Golden Fish (1959) and A Time Out of War (1954) and one documentary, Good Night, Socrates (1962).

A Time Out of War, the product of UCLA students, proved why it has robbed a bank of awards.

Circa 1864, two Union soldiers, Alden and Connor, and one Confederate, Craig, call a hour's truce. They are isolated far from their honorable war and only once is a cannon heard.

Through a beautifully paced dialogue, Craig, the rebel, and Alden of the North barter food and tobacco from opposite banks.

The human communication becomes strong, until Connors fishes up a blue-uniformed dead man smelling of the stench of war. He is buried silently. All three shoot salutes silently. And as the dark of night invades Terry Sander's camera, the North and the South go off softly.

The power of this short written by Denis Sanders is overwhelming. The players are excellent and no one needs to search out the universal implications as the Vietnam Christmas Truce approaches.

A Time Out of War showed the power and the value of the short film.

The Golden Fish was a light, color fantasy about small boy who wins goldfish at the game of chance.

Edmund Sechan is billed as director but he can't take credit for the best actor — that's the fish. He swims, he dances, he crawls on his belly like a reptile. And here is the thriller. Having leaped from his fishbowl, he lands helplessly on the table. Enters the cat, who didn't play a very good cat, and put tasty goldfish back in his bowl surprising the whole audience. (And the fish too!)

Music and photography are excellent; photo tricks went almost unnoticed. Another point scored by the short film.

Good Night, Socrates was a film documentary. A young Odysseus in Chicago encounters titans of today. His little "Greek town" on Socrates Street is all he knows and it is being eaten by the big crane-monster and the asphalt insects. His mother reads the eviction notice and the world begins to crumble.

Photography by Stuart Hegmann is the high-point, saying things in windows and with falling walls.

The film term, "documentary," saves the film from lack of direction. It does not build, but presents a living situation. The film was done by Northwestern U. and won many awards.

The Film Study Series resumes Feb. 14 and it will take Charlie Chaplin to make a dent in the beauty of this semester's best, A Time Out of War. And not a bad idea.

DRINKING AND DRIVING

The month of December is usually the most devastating period of the entire year on our highways. It is not hard to understand why. The extended hours of darkness, fast heavy holiday travel, slippery roads, parties and drinking—all add up inevitably to tragic automobile accidents.

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin said today that the closing days of the year threaten to be the worst in Massachusetts' history of highway deaths.

The Registrar said: "Certainly no one would dispute the right to make merry during the holidays and, if people wish to do so, their right to drink. No one, however, has any right to drink and to drive. It is criminal to drive while under the influence of liquor."

McLaughlin said: "We must somehow register this message, this imperative, in the deepest consciousness and realization of our drivers."

UMass U.S. Post Office Plans Expansion with S.U.

By EILEEN MANLEY

An inconspicuous, square office with one window that looks onto the lower level corridor of the Student Union that is the U.S. Post Office, UMass branch. Through this small room passes much of the correspondence of students and faculty.

Having no connection with the postal service in Draper Hall, this office is part of the federal Postal Department and is a division of the Amherst Post Office. The University is contracted to run it under the postmastership of Winthrop L. Cummings.

The services are those of a normal post office, with the exception that there is no incoming mail and the staff cannot make out international money orders. The services available include money orders, registered mail, packages, foreign mail and stamps. Stamps, ordered through the post office in Amherst, include all commemorative stamps for campus collectors.

A staff of seven handles the business, which is continuous all day. Mary Jane Lannon, the one full-time employe, is the immediate supervisor. Aiding her are six part-time students who come in at specified hours between classes.

With regard to business, Cummings remarked: "Our volume exceeds some regular post offices. It is so great that we intend to add another window when the Student Union expands."

Miss Lannon added: "Mondays and Tuesdays are wild, because students are mailing letters and packages they have made up over the weekend." At Christmas, the volume increases and is continual throughout the week.

The biggest small-money item is stamps. However, overseas packages and registered letters account for a large portion of the business, especially at Christmas.

As with the postal department on a national level, the Union post office makes no profit. According to Cummings: "We try to break even, making just enough to pay salaries and other costs."

Amid the humdrum, the staff has time to laugh over some of the questions they are asked. Cummings gives an example: "Will it go any faster if I put two stamps on it?"

COLLEGIANS may be
Picked up at
Lobby Counter

Roister Doisters Complete Casting

Casting is complete for Tom Jones, the annual production of the Roister Doister dramatic society. Students cast in major roles include; Steve Schnetzer (Partridge), Carolyn Miller (Sophia Western), and Barbara Feldman (Jenny Jones). Robert Hardaway of Amherst College will appear in the title role.

The comedy will be directed by Jane Helman, junior Speech major. Sets will be designed by David Ludlam, and Susan McGuinn will act as technical director.

Backstage workers are still needed for all phases of the production. Those intereseed are encouraged to sign up on the Roister Doister's call board in the Student Union.

THE SPREAD-EAGLE OF TECHNOLOGY
AT GRUMMAN
Ranges from inner to outer space

Grumman has special interest for the graduating engineer and scientist seeking the widest spread of technology for his skills. At Grumman, engineers are involved in deep ocean technology...engineers see their advanced aircraft designs proven daily in the air over Vietnam, and soon...in outer space. the Grumman LM (Lunar Module) will land the astronauts on the lunar surface. Grumman, situated in Bethpage, L.I. (30 miles from N.Y.C.), is in the cultural center of activity. Universities are close at hand for those who wish to continue their studies. C.C.N.Y., Manhattan College, New York University, Pratt Institute, Columbia University, State University at Stony Brook, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, Hofstra University and Adelphi College are all within easy distance. The surroundings are not hard to take. Five beautiful public golf courses are in Bethpage—two minutes from the plant. White sand beaches stretch for miles along the Atlantic (12 minutes drive). The famed sailing reaches of Long Island Sound are only eleven miles away. The informal atmosphere is a Grumman tradition. matched by an equally hard-nosed one of turning out some of the free world's highest performance aircraft systems and space vehicles.

Taking their place in a long line of Grumman aircraft that have contributed to the national defense, the aircraft shown below are performing yeoman service in Vietnam.

Currently, Grumman engineers, pulling the state of the art relentless forward, are engrossed in still more advanced aircraft and aerospace vehicles. These include:

Here then is the opportunity for graduating engineers . . . AEs, CEs, EEs, MEs, IEs, Physic majors and Chemical Engineering majors . . . to take their place in the continuum of technology that is Grumman. Grumman representatives will be ON CAMPUS JANUARY 5

If an interview is not convenient at this time, send a comprehensive resume to: Mr. Peter C. Van Putten, Director of Employment, Dept. GR 251.

GRUMMAN
AIRCRAFT ENGINEERING CORPORATION
Bethpage • Long Island • New York
An equal opportunity employer (M/F)

Amherst College Holiday Tourney

Icemen Fall to Williams, Whip Amherst, Tie A.I.C.

by JOE DUFFY, Sports Staff

The Redmen pucksters were trounced 7-2 by defending champion Williams but recovered with an 8-4 victory over Amherst College and an impressive 5-5 tie with powerful A.I.C. in the annual Amherst College Tournament this weekend at Orr Rink.

Williams 7 UMass 2

In Saturday's opening game, UMass succumbed for the second time to a powerful Williams sextet, 7-2. Eph sharpshooter Jim Roe scored four goals and assisted in another in a brilliant one-man display.

Behind 2-0 at the time, the Redmen got on the scoreboard at 3:48 of the second period as senior Bill Skowyra tallied on a slap from about 10 feet out. After a quick goal by the Eph's Olmstead, UMass scored again, this time on a two-on-one play with Jeff Sanborn taking a beautiful pass from John Hartnett, and slipping past Williams netminder Stableford.

Leading 3-2 at the start of the final, the Ephs scored four times in less than two minutes to put the game on ice.

UMass 8 Amherst 4

A fired-up UMass team led by Bill Skowyra's "hat trick" defeated Amherst, 8-4, Sunday afternoon.

Jim "Boom-Boom" O'Brien just breaking into the lineup, bagged his first goal of the year and the first goal of the evening as he scored at 10:40 of the first period, assisted by both John Hartnett and Jeff Sanborn. Charlie Hanifan and Fran Mulcahy each tallied goals in less than a minute to put the Redmen skaters ahead, 3-2, at the end of the first period.

Another goal by O'Brien, one by Hartnett, and Skowyra's three-goal show rounded out the scoring for UMass. UMass goalie Ed Sanborn had 22 saves as compared with 23 for Amherst's Hight.

UMass 5 A.I.C. 5

Out to avenge an earlier 7-2 defeat at the hands of the Yellow Jackets, the Redmen skaters put on a spirited show yesterday.

UMass jumped to a 2-1 lead after five minutes of play on early goals by John Hartnett and Ed Graney. A.I.C. led, 3-2, at the end of the opening period, however. Charlie Hanifan knotted the score at 3-all when he scored on a break-away at 9:50 of the second period. Goals by Frank Wodzicki and Gary Socha of A.I.C. left the score 5-3 in favor of the Yellow Jackets at the close of the second period.

In the final frame, the Redmen fought aggressively at both ends of the ice and their determination paid off. John Hartnett slammed the puck into the net at 8:24 with Robinson and Sanborn assisting on the play. With only five minutes remaining, Captain Ed Polchlopek took a neat pass from Bill Skowyra and tipped it into the strings sending a contigent of UMass fans wild.

The Redmen fought hard for the remainder of the game and the period closed with the score all even at 5-5.

A 10-minute overtime period ensued, but the score remained knotted 5-5 and that's the way it ended. The final period was a hectic one for Redmen netminder Ed Sanborn as he turned away 10 shots. Winning goalie Young of A.I.C. had 25 saves compared to 59 for Sanborn of UMass.

INTRAMURALS

Alberico Leads TEP to Title

by TOM CONUEL
Sports Staff

TEP clinched the fraternity "A" League basketball title Thursday night with a resounding 75-56 victory over SAM. Don Alberico, the leading scorer in the league, paced the TEP attack with 54 points. He now has 199 points for the regular season, making him one of the top scorers on campus.

In other fraternity action both KS and LCA won again, to create a three-way tie in the "B" League. AEP, KS and LCA each have identical 5-1 records. KS had an easy time walking over PSD, 79-31. Mike McArdle paced the KS team with 18 points, while Greg Landry added 14 points and grabbed 13 rebounds.

Tight Contest

LCA, on the other hand, was engaged in a tight contest with a tough PMD outfit, but the favorite finally prevailed as LCA emerged victorious, 51-45. Jeff Larson was the big man for LCA with 20 points, while Dimitri Maistrellis led PMD with 21 points.

In the Independent League the mighty Untouchables remained unbeaten and clinched the International League title by trampling the Leftovers, 74-36. Dick Repeta fired in 22 points for the Untouchables, and John Yates tossed in 20 to lead the awesome Untouchable attack.

The Toads, another powerful independent team, edged the Lucky 13's, 47-41. Marc Widdiss sparked the Toad attack with a 19-point performance while Jim Person added another 15 for the winners. The Toads still have as outside chance at winning the independent American League title.

Rosoff Scores 26

The Imps, who are also in contention in the American League, crushed the Brethren, 64 - 38. Dick Rosoff had another great night for the Imps as he poured in 26 points to pace the victory.

The dorm league saw only one game played. The Flaming A's clinched the Tower League title by nudging the Redwoods, 49-44. Verrsult led the A's with 17 points.

O-O-OKLAHOMA . . .

(Continued from page 12)

their last game. Stanford must also be considered a contender with a 2-1 slate. The Indians' first loss came to Utah last weekend.

Arizona State carries an unimpressive 2-4 record, but the Sun Devils lost to strong Southern California by just two in their last game. Montana State, rounds out the field.

Each team will play three games, whether in the championship or consolation rounds. UMass will be playing on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

DEAR REB:

Art student keeps getting the brush-off.

DEAR REB:
I'm a regular Renoir on the canvas, but on campus I just don't seem to make the scene. There was one campus cutie that used to admire my paintings, but now she's too busy admiring some guy's new Dodge Dart. She says riding in this guy's Dart is like art; every time they go out, they draw a crowd. What can I do? I just have to see this girl again. It's not that I'm in love with her, I haven't finished her portrait yet.

COLOR ME BLUE

DEAR COLOR ME BLUE:
Make your next sitting at your Dodge Dealer's. After you find out how easy it is to own a Dart, you'll be out painting the town. And don't worry about finishing the portrait. With Dart, you'll find you have many models to choose from. Get the picture?

Sincerely, Reb

Here's the picture that's worth a thousand ah's. '67 Dodge Dart GT. Dart gives you more show and go than ever before, and it still has that nice low price. Plus a long list of standard equipment. Like padded instrument panel, padded sun visors, outside rearview mirror, carpeting and so much more.

DODGE DIVISION CHRYSLER MOTORS CORPORATION

DODGE REBELLION OPERATION '67

Redmen Reach 3-0 Conference Mark With Rough 87-68 Win Over Maine

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

It took the UMass basketball team more than three-quarters of the game to get untracked as a small but quick Maine team forced the Redmen to resort to their chief weapon, the press. And when that press finally came in the second half, UMass broke the game open and coasted to an 87-68 win at the Cage Saturday night.

The Black Bears did not figure to give the Redmen much trouble in this one, but apparently the visitors thought otherwise. They trailed by only one point with 11 minutes left in the game.

With less than 10 minutes to go, UMass was up by three, 62-59. With four fouls on both Billy Tindall and Joe DiSarcina, Coach Jack Leaman was reluctant to use a full-court press against the hustling Black Bears. But when it became obvious that Maine was not going to give up, Leaman took the chance.

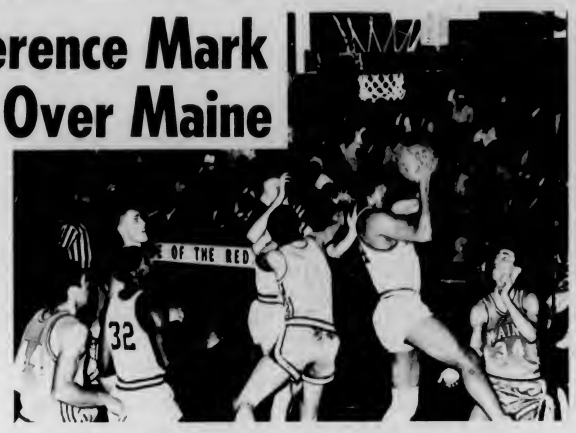
Murph Gets Hot

The press worked as Bob Murphy scored all of his 11 points in a five-minute span and UMass took a 73-59 lead. The closest the Black Bears got after that was 10 points as the Redmen breezed.

It was not as easy as that for the better part of the contest. Maine was winless in its first three starts and UMass was expecting the game to amount to a warmup for the holiday tournaments.

Unable to hold onto loose balls and hampered by Maine's outside shooting in the first half, the Redmen could not build up a sizeable lead. They also had trouble making the easy shots from in close. At the same time, some slick shooting by Maine's Terry Carr and sophomore Jim Stephenson kept the visitors in the game.

UMASS	B	F	Pts	MAINE	B	F	Pts
Tindall	7	6	20	Eisenhard	4	3	11
Stewart	2	2	6	Stevenson	8	4	20
Edwards	7	4	18	Edgecomb	2	2	6
Murphy	5	1	11	Carr	10	0	20
DiSarcina	6	1	13	Chase	2	0	4
Lisack	5	1	11	Hale	0	1	1
Gasperack	0	0	0	Farrell	1	0	2
Gayeska	0	0	0	Smith	1	2	4
Perkins	3	0	6	Reynolds	0	0	0
Rand	1	0	2	Campbell	0	0	0
				Woods	0	0	0
				Thomas	0	0	0
				Macklin	0	0	0
Totals	36	15	87	Totals	28	12	68



UMass held a 44-36 edge at the end of the sloppily-played first half.

Redmen Pull Away

Carr, Stephenson and John Elsenhard quickly narrowed the margin to one early in the second half. Nevertheless U-Mass, which had led since the score was 10-9 in the early going, was able to hold on to the lead and pull away from Maine with 10 minutes left.

Tindall finished high scorer for UMass with 20 points, followed by Edwards with 18. Alors with Murphy, and DiSarcina and John Lisack were also in double figures, scoring 13 and 11 respectively. Carr and Stephenson led the Maine scoring with 20 each.

UMass held the edge in rebounds, 52-40, as Tindall and Edwards collaborated for 31 between them. The Redmen shot a good 55.4 percent from the floor, a figure that could have been somewhere around 75 percent had many of their easy shots gone in.

TINY TIM — Redmen Tim Edwards pulls down a rebound during Saturday's game with Maine.

4-PAGE SPECIAL

In the most extensive coverage ever undertaken by the Collegian Sports Staff, the Redmen's performances in the holiday tournaments over the vacation will be the subject of a four-page sports extra on Wednesday, January 4.

Tom FitzGerald will be at Boston Garden tonight and tomorrow along with photographer John Kelly to provide an on-the-spot account of the first annual Boston Garden Christmas tourny.

Then next week, Glenn Briere will be on hand at Oklahoma City to report the action in the rugged All-College Tournament, one of the best in the nation. He will double as writer and photographer as the Redmen tangle with Oklahoma City in the first round.

The showing of the UM hockey team in the Yankee Conference Tournament next week at Durham, N.H., will also be reported.

Frosh Grounds Westover, 84-70

By MIKE CURRAN
Sports Staff

The UMass freshman overcame an early Westover Air Force Base lead to gain their fourth straight decision, 84-70, Saturday night at the Cage.

After the Airmen jumped off to a 5-0 margin, the Redmen fought back and Ray Ellerbrook tied the score at 11-11 with a free throw. Seconds later Dick Samuelson put the frosh ahead with a rebound tap-in.

Flyers Tie Score

Bob Perry and Jack Gallagher then hit successive jump shots to run the score to 17-12. The Flyers came back, however, to knot the score at 21-all, only to see Samuelson throw in another tie-breaker to put the Little Redmen ahead to stay.

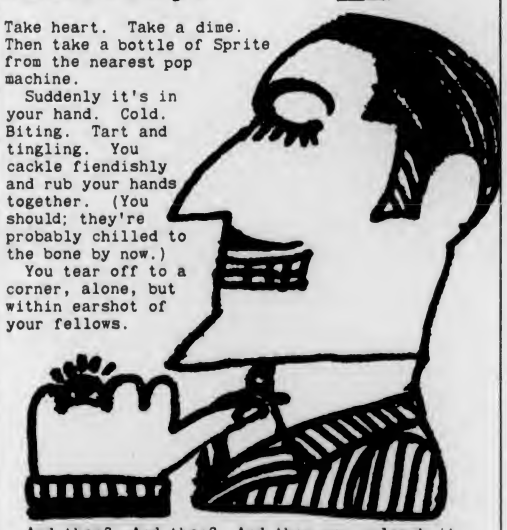
The second half began with the freshman leading, 35-28, and they quickly increased their margin to 15 points. For the remainder of the game they held that edge despite a determined Westover effort.

Joe Kostygan, a 6'6 forward, provided the Redmen with some stellar rebounding as he picked off 25, most of them on the offensive boards. Phil Harrington, the team's leading boardman, is out for three to five weeks with a serious ankle injury.

Ellerbrook again led the scoring, swishing 19 big ones. The rest of the starting unit was also in double figures with Samuelson getting 17, Gallagher 16, Kostygan 11 and Perry 10.

Don't Need Planes

Westover got balanced scoring with the top scorers, John Baker and Ken Latour, getting only 13 markers each. Walt Moore and Lyland Tracy, two airmen who don't need planes to fly, followed with 12 and 10 respectively.



This is your chance, Student #7026941. Drink Sprite and be somebody.

MR. BIG

Take heart. Take a dime. Then take a bottle of Sprite from the nearest pop machine.

Suddenly it's in your hand. Cold. Biting. Tart and tingling. You cackle fiendishly and rub your hands together. (You should; they're probably chilled to the bone by now.)

You tear off to a corner, alone, but within earshot of your fellows.

And then? And then? And then you unleash it.

SPRITE! It fizzes! It roars! It bubbles with good cheer!

Heads turn. Whisperings. "Who's that strangely fascinating student with the arch smile. And what's in that curious green bottle that's making such a racket?"

And you've arrived! The distinctive taste and ebullient character of Sprite has set you apart.

You're somebody, uh...uh, whoever-you-are.

Sprite

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

SPRITE IS A REGISTERED TRADE MARK

DRIVE LESS — PAY LESS — SKI MORE

TWO COMPLETE SKI AREAS

• Beginner to Advance Novice Area, Intermediate to Expert Area, each completely serviced by chairs and T-Bars • 24 Trails and Slopes • 2 Double Chairs, 2 T-Bars • J Bar & Rope Tow • Snow Making on 25 acres

. . . And, a special race course for clubs. • Giant Slalom Course • Flags Supplied • Permanent Phones • Ski Club discounts, too, for 20 or more people • 6-day tickets and coupon books. No wonder everybody's skiing at Thunder Mountain.

• Ski Reports 413-339-4986. Res. 413-339-6610.

LARGEST SKI AREA IN MASSACHUSETTS

Thunder Mountain

Charlemont, Mass. Route 2, Mohawk Trail

Things happen...

with Old Spice Lime

Precisely what things depends on what you have in mind. Whatever it is, Old Spice LIME can help. Its spicy, lime-spiked aroma is very persuasive... but so subtle, even the most wary woman is trapped before she knows it! Worth trying? You bet it is!

Old Spice LIME Cologne, After Shave, Gift Sets. By the makers of original Old Spice.

Redmen Oppose Manhattan as Boston Garden Tourney Opens

BAY STATER—Soph forward Grady O'Malley, from Newton, is Manhattan's top rebounder.

Syracuse, B.C. Collide In Battle of Unbeatens

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Day Editor

Hoping to have a joyous Noel a few days early this year, the UMass Redmen will take a quick sleigh-ride to Boston today to challenge a slick Manhattan outfit in the 7 o'clock opener of the Boston Garden Holiday Tournament. Syracuse and Boston College, both unbeaten so far, will meet at 9.

Tomorrow's consolation and championship games will be played at 7 and 9.

Coach Jack Leaman, in his first tournament as a head coach, will be starting the usual line-up of guards Joe DiSarcina and Bob Murphy, forwards Frank Stewart and Bill Tindall, and center Tim Edwards.

Manhattan College, which is actually located in the Bronx, boasts a well-balanced quintet that always knows where the hoop is located. All of the starters average in double figures. The Jaspers, who own a 4-2 record, employ a man-to-man defense and will make the fast break whenever they can.

Sophomore Grady O'Malley, a 6'5-180-lb. forward from Newton, is the team's best rebounder. He has good moves inside, handles the ball well and has a good left-handed jump-shot from the corner. The other forward is 6'4-180-lb. junior Marty Baietti, who crashes the boards hard and averages about 18 points per game.

Big Bob Chlupsa is the center. He has a good turn-around jumper and handles the ball well for a man 6'7 and 210 pounds. Although unaggressive defensively, he scores about 20 points a game.

The guards are 6'1 Bill Goodfellow, who is the best outside shot and ballhandler, and 6' 2 Mike Queenan, a hot-shooting lefty. Goodfellow is averaging 19 and Queenan 14.

The sixth man, senior Tim Leary, gives the team a spiritual lift. He can play either forward or guard.

From the Gould Mine

by MIKE GOULD, Sports Editor

N.Y., Boston Fans in Cold War

More and more New Yorkers and Jerseyites have been infiltrating the UMass campus every year. These out-of-staters are more than welcome, of course; their accents of speech add a pleasant sense of variety to the Amherst atmosphere.

There are many on campus, however, who would be much happier if the "Dutch" quota was far more limited at UMass. It is the contention of these conservatives that Boston's sports teams are superior in every way to those of New York or any place else. The presence of similarly proud enthusiasts from the immediate west, they say, simply makes for unnecessary and absurd arguments as to which city indeed has the better teams.

Never was this bitter feud better exemplified than during the Patriots-Jets skirmish last Saturday. While the Bay State bomb-and-bredders screamed wildly for their beloved Patriots to defeat the Jets and bring the bacon back to Boston, the naturalized UMies with the accents waved anti-American flags portraying Red Jets bombing the village of Boston and its Patriots and cheered ecstatically as Comrad Namath led the Jet air assault.

Because of the shortage of TV's on campus (will those S.W. lounges ever be clean?), New York and Boston fans were forced to watch the battle at Chez Shea together in the same rooms. Many such TV equipped chambers became verbal battlegrounds of their own. Take, for example, the conversation which took place during halftime on the 25th floor of T-3:

TV Announcer (for the 17th time): Remember fans, if Boston doesn't rally in the 2nd half, Buffalo can win the championship by beating Denver tomorrow.

N. Y. 1—Do Boston teams choke much?

N. Y. 2—No, they're so bad, you can't even call it that. They just play and lose. Untalented teams don't choke.

Boston 1—And just how great are the N. Y. Giants? Tell me they could beat Notre Dame.

Boston 2—A helluva game it would be.

N. Y. 1—(to Boston 1): Excuse me, friend, just came in. Could you inform of the score of the game?

Boston 1 — 17 - 7.

N. Y. 1 — Whose lead ?

Boston 1 — The ref's choice.

N. Y. 2.—Ah, come on. Give credit where it's due for a change. Know that's against your principles, but admit it, the Jets dominated the first half.

Boston 2—How do you know ? Thought you just came in !

N. Y. 2—I realize the fact that your idols are losing has shaken you up, but you should have noticed that I've been here the entire game. My friend here just came in.

Boston 2—You all sound alike.

N. Y. 1—"Sticks and stones, etc."

Springfield—O.K., cool it guys, the second half is starting.

Boston—Eat 'em alive, Pats.

N. Y. 1—Relax, friend. It's gonna be a long afternoon for you.

N. Y. 2—And an even longer trip back to Hicksville for the Patriots.

Boston 2—Why did you guys have to come to school here, anyway?

N. Y. 1—The Jets paid our tuition, friend. They have more than enough fans around and want to get more support in other cities, if you can call this a city.

Boston 1—That's funny. I always thought you guys came here to give us something to laugh about in speech classes.

It was a long afternoon for the boys from Beantown.

O-o-oklahoma! . . . . . Tuesday, Dec. 27

UM vs. Host in All College Joust

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

Oklahoma City is the site of the nation's oldest holiday basketball tourney, the All College Tournament. Traditionally one of the best in the country, this year's field includes the Redmen of UMass.

Coach Jack Leaman's squad will have a chance to play teams from all over the nation as the tournament gets underway next Tuesday, December 27. The Redmen will face the host team, Oklahoma City, in the first round at 9 p.m. (C.S.T.)

Also competing for the championship will be Stanford, Texas, Temple, DePaul, Arizona State and Montana State. The tournament will culminate in the championship game on Friday night, December 30.

Temple Unbeaten

On the basis of the games thus far, the favorites will be unbeaten Temple and once-beaten Texas, Stanford and DePaul. But All four of the other teams could prove to be trouble, especially Oklahoma City.

Last year Oklahoma City compiled a fabulous 24-5 record and went to the NCAA Midwest regionals, losing to subsequent national champion Texas Western. This year the Chiefs have lost three of their starters, but a promising crop of newcomers and a lot of height have given the O.C.U. fans hope.

Going into Saturday night's game against Texas Christian, the Chiefs had a 1-3 record. But colorful Coach Abe Lemons is not used to losers and Oklahoma City should pick up momentum as its new players gain experience. Of course, playing in their home city always gives the Chiefs added incentive in the All College affair, with four crowns to their credit.

Chiefs Averaged 97

Lemons is an advocate of fast-moving offensive ball, and last year O.C.U. averaged 97 points a game. The fast-breaking Chiefs have run their way to seven straight winning seasons and four post-season tournaments in the last seven years.

Oklahoma City is led this year by All-America candidate Gary Gray. A 6'1 senior guard, Gray was second on the team in scoring last year with a 21.7 average. His long-range jump shots are deadly.

The other guard is Rich Travis, a 6'0 soph who set an O.C.U. freshman record last season for scoring. His moves are similar to Providence's Jim Walker. Most of the Chiefs' scoring punch will come from the backcourt.

The front line is led by 6'8 junior college transfer Houston Thomas, who averaged 18 points, 13 rebounds and shot 66 per cent from the floor last year for national runnerup Cameron J.C.

Forward from Massachusetts

One of the forwards is 6'3 soph Art Yancy from Andover, Mass. Although relatively small, Yancy is an aggressive jumper who is considered one of the better defensive players on the squad.

Rounding out the starting five is 6'5 junior Ron Koper who is dangerous on the baseline but rather thin.

Some of the better reserves include 6'7 center Gary Williams, 6'4 guard Henry Koper and 6'5 junior forward Floyd Bridges.

Temple carries the best record of the field so far, 6-0. The Owls rolled over Rhode Island by 18 points Saturday night. Texas, normally a football power, is also strong this year with a 4-1 record. The Longhorns' only loss came to Mississippi by two points.

DePaul Now 4-1

Always-strong DePaul sports a 4-1 mark, as the Blue Demons of Chicago downed Villanova in

(Continued on page 10)

'Quite a Loss'—Fusia

Schmitt Quits Grid Post to Head IM's

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Day Editor

"Will you miss football?" the question was asked.

"I'm sure I will," replied Ted Schmitt, who this week took over the office of UMass intramural director. Schmitt, whose appointment was approved last Tuesday by the Board of Trustees, thus follows the pattern of Ched Cladchuck in changing from football line coach to IM head.

Gladchuck is now the Assistant Director of Athletics.

Ted Schmitt

Schmitt continued on his new position. "I feel I will get a lot better cross-section of the students. It's a simple case of mathematics. There are only 60 players in football, and last year there were 4,600 participants in intramurals."

Dean Warren McGuirk, UMass Director of Athletics, voiced his approval of Schmitt: "We know he's going to do a terrific job. He's a very fine person and he's excellent with youngsters."

Head Football Coach Vic Fusia reflected the opinion of the gridiron community, calling Schmitt's departure "quite a loss." His successor has not been named.

"The program we have here is tremendous," said Schmitt, who had 11 years of experience as assistant intramural head at Harvard before he came to UMass in 1961. "I can see a tremendous future for it.

"I have some of my own ideas, but I have to start to walk a bit before I start to run."

Schmitt's football career has had its share of high spots. At the University of Pittsburgh, he played on Eastern Championship teams in 1935-6-7, the Rose Bowl champ in '36 and the national champion in '37.

He then played three years of pro football with the Philadelphia Eagles of tht National Football League. Schmitt coached and had winning streaks of 25 games each at St. Joseph's Prep and Sharon Hill High School, both in Pennsylvania. He spent two more years as a coach at Pitt before moving to Harvard.

He came to UMass in 1961. "The last six years have been really great, and I've enjoyed the kids," he said.

Schmitt thus closes out 25 years of coaching such players as Joe Schmitt and Bill McPeak at Pitt. He also instructed an end at Harvard named Ted Kennedy. "The thing I remember most about him was that he caught the winning pass in '55 to beat Princeton, 7-6, for their only loss."

INSIDE TODAY'S COLLEGIAN
Med School 2
Kerensky 2
Student Protests 3
The Academic Game 4
Swedish Sex 7

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

ALMOST, REDMEN!
Page 12

VOL. XCV, NO. 37 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1967

UMass Found Deficient In Amherst Fire Report

by BOB GORMAN
Campus News Editor

After two and one-half years of extensive research, the Fire Protection Needs Committee of the Town of Amherst released a comprehensive 19 page report.

In the report released yesterday, the committee emphasized the immediate need for updating of the Fire Department to handle the growth of the University.

Since the number of students at the University exceeds the number of townfolk, the University is the most vulnerable in a fire tragedy.

"While the University could decide to furnish its own fire protection by establishing and operating a fire department," the Report stated, "... it is not the best solution."

The cost and communication problems of having two separate fire departments is considered a major problem.

Therefore, the committee recommended, "a North Station in the Northeast area of the University Campus." Also, a South Station was proposed to cover Amherst College and South Amherst, while the present fire station would be abandoned.

Since the critical period of fire fighting is in the first five minutes, these two stations are believed essential in fast arrival of equipment.

Furthermore, the immediate need for a new fire engine and another new engine in 1970 was greatly emphasized.

To go along with the need for new equipment, the Fire Department force must be doubled.

Fire Chief Doherty recently stated, "Two simultaneous fires would stretch the Fire Department beyond its present capabilities.

The need for improved water lines at the University was stated. Presently, the University, with the exception of the Southwest Complex, builds to a minimum of State Building Codes.

However, the committee stated that the relations between the University and town officials is very favorable. Communications are important in proper fire protection.

The report ended by stating the need for additional funds from the University. Although a definite plan for the allocation of funds was beyond the committee's scope, three plans were proposed.

The proposed plans were: to allocate the University on a proportional basis; to negotiate a contracted fee; or to charge a percentage of the cost of the Fire Dept.

(Continued on page 8)

Photo by Kline
In case of a fire these two engines with six firemen respond. Is this enough for Amherst's population of 24,000?

Faculty Senate Discusses Physical Problems on Campus

by BOB CUSHMAN
Staff Reporter

The Faculty Senate held its 98th regular meeting on Dec. 1, 1966, at the School of Business Administration.

The members were mainly concerned with improving the physical aspects of the campus. Paul Mankin of the languages department, proposed the following questions:

"Although our potentially lovely campus will per force remain a building site for many years to come, would it not be possible to erect permanent sign posts, readable after darkness, at the various entrances to help hapless visitors find their way to the Student Union, the Orchard Hill Complex, Hasbrouck Laboratories, the School of Education, Bartlett Hall, etc.? And why is the traffic light near the Newman Center no longer operating?" Leland Varley also suggested that identifying signs be placed on important campus buildings.

Treasurer Johnson remarked that there was not enough money for the signs, since they would cost about $10,000. The University has been trying to get the Department of Public Works to turn on the traffic lights near the Newman Center, but the DPW refuses.

Loren Beth of the government department, pointed out several danger spots on the campus. These included inadequate crosswalks, absence of lines separating roads from sidewalks near Munson Hall, hazardous construction areas, and inadequate lighting on various parts of the campus.

Johnson again stated that there was a lack of funds to provide adequate lighting. Some lights, however, have been installed in the south parking lot, and tem-

(Continued on page 8)

Photo by Furman
This was not always just for music. (See story on p. 2)

It's Up to the Student

Reading Days Are Possible

The University Reform Committee is appealing to students to take action to ensure a review period for this semester.

The Committee is publicizing a resolution passed by the Faculty Senate on December 15 which "urges to all Department Heads and faculty members the extension of the present reading period (January 12) into a review period to include January 9, 10, and 11."

A bill passed by the Faculty Senate in 1964 allows instructors to use up to two weeks of classes prior to the beginning of the exam period for purposes of review.

The University Reform Committee is passing out leaflets urging students to "ask your professor to act on the Faculty Senate's resolution. Tell him why you need this time to prepare adequately for exams. If he refuses, ask him why.

"If you are not satisfied with his reasons, then stay out of class the ninth, tenth and eleventh. Tell him why you are doing this, and tell your classmates to do the same."

"This is a problem which the University has failed to solve properly, said Robert Wilfong, a member of the Committee.

We cannot wait for five or ten years until someone gets around to writing four or five reading days into the calendar. We need those days now.

"As responsible students seriously interested in our education we must do what we can to get the time we need."

Residential Colleges Challenge Fraternity and Sorority Living

by PAMELA METAXAS
Staff Reporter

According to several campus sources, it has been agreed that the new residential college complexes are offering a challenge to fraternity and sorority living. With increasingly liberal rules and constantly improving facilities the new residential comlexes are rivaling the greek way of life.

John Welles, Director of Housing, thinks there is a challenge.

"I don't think it was an intended challenge . . . whether they (fraternities and sororities) are going to meet the challenge is up to them," he added.

Welles believes there are "big physical differences" existing between residential living such as SW and Greek living. Since he came four years ago, he has heard that the Greeks are less organized now. With some poor advisors and "laxness in the government of fraternities", he noted the "challenge is offered only because of the times."

He said UMass is basically a residential campus and now the Greeks can build houses to compete with the new complexes. But he believes that, in some cases, Orchard Hill and SW are drawing people from their houses since the residential college has instituted a "small-living idea" like the Greeks have.

Welles remarked that the answer might lie in a "more realistic and energetic program" on the part of the fraternities and the sororities. "The fraternities need a shot in the arm," he concluded.

Speaking for the Greek system, Robert Hilison, President of IFC and a brother at Theta Chi feels there is a challenge that the fraternities and sororities are meeting adequately. He said structurally the fraternities can't compete with the new complexes, but that the new complexes cannot ever compete with the in-group living of a house. "A body of individuals live together in a house by

(Continued on page 8)

Senate Appropriates Funds For Valley Center Project

by PETE WARD
Senate Reporter

Last night the Senate by a large majority voted to appropriate $500 for the Valley Center educational project.

Former senator Stephen Smith took the floor to explain what the objectives of this student operated and controlled organization were.

The Valley Center is an association of over 200 students from the four college area who are seeking to supplement their college education with stimulating intellectual discussion on subjects that are not available in the more staid academic atmosphere of the regular four college programs.

In their headquarters at 95 State St. in Northampton, the members meet for discussions and for lectures by volunteer professors and professional people in various fields. They consider such topics as anarchy, drug addiction and foreign policy.

The group has received notice from such national publications as Time, the N. Y. Times, and Atlantic Monthly.

Senator Jim Collins expressed the majority view in stating that the Valley Center could provide a precedent setting and valuable educational service to the students of UMass.

Interested students are encouraged to call 584-7879 for further information on the Valley Center.

The recurring problem of Senate absences and inattention arose again and plagued the meeting throughout.

President Greenquist took time to issue a strong statement to

(Continued on page 8)

Hardy Urges Organization In Curriculum Change Issues

By JANE ROLAND
Staff Reporter

At a recent meeting of the University Reform Committee, Kenneth Hardy announced his resignation as chairman.

He stated that this move was necessitated by a combination of academic pressures and the desire to do less administrative work within the Committee, and more writing and thinking concerning new ideas.

In a final statement, Hardy called for more organization around those issues which, however peripheral they may be to the central problem of curriculum change, will attract members and interest people around specific ideas.

Such questions as those of the new $10 senior fee, the 2.0 graduation cume, and pass-fail courses are all problems basic to the campus community.

The Committee has been instrumental in calling for the January 9-10-11 Review Days, the suggestion passed by the Faculty Senate on December 15. The resolution recommends to all professors that no new material be introduced on the three days before final exams, and that review classes be held or cancelled at the professor's discretion.

Robert Wilfong and Richard Story were nominated as temporary co-chairmen of the University Reform Committee until regular elections can be held. The immediate administrative problem facing the Committee is the lack of a Constitution that will be accepted by the Student Senate.

The Constitution of the Committee states that any member may hold office, including faculty and graduate students.

(Continued on page 3)

Home of the Music Dept.

Old Chapel Has Many Functions

by GORDON DAVIDSON
Editor-in-Chief

The most famous landmark on the University of Massachusetts campus, Old Chapel, at various times has served almost every possible function for a college campus building. Originally intended as a library and center of worship, this gray granite stone building has been used as an auditorium, reading room, classroom building, faculty offices, theater, conference center, and finally headquarters for the music department.

As a result of the efforts of Professor Goodell and President Greenough, $25,000 was appropriated by the state legislature in 1884 for the construction of the building to serve as library and chapel. The gray granite stone for the building, typical of the area, was taken from the college-owned French's quarry in Pelham.

The cornerstone was laid Nov. 6, 1884, several items were buried under it, including a copy of the original charter of the college, an 1882 Index, a copy of the last Cycle, and several daily newspapers from the area.

Sunday services were held in the Chapel until 1915. One of the faculty members preached the sermons for many years, he was one of more unpopular in the 1880's and '90's, Rev. Charles Walker, a professor of social science. As a protest against the good reverend's notoriously dry and dull sermons and services the students of that era expressed their displeasure through several practical jokes. In one instance they substitued a dictionary for the Bible on the pulpit. At another time, they moved the pulpit and all the chairs out of the chapel and onto the island of the campus pond!

The Chapel auditorium, which seats 400, was also used at this time for a compulsory non-religious convocation held every Thursday from 11 to 12 noon. It was possible until early 1900 to include all the members of the university inside this tiny chapel!

After the renovation, the Chapel was used for faculty meetings, lectures, and large classes. The open timber-roofed auditorium, with its platform at the North end, was used for a time as a theatre, where faculty skits were performed.

In 1936, the Chapel served as the meeting place for a Model League of Nations. Delegates from many colleges, each supposedly representing a different nation, met in a League of Nations Assembly held in the Chapel. Committees were set up, which met and discussed hypothetical world problems and formed resolutions which were debated and acted upon by the full Assembly.

The Chapel had always contained the one original bell, but in 1937, ten additional bells the gift of Bernard Smith, 1899, in memory of a classmate, were added to the tower. The chimes were operated piano-fashion by a series of levers placed in the tower area. Students who practiced on the chimes, sometimes aroused tones which were not always melodious.

In 1962, the bells were replaced by carillons of 25 miniature bells struck by hammers and amplified more than 100,000 times by specially designed electronic equipment. The carillons, a gift of the classes of 1959 and 1961, are played from a special keyboard located at the organ console. The bells are traditionally rung at the day's end and on special occasions such as convocations, major athletic victories and holidays. The chimes for the tower clock also ring every hour.

One of a succesion of speakers who have addressed the university in the Chapel was Senator John F. Kennedy, who spoke here in the early 1950's after returning from a trip to India.

In 1960, the Chapel was returned to its original use as an all-faiths religious center with the installation of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish chaplains in the Chapel. Each of the chaplains had their own group of offices, and the auditorium was used for all-faith services. Retreats held by Father Powers often filled the auditorium to overflowing.

In the early 1960's, when the chaplains moved into new buildings, the Chapel became headquarters for the university music department and the home of the university band and orchestra.

Thus, the Chapel has been once again changed to fulfill its latest function on the campus. No one knows what is in store for Old Chapel, but regardless of its future, it has won the right to be the symbol of the traditions of the university.

Photo by Furman

Here a student uses the Old Chapel library to listen to musical recordings.

NURSING MAJORS

The Treasurer's Office has announced that students in the School of Nursing may defer payment of their second semester (1967) transportation fee beyond Registration Day which had been previously indicated as the due date.

The actual due date is not yet available, but it will be sometime before the second semester close.

Dean Mahar of the School has made the information available to students through their classes.

Kerensky to Speak On Russian Revolution

A special lecture by Alexander F. Kerensky, leader of the first provisional government in the Russian Revolution of 1917, will be given at the University of Massachusetts January 9.

Mr. Kerensky will talk on "Russian Revolution and the World Crisis" at 8 p.m. in the SU ballroom. The lecture is open to the public without charge and is co-sponsored by the UMass departments of Slavic languages, history and government to mark the 50th anniversary of the 1917 revolution.

Alexander Kerensky is one of the few persons still alive who played a key part in the historic events of the Russian Revolution. He was a lawyer and a labor party member of the Russian Duma or parliament when the revolution began. His ideological and political affiliation was with the party of the Socialist- Revolutionists, an agrarian socialist party.

During the last years of the Tsar's reign, Mr. Kerensky joined the extreme left or radical wing of the Duma and made numerous speeches calling for the liberalization of Russian governmental policies.

Early in 1917 the Tsar was deposed and Mr. Kerensky was named by the Duma to a committee forming a provisional government. He became the minister of justice for the provisional government, then minister of war and the navy and finally, in mid-1917, premiere.

In the absence of higher executive power, this post was equal to that of leader of the provisional government. Later he also became commander in chief of Russian armed forces.

In the fall of 1917 Lenin arrived from exile in Finland to lead a Bolshevik revolution that overthrew the Kerensky government. Mr. Kerensky fled to England, then lived in France until World War II, when he came to the U. S. He now lives in New York City.

He has written or edited books on the Russian Revolution and recent Russian history. He is co-author of the three-volume The Russian Provisional Government, published by the Stanford University Press in 1961 and is author of The Catastrophe, The Prelude to Bolshevism and Russia and History's Turning Point.

He is active as a lecturer for college and general audiences and has been a faculty member of Stanford University, Mills College and other U.S. institutions. His two-day visit to the UMass campus will include a series of conferences with faculty and students.

Money is the Problem Of UMass Medical School

by ERIC GOLDMAN
Staff Reporter

Editors Note: The following is based on an interview which appeared in the Boston Globe.

The UMass Medical School, scheduled to open in the fall of 1970 in Worcester, has one major stumbling block—financing.

The eight-story medical sciences building will cost an estimated $42 million, and a proposed 400 bed teaching hospital will require at least $26 million to be built.

Selection of architects is also posing a major problem. Dr. Lamar Soutter, the school's dean, is confident that the work being done on this matter is going smoothly. Other experts, however, say that much of the work done is of poor quality and much must be re-done.

Equipping the school is a substantial undertaking, with two major aspects not yet resolved—television facilities and a computer science center. The controversy involves the size of these resources and the amount of money to be spent on them.

A successful medical school requires an excellent library. Efforts are being made to incorporate the Worcester Medical Library with the medical school library. Despite its small size, the Worcester library has several valuable and rare volumes that would greatly add to the quality of the new school.

The UMass medical school is also bidding with four other medical schools to purchase the entire library of the Pittsburgh School of Medicine, which includes nearly 25,000 books and complete sets of 154 journals.

Yet another major concern is the recruitment of faculty. "There are associate and assistant professors across the country that are getting substantially more than I am able to pay," says Dr. Soutter. "This limitation must be changed if the state is to have a first-rate medical school," he added.

Budgets for the buildings, and their facilities, the library, and the faculty are presently bitter struggles for the new medical school.

Success in these problems will finally be determined by the federal government. For it is in Washington where the funds necessary to make the school a success, lie.

Two Students Die in Auto Crashes

Two UMass students died in holiday auto accidents.

The first involved David B. Arlen, a senior government major from Longmeadow, who was killed near Woodville, Wisconsin on December 27 enroute to Alpha Phi Omega's national convention in Minneapolis. Also killed were three students and an administrative advisor, all of M.I.T.

In the other accident involving a UMass student, Nancy A. Norton, a freshman from Fitchburg, died Monday night when the car she was in collided with a tank truck on Route 2 in Phillipston. Two companions accompanying her also died in the crash.

AMHERST Cinema
Now Showing
Ends Sat.
DAILY—7:00-9:10
SATURDAY
2-4:40-6:50-9:00

STARRING
Stephen Boyd, Raquel Welch.
SUN • MON • TUES
CHARLTON HESTON
REX HARRISON in
"AGONY & ECSTASY"
in color

MOUNTAIN PARK
RTE. 5 HOLYOKE — GO WHERE THE ACTION IS
EVERY SAT. 8 P.M.
COLLEGE MIXER
WITH NEW ENGLAND'S
NO. 1 ROCKING BAND
MONTY & The Specialties
NEXT SAT. — IN PERSON
?(QUESTION MARK) & MYSTERIANS
"I Need Somebody"

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1811

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

The day a "beep beep" wore white socks.

Colleges Set Pace For Price Increases

Colleges set the pace for a sharp increase in education expenditures during the past decade, the U.S. Office of Education said today.

Spending for all U.S. schools more than doubled during the 1955-65 period, but college expenditures tripled.

Estimates prepared by the Office of Education show that from the 1955 school year through the one that ended last June expenses of all schools rose from $20.5 billion to $44.8 billion. During the same period, college spending jumped from $5 billion to $15.2 billion. Expenditures for grade and high schools went up from $15.5 billion to $29.6 billion.

The figures include expenditures for current operations, capital outlay, and interest on school debt. The upward push reflects mainly increased enrollments, especially in high schools and colleges, and rising costs for such items as school facilities and teachers' salaries.

Spending in the 1975-76 school year and the percentage increases over 1965-66 are expected to look like this: all schools—$65.9 billion, up 47 percent; grade and high schools—$40.6 billion, up 37 percent; colleges and universities—$25.3 billion, up 66 percent.

The cost of educating each student also has advanced during the past decade. Last year, public grade and high schools spent an average of $532 for each pupil in attendance, about 52 percent over the 1955-56 expenditure of $349. The cost per pupil in 1975-76 is expected to average $695, up about 31 percent from last year.

Included in these figures are only current expense items—instruction, administration, plant operation and maintenance, fixed charges such as rents and utilities, and other school services like food, health, and transportation.

At the college and university level, spending for each full-time student averaged $2,442 last year, about 35 percent more than the average of $1,815 ten years earlier. In 1975-76 colleges are expected to spend $2,976 per student, up about 22 percent from last year. Private institutions show higher figures: $1,875 (1955-56), $3,102 (1965-66), and $4,294 (1975-76).

These current expense figures include costs for student education, related activities such as laboratory schools and hospitals, organized research, auxiliary enterprises such as dormitories and dining halls, and student aid.

All figures are in 1965-66 prices and will appear in the 1966 editions of the Digest of Educational Statistics and Projectional Statistics, two forthcoming publications of the Office of Education.

CURRICULUM . . .

(Continued from page 1)

This is an unprecedented clause (no RSO organization allows anyone other than undergraduates to hold office) and was not passed by the Senate.

Richard Story commented on the Constitution rejection: "In advocating the rejection of the U R C Constitution, Senators were speaking in tones which suggested that they feared a "Take-over" of the Committee by some mysterious and unspecified reactionary force.

"These sentiments were quite out of place in a discussion of an organization so thoroughly committed to the idea of student responsibility."

Other discussion at the meeting centered on a program for the coming semester and the main areas of concentration.

Would you believe Metawampe and Cheerleaders in a pep rally in the snow?

Ski Club Largest in East

Skiers Snowplow Into Action

by BOB GODWIN

The University of Massachusetts Ski Club, largest college club on the East Coast, has much to offer the students of UMass, whether they be skiers or not.

With nearly 200 paid members, ($2.00), the club is going all out this year to offer interested students as much as possible in order to further the sport of skiing and the enjoyment it has to offer.

Club President Bob Godwin, V.P. Phil Renaud, Treasurer Louis Dykeman, and secretaries Cindy Wakeman and Molly Briggs are working overtime to provide movies, trips, and other activities for the Club members, and the student body-at-large.

This year, The Ski Club is coordinating two intersession trips.

The Round Hearth Lodge at Stowe, Vermont will be the host for 44 Umies, headed by Molly Briggs and Bob Godwin will once again flood the Four Seasons Lodge near Sugarbush with 75 ski-bums from Mass-Aggie.

These two trips are filled up for this year, but look ahead... next year there will be these two trips plus ASPEN.

Mr. Peter Picknelly, President of Peter Pan Bus Lines, Inc., has kindly offered his services in promoting the art of skiing at U-Mass.

Effective Saturday, January 7, 1967, Peter Pan will offer

Photo by Index

Skier experiences the thrill of descent.

in Holyoke. This will run every DAILY bus trips to Mt. Tom day, with extra buses on Friday and Saturday.

The Schedule is:

SAT: LV. U-Mass 8:55 a.m., LV. Amherst 8:58 a.m., AR. Mt. Tom 9:25 a.m.

DAILY: LV. U-Mass 12:55 p.m., LV. Amherst 12:58 p.m., AR. Mt. Tom 1:25 p.m., LV. Mt. Tom 5:05 p.m. AR. Amherst 5:27 p.m. AR. U-Mass 5:30 p.m.

DAILY: LV. U-Mass 2:55 p.m., LV. Amherst 2:58 p.m., AR. Mt. Tom 3:25 p.m., LV. Mt. Tom 10:30 p.m. AR. Amherst 10:27 p.m., AR. U-Mass 11:00 p.m.

FRI: LV. U-Mass 5:30 p.m., LV. Amherst 5:33 p.m., AR. Mt. Tom 6:00 p.m.

Since the fare is only $.60 one-way, and $1.20 round trip, any member of the Ski Club can well afford to go—since Mt. Tom gives 25% off for groups of ten or more members.

But even non-members can well see that this bus offers the student much more mobility than hitching rides. And at night, one can ski at Mt. Tom for six full hours (4:00-10:00) for a total of $4.20 transportation included.

The Ski Club is also planning several movies for next semester—some of Warren Millers' finest. These will include Powder Skiing at Aspen, Ski Flying in Austria, and many more.

Also planned are possible day trips (at discount rates) to Haystack Ski area, Vt., Thunder Mountain, Mt. Snow, and others. These, of course, will depend upon demand.

The Club will be planning these events at its meetings which preceed all movies. Come join the Club, or if not, at least join the group. Lots of exciting, and inexpensive things are in store—if you help.

Roots of Student Protests Lie In Liberally Raised Children

Students most likely to be active in student protests are those whose parents raised them permissively, and who have the affluence to ignore conventional worries about jobs and status, according to a recent study by a University of Chicago sociologist.

In a study of "the roots of student protest," Richard Flacks, assistant professor of sociology, writes, "It seems plausible that this is the first generation in which a substantial number of youth have both the impluse to free themselves from conventional status concerns and can afford to do so."

Flacks proposed as an hypothesis that students today are active in protest because:

—They find student life highly "rationalized," which is related to impersonality and competitiveness.

—They have been reared in permissive, democratic families, which place high values on standards other than high status and achievement.

—These values make it more difficult for students to submit to adult authority, respect status distinctions, and accept the prevailing rationalized, competitive system.

Since they are "not oriented to the (prevailing) norms of achievement," they feel less need to accept conformity to "get ahead." Moreover, they can afford to be non-conformists—"affluence has freed them, at least for a period of time, from some of the anxieties and preoccupations which have been the defining features of American middle-class social character."

—They spend a long period in a university environment which, with a series of events around 1960 including Southern sit-ins and the demonstrations against HUAC, has changed from an atmosphere of "cool" non-commitment to concern with direct action. "A full understanding of the dynamics of the movement requires a 'collective behavior' approach," Flacks comments.

—Finally, the formerly disorganized "bohemian" forms of deviance have become translated, through the liberal-minded parents, into a "developing cultural tradition" into which the activist students are socialized. A second generation of radicals is reaching adulthood, born of the radicals of the thirties, Flacks pointed out.

Attempting to discover why the current crop of college students has developed such a strong protest movement, while students of the fifties were noted for apathy, Flacks organized a study of the family backgrounds, political beliefs, and values of students active in such movements.

(Continued on page 11)

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS
MECHANICAL ENGINEERS
PHYSICISTS

Norden will be on campus

January 11, 1967 (Wednesday)

Graduating Electrical Engineers, Mechanical Engineers and Physicists are invited to discuss career opportunities in research, design, development and manufacturing in areas such as:

Airborne Radar Systems / Video Display Systems / Solid State Device Development / Precision Components / Advanced Computer Techniques / Advanced Electro-mechanical Design Techniques

Norden's location in Norwalk, Connecticut is easily accessible to the entire New York metropolitan area.

For convenient appointment, please make arrangements in advance through your Placement Office.

Norden DIVISION OF United Aircraft

An Equal Opportunity Employer (M&F)

Dickens can't scare you when you're armed with Cliff's Notes. As you read "Tale Of Two Cities," your Cliff's Notes will provide a complete explanation and summary of every chapter. It will do wonders in smoothing the "rough" spots and increasing your understanding. And don't stop with Dickens. There are more than 125 Cliff's Notes ready to help you make better grades in every literature course.

$1 at your bookseller or write for free title list

CLIFF'S NOTES, INC.
Bethany Station Lincoln, Nebr. 68505

Cliff's Notes INCORPORATED

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

On Reading Days

by JACK DEAN, Day Editor

Before vacation the Faculty Senate made an honest attempt to compensate for the marked absence of readings days preceding final exams.

Their resolution urged department heads and faculty members to extend the present reading day into several days by using January 9, 10, and 11 as a review period during which no new material would be introduced. They also urged that class attendance not be made mandatory during this time — a very sensible suggestion.

The question now is: What will the faculty do?

This appears to have become a personal matter. Therefore, each student should ask his instructors if they intend to honor this resolution.

We strongly urge all instructors to do so.

Meanwhile, finals approacheth.

Man of the Year

By PAUL ROBERT HALLOCK, Editorial Staff

We ought to be proud. Most of us know already that Time's Man of the Year was not a man, but a generation—The Now Generation—everyone twenty-five and under.

For those who were not able to read the acclaiming article, I would like to outline, in cepts (a cept is a condensation of a philosophical tidbit that helps people remember things), some of our ideas that cast light on the character of our generation and that supported Time's choice.

The Man of the Year:
— wants Snoopy for President.
— esteems inventiveness, eloquence, honesty, elegance, and good looks.
— has an ideology: idealism.
— has an ideal: pragmatism.
— thrives on Happenings, impulses, that are our kind of instant hedonism, and that make this "nowhere scene called the Great Society" a little easier to live in, or to escape.
— sometimes feels that, with the threat of the Bomb, he must compress his lifetime into a day.
— thinks that "being a Professional Virgin" is wrong.
— comprises about half the population of America, and his voice, no matter what he says, is heard throughout the world.
— doesn't have to wait to become a part of the "real world"; he already is.
— is a loyal companion and a good citizen of an empty society.

Time's Man of the Year is "the man or woman who dominated the news of the year and left an indelible mark—for good or evil—on history."

We didn't expect this recognition, but we deserve it.

Our thanks to Time—and to ourselves.

Part 1

The Academic Game

By JOHN CLAYTON, Assistant Professor of Humanities, Boston University
The Collegiate Press Service

I remember back when I was a graduate student teaching Freshman Comp. It was a big state university and I was one of (I think) 80 comp. teachers. They paid me $1,800 a year, and I played the Academic Game.

I don't mean I didn't care; I cared. I did my best to train students to write acceptable papers for college courses. What a goal!

And I pretended to be shocked when out of a batch of essays we found 13 per cent duplicates and eight per cent probable plagiarisms. Not to speak of the papers taken from fraternity files.

I say pretended because somewhere I knew it was all role-playing and that the students simply recognized this. Maybe it was the smarter ones who created, who saw the game for what it was. But no—probably it was the type who were smart as pickpockets are smart. Otherwise dead.

Role-playing. Waisted motion, all of it, except a few private talks that mattered and a few class hours when within the squeeze of the syllabus, I could generate excitement about something that mattered.

I hope I'm finished with role-playing. I'm not giving any more students practice in writing academic essays which are themselves as unreal as the freshman essays. Unreal because the upper-class academic essays are only more practice for graduate school essays which are again practice for publishing in PMLA or American Journal of Sociology. And if you look at these journals, you'll be up against ultimate unreality.

Instead of this I'm asking students to tell me something that matters to them, something that connects their lives with "The Oresteia" or "The Bacchae," and if nothing matters to talk about that. I'm asking them to use their own living language and forget Academic Linear A. I won't play the role of being shocked at a comma fault or an inversion of subordination. I'm asking my studtnts to commit themselves to what they're saying.

But much more in university life is unreal. Because who controls the system but people who have been selected for unreality? It's a filtering process which usually gets rid of people who are committed to living or gets rid of their commitment. I used to think that it was faculty and students against administrators. I was naive. Much of the faculty I've seen is twice as rigid, twice as tradition-ridden, as the administrators I've met.

The faculty is hung up in its disciplines, responsive not to students but to national disciplinary societies, like the American Chemical Society, which dictates that chem majors take 55 hours in math and science.

And are students much less rigid? Give them free choice on essay topics and you will get half of them writing the same plodding academic essays they've found to be safe. Let a discussion get going hot and half of them are uneasy that they're not taking notes for the exam.

They suck in "knowledge" because they are told, they discuss masterpieces because they're masterpieces. Ours is not to say its bunk/Ours is but to pass or flunk.

Let's get rid of the Academic Game.

(Next: Professor Clayton discusses exams.)

A Board Increase Analysis . . .

To the Editor:

After re-reading the article in a recent Collegian about the almost 20% increase in board rates, I felt it necessary to sit down and thing about what I had just read, rather than merely sigh and attribute the increase to inflation and to the generally rising cost of living.

If one assumes that 9,000 out of the approximately 12,000 students at the University of Massachusetts possess a five day meal ticket and there is a $35 increase per semester, there will be an increase of $280,000 for the food services. If $80,000 must be paid for amortization, $50,000 for a 6% pay increase, and $95-000for a previous 10% pay increase, a total of $225,000—that leaves an excess of $55,000.

In addition, a tight labor market costs $3,000 per month or a little less than $15,-000 per semester. This still leaves $40,000 per semester in excess which would absorb the 9.2% increase in food prices.

But what about the $695,000 that the University still owes the Commonweaith because of high interest rates? Must this be a direct burden to the present student body? Has the state of Massachusetts been negligent in its estimation of money aliotted to the University? Have poor financial decisions been reached through expedience, lack of foresight, or corrupt politics?

To compensate for increased board rates, "seconds" may be allowed on entrees and desserts. This promise has a ring of familiarily—could it be from last year when board rates went up? I can vaguely remember second helpings on frankfurters once or twice, but no longer.

In addition the article noted that new snack bars have been opened around campus. The Hatch is operated by a private concession and it makes money, but are all of our snack bars self-sufficient—are they even able to pay the labor?

The article announcing increase in board rates ended on a happy note, though—snack bar hours at Southwest may be increased! But what about those increasing operating and storage expenses, rising food costs, labor shortages, and rising labor costs?

An Anonymous Economist

. . . And Some Sensible Suggestions

To the Editor:

Upon reading of the "proposed" rate increase of our dining commons board, I was, to put it mildly, appalled!

I can definitely sympathize with Food Service officials about the rising cost of food and labor, but unfortunately, I do not think the food that we get or "will be getting" is worth an increase of $35 and $16, respectively. I can not see what they can possibly offer us as "extras" that will be worth $51 extra per semester.

Recently, North Commons' lines 4 and 5 started "treating" us to juice at all meals—I say, "Big Deal!", it doesn't taste that good most of the time to warrant $35 more a semester. Also, they stopped serving bulk ice cream and substituted block ice cream in its place—now, I ask you (those who eat it), does it taste as good as the bulk ice cream ? ? ? ? ?

Perhaps the Food Service could see its way clear to offer a 10 meal weekly plan (lunch and dinner) and a 4 meal weekend plan (lunch and dinner), thereby saving the student approximately $50 plus per semester, saving the Food Service from buying and preparing extra food, and saving the extra employee costs because of reduced needs at breakfast time.

Also, with the increase in prices, perhaps the student (even under 21) should be given the choice of buying a meal ticket or paying for his meal separately.

Alison L. Getchell '68

A Few Major Corrections

To the Editor:

This is in regard to the article written by Pamela Metaxas following an interview with me Tuesday, December 13. I'm afraid I was misquoted.

I don't know what "intra-physic" or "extra-physic" means. What I said was that suicide is usually in response to intrapsychic, not extra-psychic pressures. It would not make sense to say suicide is intrapsychic.

I also said that those who are disturbed enough by intrapsychic processes will commit suicide whether they are in school or not. Condensing this into "those who are disturbed enough will commit suicide anyway" does not make sense.

I said the person who commits suicide is usually the person who hasn't made a connection with a therapist. Most often those people who have committed suicide turn out not to have been treated here. To say that the potential suicide is the person who hasn't made the connection is again meaningless.

I aiso said friends could be responsive and sensitive to the feelings of others and be concerned about other people, and this might be helpful in that it could conceivably cut down on suicides. I tried to make a distinction between suicide gestures and suicide attempts.

Actually I know what did happen. Miss Metaxas jotted down some notes in the form of partial sentences and phrases, and her memory did not serve to flesh up this skeleton. The garbled misinterpretation is beyond description. I really do wish that I could have seen the paper she was going to have published.

I must say I don't want to censor the paper but I feel some great responsibility to any potentially suicidal person struggling with feelings of depression, isolation, and loneliness. I am dismayed by the thought that such a person would never think of coming to the Mental Health Service or to me after reading about all those foolish things I supposedly said. He might think to himself, "Why should I go to a nut like that He doesn't even talk English, and he hasn't the faintest idea of what I am struggling with."

Julian F. Janowitz, M.D.
Director
Mental Health Service

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Gordon A. Davidson '67

MANAGING EDITOR
Jim Foudy '68

BUSINESS MANAGER
Lynn Stowe '68

NEWS DAY EDITORS: Joyce Harvey, Marjie Flanders, Richard Kline
STAFF: Susan Arcouette, Bruce Balboni, Nancy Bourgoin, Joanne Bucewick, Janet Caroprece, Elaine Canter, Thomas Donovan, Don Epstein, John Findley, Dave Floreen, Dixon George, Ted Janet, Fred Lane, Richard Lane, Daniel Madden, Pan Metaxas, Marshall Nadin, Dave O'Connor, Jane Roland, Neil Scanlon
CAMPUS NEWS EDITOR: Bob Gorman
STAFF: Robert Cushman, Eric Goldman, Edroy Parker
EDITORIAL CHAIRMAN: Chet Weinerman '68
EDITORIAL DAY EDITORS: Jack Dean, Ellie Skinner, Stan Levco
STAFF: Michael Hersh, Joe Ross, Paul R. Hallock, Ellen Cleary, Marsha Baron, Marcia Taylor, Malcolm Kesselman, Richard Roeder, Sam Spark

SPORTS EDITOR: Mike Gould '67
SPORTS DAY EDITORS: Tom Fitzgerald, Tim Murphy, Glenn Briere
STAFF: Dave Jarnes, Al Peakes, Tom Convel, Roger Kipp, Joe Duffy, Mike Curran, Harvey Elman, John Kelly
PHOTOGRAPHY EDITORS: John Kelly '69, Paul Boliver '68
STAFF: Gerri Cote, Tom Donovan, Bill Gleason, Joyce Harvey, Stan Furman, Larry Kornfield, Richard Kline, Larry Mazel, Ed Rizzotto, Robert Soffer, Breck Seiniger, Phil Serrano, James Tripp, George Williams
FEATURE EDITOR: Lois Cohen '68
ADVERTISING MANAGER: Chuck Smith '69
CIRCULATION MANAGER: Bob Godwin '68
SPECIALS EDITOR: Phil Goepp '69
CARTOONISTS: Joe Di Veglia, Rich Moran

MEMBER: Associated Collegiate Press, Minneapolis, Minnesota
MEMBER: U.S. Student Press Association, 2117 "S" Street, Washington, D.C.

Senate Allocation Questioned

To the Editor:

In the course of the four years for which I have been a member of the University of Massachusetts community, it has frequently fallen to me to take up, in the face of the passionate indignation of some of my fellow students, the defense of our Student Senate. It has been my habit to point out that, with the exception of a small minority of persons who refuse to display any reasonable degree of discretion, tact, forsight, or humility, the Senate is comprised of conscientious and well-intentioned people who usually represent the student body justly in their official actions.

It is no longer possible for me to bear such friendly standards; a few hours ago that same Student Senate perpetrated a most unjust and impulsive action, and that with not simply a slim margin, but a unanimous-minus-one acclamation. Only one member of the Senate bore the conviction to maintain proper reason when $500 was allocated for use by an organization which prior to its request for funds, had had no official contact with the University or the Senate. It is not surprising that that person was a Senate officer whose conscientiousness has never fallen into question in his three years of membership in the Senate.

The organization in question was referred to as the "Valley Center," at least for the purposes of gaining financial aid: its name up until today has been the apparently more controversial "Free University." It is a nebulous entity located in an apartment in Northampton; according to its organizer (whose rent, incidentally, is to be paid with this $500!) it is striving toward the equally nebulous goal of liberal education outside the classroom. It has no constitution or codified objectives, no formal organization, which have been presented in a manner that has been required policy in all previous allocations of Senate funds.

This appears to me to have been a rash and unwise use of University student tax monies. I would challenge the small minority who voiced disapproval during the painfully brief period of debate but who failed to register an audible "nay" in the actual vote, to reopen their mouths in the defense of the proper reason they seemed to bear in their minds. They should direct the energies of their right conviction toward those members who voted "aye," since it is the latter who bear the power to reopen the question. I charge the latter group with their duty to reconsider the action they have taken under such inadequate consideration.

When this action has been reversed, I will be able to return in good conscience to my former habit of defending the justness of our Student Senate.

Robert Roger Lebel '67

Letters to the Editor

MUST

be signed. Names will be withheld on request

Campus Comment

Food and Free Enterprise

To the Editor:

In this food controversy I am sure that every student has complaints about the dining commons: food quality (#1 on every list I know of), endless lines, slow service, small quantities (of all things!), etc. In these things the management could provide for improvement.

While waiting in line at the very counter of the hash-slingers I spent a happy ten minutes watching workers rush back and forth to the front spreading the word "all out of roast beef" and "no more french fries". Pondering the question over macaroni-and-cheese among friends we reached a consencus. The point: the food service dies not need to improve because purchase of meal tickets is mandatory. We would suggest, then, that meal tickets be optional.

Speculating on the results would be tricky. Will the commons become deserted or remain populated? To avoid an overcrowded Hatch or Creamery, long walks to Amherst, peanut-butter sandwiches alone, or to keep a reasonable budget, students will buy meal tickets... If the masses do not see this reasoning, the Food Service will be forced to woo more two-hundred-dollar accounts by listening to complaints, figuring out what is wrong, and acting.

Personally, I think our food service is pretty good. My December 18 macaroni-and-cheese was my first really distasteful experience.

Finally, we should have to pay tuition, athletic fees, health fees, activities taxes, etc. But the subsidizing of an inefficient (or even an efficient) non-university food firm by arbitrary contract point smells of statism.

Yours for free enterprise and individualism,
Wayne Soini
504 Webster

P.S.: Copies of this letter were sent to President Lederle, Dean Field, the Student Senate Services Committee, and numerous student offices. Students truly interested in optional meal tickets should write Dean Field and/or the Collegian to show it. Now or never!

The Vietnamese Viewpoint

To the Editor:

On Sunday, Jan. 8th, at 8:00 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium, the John Adams (Lower House) Cultural Committee will sponsor the showing of three films about the American-Vietnamese war. These films are unusually interesting in that they reflect the war from a Vietnamese viewpoint.

The first of these films, Time of the Locust, is a survey of U.S. atrocities against the Vietnamese. The film also includes footage of torture and murder against a sound track of percussion, LBJ speeches, and popular music.

The next film, Days with the Youth Shock Brigade, portrays the activities and spirit of a brigade of North Vietnamese youth in repairing destruction done by Americans to their country. This film was made by the North Vietnamese.

Vietnam, Land of Fire, the last film, was made by the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam (Viet Cong) and is concerned with the criminal acts and brutality of the U.S. in Vietnam. This film also shows how the Vietnamese organize to resist U.S. aggression.

One of the purposes for showing these films is to better acquaint Americans with the Vietnamese viewpoints of the war. Also, perhaps an equally important reason is to show students who will soon be entering the military what they may be called on to do.

John Adams Lower
Cultural Committee

A wise man is one who learns from everyone.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY

TOBACCO PRODUCTS • PACKAGING MATERIALS
FRUIT JUICE BEVERAGES • FOOD AND INDUSTRIAL CORN PRODUCTS

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

JANUARY 10, 1967

CHEMICAL ENGINEERING, B.S.
CIVIL ENGINEERING, B.S.
CHEMISTRY, B.S.
FOOD TECHNOLOGY, B.S., M.S.
INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING, B.S.
MECHANICAL ENGINEERING, B.S.
STATISTICS, B.A., M.A.
ACCOUNTING, B.S., M.S.
M.B.A.

Are YOU interested in challenge and responsibility
Are YOU looking for a dynamic, diversified company
Are YOU seeking a growth-oriented opportunity
Then WE would like to talk with YOU.

Visit with our College Recruiting Representative to discuss how you might become a part of this growth. Interview arrangements and more specific information can be obtained through your placement office.

LIBERAL BENEFITS INCLUDE: Profit Sharing, Hospitalization, Retirement, Life Insurance, Educational Assistance, Relocation Assistance.

All positions are located in Winston-Salem, North Carolina

RJR

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

THE BEST ski goggles

180° peripheral vision can be worn over regular glasses interchangeable gray and amber lenses

padded for comfort ventilated shatter-proof non-fogging light weight

"Best I've seen!" says DON CALL OPTICIAN and SKIER

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

WANTED

Beginning January, faculty member has room in comfortable house, with privacy for student, in exchange for babysitting, 1 Child. Call 253-7679.

GRADUATE STUDENTS ONLY —One large sunny room with twin beds available for 2, and one smaller room for single student. Board available if desired. Located in center of town. Call 253-9806.

"THE PLAYGIRLS" — First all-girl rock and roll band on campus to play at fraternities and sororities. Call Lynn, 211 Johnson House.

To share house with two co-eds, 5 miles from campus transportation available. Rent low private room. Call 549-0937 after 6.

AUTOMOBILES

MGA parts engine (1600), seats, radio & wire wheels. Call 256-6851.

Alfa Romeo Guilletta Spyder Veloce, 1963. Good body, top, tires, radio & heater. Needs rings and minor trans. work. Sell or trade—cheap. Call Larry 546-7205.

1955 Mercedez-Benz exc. mechanical condition. Need some body work. Price $285. Xavier Moscoso or Rusty Swartz, tel. 549-1727.

For Rent

For rent: 2 room efficiency apartment. $90.00 pays all. Married couple only. Call 256-6286.

4 rooms, completely furnished, 2 bathrooms—all utilities Call 586-1422.

Rooms to rent in Sunderland. Private entrance, room care and linens furnished. 10 min. to campus. Call 665-4688.

4 Room Modern Apt. Sublet. Second semester. Electric heat, garb. dis., elec. dish., air condition. Call 549-0469, No. 81 Presidential Apts.

HELP WANTED

Part time—3 eves. & Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply High Point Motor Inn, Route 33, Chicopee Falls, Mass. Mon. eve. 7:30 p.m., Tues. thru Thurs. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

OPPORTUNITIES

Entertainment wanted at Ski Lodge in exchange for free weekends. We need folk guitarists, singers, and complete bands. Write to Winwood Lodge, North Conway, Vermont or call 356-9796.

COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING PAYS

Join the Collegian

Photo by Kelly

"One picture is worth . . ."

Educational TV?

"Empire" to Expand

"Closed circuit Television at the University of Massachusetts is a great empire," according to the program director, Dr. Raymond Wyman, "and it is becoming even greater."

Dr. Wyman directs the closed circuit TV station at the Education Building along with Dr. Saul Scher, who heads production. They are assisted by a staff of two engineers and one technician.

Along with its new expansion, the staff sees a new role for the TV Station. "We are outgrowing the School of Education and expanding to serve the other colleges and departments on campus as well."

According to Dr. Scher, there are two phases to the operation of the closed circuit TV station.

"The first phase originates in the studio. Here, we can film a lesson, a professor giving a lecture, a class discussion, or any number of things. This can be transmitted to TV's in classrooms all over the building, or can be stored and re-played at a later date."

"The educational values of this are tremendous," according to Dr. John Lee, the chief engineer. Recently a French class used the studio and then watched and listened to themselves speaking. The instructor and Mr. Lee both feel that this is "a valuable method of self-critique." The Physical Education Department also uses this equipment so that athletes can "see their own mistakes."

This TV equipment has also been used with success by the Departments of Landscape Architecture, Public Health, and by graduate committees giving Oral Comprehensive Examinations.

Yet, with this wide success, both Mr. Scher and Mr. Lee feels that "the studio is very inadequate." "It is small, cramped, and by this we are limited in what we can do," comments Mr. Lee, whose desk is shoved into a corner of the studio.

"But, to remedy this, we are building a much larger studio and buying much new equipment." This, according to Mr. Lee, "will enable us to give wider, greater, and better service to the campus."

The second phase of operation of the closed circuit TV station is concerned with classroom observation. According to Dr. Scher, "This is used mainly by Education majors at the Marks Meadow School in order to give them a first-hand understanding of the classroom situation."

"Two remotely controlled cameras and microphones are placed in any one of 13 classrooms to film what goes on," Dr. Lee explained. Education majors can either watch this "live" on TV sets in their classes, or they can study it later by means of the video - tape recorder.

"This is also limited in that we can only film grades 1-6, and those interested in secondary education are just out of luck," Mr. Scher said.

"But, our new plans to set up cameras in Amherst Regional High School will take care of that problem! This link with the High School is a very good thing," Dr. Scher commented. "Up until now, we had ignored secondary Education majors."

(Continued on page 7)

Landscape Program?

"We Aim to Humanize"

by JOHN M. CAHILL

"Our aim is to humanize the average landscape designer."

These words of Edwin Zube, head of the UMass College of Agriculture landscape architecture department, sum up the reasoning behind the decision to lengthen the department curriculum from two to four years.

"Under the two-year program, a student had to devote his full attention to the technicalities," stated Zube, "but under this new program, he will have the opportunity to study in the liberal arts, so that he might better understand the needs and desires of the people for whom he is designing."

After two years of liberal arts study, the student begins his pre-professional studies. In these, he need receive only 40 credits in his major field of the required 60. The student will be urged, however, to use the remaining 20 credits in work in a minor.

In the major field, either landscape planning or landscape architecture, the curriculum will be divided into three general areas. These are: designing in human environment, the relationship of natural factors, and the needs of man. As this last points out, man has become an integral part of the science.

Besides this advantage, the four-year course of study also gives a student the opportunity to develop his creative ability, if it exists and the faculty the opportunity to recognize its presence, Zube reported. "Since 1856, the year Central Park was completed, creativity in the field of public parks has almost been at a standstill.

Society changes, and with it we must change. We've got to learn to anticipate the desires of the public," said Zube.

"If there was a test in which we could place three drops of a person's blood into a fluid which changed color if the person had creative ability, it would be a blessing, but we don't. So we must depend on time to tell us." In this way, if it is discovered that a student does not have this ability, he will still have the opportunity to change his major, Zube continued.

Another advantage is that the program will offer the ever-growing number of transfers from Community and Junior

(Continued on page 7)

Photo by Boliver

This is an Open Eye; fairly well-rested and clear. Within one week, this eye will be red, puffy, clouded, and droopy. Happy Finals!

Attention Class of '68

Due to the resignation and changing of residence of certain members of the executive council, there now exist openings on the Council for representatives from:

CRABTREE
HAMLIN
BROOKS
EMERSON
GREENOUGH
HILLS
WHEELER
THATCHER
JAMES

Looking for Self-Fulfillment?

SHERUT LA'AM – ISRAEL
MAY BE YOUR ANSWER

TO: Sherut La'am (Service to the People)
515 Park Avenue
New York, N.Y. 10022

I am a graduate—undergraduate (underline one) between 19-30 and would like you to send me without obligation, FREE information telling how I can serve a full year in Israel for only $670 which includes round trip fare. (A limited number of long-term loans are available). I understand a knowledge of Hebrew is not a prerequisite.

NAME (PLEASE PRINT)

MAJOR FIELD OF STUDY COLLEGE OR UNIV.

STREET ADDRESS PHONE (OPTIONAL)

CITY STATE ZIP

Sweden Influences Sex Standards in Other Countries

by GERALD VIGEANT
Feature Staff

Today, in matters of sex, Sweden is wide open. The old taboos have been stripped away, and the Swedes are now free to enjoy their private pleasures. Why is Sweden the site of this unique occurrence?

The sex revolution seems to be rooted in three Swedish phenomenon: the opulent welfare society, the liberation of women and their acquisition of equal rights, and the ineffectual Church of Sweden.

Security is the keyword in the life of a Swedish citizen, security guaranteed by advanced social welfare legislation. Sweden is a nation organized to eliminate the risks of life. The chance of unemployment is practically nonexistent.

Medical facilities are available for all citizens at a nominal fee. Good living accommodations are guaranteed by the government for children, invalids, the handicapped, and widows. All schools are free. And, as Gunnar Myrdal points out in the New York Times Magazine (Jan. 30, 1966), all citizens ". . . can look forward to a pension in old age that, in stable value, will amount to two-thirds of their income in their best fifteen years . . ."

Sweden is now the richest country in Europe. The United States has a somewhat higher national income per capita, but, as Myrdal states, "If we omit from the comparison a numerically small class of the very rich, ordinary Swedes are now as well off as ordinary Americans—perhaps a little better off." Life in Sweden is uncomplicated, affluent, and sure.

With the rise in material welfare and security for the common people, the Swedes have been left free to delve into other matters. Sex has been one of their primary fields of concern. Ten years ago, they instituted coeducational compulsory sex education in the public schools.

Every detail concerning the facts of life is discussed and analyzed openly and frankly. A new wave of liberal sex legislation has permitted contraceptives to be readily obtainable in automatic dispensing machines along the streets. The incidence of youthful sex experimentation, now legal, has risen.

J. Robert Moskin in Look (Nov. 15, 1966) points out that, "Studies in girls' schools found the incidence of intercourse has risen more than twenty per cent in the past five years." Deane William Ferm in The Christian Century (Sept. 21, 1966) quotes recent studies indicating that " . . . about 80 per cent of boys and 65 per cent of girls have had sexual relations by age 18."

Swedish society now almost unanimously accepts the position that engagement includes bed privileges, and, in increasing numbers, the Swedes are applying this view to couples going steady. The freedom from worry about the primary needs of life as a result of the welfare state system of government has definitely been a causal factor in the Swedish sex revolution.

"Much of this sexual freedom is tied in with the demand for equal rights for women," Ferm points out. "If men can 'get their kicks' why can't women?" From one-third to one-half of all women in Sweden are pregnant on their wedding day. More than a quarter of mothers delivering their first child are unmarried.

There are no illegitimate babies in Sweden: an unmarried woman and her baby are considered a "one-parent" family, and are entitled to government family benefits. The dismissal of an employee because of pregnancy is forbidden by law, regardless of whether the woman is married or not.

Pregnant working women receive a subsidy from the government and full pay is issued for a period of time while they are absent from work. Laws concerning abortion are being continually relaxed. The Swedish sex revolution is definitely related to women's desire to gain equal footing in a previously male-dominated society.

"God is dead in Sweden," Ferm says, "partly because theology has killed him . . ." An antichurch attitude pervades all of Sweden today. The state-linked Church of Sweden has become little more than a glorified secretary—a bookkeeper for the state on matters of birth, confirmation, marriage, and death.

Ferme indicates the apathetic attitude of the Swedish people toward the state church: ". . . five per cent or less was the estimate given me again and again of the number who think of the Church as more than census-taker." Why does Swedish theology have so little impact on the people?

Historically, the Church of Sweden strongly resisted social legislation and the rise of the common man. Today, the church offers little more to the Swedes than it has in the past. According to Ferm, contemporary " . . . Swedish theology is lifeless because it has cut itself off from the real matters of life and death."

After all, if theology is only 'historical and scientific', who in hell cares?"

Sweden has historically progressed to its present state of sexual openness. Its long-range effects and influence on Sweden and the rest of the world, too, will lie with history.

LANDSCAPE . . .

(Continued from page 6)

Colleges the chance to matriculate in the field.

The University of Massachusetts holds the distinction of being the first school to adopt this four-year program. Although the University of Southern California has also begun a similar program, theirs is among the lines developed by UMass.

EDUCATIONAL TV . . .

(Continued from page 6)

The staff at the Closed Circuit TV station is proud of these accomplishments, and is eager to see its new plans put into action.

Dr. Lee, in speaking for the whole staff, commented, "TV is a powerful new asset to Education. There is a need for it in every department at the University, and we are anxious to do all we can to serve these needs."

SCHOLARSHIP

A Rotary International Scholarship will be available in the amount of $3200.00 in 1968. Senior students whose home is in the Southeastern Massachusetts area, preferably in the vicinity of Hanover, Pembroke, Marshfield, Norwell, etc. are asked to contact Mr. Morrissey, Director of Placement & Financial Aid Services in Machmer Hall if interested. This scholarship, announced by the Rotary Club of Hanover, Mass., will allow the selected graduates to choose any one of more than 120 countries to study in. It is necessary that the recipient of the scholarship speak the language of the country he chooses.

Important

FEATURE STAFF MEETING

Monday, Jan. 9 at 7:00 p.m.

Avco/MSD
The pathway to a real challenge.

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES
for Senior and Graduate Engineers

The Missile Systems Division of the Avco Corporation has been a major developer of Re-entry Vehicles since 1955. Through the years, our organization has designed and developed re-entry vehicles for the Atlas, Titan and Minuteman Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles. Today's projects include advanced penetration aids, advanced re-entry vehicles, vulnerability and hardening, tactical missile systems and other technical programs.

Opportunities for current and future graduates exist in the following areas:

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING & AERODYNAMICS
- Mechanical Design
- Thermodynamics
- Heat Transfer
- Structural Design
- Aerodynamics

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS
- Electronic Systems
- Telemetry & Instrumentation
- Electromechanical Systems

MATHEMATICS
- Applied Mathematics
- Scientific Math Analysis
- Scientific & Engineering Programing
- Flight Test Data Reduction Programing
- Systems Program & Analysis

PHYSICS & SCIENCES
- Material Development
- Thermal Properties
- Aerophysics
- Plasma Research
- Ionospheric Physics
- Microbiology

Other positions exist in Systems Engineering, Reliability & Safety Engineering, Advanced Systems & Penetration Aids and Flight Test & Evaluation.

In addition to a liberal benefit program, our Educational Aid Policy is among the finest in industry today. In this program, participants are permitted eight (8) hours a week to attend school without a reduction in pay. The complete cost of registration, tuition, laboratory fees and one-half the cost of the text books are included.

The proximity of our facilities to the educational institutions in Boston and Cambridge makes this a highly attractive program to members of our technical staff.

Avco/MSD representatives will be on CAMPUS Monday Jan. 9

AVCO MISSILE SYSTEMS DIVISION
201 LOWELL STREET, WILMINGTON, MASSACHUSETTS 01887

AVCO

An equal opportunity employer

- Notices -

SKI CLUB
On Mon., Jan. 9, at 7:00 P.M. there will be a very important meeting for all members going on skip trips. Must attend. Collection of final payments and allocation of cars. Drivers—please come. Meeting wil be held in Council Chambers.

LOCAL #1776—AFSCME AFL/CIO
Regular monthly meeting, Jan. 6, in Nantucket Room, S.U. at 7:30 P.M. Members and guests welcome.

S.R.L.
Cost Supper and Discussion on Billings Lectureship Sunday, Jan. 8, at 6:00 P.M. at Unitarian Church, Amherst.

PINNINGS:
Marynn Lafley, class of '69, Van Meter North, to Douglas H. Laing, class of '69, St. Lawrence University.
Carol Corkum, class of '68, Crabtree, to William Newton, class of '68, Worcester Tech, Phi Sigma Kappa.
Joan Ashley, class of '69, Calvin Coolidge, to Dick Grinnell, class of '67, S.A.M.
Gail E. Brown, class of '69, Sigma Kappa, to Jay O'Malley, class of '69, Zeta Psi, Tufts University.
Sheryl A. Wall, class of '69, Melville, to Brian A. Lajoie, class of '68, Zeta Nu.
Dorothy Silvia, class of '69, Calvin Coolidge, to James Mello, class of '67, S.M.T.I., Delta Kappa Phi.
Vicki Shirn, class of '69, Thoreau, to George Harvey, APO, Fitchburg State.
Christine Dougal, clcass of '68, Lewis, to David Ceccarelli, class of '69, Mills.
Carlene Frid, class of '69, Lewis, to Robert Sawyer, class of '68, Thatcher.
Elaine D. Lounsbury, class of '69, Calvin Coolidge, to Arthur H. Bronstein, S.A.M.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Judith M. MacDonald, class of '67, Brooks, to Robert L. Brown, Northeastern University.
Lois Mozzicato, class of '68, Hamlin, to Anthony Shields, class of '69, Northeastern University.
Susan Himmel, class of '69, Van Meter North, to David W. Marshall, graduate student, Amherst, Mass.
June Giardino, class of '68, John Q. Adams, to Robert Anderson, class of '68, State University of N.Y. at Brockport.
Betsy Singer, class of '68, Johnson to Frank Lewenberg, class of '67, AEPi.
Jean Pernat, class of '68, Crabtree, to Robert Eldred, USAF, Montana.
Cathy Heartshorn, Hopkinton, Mass., to Peter Wood, class of '68, T-6.
Marianne Langan, class of '67, Crabtree, to David C. Clarke, class of '66, LCA, Northeastern Univ. Graduate School.
Barbara Delmolino, class of '68, Van Meter South, to Kent Stevens, class of '68, Hills South.
Marcia Freitas, class of '68, Van Meter South, to Ronald Sheaves, class of '66.
Kathleen Mylott, class of '68, Van Meter South, to Gordon Bienvenue, class of '68, Phi Sigma Delta.
Kathrine M. Izatt, class of '69, Tower II, to Jeffrey W. Ralnaud, Marcad, USMC.
Mary Van Der Heyden, class of '68, Chi Omega, to Robert Defore, class of '68, Kappa Sigma.
Nancy Bednarz, class of '68, Lewis, GSS, to John Powers, class of '65, Boston College.
Sandra Prete, class of '67, IGU, to Bud Ryan, class of '68, Northeastern University.
Nancy Sundquist, class of '68, Dickinson, to Robert Bangs, class of '67, Greenfield Community College.

Fraternity, Sorority Living Challenged . . .

(Continued from page 1)

choice," he added. It is not this way in a dorm.

Denny Toner, (Theta Chi) also remarked on this idea. "No matter how plush dorm living is, there is no element of selectivity," he said. The difference is that the Greeks have an indication that the Greeks can and will improve, however the Park "is not a response to the new dorms," Toner said. He feels the challenge "is good" and that the Greeks will meet it.

Using Theta Chi as a "model" house, it was found that all brothers interviewed felt the most vital aspect of Greek living was the "feeling of belonging and the opportunity for self-expression" which all dorm living lacked including the new complexes.

William Field, Dean of Students, has a bird's eye view of both types of living, and emphasizes that the "unique contribution fraternities and sororities can make to a campus are different from those a residential college can."

"We feel the fraternity is a group that selects its membership, unlike a residence hall," he said. A house has a collection of people wanting "to live there," he added. There is a social feeling in a house, he noted, and the "fraternal group is based on fraternity associations."

"Any one can be good or bad (residential colleges or Greek living)," Field said, but "this is what a house has to offer." He believes there are advantages and disadvantages in both types of living. In answer to the long-heard remark that the Greeks are disappearing, on this and many other campuses, Field said this has been heard for the past ten years. Fraternities and sororities are being offered the challenge of residential living and they are meeting it, he concluded.

George Rodgers, Director of the Fraternities Association, says the challenge made to the Greeks "is good."

"I don't think a good frat has any fear about meeting this challenge," he added.

Rodgers pointed out in a dorm if a student doesn't like his roommate, he can move. But in a fraternity, a person "develops a sense of pride after going through pledgeship," he said.

With pledge projects and the variety of personalities in a house a person "learns to live with people and around people," he noted.

According to Rodgers, the Greek system "is not dying but is very strong throughout the country." Being self-supporting, the Greeks are "under an obligation to support their needs, to develop, to attract good people," he said.

Fraternities have an "obligation for improvement," Rodgers explained.

"If a fraternity doesn't set good standards for itself, it goes down the drain," he concluded.

GASKET

— McLaughlin

STUDENT SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

the senators demanding improvement. He noted that too many senators pay no attention to matters on the floor and often leave the chambers in the middle of debate for trips to the Hatch. He strongly stressed the senators duty to not only attend the meetings, but to face up to their responsibilities as student represenatitives and apply themselves to their job.

He issued a call to senators with chronic absentee records to improve their record or admit their failure and resign.

For although the Senate has accomplished many good works this first semester, it could have done much more if all senators applied themselves to a greater degree.

FIRE REPORT . . .

(Continued from page 1)

The committee consisted of 10 persons. Three representatives from the University were members. These three were Col. John Marchant, Security Officer; Mr. Gerald Grady, Business Manager; and Dean Field.

Also, one representative each from Amherst and Hampshire Colleges were among the members. The remaining five members represented the Town of Amherst.

FACULTY SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

porary lighting has materialized in the Southwest Complex. Lights will soon be installed in the Southwest-Stadium area.

Johnson described the construction companies as "most delinquent" in putting up lights and barriers at their construction sites. If anyone is hurt on construction sites, the contractors are liable.

Johnson stated that white lines have been ordered but delayed due to a "really serious" labor problem. There are plenty of job openings for work on campus, but the positions cannot be filled at the salaries offered. This fall alone, there were 30 vacant jobs. Last spring there were 35 vacant jobs.

Provost Tippo pointed out that more money is needed to improve the physical aspects of the campus. Money will have to be "drained off" from academic programs in order to accomplish this.

Important
FEATURE STAFF MEETING
Monday, Jan. 9
at 7:00 p.m.

Foxboro engineers help raise standards of living throughout the world with process control instrumentation like this.

NEW HORIZONS
FOR PEOPLE-ORIENTED GRADUATES

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR 1967 GRADUATES AS WELL AS EXPERIENCED ALUMNI

If yours is one of the disciplines listed in the left-hand column, you may be eligible for one of the positions listed in the right-hand column.

DISCIPLINE	POSITIONS IN
Chemistry	Design Engineering
Chemical Engineering	Manufacturing Engineering
Electrical Engineering	Research and Development
Mechanical Engineering	Scientific Programming
Physics	Systems Engineering (Analog & Digital)
	Technical Sales
Administrative Engineering
Industrial Administration
Industrial Engineering	Management Systems Positions
Industrial Management
Management Engineering
Mathematics
Operations Research
Accounting	Financial areas
Business Administration	Production Control
Public Relations	Publications

Interviews will be held on your campus soon. Consult your Placement Officer for time and date.

We've been helping processors make better food, better clothing, better paper, better gasoline, and hundreds of other products — for more than fifty years.

And not only in America, but in South America, Europe, Africa, the Near and Far East — wherever people are concerned with better living standards.

We don't say that every pulp and paper mill, or textile mill, every food plant or chemical refinery is Foxboro-instrumented. But an awful lot of them are — most of our customers are in nondefense industries.

Our people, engineering and otherwise, are specialists in our chosen field — process control. They enjoy helping processors make better food, better clothing, better paper, better gasoline, and hundreds of other things people use every day — things that make up better living everywhere.

How they do it is the fascinating part.

You might find it fascinating, too.

Let us tell you about it — in person.

See your placement officer. Or write:

W. W. Brown
Central Recruiting Office
The Foxboro Company
Foxboro, Massachusetts 02035

FOXBORO.
Specialists in Process and Energy Control

Placement Schedule (Part II)

The Placement & Financial Aid Office has scheduled the following organizations to conduct on-campus employment interviews on the dates indicated. This list is accurate as of Nov. 30. However, you are reminded that you should read the Placement News each week to be informed of changes that might occur in the schedule.

It is necessary for those interested in taking interviews to register with the Placement Office before making an appointment with an employing organization.

New organizations are periodically being added to this schedule throughout the year.

There are many school systems which recruit on campus during the months of February and March but they are not listed on this list.

You are also reminded that the on-campus interview is only one source of potential employment. The Placement Office may also be able to assist you with direct referrals.

January 10
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company
Mobil Oil Corporation
Administration of National Banks
Sperry Gyroscope Company
Gibbs & Cox, Inc.
Foxboro Company
United Nuclear Corporation
Combustion Engineering, Inc.

January 11
American Bosch Arma Corporation
Norden Div.—United Aircraft
General Instrument Corporation
First National City Bank
Stauffer Chemical Co.
Bird & Son
Jamesbury Corporation
U.S. Post Office

February 1
Olin
Tidewater Oil Company
Continental Insurance Company
Associated Spring Corporation
Ebasco Services, Inc.
Fisher Scientific Company
Ernst & Ernst
Carrier Air Conditioning

February 2
Olin
John Hancock Insurance Company
National Security Agency
Northwestern Mutual Life Ins. Co.
U.S. Plywood Corporation
American Sugar Company
Clarence Rainess & Company
Jackson & Moreland

February 3
Agway, Incorporated
Boston Naval Shipyard
National Security Agency
Norton Company
U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co.
Pratt & Whitney
U.S. Army Electronics Command
New England Mutual Life Ins. Co.

February 6
Kendall Company
National Steel Corporation
New England Merchants National Bank
Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co.
Zayre Corporation
Carnation Company
Retail Credit Company
N.Y. Staff Dept. of Mental Hygiene
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company

February 7
Grand Union Company
Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States
Brown Company-Eagle-A Paper
Carnation Company
Stone & Webster Service Corporation
International Business Machine
American Standard Ind. Division
F. W. Woolworth Company

February 8
Star Market
Standard Brands, Inc.
Nestle Company
Jones Div.—Beloit Corporation
A. W. Chesterton Company
International Paper Company
Connecticut Highway Department
International Business Machine

February 9
Dewey and Almy
Humble Oil & Refining Company
Portsmouth Naval Shipyard
Chase Manhattan Bank
New England Tel. & Tel.—Women
Waterbury Farrell Company
Union Card Div.—UTD Corporation
Bell Systems

February 10
Badger Company, Inc.
Humble Oil & Refining Co.
Bell System
U.S. Envelope Company
Joseph E. Seagram & Sons
New England Tel. & Tel.—Women
Aetna Life & Casualty Company

February 13
Raytheon Company
Conn. General Life Insurance Co.
Johns-Manville
Bristol Company
U.S. Dept. of Labor
Hotel Corporation of America
American Can Company
Armstrong Cork Company

February 14
Honeywell
Alco Products, Inc.
McGraw-Hill Book Company
Philadelphia Naval Shipyard
Paul Revere Life Insurance Co.
American Cyanamid Company
Johns-Manville
American National Red Cross

February 15
Raybestos
American Cyanamid Company
Radio Corporation of America
Chicago Bridge & Iron Company
New England Deaconess Hospital
Prudential Insurance Company
American Enka Corporation
Swift and Company

February 16
Heald Machine Company
International Silver Company
Shell Companies
Trane Company
State Mutual Life Assurance
Dow Chemical Company
Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company
Goodyear Aerospace

February 17
Trane Company
Dow Chemical Company
Bates Manufacturing Company
Wirthmore Feeds
Union Carbide—Linde Division
W. Va. Pulp & Paper Company
Amperex Electronics Corporation
New York Life Insurance Company

February 20
Texaco, Incorporated
Haveg Industries
Conn. Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Improve Machinery, Inc.
Electronics Division/General Dynamics
Kemper Insurance Company
H. P. Hood & Sons, Inc.
Fisher Body Div./General Motors
Union Camp Corporation
U.S. Dept. of Agric.—C & M Service

February 21
Gimbels
S. S. Kresge Company
National Starch & Chemical Corporation
E G & G Company
Geigy Chemical Corporation
Proctor & Gamble Company
Worcester Telegram & Gazette, Inc.
Port of New York Authority

February 23
Boeing Company
Sears, Roebuck & Company
Gilbert Associates
National Shawmut Bank
Westinghouse Electric Corporation
Glen Falls Insurance Company
Jordan Marsh Company
Liberty Mutual Insurance Co.

February 24
Uarco, Inc.
CF& I Steel Corporation
Boeing Company
Ortho Pharmaceutical Company
Sears, Roebuck & Company
U.S. Forest Service
Stone & Webster Engineering Corp.
New York Central System

February 27
Raytheon Company
Polaroid Corporation
Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York
National Institute of Health
NVF Company
Maryland State Roads Commission
Graflex, Incorporated
Providence Journal

February 28
Raytheon Company
Boston Gas Company
Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.
United Merchants & Manufacturers
U.S. Dept. of Public Health
Environmental Science Service Admin.
Ayerst Laboratory
American Tel. & Tel. Company—Women

March 1
Ciba Corporation
General Electric Company
Hazeltine Corporation
Buxton, Inc.
W. T. Grant Company
Nashua Corporation
Hartford Insurance Group
Koppers Company

March 2
General Electric Company
Sealtest Foods
Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance
Wilson, Incorporated
Stop & Shop
Marriott Hot Shoppes
Anaconda American Brass Company
Railway Express Agency, Inc.

March 3
B. F. Goodrich Company
Stanley Works
Brunswick Corporation
Harvard University
U.S. Air Force & Army Exchange
Travelers Insurance Co.
Valley Bank & Trust Company
Beech Nut Life Savers

March 6
Allied Chemical Corporation
Califoria State Personnel Board
Gulf Oil Corporation
U.S. Naval Air Development Center
Western Printing & Lithographic Co.
Republic Steel Corp.—Manuf. Div.

(Continued on page 11)

PETER PAN SKI BUS

DIRECT TO

MT. TOM SKI AREA

	SAT.	DAILY	DAILY	FRI.
Lv: UMass	8:55 am	12:55 pm	2:55 pm	5:30 pm
Ar: Mt. Tom	9:25 am	1:25 pm	3:25 pm	6:00 pm

	DAILY	DAILY
Lv: Mt. Tom	5:05 pm	10:30pm
Ar: UMass	5:30 pm	11:00 pm

BUSES LEAVE FROM STUDENT UNION

Fare: $1.20 round trip

TICKETS & INFORMATION

Bus Ticket Office
Student Union

Tel. 545-2528

PETER PAN BUS LINES

Westvaco... part and parcel of the booming growth in education.

Growth industries look to Westvaco for leadership in paper, packaging, building materials and chemicals.

Want to grow with Westvaco? With over 20 locations to choose from and openings for B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. engineers and scientists; M.B.A.'s; business and liberal arts majors, we've probably got the career combination you seek. Your Placement Office has more detailed information and will arrange an interview with a company representative. All students considered regardless of draft status.

CAMPUS INTERVIEWING ON
FEBRUARY 17, 1967

West Virginia Pulp and Paper

230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017

SPACE ALLOCATION COMMITTEE of the STUDENT UNION GOVERNING BOARD

IS NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR

CONSIDERATION OF ROOM SPACE IN THE NEW

CAMPUS CENTER

and in the present Union

SEND LETTERS OF APPLICATION TO SUG BOARD -- RSO OFFICE

Applications due Jan. 13

Artist to Display Talents At Student Union Exhibit

An exhibition of recent works by Charles Close, instructor of art at the University of Massachusetts, will be held at the Union from Jan. 8-Feb. 1.

The exhibit is open to the public without charge and will begin with a reception Sunday, Jan. 8, in the Student Union from 1 to 5 p.m., also open to the public without charge.

Works to be shown include paintings, constructions in plastic, plexiglass and wood, and drawings. Mr. Close received a B.A. degree from the University of Washington and B.F.A. and M.F.A. degrees from the Yale University School of Art and Architecture.

He has also studied at the Yale Summer School of Music and Art and in Vienna, Austria, under a Fullbright grant. He was the recipient of an Austrian-American Educational Commission grant, a Yale University grant, the Ely Harwood Schless Memorial Prize for excellence in drawing, the Yale Summer School of Music and Art grant and the Keegs Travel Prize.

University of Massachusetts artist Charles Close with one of the constructions to be included in an exhibition of his work in the UMass Student Union Jan. 8 through Feb. 1.

Coaches Show Pride In Debating Team

Professor Ronald Mation and Miss Sandra Purnell, coaches of the University of Massachusetts debating teams are pleased to end the first semester on a very encouraging note.

At Princeton University in Princeton, N. J., last weekend, "George" Faiker and Neal Whitman won five and lost only two debates. On the affirmative, "George" and Neal won over Syracuse and Pace, but lost to Ohio Wesleyan and Oberlin Colleges. They were victorious in all of their negative rounds against teams from Washington of St. Louis, Swarthmore, and Kings.

Meanwhile, Steve Daggett and Al Davis won four out of seven debates at Princeton. They won against teams from Drew, Catholic University, Oberlin, and Randolph-Macon, and lost only to Kings, Brooklyn, and Stonehill.

A special congratulations are offered to Alan Davis who with 143 out of 175 maximum speaker points, was the 13th highest ranking speaker in the tournament. There were 127 debaters competing against Al.

At Princeton, Jim Tripp, Al Davis, and Neal Whitman also did fairly well in an extemporaneous speaking contest.

Four freshmen members of the University Forensic Society who went to St. Anselm's College in Manchester, N.H., also did a fine job of debating last weekend. On the affirmative, Sander Ross and Eddie Howell won three and lost two. They beat competition from New Hampshire, Eastern Nazarene, and Georgetown, and lost only to Boston College and M.I.T.

Mark Goodman and Dan Brown representing UMass on the negative compiled a 2-3 record. After losing to Colgate, Georgetown, and M.I.T., they came back to beat Boston University and Eastern Nazarene College.

Thus, the first semester ends with the following respectable squad record.

Won	56 debates
Lost	66 debates
Total	122 debates

This means that a squad composed mostly of freshmen with no previous debate experience prior to this past autumn have won 46% of their debates. The coaching staff is tremendously proud of them and look forward to working with them again next semester.

PHONE SERVICE

Residence hall room telephone service is being extended to Hills North and South, Brett and Gorman, effective February 1. Information about bill paying and details about the system will be furnished to residents of these facilities next week.

Quotes in the News

"I think they have no effect whatsoever except to let people blow off steam. In the past, the academic community was more responsible and therefore more effective."

—Harvard Historian Oscar Handlin, commenting on campus - circulated petitions (Time, Oct. 14).

Important
FEATURE STAFF MEETING
Monday, Jan. 9
at 7:00 p.m.

BEWARE!

It has come to our attention that parents of University students have been solicited by mail to purchase "Survival Kits for Finals." These packages contain an assortment of cookies and crackers, and several "surprises."

Experience with and criticism about this project in previous years suggests that you advise your parents "caveat emptor." The University in no way supports this solicitation nor do we have any knowledge as to the health standards used in packaging the food. Further, in the past the price for the contents considerably exceeded the value.

While it is impossible to stop individuals from using the "Student Directory" for such unauthorized mailings, your parents should be cautioned about the possible financial risk in responding to this solicitation.

Office of the Dean of Students

Engineers, Mathematicians:

Contribute to Technical Programs of National Significance

The "Cipher Disk"... NSA symbol and one of the oldest and most effective cryptographic devices known.

...nsa

Creating secure communications systems and equipments unknown anywhere else. This is the mission of the National Security Agency—a mission which in turn creates problems of a high order of difficulty, requiring an uncommon amount of ingenuity.

There is no other organization like it... no other organization doing the same important work, or offering the same wealth of opportunity for imaginative graduates in mathematics or the engineering sciences.

A separate agency operating within the defense establishment, NSA has a critical requirement for:

ENGINEERS. To carry out basic and applied research, design, development, testing and evaluation of large-scale cryptocommunications and EDP systems. Engineers may also participate in related studies of electromagnetic propagation, upper atmosphere phenomena, super-conductivity and cryogenics using the latest equipment for advanced research within the Agency's fully instrumented laboratories. Career programs are designed to develop the professional engineer for a full and satisfying future in research or management.

MATHEMATICIANS. To define, formulate and solve complex communications-related problems in support of the NSA mission. Statistical mathematics, matrix algebra, finite fields, probability, combinatorial analysis, programming and symbolic logic are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. They enjoy the full support of NSA's completely equipped computer laboratory where many of them often become involved in both the hardware and software of advanced computing systems. Theoretical research is also a primary concern at NSA, owing to the fact that the present state of knowledge in certain fields of mathematics is not sufficiently advanced to satisfy NSA requirements.

CAREER BENEFITS

With NSA, you enjoy all the benefits of Federal employment without the necessity of Civil Service certification.

NSA's generous graduate study program permits you to pursue two semesters of full-time graduate study at full salary with academic costs paid by NSA. The Agency also encourages participation in professional associations and assists you to attend national meetings, seminars, and conferences.

Located between Washington and Baltimore, NSA is also near the Chesapeake Bay, ocean beaches and other summer and winter recreation areas. The location permits your choice of city, suburban or country living.

Starting salaries, depending on education and experience, range from $7,729 to $12,873. Check now with your Placement Office to arrange an interview with the NSA representative visiting your campus, or write to: Chief, College Relations Branch, Suite 10, 4435 Wisconsin Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20016. An equal opportunity employer, M&F.

national security agency

... where imagination is the essential qualification.

INTRAMURALS

Kappa Sig Downs AEP, LCA for Title

By TOM CONUEL
Sports Staff

Kappa Sig clinched the championship in the fraternity B Division with two victories over its closest rivals. There had been a three way tie between KS, AEP, and LCA for the B League title.

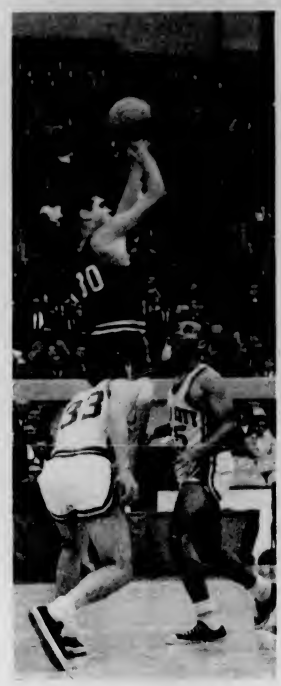
On Tuesday night, KS eliminated AEP, 48-37. Bob Detore and Mike McArdle starred for KS, each putting in 17 points. Then Wednesday night KS matched up with LCA for the league title in a game which turned into a real thriller. The final score found KS on top by the bare margin of 45-43.

Detore again paced the KS attack with 15 points, while teammate Greg Landry tossed in 11 points and grabbed 15 rebounds.

The real story behind the victory, however, was the KS defense which managed to hold LCA's high scoring Jeff Larson to six points. Jerry Forgit was high scorer for LCA with 16 points.

In other fraternity action on Tuesday night, LCA smashed ATG, 69-30. Jeff Larson was unstoppable in that contest with a game high total of 26 points. AEP, playing on Wednesday night, cruised over PMD, 62-50. TKE bombarded ASP, 110-48. In that contest TKE had all sorts of heroes, as Bob Corradi and Ron Merril tossed in 30 points apiece and Dick Qualey had 14 points and 20 rebounds for the winners.

In the Independent League there were several key games played. In the American Division nothing is settled. The Imps handed the Chem Club its first loss of the season and prevented the Chem Club from clinching the title when they defeated them, 63-39. Dick Rosoff and John Gorman had 17 points apiece for the Imps. In that same division, the Toads tdged Harry's Heroes, 47-41, thus eliminating the Heroes.



Rounding out the Indepen dents, the Untouchables, with their league already clinched, let down against the Flashes but won anyway, 53-50. The Blues downed the Trojans, 60-47, and in a second game the Blues whipped the Flashes, 43-27. The Phantoms crushed the Bismarks, 47-37. Currin and Lang led the Phantoms with 20 and 21 points respectively.

The Independents, who can still win the National Division, rolled over the Foundrymen, 68 - 37 as Starsiak scored 23 points.

Hansen had twenty points for the Lucky 13's but it was not quite enough as APO nudged them, 40-38, in a tight contest.

Turning to the Dorms, the Birches, who are leading the South division, won a big one from the Cherry's, 35-26. The Birches now have a perfect 6-0 record and appear headed for the championship in that division.

The only other game played among the dorms found the Patriots edging the Colts, 72-70. Ray Stanelis was high scorer for the Patriots with 35 points.

RAMBUNCTIOUS RAND — Greg Rand pops an 18-footer against Oklahoma City. OCU's Gary Gray (33) and Rich Travis (55) look.

Fairfield U.
Tuesday Nite
8 p.m. – Cage

UMass Gymnasts Travel To Penn State, Pitt

by TIM MURPHY
Sports Staff

There's a giant nestled in the valley at the foot of Mt. Nittany in the central Pennsylvanian mountains. In the fall, the giant comes alive, dons cleats, pads and helmet and assumes its natural place on the gridirons as an Eastern power.

When the first snows come to the Nittany Valley, the giant moves indoors, quietly exchanging its football paraphenalia for suspendered leotards and slippers.

Strange? Not at all. The giant is Penn State, a huge university whose gymnastics team is considered by experts to be one of the five best in the country. Why not? Two years ago Penn State was national champion. Last year the team was ranked sixth.

Tomorrow night at 8 the slippered giant will entertain a relative newcomer to national gymnastics, the University of Massachusetts. A year ago the Nittany Lions disposed of UMass, 184-148.

This year the Redmen hope to do better.

Basis for the optimism of UMass Coach Erik Kjeldsen is the Redmen's most recent performance, a 164-162 loss to Army, described by Kjeldsen as "the best contest I've seen in my five years here." The Redmen led at various spots during the meet and held sway until a superior Cadet performance in the final event tipped the contest's balance in favor of Army.

If tomorrow's meet were a basketball game, UMass could employ a sagging defense or a box-and-one in holding down Steve Cohen, Penn State's captain and 1966 NCAA all-around champion.

The sport, however, is not basketball and the best UMass can do is to depend on chance to hold Cohen's performance down. Cohen competes in four of the seven gymnastics events and a year ago was tops in the East in floor exercise, side horse and still rings competition.

On Monday UMass will finish its Pennsylvania tour with a stopover at Pittsburgh. The Redmen garnered their only win in league action a year ago by downing Pitt, 152-146, and look to repeat the effort.

Kjeldsen sees the Pitt encounter as "a must win." UMass has to win at Pittsburgh if it hopes to further nourish plans to gain stature in the tough, eight-team Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League.

Pitt has the league's defending champ in the long horse vault in Dave Shidemantle, who is complemented by veterans Jim Sacco and Ignacio Perez, the only other returning lettermen.

STUDENT PROTEST . . .

(Continued from page 3)

Parents were asked about their own political attitudes, what kinds of values they held most strongly, and how they had raised their children. The students themselves were also asked for their views on their parents.

A group of "non-activists" similar in such factors as economic status to the activists was also interviewed as a control.

According to Flacks, the most striking results of these studies are:

—Student activists differ in terms of values and attitudes from non-activists to a high degree.

He attributes the uniformity among activists to the effects of a subculture reflecting their shared perspectives, not simply to "common personality traits or social origins."

—Parents of activists also "deviate from 'conventional middle-class' values and attitudes," to a marked degree.

—The difference of values between students can be directly traced to different values of their shared perspectives, not simply to "common personality traits or social origins."

—Parents of activists also "deviate from 'conventional middle-class' values and attitudes," to a marked degree.

—The difference of values between students can be directly traced to different values of their parents, Flacks believes. He contradicts "a frequently expressed stereotype of activist students as 'rebels' against parental authority."

This point is reflected "most dramatically in their unwillingness to describe themselves as 'socialist' or to endorse explicitly socialist policies," Flack reports.

In demographic terms, Flacks found that activists are likely to be from high-income, well-educated, professional families from urban areas. Activists are also disproportionately Jewish, and tend to come from recent immigrant stock, his study found.

While all students reported opinions more liberal than those of their parents, there was a significant gap between the parents of activists and those of non-activists.

Clearly, student activists are likely to come from liberal, politically active families.

They are also likely to come from families in which "permissive," "democratic" child-rearing practices are used, as shown by the parents' own reports.

The homes of activists were also those in which values other than material wealth are fostered. These differences in values and aspirations were paralleled in the interview's with parents of activists and non-activists.

PLACEMENT . . .

(Continued from page 9)

March 7
Army Medical Specialist Corporation
U.S. Bureau of Public Roads
American International Oil Company
American Tel. & Tel.—Summer
General Electric
J. J. Newberry Company
Clark Brothers Co.
Stouffer Food Corporation
Scott Paper Co.

March 8
State Street Bank & Trust Company
M. W. Kellogg Company
Central Maine Power Company
Grand Way Dept. Stores
Phoenix of Hartford Insurance Co.
Defense Intelligence Agency
Francis I. DuPont & Co.
Wyoming Highway Department

March 9
Melpar, Inc.
U.S. Department of Agricuture
Firestone Plastics Co.
American Hospital Supply Co.
Green Giant Company
Firestone Rubber & Latex Products
Defense Intelligence Agency

March 10
Federal Aviation Agency
Mass. T.B. & Health League
Bunker-Ramo Corporation
Chevron Chemical Company
New York State Conservation Dept.
Hahne & Company
Berkshire Life Insurance Company
Harvard Medical School

March 13
Bloomingdale
Saga Foods & Penn. Railroad
Boston Public Library

March 14
Pittsburgh Plate Glass-Chemical Div.
Saga Foods
Gillette Safety Razor

March 15
Proctor & Gamble
Mass. Dept. of Public Welfare
G. Fox & Company
Hartford National Bank & Trust Co.
United Airlines
Firestone Tire & Rubber Company

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
sports
FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1967
Page 12 Vol. XCV, No. 37

Redmen Scare Providence But Friars Triumph, 62-59

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Staff

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — If basketball games lasted 38 minutes instead of 40, UMass would have come up with its most important victory in years in last night's battle against national power Providence at Alumni Hall. But instead, the Redmen fell to the wonder that is Jimmie Walker and lost the game, 62-59.

Walker scored 29 points, including the game-winning hoop, and broke John Thompson's school record of 1,520 career points in the process. For this game, however, the Redmen had someone to match him in shooting. Senior John Lisack, playing in place of injured Bob Murphy, scored 29 in a most spectacular exhibition.

And while Walker made good on 12 of 30 attempts from the floor, Lisack was 14 for 21.

After leading throughout the game, by as high as 10 points, the Redmen fell behind, 55-54, with 4:35 left to play on a free throw by Walker. After a tap-in by 5'11 pest Skip Hayes, however, the Redmen regained the lead at 58-57 with two minutes remaining on field goals by Bill Tindall and Joe DiSarcina.

All 3,500 fans in the packed house and everyone on the court knew who would take the next shot for Providence. But with Joe DiSarcina clinging to him like a leech, Walker executed another turn-around jumper to push the Friars ahead, 59-58, with 1:08 left.

Mike Riordan fouled Lisack with 53 seconds left, and after Lisack hit, P.C. ran out the clock. Tony Koski, the 6'8 Friar center, was fouled at the buzzer and converted both ends of a one-and-one situation to produce the three-point margin.

Tight zone defenses by both teams restricted the inside scoring. UMass' combination zone and man-to-man kept the ball away from Koski and made Walker take most of the shots from outside. With Providence's 2-3 set-up, Tindall and Tim Edwards were usually shut off underneath, but Lisack was free to roam. At one point in the first half, he hit on seven straight shots.

Lisack's corner pop gave the Redmen a 10-9 edge after eight-and-a-half minutes. He bombed four more field goals as the Redmen rolled to a 26-16 advantage with five minutes left in the half.

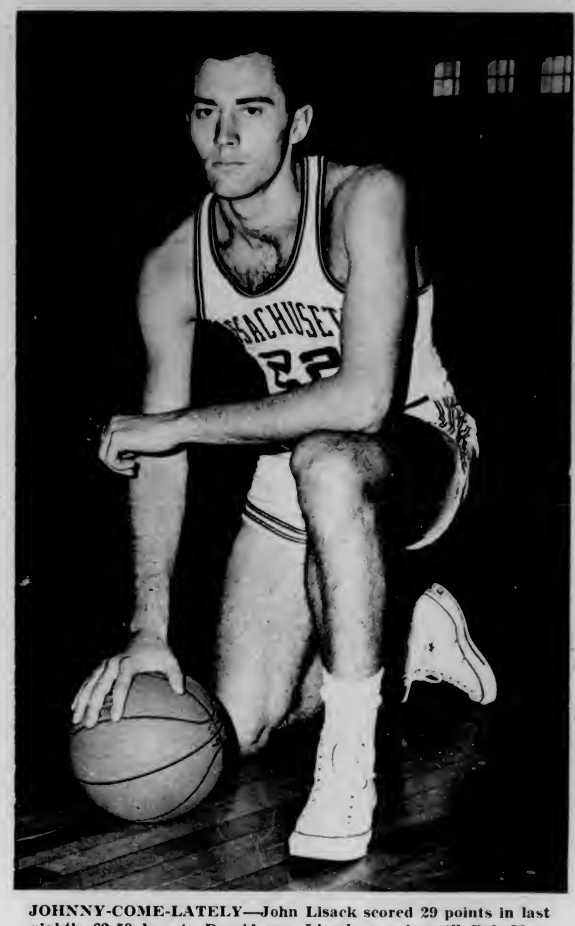
Hayes, however, came off the Providence bench and made three baskets to help the Friars cut the lead to 33-30 at the break.

P.C.'s Riordan knotted the score, 41-41, after four minutes of the second half, but Tindall, Lisack and Edwards kept U-Mass on top, 52-49, at the 10-minute mark.

Behind Lisack in the scoring for UMass were Tindall with 13 points and Edwards with 11. As usual, DiSarcina was cool as ice as the master of ceremonies on offense and as Walker's chief nemesis on defense.

Hayes was the only other man besides Walker in double figures for the Friars, with 10 points. Koski and Riordan each had a dozen rebounds as Providence won the battle of the boards, 44-26.

The Redmen shot 53 percent from the floor, 27 for 51, as compared with P.C.'s 38 percent, 26 for 67. From the line, however, the Redmen, who were among the nation's leaders in free throw percentage, made only five in 10 attempts. UMass, averaging 24 fouls per game, made only eight last night.



Coach Jack Leaman, whose Redmen are now 6-4, called Providence "the strongest rebounding team we've played this year, including Boston College."

The combination zone and man-to-man defense, he said, was one of five basic defenses UMass uses. "We played it out in the tourney," he said. "We tried to keep pressure on the ball all the time, but with Walker that's tough to do."

As for Lisack, Leaman said, "He made believers out of the Providence fans." The coach added praise for DiSarcina.

Winning coach Joe Mullaney, whose team now stands at 10-2, said, "I thought we did a good job of shutting off the inside, but they killed us outside."

PROVIDENCE	Fg	Ft	Pts	UMASS	Fg	Ft	Pts
Walker	12	5	29	DiSarcina	2	2	6
Koski	2	3	7	Perkins	0	0	0
Kerzner	4	0	8	Lisack	14	1	29
Riordan	3	2	8	Tindall	6	1	13
Hayes	5	0	10	Gasperack	0	0	0
Sar't'p'los	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
				Edwards	5	1	11
				Rand	0	0	0
Totals	26	10	62	Totals	27	5	59

JOHNNY-COME-LATELY—John Lisack scored 29 points in last night's 62-59 loss to Providence. Lisack, a sub until Bob Murphy's ankle injury in Oklahome, shot 14 for 21 from the floor.

New Hampshire to Test UMass Saturday at Cage

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

During last week's trip to Oklahoma City, UMass basketball coach Jack Leaman was asked about what he thought of some of the Redmen's upcoming games, such as Providence, Fairfield and Connecticut.

"I'll tell you which one I'm worried about," he replied, "and it's on January 7 against New Hampshire." That game is tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Cage as UMass tries to add to its unbeaten Yankee Conference record.

A freshman prelim against Chamberlayne Junior College at 6 will precede the varsity action.

Leaman's worries about the New Hampshire game seem to be justified. The Redmen cannot afford to lose to conference also-rans if they want to beat out UConn and Rhode Island for the ticket to the NCAA Eastern regionals in March.

According to freshman coach Peter Broaca, who scouted the Wildcats, they "could be trouble." UNH features a balanced attack with a good fast break to go along with a sticky zone defense.

New Hampshire coach Bill Haubrich, who like Leaman is a rookie member, has a young team with only three returning lettermen. Last year's excellent freshman team, however, has put plenty of fresh talent on the Durham court.

The Wildcats, 4-5 overall and 1-2 in the conference, are small with the tallest men at 6'5. But they use three guards in the starting lineup and can be expected to employ a highly effective full-court zone press.

The two big men, junior center Steve Seay and soph forward Bob Glover, are each 6'5 and both hit the backboards well. They are aggressive and will give a good rebounding effort.

In the three-man backcourt, the best shooter and leading scorer for the Wildcats is Denny Hodgdon, a 6'1 junior. Also a good shooter is senior captain Orrin "Tuffy" Clark, 6'0. Rounding out the starting five is a capable ballhandler, 6'0 sophomore Joe Rahal.

These five can be expected to play the whole game, with the scoring balanced. In fact, in UNH's win over Clark, all five men were in double figures.

For UMass, guard Bob Murphy has been working out on his injured ankle and may see some action.

Redmen fans should not underestimate the importance of this game, because every game in the conference is crucial.

Watch Phil Vander$ea in $uperbowl for Green Bay Packer$.

Frosh Fall to Friars, 65-56

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — After taking an early 4-0 lead on jump shots by Dick Samuelson and Jack Gallagher, the UMass freshmen shot an icy 33 percent from the floor to enable the Providence frosh to triumph, 65-56, at Alumni Hall last night.

Gerry McNair's hoop after six minutes gave Providence the lead at 9-8. Charlie Conway and Walt Violand increased the Friar lead to a five-point margin, which they maintained throughout the game.

The shooting of Violand and the rebounding prowess of McNair, a 6'5 jumping jack from Boston, built Providence a 34-24 cushion by halftime.

Early in the second half, baskets by Joe Kostygan and Bob Perry trimmed the lead to 37-31, but a 12-point surge by the Little Friars wiped out any UMass hopes of victory. The Little Redmen's zone press forced Providence into numerous errors in the fourth quarter, but time and shooting ability had run out for UMass.

Gallagher led the UMass frosh with 15 points, followed by Samuelson and Kostygan with 10 each.

Violand and McNair ran the show for Providence with 21 and 20, respectively.

The loss brought the freshmen record to 4-2. They entertain Worcester Industrial Technical Institute this Saturday at Curry Hicks in a 6 p.m. prelude to the UMass-New Hampshire game.

PROV. FROSH	Fg	Ft	Pts	UMASS FROSH	Fg	Ft	Pts
Violand	9	3	21	Samuelson	5	0	10
McNair	9	2	20	Kostygan	4	2	10
McKenna	2	3	7	Gallagher	6	3	15
Callen	4	0	8	Perry	3	1	7
Conway	3	0	6	Ellerbrook	1	2	4
Mullin	1	0	2	Harringt'n	3	1	7
Dobbins	0	1	1	Way	1	1	3
Totals	28	9	65	Totals	23	10	56

Army vs. UMass. Atrocity on Ice

WEST POINT, N. Y. — The Army hockey used everything but napalm in yesterday afternoon's 17-2 assault against U-Mass at the military academy rink.

Charlie Hanifan and Ed Polchlopek made the only successful infiltrations for the invaders.

The Redmen face the UConn Huskies tomorrow night at 7:30 at Storrs. The next game in Amherst is February 4 at 4:00 p.m. when Vermont comes to town.

Photo by Kelly

SWISH—Billy Tindall puts one in over his head at Boston Garden. B.C.'s Steve Adelman (44) and Jim Kissane (10) watch.

INSIDE TODAY'S COLLEGIAN
Tragic Loss 2
Letter to LBJ 3
Finals 4
Peanuts 9
4-0 in Conference? 12

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

WINTER CARNI
Pages 6 & 7

VOL. XCV, NO. 38 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | TUESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1967

FINALS...

Photo by Kelly

This is what happens when you pull two all nighters in a row because there aren't enough reading days to prepare for a final.

Photo by Kelly

And this is what happens when your buddies decide that your sleeping technique is so good that it should be displayed in the Lobby of Dining Commons #5.

Photo by Kelly

All though it may be a new trick to some people, Bill Rector (pictured above) is accustomed to being moved about in his sleep. A very heavy sleeper Rector has now wakened to strange surroundings three times. "To sleep, perchance to . . ."

Photo by Gerri

Although a few students may wind up in the lobby of a dining commons, most Umies will be spending their time booking in the library, classrooms, lounges or the ever popular dorm cubicle. The Collegian wishes all its faithful readers the best of luck with the hopes of seeing you next semester.

Senate Establishes Fund To Aid Textbook Buyers

by PETE WARD

One of the student problems that doesn't get much publicity, but exists as a serious problem none the less, is the financial burden imposed by the need to purchase countless new books at the beginning of each semester. It is well known that this expense can run as high as $10-$15 per course.

Often a student finds he must go without an important book for weeks until he can raise extra money and purchase it. These weeks or even days without a crucial book can cause extensive initial damage in the students standing in that particular course.

It is to help students in this type of difficulty that the Student Senate has established the Student Senate Loan Fund, to provide financial aid of up to $25 to students to purchase needed textbooks. This program will go into effect registration day of the upcoming semester.

The Senate Loan Fund is the result of over a year's research and development, primarily directed by Senator Mike Garjian of JFK Upper. During its early history, over nine different policies were considered until the present Fund was initiated.

Originally the fund was to go into effect in September 1966, however, the administration issued a directive at that time stating that book credit would only be issued through the Treasurer's Office. Since this contradicted the Senate Loan Fund Policy, it was postponed.

Senator Garjian and Senate President John Greenquist held several meetings with the Treasurer's staff and eventually a compromise was reached which allowed the policy to be put into effect for the second semester of 1966-67. The policy is designed only for the benefit of undergraduate and Stockbridge students. It is hoped the students will make good use of the Senate Loan Fund.

Photo by Index

Student Senator Mike Garjian (center) discusses Loan Fund policy with Senate President John Greenquist (right) and other senators.

A student who wishes to take advantage of this program will do the following:

1. Go to the RSO Office on the second floor of the Student Union and get an application form.
2. Fill out the form and return it to the same office.
3. Come back the next class day and see if the application has been approved.
4. If it has, take the form to the S.U. Business Office on the second floor and you will receive a credit slip for the amount of the loan (up to $25).
5. Take the credit slip and the form to the Booksale or S. U. Bookstore (APO-GSS EXCLUDED).
6. Obtain the books and present the credit slip and form to the CHARGE cashier.
7. The student will then sign the promissory note on the application form and present the credit slip and form to the cashier.
8. The student will receive a receipt and will have thirty (30) days to repay the loan to the SU Business Office.

The following points should be remembered:

a. Loans can only be repaid in a lump sum.

b. If absolutely necessary, a student can apply for more than one loan.

c. No co-endorsers are required.

Student Senate

New Exam Policies Proposed

by PAT PETOW
Senate Page Editor

The Student Senate last week in the spirit of the times recommended to the Provost that "no student of the University, regardless of his subject, will be denied the right to see the corrected copy of his final examination."

Although many UMass students about now don't want to hear the word final mentioned again and will want to hear it even less after intersession, the bill was introduced by Mike Garjian (Kennedy Upper) because a student had been denied permission to see his final exam as corrected.

Also on the question of finals, the Senate on October 26 had recommended that students with an "A" average have the option of taking or not taking the last exam.

Introduced by Garjian, the earlier bill has been studied in committee by the Faculty Senate, but has not been brought to a vote. It does not affect the present semester.

Other action included approving a recommendation that a pilot program be established for the fall of 1967 in which, "the feasibility of built-in hot plate systems for each floor of a residence hall be studied" in one women's and one men's residence.

Sponsored by Larry Marcus ('69-at-large) the motion gave the house governments the responsibility for standards of use and care. But it required that "it must be stated in the standards that the areas be used expressly for the purpose of preparing liquid foods (e.g. soups, coffee, tea etc.)."

Marcus is the Services Committee's liaison with the Housing Office which he reported as favoring the motion. After a determination of houses in which it would be possible to initiate the program, the Senate will recommend two.

The prompting for this bill was a request from Knowlton House which came to Marcus. According to the Senator and John Welles, Director of Housing, student requests of the Housing Office should be channeled through Marcus, who will in turn make a written report to the individuals.

The third and fourth residence hall constitutions passed on by

(Continued on page 3)

Caution: Cigarette Smoking May Be Hazardous to Grades

With UMass students expected to take to cigarettes heavily while booking in the wee small hours of the morning, the Collegian would like to offer these points from a study by the University of Illinois as printed by the N.Y. Times:

The freshman college student is more likely to smoke if he has poor grades and fails to participate in campus activities.

It was found that the more spending money the student had, the more likely he was to smoke. The results showed also that the smokers were more likely to have at least one parent who smoked.

Of the 3,567 freshmen questioned at the University, 40 per cent were smokers. Nearly half of them said they wanted to stop smoking.

Dr. Dorothy F. Dunn, director of the study, reported that "there was an inverse association between grade average and smoking."

"Of students with an 'A' average, only 16.7 per cent smoked, while 59.1 per cent of the 'E'-average students smoked," Dr. Dunn noted.

Tragic Loss of Yahoo Alleviated by Collegian Headlines

by GORDON DAVIDSON, Editor-in-Chief

Did you know the University News Service performs vital functions? Or that the Newman Center once sponsored a Holiday of Obligation? Or that being a UMass professor is suicide?

All of these exciting journalistic revelations come to light through your very own campus newspaper, the Collegian, as the result of overtired headliners, editors, and caption writers.

If you are one of the U Mass students who mourns tht tragic loss of Yahoo as a removal of all of the joy from your life, who not try the Collegian as a substitute? If the Vietnam war and China's bomb has got you down, who not restore your sagging spirits by laughing at someone else's mistakes? Just pick up the nearest copy of the Collegian.

Humor, sometimes intentional, but often otherwise, can be found in headlines, classified ads and notices, and large ads. The headlines by far seem to yield the best results.

One front page headline entitled "Lonely Lederle?" implies our mythical president is pining away for contact with his beloved student body.

Many comments have been passed from adult circles about the long haircuts and sloppy dress of many of today's college students. Some of these compliments have been far from complimentary. But the Collegian headline, "Are Students Really Revolting?", concisely sums up the question asked by many of today's parents.

A co-ed at Berkeley was either caught in a rather compromising situation or stood under a sign painter's ladder too long according to the Collegian headline "Berkeley's Red Coed".

Umass has been called everything from a diploma mill multiversity to a backwoods school for farmers.

But it is probably the only school in the country achieving the questionable distinction of being equated to a teepee with the Collegian head, "Indian student compares UMass to home". Some of the eggheads on the campus might have taken exception to one head which read, "Broken Egg to Reopen".

Probably a question which many a student these days is asking himself was ably presented by the headline, "Does College Help?".

It is a proven fact that the number of pregnancies of UMass coeds is proportionately greater during the summer session. But the implications for improved Anglo-American relations were aptly presented with tht headline "UMass Oxford—A Fertile Land".

Dwarfs who graduate from the University will be plagued with a small income throughout their careers according to the headline, "Alumni Give Avid Support Despite Size, Poverty."

It is easy to visualize college males applauding for higher hemlines and lower necklines according to the headline, "Senior Class to Sponsor Male Reaction to Fashion".

Most of the male students of the University not only had better keep their hair trimmed, but had best pluck their eyebrows, arms and legs.

This warning results from the headline in the Collegian which reported, "College Ousts Hairy Student".

If the student is looking for a real belly laugh to cheer him up all he needs to do is read the two headlines which are opposite each other.

The results come out something like this: The suicide problem is being well-handled at UMass according to these headlines, "Studies Probe Suicide", "Jump Training Offered".

The solution to the Arab Republic difficulties was offered by these two headlines, "Peace in the Middle East?" "Birth Control".

The cultural aspects of the University are often defined as non-existent, but one cannot help feelini admiration for the plans of UMass cultural leaders. "I want to turn on the Whole World" "Cultural Group Outlines Program".

The life of the college student is also under scrutiny in the two stories headed, "Facts About Beer and Wine" "Discussions Planned on Campus Life".

The ads in a newspaper are usually considered its most sedate section, but they too have their interesting aspects. One ad, appealing to the manstarved natures of some UMass coeds promised, "Guys, lots of them, Commonwealth Room..."

Graduation is not a sure thing thtse days according to an ad stating, "All seniors who expect to graduate in June..."

And so it goes with your handy humor mag the UMass Collegian.

50 Years of Service By UMass Employee

How does it feel to work for the same employer for half a century?

"It seems like I started a few minutes ago," says Miss Gladys Miner of South Deerfield, who recently celebrated her 50th anniversary as an employee of the University of Massachusetts.

Miss Miner came to the University in December of 1916, shortly after she got her diploma from Northampton Commercial College. She began as a stenographer for the extension service, was transferred to the department of botany in 1924 and became curator of the herbarium, a job she still holds, in 1967.

The botany department herbarium is a collection of approximately 150,000 plant specimens—dried or otherwise preserved—tagged and indexed to serve as a reference source. It is used for studying the identification and classification of plants and for other research and teaching jobs.

The UMass herbarium was founded in 1867 by William S. Clark, professor of botany and president of the institution. It is the Massachusetts state herbarium and incorporates an early collection from the State House in Boston with specimens going back 130 years and more.

Collections by UMass botanists and gifts of other collections have brought the herbarium to its present size. The largest single addition was that of the Amherst College herbarium, combined with the UMass collection in 1953 on a permanent loan basis.

The UMass herbarium is oriented to New England flora and may be the most complete collection of such flora in existence. Most of the specimens are dried and kept on flat sheets in folders. Others are preserved in liquid, or in the case of the dried fruit and seed collections, kept in jars or other containers.

Miss Miner, herbarium curator for the last 40 years, has the task of drying and mounting specimens, keeping the indexes, repairing damaged specimens and checking material in and out as it is used for teaching and research.

"She has done a superb job of maintaining the herbarium," according to Dr. Rudolph M. Schuster, botany professor and herbarium director. "You seldom see people who take a job as conscientiously as Miss Miner does." Dr. Schuster added: "Although she is not a professional botanist, she is doing a job that at many institutions requires the services of a professional."

Miss Miner has taken courses in botany at the University but had to give up any comprehensive study in her field because her eyes wouldn't take the strain of work with the microscope, she said.

A native of South Deerfield, Miss Miner has lived there all her life except for a brief period of residence in Amherst. Although she has more than enough years and service to retire, she has made no definite retirement plans. "I much prefer to keep busy," she said.

UMass President John W. Lederle, on the occasion of her 50th anniversary, sent her the following letter:

"It is with the greatest pleasure and enthusiasm that I congratulate you on this, the fiftieth year of your career at the University. As I am sure you know, it is extremely rare—and is most rewarding to us in the administration—to observe the industriousness and obvious devotion you have displayed.

"The example which you have set, in terms of the highest quality of performance over many years, can be recognized only with admiration. Please accept these heartfelt thanks for your very real contribution towards building the spirit and pride which we can feel about the University."

3000 Air Force ROTC Cadets To Receive Scholarships

The U. S. Air Force will award scholarships to 3,000 cadets in its four-year Air Force ROTC program this year. The announcement came from Brigadier General Donald F. Blake, Commandant of Air University's Air Force ROTC.

The scholarships will take effect in the 1967-68 school year and will be given to qualified sophomore, junior and senior cadets at over 140 colleges and universities hosting Air Force ROTC's four-year program. The total of 3,000 represents the largest number of grants to be awarded since the scholarship program began in September 1965.

Scholarships cover the cost of full tuition, fees, laboratory expenses, and an allowance for books. Scholarship cadets also receive a non-taxable $50 per month.

Scholarships will be awarded to some 600 sophomore cadets, 1,400 junior cadets, and 1,000 senior cadets.

There is no maximum on the number of scholarships that can be awarded to a given college or university hosting an Air Force ROTC unit with the four-year course.

Applications for scholarships will be accepted by the Professor of Air Science at the hosting institution after the cadet is enrolled in the four-year Air Force ROTC program.

Air Force ROTC scholarships were authorized by the ROTC Vitalization Act of 1964.

Since passage of the Act, two thousand scholarships have been awarded—1,000 in 1965 and an additional 1,000 in 1966. The Air Force plans to have 5,500 scholarships in effect by 1970. This is the maximum number authorized to be in effect at any one time by the law.

If you're one of those who passed up Air Force ROTC as a freshman, do you wish you had a second chance? Well, you do!

The Air Force has a two-year ROTC program—open to anyone who has two years of higher education left—and that can be either on the undergraduate or graduate level.

The way to go about it is this: First contact the Professor of Air Science. He'll help you with your application. If you pass the necessary physical examination, you'll be invited to take part in a special summer session.

The purpose of this is to let you get to know the Air Force—and to let the Air Force get to know you.

Only after both you and the Air Force are satisfied will you actually be enrolled in the Air Force ROTC program. So if you have two years left, start looking into Air Force ROTC now.

Take the first step toward a profession with dignity and purpose. Be part of America's Aerospace Team! Apply before 1 March 1967 to Lt. Colonel Roy D. Simmons, Jr., Professor of Air Science, Dickinson Hall, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts.

Atlantic Studies Approved

The Board of Trustees has reapproved the University of Massachusetts Atlantic Studies Program in Freiburg, Germany, for the coming year. Primarily designed for graduate students, the program is also open to qualified upper division undergraduates from all departments.

Freiburg im Breisgau is a charming medieval town which offers innumerable cultural and scenic attractions. Its location, close to the French and Swiss borders, as well as its proximity to other cultural centers in Western Europe, makes it especially appealing to American students.

Students interested in participating in this program are urgently requested to pick up an application in the German Department (217 Machmer Hall) and to enroll now in the Freiburg Preparatory course, German 386 (6 credits), which will be given only during the Spring 1967 semester. The course will meet on MWF 7-9 p.m. in Machmer Hall W24.

For further information, students should contact the German Department without delay.

Visit the Eiffel Tower,
Big Ben, the French Riviera, and the colosseum.
Along with all the other famous sites in

EUROPE

Spend this summer vacation on "The Continent" for only

$285.00 Jet Round Trip

New York to London or Paris
Make your reservations now!

Contact:
Dick Bloom 253-2893
Alan Fisher 549-0398

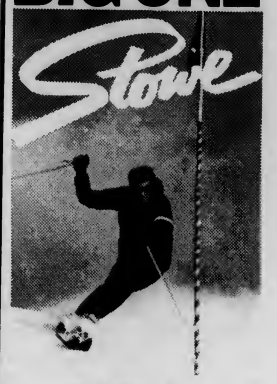
Hampshire Business Machines
79 So. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Sales & Service

Service on all machines

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.



Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price: $4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office: Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

SKI THE BIG ONE

Ski Weeks

5-DAY PLAN $35
5 days. 5 lessons. Monday-Friday.

7-DAY PLAN $45
7 days. 7 lessons. Monday-Sunday.

STARTING DATES:
Dec. 12, 19; Jan. 2, 9, 16, 23, 30;
Feb. 6, 13, 27; Mar. 6, 13, 27; Apr. 3, 10.

Contact:
STOWE AREA ASSOCIATION, INC.
Box 206, Stowe, Vermont.
Tel.: (802) 253-7321

(These cooperative plans available only to guests of Stowe Area Assn. member lodges.)

SKI CAPITAL OF THE EAST

Students' Letter to LBJ

Signers Express Anxiety Over Vietnam

Student leaders from 100 colleges and universities have signed an open letter to President Johnson expressing their anxiety and doubts about United States involvement in the war in Vietnam. All of the signers are either student body presidents or campus editors.

As elected campus leaders, the students represent a far more moderate university group than the members of the student New Left, whose objections to the war are frequently and stridently demonstrated.

The students' idea to write the letter to Mr. Johnson grew out of a debate at the annual congress of the National Student Association last summer on the campus of the University of Illinois.

Following is the text of the letter:

In your talk to the student interns last summer, as on other occasions, you have recognized and discussed problems that have been troubling members of our generation. We have been grateful for your concern and encouraged by your invitation to express some of our thoughts.

Since many of these thoughts center increasingly on the situation in Vietnam, the New Year's renewal of the truce seems a suitable occasion to report to you that significant and growing numbers of our contemporaries are deeply troubled about the posture of their Government in Vietnam.

We believe the state of mind of these people, though largely unreported, is of great importance, because there are many who are deeply troubled for every one who has been outspoken in dissent.

A great many of those faced with the prospect of military duty find it hard to square performance of that duty with concepts of personal integrity and conscience. Even more are torn by reluctance to participate in a war whose toll in property and life keeps escalating, but about whose purpose and value to the United States they remain unclear.

The truces have highlighted a growing conviction on American campuses that if our objective in the fighting in Vietnam is a negotiated settlement rather than a military "victory," continued escalation cannot be justified by the failure of the other side to negotiate.

If, on the other hand, our objective is no longer a negotiated settlement, the nature and attainability of our objectives in Vietnam raist serious doubts.

There is thus increased confusion about both our basic purpose and our tactics, and there is increasing fear that the course now being pursued may lead us irrevocably into a major land war in Asia—a war which many feel could not be won without recourse to nuclear weapons, if then.

In this context there is widespread support for the suggestion of the Pope and others that the resumed truce be extended de facto by restraint on both sides even if no formal agreement is reached. And there is hope that if fighting must be resumed in 1967 it will be resumed on a reduced scale.

In short, Mr. President, a great many of our contemporaries, raised in the democratic tradition of thinking for themselves, are finding a growing conflict between their own observations on the one hand, and statements by Administration leaders about the war on the other.

These are people as devoted to the Constitution, to the democratic process, and to law and order as were their fathers and brothers who served willingly in two World Wars and in Korea.

Unless this conflict can be eased, the United States will find some of her most loyal and courageous young people choosing to go to jail rather than to bear the country's arms, while countless others condone or even utilize techniques for evading their legal obligations. Contributing to this situation is the almost universal conviction that the present Selective Service law operates unfairly.

We write in the hope that this letter will encourage a frank discussion of these problems. If such a discussion clarified American objectives in Vietnam, it might help to reverse the drift, which is now from confusion toward disaffection. To this end, we submit for your consideration some of the questions now agitating the academic community:

- There is doubt that America's vital interests are sufficiently threatened in Vietnam to necessitate the growing commitment there.
- There is doubt that such vital interests as may be threatened are best protected by this growing commitment.
- There is doubt that a war which may devastate much of the countryside can lead to the stable and prosperous Vietnam we once hoped our presence would help create.
- There is considerable concern about apparent contradictions in the American position on certain points basic to any efforts to negotiate a settlement. High Government officials reiterate our eagerness to negitiate "unconditionally," but we remain unclear about our willingness to accept full participation by the Vietcong as an independent party to negotiations.

Similarly, administration spokesmen reiterate our commitment to self-determination for South Vietnam, but we remain unclear about our willingness to accept a coalition (or pro-Communist) government should the people of South Vietnam eventually choose such a government under adequate international supervision.

Finally, Mr. President, we must report a growing sense—reinforced by Mr. Harrison Salisbury's recent reports from Hanoi—that too often there is a wide disparity between American statements about Vietnam and American actions there.

We hope you will find it possible to share your thoughts with us about these matters. The rising confusion about national purpose can undermine mutual trust and respect among our people. This seems to us as urgent a problem as any that confronts the nation today.

We are grateful for your interest and send our best wishes for the New Year.

(From N. Y. Times, Dec. 30, 1966)

* * *

Area student Abby Erdmann, a sophomore at Smith College, helped to assemble signatures although the New York Times did not list a signer from Smith. Stephen Cohen of Amherst and Carol Nienstadt of Mount Holyoke represented the Four College area; neither the UMass Collegian editor-in-chief nor Student Senate President signed the letter.

Among the Massachusetts participants were: Westfield State College, American International College, Boston University, Harvard College Radcliffe College, Regis College, Wellesley College, and Williams College.

Other signers represented schools with national reputations: University of California at Berkeley, Columbia, Cornell, Duke, Johns Hopkins, University of Michigan, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Stanford, and Yale.

STUDENT SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

the Activities Committee were accepted by the full Senate. The four are George Washington Middle, Hamlin, Brooks, and Mary Lyon. Much of the committee's time instead of being given to residence hall constitutions has been spent on the University Reform Committee constitution not yet approved by the Senate, partially because of inconsistency with R.S.O. Policy.

In a related matter, the Senate, following the advice of Activities chairman, Dick Homan (Baker), allowed an R.S.O. Policy exception to the Deseret Club.

The religious organization has Mass but has members among a small membership from U-other of the Four Colleges. As an R.S.O., it may enjoy the facilities of the Student Union. According to its constitution area students, and not only those from the University, may be members.

Takes Re-enlistment Course

Recently assigned to the Army ROTC detachment at the University, S/Sgt William L. Graham, left, celebrated his new assignment by re-enlisting in the Army for three years. Sgt Graham is Col. Joseph A. Bohnak, right, Professor of Military Science with the 552nd AAA (anti-aircraft artillery) Battalion during World War II, The 24th Infantry Division in Korea, and just recently G-4 (supply and logistics at Fort Dix, N.J. in his assignments. Administering the re-enlistment oath to Sgt Graham is Col. Joseph A. Bohrak, right, Professor of Military Science at the University.

Professor Authors Textbook: Insight into Management Field

A textbook by a University of Massachusetts professor on new concepts of managerial techniques has been published by Scott, Foresman and Company.

The 436-page Management: A System's Analysis is by Dr. Stanley Young, UMass professor of management. It is designed to serve as a basic text in a variety of graduate and undergraduate management courses and to aid management practitioners develop an insight into the current transitions in their field.

Dr. Young says in his foreword: "With the introduction of the computer, the increased use of quantitative methods, and the application of the findings of the behavioral sciences, a trend has developed toward viewing organizational decision-making as an identifiable, observable and reasurable process—rather than as one which is essentially covert and unplanned and which relies on managerial 'intuition' or 'judgment'."

Drawing on the techniques of systems analysis and contemporary scholarship in the behavioral sciences, Dr. Young's book provides the tools needed to convert these new concepts of management and other management theories into operating reality. It demonstrates how to design, install, direct, maintain and control a total, integrated management system.

The text considers in detail subjects such as the definition of management systems; the design of an organizational decision-making system, its subprocesses and their integration; information requirements; and how changing managerial technologies can be incorporated into tht decision process. It presents criteria for choosing a system from alternative decision-making models and also considers the design of interorganizational decision-making models.

Would you believe . . .

REVELERS

in the Snow?

Winter Clearance Sale

Jan. 7 to 14

With 1-4, 1-3, 1-2 off in all departments

Suits & skirts 1/3 off
Dresses up to 50% off
Slacks & ski slacks up to 30% off
Parkas up to 40% off
Jumpers up to 40% off

The Salt Box

Amherst, Massachusetts 01002
Grosse Ile, Michigan 4-8138
Peterborough, New Hampshire 09493

WANTED

Drivers for Ski Trips:

Cars needed for ski club intercession trips

STOWE: reg. $70, $10 off
SUGARBUSH: reg. $65, $10 off
} 5 days Skiing, lessons room, board

Must have 5 passenger or Station wagon. Call:

Molly 6-6718
Bob 6-7818
Cindy 6-8116

Watch for the ROISTER DOISTER's Production of

TOM JONES

Feb. 2, 3, 4, 5 at 8:30 p.m.

Bowker Auditorium

Tickets on Sale Soon at S.U. Box Office

Editorial Section

People Who Need Finals

By Chet Weinerman, Editorial Chairman

Sometime during the upcoming exam period, every thoughtful student should seriously attempt to squeeze into his schedule one additional final exam. What's the good of tying up a semester of facts in a nice package via a two-hour final? Igneous and metamorphic rocks probably will not be instrumental forces in one's adult life—although I don't suppose one will ever know until he has passed adulthood. The hard facts probably will be forgotten quickly anyway, whether or not they are tied up by a final exam.

The non-factual major of 'People' has been ignored far too long at this academic establishment. Students are so busy studying the law of commutativity and the Krebs cycle that Introduction to People 125 is slighted around this time of the year. And that's sort of hypocritical, since such vast numbers of idealistic college kids have been seriously studying people all semester, often at the expense of the vitally important aforehinted Geology, Mathematics, et.al., and now they must put their major field of interest aside to take exams on material about which they have little interest. It would be far more consistent if students were allowed to take exams in what they've studied all semester.

Unfortunately this is impossible, since the cold facts of academia dictate that no credits be given in People—not even in the advanced seminar course of Introspection 499. Credits for graduation must be earned in straight academic courses. But you can still rise above the insensitive materialistic society in which you are forced to trudge.

Look at all you've really learned this semester. Reflect upon what you had to start with in September. Study all the letters you've received and all the hurt and all the thinking and all the all-nighters and the friends and the new people and the new person . . . and you. Then, in the heat of feverishly preparing for the Gov. 100 exam Wednesday night, throw down Rossiter and take your five-hour survey 'People' final. Be sure you tie everything together, because this material indeed will remain with you.

Part 2

The Academic Game

By John Clayton, Assistant Professor of Humanities, Boston University
The Collegiate Press Service

Let's get rid of the Academic Game.

Let's begin with exams.

I spent 80 hours—two work weeks—on grading exams last year. Suppose I had 80 extra hours for talking to students? Suppose I didn't have to feel apologetic for not preparing students for exam questions? Suppose I didn't have to face resentment, self-dramatics, rebellion—all the hangups (as if there weren't enough interpersonal problems in just learning and teaching!)?

Maybe we'd feel we were meeting because it intrinsically mattered. Maybe teachers would have to give students something they could use—or believe in—or love.

What are exams for anyway? To keep up standards? You mean I'm spending two weeks a year to keep up a university's standards? Anyway, I think I'm achieving quite opposite results. Exams create a course content which can be examined easily—often trivializing the work.

Do exams "make students learn?" I have heard that. What an incredible idea! I don't want to make anyone learn anything in college—except maybe a white rat. Exams create students who stop caring; they set up the rules of the Academic Game.

What exams are really for, I suppose, is selection: who gets into graduate school, who gets into the corporation. Do I have to serve as a testing service for Harvard and Westinghouse? Why not let the corporations share the cost of a special test after four years in residence? Why not let graduate schools judge on the basis of the GRE and written work and personal interviews?

Or maybe there's another, deeper reason for exams: maybe the faculty and administration is afraid that what goes on here is just a game—that without the whip of examinations, the classrooms would be empty.

"Go, go," said Eliot's bird. "Humankind cannot stand very much reality." To which Bellow's Henderson replies, "But how much unreality can it stand?"

Very much.

(Next: Concluding article discusses a teacher's role.)

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Gordon A. Davidson '67

MANAGING EDITOR
Jim Foudy '68

BUSINESS MANAGER
Lynn Stowe '68

NEWS DAY EDITORS: Joyce Harvey, Marjie Flanders, Richard Kline
STAFF: Susan Arcouette, Bruce Balboni, Nancy Bourgoin, Joanne Bucewick, Janet Caropreco, Elaine Canter, Thomas Donovan, Don Epstein, John Findley, Dave Floreen, Dixon George, Ted Janet, Fred Lane, Richard Lane, Daniel Madden, Pan Metaxas, Marshall Nadan, Dave O'Connor, Jane Roland, Neil Scanlon
CAMPUS NEWS EDITOR: Bob Gorman
STAFF: Robert Cushman, Eric Goldman, Edroy Parker
EDITORIAL CHAIRMAN: Chet Weinerman '68
EDITORIAL DAY EDITORS: Jack Dean, Ellie Skinner, Stan Levco
STAFF: Michael Hersh, Joe Ross, Paul R. Hallock, Ellen Cleary, Marsha Baron, Marcia Taylor, Malcolm Kesselman, Richard Roeder, Sam Spark
SPORTS EDITOR: Mike Gould '67
SPORTS DAY EDITORS: Tom FitzGerald, Tim Murphy, Glenn Briere
STAFF: Dave Jarnes, Al Peakes, Tom Conuel, Roger Kipp, Joe Duffy, Mike Curran, Harvey Elman, John Kelly
PHOTOGRAPHY EDITORS: John Kelly '69, Paul Bolliver '68
STAFF: Gerri Cote, Tom Donovan, Bill Gleason, Joyce Harvey, Stan Furman, Larry Kornfield, Richard Kline, Larry Masel, Ed Rizzotto, Robert Sofer, Breck Seiniger, Phil Serrano, James Tripp, George Williams
FEATURE EDITOR: Lois Cohen '68
STAFF: Lorraine Balch, Joan Fitzgerald, Josephine Granifeld, Julie Ann Grow, Karen Haley, Rich Hanson, Jerry Horvitz, Judy Kuhn, Joan Lezar, Sue Ruckstuhl, Charles Schiller, Gerald Vigeant, Agnes Wyant,
Guest Staffer: Phil Goepp
ADVERTISING MANAGER: Chuck Smith '69
CIRCULATION MANAGER: Bob Godwin '68
SPECIALS EDITOR: Phil Goepp '69
CARTOONISTS: Joe Di Veglia, Rich Moran

MEMBER: Associated Collegiate Press, Minneapolis, Minnesota
MEMBER: U.S. Student Press Association, 2117 "S" Street, Washington, D.C.

Sam Spark Speaks Out
A Sparkling Second Semester?

February 1—Thousand of UMies vow that "this semester I'm really going to study."

February 12—The Southwest Towers are completely demolished by a few of its intellectual residents by exploding a 400 megaton bomb in the center of the Southwest complex.

February 20—It's Winter Carni time again and President Wood announces that all those who have to wait outside in the sub-zero weather for more than six hours for a concert will get an autographed copy of his latest book, How I Plan to Make Next Year's Winter Carni Last Until June.

* * *

March 6—The Student Senate announces an investigation of the high cost of room rents.

March 7—The housing office, in response to the Senate's action, raises room rents an additional $50 per semester.

March 22—The dining commons announces another raise in the price of meal tickets. "Only with increased revenue can we continue to provide students with customary delicious and nutritious meals," said one dining commons official with a straight-face.

* * *

April 2—The University Reform Committee urges all those who are dissatisfied with their teacher's presentation of lecture material to politely inform the teacher he has three days to either improve or resign. If the teacher does neither, the students are urged to either burn his home or explode a miniature nuclear warhead inside his car.

April 5—The University of Massachusetts announces that it is locating the proposed extension of the Medical School in Ludlow, with the in-patient department in Nantucket. Rising costs and trustee opposition were given as the reasons.

April 17—An editorial appears in the Collegian which states unequivocally that George Romney is a card-carrying member of the Communist Party and that his position in a high government office is a threat to the security of the United States.

April 19—An apology appears in the Collegian by the editorial staff explaining how they inadvertently confused George Romney's name with Ho-Chi-Minh's, and the staff "sincerely regrets this minor error."

* * *

May 4—At a gala dance, the Department Heads of the University were rocking until the wee hours of the morning. Guest of Honor, Kevin Harrington, matter-of-factly summed up the evening by commenting, "Heads will roll."

May 7—Two days before class elections, Presidents Wood, Thomas and McInerny send out letters to all the members of their respective classes announcing the previous year's accomplishments. When asked to comment, the triumverate chorused, "We realize that this good-will gesture may be misinterpreted by some as having political overtones, but we cannot state too emphatically that the election two days from now never entered our minds.

May 15—Dean Hopkins orders the dormitories to remove all TV sets, lounge chairs, carpets, and pianos from all the bottom floors. He stated his reasoning in a special directive to Housemothers; "You wouldn't keep those things in your cellar if you had them at home, would you?

May 20—As finals approach, thousands of UMies, who as usual are caught unprepared, vow "that next semester I'm really going to study."

"Beauty . . . is not the image you would see nor the song you would hear, But rather an image you see though you close your eyes and a song you hear though you shut your ears."

Kahlil Gibran, The Prophet

Campus Comment

Why Not UMass?

To the Editor:

I and other alumni I have spoken to were greatly dismayed to find no signature representing the University in the recent letter to President Johnson in regards the situation in Vietnam.

I trust that this dose not reflect either a lack of interest in current issues or a lack of courage on the part of the student body of the University.

Walter F. Tauber, MD
Class of 1948

Be kind to a homeless cat this week and good luck on finals.

New England Universities Easing Student Controls, but Gradually

by DAVID F. BEHRENDT

A coed and her boyfriend lay in the mid-afternoon sunshine, tightly locked in each other's arms, on the green lawn at the hub of the University of Connecticut campus.

In the bustle of campus traffic swirling around, they seemed not a bit embarrassed, nor did anyone else.

At the University of Vermont, a sleepy looking student with bare feet, sandals and ropey black hair done up like a fright wig crouched in the foyer of a classroom building and complained about what he said was the university's anti-intellectualism.

However conservative New England state university students may be politically, it was apparent in a recent tour of their campuses that many of them are doing just about everything their counterparts across the country are doing.

War Protesters Jeered

Their generally conservative political views were exhibited on three of the six campuses last year during anti-Vietnam war demonstrations. The demonstrators were outsiders making a circuit of the three states, and at each school they were met by mobs of egg throwing student hecklers.

Officials at the six schools — Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island—point out that nearly twice the national average of reserve officer training corps trainees at their universities go on to accept army commissions.

But in the fields of sex, drinking, drugs and the loosening of university rules of student conduct, there is little or no evidence that these six schools are any different from most others in the country.

Drugs Are Present

Marijuana, and probably LSD, is present on all six campuses. It was no trouble to find university officials who would admit it or students who said they knew personally of others who used drugs.

"Sex — we're not at all unusual on that," said Emile Cote, 18, a freshman in civil engineering on the Vermont campus.

"Drinking is the biggest 'in' thing," said Barbara Peters, 19, a sophomore in political science at Connecticut. Storrs is legally, although not noticeably, dry.

"Another big thing is the pill," Miss Peters said, referring to birth control pills. "They're very available. There's a rumor that one of the ice cream trucks around campus has a supply."

She objected to the suggestion that the availability of birth control pills encouraged sexual activity among students.

Fewer Must Drop Out

"Look," she said, "it's going to happen whether they have the pill or not. The pill will just keep a few less kids from dropping out of school."

William F. Field, dean of students at the University of Massachusetts, agreed. And the girls who do get pregnant, he added, are usually emotionally disturbed ones who perhaps want to, "or the ones who are just so stupid they don't know where to buy the stuff". . .

New England student leaders and university officials join their counterparts elsewhere in the country in their concern for the great number of apathetic students on their campuses.

Each campus, however, has its share of students who are active in more than the traditional social affairs.

About 500 Connecticut students are examples. They hire buses, with their own money, to take them each week to Hartford and New Haven for volunteer tutoring of underprivileged children and to the Mansfield state training school of the handicapped.

All six universities are moving —some more slowly and reluctantly than others—in the direction of loosening control over students' nonacademic affairs.

"Self-Imposed Curfews"

At Massachusetts, the new trend is far advanced. Except for freshman women this year, there are no dormitory hours. Officials talk of "self-imposed curfews."

A university newsletter on the new policy urged parents "to discuss this matter with their sons and daughters so the student may reach a personal decision regarding sign out and sign in procedures."

The new policy at Massachusetts resulted from a study by a student reform committee somewhat similar to a student-faculty committee just getting started at the University of Connecticut.

"Indicates Provincialism"

Mark Noffsinger, co-ordinator of student activities at Massachusetts, explained why the university favored the changes:

"We were telling students to question in the classroom and denying them the right to question outside of it . . . It was almost a police state, in which they were afraid to question."

"I think this indicates something about the provincialism in their background."

The abandonment of dormitory hours, Noffsinger said, was the most dramatic result of the study, but other recommendations were more significant.

"The real change came in student self-government," he said. "They had no student government."

Although out of state students often are blamed—at the University of Wisconsin, for example—for bringing in unwholesome ideas, New England state university officials agree that a sizeable proportion of nonresidents is desirable.

Only Vermont, with 40% nonresidents, has achieved striking success in getting them, however. Bringing in large numbers of nonresidents at universities which must turn away qualified state residents is politically impossible.

More Nonresidents?

President John W. Lederle at Massachusetts considers the school's 5% proportion of nonresident students an important drawback.

This is one of the weaknesses of the institution," Lederle said. "But given the terrible pressures from applicants (from inside the state), I cannot see how we could go above the 5% at this time."

Reprinted from
The Milwaukee Journal
Mon. Nov. 7, 1966

Engineers, Mathematicians:

Contribute to Technical Programs of National Significance

The "Cipher Disk" . . . NSA symbol and one of the oldest and most effective cryptographic devices known.

. . . nsa

Creating secure communications systems and equipments unknown anywhere else. This is the mission of the National Security Agency—a mission which in turn creates problems of a high order of difficulty, requiring an uncommon amount of ingenuity.

There is no other organization like it . . . no other organization doing the same important work, or offering the same wealth of opportunity for imaginative graduates in mathematics or the engineering sciences.

A separate agency operating within the defense establishment, NSA has a critical requirement for:

ENGINEERS. To carry out basic and applied research, design, development, testing and evaluation of large-scale cryptocommunications and EDP systems. Engineers may also participate in related studies of electromagnetic propagation, upper atmosphere phenomena, super-conductivity and cryogenics using the latest equipment for advanced research within the Agency's fully instrumented laboratories. Career programs are designed to develop the professional engineer for a full and satisfying future in research or management.

MATHEMATICIANS. To define, formulate and solve complex communications-related problems in support of the NSA mission. Statistical mathematics, matrix algebra, finite fields, probability, combinatorial analysis, programming and symbolic logic are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. They enjoy the full support of NSA's completely equipped computer laboratory where many of them often become involved in both the hardware and software of advanced computing systems. Theoretical research is also a primary concern at NSA, owing to the fact that the present state of knowledge in certain fields of mathematics is not sufficiently advanced to satisfy NSA requirements.

CAREER BENEFITS

With NSA, you enjoy all the benefits of Federal employment without the necessity of Civil Service certification.

NSA's generous graduate study program permits you to pursue two semesters of full-time graduate study at full salary with academic costs paid by NSA. The Agency also encourages participation in professional associations and assists you to attend national meetings, seminars, and conferences.

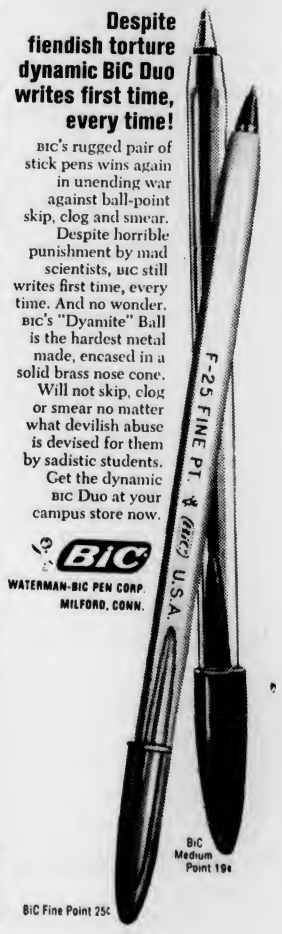
Located between Washington and Baltimore, NSA is also near the Chesapeake Bay, ocean beaches and other summer and winter recreation areas. The location permits your choice of city, suburban or country living.

Starting salaries, depending on education and experience, range from $7,729 to $12,873. Check now with your Placement Office to arrange an interview with the NSA representative visiting your campus, or write to: Chief, College Relations Branch, Suite 10, 4435 Wisconsin Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20016. An equal opportunity employer, M&F.

national security agency

. . . where imagination is the essential qualification.

ZOCK



Despite fiendish torture dynamic BiC Duo writes first time, every time!

BIC's rugged pair of stick pens wins again in unending war against ball-point skip, clog and smear. Despite horrible punishment by mad scientists, BIC still writes first time, every time. And no wonder. BIC's "Dyamite" Ball is the hardest metal made, encased in a solid brass nose cone. Will not skip, clog or smear no matter what devilish abuse is devised for them by sadistic students. Get the dynamic BIC Duo at your campus store now.

BIC

WATERMAN-BIC PEN CORP.
MILFORD, CONN.

Even the youngsters at UMass remember the '58 Carni with Les Elgart's band and Carmen McRea. And who'll ever forget the appearance of the '56 queen and her court on the Steve Allen Show? Then there's the snow sculptures at the '63 Carni, and the huge snowstorm in '64.

You don't remember? That's O.K. because winter Carni '67 is going to stick in your mind for a long, long time! Appearances by the Ramsey Lewis Trio, Tom Rush, Bill Cosby, Benny Goodman, The Lovin' Spoonful, and The Young Rascals highlite the events. Plan now for the one Winter Carni you're guaranteed to remember!

Something to Look Ahead to -

...and Queens Galore Tops in Trios...

The Ramsey Lewis Trio is a group of extremely capable and versatile musicians from Chicago. Ramsey Lewis commands the piano with elegance and the ease of a spectator watching a good show.

The other members of the trio, El Dee Young, the bassist and Red Holt, percussionist, amply display their unique style and originality with the same enthusiasm that abounds in Lewis.

The best word to describe the group might well be "happy." Their music certainly is. For whatever they play, it eminates the cheerful and optimistic quality of the trio and a freshness and listenability that cannot be topped.

The trio has been highlighted across the country from New York's Village Gate and Basin Street East to appearances in other top jazz clubs in almost every major city. Their unique talents have enlivened jazz festivals such as Randall's Island and campuses across the country such as Northwestern and Villanova.

The group has put out numerous albums and hit singles. Of most recent note have been the groups stylish arrangements of "In Crowd," "Hang on Sloopy" and "Daytripper."

In all, there can be only one way to describe the quality of the Ramsey Lewis Trio; fresh, unique and thoroughly enjoyable.

Finalists for Winter Carnival Queen, 1967, have been chosen. Shown here are (l. to r.) Kathy Sullivan, Joan Dombkowski, Susan MacFarland, and Kathleen Kane. Jacqueline Faustine was absent when picture was taken.

Joan Dombkowski is a Junior from Windsor, Connecticut, who transferred to the University from Hartford College for Women. She is an Education major, planning to teach third grade.

Jack
field. Al
Court, Ja
swimmin
Kath
from Fai sity incl dorm Co member
She is United Anot
MacFarla teach or

Kath
chusette ber of th
sewing, d

Here's 25¢ to help get you through mid-year exams

(When you can't afford to be dull)

Twenty-five cents is what you get back on the purchase of any size package of NoDoz Keep Alert Tablets or new Chewable Mints. Safe as coffee, NoDoz helps restore your mental vitality at a time when you really can't afford to be dull.

NoDoz won't make you a genius. But it will help bring you back to your mental best . . . it will aid your concentration and intellectual effort through hours of studying.

So go ahead, sharpen your wits with NoDoz. Help restore your mental vitality, pass your exams, then mail us the front panel or label from any size package of NoDoz with this coupon. And we'll mail you a quarter (25¢) in return. (A little extra cash for your post-exams party)

When you can't afford to be dull, sharpen your wits with NoDoz . . . mail us the front from any size NoDoz package and we'll return 25¢ to you.

NODOZ

Tablets or new Chewable Mints

But hurry, offer ends Feb. 28. No refunds after March 7, 1967. Mail coupon today!

Bristol-Myers/Grove Division, P.O. Box 4808, Clinton, Iowa 52732

*Enclosed is (check one): ☐ Wrapper from NoDoz Mints, or ☐ Front panel from package of 15 or 36 NoDoz Tablets, or ☐ Front label from bottle of 60 NoDoz Tablets.

Please return 25 cents (one quarter) to:

Name_____

Address_____

City_____ State_____ Zip Code_____

Offer void without this coupon.

At Star, advancement is based on accomplishment and ability regardless of age.

Youth is an asset rather than a hindrance in the retail business.

The President of our Brigham's Division is 34. In charge of our Turn-Style Division is a 31 year old General Manager. A 31 year old Star Market District Manager is responsible for 40 million dollars in supermarket sales. Obviously, seniority is not a prerequisite for advancement at Star.

We are able to advance our bright young men rapidly for a very simple reason: GROWTH.

In 1957 Star was located in 2 states with one type of business, supermarkets. Today, Star is in 4 states with 4 retail businesses. We are part of the Jewel Companies which is in fourteen retail businesses throughout the world. This dynamic growth will push sales over the one billion mark this year.

If you want the opportunity to develop your potential now, while you're young, Star would like to talk to you. Schedule an interview through your Placement Director. A Star representative will be on campus WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8

. . Winter Carni '67

ie Faustine is a Sophomore from Pitts- so a member of the 1966 Homecoming ckie's interests include skiing, tennis and g.

y Kane is a Home Ec.-Education major rport, N.Y. Her activities at the Univer- de the Index, and the Women's Inter- uncil. Kathy is also a Reveler and a of the Junior Class Executive Council. the University's representative from irlines.

ner finalist from the class of 1968 is Sue nd. She is an Art major who hopes to illustrate after graduation.

y Sullivan is a transfer from Mt. Wa- College. At the University, she is a mem- e Home Ec. Club. Her interests include esigning, and skiing.

Music and Comedy

COOL COMIC

"How long can you tread water?" asks God, looking very much like Bill Cosby, America's latest comic, hero of TV's I Spy.

Cosby, a miraculous blend of "cool" and straight has become very popular with the collegiate set. Besides staring in his own TV series, he has made three record albums and has appeared on other TV shows.

"KING OF SWING"

Known for so many years as the King of Swing, Benny Goodman has taken on a new title. That title—"International Ambassador of Clarinet" transcends the appelation of king. He received it during his recent tour in Russia.

Not only for his stupendous success there, but also for his appearances in other parts of the world as a good-will representative, the title fits him well.

BILL COSBY

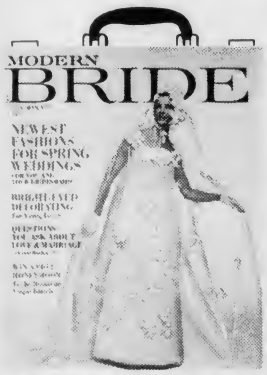
BENNY GOODMAN

YOUNG RASCALS

Group with a Beat

"The Young Rascals" are one of the newest most exciting "pop-rock" groups on the entertainment scene today. Their type music is a refreshing link between rock and roll and jazz.

"The Rascals" were formed in 1965 by the leader and organist of the group, Felix Cavaliere in New York City. The other members of the group were also New Yorkers, Dino Danelli, the drummer, Eddie Brigante, the vocalist and Gene Cornish, the guitarist.

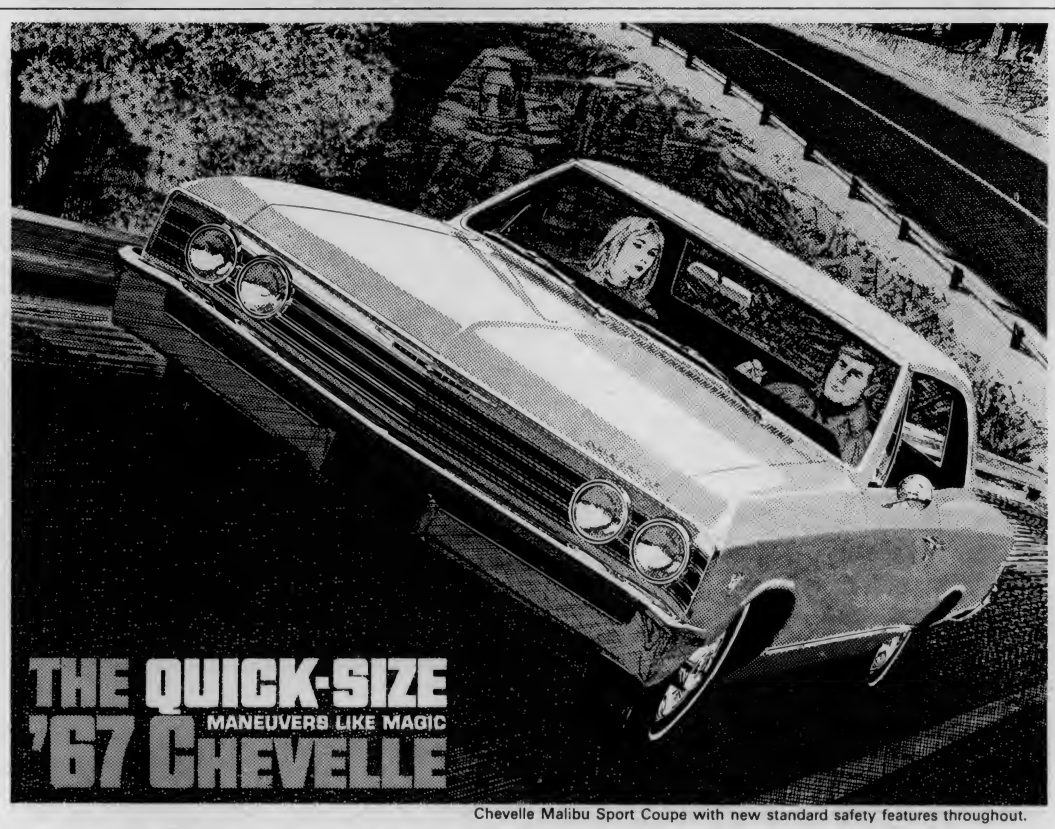


Their first date was at the Choo-Choo Club in Garfield, N.J. From this unauspicious start the road to stardom rose steadily.

They have recently toured the country appearing on several TV shows such as The Ed Sullivan Show, Hullabaloo, Where The Action Is and the Lloyd Thaxton Show. As the Rascals already have three records out—Mustang Sally, Good Lovin' and You Better Run Along, with a hit album entitled The Young Rascals.

The Young Rascals are tht type of group that will fit in perfectly with the fresh, modern entertainment planned for the week.

All in all the final concert of Winter Carnival 1967 promises to provide an exciting and enjoyable conclusion to the biggest Winter Carnival ever.



Before you plan your honeymoon
–check in with

MODERN BRIDE

The big Spring issue of MODERN BRIDE is a honeymoon special—with complete information on hotel living for newlyweds. You'll also get the bride's-eye view of special honeymoon delights from the Pocono Mountains to the Virgin Islands . . . learn the answers to the questions college girls ask most about marriage . . . preview heavenly bridal and trousseau fashions . . . AND learn how you can win a lavish, paid/for honeymoon in romantic St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

JUST 75¢—ASK ABOUT THE SPECIAL HALF-PRICE STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION RATE AVAILABLE THROUGH COLLEGE BOOKSTORES

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe with new standard safety features throughout.

Thrives on quick decisions...but so relaxing inside.

Give it a mile and it takes a mile. Run it through an s-curve and it comes out flat, smooth, and confident. Chevelle Malibu. The no-nonsense car from Chevrolet.
When it comes to turning on the steam, Chevelle is no slouch. Its Turbo-Fire 283 provides plenty of zip when you need it.

CHEVROLET
GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Inside, the Malibu Sport Coupe abounds with rich, soft carpeting, a thickly padded instrument panel, and seats for five if you need them.
Visit your Chevrolet dealer's soon. Let a maneuverable Malibu bring out the driving man in you.

Now at your Chevrolet dealer's

- Notices -

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
There will be a meeting every Tuesday evening, at 6:45 P.M. in Worcster Room, S.U. All are cordially invited.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB
On Tues., Jan. 10, at 7:00 P.M. in Essex Room, S.U. there will be a general meeting.

PSYCHOLOGY COLLOQUIUM
On Tuesday, an. 10, at 4:00 P.M. Dr. John T. Lanzetta of Dartmouth College will speak on "Uncertainty as a Motivating Variable in Information Acquisition." The lecture will take place in Bartlett 61.

SKI CLUB
On Mon., Jan. 9 at 7:00 P.M. in Council Chambers, S.U. there will be a very important meeting for all persons going on ski trips during intersession. All must attend.

AMHERST STAMP CLUB
On Friday, Jan. 13, in the Public Health Bldg. Room 103, at 7:30 P.M., there will be an A.P.S. taped slide program, MacBrides' "Postally Used Valentines of the 19th Century." Interested visitors are welcome.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
The library, located in 203 Berkshire, wil be open on schedule from 3:30 to 8:00 P.M., Monday thru Friday until the end of finals. A general amnesty on overdue book fines will be in effect, provided that the books are returned before intersession. NO books may be kept out over intersession wéthout special permission.

A meeting for the entire library staff and anyone else interested in library work will be held on Wed., Feb. 1, at 7:30 sharp in 203 Berkshire.

STUDENT SENATE
There will be a Student Senate meeting on Feb. 1, at 7 P.M. sharp.

IEEE
On Tues., Jan. 10, at 7:00 P.M. in EBE Aud., Mr. Grendon K. Sebold, an engineer with Public Service Gas and Electric Company, will present an illustrated talk on the electric utility industry entiled "Generation: From There to Here and Beyond."

LOST:
History 324 and History 326 notebooks. Very valuable. If found, contact Ethel, 546-7995.

PINNINGS:
Shari Nanartonis, class of '68, KKG, to Kirk Conover, class of '69, Delta Upsilon, Amherst College.

Lennie Martin, class of '68, Sigma Kappa, to Robert Burgett, class of '68, TKE.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Nina Lapolnte, class of '67, Calvin Coolidge, Lower, to Craig, S. Cook, class of '67, J.F.K. Upper.

Marsha Lee Szary, class of '67, Hamlin, to James A. McNulty, class of '68, Baker University, Kansas.

Margaret Vanderburgh, class of '67, Hamlin, to David Feindel, Rochester, New York.

Gail Stewart, class of '67, Hamlin, to Ron Halversen, Dartmouth Graduate School.

Margaret A. Herrmann, class of '68, Leach, to Lawrence J. Rotti, Pittsfield.

Gina Testa, class of '67, Sigma Kappa, to Robert Miller, class of '66, Weymouth.

SCHOLARSHIP
A Rotary International Scholarship will be available in the amount of $3,200 in 1968. Senior students whose home is in the Southeastern Massachusetts area, preferably in the vicinity of Hanover, Pembroke, Marshfield, Norwell, etc. are asked to contact Mr. Morrissey, Director of Placement & Financial Aid Services in Machmer Hall if interested. This scholarship, announced by the Rotary Club of Hanover, Mass., will allow the selected graduates to choose any one of more than 120 countries to study in. It is necessary that the recipient of the scholarship speak the language of the country he chooses.

Last year, thousands of lawyers, bankers, accountants, engineers, doctors and businessmen went back to college.

And not just for the football games.

We'd like to clear up what appears to be a misunderstanding. It is somewhat popular on campus to decry a business career on the grounds that you stop learning once you start working for Cliché Nuts & Bolts.

That idea is groundless.

We can't speak for Cliché, but we can for ourselves—Western Electric, the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System. 6 out of 10 college graduates who have joined us over the past 10 years, for example, have continued their higher education.

How're these for openers:

W.E.'s Tuition Refund Plan lets employees pursue degrees while working for us. Over 6 thousand have attended schools in 41 states under this plan. We refund more than $1 million in tuition costs to employees a year.

To name another program: advanced engineering study, under the direction of Lehigh University, is conducted at our Engineering Research Center in Princeton, N. J. Selected employees are sent there from all over the country for a year's concentrated study leading to a master's degree.

You get the idea. We're for more learning in our business. After all, Western Electric doesn't make buggy whips. We make advanced communications equipment. And the Bell telephone network will need even more sophisticated devices by the time your fifth reunion rolls around. The state of the art, never static, is where the action is.

At Western Electric, what's happening is the excitement and satisfaction of continued doing and learning. If this happens to appeal to you, no matter what degree you're aiming for, check us out. And grab a piece of the action.

Western Electric
MANUFACTURING & SUPPLY UNIT OF THE BELL SYSTEM

PETER PAN SKI BUS

DIRECT TO

MT. TOM SKI AREA

	SAT.	DAILY	DAILY	FRI.
Lv: UMass	8:55 am	12:55 pm	2:55 pm	5:30 pm
Ar: Mt. Tom	9:25 am	1:25 pm	3:25 pm	6:00 pm

	DAILY	DAILY
Lv: Mt. Tom	5:05 pm	10:30pm
Ar: UMass	5:30 pm	11:00 pm

BUSES LEAVE FROM STUDENT UNION

Fare: $1.20 round trip

TICKETS & INFORMATION

Bus Ticket Office
Student Union

Tel. 545-2528

PETER PAN BUS LINES

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Part time—3 eves. & Sat. $60/wk. College students acceptable. Apply High Point Motor Inn, Route 33, Chicopee Falls, Mass. Mon. eve. 7:30 p.m., Tues. thru Thurs. 8:30 p.m. Mr. Weibel.

Attention Drop-Outs. Wanted full-time bellman. Lord Jeffrey Inn. Good salary, good tips. Board and room if desired. Apply in person to Mr. Ames.

OPPORTUNITIES

Entertainment wanted at Ski Lodge in exchange for free weekends. We need folk guitarists, singers, and complete bands. Write to Winwood Lodge, North Conway, Vermont or call 356-9796.

WANTED

"THE PLAYGIRLS" — First all-girl rock and roll band on campus to play at fraternities and sororities. Call Lynn, 211 Johnson House.

To share house with two co-eds, 5 miles from campus transportation available. Rent low private room. Call 549-0937 after 6.

For Rent

For rent: 2 room efficiency apartment. $90.00 pays all. Married couple only. Call 256-6286.

4 rooms, completely furnished, 2 bathrooms—all utilities Call 586-1422.

4 Room Modern Apt. Sublet. Second semester. Electric heat, garb. dis., elec. dish., air condition. Call 549-0469, No. 81 Presidential Apts.

Apartment suitable for four people available. Located in Amherst center. Call 253-7778.

AUTOMOBILES

Alfa Romeo Guilletta Spyder Veloce, 1963. Good body, top, tires, radio & heater. Needs rings and minor trans. work. Sell or trade—cheap. Call Larry 546-7205.

1955 Mercedez-Benz exc. mechanical condition. Need some body work. Price $285, Xavier Moscoso or Rusty Swartz, tel. 549-1727.

2 MGA's 1961, excellent mech. condition, new disc brakes. 1958 MGB engine, hardtop available to fit either car. Call 253-9584.

What's Happening?

by [illegible]

"I guess this does look more like him!"

Dean Field Blames Unrest As 'Reflection of the Times'

Editors Note: The following is an interview with Dean William Field by David Nyhan of the Associated Press.

Recent violent incidents on the University of Massachusetts campus are reflectice of the times, in the opinion of Dean of Students William L. Field.

"Our school is responding to the same basic problem as the society as a whole," Field said in an interview.

In recent weeks at UMass, one student has been charged with keeping marijuana in his dormitory room; a girl student was shot and wounded-allegedly by a disgruntled suitor who attends another college; the wife of a graduate student, and a chemistry professor committed suicide in university buildings; and one case of assault has been turned over to the courts.

Dean Field said the incidents are isolated, "reflecting the times . . . and the wider community unease."

He pointed out UMass has been growing at an average of 1,500 students per year for the past seven years. The 13,000 students and another 2,000 faculty members and employees have had an unprecendented effect on the town of Amherst.

Dean Field said the university has "great concern over strife, "but still these represent the continuing problems of any large school."

There are 45 resident dormitory members of the faculty-student discipline board. Dean Field regards it as a "step forward," and says the senior members of the faculty have stepped in to aid improvement of discipline on campus.

He said fraternities at UMass "are operating more responsibly than in past years."

He says there have been no undergraduate or student suicides this year, although a national survey reports suicide the second leading cause of death among college students. He credits this to the university health service, which, with a full-time psychiatrist, four clinical psychologists, and other counselors, "works to prevent crisis situations from developing."

Although the freshman class this year remained stable at about 3,000, the school enrollment increased by 1,500 because of the larger number staying in school. Then years ago, only 45 per cent of UMass students could look forward to graduating within four and one-half years. Dean Field sees this figure reaching 75 per cent in the near future.

"The quality of our students has improved, and with it, the retention rate."

The student newspaper—The Collegian—has raised the question of over-all security and increase in shoplifting on the campus.

"Rapid growth has caused the school to develop somewhat unevenly in spots, such as lights on the grounds, and sidewalks," Field said.

Of shoplifting, which was described as an "intolerable situation" by the manager of one local department store, Dean Field says:

"The question of basic honesty in a complex society is a tough one."

He said it is difficult to explain why a student will buy $20 worth of books and then attempt to pocket a 50-cent package of razor blades.

"This is not just our problem," he said.

WMUA Will Provide Finals' Music Programs

This year, as in past years, WMUA will continue to serve the University community by offering its Finals' Music Programming. This programming will commence Thursday morning, Jan. 12, 1967, at 8 a.m. The programming will be uninterrupted light instrumental music between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., and Classical music between 5 p.m. and 2 a.m. (If it is possible to fill the time between 2 a.m. and 8 a.m., WMUA will do so with uninterrupted light instrumental music.)

As an additional service to the Music 101 Students at the University WMUA offers the following schedule of classical music beginning around 8:00 each evening.

THURSDAY, APPROXIMATELY 8:00 P.M.:
Haydn: Symphony No. 94 ("Surprise")
Bartok: Concerto for Orch. (4th Movement)
Mozart: Symphony No. 40 in G Minor
Stravinsky: Rite of Spring (Part one)
Prokofieff: Symphony No. 5 (1st Movement)

FRIDAY, APPROXIMATELY 8:00 P.M.:
Britten: Young Person's Guide to Orch.
Wagner: Tristan and Isolde: Prelude and Liebestod
Beethoven: Symphony No. 5.

SATURDAY, APPROXIMATELY 8:30 P.M.:
Beethoven: Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica")
Bach: Prelude and Fugue in C Minor
Bach: Prelude and Fugue in E-Flat Major
Moussorgsky: Boris Godounoff (Prelude)

SUNDAY, APPROXIMATELY 8:00 P.M.:
Brahms: Sonata for Violin and Piano in D Minor, Op. 108, (2nd and 3rd Movements)
Webern: Concerto, Op. 24.
Mahler: Symphony No. 2 (Second Movement)
Mozart: Sonata in B-Flat, K. 333
Beethoven: Symphony No. 1

MONDAY, APPROXIMATELY 8:00 P.M.:
Bach: Prelude and Fugue in C Minor
Bach: Prelude and Fugue in E-Flat
Mozart: Symphony No. 40 in G Minor
Stravinsky: Rite of Spring (Part One)
Wagner: Tristan and Isolde (Prelude and Liebestod)
Mozart: Sonata in B-Flat, K. 333.

TUESDAY, APPROXIMATELY 8:00 P.M.:
Brahms: Sonata for Violin and Piano in D Minor (2nd & 3rd Mvmts.)
Webern: Concerto, Op. 24
Mahler, Symphony No. 2, (Second Movement)
Moussorgsky: Boris Godounoff (Prelude)
Prokofieff: Symphony No. 5 (1st Movement)

Libe Hours Posted For All S-F Fans

After various trials and tribulations, the Science-Fiction Club proudly announces that its library is now open on a full schedule. The hours are 3:30 to 8:00 p.m., Monday thru Friday, in room 203 Berkshire House.

No books may be kept out over intersession without the specific permission of the head librarian. Anyone who violates this rule will be fed to the creeping, forsifalocus, strangulation, gloccitius, weeds on the planet Glarth!

Books may be returned to the library during library hours or to Box #352 in the RSO Office.

A meeting for the entire library staff and anyone else interested in working on the library semester will be held on Wednesday, February 1, at 7:30 P.M. sharp in 203 Berkshire, one of the County Circle dorms, behind the Campus Police station in Southwest. The library schedule for second semester will bt set up at that meeting.

GERMAN COURSE

The German Graduate Reading Course, German 409, will be given during the second semester on Tuesday and Thursday 2:30-3:45 in Chenoweth 205. Mrs. Edith Ehrlich will teach the course. All interested students should call the German Dept. at 545-2350 as soon as possible.

OFFERS CAREER BUILDING OPPORTUNITIES

When looking for employment the young graduate engineer considers many things—challenging assignments, good salary, benefits, a company in which to learn and grow—both professionally and as a leader of men. All good things come with responsible growth.

Knowledge and experience only come in time. At Ebasco this time is greatly accelerated because the graduate engineer becomes associated with professional men who have the experience and the knowledge and who have a definite and desired interest in providing the young graduate with the tools for professional development.

The professional engineers at Ebasco, headquartered in New York City, have made the firm a world-leader—a growing company that has worked in over 60 countries and in every section of the United States.

An Ebasco man might find himself building a nuclear power plant in Connecticut or engineering a hydroelectric development for Japan or he might watch the setting sun in the Andes while engineering and constructing a transmission line. The Ebasco engineer has been building for America and the world for the past 60 years—in almost every aspect of industrial growth.

A formalized program of development is established for the graduate engineer at Ebasco. In addition, the company has an education assistance program that reimburses the graduate for his tuition if he wishes to continue his education.

Right now we have career openings for recent graduate electrical, mechanical, civil and nuclear engineers.

Our interviewer will be on campus WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 1 TALK TO HIM AND BUILD YOUR CAREER WITH EBASCO.

Arrange an appointment now with your Placement Director.

EBASCO SERVICES INCORPORATED

Ebasco Building, 2 Rector Street, New York, New York 10006

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Attention SENIOR & GRADUATE MEN Students—U.S. Citizens NEEDING NOMINAL FINANCIAL HELP TO COMPLETE THEIR EDUCATION THIS ACADEMIC YEAR — AND THEN COMMENCE WORK — CONSIDER BORROWING. SEND TRANSCRIPT AND FULL DETAILS OF YOUR PLANS AND REQUIREMENTS TO STEVENS BROS. FOUNDATION, INC. 610-612 ENDICOTT BLDG., ST. PAUL 1, MINN. A NON-PROFIT CORP. UNDERGRADS, CLIP AND SAVE

Leave New England and far behind
next spring vacation
Spend 8 days and 7 fantastic nights in

BERMUDA

Be where the ACTION is.

only $175.

Make your reservations now.

Space is limited.

Contact:
Dick Bloom: 253-2898
Alan Fisher: 549-0398

SEMESTER BREAK HOLIDAY!

NOVICE INN & MOTEL

MT. SNOW, VERMONT

The swingingest inn this side of St. Moritz. 2 min. from Mt. Snow lifts at W. Dover, Vt. Ski-weeks: Sunday buffet thru Friday breakfast at Novice Inn, 5 days of lift tickets and daily ski lesson at Mt. Snow . . . from $70 in dorms to $95 for room with private bath. Daily midweek rates from $7 in dorms to $12 for rooms with private bath. Weekends $9-$11 dorms; to $15 room with private bath. Write for color brochure: W. Dover 15, Vt. or phone 802 464-8884.

Nuggets from The Gould Mind

by MIKE GOULD, Sports Editor

Wake Me When the Playoffs Start

NBA President Walter Kennedy has given additional support to the already well-accepted contention that money is the root of all evil. For what other reason would the pro hoop brass allow eight of his ten teams to partake in the payoffs, er, playoffs?

It could be argued that the new method will make the fights for fourth place more interesting. Unfortunately, however, the Baltimore Bullets abandoned the fight for fourth in the Eastern Division long ago, leaving little doubt as to the teams who will rake in the post season funds in the stronger loop.

The battle for the last playoff berth in the West is presently up for grabs, but it is doubtful that this situation is luring many more fans to the games in L.A., Detroit and Chicago. The fans realize that a fourth place team in a league of five is a loser, and losers only draw in five card poker.

The situation is all the more frustrating to the N.Y. Knicks who will likely finish third this season. The NBA cellar has been the habitat for the Knicks for several years. These were trying times for the club and their fans as the Knicks attempted to develop their youngsters into a team that could overcome the Cincinnati Royals for the third playoff spot. The kids finally matured this year, but a little growing-up would have been enough to make the playoffs under the new system.

True, the N.Y. fans can beam with pride that their team beat out Oscar for third place. But what will it get them—defeat at the hands of Philly instead of Boston, Wilt's "dipper tanks" instead of Russell's Stuffs, Hal Greer and Bill Cunningham's bombs instead of those of Bailey Howell and Sam Jones. The Knicks may as well have stayed lousy and finished fourth. The fanatical N.Y. fans would still have packed Madison Square Garden and the players could have taken it easy.

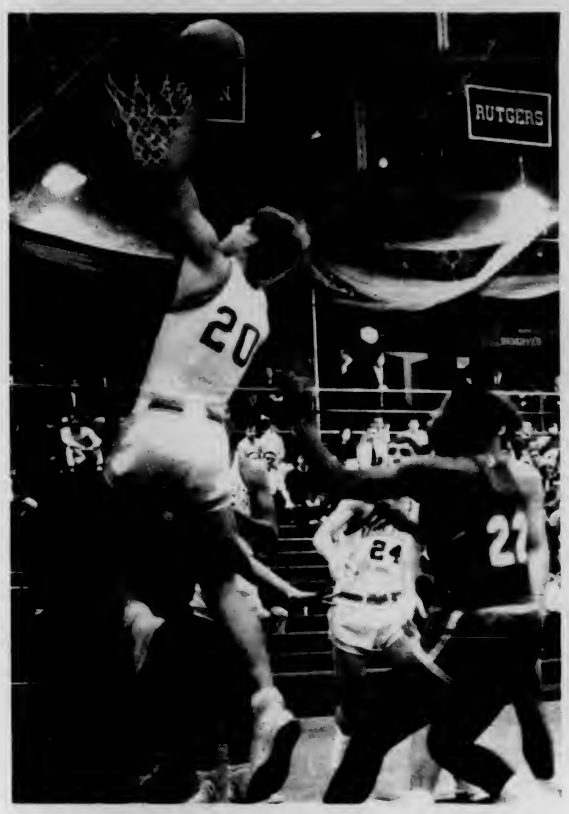
And what inspiration does a team like the Celtics have under the new system? They have no delusions about catching the 76ers and are in no danger of the Knicks achieving instant adulthood and taking second place from them. So they play out the schedule, conserving their aging bones for the playoffs and offering their reknown pride as the reason for whipping Wilt when the money is on the line. The aging Celtics would decay much faster if they had to finish first to win the championship this year and hereafter. Bill Russell's career would be cut short and K. C. Jones might be coaching at Brandeis today.

The NBA playoff system causes one to fear that the players in the league are not giving 100 per cent during the regular season. And well they might not give their all when just a slight portion is enough to coast into a lower playoff spot.

The playoff system cannot be the only misgiving of a league in which just three of ten teams have winning records. To allow five losing teams to represent what is to be the "class" of the league in post-season play is an admittant to the fact that the NBA is indeed in a bad way.

Imagine if the multi-playoff idea were to spread into other realms, such as baseball. To parallel the NBA system, eight teams from each major league would represent their division in a post-seasonal series. How embarrassing for the Red Sox to be among the non-participants.

Icemen Beat UConn Again



STORRS, Conn.—Coming back from a 3-1 deficit, the UMass hockey team whipped Connecticut, 5-3, Saturday night at the UConn rink for the Redmen's second victory over the Huskies this season.

After a scoreless first period, defenseman John Ledwick matched a UConn goal in the second period. The Huskies, out for revenge for the 7-6 setback in the Yankee Conference Tournament, opened up a 3-1 lead but Ed Polchlopey, Don Robinson, Fran Mulcahey, and John Hartnett scored in order to spike the Nutmeggers.

The Redmen, who lifted their record to 5-5-1, don't play again until Feb. 4, when Vermont provides the opposition at the Orr Rink.

Second Half Spurt

Frosh Rip Chamberlayne, 91-63

RAY OF HOPE—Guard Ray Ellerbrook makes layup during the UMass frosh's 91-62 victory over Chamberlayne Junior College. Ellerbrook had 26 points during the contest.

By MIKE CURRAN
Sports Staff

After holding off several first-period rallies by Chamberlayne Junior College, the U-Mass freshmen ran their foe off the court in the second half to gain a 91-62 victory Saturday night at Curry Hicks.

Early in the first period, the frosh, sparked by the shooting of 6'4 forward Kevin Donovan, held a 26-14 edge. Chamberlayne refused to give up, however, and came storming back to only a 33-31 deficit. Hoops by Jack Gallagher and Ray Ellerbrook moved UMass out in front by six points and the teams traded baskets until the halftime buzzer sounded with the score 45-39 in favor of U-Mass.

After the Amherst Boys Club entertained the fans at halftime, the Little Redmen, employing a persistent fast-break, quickly increased the lead to 10, then 20, and finally 30 points. Ray Ellerbrook's shooting and Phil Harrington's rebounding featured the second half.

Ellerbrook was back in the groove, canning 26 points with his patented lefthander. Donovan in his first starting role came through with 19 markers. Gallagher, with 11, was the only other Redman in double figures, but Dick Samuelson, Tim Way, and Harrington came close with nine, eight, and eight, respectively.

The victory set the freshmen's record at 5-2. They will host Worcester Industrial Technical Institute Tuesday night in a 6 p.m. prelim to the Fairfield-UMass contest.

Frosh Frolic

UMASS FROSS	B	F	Pts	CHAMBERLAYNE	B	F	Pts
Donovan	9	1	19	Melcher	6	1	13
Gallagher	5	1	11	Overshown	1	3	5
Samuelson	4	1	9	McNamara	2	7	10
Ellerbrook	11	4	26	Farrell	4	2	11
Miles	0	0	0	Ruchala	0	0	0
Way	3	2	8	Ackerman	2	0	4
Perry	0	0	0	Jackson	0	0	0
Harrington	2	4	8	Elwin	6	1	14
Kostygan	2	0	4	Moore	2	1	5
Shea	1	2	4	Christian	0	1	1
Bolajoie	1	0	2
Totals	38	15	91	Totals	23	17	63

UMass vs. Fairfield

Tonight

At The Cage

INTRAMURALS

Chem Club Clinches Division Tie

By TOM CONUEL
Sports Staff

Action was extremely light in the intramural hoop league on Thursday night. Only five games were played. Most of the division titles have already been wrapped up, and those that are still up for grabs will probably be settled in Monday night's action.

In the Independent League, in what was probably the most important contest of the night, the Chem Club smashed Harry's, 51-34. The victory assures the Chem Club of at least a tie in the American Division. Letts of Harry's was high scorer in the game with 22 points, but the Chem Club had a well-balanced offense led by Washo and Dollof, who scored 12 points apiece.

In other independent action, the Flashes barely edged the Trojans, 45-42. Steve Upton paced the Flashes with 19 points, while John Kitchen led the Trojans with 15 points. The Lucky 13's nudged the Selossas, 32-31, in a tight contest.

In the dorms the Hoovers cruised over the Maples, 63-41. Steve Papp had 10 rebounds and 12 points for the Hoovers while teammate Bob Williams had 17 points.

There was only one game played in the fraternities. ZN topped TC, 49-46, in a tense battle. Gould tossed in 16 points for ZN. Dan Meagher scored 18 points for TC in the losing cause, but wound up high scorer in the game.

Looking for Self-Fulfillment?

SHERUT LA'AM – ISRAEL
MAY BE YOUR ANSWER

TO: Sherut La'am (Service to the People)
515 Park Avenue
New York, N.Y. 10022

I am a graduate—undergraduate (underline one) between 19-30 and would like you to send me without obligation, FREE information telling how I can serve a full year in Israel for only $670 which includes round trip fare. (A limited number of long-term loans are available). I understand a knowledge of Hebrew is not a prerequisite.

NAME (PLEASE PRINT)

MAJOR FIELD OF STUDY COLLEGE OR UNIV.

STREET ADDRESS PHONE (OPTIONAL)

CITY STATE ZIP

Do you like sun, sand and excitement?
If you do, then you belong in

NASSAU

Next Spring Vacation
Round trip—jet flight

Accommodations at Olympia Hotel only

$190.00

Make your reservations now!

Contact:
Dick Bloom 253-2893
Alan Fisher 549-0398

A Man for All Sports Seasons

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Day Editor

The large-framed gentleman with the dark glasses and the knitted brows fingered a sheet of paper as though it were scripture. On the sheet, however, was a University of Massachusetts football schedule—through 1975.

His office, with the dark-green carpeting and the drapes on the wide windows and the television set and soft chairs and the massive pastel of a beach scene behind the mahogany desk, is singular among the bright but unadorned offices of the Boyden Building. Often visitors come to see him. Few of them have as much power and prestige as he, the Athletic Director of a sprawling university.

The dozens of coaches under him talk about winning. Warren P. McGuirk, who is also the Dean of tht School of Physical Education, talks about respect.

"We are the state school, and will you underscore that," he said in his forceful tone. "We just want to be so respectable. We just want to be the best. I don't have much regard for people who don't want to achieve excellence."

Of the hundreds of athletes who perform in the extensive UMass sports program, McGuirk said proudly, "We think they're quite representative of Massachusetts and intercollegiate athletics. You know, we don't expect to win all our games, but, by gosh, we're going to try awfully hard."

McGuirk has risen about as far as one can in athletics. Once an outstanding football and basketball player at Boston College, he assumed prominence as a high school and collegiate coach in the '40s. He became Athletic Director at UMass in 1949.

He will be retiring in five years, he said.

What has the McGuirk Era meant to UMass? A look to the western side of the campus has to affect the beholder. There's the million dollar Boyden Building, the rows of tennis courts, the light towers on the intramural fields. Perhaps there's a fully-equipped phys. ed. group playing lacrosse, or the basketball team boarding a bus at the Cage for a trip to Storrs, or Providence.

In the southwest corner of the campus looms Alumni Stadium, something McGuirk dreamed of for years. It's used eight times a year if you want to count freshman games. And it's too small. But on an autumn afternoon, McGuirk, and others who made it possible, can stand and survey the multitude as it cheers the helmeted offspring of his athletic department.

Of course, the department is not immune from complaint. There is no track, and practice stops for runners in the Cage when a car or truck pulls inside and blocks their wooden path.

There is no hockey rink either. UMass fattens the Amherst College coffers by playing its "home" games at Walter Orr Rink.

Then there's the yellow light of the Cage, the reserved football ticket problems, etc.

DEAN WARREN McGUIRK

But as McGuirk points out with pride, UMass has the widest, most diversified athletic program of all the Yankee Conference Schools and most of the large northeastern universities.

(Next issue: Part II—Plans for the Future)

Frosh Puckmen Lose, 2-1, Again On Late Score

by TOM CONUEL
Sports Staff

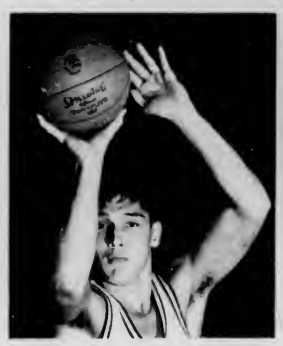
Freshman hockey coach, Joe Faucette never took History 100, but he must agree that history does repeat itself after watching his frosh charges drop a 2-1 decision to Stoneham, Saturday afternoon at Orr Rink. The loss was almost a repeat performance of the Little Redmen's first loss to Amherst last month.

In that contest against Amherst UMass lost, 2-1, on a goal scored in the last minute of play.

Saturday's loss against Stoneham also came in the closing stages. The first period was scoreless, but UMass goalie Joe Smith had to turn away 15 shots in that first period.

With 11:14 remaining in the second period, Stoneham drew first blood when McHenry slapped in a shot from in front of the UMass goal.

UMass came back to tie the score in the third period, when Jim Curley tipped the puck into the Stoneham goal at 13:26 of the period.



In the remaining minutes of play, UMass had several fine opportunities to score, but couldn't manage the trick. Then, with only 1 minute and 22 seconds remaining in the game, Flynn of Stoneham slapped the winning shot.

A limited number of tickets will be received at the ticket office in the Boyden Building for the UConn basketball game at Storrs Feb. 1, ticket manager Wally Novak has announced. They will be sold on a first-come-first-serv basis.

Army Boasts Young Coach, Lively Defense

(Continued on page 12)

Captain Dan Schrage, 6'1, plays up front and despite his small size is rugged off the boards. He is not an exceptional scorer but he is a hustler. Also seeing plenty of action at forward is 6'3 senior Ed Jordan, a strong rebounder.

U.S. Army Photograph

BILL SCHUTSKY

Coach Knight uses two men at center, 6'6 sophomore Steve Hunt and 6'5 junior Mike Noonan. Hunt is the biggest man on the Army roster and last year was the leading scorer on the Plebe team. He is extraordinarily strong underneath.

U.S. Army Photograph

ARMY'S ED JORDAN

Noonan started off the year at center, but as the season has progressed he has been used less, in favor of Hunt. Nevertheless he can be tough when he comes in off the bench.

In the backcourt, senior guard John Mikula, 6'0, is a fine defensive player although not an offensive dynamo. He too is being used less and less as Army's sophs gain experience.

Two sophomores seeing more and more action in the backcourt are Mike Krzyzewski, 6'0, and Pete George, 5'10. Krzyzewski is a good ball-handler, a fair shooter, and aggressive all-around.

The movie
"Spartacus"
has been cancelled.
In its place
"A HARD DAYS NIGHT"
6 & 7:45 p.m.

DRIVE LESS — PAY LESS — SKI MORE
TWO COMPLETE SKI AREAS
• Beginner to Advance Novice Area, Intermediate to Expert Area, each completely serviced by chairs and T-Bars • 24 Trails and Slopes • 2 Double Chairs, 2 T-Bars • J Bar & Rope Tow • Snow Making on 25 acres
... And, a special race course for clubs. • Giant Slalom Course • Flags Supplied • Permanent Phones • Ski Club discounts, too, for 20 or more people • 6-day tickets and coupon books. No wonder everybody's skiing at Thunder Mountain.
• Ski Reports 413-339-4986. Res. 413-339-6610.
LARGEST SKI AREA IN MASSACHUSETTS
Thunder Mountain
Charlemont, Mass. Route 2, Mohawk Trail

Heat up your winter weekends with
SKIING
Head 360 · White Star · Dynastar · Yamaha
Mammoth-Racersville USA · Kitzbuhel-It Swings!
Rx for Parallel Skiing · Stein Eriksen Instructs

SKIING warms things up with The Cold Weather Story—expert advice on what to do and how to dress on sub-zero slopes from Vermont to California, with four pages of exciting color photos. Plus exclusive test reports on the Head 360, Kneissl White Star, MV-2 Dynastar, Yamaha Standard ... a photo essay on hand bootmaking ... professional tips on technique ... the news about canted soles to solve your edging problem ... and considerably more.
It's all yours in the red-hot January issue of
SKIING
Just 60¢—ask about the special half-price student subscription rate available through college bookstores.

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN

sports

TUESDAY, JAN. 10, 1967
Page 12 Vol. XCV, No. 38

Redmen Lack Motivation But Foil UNH Upset Bid

by DAVE JARNES, Sports Staff

After performing so well in the All-College tournament and playing their hearts out against powerful Providence, the Redmen were expected to have a psychological letdown against lowly New Hampshire. They did. The hustling Wildcats gave Massachusetts all it could handle before being beaten, 77-73.

The first seven minutes saw UMass missing many easy shots and throwing the ball away on numerous occasions. At this point the frustrated Redmen were trailing, 9-5. For most of the half New Hampshire maintained a three to five point lead as its slow-downed offense kept UMass from fast-breaking, and some fine out side shooting by Kenny Hodgdon and Tuffy Clark helped penetrate the Redmen 1-2-2 zone.

Bill Tindall and Tim Edwards, in particular, suffered frustrating first halves. Tindall hit on two of seven shots from the floor and only one of six at the foul line, while Edwards was two for six from the field and nothing for one from the line.

Finally, Coach Leaman found the right combination when he inserted John Lisack into the lineup late in the first half. Lisack immediately hit on four straight bombs to vault the Dedmen into the lead at 29-28 for the first time since the opening minutes. At halftime, Massachusetts was on top, 34-30.

The Redmen started the second half as if they were going to blow New Hampshire off the court. Edwards sparked a surge that carried UMass to its biggest lead at 58-43. The muscular Edwards continually outfought his weaker opponents on the offensive boards.

New Hampshire, however, refused to roll over and play dead. With five minutes left in the game they trailed, 70-55, but Hodgden began to pump in baskets from way downtown. Meanwhile, the Wildcats' full court zone press forced Massachusetts into many turnovers (they lost the ball 23 times during the game).

Suddenly the lead had dissipated to 74-69 after a Steve Seay steal with a little more than a minute left. Joe DiSarcina took UMass out of danger when he fed Tindall for a layup. The final score of 77-73 was the closest New Hampshire came in the second half.

Ball games are usually won or lost with rebounds, and Massachusetts beat New Hampshire badly in that department, 55-38. The zone let the Wildcats take shots from 20-25 feet out, but it also left the UMass forwards in perfect position to grab the defensive rebounds. Edwards was a terror off the boards with 17 rebounds. Tindall and Frank Stewart greatly contributed to the board strength with 12 and 13 rebounds, respectively.

Edwards wound up with 18 points and Tindall hooped 16. Lisack tied Edwards with 18 points while Stewart aided the balanced Redmen attack with 14. Joe DiSarcina didn't shoot well, but he played his playmaker role to perfection with nine assists.

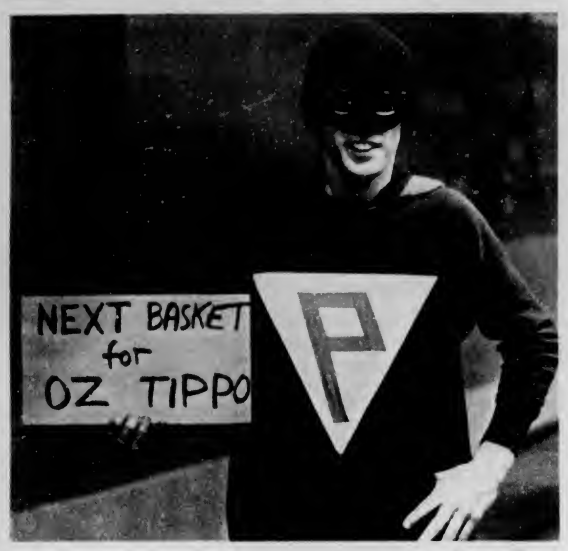


Photo by Harvey

MYSTERY MAN—The Phantom takes time out to display handiwork, exhorting the Redmen to score for Provost Tippo. They didn't but won anyway, 77-73, against UNH.

BILL BAGS BOUND — Redmen's Bill Tindall emulates Walt Chamberlain at right as he goes high to snare a rebound off the defensive boards against UNH.

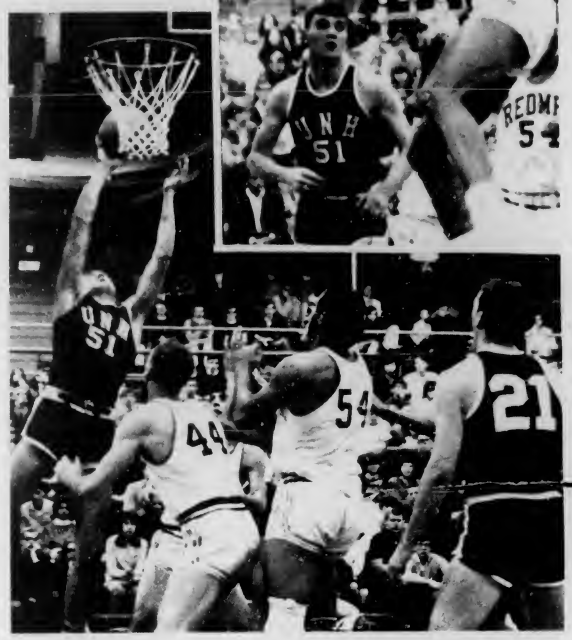

Photo by Harvey

ALRIGHT, OK, YOU WIN—Steve Seay (51) of UNH lays one in during battle at the Cage as UMass' Frank Stewart (44) and Tim Edwards (54) look on with UNH's Dennis Hodgedon (21).

Good luck in those finals, athletes. We hope you're around on registration day. We hope we are too.

The Back Page Majority

UMASS	B	F	Pts	NEW HAMPSHIRE	B	F	Pts
Stewart	6	2	14	Hodgedon	9	3	21
Tindall	5	6	16	Glover	1	4	6
Edwards	8	2	18	Rahal	2	4	8
Lisack	8	2	18	Clark	6	3	13
DiSarcina	2	3	7	Kerschner	2	0	4
Gayeska	0	0	0	Cartill	0	0	0
Rand	0	2	2	Seay	7	7	21
Murphy	1	0	2
Totals	30	17	77	Totals	26	21	73

Score at half time — UMass 34, New Hampshire 30

Respected Foes: Fairfield (Here Tonight), Army (Jan. 24)

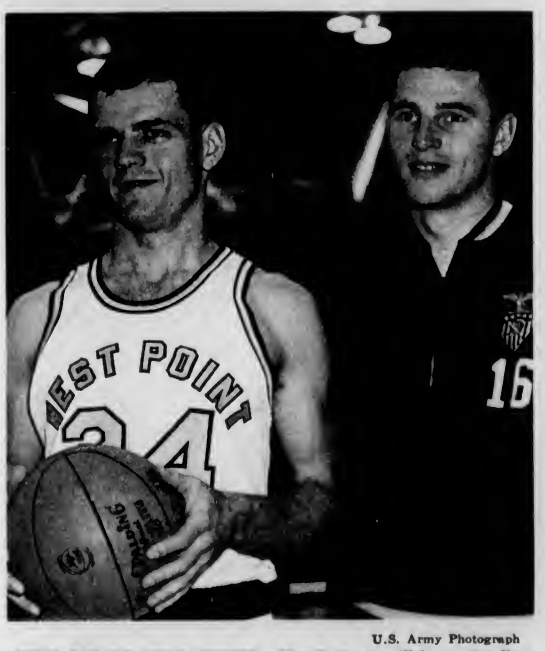
by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

The next two weeks should prove to be challenging for the UMass basketball team. The Redmen face two tough opponents. And of course those final exams.

One of New England's better teams, Fairfield, will invade the Cage tonight at 8 o'clock, preceded by a frosh game against Worcester Industrial Technical Institute at 6 o'clock.

After the exam break, the Redmen travel to West Point, N. Y., to meet Army in an intersession contest on Tuehday afternoon, January 24. One game then remains before second semester, a Yankee Conference clash against Vermont at Burlington on January 28.

Last year Fairfield was one of the best in the East with a 19-5 record, and this year will be one of the better teams to appear in the Cage. The Stags own a mediocre 3-3 record, but one of the wins was over St. Joseph's at the Palestra in Philadelphia, which is a pretty good feat.



Fairfield is led by perhaps the most versatile player in the East, Bill Jones. A 6'4 junior All-East candidate, Jones can play both forward and guard, and excels at nearly everything.

At the other forward is Sol Crenshaw, a 6'5 junior. Also an all-around standout, Crenshaw is an outstanding rebounder who jumps with springs in his legs.

Coach George Bisacca alternates two men at center. One of them, 6'8 junior Art Kenney, was a high school teammate of Lew Alcindor.

The other center is expected to develop into one of Fairfield's all-time best. He is 6'6 sophomore Richie Sanabria, who broke several frosh scoring secords last year.

In the backcourt, the Stags are led by captain Bill Pritz. A 5'10, 150-pounder, Pritz is an expert ball-handler who shoots well from long ranges. He teams up with 6'2 junior Larry Cirina, a tough driver.

U.S. Army Photograph

OVER THERE, OVER THERE—The Redmen will be contending with Army Captain Dan Schrage and Coach Bob Knight when they storm West Point two weeks from today for a 4 p.m. tiff.

It's a good thing that the UMass basketball team has a two-week rest before traveling to West Point to meet Army. The Redmen are going to need all the energy they can muster up to last 40 minutes with the tireless Cadets.

That game will be played during intersession on Tuesday afternoon, January 24, at four o'clock. Army currently has a 4-6 record, but one of its losses was to Ohio State by two points on the Buckeyes' home court.

Defense is the key word for the Cadet's style of play. They are so relentless with their zone that they wear their opponents out. In addition, they are one of the most aggressive teams around, especially on their home court.

Coach Bob Knight, who at age 26 is one of the youngest head coaches in the country, believes that the best way to win is to keep the other team from scoring. That has been Army's theory for the past several years and it has paid off, as the Cadets have gone to the NIT for three years and done well.

The Cadets lost three of their better scorers through graduation, including standout center Mike Silliman, but this year's squad has some good shooters and all of them play well on defense.

Army's leading scorer is junior forward Bill Schutsky, a 6'2 former high school All-America from Hillside, N.J., where he led his school to the state championship runner-up spot. Schutsky is the team's best shot, and although he is relatively small for a college forward, he has the moves to break into the open and shoot from anywhere on the court.

(Continued on page 11)

Inside Today's Collegian

Kerensky 2
Loan Fund 3
Marijuana 3
Sam Spark 4
Redwomen 17

THE MASSACHUSETTS

collegian

A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Collegian Elections
Monday—7 p.m.
Council Chambers
All Staffers
Must Attend

VOL. XCV, NO. 39 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1967

Registration Confusion Irks Weary Students

Photo by Harvey

Once again, the confusion and pandemonium of UMass registration bewildered and irked some 12,000 UMies. One of the most popular gathering places of the day, the course change area, is pictured above.

Lederle Candidate For UMich Presidency

by BOB GORMAN
Campus News Editor

UMass President John W. Lederle is reported to be a candidate for the presidency of the University of Michigan. A news wire service quoted the Detroit Free Press stating that President Lederle was one of 200 candidates for the post.

When asked about the report President Lederle stated, "It is not the sort of thing one comments on."

Since he came here seven years ago, President Lederle has greatly expanded the university's scope. Therefore, it is most likely that he would be considered, as one educator stated.

Also, President Lederle is a native of Royal Oak, Michigan and received his education at the University of Michigan.

In an interview with James Mudge of the Detroit Free Press, Mudge stated that his source "was very close to the Regents and would neither confirm nor deny that Lederle was a candidate.

Currently the Regents are secretly studying people around the country and hope to have a president by June 1.

The Regents are reported to be close to reducing the number of candidates. They will meet in Ann Arbor around February 15 or 17. They received the names of the candidates from faculty, students, and alumni bodies."

Mudge went on to say the his original story dealt with the number of nationally known figures among the candidates. Some of the other candidates were Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and Roger Hynes, the Chancellor of UCal.-Berkeley.

Hynes has reportedly been uneasy since the removal of University of California's President Kerr. Kerr's dismissal, which was partially attributed to Berkeley's disruptive student protests, has led to much controversy both statewide and nationwide. Hynes is considered a top candidate for the U. Michigan presidency.

Similarly, McNamara has great interest in Michigan since he lived in Ann Arbor when he was president of Ford Motor Corporation. He stated that he is interested in being president of a large mid-western university.

Noffsinger Appointed Associate Dean of Students

Dr. Mark G. Noffsinger has been appointed to the newly created position of Associate Dean of Students at the University of Massachusetts - Amherst. This was announced today by Dr. William F. Field, Dean of Students.

In his new position, Dean Noffsinger will assume responsibility for the residence hall and activities programs for both men and women students. Included in the new staff grouping under Noffsinger will be the Housing Office, Office of the Coordinator of Student Activities, Office of the Dean of Women, and all student personnel staff members now located within residence halls or area offices.

The Office of the Dean of Men will work closely with this group, but will continue to report directly to the Dean of Students on matters relating to the growing off-campus student body and men's affairs.

Consolidation of all parts of the residence hall and activities programs under Dean Noffsinger is the final phase of changes made in recent years as the University has grown, and has resulted in establishing student personnel area offices within each of the three major groups of residence halls.

The primary purpose of these changes, says Dean Field, "is to develop more direct contacts with students in the residence areas and to increase the number of counseling and program resources available to students."

Dean Noffsinger has been Coordinator of Student Activities and Director of the Student Union since August, 1964. Before joining the UMass staff, he was a faculty member at the University of Missouri and coordinator of counseling and assistant director of residence halls at the University of Michigan. He received B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Toledo and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan.

Dean Field also made two other personnel announcements. William H. Richards, a faculty member at the Eaglebrook School in Deerfield for eight years, has been named assistant dean of men. Mr. Richards will work with the rapidly increasing numbers of commuting students and serve as assistant to Dean of Men Robert S. Hopkins in the campus-wide responsibilities of that office.

Dean Field also announced that Gerald F. Scanlon, R.S.O. program chairman in the Student Union, has been named Assistant Coordinator of Student Activities. In this position, he will assist the coordinator in all student activities and have major responsibilities in the operation of the Student Union.

Winter Carni Weekend Aimed at Old and Young

"Something old, something new..." so the saying goes. So goes Winter Carnival 1967. Lengthened from a one weekend attraction to a ten day span of festivities, "A Winter Happening" seems to be truly possessed with the unique.

The first big weekend of Winter Carni is highlighted by the appearance of two of the most notable entertainers in the world today, Benny Goodman and the Ramsey Lewis Trio. Although this concert will undoubtedly find much favor with the student body, its central focus is towards the parents of the students.

According to chairman Dick Wood, "For years people have been claiming that nothing is ever done to bring the parents in close contact with the University. This year the Class of 1968 has afforded the University student population the opportunity to have their parents' up for a day, and opportunity to take part in the Winter Carnival festivities—to see the University in probably its most gala mood."

The concert is directed at both the old and young generation. "We hope that all will be able to sit down to an afternoon's entertainment of the highest caliber," Wood continued. "Seldom have such giants in the field of jazz been put together in such a package."

And that's not all! "We wanted all the parents to get a taste of what Winter Carnival really entails. Therefore our snow sculptures will be judged and displayed for early Sunday afternoon." The four University dining commons will be put on special notice as to handle the huge crowd of parents and visitors alike which sometimes reach the numbers of upward of 50,000 people.

"Sunday, February 19th will be that one day when the University can publicly display all the festivity and spirit of Winter Carnival," Wood concluded.

Parents Sunday will undoubtedly offer another novel point to "A Winter Happening 1967."

Gov. Volpe Cuts UMass Budget

by ERIC GOLDMAN
Staff Reporter

Governor John A. Volpe has trimmed $8 million from the total $42.6 million budget requested by UMass trustees for the fiscal year 1968, beginning July 1.

The proposal by the governor is presently being appraised by both University officials and the House Ways and Means Committee of the state legislature.

Among the areas cut by Volpe are: a $6.3 million cut for the University at Amherst; $468,000 sliced from the proposed budget for the planned med school at Worcester; and a $1.4 million cut for UMass-Boston.

A major reason for the increased funds requested by the University is to enable it to have more power regarding the construction of its own academic facilities.

Trustees are asking for the extension to allow for the ultimate completion of another University College, which would result in the establishment of five separate colleges on the UMass campus.

A University spokesman said that the extra subsidies "would enable us to combat the problem of having educational functions conducted with such large numbers of students."

UMass is regarded as one of the nation's leaders in the attempt to overcome the problem of huge and overpopulated campuses.

Graduation Requirement Raised for Class of '72

by ERIC GOLDMAN
Staff Reporter

The UMass board of trustees recently voted to increase the grade point average necessary for graduation from 1.8 to 2.0. The new policy will become effective beginning with the class of 1972.

The changes will not become effective until 1972 since the catalogs for this year printed the graduation requirement of 1.8. Therefore, the faculty and administration thought that it would be unfair to change this without having to notify all applicants.

Frederick Troy, chairman of the trustees committee on faculty and educational policy, said that the action was taken to "strengthen undergraduate standards." He added that if the 2.0 cume requirement were used last year, 12.4 percent of the seniors would not have graduated.

The new rule will be subject to review by the trustees "if the rate of attrition is excessive." Mr. Troy said that this is one of several steps that must be taken to discourage student sloth.

The higher graduation requirement is expected not only to raise student standards, but also to strengthen the standards of the University as a whole.

In addition, the trustees outlined plans to construct a 1,000-car parking lot that would cost about $3 million. The board concluded by discussing the serious shortage of heat in several of the corner rooms in the Southwest towers; no definite decisions were made to resolve the problem.

Photo by Rizotto

According to the intelligent little fellow pictured above, there will be six more weeks of winter. Appearing in Pennsylvania (the Ground Hog State), his family has had a perfect record in their predictions for the last 71 years.

Kerensky Speaks at UMass; Predicts No Further Revolutions

by PAM METAXAS
Staff Reporter

In a speech just before vacation, Alexander Kerensky, leader of the first provisional government in the Russian Revolution, said that in 1917 "all Europe was split into considerable camps. The events of 1917 in Russia were in a close connection with world European classes, in Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey," he added.

When the Tsar was deposed in 1917, Mr. Kerensky was named by the Duma to a committee forming a provisional government. He became the minister of justice for the provisional government, then minister of war and navy and also premier.

Kerensky felt that at this time, the situation was "terrible" and he accepted the position of power and administrator of justice because he "felt the necessity to restore some sort of order."

He noted the democratic state was based on the "rights of man." It was hoped there would be profound social reform in accordance with the desires of the people. The provisional government was, in a way, a guarantee for the future of Russia.

When it was decided in 1917 to have a provisional government, it was "to proclaim the democratic aims of the war."

After the peace document of the war, the Versailles Treaty, Kerensky saw the coming of WWII.

"I wrote in my Russian newspaper —the second world war is now inevitable."

Kerensky felt the situation in Russia is better now. The totalitarian government is gone.

"I do not predict any revolution now," he mentioned since there has been time to understand each other. He concluded by emphasizing that "arms never create good aims since revenge breeds revenge." In other words, he hopes all those involved have learned from both the revolutions and the world wars.

The Junior Class is proud to announce Winter Carnival 1967 with the introduction of the design, "A Winter Happening". Created by Mr. Roger Roach of the University Press, the snowflake pattern symbolizes the spirit of Winter Carni. It will be seen on all Winter Carnival literature and will be availble soon on souvenir buttons, booklets, and posters.

Last Tryout

This evening at 7:30 in Bartlett, rm. 119, the last scheduled session of tryouts will be held for John Steinbeck's Of Mice and Men, the University Theatre's first production of the spring semester.

This warm but gripping tale of migrant workers of the depression years in the southwest should provide a good opportunity for students of the University to share in an exciting piece of theatre.

Because of the nine male roles in Of Mice and Men the director, Harry Mahnken, is especially interested in having as many men tryout as possible. The cast of characters also includes a role calling for a Negro farm hand.

Journalism Fraternity Installation

Installation of the first journalism honorary fraternity to be established at the University of Massachusetts is scheduled for tonight in the Student Union.

Delta Gamma chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma, the national coeducational journalism honorary, will be installed by a team from the State University of New York at Albany after an installation banquet.

Featured speaker will be Richard Garvey, managing editor of the Springfield (Mass.) Daily News.

Officers of the local chapter are Manuel F. Gordon of Lowell, president; Michael Gould of Brookline, vice-president; Pamela Metaxas of Shelburne Falls, treasurer; Joyce E. Harvey of Melrose, secretary; and Arthur S. Cohen of Randolph, bailiff Faculty advisers are Alvin F. Oickle, tutor, and Dr. Dario Politella, associate professor of journalistic studies.

Student Union Celebrates Tenth Anniversary

The anual Student Union Open House will be held on the 10th Anniversary of the Student Union, tomorrow evening, February 4, 1967 from 8 to 12 midnight.

The Program Council of the Student Union will present a variety of activities for your enjoyment, ALL WITH NO ADMISSION CHARGE. A dance featuring the "Will 'O' the Wisp" will be held in the ballroom and will require only an ID for admittance.

The Colonial Lounge will be converted to "The Camp Room" where a series of oldtime "flicks" will be shown. The "Novae", a jazz quartet will entertain in the Cape Cod Lounge. At 9:30 p.m. the 10th Anniversary Ceremonies will take place in the main lobby, with refreshments for everyone in attendance.

Two displays will be special features of the Open House. The University Acquisitions Exhibit will be shown through February 24, 1967. In the main lobby there will be displayed an exhibit pertaining to the present Student Union and the new Campus Center. Members of the University community are cordially invited to be the guests of the Student Union for an evening of diverse entertainment.

SUG Board Acts

The Student Union Governing Board (SUG Board), no red last night that in order to avoid any future incidents concerning the placemnt of art in the Student Union, and that before an exhibit is displayed in the Union, the Arts and Music Committee of the Program Council approve the exhibit only for its appropriateness in relation to the area that the Union has available to display art.

Be it was further resolved that when an exhibit is approved of by the Arts and Music Committee of the Program Council for exhibit in the Union, the Arts and Music Committee shall have the authority to remove the exhibit from the Union.

They also resolved it further acted that the Student Union Governing Board is the duly constituted representative of the University community, and that it has the constitutional right to establish, terminate, or revoke any of the functions or activities in the Student Union.

Because of the importance of this particular responsibility to the University community, they hoped that no action other than that by the Student Union Governing Board would be taken without its approval.

The new officers of the SUG board are: Chairman Neal Whitman, Vice Chairman Jacquelyn Hal, Secretary Susan Brady.

DVP to Present Tobacco Road Author

Erskine Caldwell, one of America's foremost authors, will be the guest of the Distinguished Visitor's Program of the University of Massachusetts on Tuesday, February 7, at 8:30 p.m. in The Student Union Ballroom.

Author of God's Little Acre and Tobacco Road, Mr. Caldwell's books are published in more countries than any other American author.

Having travelled to almost every state in the Union, to every country in Europe and South America, he is a perceptive observer of the contemporary world both here and abroad.

Constantly on the move, Mr. Caldwell's keen impressions of the social scene are invariably incorporated in his writings, for literature, he feels, is not separate from life.

UCLA Paper Suspended

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 27 (CPS)—The weekly literary supplement of UCLA's Daily Bruin, the student newspaper, was suspended from publication following pressure from local officials who protested the reproduction of a picture of a nude woman and an accompanying article which was run in the Jan. 18 issue of the paper.

The picture, appearing in the supplement Intro, drew criticism from several Los Angeles County supervisors, local newspapers and two UCLA students, who say they will sue for discontinuance of the Daily Bruin.

The picture, drawn by the German artist George Grosz, drew violent reaction from the German government in 1923 when it was first exhibited. The government imposed a fine on Grosz and ordered that his exhibitions be dismantled.

The decision to suspend Intro was passed unanimously in an emergency meeting of the student Communications Board, which called for a policy study committee to set up guidelines to insure the independence of student publications.

FACTORY OUTLET
25 Market Street, Northampton
Sweaters for the Entire Family

MEN'S PULLOVERS $6 to $11 Turtlenecks & Cardigans	values to $18
LADIES CARDIGANS $4.95	values to $7.95
LADIES PULLOVERS $3.95	values to $6.95
CASHMERES $11.95-$17.50	values to $30

Mon. thru Fri. — 10 a.m.-9 p.m.
Saturday — 10 a.m.-5 p.m. until Xmas
Market St. is across from Jack August

FREE DANCE
We're celebrating the STUDENT UNION's 10th Birthday. Come join us and the Will-o'-the Wisp Band.

S.U. Ballroom
Feb. 4
8-12

From CRITIQUE—A Film
"VILLAGE OF THE DAMNED"
TONITE 8 P.M.
MAHAR 35¢
(Big Eyes and Zombies)

DRAMA STUDENTS
Spend the summer with a professional resident company in Wilmington, Vermont. Apprentices will rotate crews and have an opportunity to try out for small parts. Must be at least 18 years old. No tuition charge, pay only $25 weekly room and board. June 18 to Sept. 2, 1967. Send pictures and resume to:
Miss Kathryn Cobb, Co-Producer
The Mirror Players, Inc.
4 Arlington Street
Cambridge, Massachusetts 02140

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

John Birch Society President Blasts Foreign Aid Program

by JANE ROLAND,
Staff Reporter

"The American foreign aid program, conceived, nourished, and built by Communists, is a prime example of the Communist principal of reversal because it has been sold to us under the pretext of aiding the independence of others."

"Everything the Communists say is one big lie," added Robert Welch, president of the John Birch Society, on a filmed speech presented Wednesday night, February 1, in Mahar Auditorium.

The film, "The Truth in Time", was sponsored by the Conservative Student Group at UMass. It covers three main topics — the history of Communism, its present development, and a description of the John Birch Society.

The study of the development of Communism is neecssary, said Welch, because "The way to fight the enemy is to study it and understand it."

In his review of history, Welch gave his theories of what has been called "The Conspiracy Theory of History," and traced the workings of the Insiders from the French Revolution through both world wars, which they planned and exploited to their own benefit.

The movie continued that the Communistic principle of reversal "Trying to turn the world upsidedown and replace the truth with lies"—the Communists have taken hold in most governments throughout the world.

Thus we believe that the United States is the biggest force in the world against Communism, while actually it is the biggest helper.

"The war in Vietnam is a phony war because the Communists are controlling both sides of it. Modern man is being played for a sucker by these power-hungry megalomaniacs," ended Welch.

After the film, Bob Rogerson, three state coordinator of the John Birch Society in the New England area, answered questions and explained parts of Welch's speech.

The questions were mostly hostile and the audience was often rude, particularly to the question of the war in Vietnam.

Rogerson explained that this war is controlled because of SEATO. Because it is in SEATO, the United States gives information to the United Nations. From there Soviet Russia which controls the UN, can get the information and give it to North Vietnam.

Senate Loan Fund Now In Effect

The Student Senate has established a Senate Loan Fund, to provide financial aid of up to $25 to students to purchase needed textbooks. This program went into effect registration day of this semester.

A student who wishes to take advantage of this program will do the following:

1. Go to the RSO Office on the second floor of the Student Union and get an application form.
2. Fill out the form and return it to the same office.
3. Come back the next class day and see if the application has been approved.
4. If it has, take the form to the S.U. Business Office on the second floor and you will receive a credit slip for the amount of the loan (up to $25).
5. Take the credit slip and the form to the Booksale or S.U. Bookstore (APO-GSS EXCLUDED).
6. Obtain the books and present the credit slip and form to the CHARGE cashier.
7. The student will then sign the promissory note on the application form and present the credit slip and form to the cashier.
8. The student will receive a receipt and will have thirty (30) days to repay the loan to the SU Business Office.

The following points should be remembered:

a. Loans can only be rapid in a lump sum.

b. If absolutely necessary, a student can apply for more than one loan.

c. No co-endorsers are required.

New Frat Lists Open House

by JOYCE HARVEY
Day Editor

The pledges of Delta Chi colony at UMass will be holding an Open House this Sunday at 2:15 p.m. in the Norfolk and Plymouth rooms of the Student Union as part of the Round Robins sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council.

Delta Chi is a national social fraternity with nearly 60 chapters and colonies throughout the United States. The 19 pledges of the UMass colony have been officially recognized by RSO and the IFC.

Originally organized as a law fraternity, the first chapter of Delta Chi was founded at Cornell University in 1890. Early in March, this year, the pledges will travel to Cornell to be officially installed by the chapter there.

The pledges of UMass' Delta Chi intend to stress scholastics and service as well as the social aspects of fraternity living. This past semester average for the 19 members was a 2.9 Any underclassman wishing to pledge the fraternity will be required to have a 2.0 cumulative average.

Following the Round Robin Open House this weekend, the Delta Chi colony will hold two open smokers: on Feb. 6 in the SU Colonial Lounge, and Feb. 9 in Mem Hall.

TELEPHONE UP-DATING

Those students wishing to update their telephone numbers due to room changes etc. May call the student information operator at 5-1123 between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

REPORTS OF MARIJUANA ON AMHERST CAMPUS

by ROBERT CUSHMAN
Staff Reporter

Recent reports have stated that two Amherst College students have been placed on disciplinary probation by college officials for using marijuana.

Dean William Swartzbaugh stated that the drug problem is not widespread but college officials took action to keep it that way.

An Amherst College guidance committee has issued a bulletin warning stud nts of the peanlties, both physiological and legal, involved in the use of marijuana.

"This was not done because of any particular offenses we knew about," the Dean stated, "but to inform the students of problems that could arise through taking drugs. It was not a statement of policy by the college, but did state that offenders would be disciplined on an individual basis."

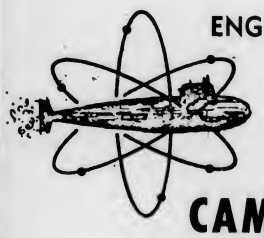
There have been several rumors that drug peddlers and users at UMass are having trouble with their trade "because the heat is on."

Police Chief Alexander Blasko said that the university police are always on the lookout for drug peddlers and users but their investigation in this area has not been stepped up.

Colonel John Marchant, head of the University Security, also stated that no additional effort is being made to stop drug use. Marchant was unable to comment when asked about the procedure used by the police when someone is "nailed."

Police are more interested in stopping the drug peddlers than the users. However, the penalties for using marijuana can be severe. The penalties for the use of marijuana depend on the circumstances of the arrest. Penalties vary from disciplinary probation to fines and imprisonment.

COLLEGIAN STAFF
Don't forget elections Monday night.



What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES

for seniors in Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

THURS., FEB. 9

Appointments should be made in advance through your College Placement Office

PORTSMOUTH NAVAL SHIPYARD
Portsmouth, New Hampshire

Positions are in the Career Civil Service

(An Equal Opportunity Employer)

Editorial Section

Sam Spark Speaks Out

Real Reason Rhyme

by Chet Weinerman, Editorial Chairman

You fume, I assume, cause your cume brings you gloom.
Let's discuss why you cuss, why you raise such a fuss.
The storm in the dorm due to noise from the boys?
Been hurled for a whirl by a girl who told lies?
The prof hates your guts and your roommate went nuts?
Some nights tossed in bed wond'ring if God is dead?
That club—there's the rub that did rob all your time?

Your facts are all lies; you just rationalize!
I'll tell you and spell true the reason you fell:
You slept and you dated, and procrastinated
by shirking hard working, 'till failure came lurking.
While the bite for your plight is so plainly your fault,
it's tough to be rough with the bluff who's to blame;
For ego, you see, lights perspective to flame.

Conclusion

The Academic Game

By JOHN CLAYTON, Assistant Professor of Humanities, Boston University

The Collegiate Press Service

Look at the word of the Fathers—filled with injustice and suffering and spiritual deadness which stays safe and ignores the suffering. There are double locks on the doors in Brookline; there are locks on the sympathetic imagination; on my sympathetic imagination, too. Men respond to horror as to sexuality: they turn it off—and they go through the motions of living.

And doesn't this creep into the University under the guise of scholarly objectivity? What about calling it non-commitment and withdrawal? I have a faculty friend who started a near-riot by attacking a group of self-styled patriots who were threatening some peace picketers. He tells me girls who had sat hands-folded all semester were quickened into life; they cared; they brought in evidence that he was wrong. They blasted him and he blasted back.

Out of this living confrontation came more than an analysis of subcultural characteristics—though that too; what came was a commitment to living thought.

An idea is what human being sings. Ideas are not abstractions but experiences; they must be carried alive into the heart; they should be richly loaded with values; they should lead to action — either social or personal.

I remember a couple of years ago teaching Thoreau's "Walden." I quoted the passage criticizing university education, laughing at the irony that even this idea students had to write in their notebooks. I said, if you believe what Thoreau says, what are you doing here? So one student—John Kaplan—got up and walked out! Joy! Like the Baal-Shem Tov, he was in the truth, not just in the possession of truth.

The teacher's main job is to draw the student into living communication and thought. The job is to shatter the existing knowledge structures in the student so he can form new structures which will let new data in. The job is to open him up. It's to let him relate new ideas to his old values. The job is to blow his mind.

Freshmen need to study alienation in America or to study problems of identity in their own cities. If sociological tools are needed, if economic concepts are needed, introduce them. But don't make a student go through years of digested, analytical, disciplinary structure before he finds out why. We need courses which involve the students' life at home, in the dormitory, at work. We live in the laboratory.

The world is one. I'm not making a false dichotomy between the real world and the university. Experience is one. It's the university which makes the dichotomy.

There is only one revolution on the campus: the students'. It's a three stage process, and so far there hasn't been much progress beyond the first two: Open revolt, and a return to the university with the values learned in the course of revolt.

Students have established their own programs, seminars and projects. I'm looking for the third stage, however, the point when the faculty and administration join in to make education live. No more Academic Games.

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Gordon A. Davidson '67

MANAGING EDITOR
Jim Foudy '68

BUSINESS MANAGER
Lynn Stowe '68

NEWS DAY EDITORS: Joyce Harvey, Marjie Flanders, Richard Kline

STAFF: Bruce Balboni, Nancy Bourgoin, Joanne Bucewick, Janet Caroprece, Elaine Canter, Don Epstein, John Findley, Dave Floreen, Dixon George, Ted Janet, Fred Lane, Richard Lane, Daniel Madden, Pan Metaxas, Marshall Nadin, Daniel Madden, Pam Metaxas, Marshall Nadan, Dave O'Connor, Jane Roland, Neil Scanlon, Sally

CAMPUS NEWS EDITOR: Bob Gorman
STAFF: Robert Cushman, Eric Goldman, Edroy Parker

EDITORIAL CHAIRMAN: Chet Weinerman '68
EDITORIAL DAY EDITORS: Jack Dean, Ellie Skinner, Stan Levco
STAFF: Michael Hersh, Joe Ross, Paul R. Hallock, Ellen Cleary, Marsha Baron, Marcia Taylor
SPORTS EDITOR: Mike Gould '67
SPORTS DAY EDITORS: Tom FitzGerald, Tim Murphy, Glenn Briere

STAFF: Dave Jarnes, Al Peakes, Tom Conuel, Roger Kipp, Joe Duffy, Mike Curran, Harvey Elman

PHOTOGRAPHY EDITORS: John Kelly '69, Paul Bolliver '68

STAFF: Gerri Cote, Tom Donovan, Bill Gleason, Stan Furman, Larry Kornfield, Larry Mazel, Ed Rizzotto, Robert Soffer, Brock Seiniger, James Tripp, George Williams, Neil Rennie

FEATURE EDITOR: Phil Goepp '69
STAFF: Lorraine Balch, Joan Fitzgerald, Josephine Granifeld, Julie Ann Grow, Karen Haley, Rich Hanson, Jerry Horvitz, Judy Kuhn, Joan Lesar, Sue Ruckstuhl, Charles Schiller, Gerald Vigeant, Agnes Wyant.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Chuck Smith '69
CIRCULATION MANAGER: Bob Godwin '68

CARTOONIST: Rich Moran

MEMBER: Associated Collegiate Press Minneapolis, Minnesota

MEMBER: U.S. Student Press Association 2117 "S" Street Washington, D.C.

Poor Packet Problems

Last Tuesday's Registration Day unfortunately possessed the same tones and moans that are a part of every such day. It is on this day that all academic hopes and fears are either dashed or realized, when a C in Organic Chemistry ruins a future doctor's hopes. At least that's the way it seems, according to some of the Umies upon receiving the omnipotent cume card.

By observing the reactions of students upon receiving their grades, one can paint a realistic picture of the inevitable effects of the almighty grade on the student who is pressured by his parents, draft board, future employer, grad school, and less frequently from within, to obtain the highest grade possible — at any cost.

Please skip the personality that you recognize to be yourself. I have no intention of insulting or offending anyone in particular.

Sarah Surprised: She's the one who opens her registration packet in the midst of a crowd of about twenty people. After seeing the 3.1 she knew she'd get, she lets out a shriek and starts jumping up and down. "I thought I'd get a 1.6 and I got a 3.1. Ha Ha. I got a 3.1 without hardly any studying. A 3.1! Oh, I got a 3.1, etc. ad infinitum.

Sarah's words seem loudest to you, probably because you got the 1.6. Sarah sees you're upset, asks you what you got, then understandingly tries to console you by telling you her happy results. You cry. Billy Bad Breakowitz: No matter what Billy gets, he always deserves better. All Billy's professors despise him and they're out to get him. "Not only did the teacher have to fulfill his quota of F's, but he's probably anti-Semitic, too. No wonder I flunked," Billy asserts.

Grace Sourgrapes: Poor Grace; she studied seven hours every day and refused her one date of the semester, all for the good of a high cume. Her reward is a heartbreaking 1.6. But Grace is far more depressed over the 2.9 her roommate Joanne received. "She's so lucky, that kid. She never studied. How does she do it, that lucky ——— !"

Peter Personal (September, 1966): Peter has just received a 1.3 cume and is careful to leave his room only between the hours of 2-6 a.m., so that he can avoid seeing anyone else in the section. Unfortunately, Pete needs emergency relief one night at 10:00 p.m., and can wait no longer. On the way to the facility, he tragically meets his best friend of fourteen years. "Hey Pete, what'd ya get this semester?" Indignantly, Peter Personal retorts: "None of your business; it's strictly personal." Totally dejected, Pete dangerously rushes back into his room. (February, 1967): Peter has just received a 3.4 cume, and he is careful to leave his room the instant he hears a voice. Peter pretends he has severe diarrhea, which forces him to keep running to the bathroom. Pete happily meets his once best friend of fourteen years. "Hey Charlie, what'd ya get?" "Well, Pete, I go..." "Hey Charlie, I got a 3.4. A 3.4! I'm telling you, anyone who can't get at least a 2.5 in this school must really be dumb." Totally satisfied, Pete cockily struts back into his room.

Betty Better: She's the one who asks you how you did in Psychology. If you got a C, Betty invariably will say: "You would not believe what I got!!?" Sympathetically, you ask her what she received, and Betty, responding to her long-awaited cue, triumphantly decrees: "I got a B!" At least twice more during the twenty-six second conversation, Betty will squeal, 'I can't believe I got that B; she really must have given out the breaks." The conversation is abbreviated by your departure; you feel like vomiting.

Bob Brilliant: He's the one who tells you what a complete gut all your courses are. When he gets his 3.0, he brags about how he made the Dean's List without doing a stitch of work. Actually, he studied 12 hours every night. When you saw him sleeping every afternoon, it was only because he'd pulled one of his 83 all-nighters, where no one could see him booking.

Sadie Sadist: She knows all semester you've been flunking Zoology. If you say you passed, she'll emphatically say something appropriate, like: "I've never heard of such luck. Why, if I had your breaks, I'd get a 3.9." However, if you fail, Sadie's truly understanding nature seems to come to the fore. "Oh, you did not deserve to flunk; why if I passed, you should have passed, too." Meanwhile, deep down, Sadie is experiencing the happiest feeling she's had in weeks. And seeing as she intentionally gave you three wrong answers on the lab practical, she takes your borderline failure as both academic justification and as a glorious, personal triumph!

Campus Comment

An Open Letter to Robert Ro gerLebel

To the Editor:

I read with amusement your letter in Friday, Jan. 6th's Collegian in which you accused the Student Senate of "unjust and impulsive action" in awarding $500 to the Valley Center. I say "with amusement" because, ironically, it was your letter which was unjust and impulsive. To clarify my point I will repeat some of the facts which were presented at the Senate meeting (which you apparently did not attend).

The Valley Center is not a "nebulous entity located in an apartment in Northampton," but is rather a concrete group of 180 students from Amherst, Mount Holyoke, Smith, and the University of Massachusetts who meet in a house. While I should be honored to have been the "organizer" of the Valley Center, as you call me, I am merely their representative on this campus, having joined the group in September, five months after it began.

Your statement that my "rent is to be paid with this $500" is malignant and insidious. I live in the Valley Center house because the landlord required that someone over 21 live there and assume full responsibility. Because I spend from fifteen to twenty hours per week cleaning the house, scheduling meetings and greeting newcomers I am not asked to pay rent for the one room I use.

In contrast to your unjust portrait, the Valley Center was organized to promote serious study in areas and in ways not normally found in an academic setting. During this semester, groups of from four to fifty have studied foreign policy, anarchism, film making, creative writing, existential psycho-analysis, drugs, Buddhism, and modern art.

Just as important as the topics studied is the manner in which they are studied. The Valley Center stresses direct contact among students, and between students and discussion leaders. In the Drug discussion group, for example, students talked personally with a probation officer, two psychologists who were conducting group therapy with narcotics addicts, an Amherst psychologist who had taken LSD in a controlled experiment, a psychiatrist studying collegiate drug use, a professor of Sociology from UMass, a professor of Religion from Smith, two grad students who have done extensive research in phychedelics, and countless fellow students with remarkable knowledge of and insight into the whole question of drug use. And this is typical of all the groups.

To this kind of experience you refer, Mr. Lebel, as our "nebulous goal of liberal education outside the classroom." I sincerely suggest that instead of asking the Senate to reconsider, you take your own advice and "reconsider the action... taken under such inadequate consideration" by apologizing both to the Student Senate and to the Valley Center.

Stephen W. Smith '67
Campus Representative for the Valley Center

POST OFFICE SUMMER & TEMPORARY EMPLOYMENT

The Boston Region of the U.S. Civil Service Commission recently announced the opening of the examination for Post Office Temporary employment. This examination will be used to fill temporary summer jobs and temporary Christmas jobs which will pay $2.44 per hour. Employment will be used on a full or a part time depending on the need of the Post Office.

Individuals interested in taking this examination must apply before February 9, 1967. The examination will be given nationally on February 25 and March 4, 1967. Those who passed a summer examination for postal employment in 1966 need not retake the 1967 examination unless they wish to try for a higher score.

Last year, thousands of lawyers, bankers, accountants, engineers, doctors and businessmen went back to college.

And not just for the football games.

We'd like to clear up what appears to be a misunderstanding. It is somewhat popular on campus to decry a business career on the grounds that you stop learning once you start working for Cliché Nuts & Bolts.

That idea is groundless.

We can't speak for Cliché, but we can for ourselves—Western Electric, the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System. 6 out of 10 college graduates who have joined us over the past 10 years, for example, have continued their higher education.

How're these for openers:

W.E.'s Tuition Refund Plan lets employees pursue degrees while working for us. Over 6 thousand have attended schools in 41 states under this plan. We refund more than $1 million in tuition costs to employees a year.

To name another program: advanced engineering study, under the direction of Lehigh University, is conducted at our Engineering Research Center in Princeton, N. J. Selected employees are sent there from all over the country for a year's concentrated study leading to a master's degree.

You get the idea. We're for more learning in our business. After all, Western Electric doesn't make buggy whips. We make advanced communications equipment. And the Bell telephone network will need even more sophisticated devices by the time your fifth reunion rolls around. The state of the art, never static, is where the action is.

At Western Electric, what's happening is the excitement and satisfaction of continued doing and learning. If this happens to appeal to you, no matter what degree you're aiming for, check us out. And grab a piece of the action.

Western Electric
MANUFACTURING & SUPPLY UNIT OF THE BELL SYSTEM

If our mechanic thinks he's through learning about your Volkswagen, he's through period.

It's very easy for a Volkswagen mechanic to think he's a big know-it-all.

After all, how much do you have to know about a car that seemingly never changes?

Lots.

The Volkswagen changes all the time. (Over 5,000 times in the past 19 years.)

So every two years, we send our mechanic off to one of 14 fully equipped VW training centers. To major in VW changes.

And if we happen to get a mechanic who happens to think things haven't changed that much, we lay down the law.

No education.

No remuneration.

OVERSEAS

Come in and get the feel of a VW before you pick one up in Europe.

Before you make the Grand Tour in a VW over there, make a "little tour" over here. Around the block. Up and down a hill or two. In traffic. On an open straightaway.

Then you'll know what's where on the VW and how it works.

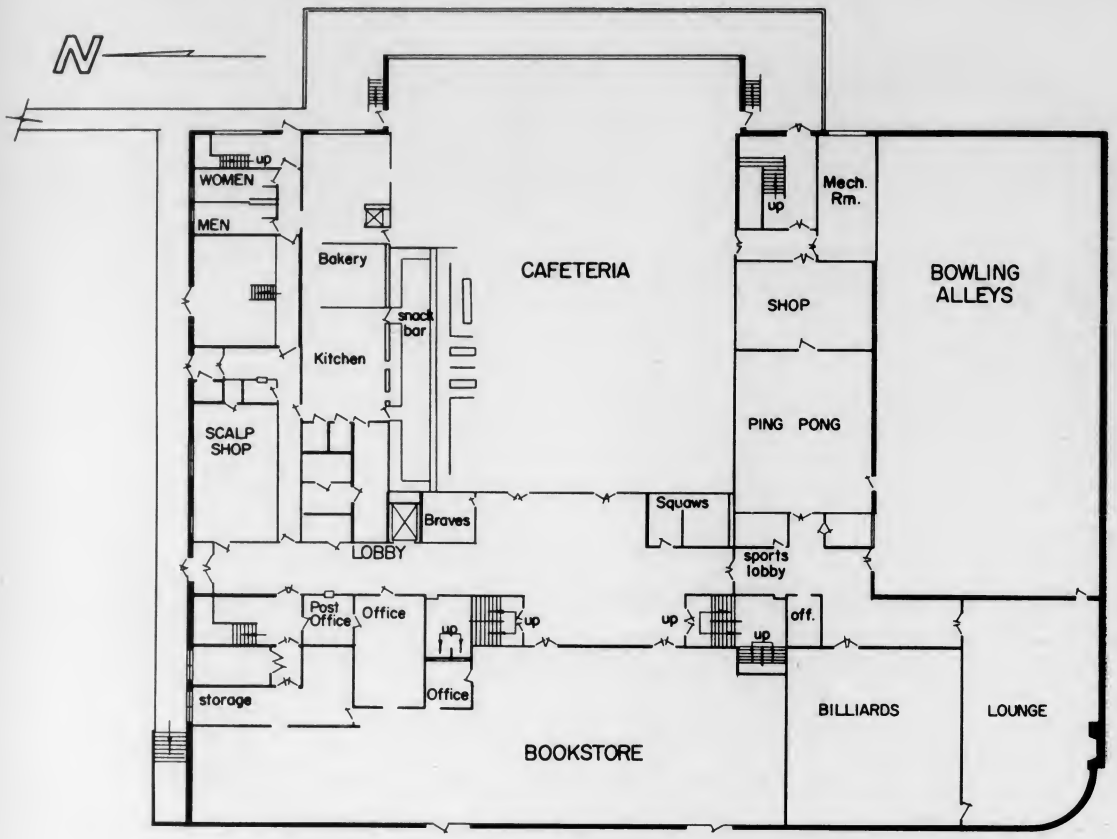
While you're getting comfortable with the car, we'll start working out the details.

Just tell us in which of more than 50 European cities you'd like to pick up your car. We'll take care of everything: purchase, delivery, licensing, insurance, documentation. And when you ship your VW back home, we'll still be at the same old stand where we can take care of everything again.

Northampton Motors
246 King St., Northampton
Please send me your free illustrated brochure and price list. Authorized Dealer

Name_____
Address_____
City_____ Zone_____ State_____

We accept trades on overseas deliveries



NORTHAMPTON MOTORS, Inc.

YOUR AUTHORIZED VOLKSWAGEN DEALER

246 King St. Northampton
Open eves. til 9 584-8620

Service is the heart of our business

Union Renovation Program Begins Monday

EXISTING PLAN - GROUND FLOOR - STUDENT UNION

Student Union Anniversary

From February 2 to February 12, the Student Union will be celebrating its tenth anniversary. The Student Union Program Council has planned ten days of exciting events to commemorate this anniversary.

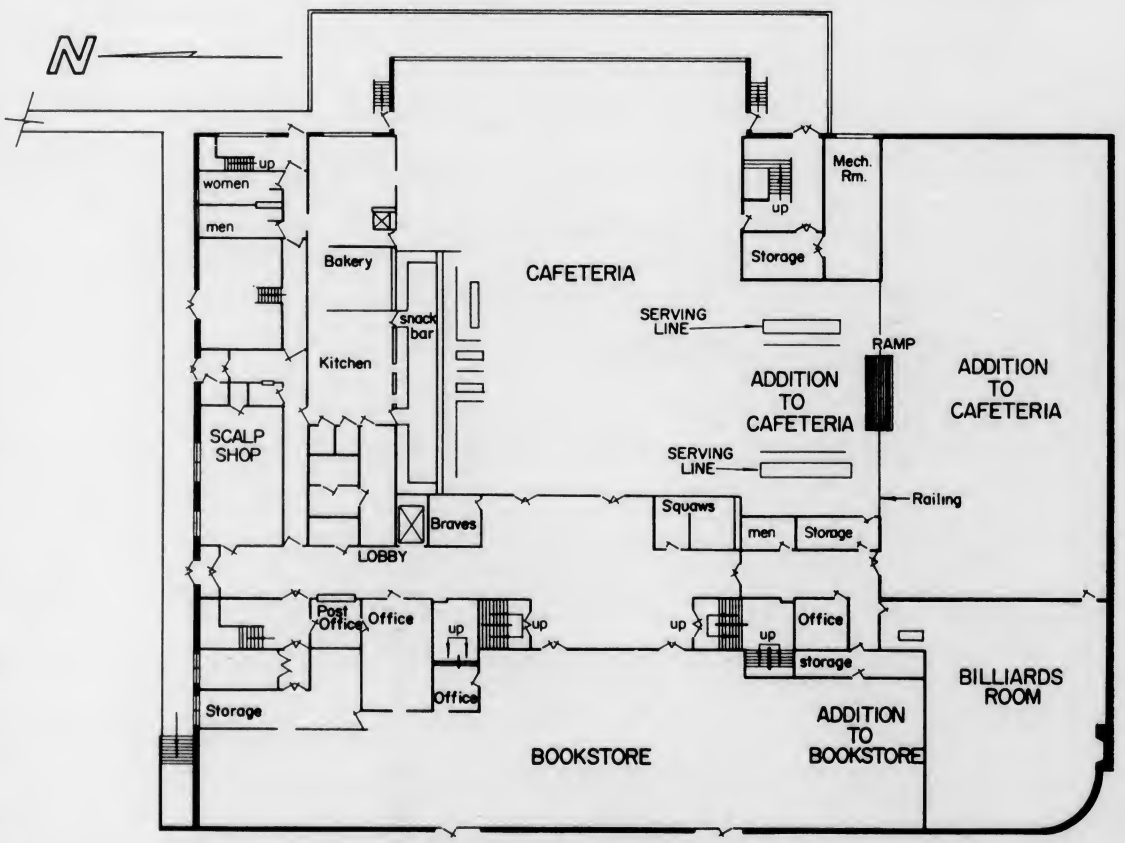
The Student Union Governing Board during the past year has been working on a project

Saturday, February 5
All Events Free
OPEN HOUSE 8-12 P.M.

Ballroom — Dance featuring Will-O'-The-Wisp
Colonial Lounge — The Camp Room—Oldtime "Flicks"
Cape Cod Lounge—The Quartet—Jazz
Lobby — Anniversary Ceremonies—Refreshments
Mezzanine — Student Union Display—Folk Singing
Reduced Rates in Games Area —Billiards, Table Tennis
Art Corridor—University Acquisitions Exhibit

to completely renovate the basement floor of the Student Union. This project which will begin Monday, February 6, will include a new addition to the Hatch with a carpeted floor, two speedy service lines, and new automated equipment. The overcrowded condition of the bookstore will also be eased somewhat when the bookstore is expanded into the billiard room.

The future for the Union is one that is certainly promising. The final plans for the construction of a nine story Campus Center are in the final stages. When completed, this facility will offer new dining facilities, a hundred room motel, and many more meeting rooms for student groups.



Alterations Aimed at Improving Existing Facilities

Program Council Seeks Members

The Student Union Program Council is interested in creating a wide range of both cultural and social activities to the student body. The Council, at the University of Massachusetts is unique in that it is controlled entirely by students. The Council is composed of the Chairmen of the Arts & Music Dance, Movie, Publicity, Recreation and Special Events Committees. Each of these committees meets during the semester and decides what activities and programs would be possible during the year. For example, Movie Committee selects all the Thursday Night movies and all the Foreign Films that are to be shown. The Dance Committee sponsors the registration dances and also any other dances which they think other students might enjoy. This year they sponsored a very unique Dance Happening which was very successful.

The Program Council also has sponsored such varied Programs as the Harry Belafonte Concert, the Intercollegiate Sing, and HER Weekend. All these events are planned by the students with the help of the very capable Student Activities staff.

Many students have been involved in making the Student Union a more comfortable facility, and in attempting to create new programs. Any student is welcome to join any of the Program Council Committees. As a member of a committee you are directly involved in producing any event that is planned. Membership on a Student Union Committee is definitely a valued experience.

FUTURE PLAN - GROUND FLOOR - STUDENT UNION

Here's your application for the 13th Annual National College Queen Contest

I would like to submit the following name for The National College Queen competition. Kindly mail full details and an official entry blank.

MY NAME _____ AGE ____
(or, my candidate's name)

I ATTEND _____
(or, my candidate attends) (name of college or university)

I AM ( ) FRESHMAN ( ) SOPHOMORE ( ) JUNIOR ( ) SENIOR

MY MAILING ADDRESS _____
(or, my candidate's address) (no. and street)

_____
(city) (state) (zip code)

I obtained this application when it was published in: _____
(write in name of college newspaper in which this application appeared)

If you are nominating someone other than yourself, please sign your name in the space opposite. The entry blank will be mailed to her. _____

MAIL THIS APPLICATION TODAY TO: NATIONAL COLLEGE QUEEN CONTEST COMMITTEE
P.O. Box 935, New York City, N.Y. 10023

Deadline: This newspaper application must be received in New York City within 10 days from the date of this issue.

You can win more than $5,000 in prizes and earn recognition for your school.

It's nomination time again! Colleges in all 50 states are nominating their candidates in the 13th Annual National College Queen Contest. And the time is right now—the nominations close soon.

Send in your name—nominate a friend

Lots of girls send their own names, so don't be shy! Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, Seniors—all are eligible. And anyone can make a nomination... campus groups, fraternities, sororities, friends. Just fill out the application blank.

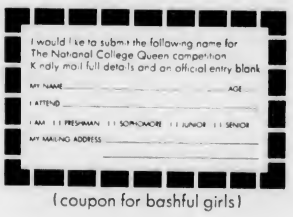
Not a "Beauty" contest

Those who entered last year will tell you that this is neither a "glamour" nor a "genius" contest. Candidates are judged on their all-around abilities... they're questioned on current events, fashion, home economics, career goals and the like.

50 state winners

Every state elects its own College Queen in April. As a state winner, you'll come to New York City (all expenses paid) for a 10 day visit and the National Finals. You'll appear on a National Television Special, and attend a reception at the United Nations, theatre trips, backstage visits with Broadway stars, and the formal Coronation Ball.

More than $5,000 in prizes



The new National College Queen will tour Europe from London to Paris to Rome. She'll win a wardrobe of the newest styles, worth $500—and her own car, a brand new sports convertible. She'll discover America—travelling from New York City to Disneyland, including featured appearances at the Rose Bowl Game and the traditional Tournament of Roses Parade.

Enter Today

It's easy to enter, fun to nominate. Take a minute right now to fill out the application yourself. And how about your club, fraternity or sorority nominating someone? Remember, this is not a typical "Beauty Contest." It's for the real girl, the all-around girl—it's for you!

The National College Queen Contest is sponsored by Best Foods:

Makers of: Bosco Milk Amplifier, Best Foods / Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise, Best Foods / Hellmann's Dressings, Karo Corn Syrups, Knorr Soups, Mazola Corn Oil, Mazola Margarine, Nucoa Margarine, Skippy Peanut Butter, Niagara Spray Starch, NuSoft Fabric Softener, Rit Tints and Dyes, Shinola Shoe Polishes and Waxes. Best Foods is a division of the Corn Products Company.

I would like to submit the following name for The National College Queen competition. Kindly mail full details and an official entry blank.
MY NAME _____ AGE ____
I ATTEND _____
I AM ( ) FRESHMAN ( ) SOPHOMORE ( ) JUNIOR ( ) SENIOR
MY MAILING ADDRESS _____

(coupon for bashful girls)

"Doctor, I've Been Wondering--"

by the Infirmary Doctors

We have been asked by several students to explain our policy on visitors to the Infirmary. There are several reasons for the restrictions on visitors.

First, space is a factor. With five patients in each room, if each patient has a visitor, there are ten people present at a time. This is really all that space will allow comfortably.

Secondly, the average patient stay is only three days so that visitor restriction does not really represent a hardship.

Thirdly, patients are in the Infirmary because they are ill, the majority with infectious disease. They are not allowed visitors if they are in a contagious stage. More important however, these patients have a lowered resistance to other diseases when they are in a recuperative stage. Each contact from the outside represents a possible disease contact and therefore a threat to the patient.

The last limitation is the restriction on hours. To extend the hours to an earlier time would interfere with nursing procedures and meal service. To extend them to a later hour would disrupt the rest of some patients.

Our only goal here is the care of the ill and all our rules are aimed at enabling us to do this in the most efficient and safest way.

Question: How about a nurse in the lobby on weekends?

Answer: There is a nurse on duty at all hours. The outside bell will summon her in a matter of minutes. A physician is also on call if necessary.

ATTENTION, STAFF!
Elections are Monday Night

Industrial Engineers to Present Summer Institute for Teachers

The University of Massachusetts department of industrial engineering will present a summer institute for college engineering teachers entitled Computer Simulation of Engineering Systems, supported by a $58,400 grant to the University from the National Science Foundation.

Computer simulation of engineering systems is a rapidly expanding technological innovation that uses a computer to simulate and solve problems with variables related in a complex manner. These problems frequently may not lend themselves to mathematical solution, according to Dr. Richard W. Trueswell, head of the UMass department of industrial engineering and director of the institute.

A typical simulation problem would be the simulation of the numbers of toll booth operators required to handle traffic at a toll booth, Dr. Trueswell said. Programmed into a high-speed computer are data representing number of users, average time for each toll-gathering operation, maximum time a motorist will wait in a line before switching, and other variables. The computer uses its tremendous speed and calculating power to simulate in a few minutes the numerical equivalent of months of toll booth use.

As a result, it is possbile to determine the effects of different operating policies without actually trying them at the toll booth.

The object of the eight-week UMass institute is to train the college engineering teacher to teach computer simulation techniques in his own classroom, according to Dr. Trueswell. "The majority of present-day engineering faculty has had little formal training in simulation and certainly little if any in computer simulation. This institute therefore is directed at faculty members who as a result of the training and experience gained at this institute could incorporate computer simulation into the undergraduate program at their own institutions," Dr. Trueswell said.

Weekly Vigil Expands

The Amherst Weekly Vigil for Peace in Vietnam is to be expanded in numbers this coming Sunday by the participation of members of the Meeting School in Rindge, New Hampshire. The Headmaster, George Bliss, will bring a bus-load of students from the school to attend the Vigil during its regular Sunday meeting on the Amherst Town Common from noon to 1:00 P.M.

During the next months, guest participants from other towns have been invited to attend the Amherst Vigil; schools and colleges will send representatives, and special groups will come from some distance to join in this protest against the Vietnam war.

The Amherst Weekly Vigil for Peace, initiated in December, 1966, is unique among the numerous vigils being organized throughout the country in that it continues to attract more than 200 persons each Sunday. It's purpose is a quiet but insistent reminder—to policy makers, officials in other countries, citizens at large, and to the participants themselves — that numbers of people are opposed to the war in Vietnam.

The Weekly Vigil functions without speeches, marching, or placards other than a sign identifying the group. Participants stand quietly, or sit, in meditation, and come and go during the hour. All persons are welcome to join this group for all or part of the hour every Sunday on the Amherst Town Common.

Clip this coupon and cut your fare in half.

If you're a student under 22, you can go half-fare almost anywhere Eastern goes with an Eastern Youth Fare ID card. Simply fill in the coupon. Enclose proof of age, plus a $3.00 check or money order payable to Eastern Airlines.

If everything's in order, we'll send you your Youth Fare ID card entitling you to fly coach on Eastern for half-fare anytime there's a seat available at departure time. The Youth Fare is not available for a few days during the Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter holidays.

Now isn't that a great ID?

EASTERN

We want everyone to fly.

MAIL TO: Eastern Airlines, Dept. 350, 10 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020

Name_____

Address_____

City_____ State_____ Zip Code_____

Date of Birth_____

Enclosed is my $3 check or money order plus a photocopy of:
☐ Birth Certificate
☐ Driver's license
☐ Other (Please explain)

Name of school_____

UMass Debates Amherst College

Before a large audience in SBA-120 on Monday evening, January 9th, the University of Massachusetts met Amherst College in the first of a series of Public Debates sponsored by the University Forensic Society.

The topic of debate for the evening was the proposition: Resolved that the University of Massachusetts should establish a system of parietals.

Representing Amherst College on the affirmative were Michael Schaffer and Andrew Achenbaum; representing UMass on the negative side were Miss Wren Farren, a senior government major, and John Putnam, a junior also majoring in government.

Serving as chairman for the evening was Miss Sandra E. Purnel, Assistant Director of Debate, and Instructor in Speech at the University.

The evening proved to be most informative and enjoyable for all who were present. The public is once again invited to attend the next Public Debate, to be held on Wednesday evening, February 15, 1967.

The proposition, teams, and location will be announced at a later date by Professor Ronald J. Matlon, Director of Debate at the University of Massaachusetts.

MANDATORY PHOTO STAFF MEETING
Feb. 7, 1967 at 7:00 p.m. in COLLEGIAN OFFICE

Help Is In Sight For Educational TV

Educational television has been struggling for existence since the first ETV station was opened 14 years ago, but its financial difficulties may soon be over.

The 124 ETV stations now operating have finally been recognized by President Johnson as "vital national resources," and two major corporations, the Carnegie Corporation and the Ford Foundation, have recently released comprehensive reports on ETV which represent attempts to prod Congress into allocating more funds for the stations.

The Carnegie Commission of Educational Television issued a report proposing that Congress impose a Federal tax on all new TV sets to provide the major source of financing for noncommercial television.

Proceeds of the tax, estimated at $40 million to $100 million ranging from a levy of two per cent to go to five per cent, would be used to underwrite a Corporation for Public Television. The Corporation, a new institution unique to television, would be a nonprofit, nongovernmental organization financed by a mixture of private and federal funds.

The Carnegie Commission, headed by M.I.T. Corporation Chairman James R. Killian, Jr., proposed that the Public Television Corporation have general funding and planning influence while local stations retain and strengthen their autonomy over content of broadcasts.

The commission's report stressed the need for "independent local stations," in contrast with commercial television which, the report said, is directed toward a "mass audience," and depends on "central control and uniformity."

The commission gave major attention to the problem of insulating Public Television from political control. The proposed corporation would support the production by stations and production centers of national, regional and local programs. These programs would be distributed to each local TV station, which would in turn select which programs to broadcast.

The commission also proposed that the corporation, because of its sensitive programming activities, be insulated from annual budgetary and Congressional appropriations review. The corporation would be financed both privately and by the manufacturer's excise tax, to go directly from the U. S. Treasury to the corporation.

The purpose of noncommercial TV, the commission said, should be to stress local and regional diversities in the arts, education and opinion.

Although the Carnegie report concentrated on programs for the general public, university instructional broadcasts were not ignored. The two

(Continued on page 15)

Senator Suggests Action Against Student Group

In a letter to the entire membership of the Michigan State Legislature, Republican Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood has suggested state action against Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

Included in Lockwood's letter is a copy of an SDS working paper, proposing a student syndicalist movement, presented last August at the national SDS convention in Clear Lake, Iowa. Also enclosed is a reprint from the Oct. 24 issue of the New York Times regarding the closing of a Chilean university because of a Marxist-led student revolt.

In his letter, Lockwood represents the syndicate proposal, made by Carl Davidson of the SDS Great Plains Regional Organizing Committee, as the objectives of "one group operating in our state universities."

Davidson's proposal was never adopted as an official SDS policy stand and few SDS members have even seen it, according to the chairman of the University of Michigan SDS, Michael Zweig.

His suggestion has drawn little support from legislators. "A real threat to our society is not SDS," said Sen. Roger Craig, "but people like Lockwood who believe America cannot tolerate divergent points of view. I am very frightened at this type of thing. It is a clear danger to the American concept of freedom of expression."

Republican Senator Gilbert Bursley added, "I don't see the real relevance of all this to our state universities since it is not even an official position of the organization involved. I don't see why we should get all excited about this."

Senate Democratic Minority Leader Raymond Dzendzel, the leading proponent of a speaker ban against communists at state campuses passed last year, made no comment on Lockwood's letter. He said he had not had "time to digest Lockwood's proposal" but would comment next week.

One Lansing source said that he expected no action on the letter. "What possible value would an investigation have other than making the Legislature once again look like a bunch of boobs."

He: Hortense . . . they're playing our song!

She: Yes, Edgar, it brings back those wonderful days when we first met in the lobby of the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel . . . seven years ago.

He: Seven wonderful years . . . and every college vacation since then we've been coming back to New York and the Sheraton-Atlantic. For Thanksgiving, Christmas, Mid-years, Spring vacations . . .

She: And the Sheraton-Atlantic has such convenience to theatres, museums, libraries, Lincoln Center, Fifth Avenue shops, and with such swinging restaurants right in the Hotel and dancing nightly and such low prices . . . no wonder we students always make out best at the Sheraton-Atlantic.

He: You were always such a romantic, darling.

STUDENT RATES:*

Single . . . . . $8.00 per person
Twin . . . . . 6.00 per person
Triple . . . . . 4.50 per person
Quad . . . . . 4.00 per person

Faculty rates are low too:
Single . . . $8 • Twin . . . $12

For reservations contact your Sheraton Student Representative or in Boston dial (617) HU 2-2004 for immediate confirmation of student rates.

*Student rates do not apply March 17-18, 1967.

SHERATON -ATLANTIC HOTEL Broadway and 34th St., N.Y., N.Y. 10001 (212) PE 6-5700
Ralph Hitz Jr., V. P. & Gen. Mgr.

Ten reasons She will want you to take a job at

MCDONNELL

1. McDonnell is a "name" in aerospace . . . a name earned by solid engineering achievement in the current decade. The engineering leadership exemplified by successes in Gemini Spacecraft and the Phantom Fighters lifts your career and shoves it toward success.

2. Stability and security sometimes seem unimportant to young engineers just starting a career. But they are essential and you would be unwise to ignore them. McDonnell has never had a major decline in engineering and professional employment. The Company has grown rapidly in every one of its product areas. It presently has a backlog of more than a billion dollars in production contracts, and yet research is one of the fastest growing activities in the Company.

3. St. Louis is America's "City on the Go". In civic progress, in entertainment, in stores and homes, in industry, in sports and recreation, in education, in construction, in human involvement, St. Louis is the city with a "future" in the center of America.

4. You can best "change the world" by living in a world of change. The climate of St. Louis offers the mental and physical stimulation of four distinct seasons. How can you enjoy a warm fire without a new snowfall for comparison? What other natural phenomena than spring brings such a lift to your spirits? Who has failed to enjoy the comfort of a summer morning or the crisp smell of an autumn afternoon?

5. McDonnell's suburban location allows you to choose from the total spectrum of living locations. You may like the pace of apartment life at the heart of this 2½ million person metropolis. Or you might like the nearby suburbs with small city atmosphere and tree-lined streets. Just as convenient are rural areas, where you can live apart from the hustle yet be close enough to enjoy city-living advantages.

6. Naturally you want to earn your way and you want all you can earn. McDonnell wages are competitive with that of other industries. But being competitive isn't enough after you begin to show your mettle. Then, it is corporate policy to recognize the unique and individual efforts of those who strive for and achieve engineering excellence. Success will stem from a combination of inspiration and perspiration . . . probably 10% of the former and 90% of the latter. But if you're willing to work, you'll never need to worry about your economic and organizational progress at McDonnell.

7. Facilities at McDonnell are second to none in space, advanced aircraft and automation. You'll find organizational and physical working conditions that complement your skills and education. McDonnell testing and development facilities range from man-rated space chambers to Mach 28 wind tunnels, laboratories from microbiology to optics, computers from analog through hybrid to digital. You will find McDonnell is a team organization and nowhere is teamwork as essential as in the aerospace industry. Team organizations keep you from becoming a desk-bound engineer and stimulate the exchange of experience and knowledge so necessary to the development of wisdom.

8. The Gateway to Space is in St. Louis. You'll be working with the experienced men at McDonnell who designed the aircraft and spacecraft that have, for a decade, dominated aerospace technology. McDonnell is strongly oriented toward government contracting. It has demonstrated the talent that provides exceptional national service while returning worthwhile earnings to investors. As the fastest growing segment of our national economy, the Government provides a stable and continuing marketplace for those companies whose organization is oriented toward effectively serving the Nation's needs.

9. You may feel you've had enough education, but you'll soon decide to seek more. The McDonnell College Study Plan encourages self development and offers economic assistance plus adjusted work week benefits for advanced degree studies directly related to your job responsibilities. Many private and public colleges and universities in the area offer applicable programs.

10. Nowhere in industry can a young engineer find more job satisfaction than in contributing to national advancements in air and space. At McDonnell, pride in workmanship is a habit nurtured by the national acclaim that is the reward for success.

For more information about McDonnell as your future and St. Louis as your home, complete this coupon.

Mail This Form To: J. T. Snyder, McDonnell Employment Office, Box 516, St. Louis, Missouri 63166

Name _____ Phone _____ Age _____

Home Address _____ City & State _____ Zip _____

Education: BS _____ (Date) MS _____ (Date) PhD _____ (Date) Major Field: _____

College: _____ I would like to receive application form ☐

MCDONNELL

An Equal Opportunity Employer

UMass Files Application For Educational TV Station

The University of Massachusetts has filed application with the Federal Communications Commission for a license to operate an educational television station, Channel 57, it was announced during intersession by President John W. Lederle.

Activation of the open circuit channel would make available to western Massachusetts elementary schools such programs as "21 Inch Classroom" relayed from Channel 2, WGBH-TV in Boston, and to the general public programs from the National Educational Television network and the Eastern Educational Network. It would also bring to this area of the state future programming relayed by satellite, if proposals currently before the FCC by the Ford Foundation are approved and implemented.

Programs from western Massachusetts will also originate at the UMass station and could be relayed to other parts of the educational television network. It is expected that many of these will be produced in liaison with cultural and educational institutions and agencies in the greater Springfield area.

In making the announcement, President Lederle said, "If all goes well, we could be on the air by next September, or late in 1967."

Senate President Maurice A. Donahue of Holyoke has moved swiftly to insure western Massachusetts communities of this opportunity to have educational television by filing a bill in the Legislature to establish a Television Center at UMass.

The University has also included in its budget to the Executive branch a request for operating funds, with a view to the Governor's including funds for this purpose in the budget.

The application, which has been in preparation for over a year, says, in part, "The University of Massachusetts ETV station will broadcast in the public interest, convenience and necessity. It will endeavor to extend to members of the University's student body and the general public within its service area the educational and cultural resources of the University. It also will strive to bring to its viewers the best cultural and educational programming available from any source, particularly programming which is not available from other stations in the area but for which there exists a demonstrated need.

Engineers say that superior reception of the station is assured as far north as the Vermont-New Hampshire line, east to East Brookfield, south to Hartford, Conn., and west to East Lee. Many areas beyond these parameters will enjoy good reception, particularly if homes have outside antennas.

MANDATORY PHOTO STAFF MEETING
Feb. 7, 1967 at 7:00 p.m. in COLLEGIAN OFFICE

FIVE MINUTES — HATCH PIZZA!

Students on the UMass campus may now enjoy large pizzas in the Hatch.

According to Mr. Russell W. Colvin, Student Union Food Manager, a variety of cheese, hamburg, pepperoni, mushroom, and onion pizzas are now being offered daily from 7 P.M. to closing time.

An order for the above will be ready within approximately 5 minutes!

Massachusetts Registry Raises Driving Age

Massachusetts Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin recently announced that all applicants for motor vehicle driving licenses or motorcycle licenses must have attained the age of 17 years unless they have been certified as having successfully completed an approved driver education course in which case they must be at least 16½. This does not alter the age for applying for a Learner's Permit which is 16.

Learner's Permits issued after July 2, 1966 will be validated for one year from the date of issue if present holders apply for such validation and only three road tests may be taken within that period. When a 16½ year old applicant appears for a driving examination, he must show his driver education certificate to the examiner in order to be tested.

New regulations also govern the operation of motorcycles. On and after June 1, 1967, all original licenses to operate motor vehicles and all renewals will be INVALID for the operation of motorcycles unless the licensee has been licensed by the Registrar to operate motorcycles as provided by law and these rules and regulations. Persons who on June 1, 1967 hold licenses granted by the Registrar endorsed "valid for motorcycles only" or "valid for motorcycles also" will have such licenses renewed in the ordinary course except that the renewal license will be distinctive in color.

Special provisions have been made so that motor vehicle operators now holding a valid motor vehicle license may apply from now through May 31 to have their present license endorsed as "valid for motorcycles also" without payment of additional fees and without further written or road test IF they qualify in any one of the three following ways:

1. If the licensee was the registered owner of a motorcycle during the 12 months immediately preceding the date of application for endorsement and if the Registrar determines that he has had adequate experience in the operation of a motorcycle.

2. If on January 3, 1967 the licensee was and is at the time of application employed in any occupation in which the operation of a motorcycle is involved if the Registrar determines that he has had adequate experience in the operation thereof provided that the employer's certificate is filled out by the applicant's employer.

3. Any other licensee who supplies information in writing which the Registrar requires to determine whether the applicant has had adequate experience in the operation of motorcycles.

Applications for the motorcycle endorsement may be made at any Registry office.

On and after June 1, applicants for licenses to operate motorcycles will be subject to the payment of fees provided by law for the written test and the road test and will be required to take a road test on a two-wheeled vehicle.

The gigantic increase in the use of motorcycles and the mushrooming number of accidents involving motorcycles triggered the Registrar's program for motorcycle operators to test their knowledge of the rules of the road and their ability to safely operate a motorcycle.

Massachusetts becomes the 11th state to require a separate licensing procedure for motorcycle operation, a recommendation recently issued under the Federal Highway Safety Act of 1966.

Graduating seniors who plan to work for graduate degrees and who are members of Phi Eta Sigma, Freshmen Honor Society, should get in touch with Dean Robert S. Hopkins, Jr., Faculty Adviser of UMass chapter, at room number E-26 Machmer Hall.

The National Phi Eta Sigma Fraternity offers six three-hundred dollar scholarships each year on the basis of the student's scholastic record, evidence of creative ability, evidence of financial need, promise of success in chosen field, and personality.

Only members of Phi Eta Sigma are eligible for these gift scholarships.

National deadline for submitting applications is March 1, 1967.

Local deadline for applications is February 15, 1967.

Let's talk eyeball to eyeball

Eyeball to eyeball is the only way to talk about the career you want and the opportunities we can offer in mechanical, chemical, electrical and industrial engineering; also in chemistry and food technology. Career opportunities in Sales Management for you who have majored in economics, business administration, marketing or liberal arts. Arrange to see the Standard Brands representative. Campus Interviews:

STANDARD BRANDS INCORPORATED

Can you make it as a modern banker?

A banker today is a lot more than a money specialist who waits for the community to come to him. He's a well-rounded, imaginative individual who knows how to present a package of financial services to fill his client's needs. He's professionally involved with every kind of business, from government to space exploration to problems of emerging nations. And he can't be pigeonholed because versatility is one of the keys to his success.

He has job status and pride of profession. And his compensation and employee benefits are the envy of many.

His training is thorough and guided by experienced seniors who cushion the rough spots and put him on the high road when he's ready in his own mind and deed.

Before you make your big career decision, take a long look at banking. Ambition is the key, and the best way to check yourself out is to set up a give-and-take session with a Chase Manhattan Banker.

One more thing.

Modern banking is in. It asks for versatile, creative, imaginative men who want to range the community, the nation and the whole wide world.

Discuss the possibilities of a career in modern banking. A Chase Manhattan banker will be on campus soon. Your Placement Office will tell you when and where.

THE CHASE MANHATTAN BANK

National Association/1 Chase Manhattan Plaza, New York, New York 10015 • Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

An Equal Opportunity Employer

UNIVERSITY PRESS TO PUBLISH WORK ON WEBSTER'S CONSTITUTIONAL ROLE

The University of Massachusetts Press has announced the publication of "Daniel Webster and the Supreme Court" by Maurice G. Baxter of Indiana University.

The volume examines the role of Webster in defining the relationship of counsel to the court and discusses Webster's overall contributions to the shaping of the constitutional doctrine.

According to Prof. Baxter, during the formative years when the Supreme Court began interpreting the U.S. Constitution, it relied heavily for guidelines on the lawyers who argued cases before the court. Webster, "defender of the Constitution," was among the most prolific and persuasive of these lawyers and there were few precedent-making cases in which he did not take part.

As a staunch nationalist and firm protector of property rights, Webster particularly influenced the bench in its application of commerce and contract clauses.

A teaching and research specialist in 19th Century American constitutional and political history Prof. Baxter is the author of "Orville Brown" (1957) and "The Teaching of American History in High Schools" (1964) and of numerous articles in historical journals.

He is presently an associate professor of history at Indiana University and associate editor of the Journal of American History.

High School Teachers Join Biology Research Program

A research participation program for high school teachers of biology will be sponsored by the zoology department of the University of Massachusetts under a $9550 National Science Foundation grant next summer.

The program will offer training in new techniques, extensive reading in current literature and contact with faculty interested in the high school teacher and his students. It is limited to four teachers.

Participating UMass faculty and their areas of research interest are Dr. Donald Fairbairn, biochemistry and physiology of parasites; Dr. William R. Harvey, ion transport mechanisms; Dr. Yoshihiro Kato, experimental embryology; Dr. William B. Nutting invertebrate biology; Dr. James G. Snedecor, hormonal control of carbohydrate metabolism; and Dr. Dana P. Snyder, morphology and ecology of the eastern chipmunk.

Chorus Rehearsal

Spring semester Chorus activities for the University Chorus will begin with a "get acquainted rehearsal" on Thursday, Feb. 2, 7 p.m. at Skinner Auditorium. Thereafter the Chorus will meet Wednesdays from 4:40 - 6 p.m. and Thursdays from 7 - 9 p.m.

Students may register for Chorus—Music 062—on registration day or during the following week. The twenty - five voice Girls' Choir also invites Chorus sopranos and altos to audition for membership in this select group.

The plans include the performance of a variety of traditional and contemporary works in concerts on and off campus.

Regionalism to Be Topic of Government Research Paper

The concept of regionalism — the growing tendency of governments to "regionalize" for a variety of reasons—is critically examined in a new publication by the University of Massachusetts Bureau of Government Research.

Consisting of two essays written by Dr. Irving Howards, bureau director, and Edwin A. Gere, Jr., assistant director, the 16-page booklet, "Some Notes on Regionalism with Particular Reference to New England," deals with a trend that, in the words of the authors, is assuming "an increasing significance," especially in New England.

Regionalism, roughly, is categorization or subdivision of areas according to various criteria, such as political, cultural or economic. New England, for example, has long been viewed as as "region" in the national context.

In application, regionalism has several uses.

The federal government uses it to administer many programs, such as the poverty program in Appalachia. Other problems, for example, those of water pollution control and area recreation development, are being pursued with an eye to the geographic basis which make them regional questions.

While agreeing that there is definitely a need for the various subdivisions in New England to work together, the authors deliberately challenge the concept of a "New England region" because, "we feel that if we're going to use the concept, we should know its limitations."

The pilot study was undertaken with the anticipation of identifying, in future studies, the most common and prevalent ingredients of regionalism in order to discover valid guidelines for the successful, practical application of the regional concept in government.

The essays explore two major arguments concerning regionalism: First, the authors examine the idea that a region is such simply because people think it is. This co-called "psychological regionalism," they say, has its origins largely in political boundary lines and is probably the most prevalent type of regionalism.

Second, they study the argument that the greater the number of regional factors present in a cooperative regional enterprise, the greater is the likelihood of success.

The authors conclude that "The evidence preponderantly suggests that one cannot automatically consider New England a region if by this one means an area possessing a degree of commonness so overwhelming that joint activities may be implemented with a minimal amount of difficulty."

This implies, they say, "that successful joint ventures, in order to overcome obstacles to regional cooperation, must organize so that the greatest number of similarities possible exist as a basis for the compact.

Furthermore, such enterprises much organized around needs which are so fundamental that units involved are willing not only to 'cooperate' but actively to commit their resources."

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he received his B. A., M. A. and Ph. D. degrees, Dr. Howards was on the faculty of the department of government at Southern Illinois University from 1956 to 1965, and served as director of the Public Affairs Research Bureau there from 1963 until his appointment to the UMass staff in September, 1965.

Past research positions include affiliations with the University of Illinois and with the government of Illinois. He has written or been co-author of nearly 20 books and articles dealing with taxation procedures, the legislative process and state, local and county governments.

A 1948 graduate of Alfred University, Prof. Gere received an M.A. degree from Pennsylvania State University in 1956 and is presently a candidate for a Ph.D. from the State University of New York where he is writing his dissertation on regional interstate cooperation in New England.

He was appointed to the U-Mass staff in 1957, having previously served as acting director of the Institute of Public Service at the University of Connecticut. He has published articles and booklets on state and local taxation, social security, municipal government and the New England Town Meeting.

ENGINEERS, SCIENTISTS (all degree levels)

WOULDN'T YOU RATHER BE WITH NO. 1?
SEE US ON CAMPUS FEB. 9 and 10.

Come see how you fit in with the family of companies that gives your career all the room in the world to grow.

Humble Oil & Refining Company-- Provides more petroleum energy to this nation than any other domestic oil company—literally No. 1—America's Leading Energy Company!

Enjay Chemical Company-- One of the ten largest chemical companies in the United States. As part of an industry marked by rapid growth, Enjay offers unusually strong advancement opportunities.

Esso Production Research Company-- Analysis and design work for drilling and production of natural gas and liquids, reservoir engineering using computers.

Esso Research and Engineering Company-- Basic and exploratory research and development of products and processes, engineering research and process design, mathematical research.

Let us tell you about the specific opportunities we have for you. The No. 1 family of companies offers a variety of rewarding careers to scientists and chemical, mechanical, petroleum, electrical and civil engineers at all degree levels. Our activities include oil and gas exploration and production; and manufacturing, transportation and marketing of petroleum and petrochemical products—as well as the management of all these.

You can always take a smaller job. But only now, at the start of your work in industry, are there so many opportunities for a lifetime career with No. 1.

Why not try us on for size—make a date now with your placement office for an interview.

PLANS FOR PROGRESS COMPANIES AND EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYERS.

COLLEGIANS
May Be Picked Up
at Lobby Counter

Rest Home Established For Cambridge Students

Students at Cambridge University have proposed the establishment of a rest home where they can go to get away from the stresses of university life.

The suggestion is part of a major mental health campaign launched at the British university following two student suicides in the first weeks of the autumn term.

The suicide problem seems endemic to higher education. A Canadian psychiatrist said recently that the suicide rate among university students is more than twice as high as that among non-students of the same age.

Dr. C. J. Schwartz, a professor at the University of British Columbia, estimated that twenty-six out of every 100,000 university and college students try to kill themselves each year. In a similar age group of the general population, the rate is eleven out of 100,000, he said.

A recent article in a U. S. magazine, Moderator, added to the grim statistics predicting that from ten to twenty out of every 100,000 college students will succeed at suicide this year.

Student Refuses Deferment; Calls It 'Morally Wrong'

Why would a young man in the relative security of college voluntarily give up the draft deferment to which he is entitled?

Henry Drummonds, University of Oregon student body president, says he refused his because it is "morally wrong for young working class men to be conscripted to fight and perhaps die in a major war while college students continue to enjoy their civilian lives."

Drummonds decided at the beginning of the year that he could no longer accept his deferment "in good conscience."

So he told the University not to send in any information on his student status to his draft board. He was promptly reclassified I-A.

He has since had a pre-induction physical and will probably be called in either January or February.

Reactions to his decision were mixed.

The day after Drummonds announced what he had done, about 20 law students held a rally in which they made fun of him. "Give 'em hell, Hank," they cheered, concluding with a spotty rendition of "Onward Henry Drummonds."

Perhaps the most incongruous reactions were letters in the local newspaper praising him for his patriotism and willingness to fight for his country.

"I am not a super-patriot," Drummonds says. He has strongly opposed the war, calling it "misguided." During his campaign for student body president, he called American foreign policy "bankrupt."

"I'm scared," he says. "I don't want to kill people in a war which is wrong."

An activist student body president, he is reluctant to leave school in the middle of his term. Drummonds has fought for student control of the spending of student fees, the use of student evaluations of courses in promotion and tenure decisions and several student - originated changes in the curriculum. He would like to see those projects completed before he leaves.

"I just hope they'll wait till March," he wishes.

Yet Drummonds says he intends to stand by his decision.

"As long as my government and society must call upon young Americans to kill and be killed," he says, "I cannot in good faith continue to accept an exemption from that burden."

DRAFT SYMPOSIUM

On Saturday, February 18, 1967, a Symposium on 'The Draft: Problem For A Democratic Society' will take place in Bowker Auditorium. A large and varied regional participation is expected. In addition to expert panel speakers who will critically discuss the problem of the Draft, there will be workshop discussions set up to provide the opportunity for debate and examination of problems raised.

For those interested in helping with publicity—distribution of leaflets, posters, communications, etc.—there will be an open meeting of the Draft Symposium Committee, Friday at 5:00 P.M. in the Worcester Room of the Student Union.

TICKETS REQUIRED FOR FREE BUS PASSENGERS

The Amherst Chamber of Commerce has announced that, effective immediately, students using the Free Bus service will be required to present tickets upon boarding the bus for the trip from Amherst to the University of Massachusetts campus.

The tickets may be obtained free of charge, with no purchase required, at any sponsoring place of business. All such businesses display a distinctive yellow and black "Free Bus Sponsor" emblem, and these stores have already received their stock of tickets.

The bus will continue to operate between 3:45 and 7:45 P.M. on Thursdays, and 11:15 A.M. and 5:15 P.M. on Saturdays, except during exam periods and holidays. No ticket will be needed for the ride into town, which commence on the four and the half-hour.

Phi Tau Sigma Announces Second $100 Essay Contest

The University of Massachusetts Chapter of Phi Tau Sigma, food science honorary, has announced its second annual $100 Four-College essay contest. This year's topic is "The Role of Institutions of Higher Education in the Solution of World Food Problems."

The contest is open to any undergraduate at Amherst, Mount Holyoke and Smith Colleges and the University. Entries must be from 2000 to 4000 words with no more than 5 per cent in quotations and must be the original work of the entrant. All must be received, typed in triplicate, no later than March 1.

Essays will be judged by a committee of three and all entries become the property of Phi Tau Sigma, to be published or made public with credit of authorship at the discretion of the Phi Tau Sigma executive committee.

The society is dedicated to excellence in the study of food science and is sponsoring the contest to draw attention to the great importance of an intelligent use of food resources in the modern world.

Entries may be submitted to Dr. W. M. Hunting, Phi Tau Sigma, Chenoweth Laboratory, University of Massachusetts, Amherst 01002.

Applications Available For Summer at Freiburg

The University of Massachusetts announced today that applications are being received for the 1967-68 program of the UMass Atlantic Studies Center at the University of Freiburg in Germany.

In residence now at the Freiburg center are Dr. Fred C. Ellert, UMass professor of German and Dr. Marc L. Ratner, UMass assistant professor of English. Studies focus on the Atlantic Community as a central comparative theme in six disciplines. Two-thirds of the course work is within the regular Freiburg University curriculum and the remainder is with the resident UMass staff.

An outstanding academic record and a thorough knowledge of German are the major criteria for selection. Inquiries should be addressed to the Department of Germanic Languages and Literature, UMass, Amherst, Mass.

- Notices -

J.F.K. LOWER CULTURAL AFFAIRS
On Feb. 6, at 8:00 P.M. on 5th floor lounge there will be an informal debate on Vietnam.

ON-CAMPUS ECUMENICAL WORSHIP
At 10:30 A.M. every Sunday in Mahar Auditorium there will be programs sponsored by the Campus Worship Committee and the United Christian Foundation. Theme for Feb. 5th is "The Student at UMass in Worship: Feb. 1967".

UNIVERSITY REFORM COMMITTEE
On Friday, Feb. 3, at 6:00 P.M. in Norfolk Room, S.U. there will be an important meeting. Co-chairmen Story and Wilfong will discuss models. All members urged to attend.

LOCAL 1776 AFSCME AFL-CIO
On Feb. 3 at 7:00 P.M. in Nantucket Room, S.U. there will be the regular monthly meeting.

OUTING CLUB
There will be a general business meeting Monday, Feb. 6, in Middlesex Room at 6:30. Old and new members welcome.

NURSING STUDENT-FACULTY ACTIVITIES
On Feb. 6, from 7:30-9:30 at WOPE Gym, there will be activities night for Nursing students. Badminton, volleyball, basketball, swimming are planned. Refreshments will be served. Bring sneakers.

RELIGIOUS ASSOCIATION FORUM
Theme—Suicide: In Search of Life. On Tues., Feb. 7 at 4:30 P.M. in Sage Aud., at Smith College the theater department will present Sartre's play, "No Exit". Selected readings will be heard after the play.

At 7:30 there will be a panel discussion with Mr. Anthony Towne, Literary Critic, Mr. Thayer Greene, Jungian Analyst, Rev. Alvin Carmines, who has written for the N.Y. Times, Mr. Wm. Meredith, Professor of English, Connecticut College for Women, and one of 12 Chancellors of the American Academy of Poets. Moderator is Rev. Richard Unsworth, Chapiain at Smith College.

LOST:
1966 Class Ring lost in back of South Commons on Sunday, Jan. 8. Please contact Vinny Voci, 117 Chadbourne.

1968 Class ring with initials P.CM.—BBA. APO engraved on stone. Lost in Morrill before Christmas. 50% value reward—no questions asked. Turn in at S.U. Bus ticket window. If pawned, please send ticket.

FOUND:
Narraganset Regional Class ring, in lobby of J.F.K. Call Tom 6-7773.

Blue Bicycle. Owner please call 549-1522 and identify.

PINNINGS:
Carol Stark, class '69, G.S.S., to Glen More, class of '67, A.P.O.

Pat Sheahan, class of '69, Field, to David Perry, class of '69, Phi Mu Delta.

Ellen Souza, class of '69, Pi Phi, to Gene Paltrineri, class of '69, Phi Mu Delta.

Shari Nanartonis, class of '68, KKG, to Kirk Conover, class of '69, Delta Upsilon.

Victoria Neumeier, class of '70, Van Meter North to Richard A. Doyon, class of '71, Northeastern University.

Mary Dugan, class of '68, Sigma Sigma Sigma, to Douglas Nickerson, class of '67, North Hadley, Mass.

Gail Silva, class of '69, Sigma Sigma Sigma, to Cadet Wayne E. McSwiggan, class of '69, U.S.M.A. West Point.

Sheila Renaud, class of '69, Sigma Sigma Sigma, to Tad Archambauld, class of '68, Boston College.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Patricia A. Kuiczyk, class of '68, Mary Lyon to David W. Herman, Cleveland, Ohio.

Dariene Marlow, class of '68, Mary Lyon to Gerald B. Wheeler, Jr., United States Air Force.

Susan Whitaker, class of '68, Iota Gamma Upsilon, to John Wickline, Springfield, Mass.

Betsy Milnes, Haverhill, Mass., to Robert B. Moore, class of '69, John Adams House.

Cathie Dimmick, class of '69, Sigma Sigma Sigma, to Lewis E. Fontaine, class of '69 James House.

Jeanne Madore, Aurora, Colorado, to William Whittam, class of '69, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Wendy Werthamer, class of '69, Melville, to Robert Oppenheimer, class of '68, Webster.

SUMMER JOBS UNDER WORK STUDY

Students who are presently working under the Federal Work Study Program and students who think they might also qualify for the program should see Mr. Siegrist in the Placement Office in reference to obtaining a summer job with a non-profit organization in their community.

There are a limited number of these jobs available and eligibility is based on the student's financial need as determined by the Placement & Financial Aid Office which is located in Machmer Hall.

• PIONEER VALLEY •
SHOE FACTORY OUTLET
EAST MAIN ST. "In The Ware Industries Yard" WARE, MASS.
First Quality Shoes for the Entire Family at Factory Prices—In Our Factory Store

Fantastic Values in our Men's and Boys' Dept.
Prices from $3.87
to $10.87
Hand-sewn Loafers
Winged tip shoes
Casuals, Pigskin, etc.

SNEAKERS
$2.87-$3.87

DYEABLE SHOES
PEAU or SATIN
$3.87 & $4.87 pr.
(tinted free)

WOMEN'S DRESS SHOES
STACK HEELS — SETBACK — BLOCK HEELS
HIGH & MID-HEELS — FLATS —LOAFERS
$4.87 to $5.87
SNEAKERS $2.87
COME SEE FOR YOURSELF AND SAVE
Route 9—30 min. from Amherst
Open Mon. thru Sat. 9 to 5

COME TO MIDDLE EARTH!
J. R. R. TOLKIEN'S wonderful world of fantasy
Read
THE HOBBIT
"The Lord of the Rings" Trilogy
THE FELLOWSHIP OF THE RING
THE TWO TOWERS
THE RETURN OF THE KING
and
THE TOLKIEN READER
95c each wherever
BALLANTINE BOOKS
are sold

Soprano and Pianist Will Perform At Faculty Recital Series

Soprano Dorothy Ornest and pianist Robert Stern of the University of Massachusetts will present a recital of songs Wednesday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m. in Bartlett Auditorium.

Sixth in this season's UMass music department faculty recital series, the program is open to the public without charge.

Featured will be a first performance of three songs by Dr. Stern, part of a work in progress titled "Recuerdos Mexicanos," (Rememberances of Mexico). The songs are based on three Mexican philosophical poems, one by the contemporary poet Jaime Torres Bodet, one Aztec and one Mayan.

Also on the program are four songs by Handel, "a Maja y el Ruisenor" by Granados and 11 Brahms lieder.

Miss Ornest has sung with the New York Philharmonic, the New York Oratorio Society, the Detroit Symphony, the Rochester Philharmonic and the Springfield and Pioneer Valley Symphonies. She has sung lead roles with the Amherst Community Opera and has performed in oratories at neighboring colleges and other New England schools.

Dr. Stern is a University of Rochester graduate with M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the Eastman School of Music. His compositions have been performed in this country and Europe.

He has won a number of composition awards and citations, including a $500 Edward B. Benjamin first prize in 1956, a Gershwin Memorial prize of $100 and honorable mention in 1957, and a special citation at the Spoleto, Italy, Festival of Two Worlds in 1964.

Soprano Dorothy Ornest and pianist Robert Stern rehearse for their recital of songs.

Grad Student Sees Need For New Activist Group

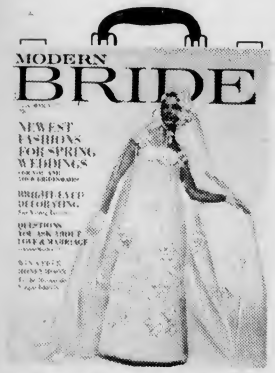
"There is a need for an activist movement on the left to promote social, economic, and political equality. There is a need for such a group on this campus."

For these reasons, says Richard Shortt, a graduate student at the University, he and several other students are issuing a call for an open meeting to form a new radical movement on campus.

According to a leaflet to be distributed on campus, the group is being formed: To initiate new action in opposition to the war in Vietnam and to re-open dialogue on that issue at UMass;

To create a base for democracy in the University and the Community;

To examine our society critically so that action will produce fruitful change.



The first meeting will be held in Machmer W22 at 8:30 on Tuesday, February 7. All interested people are invited to attend.

COLLEGIAN STAFF
Don't forget elections Monday night.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS

There will be a bus Saturday, Feb. 24, going on Belchertown State School for all those who are interested in working with the mentally retarded. No experience is necessary. Volunteers are needed to get the students out of their buildings and to organize activities for them. Activities range from going for a walk to running a record-hop. There are students at the school from nursery age to over 60. Volunteers have their choice of who they want to work with, and what they want to do. There will be an orientation to the program and a tour of the school this Saturday. Bus leaves North Commons Parking lot at 1:20 and stops at Newman Center at 1:25.

Before you plan your honeymoon
–check in with

MODERN BRIDE

The big Spring issue of MODERN BRIDE is a honeymoon special—with complete information on hotel living for newlyweds. You'll also get the bride's-eye view of special honeymoon delights from the Pocono Mountains to the Virgin Islands . . . learn the answers to the questions college girls ask most about marriage . . . preview heavenly bridal and trousseau fashions . . . AND learn how you can win a lavish, paid/for honeymoon in romantic St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

JUST 75¢—ASK ABOUT THE SPECIAL HALF-PRICE STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION RATE AVAILABLE THROUGH COLLEGE BOOKSTORES

LOOK!
PIZZA in the HATCH!
Large size – Delicious!

Cheese	85c	Half	45c
Onion	1.00	Half	55c
Hamburg	1.10	Half	60c
Pepperoni	1.20	Half	70c
Mushroom	1.20	Half	70c

Any combination of 2 . . . . . $1.45
Any combination of 3 . . . . . 1.60
Canned coke 15c

5 MINUTE SERVING TIME!
Served 7 p.m. to closing — TAKE OUT SERVICE

FREE

Shuttle Bus service to Amherst

To enable the VW owner to have his Volkswagen serviced by the proper factory trained experts. For details, call us.

NORTHAMPTON MOTORS, Inc.

YOUR AUTHORIZED VOLKSWAGEN DEALER
246 King St. Northampton
Open eves. til 9 584-8620
Service is the heart of our business

Collegian Advertising Pays

COMING SOON
"THE UNSAVERY"
and
"THE PLAYGIRLS"

SEMESTER BREAK HOLIDAY!

NOVICE INN & MOTEL
MT. SNOW, VERMONT
The swingingest inn this side of St. Moritz. 2 min. from Mt. Snow lifts at W. Dover, Vt. Ski-weeks: Sunday buffet thru Friday breakfast at Novice Inn, 5 days of lift tickets and daily ski lesson at Mt. Snow . . . from $70 in dorms to $95 for room with private bath. Daily midweek rates from $7 in dorms to $12 for rooms with private bath. Weekends $9-$11 dorms; to $15 room with private bath. Write for color brochure: W. Dover 15, Vt. or phone 802 464-8884.

MOUNTAIN PARK
RTE. 5 HOLYOKE — GO WHERE THE ACTION IS
EVERY SAT. 8 P.M.
COLLEGE MIXER
2 Bands - Monty & Specialties
Tues., Feb. 21 — In Person
ERIC BURDON & The ANIMALS

Board of Trustees Announces Approval of Sabbatical Leaves

The University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees has approved sabbatical leaves for 36 faculty members for the 1967-68 academic year, University Provost Oswald Tippo has announced.

By academic tradition, a sabbatical leave is a period granted a faculty member relieving him from his University teaching responsibilities and freeing him for independent study, research and writing.

Most leaves granted by the trustees will involve travel. Twenty - four faculty members will visit such places as Japan, South America, Europe and the Middle East to complete their intended projects, while an additional 10 sabbaticals will involve extensive travel in the United States. Two leaves will be spent in Amherst completing research and compiling material for publication.

Topping the list again this year as the department with the most members granted sabbaticals is the English department.

The five members of the English faculty who will be on leave are: Prof. Howard O. Brogan, who will spend a year in New Haven, New York and London completing two books on English verse satire; Prof. Sidney Kaplan, who contemplates spending a year either in New England completing a documentary history of the Shays Rebellion, or in Europe for study dealing with the image of the Negro in early European art; Richard Haven, associate professor, who will spend a year collecting materials on Coleridge and Robert Balmanno in England; Harold T. McCarthy, associate professor, who will study a year in Rome on fiction (based on Europe) by major American writers; and Leonta Horrigan, assistant professor, whose travels during the spring semester (1968) will take her to England and throughout New England to study writers with backgrounds that include medical training.

Ferenc Vali, professor of government, has been granted a year to study Turkish foreign policy since 1945 in Western Europe and Turkey.

Lewis Mainzer, associate professor of government, will spend his first-semester leave in Amherst, completing a book on American public service.

Associate professor of speech Inez Hegarty will spend a year in South America studying communication disorders in an underprivileged country, while Doris Abramson, assistant professor of speech, will spend the year in this country working on a book of plays by Negro playwrights and a bibliography of dramatic works by American Negro authors.

John F. Townsend, assistant professor of art, has been granted a leave for the spring semester to study optical problems in sculptural reliefs, to be conducted in Amherst. Trevor Robinson, associate professor of biochemistry, will spend the same semester at the University of Ottawa, Can., in biochemical research, while botany professor Robert B. Livingston will spend that semester in Europe doing research on the plant "Juniperus."

In the chemistry department, Louis A. Carpino, associate professor, will investigate the electronic nature of the vinylene sulfones in Europe for a year, and John W. George, associate professor, will conduct research in inorganic chemistry at the University of Bergen, Norway, also for a year.

A study of the methods of labor dispute settlement in an attempt to evaluate existing and proposed legislation will be undertaken by John L. Blackman, associate professor of economics, during the first semester, to be spent in Washington, D. C., and Europe.

Ward S. Motts, associate professor of geology, will journey to the Southwest United States for the year to study certain geological phenomena in that region, and Terence Burke, assistant professor of geography, will be in Northern Ireland for the year studying the effects of a superimposed international boundary on land use and population changes.

Two members of the history faculty have also been granted leaves. Associate professor Winfred Bernhard will conduct research and teach early American history in Germany or Austria for the year, while Cecil Cody, assistant professor, will spend the spring semester in Washington, D.C., conducting research on colonial penetration by the Japanese in the Philippines from 1903 to 1945.

Joerg Schaefer, assistant professor of German, will be in Germany for a year studying late medieval poetry and the influence of Latin literature of the Middle Ages on German literature.

Robert Feldman, professor of psychology, will investigate stress - induced behavior for a year in Europe; Sumner Greenfield, assiciate professor of Romance languages, intends to study Spanish Apant-Garde theater for a year in Spain; and John Manfredi, associate professor of sociology, will spend a year in Rome preparing a monograph on contemporary Italian sociology.

Associate Professor of zoology William Harvey will spend a year at Cambridge, Eng., continuing research on ion regulation in insects; Robert L. Rivers, associate professor of general business and finance, will visit Washington, D. C., and other cities during the second semester studying the effects of changes in transit company managements on labor contracts; Harriet J. Wright, associate professor of nutrition and food, will conduct advanced graduate study in nutrition at Harvard University for 11 months; and Karol S. Wisnieski, assistant professor of public health, will spend the year studying non - communicable diseases at the Harvard School of Public Health.

From the School of Engineering, Charles R. Bissey, assistant professor, will spend the year completing his doctorate in civil engineering; and Edward J. Rising, associate professor, will study techniques of industrial engineering for a year at the Middle East Technical University in Ankara, Turkey.

Sabbaticals granted to faculty members from the College of Agriculture include: William S. Mueller, associate professor of environmental science, five and a half months at Oregon State Univ. and elsewhere for research on iron bacteria; Ellsworth W. Bell, professor of agricultural and food economics, 11 months at Hokkaido Univ., Japan, studying cooperative marketing of dairy products; Russell E. Smith, professor of veterinary and animal sciences, five and a half months in Copenhagen, Denmark, studying infectious diseases that affect fertility; Donald L. Mader, associate professor of forestry and wildlife management, a similar period to be spent at the University of Maryland in completion of a doctoral program; Tom S. Hamilton, Jr., assistant professor of landscape architecture, the first semester in Iowa and elsewhere for research on the identification and value of ornamental crab apples; and Robert L. Kent, Jr., assistant professor of landscape architecture, will spend the spring semester in Europe, Mexico, Canada and elsewhere collecting data and visual presentations for classroom use.

Student Food Boycotts

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 3 (CPS) — Taking a hint from last fall's housewives' boycotts of supermarkets, students have begun to demand power to determine the cost of food in college cafeterias.

Students at Hunter College in New York City and at San Francisco held successful boycotts of their campus dining services last month to protest rising prices.

After weeks of negotiations with cafeteria administrators, Hunter students broke off talks with the charge that "the cafeteria management appears only to hold the students in contempt."

They claimed that the food service, supposed to be a non-profit organization, was actually operating at a profit and was charging higher prices than at other New York City college cafeterias.

After three days of boycots against the cafeteria, the students were given across-the-board price reductions, and the administration agreed to subsidize any financial loss the cafeteria might incur. A student-faculty "Kitchen Cabinet" was also formed to examine food service policy.

"We are actually running our own cafeteria," committee member Al Handel said. "This was our ultimate goal—to have students determine cafeteria prices and policy."

Cafeteria directors at San Francisco State College faced a two-front battle, as students protested a 15% increase in food prices and a union of student cafeteria employees demanded a hike in hourly wages.

The employees got their raise, but students carried out a Nine-day Students for a Democratic Society-led boycott when the cafeteria's governing board refused to accept their demands for a 20% price reduction.

In an unofficial vote, students also demanded majority representation on the food service's managing board. At present, the board includes five students, two faculty members, and three administration representatives.

Since the end of Christmas vacation, students have been eating at the cafeteria, while the boycott committee seeks to organize an official vote on the organization of the cafeteria's managing board. The cafeteria management is conducting a study of prices, student attitudes, and possibilities for change.

The demand for "food power" has also spread to Canada. Thirty University of Windsor students picketed the cafeteria after one-third of the resident students were stricken with attacks of nausea and dizziness.

The picketers charged that insufficient care was used in preparing cafeteria food. Medical authorities were unable, however, to pinpoint the cause of the outbreak of student illness.

GASKET

EDUCATIONAL TV . . .

(Continued from page 9)

branches of the medium have to be regarded as an entity, the report said.

The commission suggested that "substantial federal support" be appropriated for instructional TV as well as to sponsor "extensive and innovative studies" to develop the quality of the programs. The commission criticized the "deficiencies of public education itself" for failure to set up effective instructional programs. Several universities, however, have reported success in classroom TV experiments as well as in interinstitutional cooperation.

An Educational Communications System is being formulated by several midwestern universities as a first step toward a nucleus of a nationwide institutional network for research activities, instruction, continuing education, and administrative cooperation.

There are now 35 stations located on university campuses serving well over 400 colleges. A survey taken in 1964 by Stanford University's Institute for Communications Research predicted that by 1971 every college and university in this country would have at least one closed-circuit television.

BUDGET NOTICE

All R.S.O. organizations who anticipate the need for a Senate Budget for next year must contact the Senate Budgets Committee before Mar. 1 and set up an appointment with the committee to consider their financial needs. This is especially relevant to groups that received emergency funds from the Finance Committee and will need similar funds next year. Contact Frank Verock or leave a message in his mailbox in the Student Senate Office.

Applications for

SWAP COMMITTEE

available in the R.S.O. Office

Monday, February 6

Applications must be returned by Feb. 10

Freshman Fraternity Convocation

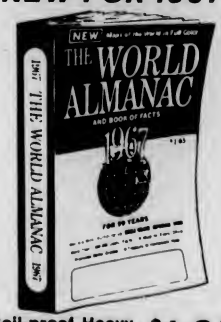
and

Round Robbins

Sunday, Feb. 5, at 1:30 p.m.

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

Rush: Feb. 6-16



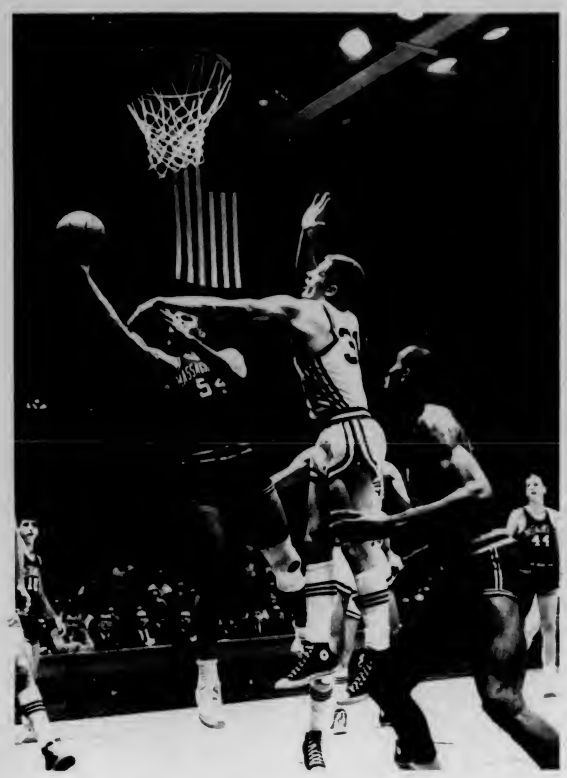
Pledge Chapel Feb. 17, 5:30-7:30 in Memorial Hall

Registration cards for all freshmen with 2.0 cumes will be given out at the convocation.

THESE CARDS MUST BE CARRIED AT ALL TIMES DURING RUSH.

ON SALE NOW

NEW FOR 1967



Soil-proof Heavy paper Binding $1.65

Deluxe Cloth-bound Edition $2.75

at all book stores or newsstands.

A Million Facts at Your Fingertips

DRAMA IN MID-AIR—Connecticut's Bill Holowaty (31) gets way up in the air,, but he can't block a lay-up by the Redmen's Tim Edwards in the first half at Storrs.

TRACK SQUAD . . .

(Continued from page 20)

The Redmen played a major part in the onslaught. The mile relay team of Anderson, Gonzales, Bowman and Hoss set a new school mark with a time of 3:26.8, finishing second to Rochester.

John Anderson again failed to beat Central Connecticut State's John Fitzpatrick, his K of C conqueror. Nevertheless, his time of 49.9 in the 440 enabled him to finish ahead of everyone else in this highly - ranked event. The freshmen competed in three events and broke three records for a perfect day. The mile relay team of Pete Seward, Steve Chase, Bob Mallon, and Dave Evans survived a mishap in the baton pass to finish first with a record time of 3:30.5. This was two seconds faster than the old mark.

Mark Lefever won his heat in the hurdles with a time of six seconds flat for another school record. One of Milt Morin's old records was smashed as Ed Arcaro put the shot 49 feet 9 inches. This broke the record by over five feet. In other action UMass graduate student John Medeiros finished third in the broad jump.

Wednesday, amid the bustle of the first day of classes, the hardy souls of the UMass track club ventured to M.I.T. for the New England Invitational A.A.U. meet. Carpenter finished third in the mile. Senior weight thrower Courtland Basset finished fourth in his specialty while the freshmen mile relay team finished third. Medeiros won the board jump with an excellent effort of almost 22 feet.

Frosh Bow to Books, Host Springfield Sat.

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

The UMass freshmen resume their schedule Saturday night against the Springfield College yearlings at 6 p.m. at Curry Hicks.

The frosh rang up a 6-2 record over the first half of the season, but after a tough battle with the books, they now face the tougher side of their slate without the services of five men who together were averaging over 30 points per game and hauling down 50 per cent of the team's rebounds.

Saturday night's revamped lineup will have Ray Ellerbrook, the team's leading scorer, and Andy Rubin in the backcourt. Jack Gallagher and Dick Samuelson, both averaging double figures, will be two of the men up front. The other starter could be either Kevin Boisjolie or Steve Shea.

Springfield's freshmen are led by George Yelverton, a 6'3 forward from Bayonne, N. J. Yelverton is averaging over 20 points a game and is also a fine defensive player. Guard Greg Ziogas from Bristol, Conn., handles the playmaking duties for the Maroons.

In the Little Redmen's last outing Dick Samuelson's 21 points paced UMass to an 89-56 rout of Worcester Industrial Technical Institute.

Basketball Statistics

	WON 8	LOST 7			YANCON	W 5	L 1
	FG	FGA	PCT	FT	FTA	PCT	REB	AVE	PF	AST	PTS	AVE
Tindall	102	200	.510	66	96	.688	159	10.6	53	28	270	18.0
Edwards	80	183	.437	46	71	.648	182	12.1	55	34	206	13.7
Lisack	59	111	.532	24	29	.828	20	1.3	30	11	142	9.5
Murphy	39	82	.463	31	39	.795	12	0.8	29	30	107	7.6
DiSarcina	31	87	.356	45	67	.672	53	3.5	56	84	107	7.1
Stewart	37	80	.463	25	31	.806	61	4.1	39	27	99	6.6
Rand	20	36	.556	16	25	.640	36	3.0	22	5	56	4.7
Gayeska	10	27	.370	9	16	.563	27	2.0	25	6	29	2.2
Perkins	5	8	.625	2	3	.667	5	0.7	7	1	12	1.7
Gasperack	8	19	.421	3	6	.500	22	1.7	7	6	19	1.5
Girotti	1	4	.250	2	3	.667	6	1.0	5	1	4	0.6
Meola	1	5	.200	0	2	.000	0		8	1	2	0.3
Dreyer	0	0		0	0		0		0	0	0	..0.0
Nowakowski	0	1	.000	0	0		0		0	0	0	0.0
UMASS TOTALS	398	861	.462	275	395	.696	682	45.4	339	238	1071	71.4
Opposition	884	932	.412	284	427	.665	692	39.5	288		1052	70.1

SBA Offers Doctoral Program

The University of Massachusetts has become the first public institution in New York to offer a doctoral program in its School of Business Administration.

Announcement of the doctor of philosophy program was made by Dr. H. B. Kirshen, dean of the school. The UMass Board of Trustees has authorized the Ph.D. program to begin in September of 1967.

The program is designed primarily for those planning a teaching career and those aiming for careers in industry, consulting firms, research institutes and public agencies.

Requirements include a two-year residency of formal course study involving a minimum of 48 credit hours, with a general core course program the first year and a second year course of study in one of nine major fields.

The first year program includes philosophical foundations of business administration, business organization and administrative theory, management systems, decision models in business administration, research methods in business administration, two electives in economics and one elective in social science other than economics.

The second year offers the option of speicalizing in any one of the following nine fields: business and its environment; information and control system; organizational and administrative behavior; quantitative management science; accounting; finance; industrial and personnel relations; marketing, and production.

Dissertation and foreign language requirements conform to University-wide Ph.D. standards; admission to candidacy for the Ph.D. degree requires the passing of written and oral examinations. Details on admission requirements are available from the UMass Graduate School.

Only two other New England institutions—Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—now offer doctoral programs in business administration. The UMass program has been instituted to accommodate the growing number of qualified students seeking convenient and economical access to a publicly-supported Ph.D. program.

Founded in 1948, the UMass school received its undergraduate accreditation by the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business 10 years later and in 1963 joined a select group of New England schools of business accredited by the AACSB for graduate divisions. The school now offers a master of business administration degree and M.S. degrees in accounting and in finance.

The UMass School of Business Administration in September of 1964 moved into new quarters at the southeast end of the Amherst campus. The SBA complex is of contemporary design and includes a three-story, 30-classroom main building flanked by two eight-sided auditoriums. The school reached the 1000 mark in enrollment this year. It has 1000 graduate students and a faculty of 42.

The school, in cooperation with the General Electric Co. in Pittsfield, sponsors an off-campus program of study leading to an M.B.A. degree; it runs a unique Junior Executive Training program (JET), that brings young foreign business executives to the Amherst campus for a six-week briefing on American business methods.

It also sponsors an annual Mass Merchandising Conference for up to 300 retailers and a yearly School of Business Colloquium that brings outstanding speakers on business and industrial problems to Amherst for public lectures. Founded at the school in 1966 was the Center for Business and Economic Research.

UMass Hits Slopes At Dartmouth Skiway

The UMass varsity ski team will take part in the New England Intercollegiate Ski Conference's first Alpine Ski Race of the 1967 season this weekend at the Dartmouth Skiway in Lime, N. H.

Saturday afternoon Amherst College will host the giant slalom event and Massachusetts will host the downhill event on Sunday afternoon. Eight New England colleges will enter six-man teams in each event. The times of the best four finishers of each school will determine the winner. In addition to Massachusetts and Amherst, American International, Boston College, Boston University, Bentley, Northeastern and Tufts will also compete.

Coach Bill MacConnell's Redmen will be led by Co-Capt. Colin Garstang who won four of nine league races last year. Boston College has a top sophomore prospect in Bill Toof who had one first and four seconds a year ago. AIC's top senior, Steve Perrins, was third in the league last winter and figures to be among the top contenders.

Last weekends' races at Middlebury College were postponed to February 25-26. All eight league teams will compete in the slalom and giant slalom that weekend.

JUNGLE JOHN Carver (right) and Fred Babakian will be among the pacemakers of the UMass gymnastics squad as they take on the Temple Owls at the Boyden Auxiliary Gym tomorrow afternoon at 1:30.

Female Gymnastics

UMass Redwomen Face Teenyboppers

On a given evening 15 lithe lasses, wrapped tightly and effectively in black leotards, can be seen cavorting at Boyden Auxiliary Gymnasium by those who would venture there.

Female elves, you say? Not so, comes the reply from the group's taskmaster, Mrs. Kitty Kjeldsen. Mrs. Kjeldsen, as well as being wife of varsity men's gymnastics coach, Erik Kjeldsen, is a member of the Women's Physical Education Department and coach of UMass' women's gymnastics team.

Mrs. Kjeldsen arrived on the UMass scene five years ago and since that time has nursed the floundering women's gymnastics program into its adolescence. This season, Mrs. Kjeldsen feels, will be the best in the team's short history.

"Daily practices," offers the lady gymnast, "are bearing fruit and the girls appear ready for the intensive competitive season ahead."

Competition begins tomorrow at 7 p.m. when the junior varsity girls entertain the incursors from Salem State Teachers College. The first varsity encounter is next Saturday at Braintree High School in Braintree.

The girls to watch, according to Mrs. Kjeldsen, are Margie Smith, Marianne Davis, Linda Binney and Susan Clancey, all returning from last year, and talented freshmen Leslie Gallion and Ruth Morse.

Complementing the sqad are Arlene Birrie, Louise Oczkowski, Gail Slepian, Sheri Skinner, Corinne Trabucco, Janice Wozniak, Gloria Martin and Barbara McArdle. Team manager is Janice Bartlett.

Highlight of the season, Mrs. Kjeldsen says, will be the meet between UMass, Southern Connecticut and Southern Illinois here on March 22. The Illini have been national champions for four consecutive years.

All home meets will be held in Boyden auxiliary gym. There is no admission.

Redmen Staggered By Potent Fairfield, 65-60

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

Fairfield's basketball team overcame an early second half comeback by UMass as the Stags got by the Redmen, 65-60, in a thriller at the Cage on January 10.

Fairfield, one of the stronger teams in New England, held a 37-32 edge at halftime, but when the second half began the Stags suddenly lost their touch and UMass took over the lead. Fairfield went about five minutes without a field goal and the Redmen fashioned a six-point lead.

But a fine 17-point performance by the Redmen's Greg Rand was not enough and Fairfield moved out in front in the last few minutes. UMass stayed within a point of the Stags until Fairfield froze the ball, when the Redmen were forced to foul and Larry Cirina wrapped it up with several free throws on one-and-one situations.

Foul trouble hurt UMass in this game, as top scorer Billy Tindall picked up four personals in the first half and eventually fouled out. Guard John Lisack was also forced to leave the contest because of fouls.

Tim Edwards played a good game as he pulled down 18 rebounds, but Soloman Crenshaw, Fairfield's leaping 6'5 forward, was instrumental under the boards when the Stags pulled ahead late in the game.

Cirinia scored 17 points, mostly on charity tosses, which was good enough to tie Rand for scoring honors. Edwards followed with 16 points. Fairfield's scoring was more balanced, however, with four men hitting double figures.

Photo by Kelly

GREG GUNS—UMass forward Greg Rand scores two of his game total of 17 against Fairfield at the Cage.

FAIRFIELD-UMASS BOX SCORE

UMASS	Fg	Ft	Pts	FAIRFIELD	Fg	Ft	Pts
Tindall	5	2	12	Crenshaw	2	0	4
Edwards	6	4	16	Sanabria	4	3	11
Stewart	2	0	4	Boyd	4	3	11
DiSarcina	0	4	4	Jones	3	2	8
Lisack	2	2	6	Cirina	4	9	17
Rand	6	5	17	Pritz	2	0	4
Gayeska	0	0	0	Kenney	2	6	10
Murphy	0	1	1	Phillips	0	0	0
Perkins	0	0	0
Gasperack	0	0	0
Totals	21	18	60	Totals	21	23	65

Score at halftime: Fairfield 37, UMass 32

REMEMBER . . .

The

BROKEN

EGG

OPEN FRIDAY NITES — 8-12

FARLEY LODGE

GO

SIGMA ALPHA MU

Attention Class of '68

Due to the resignation and changing of residence and certain members of the executive council, there now exist openings on the council for representatives from:

Crabtree, Hamlin, Brooks, Emerson, Greenough, Hills, Wheeler, Thatcher, James

ANY Junior is invited to apply!

Looking for Self-Fulfillment?

SHERUT LA'AM – ISRAEL MAY BE YOUR ANSWER

TO: Sherut La'am (Service to the People)
515 Park Avenue
New York, N.Y. 10022

I am a graduate—undergraduate (underline one) between 19-30 and would like you to send me without obligation, FREE information telling how I can serve a full year in Israel for only $670 which includes round trip fare. (A limited number of long-term loans are available). I understand a knowledge of Hebrew is not a prerequisite.

NAME (PLEASE PRINT)

MAJOR FIELD OF STUDY COLLEGE OR UNIV.

STREET ADDRESS PHONE (OPTIONAL)

CITY STATE ZIP

House of Walsh, Inc.

ANNUAL

FEBRUARY SALE

Now in progress, featuring substantial reductions on our famous make Men's and Women's furnishings.

Featuring an additional 10% discount, from sale price, on all cash sales

House of Walsh, Inc.

MAIN STREET
AMHERST, MASS.

Edwards Leads UM Over UVM, 65-51

by MIKE CURRAN
Sports Staff

BURLINGTON, Vt.—A strong all-around performance by senior Tim Edwards gave the UMass basketball team a tough 65-51 vistory over the Vermont Catamounts here last Saturday night.

Edwards, a 6'4 forward, pumped in 23 points with 11 for 20 from the floor, and crashed both backboards for 19 rebounds in his best showing of the season.

On baskets by Edwards, Billy Tindall and soph center Pete Gayeska, the Redmen broke quickly for a 9-4 lead. For the rest of the first half, it seemed that UMass would run away with the game, but their failure to capitalize on free throw opportunities and Catamount miscues kept their lead at around 10.

A corner shot at the buzzer by scrappy Vermont forward Bill Librera made the halftime score 35-25 in favor of the Redmen.

The second half began with Edwards and Gayeska trading baskets with Alden Hale and Don Katz to make it 39-29. A foul shot by Gayeska was countered by Librera's jump shot. A fall-away by Dave LaPointe, Vermont's leading scorer, followed Edwards' driving layup. Then a tap-in by Tim made it 55-33 with UMass in front.

Suddenly the thing UMass coach Jack Leaman feared the most happened. The Catamounts put together a seven-point string to narrow the visitors' lead to 45-40.

UMass came back strong when it counted, however. Bob Murphy hit Edwards at the high post and Tim's patented turn-around jumper made it 47-40. Bombs by John Lisack and Murphy opened up the lead and soon the Redmen held a 54-44 advantage. Then with five minutes remaining a unique four-point play by Murphy made the lead a lot more comfortable.

The remaining UMass points were all scored on free throws by Joe DiSarcina, cashing in on two one-and-one opportunities, Murphy and Tindall.

The Redmen shot 45 percent from the field and held a 51-33 advantage on the boards.

Besides Edwards, Murphy and Tindall cracked double figures for the Redmen. Gayeska, in his first starting assignment, canned eight points, grabbed 10 rebounds and blocked five shots while being charged with only one personal.

UMASS	Fg	Ft	Pts
Edwards	11	1	23
Tindall	4	3	11
Gayeska	3	2	8
Murphy	4	4	12
DiSarcina	2	4	8
Lisack	1	1	3
Stewart	0	0	0
Totals	25	15	65

VERMONT	Fg	Ft	Pts
Librera	8	0	16
McLeod	0	0	0
Hale	6	0	12
LaPointe	3	5	11
Hana	1	3	5
Katz	2	1	5
O'Leary	1	0	2
Totals	21	9	51

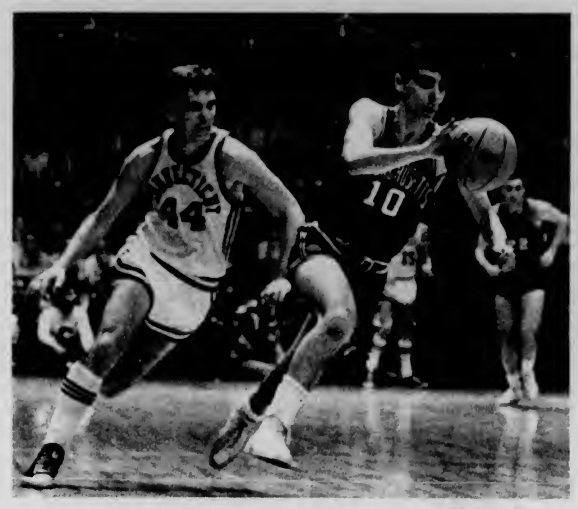


Photo by Kelly

A TOUCH OF LARCENY—Joe DiSarcina makes a second-half steal on UConn's Wes Bialosuknia, and the Poughkeepsie Popper displays his chagrin at having lost the ball.

UCONN . . .

(Continued from page 20)

take a shaky 33-32 lead into the locker room after Pete Gayeska scored his only basket of the night.

The second half belonged to UConn. Bialosuknia got red-hot from the outside while Corley began to dominate both backboards. Meanwhile, the UConn 1-2-2 zone prevented the Redmen from getting off any decent shots. Tindall, who scored 18 points in the first half, could only add a foul shot to his total in the final half.

UConn's lead reached it's highest point at 58-46 with 7:18 left in the game, and the Huskies had the momentum to break the game wide open. However, UConn coach Fred Shabel made the near-fatal mistake of trying to freeze the ball. UConn lost its momentum and began to throw the ball away.

During this period John Lisack got hot for the desperate Redmen. With one minute left the comfortable 12 point lead was down to three at 60-57. However, Tom Penders put the game on ice with some clutch foul shooting in the last minute.

Bialosuknia took game-high honors with 23 points while Corley added 17 markers and 14 rebounds. Neither team was particularly sharp offensively. UConn had 22 turnovers and Massachusetts had 17.

UCONN	Fg	Ft	Pts
Holowaty	1	0	2
Ritter	2	3	7
Corley	5	7	17
B'losuknia	9	5	23
Penders	1	6	8
Thompson	0	0	0
McNeece	0	0	0
Gray	4	1	9
Totals	22	22	66

UMASS	Fg	Ft	Pts
Edwards	6	2	14
Tindall	8	3	19
Stewart	2	0	4
Murphy	1	0	2
DiSarcina	2	5	9
Lisack	4	0	8
Gayeska	1	1	3
Nowak'ski	0	0	0
Gasperack	0	0	0
Totals	24	11	59

Score a halftime: UMass 33, UConn 32.

ARMY . . .

(Continued from page 20)

questionable offensive fouls, Schutsky was beginning to hit and the Cadets opened up a 33-24 lead at halftime.

UMass finally began to penetrate the Army defense in the second half when Peter Gayeska poured in five points in a little over a minute. A 10-foot jumper by Gayeska with 14:46 to go brought the Redmen to within two, 40-38.

Just as it looked as if they would take the lead, the Redmen failed to capitalize on three straight scoring opportunities. Army tightened up its defense, and when Schutsky, a 6'2 junior, began to throw in everything he put up, UMass fell apart and could hardly get the ball upcourt.

As a rough indication of how the game went for UMass, no Redmen hit double figures. Edwards and Bob Murphy each had nine, while Tindall had seven when he left the game.

In addition to Schutsky's 37 points, Army was led by brawny center Steve Hunt, who scored 12 points and effectively bottled up the Redmen's big men.

ARMY	Fg	Ft	Pts
Schutsky	13	11	37
Schrage	0	1	1
Hunt	5	2	12
Hughes	0	2	2
Jordan	2	2	6
Noonan	0	0	0
Mikula	0	0	0
Krzyz'ski	3	2	8
Urban	0	0	0
Kremenak	0	2	2
Totals	32	22	68

UMASS	Fg	Ft	Pts
DiSarcina	2	3	7
Perkins	1	2	2
Lisack	1	1	3
Murphy	4	1	9
Rand	0	0	0
Tindall	2	3	7
Girotti	0	2	2
Meola	0	0	0
Gasperack	0	0	0
Gayeska	2	1	5
Edwards	3	3	9
Totals	16	14	46

Halftime score—Army 33, UMass 24
Fouled out—Tindall, Krzyzewski

At Star, advancement is based on accomplishment and ability regardless of age.

Youth is an asset rather than a hindrance in the retail business

The President of our Brigham's Division is 34. In charge of our Turn-Style Division is a 31 year old General Manager. A 31 year old Star Market District Manager is responsible for 40 million dollars in supermarket sales. Obviously, seniority is not a prerequisite for advancement at Star.

We are able to advance our bright young men rapidly for a very simple reason: GROWTH.

In 1957 Star was located in 2 states with one type of business, supermarkets. Today, Star is in 4 states with 4 retail businesses. We are part of the Jewel Companies which is in fourteen retail businesses throughout the world. This dynamic growth will push sales over the one billion mark this year.

If you want the opportunity to develop your potential now, while you're young, Star would like to talk to you. Schedule an interview through your Placement Director. A Star representative will be on campus WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8

Westvaco... part and parcel of the huge growth in data handling.

Growth industries look to Westvaco for leadership in paper, packaging, building materials and chemicals.

Want to grow with Westvaco? With over 20 locations to choose from and openings for B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. engineers and scientists; M.B.A.'s; business and liberal arts majors, we've probably got the career combination you seek. Your Placement Office has more detailed information and will arrange an interview with a company representative. All students considered regardless of draft status.

CAMPUS INTERVIEWING ON: FEBRUARY 17

West Virginia Pulp and Paper

230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017

A Man for All Sports Seasons--II

The Fut[illegible]rightens Me a Little'

As head of an organization as rapidly ing as a university's phys[illegible]on ment, one learns quickly th[illegible] are financial.

It's been 18 years since [illegible]G came UMass Athletic Dire[illegible] he now knows as much about [illegible] ...ing pace with [illegible] ...is increasing the [illegible] the "run- [illegible] ...similar [illegible] ...fights [illegible] ...funds from the University. His department [illegible] ...cross criticism that should be pointed at the administration bunget-makers. It is the lack of adequate funds and the lethargy of property shuffles, McGuirk says that has caused the track delay.

The Dean recently announced a two-phased [illegible] ...uction to begin early in the spring and to be completed definately by spring [illegible] ...ll approach $900,000.

[illegible] ...will be a nine-lane, Olym- [illegible] ...k. An all-weather surface [illegible] ...e II. Also slated for Phase [illegible] ...for both soccer in the fall [illegible] ...ring (some of the lacrosse [illegible] ...scheduled for Alumni Sta- [illegible] ...lso include the conversion [illegible] ...baseball diamond into a [illegible] ...

[illegible] ...football practice [illegible] ...fall and [illegible] ...he hopes, that the first two home games for next year's frosh football team will be played under lights on Friday nights.

Phase I will cost over $500,000 and the proposed completion date is spring 1968.

Listed in Phase II, which will cost over $330,000, is the construction of 40 new tennis courts to compensate for those lost to the Bartlett addition.

The athletic department has completion dates in mind for a hockey rink, an addition to the Women's Physical Education Building, and a new basketball fieldhouse.

McGuirk adds that three other basic areas of future concern are the development of [illegible] ...ng programs, the advancement of intramur[illegible] ...and the procurement of more and better game equipment, such as pitching machines. More intramural fields are planned, and the Ed [illegible] ...will be expanding under Director Schmitt, two full-time assistants, and one part-time help[illegible] ...

McGuirk continues, of course, [illegible] ...the athletic department will be able to [illegible] ...more an increasing student body. "We've got a lot of work ahead of us," he says, "it frightens me a little."

Next issue — A.D.'s Problems

UMass Hosts Vt. As Vets Chase Scoring Marks

The UMass varsity hockey team, aiming for its first winning season since 1960-61, entertains Vermont Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Orr Rink.

The Redmen have been idle since they skated to a 5-3 win over Connecticut on January 7. Head Coach Steve Kosakowski hopes the long layoff won't hamper the scrappy Redmen. Massachusetts owns a 5-5-1 record, that includes a 3-3-1 slate in ECAC Division II competition. The Redmen are seventh in the current Division II standings.

The academic loss of sophomore center John Hartnett could put a crimp in the Redmen offense. Hartnett netted seven goals and six assists for

FEAN MULCAHY

13 points. Kosakowski hopes the return of senior wing Fred Molander, out since the beginning of the season with a leg injury, will bolster the team.

In addition to a winning record two UMass seniors are closing in on several possible career scoring records. Capt. Ed Polchlopek has moved up to fourth on the all-time Redmen career total point list. Polchlopek, who is 9-3-12 this season, now has 42 goals and 24 assists for 66 points. Bill Skowyra has 21-34-55 which puts him sixth in total points.

Polchlopek's 42 career goals puts him third and he has a chance to reach Russ Kidd's mark of 50 (1953-56). Skowyra has 34 career assists to rank second behind Ron Lundgren (1954-57) and Jim Ellingwood (1959-62) who are tied at 38. Polchlopek stands fourth in assists with 24.

SKIERS!

ONLY $10.00 GIVES YOU ALL THIS PROTECTION FOR A FULL YEAR!

up to $500.00 for doctor, hospital, nurse, X-ray and ambulance expense up to $1,000.00 for loss of life, limb or sight!

PLUS

This Mutual of Omaha ski accident plan pays these cash benefits on top of any other coverage you may have.

This truly comprehensive ski accident coverage is yours for a full year for the extraordinarily low cost of only $10.00. The only exceptions are: injuries sustained while you are a member of the Armed Forces or of a professional team, or while engaged in intermural or intramural sports; treatment provided or paid for by the U. S. Government; the cost of eyeglasses, eye examinations or the fitting of glasses; skijoring while being pulled by a horse, truck or automobile; air travel other than as a passenger in a scheduled commercial airliner. The acceptance of renewal premiums is optional with the Company.

ENROLL NOW!

Send only $10.00 for a full year of coverage. Make your check or money order payable to Mutual of Omaha Insurance Company and mail it along with your application to the address shown below.

Additional applications for fellow skiers may be obtained by writing your Mutual of Omaha representative.

- Covers you while traveling to and from authorized ski areas . . . even as a passenger in a scheduled commercial airliner!
- Covers you for snow skiing accidents!
- Even covers you for other accidents occurring in an authorized ski area!

THIS PROTECTION PAYS ALL THESE CASH BENEFITS!

Doctor-hospital-medical bills — Pays up to $500.00, over and above the first $10.00 of expense, for charges actually made within 52 weeks following the accident. Includes: doctor care — by a legally qualified physician or surgeon; nursing care — by a registered graduate nurse (R. N.); hospital expenses; X-rays; and the use of an ambulance.

Loss of life, limb or sight— Pays $1,000.00 for loss of life, for loss of both feet or both hands, both eyes, one hand and one foot, one hand and one eye, or one foot and one eye. Pays $500.00 for loss of one hand, or one foot or one eye. These benefits are payable even if loss occurs up to 180 days after the accident.

APPLICATION TO MUTUAL OF OMAHA INSURANCE COMPANY FOR A SKIER'S ACCIDENT POLICY

FULL NAME_____ AGE_____ SEX_____

STREET ADDRESS_____ CITY_____ STATE_____

BENEFICIARY_____ RELATIONSHIP_____

BENEFICIARY'S ADDRESS_____

Are you, to the best of your knowledge, sound physically and free from any physical impairment or deformity? (If not, give particulars)_____

Do you understand and agree that no insurance will be effected until the policy is issued?_____

Dated at_____ this_____ day of_____, 19_____

387M App.

Signature of Applicant_____

MAIL TO:

CICIARELLI INSURANCE AGENCY
91 Broadway
Springfield, Massachusetts

Mutual OF OMAHA — The Company That Pays!

MUTUAL OF OMAHA INSURANCE COMPANY
Life Insurance Affiliate: United of Omaha
Home Office: Omaha, Nebraska

UConn Jinx Strikes UM Again, 66-59

by DAVE JARNES, Sports Staff

STORRS, Conn.—Outstanding individual performances by rebounder Bill Corley and gunner Wes Bialosuknia and a tenacious second-half defense enabled UConn to hand the Redmen their 19th straight loss Wednesday at Storrs, 66-59.

The win gave the Huskies, a 5-0 Yankee Conference slate while UMass dropped to second place with a 5-1 record and 8-7 overall.

UMass' last win at Storrs was Jan. 12, 1936.

The Redmen started out as if they were going to blow the Huskies right off the court. UConn took a quick 4-0 lead on baskets by Bialosuknia and Bill Holowaty, but the Redmen burst out in front, 19-8, after seven minutes of play.

Bill Tindall and Tim Edwards were no less than sensational during this early surge, combining for 16 of the team's 19 points. Tindall was putting in just about everything he threw at the hoop, and Edwards effectively controlled both backboards by blocking out the 6'7" Corley.

But the remainder of the game was all downhill for U-Mass. Wes Bialosuknia hit two bombs to cut the deficit to 19-12 and the UConn comeback was underway.

Perhaps the turning point in the game came when Edwards picked up his fourth personal foul in the first half. He continued to play most of the game without fouling out, but he couldn't hit the boards with his usual gusto.

UConn tied the game at 31-31 on a 30-footer by Bialosuknia, but the Redmen were able to

(Continued on Page 18)

Redmen vs. Orangemen

It's not often that a team loses a player like Dave Bing and doesn't feel it. Last year's NCAA Eastern runner-up, Syracuse, lost him through graduation but this year's team appears to be almost, if not completely, as strong.

The Orangemen, with a 13-2 record, invade the Cage tomorrow in one of the year's most attractive home dates, starting at 8 o'clock.

The Orange's only losses were to Boston College in the Garden Tournament, and to Louisville, fourth-ranked nationally, in the Quaker City classic.

Syracuse is led by Vaughn Harper, a 6'4 senior leaper who is 10th in the nation in rebounding. The center is 6'6 senior Rick Dean, who is a prolific scorer from underneath and one of the nation's best in field goal percentage.

At the other forward is George Hicker, a 6'3 junior. He has recovered fully from a broken leg suffered last spring.

In the backcourt, Syracuse features 5'11 junior Richie Cornwall, who directs the attack. He is an excellent ballhandler who also has a good shot. Rounding out the starting five is Steve Ludd, a 6'3 junior guard.

RIM-RUNNER—Tim Edwards taps in a rebound beyond the outstretched arms of UConn's Billy Gray (40) and Bill Corley.

Army Pins 68-46 Loss On Redmen

by GLENN BRIERE
Sports Staff

WEST POINT, N. Y. — One of the things that makes a basketball coach age quickly is seeing his team erase a deficit in the second half, only to come apart at the seams.

Such was the case for UMass coach Jack Leaman here last week as a very aggressive Army team defended the Redmen to death, 68-46.

There was 14:46 to go in the game and UMass trailed by tko, 40-38, when the roof fell in. The Redmen had fought back from a 10-point disadvantage, but could score just one point in the next 10 minutes while Army scored 12.

When you play the Cadets, you literally have to fight them. They cling like flypaper on defense, and it's tough to shake their man-to-man. In trying to do this, UMass' top scorer, Billy Tindall, fouled out with 1:06 left in the first half, leaving the Redmen at a costly disadvantage for the rest of the afternoon.

Army's defense, fifth best in the nation, plus an unstopable 37-pt. job by Bill Shutsky gave the Cadets a surprisingly easy time for the last 14 minutes. It was only the second time U-Mass had been beaten handily, the first coming in the opener against B.C.

The Redmen seemed to be tight after their two-week layoff for exams, and they couldn't score a field goal until the contest was nearly five minutes old. They fought back to take the lead, 8-7, on a hook by Tim Edwards, but the last lead they had in the game was 10-8 with 12:21 left in the first half.

As Tindall picked up his personals, a couple of which were

(Continued on Page 18)

Gymnasts Collide with Tough Temple; Swimmers, Wrestlers Also in Action

The UMass varsity gymnastics and wrestling teams host formidable opponents, Temple and Williams, at Frank L. Boyden Physical Education Building Saturday afternoon while the Redmen swimming team travels to meet a strong Bowdoin team at Brunswick, Maine.

The UMass gymnasts, 2-2 overall and 1-2 in the Eastern League will have to be at their best against Temple. The Owls are annually among the top contenders for Eastern League honors and are strong again this winter. Last year Temple finished with a 7-3 record, were third in the Eastern League, ninth in the NCAA championships and second in the Eastern Regionals.

The Redmen will be trying to rebound from a tough January swing through Pennsylvania, which saw them drop a contest to powerful Penn State, 183-158, and edge Pittsburgh, perenially the league's weakest member, 149-143.

Leading performers for the Redmen in the meets were Steve Brown, UMass all-around man, Fred Babakian, Dick Dauphinais, Bob Leclair, Al Carver and Dick DelGallo. Brown placed first on the parallel bars in both meets, while Babakian and Dauphinais took first place on the side horse and second on the floor exercise, respectively, at Penn State. Carver captured first on the trampoline and Dauphinais first on the rings in the Pitt contest.

The UMass-Temple meet will take place at 1:30 p.m., in the Boyden Auxiliary Gym. Temple defeated the Redmen last year 176-150.

The meet will follow the 11 a. m. Frosh encounter. U Mass freshman coach Jullus Gundersheim expects a good effort from the Little Redmen, though the squad has been hit with loss of personnel.

Coach Homer Barr's young wrestling squad will square off against Williams College at 4 p.m. in the Boyden Main Gymnasium. UMass stands 1-3. The Redmen topped Rhode Island but lost to Coast Guard, Amherst and Worcester Tech. Williams has defeated the Redmen in nine of 10 matches since 1925.

The Masschusetts swimsters will be trying to even their record at 2-2 at Bowdoin in a 2 p.m. meet. Coach Joe Rogers looks for his team to turn in a strong effort led by Capt. Dick Lennon. UMass has defeated Tufts but lost to Amherst and Wesleyan. The Redmen have been idle since December 15.

And the Beating Goes On

by MIKE GOULD, Sports Editor

Disappointment and frustration escaping from his every pore, UMass hoop coach Jack Leaman's post-UConn game comment was simply, "We played pretty well. I thought we could win." To beat UConn at Storrs a team must play better than "pretty well."

So the jinx continues. Wednesday's 66-59 win was the Huskies' 19th straight over the Redmen at home. It did not come easily.

A superb first half performance by Billy Tindall helped the visitors to a one-point edge at intermission. The UMass advantage had reached 11 points at one point before Wondrous Wes Bialosuknia went to work from his firing range not far from midcourt.

Despite the one-point lead and the great desire the Redmen showed in the first half, one could not help feel that the momentum, almost tangible, in the tense atmosphere of the fieldhouse, had shifted to the home team. Using a tighter zone defense than they had at the outset, the Huskies were pretty much in control of things during the second 10 minutes of play.

UConn kept the indefinable edge until near the end, when Coach Shabel elected to trade momentum for a piece of the clock, a move which he almost regretted.

Valuable Tim Edwards picked up his fourth foul late in the first half and wore a straight-jacket for the remainder of the contest. In the opinion of Leaman, "We lost the game right there." The loss of Edwards allowed the UConn defense to collapse on Tindall, allowing him but one point after the break.

The reknown UConn zone was effective as usual against the Redmen. It dared them to take long outside shots, but UMass elected to feed inside to Edwards and Tindall — right into the strength of the zone. Actually there was no alternative. With John Lisack on the bench, Leaman lacked the accurate outside shooter needed to conquer the zone. Lisack entered during the latter stages of the contest and pumped in four bombs from outside the zone.

UMass fans could only marvel at the support given to the UConn team at the beautiful fieldhouse which has the misnomer "Torture Chamber." The game was played during intersession on the Storrs campus, yet the place was filled to the brim with over 4,000 worshipers.

In addition, there was a healthy crew of cheerleaders, real and imitation mascots, and a band which was as talented as they were noisy. UMass could only counter with the Phantom.

The Redmen play UConn again, at the Cage, February 18. Bring your Winter Carni dates and break down the walls with noise. Homecourt makes a big difference when the fans generate enough noise and spirit to spur their team on to greater things. Seven points difference perhaps.

TRACK SQUAD STAGES ASSAULT ON RECORDS

by AL PEAKES, Sports Staff

Records fell as fast as snow on Chicago for the UMass track team during the past two weeks. Participating in the Knights of Columbus, Boston Athletic Association and New England Amateur Athletic Association track meets, the Redmen tracksters did themselves proud, smashing seven prior standards.

Coach William Footrick's varsity was responsible for four of the marks while Ken O'Brien's freshmen set three others.

Saturday, January 14, saw the squad venture to the Boston Garden for their first competition of the indoor season. The team set two school records, an unusual accomplishment for the first effort of the indoor season. Terry Carpenter, Diego Gonzales, Paul Hoss and anchor man Greg Bowman set a new record in the two-mile relay with a time of 7:54.4.

Co-Captain John Anderson also set a new mark on his way to a second place finish in the 500. His time of 58.4 seconds cut a full second and a half off the old mark. The mile relay team of Bob Moroney, Bob Hasselbaum, Gonzales and Carpenter also made a good showing.

Exactly two weeks later on January 28, both the varsity and freshmen returned to the Garden for the highly popular B.A.A. meet, which opens the national indoor season and features many competitors of world wide fame. The crowd of about 11,000 did not go away disappointed as almost every meet record was hurdled.

(Continued on page 16)

Inside Today's Collegian
DVP Presents 3
McCarthy Again? . 4
Berkeley Here? ... 4
Senate 8
China Discussion .. 9

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Letter to McGuirK P. 4

VOL. XCV, NO. 40 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1967

Collegian Photo by Joyce Harvey

Firemen pour water onto the wooden structure in a vain attempt to save the 100 year old landmark from total destruction. Some fifty men from Amherst and surrounding communities were involved in fighting the blaze.

UMass Landmark Totally Destroyed

by BOB GORMAN
Campus News Editor

At 2:20 Sunday afternoon a fire broke one in the 100-year-old wooden Conservation Building, behind the Public Health Center.

When the firemen arrived, the cellar of the building was heavily engulfed in smoke. Shortly afterwards, the fire spread up the walls of the structure.

Flames were first visible in the front of the building, as smoke billowed from the entire structure.

Firefighters were severely hampered in their efforts to quelch the flames, since the floor of the building collapsed early in the course of the fire.

Three Amherst firemen were taken from the scene suffering from smoke inhalation and exhaustion while fighting the fire in the basement.

Firefighter Casmir Zomek was admitted to Cooley Dickinson Hospital while Captain Alfred Tidlumb and Firefighter Alfred Adair were treated at the scene for exhaustion and smoke inhalation and immediately sent home.

Fire Chief John Doherty ordered his men from the building's cellar when he learned that two tanks of ascetaline gas and a fifty gallon drum of volatile chemicals were stored there.

Since the two story building had double wooden floors and a tin ceiling nailed on to a wooden one the blaze was extremely difficult to reach.

The fire swept up between the walls and the beams of the building, making the structure a honeycomb of fire and smoke.

The flames then spread to the attic area and caused the roof in the rear of the building to collapse.

The fire was fanned by a northwesterly wind, which kept the flames jumping to all parts of the structure.

The towns of Northampton and Hadley each sent one engine to the scene, while Greenfield and Sunderland Fire Departments covered in at the Amherst station.

A total of some 50 firefighters with five engines and one ladder truck were at the scene throughout the fire.

By 4:50 p.m. the main section of the roof collapsed and little was left of the building. Throughout the afternoon, the fire had crept into almost every inch of the building leaving it a total loss.

Chief Doherty praised the work of the University Volunyeoman's job," he said.

University Volunteer Firefighter Dave Reynolds '68 suf-

(Continued on page 3)

Bill Filed in General Court To Combine Boston Colleges

by BOB GORMAN
Campus News Editor

A bill to establish a new State University in Boston has been filed in the Massachusetts General Court. The Boston Globe reported the proposal to combine several state institutions in Boston.

The bill, proposed by Representative Gerald F. O'Leary (D-So. Boston-Dorchester), would combine the University of Massachusetts-Boston, Boston State College, and the Massachusetts College of Art.

The institution would be called the "State University at Boston" and would be located on a 100-acre site in the Chestnut Hill area. The new university would be funded by a $100 million bond issue.

O'Leary has criticized the progress of the UMass-Boston. Basically, his proposal is aimed at UMass-Boston. However, he is also concerned with Boston State and Mass. Art. The new university would have a separate board of seven member trustees.

President Lederle stated that the progress of the bill through the General Court is being closely followed by UMass officials.

The proposal clearly opposes the Willis-Harrington Report which called for a single university system. The reason for the single university is to simplify budgetry and administrative affairs.

However, O'Leary claims that he has strong support from fellow Boston legislators.

Ed. Comment—It is hoped that this bill well generate more active legislative concern for state higher educational institutions in Boston. Presently, all three of the listed institutions have been for more funds and building facilities. At any rate this bill may create a closer educational climate among the state colleges in Boston.

Class of '68 Hopes for Snow; Looks for Snow Sculpture Revival

The Class of '68 is expecting plently of snow for this year's Winter Carnival despite the lack of it in recent years. A plentiful amount of snow will, it is hoped, revive the art of snow sculpturing at UMass.

The production of a sculpture worthy of a prize requires much planning. Selection of a theme to fit the general sculpturing theme of A Journey Beyond is the first step. Then a suitable sculpture is planned to fit the theme.

Two methods are advised for the actual construction of the sculptures: The first involves covering a wooden frame with snow to form the general shape. The rough shape is then sprayed with water and allowed to freeze before the details are carved.

The second method requires the stuffing of wooden boxes with snow, and carving the shape of the sculpt from the huge block of ice left after the wood forms are dismantled.

Colored snow, lighting arrangements, sound effects, moving parts, or suspended parts may be utilized in the sculpture, but these are not necessary.

The Class of '68 advises that planning begin soon as the deadline for the submitting of themes is Feb. 10, '67.

With Winter Carni rapidly approaching, the Junior class advises all UMies to "Think Snow" with the hopes that it may help in providing enough of the white stuff to make the first snow sculptures (such as above) that Metawampe has seen on the campus for many many moons.

NOFFSINGER TO COME CLOSER TO STUDENTS

by ED PARKER
Staff Reporter

Dr. Mark Noffsinger, when asked to comment on his recent appointment as Associate Dean of Students, stated that the purpose of the appointment was to bring the problem hearing and solving agencies closer to the students.

He further commented that this is not a new concern of the administration, but that the process was one that took time to make the concern visible to students.

Noffsinger indicated he is more than willing to spend time with students in order to discover what the specific needs and concerns of students are, as well as to give students an idea of the staff's problems.

He pointed out that the administration has been trying to make the channels of communication very visible and very easily accessible to students so that problems can be aired while something can still be done about them.

He expressed the view that the students should not, and now will not, have to search for an ear to listen to their problems.

The new and closer relationship between the office of the Dean of Students and the residence hall and activities programs under Dr. Noffsinger will, he hopes, give a pronounced direction in solving problems of students and the administration. It is hoped by the administration that this new direction will afford students more confidence as they will not have to guess about the views of the administration in specific areas.

This new direction will allow the administration to answer questions freely and promptly, rather than to sit on information as if it were secret.

When asked what specific problems he thought he might encounter and what ideas he might

(Continued on page 3)

COLLEGIAN ELECTIONS TONIGHT 7:00

ALL STAFFERS MUST ATTEND

Delta Chi Colony Stresses Scholastics

The newest recognized social fraternity at the University of Massachusetts is the Delta Chi colony whose members plan to stress the scholastic and service aspects of fraternity life.

A national fraternity, Delta Chi was founded at Cornell University in 1890 as a law fraternity. Since the early 1920's, Delta Chi has become social, although still emphasizing academic achievement.

The idea of forming another organization at UMass came about last spring when several residents of Mills House expressed their dissatisfaction with the fraternity-image at U-Mass. At an organizational meeting in April, eight underclassmen met to discuss ideals and purposes of a fraternity.

Officers were elected and the growing 12-member nova colony formulated a constitution. Of the original eight members, seven are still active including: Robert Hutchinson, past president; George Goodfellow, past vice-president; Edward Davis, past secretary-treasurer; and members James Bernat, Everett Thornton, Gregg Stillman, and Stephen Clegg.

With 19 interested underclassmen during the past fall semester, the nova colony eliminated itself to a choice of two national fraternities—Phi Kappa Tau and Delta Chi. Early in December, four of the members traveled to Storrs, Conn., to visit the chapters of these fraternities at UConn. Soon afterward, the UMass nova colony voted to become Delta Chi.

On Feb. 1, the UMass Inter-Fraternity Council officially recognized the 19 members of the nova colony as pledges of Delta Chi national fraternity. With the new officers who were elected for a one-year term, the pledges hope to increase their membership during the Open House-Open Smokers during this week of fraternity rushing.

With their emphasis on scholarship, the pledges of Delta Chi will require a 2.0 overall cume for all pledges. Evidence of their concern with scholarship may be seen with a 2.9 fall semester average of their present membership.

Following the rush period, the UMass Delta Chi colony plans to go to Cornell University in early March to be officially initiated as brothers of the national fraternity.

The preamble of the constitution as written by the 12 members last spring states the ideals and purposes of the fraternity: "to contribute to the physical, moral, and academic growth of both ourselves an all the students of the University."

Photo by Rizotto

These pledges of Delta Chi colony, newest social fraternity on campus, include George Child, Everett Thornton (secretary), Robert Hutchinson (past president), Edward Davis (treasurer,) and George Goodfellow president).

Among their purposes are the following statements: "to accept a responsibility to the University of Massachusetts, recognizing the aims and purposes of the University; to create an atmosphere that will stimulate acad mic achievement and will strengthen the ties of brotherhood: and to promote conduct consistent with high morals and good taste in order to extend a constructive influence on the affairs of the community."

While the pledges of Delta Chi colony wish to stress scholarship, they also wish to include a social fellowship with each other. Realizing that the ideal of fraternity life IS brotherhood, they want to break off from the University's fraternity image of "drinking equals fraternity." For this reason, they do not plan to allow drinking in their fraternity house.

Delta Chi's plans for the future include recruiting new members so that eventually they will be able to live together in perhaps one of the older sorority or fraternity's houses vacated when the new Fraternity Park is completed.

Open Smokers

Members of Delta Chi invite all underclassmen to their Open Smokers this week: Tuesday night in the Student Union Colonial Lounge, and Thursday night in Memorial Hall.

Included in the membership of the new fraternity are: seniors Robert Hutchinson and Stephen Clegg; juniors George Goodfellow (president), Roger French (vice president), Edward Davis (treasurer), James Czekanski (pledge chairman), and Peter Dikan; sophomores Everett Thornton (secretary), James Bernat, Gregg Stillman, Henry Parsons, David Halpern, Eric Lekburg, and Arnold Wallenstein; and freshmen George Child, Michael Kennedy, Charles Johnson, Henry Lawler, and Rocco Petitto.

Advisers to Delta Chi are Robert Gailey, president of Fraternity Park Corp., and Horst Wittman, instructor in the German department.

Student Senate Notes Need for Art Gallery

The Student Senate, meeting on the new semester's first day of classes, protested the manner in which the Charles Close art exhibit was removed from the Student Union by the University administration.

Despite defense of the work by the Art Department and its chairman, Paul Norton, and without consulting the Student Union Governing Board, the exhibit was taken down during finals.

According to Treasurer Burt Freedman, whose resolution it was, a Faculty Senate meeting dealing with the situation had brought out the fact that the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, I. Moyer Hunsberger was the University official who made the administration move.

The resolution went on to endorse "the recent action of the Faculty Senate in recommending to the Administration that an appropriate procedure for the placement of Art Exhibits be established immediately."

Freedman urged the Senate to hear his resolution at that meeting, which was the first one held since the beginning of the final examination period of the semester before. The exhibit scheduled to run until Jan. 31 had been removed Jan. 13. The Collegian in a four page special edition on Jan. 16 published a letter from Senate President John R. Greenquist to UMass President John W. Lederle:

"It is appalling that a university supposedly dedicated to the ideals of education must hide its expressive and artistic talents from the eyes of the public . . ."

Opposition to the resolution was headed by Lew Smith (James). "Idealism is great but you've got to be realistic now and then," Smith stated. He counseled putting off the resolution until a "case" could be made.

Senators in immediate rebuttal argued, in the words of Betty Chambers (Brooks), that "The only issue is that the two bodies we recognize on this campus have been by-passed."

"The issue," declared Chris McGahan (commuters) to Smith, "was 'thrown on the floor' by the administration." He told the Seante in support of the resolution that he had been assured that the Fine Arts Council budget would be held up until final action was taken on the Close closing.

Denying that his resolution was on an issue "blown over," Freedman declared that this is not the occasion to say we will pass a resolution "next time."

We won't ever know all of how it was done, he continued, however emphasizing that the removal followed no established procedure. If we don't know what we're talking about (as far as the details of the removal), "You should have been at the Faculty Senate meeting," he told Smith. And they are the ones in the know, he added.

Granted permission to speak on the floor, non-senator Peter Ward, a member of the Fine Arts Council, reported a telephone conversation with Norton held during the debate. He told the Senate that the Art Department faculty (which includes Charles Close), had held a meeting and voted unanimously to drop the protest.

Ward urged that the Senate be "realistic" and asserted that further protest would hurt the department and fine arts on campus.

Following him, in response to the realistic line of thinking, Larry Marcus '69 pointed out that even if the administration wanted to remove the art before State legislators arrived on campus, there was plenty of time to go through channels.

On the vote, a roll call requested by McGahan, 29 senators recorded themselves in favor of the motion, 13 against, and five "present." The Senate protest was thus made formal.

Pep Band Builds Spirit

Photo by Harvey

Shown in this picture are members of the basketball pep bank which has appeared at all home basketball games this season. Directed by senior Peter Ordway, the 12 to 20 members play both marches and modern jazz renditions.

DEMS DISCUSSION

The UMass Young Democrats will sponsor a panel discussion this Tuesday, Feb. 7 at 8:30 p.m. in the Nantucket Room. The topic will be prejudice, and the guest speakers will include Dr. Winder of the University psychology department, Dr. Wilson of the University sociology department, and Fr. Clark of Amherst.

Questions from the audience will be welcome. All students and faculty are invited to attend.

Applications for

SWAP COMMITTEE

available in the R.S.O. Office

Monday, February 6

Applications must be returned by Feb. 10

KAPPA SIGMA

invites

Freshmen and Upperclassmen

to a Formal Smoker

Monday and Tuesday (Feb. 6, 7)

10:00 P.M.

The Four College Charter Flight to

EUROPE

This Summer Wants you!

Make your reservation now.

ONLY $295

Jet round trip New York-London-Paris

CONTACT:

AL FISHER — 549-0898

DICK BLOOM — 253-2893

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:

$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:

Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1811

Defense Department Reports UMich for 'Rich and White'

The University of Michigan was described as a school "basically for rich, white students" in a Defense Department report revealed recently, the Michigan State News reports.

The report contains 25 recommendations for "broadening equal educational opportunities for Negroes, both as students and faculty members."

The report was prepared by the Detroit branch of the Defense Department's Contracts Compliance Office, undertaken to investigate the university's compliance with Title IV of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. A Pentagon spokesman described the report as "routine."

The general tone of the report was that the university does not, as such, discriminate against Negroes, but that it doesn't do as much as it could or should to effect a better "racial balance." Of the school's 29,000 students, only about 450 are Negroes; of the 2,200-member faculty, fewer than 25 are Negroes.

The confidential report, revealed in the Michigan Daily, recommended that the university:

Conduct "special recruitment efforts" for undergraduate and graduate Negroes; inform "minority communities" about the opportunities at the school and the availability of financial assistance; include "one or more Negroes as voting or advisory members of both" of all policy-making groups; and recruit "experienced Negro lawyers for the school faculty" as well as increase the number of Negroes on the faculties of College of Engineering and the School of Business Administration.

Admissions Director Clyde Vroman claimed the report "gave the university no credit for what it has done about racial relations." He cited a 1963 recruitment program which resulted in the enrollment of 70 Negroes in a special program in 1964. Other spokesmen upheld the efforts of their departments to recruit Negro students.

FIRE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

fered injuries to his left wrist while fighting the fire.

Chief Doherty was also very pleased with the great help given by various individuals.

Dr. Robert Gage, head of the University Health Services, set up a first aid station at the scene, to help the injured firefighters. Arthur Warren, manager of the Snack Bar Service, provided hot coffee for the cold and weary firemen.

Also, the regulars of the University Police were all called to duty and set up fire lines around the area and took injured men to the hospital.

The thick smoke of the blaze spread to the infirmary where it was taken into the building by the air intake system. However, Dr. Gage reported that there was no serious discomfort to the patients since the air intake system was quickly shut off.

The Conservation building was currently used by the University Theatre Guild. Graduate student Leslie Titcomb of the Guild stated that a six-year collection of costumes and apparatus was lost.

Also in the building were platforms and a costly electrical feeder cable. The biggest loss was, however, the work put into the making of the costumes and scenery.

The production Of Mice and Men was supposed to have begun practice tonight in the building.

Another big loss was the work of two graduate art students who had their work in the basement.

William Ramage and Barry Parker had a minimum of one year's graduate work each in the basement.

It is believed that some of the cast stone sculpture stored in the basement would be salvagable.

The building itself had an involved history. Built in 1867, it was one of the oldest buildings on campus.

It originally served as the President's office. Later, the Physics department was located there. The front section was used as offices and the rear a laboratory.

The structure was then used by the Conservation Department until 1962, when the building was turned over to the Theatre Guild.

As of this time, the origin of the blaze is not known.

"A Literary Giant"

DVP to Present Famous Author

One of America's most famous authors, Erskine Caldwell, will be the guest of the Distinguished Visitors Program, Tuesday night at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

A literary giant in every sense of the word, Caldwell continues a spectacularly successful career year after year. A new novel, "Miss Mamma Aimee," (spring of 1967) is his latest book. An observant, widely traveled man, he is one towering literary figure who does not like to be thought of as only "literary." Caldwell's workshop is the world.

He has enjoyed enormous success with his book, "God's Little Acre," which the Saturday Review called "one of the finest studies of Southern poor whites that has ever come into our literature." It is the most widely read contemporary American novel, having been translated into 24 languages and published in 26 countries.

For Erskine Caldwell, life has been a constant change of faces and surroundings. From the day of his birth until he reached the age of 20 years, he rarely lived longer than six months in the same place. His experiences and his impressions are often represented in his books.

Caldwell says that he writes because he likes to, he always uses fictional characters, but strives to make them true to life.

ERSKINE CALDWELL

NOFFSINGER . . .

(Continued from page 1)

have concerning their solution, Noffsinger said that he is, at present, "trying to ascertain the magnitude of what it is I don't know about what I must know." His statement was not intended to be a play on words, but an indication that he is moving to a new role that will require him to be sensitive to the concerns of both students and the administration.

LOST

Tan & White Beagle Puppy

Answers to Snoopy

Please return to Zeta Nu or Call 253-9232

REWARD WILL BE GIVEN

And the Fire Rages...

Collegian Photos by Joyce Harvey

Three firemen (top) work together in an attempt to control the heavy smoke and flames of the blaze.
(Below) Two of the firefighters put on their compressed air packs, prior to their entering the burning building, so that they can fight the fire from inside the structure itself.

ON CAMPUS WITH WMUA AND ACTION "67"

This Tuesday, WMUA presents the premiere of a new campus issue program designed to help the student keep abreast of the many issues, activities, and opportunities that face him as the University grows.

ACTION "67" will look behind the scenes at student and faculty government and other aspects of this expanding University.

Host Pete Ward will explore such issues as the Valley Centre, a religious Dept. for UMass, and the relation of State politics to the Campus.

Tune in to ACTION "67" each Tuesday evening at 8:00 for an information and exciting addition to your educational experience.

WMUA is 91.1 on your F.M. dial.

SENIORS

INDEX pictures will be taken

February 6-10 and 13-17, 1967.

If you have not made an appointment,

SIGN UP in the INDEX OFFICE, S. U.,

February 6-10 and 13-16 between 9 and 5 o'clock.

Editorial Section

McCarthy Rides Again?

The Associated Collegiate Press

That seemingly eternal Washington spectre, Joe McCarthy, has wrought his latest reincarnation inside several hundred neatly-stamped envelopes demanding that colleges submit membership lists of so-called subversive organizations, comments the Adelphi University Delphian, Garden City, New York.

These letters, from the House Un-American Activities Committee, the Delphian continued, constitute a blatant invasion of academic freedom. The university, of all places, must be the home of that very American principle, the First Amendment. Fetter the students' minds and you will produce a societ yof slaves, unable to see anything but a meaningless, waving flag. Kill discussion and the college becomes an elaborate correspondence course, with no real reason for existence.

Of course, by playing HUAC's game we would live in a safer (though not saner) world. Like the cemetery where we thought old Joe had been permanently laid to rest, our country would not be bothered by "dangerous" notions.

But America was founded upon a dangerous notion: that all men have the freedom to speak. We are not sanctioning any individual club; we are merely making the apparently radical statement that each organization, left-wing or right, ads to that learning experience and is an integral part of the college and the world.

Obviously, in the student's view, Washington is more than a bowl of cherry blossoms. Somewhere amid the stately buildings and carefully-plotted avenues festers HUAC. Unless the intellectual is truly a man without a country, this committee must be stopped — this time before the fire, before the hearings, before (once again) it's too late.

An Open Letter

Dear Warren McGuirk

It is bad enough, Mr. McGuirk, that the track team has lacked an outdoor track for the last two years, and adequate indoor facilities for the last five years. It is hard to believe that the Athletic Department made no provisions for the team to practice last year, and has made no effort whatsoever to secure a home meet at one of Amherst's other two tracks, Amherst College and Amherst High.

Add to these the fact that the team has only three dual meets indoors, fewer than any other team at the university, and you can see the unfair burden placed upon the track squad. The team not only withstands these pressures, Mr. McGuirk, but in case you got lost in your paperwork last year and didn't know, the team won the Yankee Conference championship both indoors and out.

We have grudgingly lived through this deplorable situation, Mr. McGuirk, believing that it was going to get better. But now we see that in the February 3 Collegian you have deliberately misrepresented the situation to the university population. To quote the paper directly:

"It is the lack of adequate funds and the lethargy of property shuffles, McGuirk says, that has caused the track delay."

It is a fact, Mr. McGuirk, that the funds for a track have been appropriated for over a year. It is also a fact that the land for the track is already determined and "property shuffles" have nothing to do with it. We are sick and tired of hearing "plans" for the future, Mr. McGuirk. We heard your "plans" four years ago when you said we'd have a track by 1965.

The truth is, Mr. McGuirk, that you are letting a personality conflict ruin the collegiate careers of the entire track team. When are you going to grow up and act like an athletic director?

Terry Carpenter, Co-captains,
Jonathan Hall, Outdoor track team
Courtland Bassett

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Gordon A. Davidson '67

MANAGING EDITOR
Jim Foudy '68

BUSINESS MANAGER
Lynn Stowe '68

NEWS DAY EDITORS: Joyce Harvey, Marjie Flanders, Richard Kline

STAFF: Bruce Balboni, Nancy Bourgoin, Joanne Bucewick, Janet Caroprece, Elaine Canter, Don Epstein, John Findley, Dave Floreen, Dixon George, Fred Lane, Richard Lane, Daniel Madden, Pam Metaxas, Marshall Nadan, Dave O'Connor, Jane Roland, Neil Scanlon, Sally Dolgin, Ted Fanti, Pat Petow

CAMPUS NEWS EDITOR: Bob Gorman
STAFF: Robert Cushman, Eric Goldman, Edroy Parker

EDITORIAL CHAIRMAN: Chet Weinerman '68
EDITORIAL DAY EDITORS: Jack Dean, Ellie Skinner, Stan Leveo
STAFF: Michael Hersh, Joe Ross, Paul R. Hallock, Ellen Cleary, Marsha Baron

SPORTS EDITOR: Mike Gould '67
SPORTS DAY EDITORS: Tom FitzGerald, Tim Murphy, Glenn Briere

STAFF: Dave Jarnes, Al Peakes, Tom Conuel, Roger Kipp, Joe Duffy, Mike Curran, Harvey Elman

PHOTOGRAPHY EDITORS: John Kelly '69, Paul Boliver '68

STAFF: Gerri Cote, Tom Donovan, Bill Gleason, Stan Furman, Larry Kornfield, Larry Mazel, Ed Rizzotto, Robert Soffer, Breck Seiniger, George Williams, Neil Rennie

FEATURE EDITOR: Phil Goepp '69
STAFF: Lorraine Balch, Joan Fitzgerald, Karen Haley, Rich Hanson, Jerry Horvitz, Judy Kuhn, Sue Ruckstuhl, Gerald Vigeant, Agnes Wyant, Pete Ward

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Chuck Smith '69

CIRCULATION MANAGER: Bob Godwin '68

CARTOONIST: Rich Moran

Joe DiVeglia

"Wow! I just got some sketches even the Collegian couldn't defend ! !"

Campus Comment

Art: A Purely Personal Matter

To the Editor:

I disagree most emphatically with the administration's stand on Mr. Close's exhibit. I am violently against any censorship at any level. But I did not sign the petition co-sponsored by the art students and the Collegian, for I believe that the statements issued by Close and the Art Department are equally as dangerous to the community as the actions of the administration.

Close is putting himself and the Art Department in the position of the only qualified and official group for determining what is or is not pornographic. In stating that "...we (Close and the Art Department) are more or less experts on the subject (pornography)", Close is placing a great deal of power in his and the department's hands.

In the end, only the individual can label a particular work "pornographic", There is no strict, universal definition of "pornography", and to claim to be a qualified expert on the definition of it is nothing less than to assume the role of the all-powerful interpreter of the moral conscience of a community.

On qualifications, what are the qualifications necessary for one to judge art? Is an art exhibit placed on display for only those few who are thought worthy of it? We must remind ourselves that Mr. Close placed his works on public display, and in so doing automatically submitted to the "qualifications" of each and every individual who viewed them. Art? Pornography?

To me, the exhibit was an expression of the artist, and not pornography, but I cannot, nor do I intend to impose my views upon others. The Art Department has no more power over the individual's thoughts than I. Art as well as pornography is a purely personal matter and cannot be determined for the individual by any monolithic force.

Censorship by the Art Department is no more acceptable or "right" than that of the administration, and I cannot conceive of the support of either.

Jim Slavas
311 Webster

Berkeley Can Happen Here

To the Editor:

In the recent censoring of Charles Close's Art Exhibit in the corridors of the Student (?) Union, the Administration has again demonstrated its disregard for the rights and interests of the Student Body of the University of Massachusetts. Once again, acting at a time when it was known that most students would be busy with finals, acting even in the dead of night, the administration has seen fit to undertake a major restriction of Student Freedom, and to take this action without any consultation whatsoever with the Student Body or its representative organizations.

This is not the first time such arbitrary action has been taken. One need only look back to the Yahoo incident, the "Open Door" directive, and selective censorship of past art exhibits for evidence of the administration's "Bib Brother" attitude. It becomes increasingly obvious that the administration is more interested in its own "image" than in responsibility to the Students, their rights, or indeed, their education.

In each case, the administration, reciting noble and meaningless phrases about the "Tri-partite Community", agrees to "set up a committee", or "talk it over", but results are never seen. Academic Reform still muddles through bureaucratic swamps (promising to emerge as a worthless rearrangement of present requirements), the Yahoo still languishes fundless (despite a clear vote of confidence by the Student Body last spring, and Student Senate appropriation of money), the Dining Commons are "investigated", but the service and food never change.

The only meaningful advance came with the abolition of upper-class (but not freshman) women's curfews; when all Student Groups and the Student Body itself stood united and made clear their demand, the administration grudgingly granted them a partial victory.

My question is: How long will the usually complacent Umie stand by and allow himself to be trampled by the evasive tactics of the administration? The day will come, I believe, when the Students will realize that they have been relegated to second-class status in the "Tri-partite Community", and that they, and only they, can "do something" about it.

Perhaps direct action will be necessary; I do not know. But if the administration persists in its present "shoot first, ask later" policies, if it continues to ignore and evade Students' pleas for reform and change, then that administration needs to be reminded—Berkeley can happen here.

Richard H. Staples
Eddie Howell

Campus Comment

"Registration Day Massacre"

To the Editor:

Well, registration day has come and gone—or has it? If you were like me, you too must have been involved in last week's fiasco and chaos that followed the debacle that was Registration Day.

Students were spending hours trying to pick up courses after receiving countless "sorry, overenrolled" cards in their little packets. People were running and panicing everywhere on campus, trying desparately to get some advice so that they might return to that 95 degree pit where "closeness' reigned supreme. And the following day was no better. In most University departments, courses that in former days were available now were "closed, sorry, overenrolled."

Students blamed the faculty and took their wrath out on those poor "volunteers" from each department who were subject to the lambasting. But they were as bewildered and dismayed at the "Registration Day Massacre" as was everyone else.

The blame rests with the system. In a conscientious endeavor to accept as many students as possible, the administration miscalculation and blundered. Someon self-liquidation dorms alone.

one, legislators or administrators, must realize that a University cannot be run

The crying need is for more classroom space with more facilities, and more highly competent faculty to fill the gap. Our faculty (as well as our students) are being hard-pressed. We are being cheated of the top flight education that we want and deserve and could get from this University. The faculty is being cheated from having this opportunity to give us this education. Unfortunately, things will get worse before they get better.

The administration must come to realize that it cannot rely so heavily on the computer. It is not the machine, but students who are taking the course, or who would be taking the courses but for those three words: "sorry, closed, overenrolled."

The University boasts of a strengthening advisory system and a pre-registration day. But if such trends continue, the advisory system, pre..-..registration, the feeling for greater "personal" contact, and other efforts along these lines that the University has worked so hard to strengthen will be worthless and the ultimate result will be a farce.

Philip Lerner '68

"The Learning Experience"

To the Editor:

Education is one major industry in which little attempt is made to evaluate the product. It is supposed to have all sorts of beneficial effects, but, outside of a few end-of-course tests, very little effort is made to determine the effect of years and years of schooling.

Prof. John Clayton in "The Academic Game" wants to get rid of final exams. How does he know whether his "talking to students" is having any affect of any kind, if he doesn't try to evaluate it in some way—if he does have really better ways, then he doesn't need the final, but I doubt that he does have other ways of any accuracy.

Studies have shown that workmen are proud of their final product. To keep from having false pride, they must have some way of evaluating that product to see if it really is good. If a person can't think of any way of evaluating what he is trying to accomplish, it is very likely that he doesn't know what he was trying to accomplish. If a person doesn't know what he is trying to accomplish, he must have quite a job of knowing how to do it and how to compare ways for efficiently doing it.

Granted that many exams contain trivia. Perhaps those courses emphasize trivia—one way to evaluate the teaching goals of a teacher is to look at his final examination. It should show what he considers important for his students to have learned during the course.

Studying just for marks is a very limited goal. Of course some students do it, but then there are quite a variety of different types of persons. On the other hand, those who work for long term goals are often helped by having some deadlines and short term goals. Most students do a little more studying around final exam time; unfortunately much of this studying is with the intent to forget it immediately afterwards. Nevertheless, a little bit sticks, particularly a sort of overview of what the entire course was about.

Why excuse "A" students from the final? Of course they are going to pass the course and very probably get a good mark, so they don't take the exam for those limited purposes. Instead, the exam provides an extra urge to study and they may learn a little more due to the studying and the taking of the exam.

Exams are learning experiences. Everything we do we try to get feedback information so that we can know better what to do next time. The major beneficiary of exams should be the students. Exams provide them with feedback as to what they know and don't know. Good students should seek to be tested. It is unfortunate that our educational system teaches that exams are things imposed on students for the purposes of the administration. Instead, tests should be eagerly sought—a chance to try your skill—by students and teachers so that they can find out how much and what they have accomplished with their efforts.

R. F. Schweiker

When you are joyous, look deep into your heart and you shall find it is only that which has given you sorrow that is giving you joy.
When you are sorrowful look again in your heart, and you shall see that in truth you are weeping for that which has been your delight.

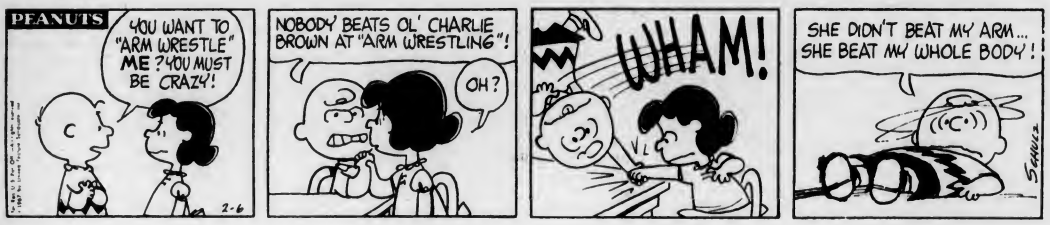
—Kahlil Gibran, The Prophet

Ticket Trauma



To the Editor:

The University of Massachusetts should add a very valuable and practical course to its curriculum. In the long run this course could save a student much money he might otherwise spend on parking tickets or on taxes paying policemen to do "busy work." The object of this course is to train a coed in the art of ejection from a moving car. Apparently there is a rule that unless stopped for a stop sign or a red light, a car is considered parked if its wheels are not in motion.

As many students found out Saturday night, Blasco's boys were hard at it ticketing cars parked in "No Parking" areas and in loading zones. Of course, 1 a.m. Saturday night is the peak hour of delivery of goods at the Southwest dining commons. Upon talking with the busy officer, I learned that residents of the Southwest Complex are expected to park in the parking areas about a quarter mile from the dorms. Then they must either walk the quarter mile back to the dorm in 15 degree weather or else drive up to the dorm and drop off their date—as long as the wheels of the car do not stop moving.

This apparently is the letter of the law (although I doubt if it has much to do with the spirit of the law), and we students are expected to follow it. Therefore, I suggest a revision in our curriculum to add a course which would have such obvious practicality.

An Irate Student

Gaudet Photos

Looking for Self-Fulfillment?

SHERUT LA'AM – ISRAEL
MAY BE YOUR ANSWER

TO: Sherut La'am (Service to the People)
515 Park Avenue
New York, N.Y. 10022

I am a graduate—undergraduate (underline one) between 19-30 and would like you to send me without obligation, FREE information telling how I can serve a full year in Israel for only $670 which includes round trip fare. (A limited number of long-term loans are available). I understand a knowledge of Hebrew is not a prerequisite.

NAME (PLEASE PRINT)

MAJOR FIELD OF STUDY COLLEGE OR UNIV.

STREET ADDRESS PHONE (OPTIONAL)

CITY STATE ZIP

OPEN SMOKER
Freshmen and Upperclassmen
ALPHA SIGMA PHI
WANTS YOU
to come down and meet the Brotherhood
MON., FEB. 6 and WED., FEB. 8
AT 7:30 RIDES AT DORMS
FORMAL

Students of writing, painting, and music live and learn in a creative community at the Cummington School of the Arts
in an unspoiled part of the Berkshires.
June 25 to August 20.
A chance to make up for the college pressures and routines that limit the student artist.
For information write:
H. C. SPROUL, 21 PARKER ST., CAMBRIDGE, MASS. 02138

On-Campus Christian Worship Now Provided in Mahar

On-Campus Christian Worship will be now provided for the University community. The services will be held each Sunday in Mahar Auditorium, adjacent to the School of Business Administration.

They will begin at 10:30 and last 45 minutes to one hour. Coffee will be provided following the service in the foyer of Mahar.

The worship is intended to be inclusively (or ecumenically) Christian. It will be contemporary in content, using a variety of material available in contemporary styles and language and art form, and will be experimental in form.

The worship has been planned by a group of students who have previously expressed interest in on-campus worship.

They were gathered together by the Protestant Chaplains who had been directed by the United Christian Foundation to provide an on-campus worship experience to meet many requests from students and others.

The group, known as the University Christian Worship, invites others to work with it in developing services during spring semester.

Further information is available through Charlie Guyotte, 512 Grayson, convenor, or from one of the Protestant Chaplains.

Phi Sig Not Dead

Altering and Strengthening Image

Contrary to the overwhelming campus opinion, Phi Sigma Kappa is not dead. Quite paradoxically, a few well informed students and administrators believe that Phi Sigma Kappa has a better chance to succeed than other University fraternities.

According to George Rodgers, Director of Fraternities at FMA, "Phi Sigma Kappa is making an attempt to reorganize under the fraternity concept of their National Organization, and has adapted to the currrent changes in the needs of the students of the University."

First, Phi Sig has a concept, an ideal, based on the three cardinal principles of brotherhood, scholarship, and character... ..

Second, Phi Sig has started a period of reorganization in which dead wood and apathy — the destroyers of the University Fraternity system, have been elminated. With high goals and true fraternity ideals, Phi Sigma Kappa is now ready to alter and strengthen their image, outlook, and future.

Last fall, the Phi Sigs moved out of their house on North Pleasant Street. Their National did not revoke their charter, and the University did not take the house. The reason was simple—finances. There were not enough live-in members to pay the rent.

However, the Phi Sigma Kappa housing corporation owns the house, and as soon as the brotherhood increases, the house at 510 No. Pleasant St., will once again be occupied by Phi Sigma Kappa.

There are a great number of students (at the University) who believe that fraternities are a detriment. The fact is they are of great value and can be a source of reward and personal satisfaction to its members.

Phi Sigma Kappa is striving for the values originally intended for fraternities, and is seeking those interested and willing students who want to see a meaningful fraternity system at UMass.

More than Service

APO Seeks Undergrads

Do you hate babies? Do you pull the wings off flies? Do you hate apple pie, your mother, the family dog or the American flag?

If you don't, and you're an undergraduate at the University APO has an offer to make to you.

The brothers of Alpha Phi Omega, would like to see you rush; pledge, and become a brother in their fraternity. In exchange they offer you the chance to demonstrate your leadership, make new friends and be of service to your campus, your community and your country.

What is APO? Frist and most important it is a service fraternity founded on the ideals of the Scout law and oath. Does that mean that it is all goody-goody? not on your life!

The fraternity has more than service to offer. We are a fraternity, and that word means a lot to us. It means many intangibles, all coming under the heading of brotherhood.

So if you have a little free time around 8:30 on February 9, come to the Governor's Lounge in the Student Union, and see them.

It makes no difference if you're a freshman, or a Junior, a Greek or a GDI, we want to see you. They might be able to come up with a good reason why you would fit in.

TELEPHONE UP-DATING

Those students wishing to update their telephone numbers due to room changes etc. May call the student information operator at 5-1123 between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

UMass Selected to Host Bride and Home Bridal Fair

UMass has been selected by Bride and Home magazine as a site for its 1967 Bridal Fair.

Through the Student Union Special Events Committee and with a helping hand from Bride and Home, manufacturers and local stores associated with the bridal and home industries set up booths at the Fair displaying specific types of merchandise which are of interest to future brides.

Exhibits include: china, crystal, silver, invitations, kitchen wares, linens, bridal gowns, cosmetics, fabrics, wedding photographs, bridal veils, engagement rings, furniture, bedding, luggage and travel agencies for that all-important honeymoon, floral arrangements. . .and even men's wear, cars.

Each person who enters the Fair, which will be held in the Student Union Ballroom from 1:30 until 10:00 p.m. on Monday, March 6th, will be given a shopping bag. As she visits the various booths, she or he, for that matter, may take valuable printed material and even some sample products, which will be of assistance in planning a wedding.

One of the main highlights of the Fair is an hour-long Bridal Fashion Show which includes the latest in bridal and trousseau fashions. Bonwit Teller of Boston sponsor two fashion shows, one at 3:00 p.m. and one at 8:00 p.m. The fashions for these shows will be modeled by male and female students and even some faculty members.

Another big highlight of Bridal Fair is the valuable door prizes which will be given out to lucky winners.

Interviews Scheduled For Teaching Positions

Students interested in the Elementary or Secondary Education Blocks for 1967-68 should make an application for interview. Sign up sheets will be available at the School of Education from February 6 through February 17.

Arrangements for the interview appointment must be made in person; application information cards will be filled out at that time.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

1. Members of Junior class majoring in Education
2. Cumulative Average 2.0

SECONDARY EDUCATION

1. Only Juniors should apply
2. Cumulative Average 2.0
3. Home Economics and Physical Education (Men and Women) must apply for the interview.

MANDATORY PHOTO STAFF MEETING

Feb. 7, 1967 at 7:00 p.m. in COLLEGIAN OFFICE

Hillel Exec. Board Meeting
(Norfolk — 6:15)
Nomination Papers Available
(on Tuesday, Feb. 7)
Candidates will answer questions
(on Tuesday, Feb. 14)
Come and see what it's all about.

The Brothers of
Phi Sigma Kappa
cordially invite all Freshmen & Upperclassmen to a SMOKER
Feb. 7 7:30-9:00
Memorial Hall Lounge

FROM THE "VILLAGE"
"THE UNSAVORY"
WITH A SPECIAL GUEST APPEARANCE
by
"THE PLAYGIRLS"
S.U. Ballroom 8:00 P.M.
75c Admission February 10

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Waitresses and busboys. Good salary and good tips. Apply Mr. Whalen, Lord Jeffrey Inn.

Girl wanted to do housecleaning in professor's home. 2 or 3 half-days weekly, or one full day. We can provide transportation to and from campus. Call 253-9462.

Medical technologist (A.S.C.P.) with interest in bacteriology needed for full or part-time employment. Although we would prefer an M.T.A.S.C.P., experienced applicants without registration will definitely be considered. Excellent fringe benefit program. Apply Personnel Office, Cooley Dickinson Hosp., Northampton, Mass.

Room near campus in exchange for babysitting. Professor's family. Call 549-1522.

WANTED

Roommate wanted to share 2 bedroom, unfurnished house in Pelham. Call Jane 253-3547.

To share house with two co-eds, 5 miles from campus transportation available. Rent low private room. Call 549-0937 after 6.

For Rent

Room ½ mile from Univ. Refrigerator privileges. Comfortable, pleasant, private. Call 253-5003.

AUTOMOBILES

1954 Olds. snow tires—runs good. Make offer. Call 584-6863.

2 MGA's 1961, excellent mech. condition, new disc brakes. 1958 MGB engine, hardtop available to fit either car. Call 253-9584.

'58 Chevrolet Bel Air hardtop, standard shift-six, radio & heater, 3 new white walls, clean and dependable transportation, $150.00 or best offer. Call Steve 253-5535.

OPPORTUNITIES

Study year abroad in Sweden, France, or Spain. College prep., junior year abroad and graduate programmes. $1,500 guarantees: round trip flight to Stockholm, Paris or Madrid, dormitories or apartments, two meals daily, tuition paid. Write: SCANSA, 50 Rue Prosper Legouté, Antony — Paris, France.

COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING PAYS

SPRINGFIELD SYMPHONY
Robert Staffanson
Music Director
Tuesday Evening
February 14th
Springfield Municipal Auditorium 8:30 p.m.
REY de la TORRE
GUITAR SOLOIST
STUDENT TICKETS $1.00
On sale at Del Padre's in Northampton or at Symphony office, 49 Chestnut St., Spfld.

An iron-clad draft deferment, money in the bank, academic credits, and a free vacation all can be yours if you act now.

The two year Army ROTC Program, now in its third year, is accepting applications from among the class of 1969.

If accepted, you are given an all-expense-paid vacation to lovely Fort Knox, Kentucky for six weeks next summer.

On return to the University next fall, you will receive $40.00 per month and two credits per semester for continued professional training in this field.

In addition, you will be given a full set of clothing in the latest fashion and in the style being worn by more and more people these days.

Not everyone is eligible, but if you think you may qualify, see Major, Gingras in room 105, Dickinson Hall.

- Notices -

YOUNG DEMOCRATS
There will be a panel discussion on Prejudice Tuesday, Feb. 7, at 8:30 P.M. in Nantucket Room, S.U. Guest panelists are Dr. Wilson of the Sociology Dept., Dr. Winder, of the Psychology Dept., and Fr. Clark, clergyman in Amherst.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
There is a meeting every Tuesday evening at 6:45 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. All are invited to attend.

SPEED READING COURSE
Registration for both sessions of Speed Reading will be on Feb. 10 from 12:00-4:00 P.M. in the Education Lobby.
Classes for the first session will begin on Feb. 13, 7-8:30 P.M. and last for 5 weeks. Second session will begin March 20 and end April 24.

OUTING CLUB
The meeting originally planned for Monday night has been changed to Tuesday, Feb. 7, 1967 in Machmer W-26, from 6:30-8:30. Both old members and interested students are invited to attend. The meeting will be followed by a slide show.

AMHERST STAMP CLUB
On Friday, Feb. 10, in Public Health Bldg., Room 103, at 7:30 P.M., Mrs. James W. Dayton of Amherst will show "Selected Pages of France". Interested visitors welcome.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
On Mon., Feb. 6, at 5:30 P.M. a meeting for prayer for Vietnam will be held in Memorial Hall. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

PRE-VETS PRE-MEDS
On Wed., Feb. 8 at 7:30 P.M. in Morrill 203 there will be a lecture on Comparative Medicine by Dr. B. F. Trum of Harvard Medical School.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB
There will be a general meeting in the Essex Room at 7:00 P.M. on Feb. 7.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
There will be informal meetings of members every day this week at 6:30 P.M., Mon., Feb. 6-Fri., Feb. 10.
Check spaghetti board for room. All members still interested should come to at least one of these meetings. A business meeting will be held the following week to have special elections for a new president and vice-president.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB LIBRARY
Library Hours for this semester starting Mon., Feb. 6 in 203 Berkshire House are Monday thru Friday, 3:30 to 8:00 P.M. All books taken out over intersession are due back by Friday, Feb. 10.

STOCKBRIDGE SENATE
There will be a meeting on Tues., Feb. 7, 1967 at 6:30 P.M. in Council Chambers, S.U.

PRE-LAW ASSOCIATION
Mr. Michael Gordon, Assistant Dean of Univ. of Conn. Law School will speak about the Study of Law at UConn on Feb. 9, 1967 at 7:30 P.M. in Plymouth Room of S.U. All interested students are invited to attend.

WINTER CARNIVAL
Winter Carnival souvenir buttons and posters will go on sale in the Student Union starting Tuesday, Feb. 7, 1967. The cost will be: Button—25¢, Posters—35¢.

BRIDAL FAIR COMMITTEE
Interested students who would like to work on the Bridal Fair Committee are urged to pick up an application in the RSO Office or to contact Michele Feldman or Diana Alvarez at Chi Omega (256-6868) as soon as possible.
Any girl who would like to model in the Bridal Fair fashion show (must be at least 5'6" without heels) must also fill out and return immediately the applications which are available in the RSO Office. All applications must be returned by Feb. 10, 1967.

NURSING ACTIVITIES NIGHT
On Feb. 6, from 7:30-9:30 P.M. there will be student-faculty activities such as badminton, volleyball, basketball, swimming, at WOPE Gym. Refreshments will be served. Don't forget your sneakers.

CHEMISTRY LECTURE
On Tuesday, Feb. 7, 1967 in Goessman 51, Dr. Aimery P. Caron of the Chemistry Dept., UMass will speak on "What is the Structure of Iron Pentacarbonyl".

STUDENT UNION LOCKER RENTALS
There are 100 lockers in the lower Lobby of the Student Union for rental on a semester basis. The charge is $1.50 per semester. There is also a key deposit of $2.00.
These are ideal for commuters and others who need storage in the center of the campus.
See the Games Area Manager for the rental of these lockers.
Present users of these lockers should pay semester rental on or before Feb. 8, 1967.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Sandra J. Kamienski, class of '68, Leach to Stanley Sablek, class of '65.
Janet Sikoris, class of '69, T-4, to James Takowsky, class of '68, Bates College.
Wendy Andrews, class of '68, Calvin Coolidge, to Robert Gessel, class of '68, LCA Univ. of Tulsa.
Beverly Ann Carlson, class of '69, Coolidge, to Airman 1st Class John Philip Cyr, USAF.

FOUND:
Pair of women's glasses with silver frames, found on North Pleasant St. Call John or Roy, 344 Gorman, 546-6510.

Professional Careers In Cartography
CIVILIAN EMPLOYMENT with the U. S. AIR FORCE
CREATING AEROSPACE PRODUCTS
Minimum 120 semester hours college credit including 5 hours college level math. The required math must include at least 2 of the following: college algebra, trigonometry, analytic geometry, differential calculus, integral calculus, or any course for which any of these is a prerequisite. Equivalent experience acceptable. Training program. Openings for men and women. Application and further information forwarded on request.
WRITE: College Relations (ACPCR)
Hq Aeronautical Chart & Information Center,
8900 S. Broadway, St. Louis, Missouri 63125
An equal opportunity employer

Escape From UMass
Frustration This Spring
Vacation and Live It Up
in NASSAU

Only $190 Jet round trip accommodations at Olympia Hotel
CONTACT:
AL FISHER — 549-0398
DICK BLOOM — 253-2893

Attention Class of '68

Due to the resignation and changing of residence of certain members of the executive council, there now exist openings on the Council for representatives from:

CRABTREE
HAMLIN
BROOKS
EMERSON
GREENOUGH
HILLS
WHEELER
THATCHER
JAMES

The Brothers of
SIGMA ALPHA MU
welcome
Freshmen and Upperclassmen
to SMOKERS
on:
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 6 AT 8:00 (FORMAL)
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7 AT 8:00 (INFORMAL)
387 NORTH PLEASANT ST.

Engineering Career?

You can climb faster at ACCO ...where the ACTION is Exciting opportunities are open now at American Chain & Cable . . . a leading manufacturer of diversified products that are serving many of today's growth industries.

Recent engineering graduates are working at ACCO now in such varied specialties as solid-state electronics . . . aerospace component design . . . metallurgy . . . oceanography . . . inertial guidance . . . instrumentation for utilities and process industries . . . data processing . . . sophisticated material handling systems . . .
Upper-rung positions can open up for you sooner . . . because of ACCO's unusual organization into "groups." Over-all, ACCO is big. Financially, in geographic spread, in markets served, and in scientific contributions. Yet all operating units in every ACCO group are small enough to let you establish identity fast.
Class of '67: Visit your placement office now and arrange for an interview with the ACCO recruiter. He will be on campus . . .
Monday, Feb. 13
Classes of '68 to '70: We would also like to talk with you about interesting summer jobs at ACCO.
American Chain & Cable
An Equal Opportunity Employer

COMMENT ON

ATTENDANCE

SOME ON TIME, SOME NOT EVEN THERE

We have below several lists of senators. The first group, we feel, are well-known without our having to mention their full names or constituencies.

These are the small number of student representatives who have faithfully and punctually attended every Wednesday night meeting (according to the approved minutes):

Boronski, Bourgoin, Floreen, Greenquist, Gurwitz, Kamanitz, Marcus, Nawrocki, Schriber, Smith.

There are several others who, although they have been recorded as late on occasion, have been present at all the sessions to date: Banfield, Collins, Cristafulli, Grant, and Wyke.

Another set, as you may have guessed, deserves less if any praise. These are some of the senators who disregard the importance of being present at meetings. Each of the folowing has missed three meetings, and six have missed four.

Mike Albert	Greenough
Bob Dawson	Gorman
Deborah "George" Feiker	John Q. Adams Upper
Margie Frey	Sororities
E. T. Mellor	Washington Middle
James Muldoon	Mills
Joseph Pedro	Hills South
Stan Piorun	Hills North
Peggy Reardon	Knowlton
Ed Rubin	Webster
Dianne Snyder	Mary Lyon
Dave Tiberii	commuters
Dick Yourga	Brett

This has happened despite the fact that after five absences a senator "shall automatically be dismissed from the Senate."

Unfortunately there is yet another group of senators, perhaps, the most irresponsible: those who leave before the adjournment of a meeting. Equally undesirable is the fact that they are not even censured by having their names recorded!

Westvaco...
part and parcel of the huge growth in data handling.

Growth industries look to Westvaco for leadership in paper, packaging, building materials and chemicals.

Want to grow with Westvaco? With over 20 locations to choose from and openings for B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. engineers and scientists; M.B.A.'s; business and liberal arts majors, we've probably got the career combination you seek. Your Placement Office has more detailed information and will arrange an interview with a company representative. All students considered regardless of draft status.

CAMPUS INTERVIEWING ON: FEBRUARY 17

West Virginia Pulp and Paper

230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017

SENATE NEWS

PAT PETOW, Editor

STATE SCHOOLS TO ORGANIZE

by DALE COLOVAIS and M. McManama

A little over a year ago, in November 1965, the Senate hosted a weekend conference of the student governments of the state-supported institutions of higher education. Those in attendance, according to Vice President Tim Cunningham, expressed an interest in having a meeting again from time to time.

To this end, arrangements were made by a newly-created subcommittee of the Senate Public Relations Committee for another session this fall. Twelve schools of twenty-three contacted sent a total of 53 delegates to the meeting held November 19 at the State House.

"To consider and evaluate the advisability and feasibility of a continuing dialogue among state-supported schools in Massachusetts" was the assignment explained Cunningham, who acted as chairman.

In a vote taken late that afternoon the meeting recorded itself in favor of such an organization; the roll call showed 43 for, seven against, and three abstaining. Nearly all the U-Mass delegation voted in the affirmative.

"This meeting," the chairman said later, "represents the realization of a student concern for the condition of higher education in Massachusetts and a sincere desire to do something about it."

Although the outcome of the "second" meeting was to continue with the idea of a more or less formal structure, the lively day-long debate brought into the open many important points.

"The future course of the state association may well depend on those reservations and aspirations raised in Boston," said one UMass delegate.

That there is already an organization of the state colleges, in the opinion of a female Boston State delegate, meant that a super-group would be unnecessary. (The effectiveness of the state college association was, however, questioned.)

Supporting her, representatives from community colleges emphasized that problems at the two-year institutions were different from the state colleges and especially different from the University.

Some spokesmen nearly changed the question to "Resolve, that a community college association should be organized."

It was also pointed out that the individual needs of each college could be met thr correspondence should a problem arise. But, in contrast, delegates stressed the value of regular "in person" meeting: there was mention of solution over lunch of a problem shared by a state and community college.

Halting a threatened three-way split in the meeting, th argument that all had a common problem gained ascendancy.

The business of such an organization as proposed could very well center on the State budget allotments to the schools urged UMass Senator Chris McGahan (commuters). We are ninth in the nation in per capita income, but fiftieth in state aid to education, he told the representatives.

Besides its "political lobby" coloring, supporters saw in the organization a way of uniting efforts for the betterment of education. It would provide, they hoped, a respectable means of expressing student concern.

Further progress was made on December 17, when representatives met in the Saxe Room of the Worcester Public Library. At that time some of the articles of the association's proposed constitution were drawn up in accordance with a second resolution at the November meeting.

JUDICIAL ROLE IS OUTLINED

Procedures for Residence Judicial Bodies, authorized by the Dean of Students, were distributed to participants at the December Judiciary Conference. The day-long affair to which all campus judiciaries were invited was sponsored by the Senate Men's Affairs and Women's Affairs Committees.

The Procedures traced the history of residence judicial functions recommended by the Student Life Committee as a part of dormitory self-government last April 29. The Dean of Students also approved Student Life Committee recommendation to include the Student Government Association Constitution's procedural safeguards.

Made clear in the Procedures were other rights of students:

"Prior to a hearing, the alleged offender shall be advised, in person, of the complaints. Written notification of a hearing will be received by the alleged offender at least twenty-four hours prior to the actual hearing."

Records kept by the judicial body shall include the complaint, the summons, and the decision.

The summons was described as containing: "1. Statement of charges including time, place, and persons(s) allegedly involved in the alleged offense. 2. Person(s) filing the complaint. 3. Statement of the alleged offender's rights according to the S.G.A. Constitution."

What sanctions may be imposed and what may not were spelled out.

No action may serve to: degrade or humiliate an individual, inhibit his academic performance, jeopardize person or property, interfere with the normal transmission of telephone or mail communication, or impose monetary fines.

Sanctions permitted were listed as: verbal warning, letter of warning, letter of censure, limitation of house privileges, restitution (or a percentage of financial liability on University property damage), service to the residence hall, and curfew.

Lastly, it was pointed out that in the case that suspension from the University is recommended (and accepted by the administration, i.e. the Dean of Men or Dean of Women), the case is automaticlly referred to the University Discipline Committee.

Copies of the Procedures are available in the Student Senate Office according to Dick Wimberley of Men's Affairs Committee.

ATTENTION... FRESHMAN WOMEN

Freshman Convocation and Rush Registration is

THIS TUESDAY

February 7, 1967 at 6:45

in Bowker Aud.

YOU MUST REGISTER AT THIS TIME TO BE ELIGIBLE FOR RUSH AND REMEMBER:

Panhellenic Representatives will be in the Governor's Lounge of the Student Union every day during Rush Week (Tues., Feb. 7th-Tues., Feb. 14th) from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. to answer any and all questions.

Give of Yourself

Hospital Seeks Volunteers

Amid the drudgery of school work or the ecstasy of weekends did you ever feel a stronge desire to give of yourself? There is an outlet for that desire. If you can't find it then maybe you should go to Northampton State Mental Hospital—AS A VOLUNTEER!

If you really do want to help people then you should know that Northampton State is a place where your help is needed, wanted, and will be appreciated.

The patients are eager for personal attention and contacts with the outside world. They are people with emotional problems which have aroused their desire to be noticed, accepted, and above all, liked. Acceptance is closely related to their mental health.

For two hours every week volunteers from the ten colleges in this vicinity work in the lonely back wards of the hospital.

These wards, due to tranquilizing drugs, no longer resemble a snake pit; instead they have a quiet, morose, atmosphere. Yet when the volunteers walk onto the wards everyone gets busy, active and happy. The mere presence of young, energetic people seem to wake up the whole hospital.

People who come with that energy have all that is needed to make a good volunteer. No educational or practical knowledge is necessary; the only other requirements are a warm smile, a desire to make others happy, and an offer of friendship. The patients want that friendship desperately.

So, would you like to come? This Thursday night, February 9 recruitment will take place to offer interested students a chance to survey the hospital.

Anyone and everyone is invited. (Don't worry, no commitments must be made). If you are interested then meet at the Student Union lobby-counter at 6:45 p.m. on Thursday night.

Bus transportation will be provided all semester. After recruitment night the bus will be available every Wednesday night at the same time. If you have any questions feel free to call Ellen Levy, 546-8258 any time. Hope to see you there on Thursday!

SUMMER JOBS UNDER WORK STUDY

Students who are presently working under the Federal Work Study Program and students who think they might also qualify for the program should see Mr. Siegrist in the Placement Office in reference to obtaining a summer job with a non-profit organization in their community.

There are a limited number of these jobs available and eligibility is based on the student's financial need as determined by the Placement & Financial Aid Office which is located in Machmer Hall.

Attention, Seniors

Graduation Day has been set for Sunday, June 4, 1967.

The graduation committee has decided to mail out diplomas this year, but the graduation ceremony will still include the filing up for diploma covers. In order to do this you must fill out and complete the cap and gown cards which were stuffed into registration folders.

It is mandatory that these be returned to the R.S.O. office by Feb. 20, 1967.

If you have misplaced your cards, write the following information on a card and return it immediately: name, permanent address (home) male or female, what degree you will receive (arts, science, engineering, education, etc.), height, weight, and cap size.

These caps and gowns are paid for with part of the graduation fee. Tassels come with each order and can be kept by the graduate.

No refunds will be made to any senior who does not participate. Regardless of whether you intend to participate or not you should fill out the card.

Summer graduates can participate in the June graduation. Those graduating in Jan. of '68 cannot.

Pay all fines (library, parking, etc.) before graduation or you will not receive your diploma.

Great Discussions Program To Discuss China Tonight

Communist China and the U.S. will be the first Great Decisions Program topic scheduled for tonite at 6:30 p.m. in the Webster House Lounge.

This will be a public forum with experts, Professor Franklin Houn and Professor John Maki of the Government Department. Dr. Luther Allen will be moderator of the group.

There is still time for those people interested in participating to sign up and to purchase a Great Decisions Booklet. This can be done at Webster House Library at the first forum.

It is urged that the booklet be obtained. It gives necessary background information on all the issues of the eight week Great Decisions Program.

There will be a radio session on Thursday, February 9th over WFCR and WGBH. This program, sponsored by Webster House and the Orchard Hill Community, is open to the entire campus and to students of neighboring colleges.

The Brothers of
PHI MU DELTA
cordially invite all freshmen to an open Smoker
Monday, February 6
at 8:30
Rides at dorm lounges 8:15

AMHERST Cinema
NOW ENDS TUES.
Dean Martin
Ann Margret
in
"MURDERERS' ROW"

Starts WEDNESDAY
LYNN REDGRAVE
"Best Actress Of The Year!"*
N.Y. FILM CRITICS' * (CO-WINNER)
GEORGY GIRL
A COLUMBIA PICTURES RELEASE

LATE SHOW FRIDAY AT 11:30 P.M.
"TOM JONES"

So you'll be 1-A. You're still A-1 with Armstrong.

Let's be realistic—you may be serving in the military later on. But why just mark time until something happens? Facing the draft is no reason to be unemployed. 65% of the college graduates who joined us last year were eligible for military service. You can begin your career with Armstrong now. Then, after you fulfill your military obligation, you pick up right where you left off. Why this consideration? Because at Armstrong we need capable, imaginative college graduates who are looking for a place where they can grow and contribute. We're building for the future with each person we employ. And we stick by our people. Maybe that's why they stick with us. See our man when he is on your campus soon. For more information about Armstrong now, see your placement officer or write the College Relations Department, Armstrong Cork Co., Lancaster, Pa. 17604.

Armstrong CORK COMPANY — Manufacturer of resilient floors, ceilings and other building products, packaging materials, industrial products, and home maintenance specialties

An Equal Opportunity Employer

A progressive, diversified organization offering rewarding careers in accounting • advertising • employee relations • engineering • industrial engineering • marketing • production planning • public relations • research and development.

CLASS OF '67
Domino
SUGAR'S EXPANDING ORGANIZATION IN NEW YORK · PHILADELPHIA · BOSTON
BALTIMORE · NEW ORLEANS has created many growth opportunities for recent graduates in the following fields
- MECHANICAL ENGINEERS
- INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS
- CHEMICAL ENGINEERS
- ACCOUNTANTS
- FINANCE • SALES

If you desire a challenging and rewarding position, sign up for our campus interviews on
If the date is not convenient, please write:
Mr. J. C. Dusel
Technical Recruiter
AMERICAN SUGAR COMPANY
New York 5, New York

INTRAMURALS

Untouchables, TEP, Hi-Lo's In Last Minute Victories

by TOM CONUEL, Sports Staff

Several close games highlighted Thursday nights intramural basketball action as the run-off for the campus champion began.

One of the closest games was the TEP-Kappa Sigma contest. KS after holding a slight lead for most of the game inexplicable went dead cold in the waning minutes of the game and lost to TEP, 37-31. Alan Fisher paced a well-balanced TEP attack with 12 points. Bobby Detore played a fine field game for KS and also contributed nine points.

Hills South defeated the Chadbourne Maroons in an upset, 49-47. Al Holcomb poured in 18 points for the Hi - Los while Frank Holcomb contributed 16. Bill Frisbee threw in 16 points for the Maroons.

Still another close game saw the usually cool Untouchables in deep trouble with the Gorman Independents. The Untouchables won, 36-32, on the last minute heroics of Bob Shay. With the game tied and only 30 seconds remaining Shay made two foul shots and then sank a field goal to provide the margin of victory for the Untouchables.

The Grayson Flaming A's stopped the Mills Birches, 55 - 50.

Doug Myer had 17 points for the A's while Art Jewett added another 12. The Birches despite their loss showed a well balanced attack. Dick Goldberg had 18 points for the losers, while Jim Muldoon and Pete Fronczek had 13 apiece.

The Kennedy Cougars edged the Adams' Flaming A's, 40-35. Tom Bigelow led the Cougars with 10 points. And in the only one-sided game of the night LCA crushed ZN, 57-25. Jeff Larson and Jerry Forgit were the big guns in the LCA attack with 15 points apiece plus fine performances off the boards.

Girl Gyms Don Tights, Swamp Salem

UMass' junior varsity women's gymnastics team out maneuvered a group of visitors from Salem State Teachers College with dispatch Saturday night in Boyden Auxiliary Gym, annexing a 76-34 win in its first outing of the season.

The women swept all four events, placing one, two and three on each piece of apparatus. Sue Clancy was the individual standout as she finished first in both the uneven parallel bar event and the side horse vault. Her scores were 6.7 and 7.7 on the respective events.

Leslie Gallion of UMass was first on the balance beam, a contest between woman and a mencing four-inch wide piece of lumber. She recorded a 7.0 on the event and in the vault she scored a 6.9 to place second to Miss Clancy.

Marge Smith won the floor exercise going away as she rated a 7.9 from the panel of four judges. Her nearest threat was teammate Barbara McArdle, who finished with a 5.8.

Linda Binney, another top performer for the UMass ladies, placed second in both the uneven parallels and the balance beam with scores of 6.7 and 5.8, respectively. Miss Binney also executed a vault valued at 6.2, god for third in the event.

Mrs. Kitty Kjeldsen's coterie, both varsity and JV, will be at Braintree High School, Braintree, next Saturday to compete against one of the best school girl contingents in the state.

6'5 junior forward Greg Rand will be out for two weeks with a pulled groin muscle.

Wrestlers Succumb To Eph Muscle, 30-11

by TOM CONUEL
Sports Staff

The UMass varsity wrestling team sustained a 30-11 defeat to Williams last Saturday afternoon before a large crowd at Boyden Gym. Accounting for the points for the UM grapplers were Marc Ryerson (130), Gene Paltrineri (137), and Captain Art Keown (152).

Ryerson successfully contained his opponent for almost the entire eight minutes of the match on his way to a 4-1 decision.

Paltrineri picked up his fourth win of the season when he won by a fall at 2:15 of the second period.

Keown all but ruined his man in dominating his match by a 6-0 score.

Wrestling in an exhibition, freshman, Bob Spousta racked up his third victory of the year at 3:20.

Coach Homer Barr's charges are a young team. Five of the nine wrestlers are only sophomores. With experience they will become a formidable outfit. Des-

(Continued on page 11)

Liberal Arts majors at IBM?

Come on, IBM, you're putting me on.

Yes, we are. We're putting Liberal Arts graduates on the track of an exciting new career for men and women. In computer programming at IBM.

Just what does a computer programmer do?

He puts IBM computers to work solving the information processing and control problems of business and industry. This takes a specialized knowledge. And IBM will train you to get it. At full pay, of course.

You say you didn't major in math? Neither did many computer programmers at IBM. They majored in philosophy. Music. Language. We have people from almost all the liberal arts. Engineering, scientific or math courses help. But whatever your educational background, there's an opportunity for growth, advancement and financial reward at IBM.

When you've completed the extensive training program, you'll find the opportunities are practically unlimited. As an IBM computer programmer you're in a position to put your ideas and education to work immediately. Because information processing and control is the fastest-growing field today. And IBM is the leader in the field.

So, come on. To an exciting, rewarding future at IBM.

IBM

Whatever your immediate commitments, whatever your area of study, sign up now for an on-campus interview with IBM, February 7, 8.

If, for some reason, you aren't able to arrange an interview, drop us a line. Write to: Manager of College Recruiting, IBM Corporation, 590 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10022. IBM is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

A Man for All Sport Seasons--III

The Problems of an Athletic Director

In terms of men and money, Warren McGuirk is one of the most influential men on the UMass campus. Staying aware of his power can at times be a task in itself.

The University Athletic Council, of which he is the chairman, consists of five members of the faculty, four alumni (one permanent member being Evan Johnson, head of the Alumni Association), and the president of the Student Senate.

"We've been fortunate," he says, "in having many dedicated people in our faculty and our alumni ranks. It is rare when they miss a meeting."

Alumni and faculty members comprise a screening committee whenever one of the top coaching positions is open. They handle recommendations from coaches and alumni, and President Lederle makes the final decision.

But McGuirk is the acknowledged man on or behind the scenes. And rank imposes problems as well as obligations.

"There was trouble years ago," he says, "when the alumni ran the whole show, when athletic administrations were not cognizant of what was going on."

One of the biggest problems of an athletic department in a school with rising scholastic standards is finding athletes who happen to be students.

"We feel that Massachusetts is a very fertile state for good student-athletes," McGuirk comments. "But, competing with the service academies and the Ivy League schools, recruiting in Massachusetts is tougher.

"If UMass could recruit as much talent from the Commonwealth as we would like," he added, "we'd have no worries. We'd have the kind of program I'd like to have at our state university."

Does the athletic department favor a move toward so-called "big-time" football?

"We mustn't ever use the term 'big-time' on this campus. If we had all the money in the world, it would be hard for us to go 'big-time.'

"We have scholastic entrance requirements that must be recognized. This may be an indictment of schools that play so-called 'big-time' football."

Earlier this week, when UMass was arranging the basketball schedule for '67-'68, McGuirk pointed out that "There are certain schools that we would like to play, but they do not have the same entrance requirements that we do. So we have decided not to compete with these schools."

Scheduling is one of McGuirk's and Assistant Athletic Director Ched Gladchuck's biggest problems. "We don't want to become provincial," McGuirk says. He feels that visits to other campuses hold educational merit for UMass athletes.

Increasingly, football schedules must be arranged far in advance. Before 10 years ago, the interval was only about two years. Then it was four years. Now it is almost 10. UMass has sought games with Harvard, in addition to the other Massachusetts schools, B.U., B.C., and Holy Cross, and with other schools in New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Another of McGuirk's problems is closer to home —the question of which sports to recognize and finance as official University teams. The UMass Crew Club, for example, has been seeking official status for the last few years.

"We have to give priority to programs that have been considered over a period of years," McGuirk explains, adding that crews in most other schools are run by alumni, with 90 percent of their funds accrued through alumni contributions.

"We don't discourage any group from formalizing, but we have to do with the money what will benefit the greatest number of students. To me, all the sports are important, because I'm interested in the total program."

Next issue—Conclusion: What about the Twenty Formula?

Temple Gymnasts Too Strong for UM

by TIM MURPHY
Sports Staff

Temple University's gymnastics team arived at Boyden Gymnasium at 10 a.m. Saturday. By four in the afternoon the powerful visiting squad had laced UMass, 176-159, for its third E.I.G.G.L. victory in four encounters.

Temple, coached by Carl Patterson, a member of the NCAA gymnastics rules committee, lost little time in allocating the Redmen the role of pursuer. After the floor exercise event the visitors held at 25.35-24.65 lead. The margin was raised to 72.4-66.1 after the third event and slowly increased to the final plurality of 17 points.

Dick Dauphinais carded a composite 8.8 points of a possible 10 to tie for the lead in the floor exercise. Other UMass competitors scoring in the event were Toby Kasavana at 8.0 and Dick DelGalio at 7.85.

On the side horse Bob Leclair negotiated a 8.6, good for first place. Second and third went to Temple, however, as Fred Babakian and Bill Estes were able to score only 7.65 and 6.55, respectively. Event totals saw Temple with 24.05 and UMass with 22.8.

Top performers for UMass on the long horse vault were Captain Al Carver with an 8.7 and Steve Brown with an 8.3. On the rings, a particularly strong event for Temple, Redmen were able to place no higher than fourth. March again led the home squad with an 8.2 composite and was folowed by DelGallo's 8.15 and Dave Woods' 7.35.

Though the Redmen compiled their second highest meet point total of the season, the show was regarded as somewhat of a disappointment.

The Frosh were also handled quite easily Saturday by the Temple yearlings. Final score was 157-137. Leading performer for UMass was Joe Reed, who competed in six of the meet's seven events, registtering three first place finishes and two seconds.

WRESTLING . . .

(Continued from page 10)

pite the loss Coach Barr said, "I am very proud of this team. I think they did a fine job out there today."

Both freshmen and varsity squads are scheduled for three home meets in the next nine days.

Tomorrow the Tufts wrestling contingent will journey to UM. The freshmen meet will begin at 2:30 and the varsity will follow at 4:00. Friday Boston College will take on the Redmen. The frosh will take to the mats at 6:10 and the varsity at 8:00. Finally on Thursday the 14th the Redmen will conclude the home dual meet season with a match against UConn.

FROSTY GOGGLE LODGE
Rt. 100
Wilmington, Vt.
MT. SNOW — HAYSTACK SKI AREAS
COLLEGE DESIGNED RATES
Midweek—$3 & up
Weekends, Holiday Weeks—$4 & up
Reservations 802-464-5017

The Brothers of
PI LAMBDA PHI
National Fraternity Invite All
FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN
to a FORMAL OPEN SMOKER
Time — 8-10 p.m.
Place — Governor's Lounge, Student Union
Date — Feb. 7, 1967

RAYTHEON CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
February 13
Openings for
BSBA and MBA Candidates
For Financial Management Training Program. Positions also available in accounting, financial nad manufacturing control areas.
Sign up for interviews through your Placement Office, or write, Manager of College Relations, Raytheon Company, 141 Spring Street, Lexington, Massachusetts 02173.
RAYTHEON
EXCELLENCE IN ELECTRONICS
EXCELLENCE IN ELECTRONICS
An Equal Opportunity Employer

1. Now that graduation's getting close, have you given any thought to the kind of work you'd like to do?
I want to work for The Good of Mankind.
2. I might have suspected.
I'll probably grow a beard.
3. Is it required?
It helps. And I'll certainly need a pair of sandals.
4. What do you expect to earn?
All I ask is the satisfaction of knowing I'm helping to Build a Better World.
5. I'll be doing much the same thing. I've also lined up a job that affects society in a positive way. And if I do good, I'll move up, and my decisions will be even more important in the scheme of things.
But where's your beard? What about sandals?
6. You don't need them in Equitable's development program. All you need is an appetite for challenge and responsibility, and the desire to do the best possible job. The pay is tops, too.
You know, I'm afraid a beard would itch—could you get me an interview with Equitable?
Make an appointment through your Placement Officer to see Equitable's employment representative on February 8 or write to Patrick Scollard, Manpower Development Division, for further information.
The EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society of the United States
Home Office: 1285 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N. Y. 10019
An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F © Equitable 1965

ROUGH STUFF—Billy Tindall stuffs the ball after a second half breakaway which gave the Redmen their last lead.

Harper Leads Syracuse Over Hustling Redmen

Tindall, Edwards Star Again For UMass in 67-59 Defeat

by DAVE JARNES
Sports Staff

Mechanically, the Redmen played a near-perfect game against Syracuse. Their aggressive man to man completely shut off three of the Orangemen's four big guns. They easily broke Syracuse's fabled zone press and were able to penetrate the New Yorkers' zone for many easy shots.. But in order to win any basketball game you've got to put the ball through the hoop. Massachusetts was unable to shoot with much accuracy and consequently lost 67-59 before 2500 at the Cage.

Syracuse was heavily favored to romp, but it was obvious from the start that the visitors were in for a ballgame. The first half was nip and tuck all the way, with Syracuse gaining its 30-25 halftime margin in the final minute. Massachusetts refused to run with the Orangemen, and their patience upset Syracuse's fast break.

Massachusetts took its last lead at 23-22 when Billy Tindall double-dunked the ball on a breakaway. It looked like the Redmen might open up a lead, but they suddenly went cold while Syracuse spurted into the lead in the last two minutes.

The story of the first half was the surprising Massachusetts defense. Pete Gayeska made Rick Dean, Syracuse's second leading scorer, look so bad that coach Fred Lewis benched him. George Hicker, a tremendous outside shooter who leads his team in scoring, was made to seem like a virtual nonenity by Bill Tindall. Ricky Cornwell, another fine scorer, hit for just eight points while being guarded by Joe DiSarcina.

Syracuse got its biggest lead of the night at 38-29 in the opening minutes of the second half. At this point Tim Edwards made the play of the night when he blocked a stuff shot attempt by Vaughn Harper and stole the ball. Massachusetts proceded to run off six straight points to close the gap to 38-35, but this was as close as they got. Time and again the Redmen got the percentage shots, but somehow just couldn't find the basket. Syracuse's lead fluctuated between five and seven points for the rest of the game as UMass was always in contention, but was never able to go in front.

The shooting percentages tell the story of the game. Massachusetts hit for 38% of its shots any Syracuse was only 37% from the floor. UMass shot a poor 11 for 22 from the foul line while Syracuse canned 17 of 28.

Vaughn Harper was the whole show for the Orangemen. He scored with equal precision on jump shots or tip-ins while hauling in fifteen rebounds. Although his teammates were having off nights, Harper got the big baskets whenever the Redmen would start to gain some momentum. This is perhaps best illustrated when he hit three straight jumpers after UMass had closed the lead to 38-35 to keep his team out of danger. The 6'4" star made a spectacular basket when he got his elbow over the rim to bat in a rebound off the backboards.

For the Redmen, Edwards was a terror off the boards with twenty rebounds while Tindall contributed 14 rebounds. Joe DiSarcina was so adept at breaking Syracuse's press that they stopped using it in the second half.

(Box Score at bottom of page)

THREE'S A CROWD—Tim Sdwards (54), Pete Gayeska (hidden) and Syracuse's Rick Dean (50) all go after a first half rebound.

Spectacular Sanborn Saves Skaters, 6-5

by JOE DUFFY
Sports Staff

Overcoming a 3-1 first period deficit and then holding off a determined Vermont assault, the Redmen hockey team squeezed by the Catamounts, 6-5, at Orr Rink Saturday afternoon.

The Redmen opened up the game's scoring on an early tally by senior wing Ed Kinsella. Kinsella's goal came at 2:44 of the opening period on assists by Don Robinson and Ed Dicicco. Vermont then scored three goals in three minutes, one by Jim Brock and two by Lee Ray.

The second period was all UMass as the pucksters held the Catamounts scoreless while picking up three goals themselves. The Redmen struck fast as Bill Skowyra scored on an assist by Ed Graney with less than 30 seconds gone by in the period.

Kinsella and Frank Buckler followed by scoring at 3:46 and 16:50 respectively to give the Redmen a 4-3 lead going into the final frame.

Vermont's Jack Semler evened the score at 4-all by scoring at 7:20 of the final period. Fran Mulcahey's goal on a breakaway gave UMass the lead again as he took a fine pass from Jeff Sanborn and sent it flying past Vermont netminder John Hynes. The Redmen seemed to put the game out of reach when Ed Quimby took a pass from Bill Skowyra and sent a 30-foot slap shot from the left side flying into the goal with 3:40 to go in the contest.

But Vermont scored again on Semler's second goal of the period to make it 6-5 for UMass. Redmen netminder Ed Sanborn then made many brilliant saves in the final few minutes to ensure the UMass victory. Sanborn finished with 23 saves as compared to 19 for Vermont goalie John Hynes.

The win brought the Redmen's record to 6-5-1 for the season and gives them a good shot at a berth in Division II of the upcoming ECAC tournament.

Holy Cross visits Orr Rink on February 10 at p.m. for the next Redmen encounter. UMass ID's provide admittance for all home games.

Wrestling Tues. UMass vs. Tufts 4 P. M.--Boyden

Clay - Terrell Tonight--10:30

FROSH BASEBALL

There will be a meeting for all freshmen basketball players on Tuesday, February 16, at 7 p.m. in Room 251 of the Boyden Building. This is the first official meeting. All interested candidates are urged to attend, according to frosh coach Arlan Barber.

UMass-H. C. 8:20 on WMUA 91.1 FM

Second-Half Comeback Falls Short, Frosh Lose to Springfield, 53-52

by MIKE CURRAN
Sports Staff

A strong second half comeback by the Little Redmen fell short and they succumbed to the Springfield College freshmen, 53-52, Saturday night at Curry Hicks.

After reducing a 10 point deficit to one, the frosh gained possession of the ball with four seconds remaining. A 40-footer by Jack Gallagher bounced high off the rim, however, and UMass sustained its third loss of the campaign, each having come after a long layoff.

The frosh suffered through a poor shooting, sloppy first half, coming out of it on the short end of a 30-21 score. It was obvious that the academic losses of five first semester players hurt the team.

Springfield increased its margin early in the second half, but the Little Redmen closed the gap to six points with 9 minutes left, but were unable to close it anymore until the last few minutes.

Down 48-42 with three minutes left, Ray Ellerbrook pulled UMass closer with a three-point play.

Springfield's Greg Ziogas and UMass' Kevin Boispolie traded baskets, and a foul shot by Ellerbrook brought the Little Redmen within two, 50-48. George Yelverton hit for the Maroons, but with 25 seconds left Boisjolie scored again to make it 52-50 in favor of Springfield.

Yelverton sank a charity toss to put the Maroons up by three, but this was countered by two by UMass' Wayne Starziak and UMass trailed by one. The Little Redmen got their hands on the ball once more, but Gallagher's bomb was unsuccessful.

The taller Redmen were outrebounded by the hustling Maroons, 53-52. Yelverton, a 6'3 forward was impressive as a strong shooter and boardman. Ellerbrook and Jack Gallagher led UMass with 15 and 14 points, respectively. Boisjolie, in his first starting role, came through with some clutch points and finished with nine. Dick Samuelson grabbed eleven rebounds for the home team.

The frosh visit Worcester tonight to take on the Holy Cross yearlings in a 6:30 prelim to the varsity contest.

SPRINGFIELD FR.	B	F	Pts.	UMASS FROSH	B	F	Pts.
Yelverton	8	3	19	Gallagher	6	2	14
Ziogas	5	3	13	Rubin	0	0	0
Miller	3	2	8	Samuelson	2	4	8
Patz	2	4	8	Perry	1	2	4
Gaede	1	2	4	Ellerbrook	6	3	15
Madore	0	0	0	Starsiak	0	2	2
Taylor	0	1	1	Niles	0	0	0
				Shea	0	0	0
				Boisjolie	3	3	9
Totals	19	15	53	Totals	18	16	52

Score at half time Springfield 30, UMass 21.

UMASS	B	F	Pts	SYRACUSE	B	F	Pts
Stewart	2	0	4	Hicker	4	1	9
Edwards	7	0	14	Harper	11	6	28
Tindall	8	3	19	Dean	4	2	10
DiSarcina	3	5	11	Cornwall	2	4	8
Murphy	0	0	0	Ludd	3	3	9
Lisack	3	2	8	Ringelmann	1	1	3
Gayeska	1	1	3	Kouwe	0	0	0
Girotti	0	0	0	Hamblin	0	0	0
Meola	0	0	0
Totals	24	11	59	Totals	25	17	67

Score at half-time Syracuse 30, UMass 25.

H. C.-UMass Vie Tonight At Worcester

by GENN BRIERE
Sports Staff

Keith Hochstein is back. Holy Cross basketball fans are aware of that as he has scored 41 points in his last two games. UMass coach Jack Leaman must also be aware of it as his Redmen travel to Worcester tonight to play the Crusaders.

Hochstein is a 6'4 forward who had been out of action since December 17 with a broken foot. The nation's 12th leading rebounder as a soph last year, he returned to action last Wednesday against B.U. and scored 18 points.

His return has given Coach Jack Donohue's front line added strength along with high scoring Ed Siudut and Ron Teixeira, all of whom can average about 10 rebounds a game.

Holy Cross is 9-7 and has come on strong after a poor start. Last year UMass beat them twice so the Crusaders will be out for a measure of revenge in tonight's game, which will be broadcast by WMUA (91.1 FM) starting at 8:20.

Siudut is a 6'7 sophomore who shoots exceptionally well for a big man. His 20.5 scoring average is tops on the Holy Cross squad. Although he is still inexperienced on defense, his shooting range makes him quite an asset to that powerful Crusader front line. He is also the leading rebounder.

Hockstein, a junior, consistently outrebounds bigger men. An expert at getting position, the muscular forward hit his season high Saturday night against B.C. with 23 points.

Teixiera, the 6'9 center, is touted as a future great and although he has gotten off to a slow start, he is beginning to show his talent. The former Catholic Memorial standout has a 10.0 average and is second on the team in rebounds.

In the backcourt, the Crusaders are led by 6'2 junior Al Stazinski, the second leading scorer at 15.6 points a game. His shooting has surprised many this year and his defensive work is more than adequate.

Rounding out the starting five is Jim Murray, a 6'1 junior. He averages 5.6 but he can hit on clutch baskets. Posibly seeing action at guard will be captain Ralph Willard, a 6'3 senior whose shooting prowess makes him a fine reserve.

NEED FOR FUNDS:

UMASS MED SCHOOL LAGS BEHIND

by ERIC GOLDMAN, Staff Reporter

Both Massachusetts and Connecticut began programs for the construction of state med schools in 1961, yet by the time the first doctor graduates from the Mass. med school, 200 will have been graduated from UConn. The reason for this is that the UMass school will open two to three years after the opening of the Connecticut school.

The differences in the development of the two schools are great. By 1965, the Connecticut project had received $24 million from the state whereas Massachusetts subsidies totaled $500,000.

The Connecticut legislature planned specifically to develop a dental school. In Massachusetts, the dental school issue was avoided completely at the beginning and only now is being given serious consideration.

A study committee is presently deciding whether it is sensible to develop a dental school as part of the med school complex.

The issue of selecting a site for the Mass. school required three years of discussion before Worcester was finally decided upon. Connecticut decided this issue in the first legislation of the matter.

The Connecticut legislature firmly supported a $2 million bond issue for the school. Massachusetts legislatures provided no funds in its first bill concerning the school.

Connecticut received a million dollar grant from the Kellogg Foundation in the 1950's as an award for starting a two year med school at that time. These funds from the start made it possible to pay top salaries, hire consultants, secretaries, and other personnel. Mr. John W. Patterson, dean of the Connecticut Med School, said that "the early cast was vital. It enabled us to pay bills on the spot and get things done."

Connecticut hired key men all at once to work cooperatively on the project—a med school dean, a dental school dean, and two top associates for each dean.

Massachusetts, on the contrary, was held back because of site selection problems, little or no money, and a late selection of a med school dean.

By November 1966, UConn had received $17 million in federal grants to aid construction of the medical and dental facilities. Massachusetts is applying for similar aid in March of this year.

The first class of 48 medical students and 48 dental students will enter the Connecticut Medical-Dental School in the Fall of 1968. If all proceeds as planned, the first Mass. class will begin in 1970, and will consist of approximately 16 students. The reason for this comparatively small number is due to the fact that not all the buildings will be completely constructed nor fully equipped.

In general, where the med school of UConn has had funds and public backing, the UMass school has not. But with federal funds due possibly in March, hopes remain high for the Mass. med school.

(Sunday Boston Globe, February 5)

THE MASSACHUSETTS

COLLEGIAN

A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCV, NO. 41 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1967

Swing-Shifters Attend Reception

Photo by Remaro

University officials were on hand Sunday evening to greet Swing-Shift freshmen at the President's reception in the Cape Cod Lounge. Nearly 300 freshmen were on hand to greet (from the left) Student Senate President John Greenquist, Mrs. Lederle, President Lederle, and Dean Field.

GRAD STUDENT INJURED FATALLY IN AMHERST SCUFFLE

William F. Lyons, who lived at E. Hadley Road, Amherst, and who was from Fall River, a math graduate at UMass, died around noon yesterday at Wesson Memorial Hospital in Springfield after being operated on for head injuries.

Lyons was brought to the University Infirmary around 12:30 yesterday morning by two unidentified UMass students. He was taken to Wesson Memorial Hospital in a town ambulance around 5:30 a.m. on the order of Dr. Brandfass of the Infirmary staff. He was operated on by Dr. Pava at Wesson for neurosurgery shortly after he arrived.

A U.P.I. release reported that Lyons had a scuffle outside the Village Inn with his two room-mates, both from Fall River. Lyons apparently suffered head injuries when he hit his head on the pavement.

Lt. Mahoney of the State Police in Northampton and the Amherst Police questioned the two room-mates yesterday afternoon. However, District Attorney Keedy stated that "No person has been held or charged with criminal conduct."

The District Attorney will ask that a court inquest be held to investigate. Today an autopsy will be held at Wesson Memorial Hospital.

Both the Amherst Police and the State Police refused to comment.

SNOW!

by GORDON DAVIDSON
Senior Reporter

Think Snow! The battle cry of Dick Wood and the Winter Carni crew seems to have been heard by many more people than expected. Mr. Wood's psychic work has blessed the U Mass campus with a blanket of eight to ten inches of drifting snow and bitter cold temperatures of 0 to 15 above.

The snow began early Tuesday morning and quickly gained the proportions of an old fashioned New England blizzard. The weather bureau report at 1:40 p.m.

(Continued on page 2)

Mandatory
News Staff Meeting
Tonight 6:45
Collegian Office

Collegian Elections

New Editor Speaks Out

by ED PARKER
Staff Reporter

Monday's Collegian elections resulted in the selection of an editorial staff whose purpose, enunciated by the newly elected Editor-in-Chief Weinerman, will be to develop a truly responsible newspaper.

After lauding the efforts of interim Editor Gordon Davidson and Managing Editor Jim Foudy, the new editor called for a rejection of the too often apparent motto of "When in doubt . . . print." This situation, according to Weinerman, has been the result of a lack of copy of such magnitude that the quality of the paper has had to be sacrificed lest empty pages appear.

The Collegian, he continued, has lost respect due to "carelessness, inaccuracy, deception, and aimlessness," all of which contributed to the production of what he termed "slopstrosities." According to Weinerman, a new direction will have to be given to the Collegian in order to erase these problems.

The former Editorial Chairman, Weinerman will work to insure that a consistent editorial policy is formulated by all the editors, in contrast to the past when editorials were solely the responsibility of a few individuals.

Citing the overall staff as being deficient in number, Weinerman added that a recruitment campaign for reporters would begin, and would be especially concentrated in Journalism classes. With the acquisition of an expanded staff and a paper of higher quality, the new editor hopes to see the Collegian become a daily paper, with the aid of one of the two major wire services.

Speaking at length about the possibility of a daily paper, Weinerman pointed out that an expanded staff could handle this without difficulty. At present, he continued, such a move would not be possible to the already undue burden that the paper has placed on a few individuals. But again emphasizing the possibility of the daily, he pointed to the qualifications of the others elected to editorial positions as indicative of the Collegian's potential.

Photo by Harvey

CHET WEINERMAN

Those whom he feels can adequately fulfill the goals he outlined include: Jack Dean as Managing Editor, Bob Gorman as News Editor, Phil Goepp as Feature Editor, Chuck Smith as Business Manager, Tom Fitzgerald as Sports Editor, Ellie Skinner as Editorial Editor, and John Kelly and Paul Bolliver as Photography Editors.

LINES FORM FOR WINTER CARNI

Photo by Donovan

UMass students patiently await opportunity to purchase Winter Carnival tickets.

Guitarist to Appear in Concert

Rey de la Torre, one of the world's great names in guitar will make a rare concert appearance when he joins the Springfield Symphony Orchestra on Tuesday evening, Feb. 24. Senor de la Torre is scheduled to perform the Concierto de Aranjuez by Joaquin Rodrigo, under Robert Steffanson's direction.

The Springfield Symphony has maintained a policy of offering student tickets to its performances at $1 and these tickets may be ordered and purchased at Del Padre's in Northampton for the de la Torre concert.

Tickets may also be purchased at Symphony headquarters, 49 Chestnut St., Springfield, or at Springfield Memorial Auditorium prior to the 8:30 p.m. concert.

Mr. de la Torre is a native of Havana, but left Cuba at the age of fourteen to take up study of the guitar in Spain with the brilliant virtuoso, Miguel Llobet. He made his New York Town Hall debut in 1941 and has since concertized throughout the world.

His recordings for Epic are among the country's top-sellers in this field and de la Torre has recently completed the background music for the educational TV networks production of the drama The House of Bernarda Alba by Garcia Lorca.

Rey de la Torre will appear in concert with the Springfield Symphony Orchestra on February 14.

The program for the concert will include Schubert Symphony No. 2, Don Juan by Richard Strauss and Bartok's Two Portraits for Orchestra, in addition to the Rodrigo Concerto.

Notice To All News Staff Members

There will be a mandatory news staff meeting for all persons who plan to stay on the news staff on Wednesday (tonight) at 6:45 in the Collegian Office. If you can't attend call the office or otherwise your name will be dropped from the masthead.

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1811

STUDY IN SOUTHERN FRANCE

A University year in Aix-en-Provence under the auspices of the University of Aix-Marseille (founded 1409).

EUROPEAN AREA STUDIES
FRENCH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE
HONORS PROGRAM
(courses in French University exclusively)
ART AND ART HISTORY
SOCIAL SCIENCES
MEDITERRANEAN AREA STUDIES

Classes in English and French satisfying curriculum and credit requirements of over 280 American Colleges and Universities. Students live in French homes. Total costs equivalent to those at private universities and colleges in the United States.

"SEMESTER PROGRAM IN AVIGNON"
"SUMMER PROGRAM IN AIX-EN-PROVENCE"

Write:
INSTITUTE FOR AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES
(founded 1957)
2 bis, rue du Bon Pasteur
AIX-EN-PROVENCE, FRANCE
Telephone: France (Code 91) 27.82.39 or (Code 91) 27.69.01

Area I Judiciary

Vacancies Need to Be Filled

Selections for membership on Area I Judiciary will be made by the Student Senate's Men's Affairs Committee on Sun., Feb. 12, at 1 p.m. Three positions are open for the class of '69 and one each for the class of '70 and Stockbridge. Residents of Grayson, Webster, Chadbourne, Greenough, Baker, and Butterfield are eligible to compete for the five positions.

Applications, which will be available all week from Heads of Residences and from the RSO Office at the SU, must be submitted when reporting to the place of selections.

The Area Judiciaries are brother organizations to Men's Judiciary, equal in most respects. Both judiciaries hear the same type of cases and have the same range of possible sanctions.

Each Area Judiciary is assigned jurisdiction over offenses occurring in the area about the various dorms. Serious offenses taking place in other areas are heard directly by Men's Judiciary.

The Area Judiciaries act as appellate boards for House Judiciaries within their jurisdiction while appeals of their decisions are heard by Men's Judiciary.

The responsibility of these judiciaries is dual: first, they must determine guilt or innocence of the defendant, then if the defendant is found guilty, they must recommend a punishment.

FIVE MINUTES — HATCH PIZZA!

Students on the UMass campus may now enjoy large pizzas in the Hatch.

According to Mr. Russell W. Colvin, Student Union Food Manager, a variety of cheese, hamburg, pepperoni, mushroom, and onion pizzas are now being offered daily from 7 P.M. to closing time.

An order for the above will be ready within approximately 5 minutes!

Professional Careers in Cartography

CIVILIAN EMPLOYMENT with the U. S. AIR FORCE
CREATING AEROSPACE PRODUCTS

Minimum 120 semester hours college credit including 5 hours college level math. The required math must include at least 2 of the following: college algebra, trigonometry, analytic geometry, differential calculus, integral calculus, or any course for which any of these is a prerequisite. Equivalent experience acceptable. Training program. Openings for men and women. Application and further information forwarded on request.

WRITE: College Relations (ACPCR)
Hq Aeronautical Chart & Information Center,
8900 S. Broadway, St. Louis, Missouri 63125
An equal opportunity employer

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Senate Vacancies in following dorms:

John Adams Lower
Butterfield
Chadbourne
Crabtree

Senate Seats Representing:

Fraternities
Class of 1967 at Large
2 Commuter posts

Nomination sheets can be obtained in R.S.O. Office, and are due

Friday, February 10, 1966 by 5:00 p.m.

Dorm Elections will be 6:00-9:00 in dorms
Fraternity, commuter, and at large elections will be 9:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m. in S.U. on February 16, 1967

Winter Carni Presents The Soul of Jazz

MARIAM WILLIAMS

Hailed as "the leading Gospel singer of the day," and a performer whose "wild, vibrant rhythm and phenomenal range set her apart from every other singer," Mariam Williams will be swinging with The Soul of Jazz on Tue., Feb. 21, at 7 p.m., in Bowker Theatre, during the exciting Midweek Winter Carni '67.

A guest of the UM Distinguished Visitors Program and Winter Carnival '67, Mariam Williams will lead her company of singer-dancer-musicians and the audience through a rafter-shaking symposium on American Jazz. Through song, dialogue, and production numbers, with washboards, tambourines, and trumpets, Mariam Williams and Group will present the history of America's musical sounds — spirituals, folk songs, gospel, Dixieland, "Bop," and rhythm and blues.

Want a unique musical evening at the theatre? Come to Bowker. You'll never forget the soaring and soulful production of The Soul Of Jazz.

Grad Completes Peace Corps Training

JOHN GAUGER

John Gauger, a 1966 Stockbridge graduate, has recently completed three months of intensive Peace Corps training in food grain crops production at the Univ. of California at Davis.

The training covered 300 hours of Marathi, the language spoken by the people of Maharashtra, the state where the group is headed for; 200 hours of technical studies, including irrigation and fertilization practices and the use of Hybrid seed; and 150 hours of Area studies of the culture and customs of the people of India.

John left Kennedy International Airport on Jan. 25, for a 29-hour flight to Delhi and Bombay, where briefings will be held for the 51 volunteers before they are paired up and sent to the villages where they will spend the next two years.

SNOW . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Tuesday listed an 11 degree temperature, 20 to 45 mile and hour winds with heavy blowing snow, and high tides with flooding in coastal areas.

Classes on campus were not officially cancelled. According to Dean of Students William F. Field, "It has become the policy not to cancel classes because of the inconvenience caused in making up labs and other important sessions. The cancelling of individual classes is left up to the discretion of the instructor," Field added.

The UMass maintenance department had its full staff of about 100 grounds people on duty, complemented by six plows and two sanders.

The maintenance department official promised that the entire force would remain on duty around the clock until the storm ends and the campus is cleared. The maintenance department was hindered in its work by many of the cars in the parking lots which blocked snow clearing operations.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS

Belchertown Volunteers are needed to go to the state school for the retarded every Saturday. The bus leaves both from the North Commons (1:15 p.m.) and the Newman Center (1:25) and returns at approximately 4:15. Each volunteer is given a tour and may decide where he would like to work.

Some of the areas include the nursery, young teens, and adult education. All new volunteers are very welcome.

Hillel Friday Evening Service

Prof. Robert Stanfield, Dept. of Sociology will speak following services on
"The Integration of the WASP into the Jewish Community"
Services begin 7:00
Worcester Room

Applications for

SWAP COMMITTEE

available in the R.S.O. Office
Monday, February 6

Applications must be returned by Feb. 15

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

Journalism Fraternity Initiated at UMass

by MARGIE FLANDERS
Day Editor

"It's now possible to have our cake and eat it too," remarked Richard Garvey, managing editor of the Springfield Daily News, in his speech before the newly initiated members of Alpha Phi Gamma, the National Honorary Journalism Fraternity.

Referring to the advantages now provided by the computer, Garvey explained how newspapers could maintain their professionalism and still serve their readers.

Because of such innovations as the tape, it is possible to do such things as set the type for the entire stock market page in 18 or 19 minutes.

Garvey, a former Collegian staff member, has been with the Springfield Daily News for 22 years. He appeared as the guest speaker at the initiation banquet Friday night and was honored by the group with an honorary membership.

Alpha Phi Gamma is a national fraternity which recognizes the achievements of college student journalists. There are presently 65 chapters at campuses and universities, the nearest one located at UConn.

Delta Gamma, the UMass chapter, was just formed last year.

Following a sumptuous banquet and the introduction of the invited guests, Provost and Mrs. O. Tippo, Dean and Mrs. W. F. Field, Dr. M. Noffsinger, Mr. and Mrs. G. Scanlon, Dr. and Mrs. A. Musgrave, Mr. and Mrs. D. Politella, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Oickle, the Albany Chapter performed the initiation ceremonies.

Collegian Photo by Eric Wish

Officers of Alpha Phi Gamma, national honorary journalism fraternity, include from the right: Michael Gould (vice-president), Pamela Metaxas (treasurer), Manuel Gordon (president), Joyce Harvey (secretary), and Arthur Cohen (bailiff).

The charter members initiated were Jeanne Brooks, John Carney, Arthur Cohen, Michael Duggan, James Foudy, Robert Gaudet, Manuel Gordon, Michael Gould, Joyce Harvey, Pamela Metaxas, Frederick Pilon, and Eric Wish.

The 1966 initiates were Gerald Couture Jr., John Dean Jr., Marjorie Flanders, and Chester Weinerman.

Advisors to the group are Alvin F. Oickle and Dario Politella.

Following the initiation ceremonies, the members were presented an official banner with their Greek letters and symbols which was made especially for them by Mrs. Politella.

UMass to Sponsor NDEA Institute For French Secondary-School Teachers

UMass will conduct an NDEA Institute for secondary school French teachers at Arcachon, France, next summer, directed by Dr. Stowell C. Goding, UMass professor of Romance languages.

The program is one of five scheduled next summer in Europe under UMass sponsorship. The others are the Atlantic Studies Center at Freiburg University in Germany, a year-around program, the new graduate program in Spanish studies at Madrid, the summer institute at Bologna, Italy and the summer seminar at Oxford University.

The French institute will offer 54 secondary school teachers of French nine weeks of intensive study, contacts with French people and tours. A primary purpose is the identification and special training of secondary school teachers of French who have the potential for leadership in the profession. It is the only French language institute being offered this year that will emphasize training in leadership.

The institute is scheduled to begin June 15 with departure by air from New York City and end Aug. 16. It will include a six-day stay in Paris. Weekend field trips and other tours are planned to the Pyrenees and the Basque country, Languedoc and Provence, Bordeaux, les Landes, le Medoc, the Loire Valley and the chateau country.

Institute participants will attend classes and be housed at the Lycee d' Arcachon in the city of Arcachon on the Atlantic coast near Bordeaux. Courses will include linguistics and phonetics, teaching methods, style, composition and grammar, directed conversation and individual work in language laboratories.

Dr. Goding will head a faculty of selected specialists in French language and literature from the U. S. and France. Applicants for the institute will be selected on the basis of work in previous NDEA French institutes, recommendations, capacity for leadership, academic records and other factors.

No tuition will be charged and teachers selected may apply for stipends of $75 per week for the nine weeks, plus dependency allowances. Participants must pay approximately $850 to cover round trip air fare and subsistence.

Further information is available from Dr. Goding at Bartlett Hall.

University Theater to Hold Tryouts for Rosmersholm

Tryouts for the next University Theatre M.F.A. production, Ibsen's Rosmersholm, will be held on Feb. 8, 9 in Bartlett, Room 119. Readings will begin 3:30-5:30 p.m. and 7:30 on Feb. 8 and at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 9.

Rosmersholm, the realistic character study of people attempting to free themselves from the bonds of their past and the conventions of their society, will be directed by Richard Tirrell in partial fulfillment of requirements toward the Master of Fine Arts Degree in Theatre.

Mr. Tirrell appeared last semester in the role of the judge in Liliom and as the religious fanatic in J.B.

Rosmersholm, which will be presented on March 17 and 18 in Bartlett Auditorium, offers casting problems similar to those which plagued the tryouts for Of Mice and Men—that of filling a sizeable number of difficult male roles.

Mr. Tirrell hopes that as many students as possible will avail themselves of this opportunity to undertake these challenging characters.

DVP Presents Symposium Examining Foreign Policy

The Distinguished Visitors Program will present a symposium on "Worldwide Revolution and American Containment" on Feb. 12-16. The series of four lectures will be followed by panel discussions.

The speakers will examine U.S. Foreign Policy in light of the revolutionary nature of the politics of the underdeveloped countries of the world.

The program is as follows:

Feb. 12 To be announced

Feb. 13 Henry Steele Commager (Prof. of History, Amherst Col.) SU Ballroom 8:30. "The Failure of United States Foreign Policy"

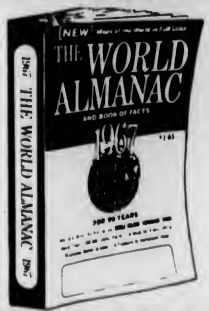
Feb. 14 Dr. Henry Kissinger (Prof. of Govt., Harvard Univ., consultant to U.S. State Dept.) SU Ballroom 8:30, "U.S. Foreign Policy in a Nuclear Age"

Feb. 15 Carl Oglesby (Past Pres. of Students For a Democratic Society) SU Ballroom 8:30. "United States Response to Revolution"

Feb. 16 Panel Discussion. Milton Mayer, Moderator

JUDICIARY

Area I Judiciary Selections will be conducted Sunday, February 12, at 1:00 p.m. in the Student Union.



Positions open: Class of 1969: three; Class of 1970: one; Stockbridge: one.

Students eligible: Residents of Grayson, Webster, Chadbourne, Greenough, Baker and Butterfield.

Applications are available from housemothers and from R.S.O. They must be submitted at the selections.

"THE PARIAHS"
in the BALLROOM
Saturday Night
Admission 50¢
Sponsored by
J.K.F. Middle

LOW RATES WEEKDAYS
DRIVE LESS — PAY LESS — SKI MORE
TWO COMPLETE SKI AREAS
• Beginner to Advance Novice Area, Intermediate to Expert Area, each completely serviced by chairs and T-Bars • 24 Trails and Slopes • 2 Double Chairs, 2 T-Bars • J Bar & Rope Tow • Snow Making on 25 acres
... And, a special race course for clubs. • Giant Slalom Course • Flags Supplied • Permanent Phones • Ski Club discounts, too, for 20 or more people • 6-day tickets and coupon books. No wonder everybody's skiing at Thunder Mountain. College Rates Weekends
• Ski Reports 413-339-4986. Res. 413-339-6610.
LARGEST SKI AREA IN MASSACHUSETTS
Thunder Mountain
Charlemont, Mass. Route 2, Mohawk Trail

ON SALE NOW
NEW FOR 1967

Soil-proof Heavy paper Binding $1.65
Deluxe Cloth-bound Edition $2.75
at all book stores or newsstands.
A Million Facts at Your Fingertips

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

An Honorable Peace?

by MIKE HERSH, Editorial Staff

"As I have stated in every part of the Union, I am ready to go anywhere at any time and meet with anyone whenever there is a promise of progress toward an honorable peace." (President Johnson, Oct. 6, 1966)

It is apparent, however, that the President's actions contradict his words. There was an interesting headline in the Boston Globe, Feb. 2: "Hanoi Agreed to Peace Talks Last Fall But Was Rebuffed." The article states that North Vietnam had, indeed, concurred upon the necessity of negotiations with the United States. "However, on Dec. 13 and 14 U.S. Air Force planes bombed Hanoi and this action was construed by the North Vietnamese leadership as a show of U.S. unwillingness to hold talks." There is actually no other way that they could interpret this action.

This case does not stand alone. On May 6, 1965, Pres. Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam for a few days, and Hanoi asked the French government to indicate to the U.S. its interest in negotiations, stating that prior withdrawal of U.S. troops was not a condition. Our response was to resume bombing the following day. Secretary of State Rusk had the audacity to state later, "In May, there was a cessation of bombing which ended after a harsh rejection by the other side of any serious move toward peace. (N.Y. Times, Nov. 18, 1965)

Following the resumption of bombing after the 37 day halt on Jan. 31, 1966, it was learned that once again Hanoi had responded to our "most intense and determined effort", but to no avail.

Yet, this is not all. President Johnson stated on Oct. 6, 1966: "We pursue every indication that we have that might offer any possibilities. We always have an open mind; we're very anxious to find any basis for negotiation that would lead to an honorable peace . . ." But, following custom, he rejected a halt of the bombing in North Vietnam. This time it took an entire week for his acts to contradict his words.

Last week North Vietnam initiated a new peace feeler. Foreign minister Nguyen Duy Trinh asserted that there could be talks with the United States only after the halt in American bombing. There was no mention of Hanoi's four-point plan. As may be expected, Pres. Johnson insisted "that North Vietnam's hints of possible talks were not a sufficient gesture to persuade him to call off the bombing." (N.Y. Times, Feb. 5)

There is enough evidence to lead one to the conclusion that conceivably the U.S. does not sincerely desire peace. If this is the case, why deceive the public with specious propaganda? It has become rather irksome to hear Rusk and McNamara speak o fthe lack of response obtained from Hanoi, when it is crystal clear that such is not the case.

Co-Ed "College House"

Associated Collegiate Press

A co-educational "college house" established and operated by University of Texas students who were dissatisfied with dormitory and fraternity living could prove to be a welcome housing experiment at other institutions, comments the Kansas State University Collegian, Manhattan.

With money from a private foundation and cautious consent of the dean of students, the students opened the off-campus living quarters in which they make their own rules and select residents.

The "house" is actually a complex of buildings, with coeds and men usually living in separate buildings. A professor and his famiy live in each complex, and other faculty members are invited to dinner often.

Students there think the college house has been a major influence on changes in university housing. The university no longer requires students living off-campus to stay in approved housing; they can live anywhere they please. And the school has approved plans for an on-campus coeducational dormitory.

The college house seems like an excellent mode of living for those students who like to live neither in an apartment nor under the reguations of the Greek system.

A group of students living together in this manner, having occasional faculty members to dinner, could establish the foundation for a stimulating intellectual atmosphere.

And, no doubt, if students would share cooking and cleaning responsibilities, living in such a college house could save a great deal of time and money.

Theatre Needs Help!

To the Editor:

I hope it is common knowledge, as of now, that the "Old Conservation Building" which burned last Sunday was the sole edifice belonging to the University of Massachusetts Theatre. With the destruction of this fire trap with its lack of alarm box, outside telephone, and protective fire-proofing, an entire stock of University Theatre properties, costumes, and technical paraphernalia was lost. University Theatre has now no props, no costumes, no rehearsal space, no storage area, no costume shop—and evidently no help from University officials.

Theatre on this campus is an academic study, not a frill. The Department has lost its technical resources and research facilities. It is rumored that the next three U.T. productions will be cancelled and the summer theatre program may be affected. This should not be necessary with proper interest, co-operation, and support of the administration of a Liberal Arts institution of this size and wealth.

If the practice gym and athletic equipment were destroyed by an unnecessary fire, would the Basketball season be cancelled ? ? ? There should and can be Theatre productions this semester !

A distressed theatre-goer

"Forty to One"

To the Editor:

After following our basketball team for almost three years, one observation concerning school spirit seems to be in order. To say that our "fans" are the least enthusiastic in New England is probably to overrate their cheering abilities. No matter where the team finishes in the ratings, the Umie pseudo-supporters come in dead last, assuming, of course, that they had a good year.

Anyone who went to Storrs for the game against Connecticut Wednesday night probably noticed at some time during the course of the evening that the place was packed with fans, and they weren't cheering for us; 4,200 people yelled for UConn, 4,200 who were interested enough to come to the game during the school's semester break.

The Massachusetts supporters who made the trip made a lot of noise, but the Connecticut crowd made a lot more, which really isn't too amazing considering that we were outnumbered about forty to one. The Huskies' home court advantage essentially came from their supporters, not from any characteristics of the physical structure of their court or field house.

When we take on Connecticut at the Cage on Feb. 18, our players will not have this psychological boost unless the campus develops a new attitude concerning its participation in the contest.

Robert Gaudet

It is a singular romance
This warmth of the blood-world
For the pure idea.
—Wallace Stevens

So This is College

To the Editor:

Another scrumptious supper of all-purpose meat, granitelike boiled potatoes, and the perennial frozen lima bean ends. OK, so tonight they threw a slab of crusty week-old bread under the mystic meat and covered the entire mess with oil-slick gravy. Who're they trying to kid?

Now the big treat comes—a genuine sterile rectangle of insipid ice cream. If you think coffee, it tastes coffee-flovored, but, then, there's always the challenge to think maple-walnut (without the walnuts of course) and really psych yourself up for that flavor. But, in this case, even E.S.P. fails. So it looks like a cigarette for supper again tonight.

Thoroughly nourished, I begin the mile-long trudge back up the hill. Someday they'll install ski lifts, but, for now, I'll have to rely on those sinewy leg muscles I developed in badminton class.

Naturally, the dorm elevator is broken again, so I lethargically crawl up seven flights of stairs, involuntarily remembering the Milton assignment I put off for "tomorrow" some three weeks ago. Somehow I force myself to bypass the twenty-four hour whist game in the lounge and saunter listlessly down the dim-lit corridor to my own little, white cinder-block cubicle and pilot myself through the door.

The room hasn't changed a speck since I left. My roommate's week-old underwear and socks still carpet the floor. His dust-blanketed bed is still innocent of linen. Cigarette butts still overflow from the hollow metal bedposts, and the pungent odor of last night's linguica pizza still somehow permeates the haze of stale smoke. Valiantly I grasp the one-ton, 1,057-page volume of Milton's Complete Poetry and Major Prose and flop on the bed, bravely trying to convince myself that reading "On the Death of a Fair Infant Dying of a Cough" can be fun.

I try to maintain my cool as the melodious strains of the Stones' Sad Day coming from the adjoining compartment breaks my newly-established concentration span of one-half second. I then recall waking up at four thirty that morning to Screaming Jay Hawkins' Put a Spell on You and am somewhat reassured.

But what can you do? Who ever heard of trying to study in your dorm room anyhow? I testily mutter, "So this is college," but I know I don't mean it. Deep down in the pit of my empty stomach I know I like it here. It's sort of like Colt 45—a truly unique experience.

Gerald W. Vigeant

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Chet Weinerman '68

MANAGING EDITOR
John H. Dean, Jr., '69

BUSINESS MANAGER
Charles Smith '69

NEWS EDITOR: Bob Gorman '67

NEWS DAY EDITORS: Richard Kline, Marjie Flanders, Janet Caroprese, Jim Foudy

CAMPUS NEWS EDITOR: Bob Gorman

STAFF: Robert Cushman, Eric Goldman, Edroy Parker

STAFF: Gordon Davidson, Bruce Balboni, Nancy Bourgeoin, Joanne Bucewick, Elaine Canter, Don Epstein, John Findley, Dave Floreen, Dixon George, Daniel Madden, Pam Metaxas, Marshall Nadan, Dave O'Connor, Jane Roland, Neil Scanlon, Sally Dolgin, Tel Fanti, Pat Petow

CAMPUS NEWS:

STAFF: Robert Cushman, Eric Goldman, Edroy Parker

EDITORIAL EDITOR: Ellie Skinner '70

STAFF: Michael Hersh, Joe Ross, Paul R. Hallock, Ellen Cleary, Marsha Baron, Stan Levco, Sam Spark

SPORTS EDITOR: Tom FitzGerald '69

SPORTS DAY EDITORS: Tim Murphy, Glenn Briere

STAFF: Dave Jarnes, Al Peakes, Tom Conuel, Roger Kipp, Joe Duffy, Mike Curran, Harvey Elman

PHOTOGRAPHY EDITORS: John Kelly '69, Paul Boliver '68

STAFF: Gerry Cote, Tom Donovan, Bill Gleason, Stan Furman, Larry Kornfield, Larry Mazel, Ed Rizzotto, Robet Soffer, Breck Selnige, George Williams, Neil Rennie, Joyce Harvey

FEATURE EDITOR: Phil Goepp '69

STAFF: Lorraine Balch, Joan Fitzgerald, Karen Haley, Rich Hanson, Jerry Hovitz, Judy Kuhn, Sue Ruckstuhl, Gerald Vigeant, Agnes Wyant, Pete Ward

ADVERTISING MANAGERS: Sharon Kramer, Dot Silvia

CIRCULATION MANAGER: Bob Godwin '68

CARTOONIST: Rich Moran

Collegian Staffers Elect New Editors

Collegian editors were elected at the Annual Meeting Monday evening in the SU Ballroom. From the left: Chuck Smith (business manager), Tom Fitzgerald (sports editor), Lois Cohen (former feature editor), Chet Weinerman (editor in chief), Bob Gorman (news editor), Jack Dean (managing editor), Mike Gould (former sports editor), Gordon Davidson (former editor in chief), Jim Foudy (former managing editor), and Phil Goepp (feature editor).

Collegian Photos by Joyce Harvey

Playboy Club[R] Coming!

The Sophomore Class has done it!

They have recreated the Playboy Club[R] at UMass, including their own Playmate,[R] for their Sophomore Banquet April 5th, 1967. And you will be able to nominate her from any member of the sophomore class!

After preliminary judging on campus, the finalists' pictures will be sent to the editors of Playboy Magazine[R] for judging.

The highlight of the Playboy Club[R] Banquet will be the announcement of the editors' decision. The lucky girl chosen as "Playmate[R] of the Night" will receive a unique gift.

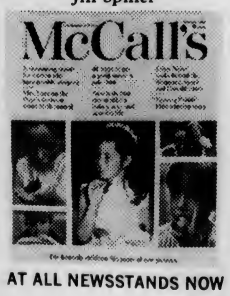
Nominations for "Playmate[R] of the Night" are open to any sophomore girl. Anyone in the University is eligible to make a nomination, so be sure to come to the Student Union lobby February 8 to 15 from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and cast your nomination for your favorite "Playmate."[R]

Jobs Available for Summer Work

Would you like to work for the Post Office next summer? The time to apply is now!

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for Seasonal Assistants to be held in over 1000 cities in the nation on February 25th and March 4th. If you pass the examination with a high enough score, you will be considered for available summer positions or at Christmas.

The jobs will primarily be in the larger post offices, although a few will be in post offices in resort areas, where the workload increases during the summer.



The jobs will pay $2.44 an hour and applications may be obtained at any office of the U. S. Civil Service Commission. The last day to apply is February 9th.

Notice To All News Staff Members

There will be a mandatory news staff meeting for all persons who plan to stay on the news staff on Wednesday (tonight) at 6:45 in the Collegian Office. If you can't attend call the office or otherwise your name will be dropped from the masthead.

How to Find the Ideal Summer Job...

START NOW! See McCALL'S GUIDE TO SUMMER JOBS. 41 Rewarding Ways to Spend Your Vacation! Whether you'd like to work in an exotic foreign land, help with slum rehabilitation, join a Head Start program, or just make money, you'll find complete details on how to go about it in February McCall's GUIDE TO SUMMER JOBS
Compiled by Christine Sadler, Lynda Bird Johnson and Jill Spiller

AT ALL NEWSSTANDS NOW

Crabtree Residents Return To New Dorm Activities

by EM FILA
Dorm Reporter

The residents of Crabtree returned from intersession ready to tackle a new semester and swing right into new dorm activities.

The Executive Board completed pamphlets explaining the rules of dorm government and each resident received a copy.

Swing-shift freshmen and transfer students were given an opportunity to meet their housemother, Executive Board and counselors at a tea held in their honor Tuesday evening in the dorm office.

Second semester elections will be held on Thursday with two freshmen being elected to the Standards Board and two new upperclass members to fill vacancies. A new social chairman is needed and will also be elected.

On Saturday, Feb. 11, a bicycle auction will be held in the rec room of the dorm at 2 p.m. Everyone is invited to join in the bidding for these bicycles.

HOUSING NOTICE

There are a number of vacancies in the Southwest Residential College area that are available to residents of other areas.

These openings will be assigned on a first come basis by calling in person at the Housing Office, Draper Hall, during this week.

No moves will be approved after February 10, 1967.

John C. Welles
Director of Housing

PETER PAN Bus Lines

Peter Pan Bus Lines
FREQUENT DAILY SERVICE TO
Springfield and Boston
VIA MASS. PIKE

Direct or connecting service to all major cities in Massachusetts, New England, or the U.S.A.

TICKETS AND INFORMATION
BUS TICKET OFFICE — STUDENT UNION 545-2528

advertisement

DANCE - THEATER - CONCERT
SUARTS&MUSICCOMMITTEE
3THREETROISTRIPLETDREI3 pieces willbe
p—re—sented by keith w. hollingworth

1. CAGELING
the distaff
5 performers - movement individual separate slides animals girls1man
lines
8:008:008:008:008:008:008:008:008:008:008:00
FEB11-FEB11-FEB11-FEB11-FEB11-SAT-
Bowker
?where?
BOWKER

2. information—communication—distillation
a solo however-others as one performer well
a-worker alone
questions words sayings events
LaStLy

3. *C*A*C*T*U*S
forjohnroy
apainterateacherahusbandafather—
a friend
HOMAGE to that situation with many outer and inner associations of a particular nature visual with sound slides cinema lights — yes anassociate a friend

advertisement

The Brothers of

SIGMA ALPHA MU

cordially invite all
FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN
to a SMOKER on
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9 at 11:00
(Informal)
387 N. Pleasant St.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Part time mornings. Contact Dick Minton, 233 James, 6-7546

Waitresses and busboys. Good salary and good tips. Apply Mr. Whalen, Lord Jeffrey Inn.

Girl wanted to do housecleaning in professor's home. 2 or 3 half-days weekly, or one full day. We can provide transportation to and from campus. Call 253-9462.

Medical technologist (A.S.C.P.) with interest in bacteriology needed for full or part-time employment. Although we would prefer an M.T.A.S.C.P., experienced applicants without registration will definitely be considered. Excellent fringe benefit program. Apply Personnel Office, Cooley Dickinson Hosp., Northampton, Mass.

Room near campus in exchange for babysitting. Professor's family. Call 549-1522.

WANTED

Roommate wanted to share 2 bedroom, unfurnished house in Pelham. Call Jane 253-3547.

To share house with two co-eds, 5 miles from campus transportation available. Rent low private room. Call 549-0937 after 6.

For Rent

Room ½ mile from Univ. Refrigerator privileges. Comfortable, pleasant, private. Call 253-5003.

AUTOMOBILES

1954 Olds. snow tires—runs good. Make offer. Call 584-6863.

2 MGA's 1961, excellent mech. condition, new disc brakes. 1958 MGB engine, hardtop available to fit either car. Call 253-9584.

'58 Chevrolet Bel Air hardtop, standard shift-six, radio & heater, 3 new white walls, clean and dependable transportation, $150.00 or best offer. Call Steve 253-5535.

OPPORTUNITIES

Study year abroad in Sweden, France, or Spain. College prep., junior year abroad and graduate programmes. $1,500 guarantees: round trip flight to Stockholm, Paris or Madrid, dormitories or apartments, two meals daily, tuition paid. Write: SCANSA, 50 Rue Prosper Legouté, Antony — Paris, France.

COLLEGIAN
ADVERTISING PAYS

Winter Carni Tickets Now On Sale

Student Union Lobby

Can you make it as a modern banker?

A banker today is a lot more than a money specialist who waits for the community to come to him. He's a well-rounded, imaginative individual who knows how to present a package of financial services to fill his client's needs. He's professionally involved with every kind of business, from government to space exploration to problems of emerging nations. And he can't be pigeonholed because versatility is one of the keys to his success.

He has job status and pride of profession. And his compensation and employee benefits are the envy of many.

His training is thorough and guided by experienced seniors who cushion the rough spots and put him on the high road when he's ready in his own mind and deed.

Before you make your big career decision, take a long look at banking. Ambition is the key, and the best way to check yourself out is to set up a give-and-take session with a Chase Manhattan Banker.

One more thing.

Modern banking is in. It asks for versatile, creative, imaginative men who want to range the community, the nation and the whole wide world.

Discuss the possibilities of a career in modern banking. A Chase Manhattan banker will be on campus soon. Your Placement Office will tell you when and where.

THE CHASE MANHATTAN BANK

National Association/1 Chase Manhattan Plaza, New York, New York 10015 • Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

An Equal Opportunity Employer

A WORD FROM WMUA

Again as always WMUA strives to bring even better programming than before, with increased accent on the higher quality informative, and entertaining variety. Below is a list of the educational programs scheduled to be aired

As always WMUA is very interested in the students' comments, criticisms, and, most of all, further suggestions. If you think of any educational programs suitable for broadcasting by WMUA, we will be more than pleased to discuss it with you in greater depth. We are primarily interested in programming of the instructional, informative, and entertaining variety. We are prepared to offer programs on a daily, weekly, bi-weekly, monthly, or special basis.

Radio Omnibus—6:00-6:30 M-F
Coverage of cultural and social events of the nation, including play reviews, book reports, interviews of national celebrities, and interviews with people in the current news. (Rebroadcast on the Eastern Educational Network, originating from WAMC-FM.)

Orchard Hill in Repertoire Monday 9:00-9:30
Broadcasting of the many cultural events that originate and are produced by the Orchard Hill Residential College, including play readings, poetry recitals, and discussions. Weekly.

This week at the United Nations Monday 7:15

United Nations Perspective Tuesday 7:15
One-half hour program originating from the United Nations Headquarters in New York.

Sunday Night Lecture Series Sunday Night 7:30-8:30
Playing of the fine DVP programs and guest lectures which the University has had in the past, with the current DVP series when the material is available.

RSO Reports Wed. 9:00-9:30
A one-half hour weekly series dealing with each of the RSO activities on this campus.

College Author's Forum Wed. 7:15
A series produced by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, in conjunction with the Intercollegiate Broadcast system (IBS).

Senate Reports Thursday 7:15
Thursday evening report of the happenings of the Student Senate in the previous week. Series will include guest interviews with student leaders.

News of the Week in Review Sunday 7:15
Sunday evening report of the week's news in review, with in depth reporting by the WMUA news team and United Press International

History of Music George Hungerford Tuesday at 10:00
A continuous weekly show incorporating the normal Musicale programming with a survey of music, lasting the entire semester.

Night-Time Radio Thursday Night 11-1
Revised format of the previously successful Magazine of the Air show, featuring campus and local problems, celebrities and events.

Foreign Press Review Every M. T. W. Th. Sunday 7:00
Daily half-hour reviews of a foreign country currently in the news. (Note: We on WMUA are featuring 5 countries not covered by WFCR.)

Action "67" Tuesday 8:00
A weekly series dealing with the many campus issues and activities that face the students and their varied organs of government.

And of course, our daily half-hour News Summary at its new time: 6:30 p.m.

Says Howard Sherman, director of Educational programming at the station, "This brings our educational output to 18 hours per week, about 600% above our previous semester's scheduling."

General Honors ROTC Efforts

By receiving commissions as Second Lieutenants in the armed forces of the United States, 17 young men culminated their ROTC and collegiate efforts yesterday in Bowker Auditorium.

Brigadier General Robert W. Strong, Jr., Chief of Staff of the Eighth Air Force, Westover Air Force Base, Massachusetts, was the honored speaker at the Mid-Term Air Force and Army ROTC Commissioning Ceremonies.

GENERAL STRONG

General Strong is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, receiving his commission in June 1940. He commanded the 39th Bomb Group in the Southwest Pacific Theater of Operations during World War II, logging 200 combat hours flying B-29 Superfortress raids.

He has served as a Tactical Officer at the U.S. Military Academy and a tour of duty as Commandant of Cadets, United States Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colorado. General Strong returned to the Strategic Air Command in July 1965 as Commander of the 817th Air Division, Pease Air Force Base, New Hampshire, where he served until his present assignment as Chief of Staff, Eighth Air Force, in July 1966.

His decorations include the Legion of Merit, Distinguished Flying Cross, Bronze Star Medal, Air Medal, Air Force Commendation Medal and the Army Commendation Medal.

The General is married to the former Virginia Devit, of Marion, Virginia. They have one son, David B. Strong.

RCA

On Campus Interviews for Professional Career Programs

FEBRUARY 15

RCA is now undergoing the greatest expansion of its history, based on a wide diversification of products and services. This has opened up opportunities for BS, AB and Advanced Degree candidates in the following programs:

COMPUTER MARKETING requires individuals with good academic standing and a degree in engineering, science, mathematics, liberal arts, or business administration, with an interest in computer systems and sales.

ENGINEERING for the engineer or scientist interested in research, development, design, manufacturing engineering, purchasing or materials management. There are two possible avenues for the individual chosen: Engineering Rotational Program will help you decide in which directions your career aptitudes lie. Direct Assignment for the person who knows his chosen field of interest.

FINANCIAL for the graduate with an interest in financial management and the applications of the computer in the field of finance.

MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS requires individuals in engineering, science, mathematics with an interest in systems design and programming applications in the broad financial areas of RCA's businesses.

See your placement officer now to arrange an interview with an RCA representative.

An Equal Opportunity Employer

RCA® THE MOST TRUSTED NAME IN ELECTRONICS

He: Hortense . . . they're playing our song!

She: Yes, Edgar, it brings back those wonderful days when we first met in the lobby of the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel . . . seven years ago.

He: Seven wonderful years . . . and every college vacation since then we've been coming back to New York and the Sheraton-Atlantic. For Thanksgiving, Christmas, Mid-years, Spring vacations . . .

She: And the Sheraton-Atlantic has such convenience to theatres, museums, libraries, Lincoln Center, Fifth Avenue shops, and with such swinging restaurants right in the Hotel and dancing nightly and such low prices . . . no wonder we students always make out best at the Sheraton-Atlantic.

He: You were always such a romantic, darling.

STUDENT RATES:*

Single . . . . . $8.00 per person
Twin . . . . . 6.00 per person
Triple . . . . . 4.50 per person
Quad . . . . . 4.00 per person

Faculty rates are low too:
Single . . . $8 • Twin . . . $12
For reservations contact your Sheraton Student Representative or in Boston dial (617) HU 2-2004 for immediate confirmation of student rates.
*Student rates do not apply March 17-18, 1967.

SHERATON -ATLANTIC HOTEL Broadway and 34th St., N.Y., N.Y. 10001 (212) PE 6-5700
Ralph Hitz Jr., V. P. & Gen. Mgr.

All Girl Band Makes Debut

MEET THE PLAYGIRLS

by DAVID REED

Those who attend the Dance this Friday night, Feb. 10, at the Student Union, will witness the debut of UMass' new, and only, all girl rock band, "The Playgirls." Four of the five "Playgirls" attend the University, and the organist, Janet Hawes, hails from Sudbury.

Lynn Blanchette, an Art major, manages the group and plays lead guitar. Paula LaMont plays rhythm and handles the singing chores. Both Lynn and Paula are interested in folk-singing and have appeared at many clubs throughout the State in this capacity.

Carol Miller plays bass guitar for the group and is, not surprisingly, a music major. Maureen Gamache rounds out the group by playing drums, at which she is quite capable.

The group has been practicing only for a few months and did not plan to begin playing for audiences until the first of March. They have consented, however, to appear along with the "Unsavory" from Greenwich Village Friday night to do a special guest set.

- Notices -

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Slides on "Egypt (U.A.R.) and Jordan" will be shown by two graduate students, Ibrahim Othman and Ali Abdul Wahab on Wed., Feb. 8, at 6:15 P.M. at their coffee hour. The program is part of a series to acquaint American students with other countries and cultures. Public is invited.

PRE-LAW ASSOCIATION
On Feb. 9, at 7:30 P.M. in Plymouth Room, S.U., Michael W. Gordon, Asst. Dean of UConn Law School will speak on admission standards and procedures of UConn Law School. Students and faculty invited.

ENGINEERING JOURNAL
There will be a staff meeting for underclassmen interested in technical writing or magazine illustrating on Thurs., Feb, 9, at 1:00 P.M. Check blackboard in engineering building (East) Lobby for place.

INDIAN MOVIE
The India Association presents top screen stars of India in move, "Baariah", Sat., Feb. 11, at 10:00 A.M. in Amherst Cinema. Resume of theme in English will be distributed at the gate. To collect your entry pass, call: 256-6491; 253-2733; 545-2995, or 546-8982.

PRE-VETS, PRE-MEDS
On Wed., Feb. 8, at 7:30 in Morrill 203 Dr. B. F. Trum of Harvard Medical School will lecture on Comparative Medicine.

BRIDAL FAIR
Interested students who would like to work on the Bridal Fair Committee are urged to pick up an application in the RSO Office or to contact Michele Feldman or Diana Alvarez at Chi Omega (256-6868) as soon as possible.

Any girl who would like to model in the Bridal Fair fashion show (you must be at least 5'6" without heels) must also fill out and return immediately the applications which are available in the RSO Office. All applications must be returned by Feb. 10, 1967.

PIANO RECITAL
On Sun., Feb. 12th at 4:00 P.M. in Grayson Lounge, Miss Carol Van Nostrand, graduate student at UMass will play selections from Bach & Rachmaninoff.

LITERARY SOCIETY
The film on contemporary poets scheduled for Feb. 8, at 7:00 P.M. in Bartlett Faculty Lounge has been cancelled. There will be an organizational meeting to plan the semester's programs. All are welcome.

READING HOUR
An oral interpretation presented by selected students from Speech 200 will be held on Feb. 15, from 4:00-5:00 P.M. in Colonial Lounge, S.U. All are invited.

S.Z.O.
On Wed., Feb. 8 at 8:00 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. the semester's organizational meeting will be held. All interested invited.

SKI CLUB
On Feb. 9, at 7:00 P.M. in Morrill Aud., the Warren Miller movie "Ski Aspen" will be shown. All people who wish to ask questions concerning rentals, trips, etc., should come to this short meeting.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
On Thurs., 6:45 P.M. at S.U. Lobby a bus will be provided for transportation to Northampton State Mental Hospial. All are invited for this special orientation program.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB LIBRARY
Library hours for the library in 203 Berkshire Home this semester are: Monday thru Friday, 3:30-8:00 P.M. All books taken out over intersession are due back by this Friday.

At 6:30 P.M. every day this week at S.U. there will be meetings held for all intrested in the Club. A formal business meeting will be held next Monday to have special elections for a new president and vice-president. Check Spaghetti Board for room.

AUK
There will be a meeting on Sat., Feb. 11, at 2:30 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U.

LOST:
Book from Amherst College entitled "HAIKU" lost in the Infirmary, Thursday. Please call 545-0320 and ask for Chikako.

PINNINGS:
Barbara McKean, class of '70, Lewis, to Robert Lorrey, class of '69, LCA.

Leslie Hold, class of '68, KKG, to David Martin, class of '67, Theta Chi, R.P.I.

Katheryn E. Burkott, class of '70, J.Q. Adams, to Michael Kozaczek, class of '68, APO.

Electrical Failures

A grounded circuit in the underground electric at Butterfield Hill caused the street lights in the area to black out last night. The snow probably seeped into the line during the heavy snow storm according to the Power Plant which stated that the line would be checked by an electrician today.

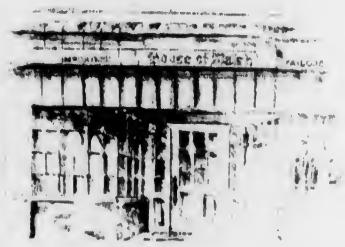
The Amherst Fire Dept. responded to a call to Goodell Library at 8:30 last night. A minor electrical fire caused smoke. However, there was no damage. The Fire Dept. quickly laid down hoses in case a fire developed. After investigation the Fire Dept. left.

JUNE GRADS

It's that time of your life —
Time to plan your future!

The State of Connecticut wants you to train for a professional career in Soical Work. Federal legislation has produced exciting changes in program and we want your help.

Connecticut offers rich social, educational, and professional opportunities — A CAREER instead of a job. You will work in your choice of locations, earn an excellent salary, receive valuable fringe benefits and best of all, have the satisfaction of contributing abilities — abilities you may not even recognize you possess — to people less fortunate than you.



Representatives will be at Campus on Tuesday, February 14 at Room 216, Dickinson Hall for a group discussion at 2:30, 3:30 and 4:30 and to conduct the qualifying examination at 6:30 in the same room. Your placement office can give you additional information.

If you're not sure Social Work is your goal stop over anyway. You may be surprised. You certainly won't be disappointed.

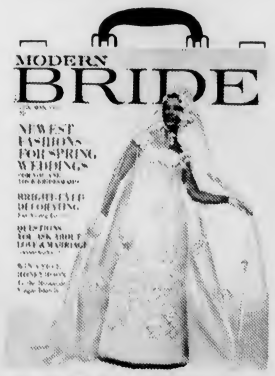
SKI
Haystack, Vermont
during
Winter Carni '67
Celebrate Washington's Birthday
Feb. 22, 1967
FREE BUSES
Sign up in RSO by Feb. 13, 1967

House of Walsh, Inc.

ANNUAL
FEBRUARY SALE
Now in progress, featuring substantial reductions on our famous make Men's and Women's furnishings.

Featuring an additional 10% discount, from sale price, on all cash sales

House of Walsh, Inc.
MAIN STREET
AMHERST, MASS.



The Brothers of
PI LAMBDA PHI
National Fraternity
Cordialy Invite All
FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN
to a FORMAL OPEN SMOKER
Time — 8-10 p.m.
Place – Colonial Lounge, S.U.
Date – Feb. 9, 1967

BUSINESS & LIBERAL ARTS MAJORS
Interested in an administrative or management career? We have just broken ground for a multimillion dollar addition to our Home Office in Worcester which will increase our capacity from the present 1,000 to 1,700 employees. We are looking for people who can grow with us, see the Placement Office for more information.

PAUL REVERE
LIFE INSURANCE CO.
Campus Interviews on Feb. 14

Before you plan your honeymoon
–check in with

MODERN BRIDE
The big Spring issue of MODERN BRIDE is a honeymoon special—with complete information on hotel living for newlyweds. You'll also get the bride's-eye view of special honeymoon delights from the Pocono Mountains to the Virgin Islands . . . learn the answers to the questions college girls ask most about marriage . . . preview heavenly bridal and trousseau fashions . . . AND learn how you can win a lavish, paid/for honeymoon in romantic St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

JUST 75¢—ASK ABOUT THE SPECIAL
HALF-PRICE STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION RATE
AVAILABLE THROUGH COLLEGE BOOKSTORES

A Man for All Sports Seasons--IV

The Twenty Formula—It's Effect on UMass

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Editor

Intercollegiate athletics has become big business. And one of the outward signs of this inner reality is the growing interval between the time a football or basketball game is scheduled and the day it is played.

Many observers agree that in light of this fact, U-Mass can anticipate some sorry days in the two major sports as a result of the Yankee Conference's Twenty Formula, a kind of Equalization Proclamation.

Basically the Formula is this: one of the six schools may award more than 20 full athletic scholarships or the equivalent in partial grants in one year. The only sports included in the limit are football, basketball, baseball, track and soccer.

The Formula does not affect this year's varsity program, since the class of '70 is the first to come under the agreement.

Reaction to the Formula at UMass was hardly mixed.

"As a result of the Formula," says Athletic Director Warren McGuirk, "we are going to find it very difficult to cope with some of the schools that we have scheduled."

Evan Johnson, head of the UMass Alumni Association, has also voiced his disapproval: "It puts us in a very tough position. I'm hot about it."

UMass, which had offered 26 to 28 full scholarships the last two years, has scheduled football games with Boston College through 1973, Holy Cross through 1971 (except next year), and Dartmouth in '67, '70, and '71. Army will be added to the Redmen schedule in seven years.

McGuirk says that the scheduling for this and the next few seasons was made "five, six and seven years ago, before there was any thought of a so-called Yankee Conference Presidents' Code. The presidents are responsible for this program. To be frank with you, I'm not happy about it.

"We've never had an excessive amount of George S. Barber scholarship money, but we know that since the Yankee Formula was created, we will not be able to spend as much money from the Barber funds.

"There now is less money available for football and basketball as there has been for the last five years."

PROUD TRIUMVIRATE—McGuirk (center), along with President Lederle (left) and former Assistant Athletic Director Earl Lorden, examines the Keaney Trophy, emblematic of supremacy in the overall sports accomplishments in the Yankee Conference last year.

What will or can be done about the Formula?

"I'm not recommending that we leave the Conference," says McGuirk. "But I strongly feel that revisions will have to be contemplated within the next year. There are some refinements that will have to be made.

"The thing that irks me the most is that when the other Conference schools were beating us, no scholarship restrictions were proposed."

The Formula came into being only after the presidents of the New England state universities met last year. The six athletic directors had held eight fruitless meetings over the past two years.

McGuirk, who had sought a limit of 30 scholarships, says, "We were trying to improve the Yankee Conference. Then we found that some of our colleagues were thinking as to how we could be restricted. But this has in no way helped the quality of the Conference.

"We weren't getting anywhere. Formulas were recommended by different schools which were not acceptable to all the members. It was found that the athletic directors could not agree. The presidents had to step in."

The 20-scholarship limit was approved by a four-two vote. President Lederle was one of the dissenters.

Lederle had tried in vain to pursuade his comrades to adopt a limit that would allow more freedom for the athletic departments and that would maintain high quality in all Yankee Conference competition.

"If all the presidents in the Yankee Conference were like President Lederle," McGuirk says, "we'd have a stronger Conference."

While UMass officials openly consider the limit too small, the other Conference members believe that the Formula can do nothing but strengthen the Conference.

Rhode Island Athletic Director Maurice Zarchen has gone so far as to say that with the Formula, the Yankee Conference in a few years "will be just under the level of the Eastern powers, Penn State, Syracuse, Pitt, etc. We'll probably be well above the Ivy League."

The obvious fact behind the disagreement over the Formula is that the differences among the six schools in size, athletic aims, and finances cannot be reconciled.

In any case, the Twenty Formula will probably remain Warren McGuirk's most serious problem until either the rule itself is altered or UMass adjusts its status in the Yankee Conference.

Last installment in series

INTRAMURALS

Cougars Face Hi-Lo 's in Playoffs

by ROGER KIPP
Sports Staff

The basketball season reaches its conclusion in the next few days as the playoffs roll to their exciting climax. Tonight's action is only two games, but of extreme importance. The Kennedy Cougars, winners of the very tough Southwest League, are pitted against the always powerful Hi-Los of the West.

The winner gets the right to play the Grayson Flaming A's for the dorm title.

TEP, winner of the IFC title over always powerful Kappa Sig, waits in the wings for the dorm playoffs to finish. It's a great club and may have the top individual star in Don Alberico. LCA, by virtue of a lopsided victory over defending champs Zeta Nu, lays claim to third place in the IFC.

Tonight's only other action involves the final clash in the Independent Division, where the Untouchables can wrap it up by knocking off the Upper Imps. If the Untouchables win, they will be unable to go on for the campus championship because of a new ruling, but if the Upper Imps are the winners, they will have the right to go on and play TEP for the campus cup.

Following right on the heels of basketball are squash and volleyball. Play in both sports starts Tuesday night, the 14th. Wrestling will follow with entries closing for that sport on the 21st.

The Brothers of
Phi Sigma Kappa
cordially invite all
Freshmen and Upperclasshen
to a
SMOKER
February 9 – 7:30-9:00
Berkshire Bristol Rooms – S.U.

SHAKE IT!! with the "UNSAVORY"
Student Union Ballroom
Feb. 10 — Admission 75c

– and introducing –
THE ALL NEW CAMPUS GROUP
"THE PLAYGIRLS"

AMHERST Cinema
DAILY 7:00-9:10
Sat.-Sun. 2-4:40-6:50-9

"The setting is swinging London and Lynn Redgrave is a darling!" —Cosmopolitan
COLUMBIA PICTURES
GEORGY GIRL

LATE SHOW FRIDAY 11:30 P.M.
Not Part of Regular Program . . .
All Seats 1.25
Tom Jones!
Your Last Chance To See It!

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN

sports

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 8, 1967
Page 10 Vol. XCV, No. 41

HC Deals UM 3rd Loss in Row, 78-65

Siudut Cans 37; Crusaders Cash In on Charity Tosses

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

WORCESTER—A strong 37-point performance by 6'7" sophomore Ed Siudut sparked the Holy Cross Crusaders to a 78-65 victory over the cold-shooting UMass Redmen at the Worcester Auditorium Monday night.

Siudut, who had been averaging over 20 points a game scored 24 points in a second half that saw the home team pull away from the visitors early and hold off the spirited UMass press.

Siudut, who finished with 37, canned three hoops early in the first period to give the Crusaders an 11-2 advantage. UMass chopped away at the lead and whittled it down to a 17-16 edge on Bill Tindall's rebound jump shot. For the remainder of the period Holy Cross held a slim upper hand and at intermission the scoreboard showed the home team up, 33-30.

Tindall led the Redmen in the opening half with 14 points. Tim Edwards grabbed nine rebounds and did a strong defensive job on Crusader center, Keith Hochstein.

The first five minutes of the second half proved decisive. During this span the Redmen were held scoreless from the floor when they might have overtaken the temporarily cold-shooting Crusaders.

Holy Cross was never overpowering from the floor in the half, but the Crusaders more than made up for it from the line. In all, they totaled 25 free throws in that one period while UMass could claim only five. That was the key to the game.

With 10 minutes to go, the Redmen were already pressing desperately. An Edwards dunk narrowed the gap to 55-45, but Siudut's shooting eye was too much, especially from the foul stripe.

Five minutes later the Crusaders led 70-51. Again UMass came up with some pretty steals from their press and Jim Girotti's 35-footer made it 71-61 with three minutes remaining. Holy Cross froze the ball another minute before John Lisack's bomb produced a 71-63 edge.

Another stream of free throws put the game out of reach, however, sending the Redmen down to their third consecutive tough one.

Edwards and Tindall paced UMass with 17 and 16, respectively. Siudut was practically a one-man show, but he did get some help from Hochstein, 15, and Jim Murray, 11.

HOLY CROSS	Fg	Ft	Pts	UMASS	Fg	Ft	Pts
Siudut	11	15	37	Edwards	7	3	17
Hochstein	4	7	15	Tindall	8	0	16
Teixeira	1	3	5	Gayeska	1	0	2
Stazinski	3	1	7	DiSarcina	1	3	5
Murray	4	3	11	Lisack	2	1	5
Willard	1	1	3	Murphy	4	0	8
Moore	0	0	0	Girotti	3	0	6
Mullane	0	0	0	Stewart	1	0	2
				Nowak'ski	2	0	4
				Perkins	0	0	0
Totals	24	30	78	Totals	29	7	65

Score at halftime: Holy Cross 33, UMass 30.

PETE GAYESKA JIM GIROTTI
Possible starters at Kingston.

Redmen Eye Vital Win In Skirmish at Rhody

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

Hoping to stay on the tail of league-leading UConn, the Redmen travel to Kingston, R.I., tomorrow night for a crucial Yankee Conference return engagement with the Rhode Island Rams.

The Redmen are currently 5-1 in the Conference, one game behind UConn, so a loss to Rhody would put the Redmen in a do-or-die situation. But the young Rams, rather improved after a slow start, are in such a situation themselves. With a 4-2 league mark, a defeat tomorrow night would virtually eliminate them from the race.

In its first game against URI this season, UM downed URI, 79-71, although the game belonged to the Redmen most of the way and a late comeback by the Rams made the score respectable.

"We're about due," said Coach Jack Leaman on the subject of the Rhody game. "If we beat them, then we can tie for the conference championship by beating UConn up here at Amherst."

A vistory over the Huskies, he feels, is a definite possibility, as does UConn coach Fred Shabel, who predicts that things will be different under "those fog lights at Curry Hicks Cage."

The big questions in tomorrow's game, as is the earlier one, are whether the Redmen can run their fast break well, play a good defensive game, and again hold Art Stephenson, URI's 6'5 center.

The Rams will undoubtedly be sky-high for this one. Ernie Calverly's boys, now 10-8 overall, realize that a loss will all but extinguish their title hopes.

Rhody will field a starting team of Stephenson at center, Don Kaull, 6'4, and Tom Hoyle, 6'5, at forwards, and Larry Johnson, 6'1, and Joe Zaranka, 6'2, in the backcourt.

A key to the Redmen's fortunes will be their defense. Joe DiSarcina almost broke open the first game single-handed, with steals and breakaways. Since Rhody is not greatly proficient in ball-handling, UMass may press again.

Leaman said that he plans to run a lot and try to move the ball around. "We're going to be ready for them," he said. Praising the Redmen's tenacity, Leaman said, "This team does not know how to quit."

He is still undecided on one of his starting five for the game. Tim Edwards, DiSarcina, Bill Tindall, and Bob Murphy definitely will start, but the remaining position up front will go to either Pete Gayeska, Ron Nowakowski, Frank Stewart or Jim Girotti.

The game will be broadcast over WMUA (91.1 FM) with air time at 7:50 tomorrow night.

UMass Gymnasts Bow To Temple, 176-159

by TIM MURPHY, Sports Staff

There is an old adage about leaping from the frying pan into the fire. And it is a truism in the case of the UMass men's gymnastics team.

The frying pan was Temple University, an outstanding machine which grilled the Redmen for a 176-159 win here Saturday. The loss was the third in four starts for UMass this year in E.I.G.L. competition and the second in three meets with Pennsylvania units.

Previously the gymnasts had dropped a 183-158 decision to Penn State, ranked sixth nationally last year, and had beaten Pitts, 149-143, in a pre-intersession swing through that state.

The fire, as might be expected by those not totally inexperienced in the aspects of national gymnastics, is tiny Springfield College. Springfield, it can be said, is the mouse that scored and is still scoring. They will be at Boyden Auxiliary Gym today at 8 p.m.

Recently, the Maroons, for many years recognized as one of the top gymnastic powers in the East, if not the entire country, took the measure of Penn State by 187.5-186. The win was the fifth in succession for Springfield in league play and boosted the team into first place in the eight team loop.

The Maroons boast a unit that is strong on all events. The team can put men on events like a trebuchet shoots missiles. In Cocaptains Bob Cargill and Tom Auchterlonie, Springfield has what may be the best one-two combination in college gymnastics.

Cargill, according to UMass Coach Erik Kjeldsen, is a "top-rate all-around man and one of the best college performers on the high bar." Currently, he leads the nation's collegiate competitors in composite high bar scores.

Auchterlonie is a top performer on the side horse, perhaps the most difficult of events in which to maintain momentum, and was third last season on the horse in the NCAA finals.

However good Springfield may be, the power remains with the Redmen to make a contest of the meet. Much depends on Steve Brown, UMass' all-around man. Off his usual from in the Temple meet, Brown will be out to regain his usual finesse.

Also counted upon heavily to bear burden are Dick Dauphinais and Bob Leclair, both of whom performed well in the Temple meet, and Fred Bebakian. Bebakian was injured in the competition and may not see service in the encounter.

Prior to the varsity contest, Coach Julius Gundersheim's freshmen will host the Springfield Frosh in the Auxiliary Gym at 6.

VERSATILE VET — Junior Steve Brown, UMass's all-around gymnast, will be in action tonight against Springfield at Boyden.

Frosh Lacrosse

Coach John Bamberry, first-year coach of the UMass freshman lacrosse team, has announced that the first meeting of team candidates will take place Monday in Room 251 in the Boyden Building at 4 p.m.

Stockbridge Drops First Rifle Match

The Stockbridge rifle team went down to its first defeat in three matches, losing to the Northeastern freshmen here last Saturday. The visitors edged out the Stockbridgers by six points, in the last relay, after they had gone into the last match in a tie.

Next Saturday the team travels to Harvard, but a natural rivalry shapes up on the 14th as it faces the UMass varsity.

Northeastern		Stockbridge
Dorman	251	Enselek	244
Magan	243	Clough	241
Shanahan	238	Miller	239
Riley	236	Andrews	237
Uhlin	235	Welcome	236
	1203		1197

Frosh Suffer One-Point Defeat Again, 58-57

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

WORCESTER — The UMass freshmen suffered their second straight one-point loss Monday night, this time in Worcester at the hands of the Holy Cross frosh, 58-57.

The shooting and rebounding of Ed Campbell, a 6'3" forward from Huntington, Long Island, sparked Holy Cross to a 34-26 lead at halftime. The Little Redmen were guilty of numerous turnovers and wasted many scoring opportunities in the first canto.

After intermission the Crusaders held their advantage without a fight until late in the second period. It was then that Coach Peter Broaca sent his Redmen into a full-court zone press.

A seven-point Holy Cross lead with two minutes remaining was quickly cut down to one.

Steals by Kevin Boisjolie, Ray Ellerbrook, and Dick Starsiak were converted into baskets by Jack Gallagher and Ray Ellerbrook, Gallagher's hoop with eight seconds produced the final margin.

Boisjolie and Gallagher topped the UMass scorers with 12 apiece. Ellerbrook finished with 11.

Bill Cox, a strong outside shot, led the Crusaders with 17 points. Tony Barclay and Campbell totaled 12 each while Jim Walsh, a Worcester native, garnered 11.

The Little Redmen are on the road again tomorrow. They face the Rhode Island freshmen, a squad they defeated earlier in the season, 81-63, at Kingston, R. I., in a prelim to the varsity contest.

UMASS	Fg	Ft	Pts	HOLY CROSS	Fg	Ft	Pts
Gallagher	4	4	12	Barclay	4	4	12
Boisjolie	5	2	12	Walsh	3	5	11
Samuelson	3	2	8	Flanagan	1	1	3
Ellerbrook	5	1	11	Cox	7	3	17
Starsiak	2	2	6	Bowes	1	1	3
Shea	0	0	0	Campbell	5	2	12
Perry	1	2	4	Thomas	0	0	0
Healey	1	2	4
Niles	0	0	0
Totals	21	15	27	Totals	21	16	58

Sports Staff Get-Together Sun. — 6 P.M.

Lederle Strives to Hold Line on Tuition Increase

by JIM FOUDY
Staff Reporter

While the prospects of budget cuts and subsequent tuition increases are facing a number of state universities throughout the country, UMass President John W. Lederle said yesterday that he is doing his best to keep the University's rate from rising.

Lederle said "It is difficult to speculate on any possible tuition hike in the future." However, he noted that as tuition rates rise across the country the UMass argument against increase will become more difficult to defend.

The UMass argument is that with two-thirds of its students coming from low income families the best possible aid is low tuition.

Proponents of high tuition claim that part of the increased rate can be used for scholarships.

Lederle commented, however, "tuition increases are usually motivated by a desire to relieve the burden on the taxpayer."

The fact that all students are not qualified for scholarships but still have the right to receive a college education makes a low tuition system the best type of financial assistance, according to the President.

Lederle believes that the question of tuition is basically a question of what is education.

Advocates of high tuition feel that education is an opportunity which the student should pay for, according to Lederle. The President feels, however, that education is an "investment by society in its youth" and he uses this as an argument for low tuition.

The median rate for tuitions and fees for state colleges across the country is $331 for in-state residents. UMass presently has a tuition and fee rate of $336 for state students.

Lederle said that advocates of high tuition point to the rates charged by northern New England state universities is an argument for increase. These states are Vermont ($575) Maine ($400) and New Hampshire ($536).

Lederle countered this by listing four states with good educational systems and low tuition and fee rates which he feels defend the low tuition principle. These are: California (no tuition, $220 in fees), Connecticut (no tuition, $190 in fees), Rhode Island ($352.50) and Michigan ($348).

Because the state does not pay for buildings like the Student Union, the proposed Breuer building in back of the Union or

(Continued on page 3)

When News Breaks
Dial the Collegian "Hot Line"
545-2550

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

FAIR & COLD
TOMORROW
Temp in the 30's

VOL. XCV, NO. 42 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1967

Photo by Boliver

Tuesday's blizzard managed to leave almost every spot on campus blanketed with pure white, sculpturable snow.

Faculty Senate Passes New Academic Calendar

by MARSHALL NADAN

The Faculty Senate passed the controversial academic calendar for 1968-1969 with no decenting votes.

The calendar is surrounded by controversy because it eliminates the lame-duck period after Christmas vacation.

The lame-duck period is the one to two-week period of classes that traditionally follows Christmas vacation and precedes finals.

In the calendar, the last day of classes for the fall semester would be Saturday, December 21, 1968. This would be followed by Winter Recess; Friday, January 2 and Saturday, January 3 would be set aside as Reading Days. Finals would begin on Monday, January 6.

The academic calendar for 1967-1968, which the Faculty Senate passed almost a year ago, also has eliminated this controversial lame-duck period. FLVNC, an ad-hoc student groups, has been formed to protest against this calendar.

The 1967-68 calendar sets December 21, 1967 as the last day of classes for the fall semester. Winter Recess begins then and runs to Monday, January 1. January 2 and 3 are Reading Days and finals run from Thursday, January 4 until Saturday, January 13.

According to unsigned fliers which were distributed in Southwest this week, FLVNC plans to conduct a poll next semester to measure student opinion and discover alternative suggestions for the 1967-68. No one from the group was available to comment on the proposed calendar for 1968-1969.

Robert Gaudet, Chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate, reported that an all-inclusive poll on academic affairs would be conducted by his committee in about a month. Included in the poll will be questions on the academic calendar.

One of the unusual features about the controversy on the lame-duck period is that both student leaders and the faculty appear to be highly split over the matter. While John Greenquist, President of the Student Senate, favors the elimination of the lame-duck period, Gaudet favors its retention.

Sources within the Faculty Senate report that William Starkweather, the Registrar, and a subcommittee of the Academic Matters Committee have been

(Continued on page 2)

B. U. Dean Defines Aims Of Co-ordinating Board

BU dean Richard Millard, recently appointed Chancellor of The Massachusetts Board of Higher Education, stated in a recent interview the board's role will be "advisory."

Millard said his major function as secretary and executive officer for the board will be to "present the case for higher education to the legislature and the general public."

The 10 member board was set up by the Willis-Harris Act in 1966 to co-ordinate all state institutions. The board is composed of four representatives from the trustees of the state higher educational institutions and six rotating gubernatorial appointments.

Millard will begin his duties on March 1, with offices possibly located in the new A state office building if space is available.

Millard emphasized that the function of the board was to co-ordinate and advise. "The new board will also have the responsibility of setting up the total budget for all of the educational institutions in Massachusetts," Millard added.

"We desire to work with the college presidents and not against them," Millard emphasized. "There will be an advisory committee of college presidents, which will include president Lederle." Our purpose is to unite the various institutions so that they do not work against each other."

When asked about the recent budget cut by Governor Volpe, Millard said he was hesitant about making an assessment because a detailed outline of the cut has not been released.

When asked to comment on President Lederle's being considered for the U Michigan presidency, Millard stated, "I hope he doesn't move to Michigan. He is extremely valuable to the people of Massachusetts."

He expressed his enthusiasm for his new position by adding, "I am looking forward to assuming this position. It seems to me to be a mascinating job."

MOUNT HOLYOKE KILLS 30-MILE RULE

The 30-mile restriction on overnight registration is officially defunct at Mount Holyoke, it was announced at Wednesday's Legislature meeting. The Administration has stated all overnight registrations are now the same. As yet, the reaction of Smith and Amherst to the change has not been made known.

Winter Issue of Caesura
available to commuters in Student Union Lobby Monday 10:00 a.m.

Wanted: Protection from the Draft

Southwest Students Are Freezing

by DON EPSTEIN
Staff Reporter

The coldest week of the winter has brought new protests from students living in the Southwest Complex about the lack of heat in the new dorms.

Especially plagued is Tower-5. Most of the 22-story building has not had adequate heat during very cold mornings. Since Sunday, the Housing Office has received at least 25 letters of protest from students in the tower.

Residents of the sixth floor have been demanding more heat in their rooms. Since last Sunday, six boys have moved their mattresses into the lounge and have been sleeping there. Last night two more boys moved into the lounge.

Meanwhile, the Collegian has learned that a meeting will be held today between the contractors, architects, and UMass Administration, including President Lederle, to discuss the problem.

In a Collegian interview, Mr. Thomas Trotman, housing officer for the Southwest Complex, said that there is a serious heating problem.

A man from the maintenance department spent Tuesday and Wednesday nights in the complex and reported that as fas as the dials from a control room in Tower-1 indicated, there was no serious problem.

However, at the same time, the Residence Director of Tower-5 lower house, Malcolm Call, reported a temperature of 60°. Mr. Call verified that there has been a serious heating problem during the recent cold spell. Mr. Call said that the heating system was "totally inadequate for very cold days."

(Continued on page 3)

Photo by Furman

No, Housing hasn't forced these students to live in a quadruple, but the cold has. Many residents of the sixth floor of T-5 have moved into their lounge to seek refuge from the freezing conditions of their rooms.

Planned Parenthood President To Speak on Mores, Morals

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, President of Planned Parenthood — World Population, New York, will speak at UMass on Monday night, Feb. 13, at 8 p.m. in SBA 120. His topic will be "Conception Control on the College Campus."

Dr. Guttmacher is a diplomat in obstetrics and gynecology, a member of the the faculty of the Albert Einstein School of Medicine and a lecturer in obstetrics and gynecology at the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine. He retired in 1966 as a member of the faculty of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Harvard University School of Public Health. He is the author of many scientific and popular books and articles on contraception, infertility, pregnancy, twinning, the history of medicine and related subjects.

A native of Baltimore and a graduate of the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, he taught anatomy at his alma mater and at the University of Rochester, and after residency-training rose to the rank of associate professor of obstetrics at the Johns Hopkins. Later he became Director of the combined department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at New York's Mt. Sinai Hospital. He served at Mt. Sinai until 1962 when he assumed leadership of Planned Parenthood-World Population. He is past President of the New York Obstetrical Society.

Among his many published works are: The Complete Book of Birth Control, Pregnancy and Birth, Babies by Choice or by Chance, and The Medical and Surgical Complications of Pregnancy.

After appearing at UMass, Dr. Guttmacher will spend the rest of the week speaking at AIC, Univ. of Hartford, UConn, and Yale. The lecture tour is sponsored nationally by The Billings Lectureship of the Unitarian Universalist Association and locally by the UMass Student Religious Liberals. In addition to his speech in SBA, Dr. Guttmacher will also participate in a discussion in Emerson House at 4 p.m. and will dine at the Faculty Club at 6 p.m. on Monday.

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, formerly of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons and Harvard University's School of Public Health, will speak at SBA 120 on Monday.

FACULTY SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

the chief sponsors of this major break with tradition.

On this subcommittee, along with Starkweather, are William Venman, Assistant to the Provost, and Hills Skillings of the Scheduling Office.

Gaudet reports that after talking with several teachers, "at least these people are not fully in favor of it for practical reasons. They agree that kids will not use Christmas vacation to study."

Gaudet is also pressing for more reading days. He said that he desired further time to study a proposal to eliminate reading days and use that time to spread finals out more.

Concerning the reading days, Greenquist recently stated "I would hope," that the Faculty Senate accept a recommendation for increased reading days. The lame-duck period allowed students time to begin to study for finals.

"We must assume that students will use additional reading days for studying and should not be distrustful because some claim that students will use these extra days to extend their vacation."

This possibility is one of the chief objections raised by some of those who oppose the plan. On the other hand, the possibility of a "vacation" of studying for finals rather than an extra long vacation is the fear of others who oppose the plan.

Greenquist also suggested that it might not be a bad idea if professors allowed term papers to handed in after recess, but he stated that he did not it think it was right to tell any professor how to run this course.

Starkweather stated there has been a desire to elminate the lame-duck period for a long time. "This two week period has always been criticized by students and faculty alike. It has been felt that it was not very productive," Starkweather said.

Starkweather said, "I find Reading Days a little fuzzy," but aded that the Faculty Senate had requested that theer be more of them. There will be two Readings Days in the 1968-1969 calendar. There will be nine days set aside for finals as compared with eight for this year and seven for previous years.

Wayne Thomas, President of the Class of '69 commented, "Should this proposal go through, Christmas 'vacation' can no longer be called such."

Thomas, whose class will be the senior class when this calendar will be in effect, added, "Exams should either be given before Christmas or after an extended reading period."

Larry Marcus, Class of '69 Senator, agreed fully with Thomas and aded, "We want a calendar that will benefit the students and not the faculty. The calendar in question does not benefit the students."

Neither Thomas or Marcus wanted to comment on retention of the lame-duck period until they knew what the Faculty Senate would do about Reading Days.

Peter Ward agreed with Gaudet that the lame-duck period should be kept. Betty Chambers, Senator from Brooks, agreed with Greenquist that the lame-duck period should go.

Michael Garjian, Senator from JFK, declared "The Faculty Senate disregarded the calendar recommended the Student Senate last year. I think that representatives from the Faculty Senate and the Student Senate should meet and devise a calendar mutually acceptable to both."

DRAFT SYMPOSIUM

On Saturday, February 18, 1967, a Symposium on 'The Draft: Problem For A Democratic Society' will take place in Bowker Auditorium. A large and varied regional participation is expected. In addition to expert panel speakers who will critically discuss the problem of the Draft, there will be workshop discussions set up to provide the opportunity for debate and examination of problems raised.

DVP Program Features Kissinger, Commager

As ex-President of Brazil, Guscelino Kubitschek will speak on February 12 for the D.V.P. Symposium: "World Wide Revolution and American Containment."

Mr. Kubitschek inaugurated major innovations in Brazil's program of modernization, including the building of the ultra-modern capital Brazilia. On the receiving end of U.S. relations, he is well acquainted with the problem of his topic, "Is There Progress in the Alliance for Progress?"

The second evening, February 13, D.V.P. will host Henry Steele Commager, Professor of History at Amherst College, presenting his study of "The Failure of United States Foreign Policy."

Regarded as one of the foremost historians in the world, he has received many honorary degrees and awards in recognition of his excellent work as both a lecturer and a writer. He earned his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1924 and since has published many histories of the United States.

Focusing toward the future, Dr. Henry Kissinger treats the subject of "United States Foreign Policy in a Nuclear Age" on Tuesday, February 14.

Mr. Kissinger, authority on American involvement in foreign affairs, has influenced the opinion of millions through his controversial publications in the Reporter, the New York Times Magazine, and Harper's Magazine. He is the author of such outstanding books as The Necessity for Choice, and The Nuclear Weapon and Foreign Policy. He received his A.B. (summa cum laude), M.A., and Ph. D. degrees from Harvard.

Dr. Kissinger's proposals, already seriously discussed by top Government officials, embody a practical approach to international relations as they exist today.

Past President of Students for a Democratic Society, Carl Oglesby concludes the lecture for the Symposium on the evening of February 15 with his analysis of the "United States' Response to Revolution."

One of the New Left's main critics of U.S. foreign policy, especially pertaining to the war in Vietnam, he gained national attention with his address during the controversial protest march on Washington, D.C. in November of 1966.

He was born in Akron, Ohio in 1935 and worked in the defense industry for eight years before entering his "radical" career. Ironically, his present position is major critic of the military-industrial complex.

He received his B.A. from the University of Michigan in 1962. President of S.D.S. during 1965 and 1966, his present status is activist scholar in residence at Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio.

To complete the Symposium, on February 16, Milton Mayer is to moderate a panel discussion. Professors in the four college area who are students of the problem of the United States' relation to the World Wide Revolution will compose the Panel.

FINANCIAL AID

Applications for all types of financial aid for Summer School, 1967 and for the 1967-68 academic year are now available in the Placement and Financial Aid Services Office, Machmer Hall. All Students interested in applying for financial aid, whether or not they are now receiving or have received assistance in the past, must file a new application. Completed applications must be submitted to Placement and Financial Aid by MARCH 1, 1967.

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

DANCE

Student Union Ballroom

"THE UNSAVORY"

and

"THE PLAYGIRLS"

Tonight 8:00 P.M. $.75

Collegian Advertising

Pays Big Dividends. Try It!

Send her Hearts and Flowers

The Hearts from You the Flowers from Knowles

Knowles Flower Shop

172 North Pleasant St.

253-3805

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:

$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:

Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1811

Nursing Transportation Fee Rescinded by University

by PAT PETOW
Senate Page Editor

The administration has rescinded a transportation fee for nursing students levied this year. Sophomores were originally billed $5, and juniors and seniors were charged $100 each for 1966-1967. 1966-1967.

Although there had been some mention made of the fee in the spring of 1966, the formal notification was not made until October 20, 1966.

The announcement was sent out January 25:

"Although the cost of transportation of students to the Cooperating Agencies for clinical nursing experience has increased sharply this year and will continue to rise because of increasing enrollment, I am pleased to notify you that the University will assume the cost of transportation this year.

"No charge will be made for either the fall or spring semesters. Those students who have made payments for the fall semester will receive refunds."

"It may become necessary in future years for students to assume responsiiblity for their transportation. If and when this becomes necessary, you will receive sufficient notice so as to allow for financial planning."

While there had been no organized resistance or even (organized) expression of objection, nursing students report that everyone was "up in arms" after receiving the additional bill.

One major, Nancy Martin '68, a House Counselor at Johnson, spoke to several administration officials including Assistant to the Provost William Venman and Dean of Students William Field. She tried unsuccessfully to see the President.

The administration, however, had kept to its decision in the face of intra-University competition for hard to come by funds.

Thus, the decision was taken in advance not to request the money of the State, Associate Treasurer Robert H. Brand and Dean of the School of Nursing Mary Maher informed student government representatives.

In sympathy with the nursing students, Student Senators Elaine Denis (Johnson) and Jim Collins (John Adams Upper) introduced the following resolution:

"S 27 Move that the Student Senate recommend to the administration that either expenses incurred because of mandatory travelling requirements of certain University courses be paid for by the University itself, or transportation be provided by the University."

Although the bill was presented as early as November 3, there had been no final action on it. Instead, while it has been referred to committee, the senators had tried to find out why the charges were levied.

One indication that the fee might be rescinded came in a Dec. 21 letter from Brand to a Student Senator. He stated that rather than undertake a study of all transportation costs incurred by the University at that time, his office would complete a re-evaluation of the School of Nursing fee first.

TUITION . . .

(Continued from page 1)

the football stadium, any increase in this type of building will necessitate an increase in fees according to the President.

He explained that the State pays for classroom and facuty facilities and that room and board charges are used to pay off costs of dormitories and dining halls.

The last tuition increase occurred in the fall of 1960. At that time Lederle instituted a questionnaire to parents of entering freshmen to ascertain the economic background of the students.

The findings constantly show that two-thirds of the students come from low income families which can not afford the full costs of education at UMass. Work study programs, loans, scholarships and other forms of aid are used to supplement the funds from students and their parents.

Lederle feels that an increase in tuition would "Chill the efforts by students and their parents to go to school at all."

"By increasing tuition you discourage the idea of going to college and making it on your own," Lederle concluded.

HEAT . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Students also complain that some windows do not lock properly. Trotman also said that in some rooms the lack of a certain cocking compound on the edge of the windows results in a draft. While in some other rooms, the entire window frame has been improperly set into the window sill.

The residents of Room 609 in Tower-5 returned to their room Tuesday afternoon to find a snow drift on their inner window sill. Said one student, "It's just one big freeze."

If You See News in the Making Dial
COLLEGIAN
"Hot Line"
545-2550

ATTENTION R.S.O. GROUPS

All R.S.O. organizations that intend to apply for a Student Senate Budget for 1967-68 MUST contact the budgets committee before March 1st. This applies especially to organizations that received special funds from Finance Committee this year and will need similar funds next year. Organizations that do not comply face a possible loss of Senate financing.

Sub-Committee Formed For Closer Senate Contact

by DAVE O'CONNOR
Staff Reporter

In recognizing the complexities of the residential colleges, the Student Senate voted for the establishment of a sub-committee of the Student Government Affairs Committee. Hinted as a cause for the proposal of the bill was the loss of close contact between the Senate and the various campus constituencies.

The Webster House constitution brought considerable discussion to the floor of the Senate as Senator Chambers, Brooks, decried it as not being in compliance with the suggestions of the Student Life Committee.

Coming to the floor of the Senate to defend the rights of the individual houses was Senate President John Greenquist, who clearly renumerated the role of the Student Life Committee as being advisory, and that in no way did it intend to direct the individual house governments...

The constitutions of Webster, Baker and Eugene Field Houses were passed as presented by Activities Chairman Homan.

In a further atempt to seek definition in the parking and towing tension, Senator Zletz, Commuters, presented a bill which was tabled for one week.

Six vacancies were reported earlier in the session by President Greenquist.

THE THAYERS ARE COMING !

JUNE GRADS

It's that time of your life —
Time to plan your future!

The State of Connecticut wants you to train for a professional career in Soical Work. Federal legislation has produced exciting changes in program and we want your help.

Connecticut offers rich social, educational, and professional opportunities — A CAREER instead of a job. You will work in your choice of locations, earn an excellent salary, receive valuable fringe benefits and best of all, have the satisfaction of contributing abilities — abilities you may not even recognize you possess — to people less fortunate than you.

Representatives will be at Campus on Tuesday, February 14 at Room 216, Dickinson Hall for a group discussion at 2:30, 3:30 and 4:30 and to conduct the qualifying examination at 6:30 in the same room. Your placement office can give you additional information.

If you're not sure Social Work is your goal stop over anyway. You may be surprised. You certainly won't be disappointed.

The Ames Sisters will appear at the nightclub happening of Winter Carni.

The L. S. Den Replaces Traditional Carni Ball

An unusual Winter Carnival has been planned this year by the Class of 1968. Along with top names for entertainment in concert, the Winter Carnival Committee has substituted the same kinds of top names, as well as a new kind of atmosphere, into the Winter Carnival Ball.

The traditional, old-fashioned ball has been replaced by a nite club happening, the L.S. Den. The scene, painted by multi-colored flashing lights, a variety of dance rhythms, tables, chairs, Op Art designs and a candle-lit rathskeller, will transform the general atmosphere into a discotheque happening.

Featured at the nite club will be such performers as Mamie Lee, a renowned singer and star in nite clubs across the country. Humor will be adequately supplied by the always hilarious Jerry Shane. Following that bit of comedy will be the Ames Sisters, who, with their sweet voices can enchant an audience at any time. Along with this variety of entertainment will be the Les Smith Band, which is geared to the nite-club goer.

In such a unique and transitional arrangement, people can listen to star performers sing as well as dance to continuous music.

This semi-formal innovation will be held on February 24 ten day winter celebration. It will be held on February 24th from 8 p.m.-1 a.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

FACTORY OUTLET
25 Market Street, Northampton

Sweaters for the Entire Family

Pullovers $6 to $11	values to $18
Ladies Cardigans $4.95	values to $7.95
Ladies Pullovers $3.95	values to $6.95
Cashmeres $11.95-$17.50	values to $30

MON. THRU SAT. — 10 AM.-5 P.M.
THURS. EVENING TIL 9:00 P.M.
Market St. is across from Jack August

AMHERST Cinema
NOW SHOWING
on screen at
Daily 7:00-9:10
Saturday-Sunday
2:00-4:40-6:50-9:00
PLUS SHORTS

"SUPERIOR OFF-BEAT, AND ORIGINAL!" N.Y. TIMES

LATE SHOW
TONIGHT 11:30 P.M.
Not Part of Reg. Program
Seats 1.25

The whole world loves
Tom Jones!

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

'Further Study'

by PETE WARD, Staff Reporter

Let's start with a brave assumption; that is, that the Administration has as one of its functions the consideration of ways of improving University policy in relation to the Students. This would include such areas as security, the Open Door policy and so on. After all, WE are the reason they are here (I think).

Now, considering this assumption, what should the Administration do when such a policy problem faces them? You might suppose they would study it and try to come up with a solution to the problem. This does not seem to be the case however, for the Administration has found an easier solution: Just send comments and recommendations received from the Student Senate back with the immortal words "FURTHER STUDY IS NEEDED" and wait for the STUDENT do the study.

If, by chance, the students can't get a complete study done by themselves, then the issue dies and is "solved". After all, why should the Administrators be bothered with serious studies of such issues as refunds for students who must leave, the Open Door Policy, Police substations, Ticket and Towing problems, Southwest meal ticket policy, and so on. What are the students here for, it not to find workable solutions for the Administration?

Still, there is some consolation. When the Student Senate recommended the establishment of police sub-stations in the Quad and Hill areas, the administration did say the "spirit" of the bill was advisable. THEN they said "FURTHER STUDY IS NEEDED" and sent it back to the Senate . . . where it belongs?

The Parasite Plight

by DAVID BASKIN, Editorial Staff

California students are threatened by a terrible possibility—they may have to pay for what they receive. Governor Reagan has suggested that students of the university system of California should pay tuition. The students feel that they deserve free education and that paying tuition is an infringement upon their social rights.

Huh?

If the students of California have money for cars, for supporting non-student agitators on their campuses, for drugs, and for free love societies, than why not for education?

They pay good money for Mary Jane, yet expect to get Margaret Mead free, or rather at the taxpayers' expense. The students at other state schools pay tuition, why not those in California, since it has a higher per-capita income than any other state. Our parents pay taxes to the federal government, which aids education in all states, California included. Why shouldn't they pay tuition?

America was founded on the idea of individualism and honesty, paying for what you receive, and getting what you pay for. Conceivably, since these students feel that they deserve education for nothing, they may then feel they deserve high grades for not studying just because they need a degree to get a job.

Then, reared in California style, they may decide they deserve high-paying jobs for not working, since a high standard of living is necessary—a social right.

Scholarships are there for those who need them, as are grants and loans. No one who is qualified for higher education in America is denied it. Californa students ought to come out of the womb of the welfare state and help pay for the academic freedom they're always screaming about. Maybe then they'll value education more and concentrate less on sitting in corridors.

Too Many Pizzas

Associated Collegiate Press

A report of an Unidentified Flying Object sighted from the Iowa State Univ. campus in Ames recently turned out to be explainable, as do most UFO reports, says the Iowa State Daily.

It all began when two Sigma Chi's, walking back from late lab work, noticed that a stationary object in the southern sky was changing color. The story soon spread and grew until it went like this: The object was circling the sky, changing colors from green to blue to red, the Air Force had sent planes out to investigate, the UFO had hovered over treetops before slowly rising in the sky.

Physicist and astronomer Theodore C. Dangi finally explained the phenomenon as "probably the star Sirius, which is the brightest star in the sky at this time of year. The twinkling effect caused by the changes in the atmosphere could account for the blue and green colors."

Ames had had several recent UFO sightings and each resembled this one. For example, a group of Rainbow girls was on campus during the summer for a convention and after a couple of nights of too little sleep and too many pepperoni pizzas, several girls say a star-like UFO.

This is not to belittle the sightings which can't be explained so easily. Late at night when some guy tells how the pyramids were laid out in such a way as to ward off these celestial beings and how two pilots once went up to intercept a UFO and one crashed and the other went mad, you begin to wonder. So you climb under your electric blanket and remember reading that little green men seek electricity to recharge their metabolic mechanisms; you think about all those blankets radiating away. Then you remember how a UFO report can be blown up and you fall asleep with thoughts of little green men dancing in your head.

It's About Time!

To the Editor:

The open letter to Warren McGuirk in last Monday's Collegian has presented facts and opinions which tarnish the image of our deified athletic director. It's about time!

I regret that this indictment of Mr. McGuirk had to come in the form of an open letter. It would seem more appropriate if our "free and responsible press," the Collegian, would examine all the facts and put forth an impartial criticism of our athletic director.

"A Man for all Sports Seasons" Warren McGuirk is most decidedly not. We (the track team) know this, McGuirk knows it, most varsity athletes know it. It is bad enough that this situation exists, it is deplorable that the causes of the athletic problems (especially the track teams), are deliberately misprepresented to the University population.

It is not within my power to question Mr. McGuirk's motives and reasons for distorting factual materials and for short-changing the track team of adequate track facilities. I can not question why there are only three dual meets on the indoor track schedule, why the track team cannot go south during spring vacation as the baseball and lacrosse teams have, or why track athletes receive less money for food on away trips? Mr. McGuirk, our 'man for all sports seasons' has already slammed the door in many team members' faces who wanted to discuss this situation with him.

I hope the Collegian and the student senate will investigate and report on this situation in depth. It's about time!

Steven H. St. Clair '67

Let the People Reign

To the Editor:

In the recent Collegian editorial "McCarthy Rides Again," Mon., Feb. 6, 1967, the writer emphasizes that "each radical organization, left-wing or right-wing, adds to the learning experience and is an integral part of the college and the world."

I had the misfortune of receiving a letter early one morning a few months ago informing me that the administration of the University of Michigan, where I had been an undergraduate, was kindly forwarding my name to HUAC, due to the fact that my name was on the membership list of the local chapter of SDS, a group in opposition to the war in Vietnam. I was shocked to learn that what was to have been confidential information, had been released to HUAC.

Two days ago I received a summary of my life history from the FBI, in regards to my appearance before the Justice Department in defense of my claim as a Conscientious Objector. In the history was listed every political organization to which I had belonged while at UMich.

In December of 1965, I received a 1-A classification from my draft board, because I had sat-in at the Ann Arbor draft board to protest over the Vietnam War. I had been sentenced to 18 days in jail for the offense, but the draft board felt that it too could spank me for my action.

It appears to me that the HUAC is not the only government body working toward the suppression of free speech, as mentioned in the editorial, but the FBI, through its detailed files and reports used at later dates to discredit individuals, and the Selective Service System. Our Universities are accomplices to the dirty tasks of the HUAC, FBI and draft system. I wonder how the UMass administration will react, when it is asked to supply names?

It seems that there are two approaches to the problem. First, we can remove those men from power who demand blind-patriotism while at the same time they suppress free speech. Secondly we can make sure that the voices of those who dissent are loud and clear.

Toward the goal of "adding to the learning experience" a group of UMass students including myself is forming a new left-wing organization. Furthermore we feel that this organization will be a radical force keeping loud the voices of dissent, and working toward the goal of a new society where men of intolerance no longer reign at the expense of free speech in order to retain their power.

A meeting is scheduled for Sun., Feb. 12, at 2 p.m. in the Student Union. Everyone is welcome to attend who is interested in creating a democratic society, where the people reign, not the power hungry.

Dick Shortt
Grad.

When News
Breaks
Call the
COLLEGIAN
"Hot Line"
545-2550

The Frigid Southwest

To the Editor:

It appears to me that the present heating situation in John Adams Tower (and probably the rest of the new dorms) is quite ridiculous, and to call it inadequate would be one of the greatest understatements of the decade.

It seems that the students have been very patient, but I suggest that this feeling of benevolence will not long endure. If the ludicrousity of this situation is not in some fashion quelled, and the poor construction, caused by bumbling mismanagement and poor supervision, if not by undergrade parts, rectified with great dispatch, I am certain that as many students as possible will be moving out of Southwest to anywhere on or off campus that is not reminiscent of an Amana freezer!

This exodus "En Masse" from the Southwest Complex would cause repercussions that will not be easily nor soon forgotten. It would not go well for the housing department if the opposing politicians were to be made aware of the facts that more money than necessary had been requested for the construction of the Southwest Complex, because they aren't even holding their capacity.

I trust that I have been most lucid, and shall expect results.

Clark Worcester

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Chet Weinerman '68
Business Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Managing Editor: Jack Dean '69
News Editor: Bob Gorman '67
Editorial Editor: Ellie Skinner '70
Sports Editor: Tom FitzGerald '69
Feature Editor: Phil Goepp '69
Photography Editors: John Kelly '69, Paul Boliver '68
Advertising Managers: Sharon Kramer '69, Dot Silvia '69
Circulation Manager: Bob Godwin '68

MASS. CLASSIFIED

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED—Insertions will be accepted by the following deadlines: for Monday paper—12 noon, Friday; for Wednesday paper—12 noon, Monday; for Friday paper—12 noon Wednesday. Cost $1.50 per 3 insertions under 25 words. (Other prices on request.)

HELP WANTED

Part time mornings. Contact Dick Minton, 233 James, 6-7546

Waitresses and busboys. Good salary and good tips. Apply Mr. Whalen, Lord Jeffrey Inn.

Girl wanted to do housecleaning in professor's home. 2 or 3 half-days weekly, or one full day. We can provide transportation to and from campus. Call 253-9462.

Medical technologist (A.S.C.P.) with interest in bacteriology needed for full or part-time employment. Although we would prefer an M.T.A.S.C.P., experienced applicants without registration will definitely be considered. Excellent fringe benefit program. Apply Personnel Office, Cooley Dickinson Hosp., Northampton, Mass.

Room near campus in exchange for babysitting. Professor's family. Call 549-1522.

WANTED

To share house with two co-eds, 5 miles from campus transportation available. Rent low private room. Call 549-0937 after 6.

For Rent

Room ½ mile from Univ. Refrigerator privileges. Comfortable, pleasant, private. Call 253-5003.

AUTOMOBILES

1954 Olds. snow tires—runs good. Make offer. Call 584-6863.

'59 VW, new clutch, muffler, brake system and tires. Recently rebuilt motor. Body rough. $230.00. Call Gene 253-9154.

'58 Chevrolet Bel Air hardtop, standard shift-six, radio & heater, 3 new white walls, clean and dependable transportation, $150.00 or best offer. Call Steve 253-5535.

OPPORTUNITIES

Study year abroad in Sweden, France, or Spain. College prep., junior year abroad and graduate programmes. $1,500 guarantees: round trip flight to Stockholm, Paris or Madrid, dormitories or apartments, two meals daily, tuition paid. Write: SCANSA, 50 Rue Prosper Legouté, Antony — Paris, France.

Lecture

African Coups

The African Students Association is sponsoring a lecture on "Coups in Ghana and Nigeria," this Friday evening (Feb. 10) at 8 p.m. in Council Chambers A, U-Mass. Student Union.

The talk is open to the public free of charge. The speaker will be Ewald Seit, assistant professor of government at UMass. and a fellow of the African Studies Association of New York.

Born in Vienna, Austria, Professor Seit received his B.A. at the University of Witwatersrand, South Africa, a Masters at the University of South Africa and his Ph.D. at the University of Michigan.

He has promised a number of articles on African politics with special emphasis on conditions in South Africa. Appointed to UMass. faculty in 1965, Prof. Seit is currently teaching courses in European government and Africa South of the Sahara.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS

Belchertown Volunteers are needed to go to the state school for the retarded every Saturday. The bus leaves both from the North Commons (1:15 p.m.) and the Newman Center (1:25) and returns at approximately 4:15. Each volunteer is given a tour and may decide where he would like to work.

Some of the areas include the nursery, young teens, and adult education. All new volunteers are very welcome.

- Notices -

PIANO RECITAL
On Sunday, Feb. 12, at 4:00 P.M. in Grayson Lounge, Miss Carol Van Nostrand, graduate student at UMass will play selections from Bach and Rachmaninoff.

HILLEL FOUNDATION
Monday and Tuesday are registration days for all classes (Hebrew, Yiddish, etc.) offered this semester. Sign up in the Hillel Office.
On Friday, Feb. 10 at 7:00 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. there will be Friday evening services, followed by "The Integration of the WASP into the Jewish Community," with Professor Robert E. Stanfield, Sociology Department. All are welcome.

YAHOO LIVES!
Yes, Yahoo is going to publish! Anyone interested in joining the staff should come to this meeting. Openings for writers, artists, idea-men, and people who would just liek to work. We pay good.
Meeting next Tuesday, Feb. 14 at 7:00 P.M. in Franklin Room, S.U.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
There is a meeting every Tuesday evening at 6:45 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. All are cordially invited to attend.

AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION
Theer is a meting on Monday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 P.M. in EBE 104. All members must attend.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
On Mon., Feb. 13 in Hasbrouck 134 at 8:00 P.M. there will be an important business meeting for the purpose of electing a new executive council. All voting mmbers are urged to attend.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
On Mon., Feb. 13, at 7:30 P.M. in Norfolk Room, S.U. there will be an important business meeting. Special election for president and vice-president. All voting members must attend. A recording of old "Green Hornet" radio programs will be played after the business meeting.

AUK
On Sat., Feb. 11, at 2:30 P.M. there will be a meeting in Worcester Room, S.U.

READING HOUR
An oral interpretation presented by selected students from Sneech 200 will be held Feb. 15 from 4:00-5:00 P.M. in Colonial Lounge, S.U. The general public is invited to attend.

BRIDAL FAIR
Interested students who would like to work on the Bridal Fair Committee are urged to pick up an application in the RSO Office or to contact Michele Feldman or Diana Alvarez at Chi Omega (256-6868) as soon as possible.
Also any girl who would like to be a model in the Fair fashion with (you must be at least 5'6" without heels) must also fill out and return immediately the applications which are available in the RSO Office. All applications must be returned by February 10, 1967.

MATHEMATICS CLUB
On Tues., Feb. 14, at 8:00 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. there is the first meeting of the spring semester. Dr. Donold Catlin will speak on "Illogic". Mathematics majors may join at this time. All are invited at attend.

UNITED CHRISTIAN FOUNDATION
At 10:30 A.M. every Sunday in Mahar Auditorium there is an on-campus Ecumenical Worship. Theme for Feb. 12th is, "Will the Real Christian Please Stand Up."

SZO MAKALAH
On Sun., Feb. 12 at 1:30 P.M. there will be rehearsal and semester organization, and choosing new songs. Check board in SU for place.

NEWMAN CLUB
"All About Eve" will be shown Friday, Feb. 10, in Newman Center Social Hall at 7:30 P.M. Members free, nonmembers 25¢.
Stations of the Cross, on Friday, Feb. 10, at 7:00 P.M. in Newman Center Chapel.

MOVIE FROM INDIA
The India Association presents the movie "Baarish" on Sat., Feb. 11, at 10:00 A.M. in Amherst Cinema. To collect your entry pass, call 256-6491, 253-2733, 545-2995, or 546-8982. Resume of the theme (in English) will be distributed at the gate.

LOST:
Piece of an earring, a sterling silver disk about the size of a nickel. Engraved with the initials NCD. If found, call 6-8311.

PINNINGS:
Judy Ruppert, class of '68, Calvin Coolidge Lower to Steve Colburn, class of '67, W.Va. Wesleyan College.
Jean Benedict, class of '68, Eugene Field, to Robert Meo, class of '68, Grayson.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Marilyn MacGregor, Lee, Mass., to Erik Polson, class of '69, APO.
Shirley Goldberg, class of '68, Emerson, to Alan A. Levitz, Holyoke, Mass.

MANDATORY
PHOTO STAFF MEETING
Feb. 14, 1967 at 7 P.M.
COLLEGIAN OFFICE

Collegian Advertising
Pays Big Dividends. Try It!

253-3442 TIRED? 253-3442
of walking in the cold?
FREE
TRANSPORTATION
Now Offered by the Campus Plaza Shopping Center
For Free Round-Trip Rides
To: McCrory's, Zayre, Nugent's, Sears, University Pharmacy, D'Dario's, Stop n' Shop, McManus
Call 253-3442
No Obligation — You Will Be Picked Up At Your Doorstep And Delivered To The Campus Plaza Shopping Center
Saturdays (11:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.)
Feb. 11, 18 March 4, 11, 18
April 8, 15, 22, 29 May 6, 13
REMEMBER! You will be picked up and returned to your doorstep when you are through shopping . . .
AT NO COST TO YOU!

Free 253-3442 (Amherst Taxi)
CUT ALONG DOTTED LINE
CUT ALONG DOTTED LINE

COLUMBIA PICTURES IS PRESENTING A
"HAPPENING"
IN NORTHAMPTON— It's a sneak preview-type happening of a new motion picture that's the exclamation point to the Age of Absurdity. It's got laughter —that's more than the slick whiter-than-white-toothed movieland grin. It's got madness—more than you dream about in a month of Saturday nights. Credentials? The man who directed "CAT BALLOU" directed it. Columbia Pictures and Sam Spiegel present it. It's even got Anthony Quinn in topless pajamas. Without going out on a limb, we can safely say that this is a motion picture a lot of people are going to be talking about. We want you to watch it happen first.
AND YOU'RE INVITED!
Friday Evening Feb. 10th at 8:15
Plus Georgy Girl at 9:45
It's an Exclusive Northampton Happening at the ACADEMY
Where You Enjoy The Movies In COMPLETE Comfort!

University Cited for Growth In Numbers and Quality

by PAM METAXAS
Staff Reporter

UMass is one of six schools mentioned in the February 6 issue of U. S. News and World Report. The article deals with the growth of state universities in New England.

The article begins by pointing out that in New England more and more high school graduates are seeking a college education, and more of them are turning to New England's state universities. There are presently more than 50,000 students enrolled in the six state universities of New England: Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont.

According to the author, the old "cow college," UMass is scarcely recognizable with the increasingly modern campus that now exists. Five 22-story towers housing 2,880 students opened their doors in September of '66. A more extensive complex of towers is being planned for the fall of 1969.

These complexes such as Southwest are being built to break down the size of the university. Classes are held in the complexes to provide the atmosphere of a "college within a college."

The reason for such continued expansion is the rapid growth at the university. President John W. Lederle commented on this growth in the article.

"On our Amherst campus, we have almost 13,000 students who are taking courses in 70 different fields. We offer 51 M.A. programs and 32 Ph.D. programs. In Boston, we have 2,000 students enrolled in sophomore and freshman curricula. This adds up to a university-wide total of 15,000 students. To this, we must add 5,795 students who attended the 1966 summer session," he said.

Out of 21,000 applicants to the university in 1966 only 4,000 were accepted.

The article also emphasized a new and unique program that has been launched by the University and three private colleges in the Amherst area. The program is called the Four College program. Under this program, the University of Massachusetts has close affiliations with Amherst College, Smith College and Mount Holyoke for the sharing of libraries and laboratories.

U. S. News and World Report tries to point out in this article that the New England state universities have now grown in number and quality of students so that they can compete with private institutions.

With a proposed UMass medical school, a unique Four College program, the creation of Hampshire College in 1969, and the explosive growth in residential living due to increased enrollment, UMass has taken its place among the forefront of New England state universities.

MANDATORY
Photo Staff Meeting
Tues., Feb. 4
7:00 p.m.
Collegian Office

JUDICIARY

Area I Judiciary Selections will be conducted Sunday, February 12, at 1:00 p.m. in the Student Union.

Positions open: Class of 1969: three; Class of 1970: one; Stockbridge: one.

Students eligible: Residents of Grayson, Webster, Chadbourne, Greenough, Baker and Butterfield.

Applications are available from housemothers and from R.S.O. They must be submitted at the selections.

SUMMER JOBS UNDER WORK STUDY

Students who are presently working under the Federal Work Study Program and students who think they might also qualify for the program should see Mr. Siegrist in the Placement Office in reference to obtaining a summer job with a non-profit organization in their community.

There are a limited number of these jobs available and eligibility is based on the student's financial need as determined by the Placement & Financial Aid Office which is located in Machmer Hall.

February 13. 1967

"UNDER THE Yum-Yum Tree"

2 Showings:

7:30 - 9:45

Admission $.50

HILLEL

BAGEL and LOX

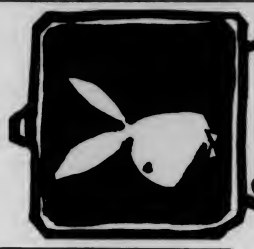
BRUNCH

SUNDAY
FEBRUARY 12
S.U. BALLROOM
11 A.M.-1 P.M.

MEMBERS 35¢
NON-MEMBERS 75¢

SKI MORE!

PAY LESS DRIVE LESS



- Group Rates Weekends
- Low Lift Rates Weekdays
- New Beginners To Advance Novice Area
- Intermediate To Expert Area
- Each Serviced by Chairs, T-Bars and J-Bar
- 24 Trails and Slopes
- Natur Teknik Ski School
- Snow Making

Latest Ski Reports 413-339-4986
Room Reservations 413-339-6610

Where the Action Is!

Thunder Mountain

Charlemont, Mass.
Route 2, Mohawk Trail

How you nominated your favorite Sophomore Playmate at the S.U. Lobby?

On Campus with Max Shulman

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

STAMP OUT YOUNG LOVE

It happens every day. A young man goes off to college, leaving his home town sweetheart with vows of eternal love, and then he finds that he has outgrown her. What, in such cases, is the honorable thing to do?

Well sir, you can do what Crunch Sigafoos did.

When Crunch left his home in Cut and Shoot, Pa., to go off to a prominent midwestern university (Florida State) he said to his sweetheart, a wholesome country lass named Mildred Bovine, "My dear, though I am far away in college, I will love you always. I take a mighty oath I will never look at another girl. If I do, may my eyeballs parch and wither, may my viscera writhe like adders, may my ever-press slacks go baggy!"

Then he clutched Mildred to his bosom, flicked some hayseed from her hair, planted a final kiss upon her fragrant young skull, and went away, meaning with all his heart to be faithful.

But on the very first day of college he met a coed named Irmgard Champerty who was studded with culture like a ham with cloves. She knew verbatim the complete works of Franz Kafka, she sang solos in stereo, she wore a black leather jacket with an original Goya on the back.

Well sir, Crunch took one look and his jaw dropped and his nostrils pulsed like a bellows and his kneecaps turned to sorghum. Never had he beheld such sophistication, such intellect, such savoir faire. Not, mind you, that Crunch was a dolt. He was, to be sure, a country boy, but he had a head on his shoulders, believe you me! Take, for instance, his choice of razor blades. Crunch always shaved with Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, and if that doesn't show good sense, I am Rex the Wonder Horse. No other blade shaves you so comfortably so often. No other blade brings you such facial felicity, such epidermal elan. Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades take the travail out of shaving, scrap the scrape, negate the nick, peel the pull, oust the ouch. Furthermore, Personnas are available both in double-edge style and in injector style. If you're smart —and I'm sure you are, or how'd you get out of high school —you'll get a pack of Personnas before another sun has set.

But I digress. Crunch, as we have seen, was instantly smitten with Irmgard Champerty. All day he followed her around campus and listened to her talk about Franz Kafka and like that, and then be went back to his dormitory and found this letter from his home town sweetheart Mildred:

Dear Crunch:

Us kids had a keen time yesterday. We went down to the pond and caught some frogs. I caught the most of anybody. Then we hitched rides on trucks and did lots of nutsy stuff like that. Well, I must close now because I got to whitewash the fence.

Your friend,
Mildred

P.S.... I know how to ride backwards on my skateboard.

Well sir, Crunch thought about Mildred and then he thought about Irmgard and then a great sadness fell upon him. Suddenly he knew he had outgrown young, innocent Mildred; his heart now belonged to smart, sophisticated Irmgard.

Being above all things honorable, he returned forthwith to Cut and Shoot, Pa., and looked Mildred straight in the eye and said manlily, "I do not love you any more. I love another. You can hit me in the stomach all your might if you want to."

"That's okay, hey," said Mildred amiably. "I don't love you neither. I found a new boy."

"What is his name?" asked Crunch.

"Franz Kafka," said Mildred.

"I hope you will be very happy," said Crunch and shook Mildred's hand and they have remained good friends to this day. In fact, Crunch and Irmgard often double-date with Franz and Mildred and have barrels of fun. Franz knows how to ride backwards on his skateboard one-legged.

* * *

©1967, Max Shulman

So you see, all's well that ends well—including a shave with Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades and Personna's partner in luxury shaving—Burma-Shave. It comes in menthol or regular; it soaks rings around any other lather.

"Perception Gap" Discovered In Discussion of Viet Nam War

Four hundred fifty student editors, including Gordon Asher Davidson and Jim Foudy from the Collegian, spent three hard-working days in Washington last weekend to discuss the generation gap but found themselves caught up in a Viet Nam War "perception gap" instead.

When the conference ended, the "perception gap" had not closed, and the "generation gap" was felt by many never to have existed. For the students cheered veteran political commentator Walter Lippmann, as he criticized Administration policy on the war, while they hissed presidential adviser Walt W. Rostow, 51, for his defense of that policy.

They applauded Senator Walter Mondale (D-Minn.) when he called for the entrance of young Americans into public life but rumbled restlessly when Mondale momentarily appeared unwilling to state his Viet Nam policy.

Yet students were silent when keynote speaker Paul Poter, former head of Students for a Democratic Society, pointed to Viet Nam to illustrate "the myth that America never loses." Potter suggested that students ask anyone, whether from the political right or left, whether the United States is winning the war.

No person can believe, he said, that we are losing. It is not only the "most un-American" thought that a citizen feels he can express, but it is also considered "unthinkable," Potter said.

He called the belief, that "resistance can turn or change or stop" the trend of American society, the "myth of cynicism" which must be broken if the United States is to stop the trend toward a technological and bureaucratic dictatorship.

"Most student radicals," Potter stated, "have yet to test the revolutionary potential of their ideas by trying them out on one another in the classroom . . . and what I'm afraid of is that we won't try."

Discussion of the war in the foreign policy panel sparked an argument between two current aides to the White House, Walt Rostow and John Roche, and a former aide to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, Richard Goodwin.

Goodwin charged that the Administration is approaching negotiations half-heartedly. He called for discontinuation of the bombing of North Vietnam because, he said, the strategy has failed in its purpose—to halt infiltration of supplies and forces from the North.

In addition, Goodwin charged the Administration with depending on military gains to end the war while being lukewarm to negotiation possibilities.

Rostow, in a cautious answer to Goodwin's charges, indicated that the Administration might now be involved in fruitful negotiation tactics, but he added that it was a "bad time" to discuss the specifics publically.

Roche seemed to aggravate the gap between his views and the students' by attacking the audience for not doing their "homework" on the war, and example, he said, of students' pursuit of "selective literacy." Roche was apparently annoyed by hisses from the student editors at his statement that communists in Viet Nam participate in the government by voting, though he admitted they cannot run in elections.

The younger Goodwin reacted immediately to Roche's claim of democracy in Viet Nam by saying that there is hardly democratic participation in government when communists are told they are free to vote "as long as they vote for the opposition."

The student editors warmly applauded Walter Lippmann speaking at a luncheon, when he said, "the Administration is trying to convince us that we are fighting the same war in South Viet Nam which Churchill and Roosevelt fought a quarter of a century ago . . . Men tend to see the world through spectacles that fitted them 20 or 30 years earlier."

SZO Elections

Last Wednesday evening the Student Zionist Organization elected new officers. Larry Baltimore '68, and Susan Weinstock '67 took office as co-directors. Both have recently returned from year programs in Israel.

Morris Burnstein '70 was elected secretary and Alan Prenner retained his office as Treasurer.

A Semester Organizational meeting of S.Z.O. will be held Wednesday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m., in the Worchester room of the S.U. All interested are invited to attend.

COURSE NOTICE

February 13th is the last day undergraduate courses may be added. It is also the last day courses may be dropped without penalty. A "W" is placed on the student's record for courses dropped between February 13th and March 6th, except for first-semester freshmen and first-semester transfer students, who are extended the "W" privilege until March 18.

SCUBA PLANS

Club Dives Into Activities

The UMass Scuba Club has launched itself into a new semester. Presently thirty-five of the fifty members are finishing the club's YMCA certified Scuba diving course. They will be going on diving expeditions later this semester.

The experienced members of the club are assisting as instructors and are planning dives for the rest of the year. Julian Kufler, dive master, will be running ocean dives off the Massachusetts and Rhode Island coasts, freshwater lake dives wreck dives, and ice dives.

During Spring Vacation, the Club will be diving in Florida. Club members are also active in salvage activities and sport fishing.

The Scuba Club meets at the Cage every Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Any experienced divers interested in serious diving are invited to come to the meetings. The new club president, Steve Garanin and Vice President Steve Files hope to expand the club activities.

"Hot Line"
545-2550

advertisement

DANCE - THEATER - CONCERT
SUARTS&MUSICCOMMITTEE
3THREETROISTRIPLETDREI3
pieces willbe
p—re—sented by keith w. hollingworth

1. CAGELING
the distaff
5 performers movement individual separate slides animals girls1man
lines
8:008:008:008:008:008:008:008:008:008:008:00
FEB11-FEB11-FEB11-FEB11-FEB11-SAT-
Bowker
?where?
BOWKER
2. information—communication—distillation
a solo however-others as one performer well
a-worker alone
questions words
sayings events
LaStLy
3. *C*A*C*T*U*S
forjohnroy
apainterateacherahusbandafather
a friend
HOMAGE to that situation with many outer and inner associations of a particular nature visual with sound slides cinema lights — yes anassociate a friend

advertisement

When you can't afford to be dull

sharpen your wits with NoDoz

NoDoz keep alert tablets or new chewable mints, safe as coffee, help bring you back to your mental best . . . help you become more alert to the people and conditions around you. Non-habit forming.

Tablets or new Chewable Mints

DON'T FORGET YOUR QUARTER That's how much you have coming back on the NoDoz you bought for the mid-year exams. Just mail us the front panel or label from any size package of NoDoz® with this coupon. And we'll mail you a quarter (25¢) in return. But hurry. Offer ends Feb. 28. No refunds after March 7, 1967. Mail coupon today!

Bristol-Myers/Grove Division, P.O. Box 4808, Clinton, Iowa 52732

•Enclosed is (check one): ☐ Wrapper from NoDoz Mints, or ☐ Front panel from package of 15 or 36 NoDoz Tablets, or ☐ Front label from bottle of 60 NoDoz Tablets.

Please return 25 cents (one quarter) to:

Name_____

Address_____

City_____ State____ Zip Code_____

Offer void without this coupon.

The Pariahs

in the

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

Sat., Feb. 11

8-12 50c

Sponsored by JFK Middle

Marshall Stone to Fill Birkhoff Math Chair

One of the country's leading mathematicians, Dr. Marshall Harvey Stone of the University of Chicago, has been named George David Birkhoff Professor of Mathematics at UMass.

Dr. Stone has made landmark contributions to several fields of Mathematics, is a prime coopdinator of international cooperation in mathematics and has been called one of the most distinguished mathematicians of this country.

From the Stone-Weierstrasse Theorem, the Stone-Czech Compactification, his representation for Boolean Algebra and his work in quantum field theory, his name is known to mathematicians throughout the world.

The George David Birkhoff Professorship was named for the late Harvard Univ. professor considered one of the greatest ma-

(Continued on page 9)

DR. MARSHALL STONE

WMUA'S TOP 50

WMUA's top 50 records are listed below. The list shows this week's rating, the title and artist and last week's rating.

1. Lets Spend The Night Together, Rolling Stones (1) and Ruby Tuesday, Rolling Stones (1); 2. Love Is Here & Now You're Gone, Supremes (11); 3. Monkees LP, Monkees (2); 4. You Got To Me, Neil Diamond (6); 5. Gimme Some Lovin', Spencer Davis/Jordan Bros. (5); 6. I'm A Believer/I'm Not Your Steppin Stone, Monkees (4); 7. Go Where You Wanna Go, 5th Dimension (15); 8. Sock It To Me Baby, Mitch Ryder (26); 9. It Takes Two, M. Gaye-K. Weston (22); 10. Kind Of A Drag, Buckinghams (3); 11. Beat Goes On, Sonny & Cher (14); 12. Green Grass Of Home, Tom Jones (10); 13. Then You Can Tell Me Goodbye, Casinos (7); 14. I've Been Lonely Too Long, Young Rascals (17); 15. Epistle To Dippy, Donovan (25).

16. I Think We're Alone Now, Tommy James (27); 17. Tell It Like It Is, Aaron Neville (8); 18. Baby What I Mean, Drifters (13); 19. Snoopy Vs The Red Baron, Royal Guardsmen (9); 20. I Had Too Much To Dream, Electric Prunes (20); 21. Music To Watch Girls By, Bob Crewe Generation (19); 22. No Fair At All, Association (32); 23. Indercribably Blue, Elvis Presley (34); 24. Midnight Hour, Kit & Outlaws / Dick Washington Band (18); 25. We Ain't Got Nothin Yet, Blues Magoos (12); 26. Color My World, Pet Clark (24); 27. I Got To Go Back, McCoys (28); 28. Baby I Need Your Lovin', Johnny Rivers (39); 29. Sit Down I Think I Love You, Mojo Men (46); 30. Penny Lane/ Strawberry Fields, Beatles (-); 31. Loving You, Bobby Darin (33); 32. Wish You Didn't Have To Go, J. & B. Purify (35).

33. Georgy Girl, Seekers (16); 34. Pretty Ballerina, Left Banke (23); 35. Everybody Needs Somebody To Love, Wilson Pickett (38); 36. Darlin' Be Home Soon, Lovin' Spoonful (sure shot); 37. People In Me, Music Machine (-); 38. Don't Do It, Micky Dolenz (-); 39. Niki Hoeki, P. J. Proby (40); 40. California Nights, Lesley Gore (41); 41. For What It's Worth, Buffalo Springfield (45); 42. Daddy's Little Girl, Al Martino (42) 43. Co You Wanna Be A Rock & Roll Star, Byrds (43); 44. Happy Together, Turtles (-).

45. Standing In The Shadows Of Love, 4 Tops (37); 46. Mercy Mercy Mercy, Cannon Ball Adderly (48); 47. 59th Street Bridge Song, Harpers Bizarre (-); 48. I Don't Want To Lose You Baby, Jackie Wilson (-); 49. Grizzly Bear, Youngbloods (36); 50. Good Thing, Paul Revere (31).

Afternoon A Go Go on WMUA:

Monday Mike Girouard 2:30-5
Tuerday Bob Sawyer 2:30-5
Wednesday Glenn Spatola 2:30-5
Thursday Stu Goldman 2:30-5
Friday Paul Haskell 2:30-5

Don't forget to listen to Music Theatre each weekday from 5-6. Uninterrupted Rock Music.

Friday nights Old Tunes Show Stu Goldman 7 - 8:30; Crazy Rhythms Glenn Spatola, Bob Sawyer 8:30-1.

Listen as the new survey is broken out every Friday night on the Crazy Rhythms Show, 8:30-1:00.

If You See News in the Making Dial

545-2550

DEAR REB:

Composer wants to know the score on '67 compacts

DEAR REB:

I'm a well-known composer, and I need a new car. The trouble is, I'm just too Bizet to pick one out. And what's more, many of the new cars I see are Offenbach in the garage for repairs. But I do have a good friend who is pleased with his new '67 Dodge Dart. He was given an excellent deal and Berlioz any money on it. My Bach is to the wall. Can you help me?

LUDWIG

DEAR LUDWIG:

My advice is that you let yourself Ravel in the enjoyment of driving the sporty, all-new Dart for '67. You'll find its Liszt price is a lot lower than you'd expect. And even though it's longer outside and bigger inside this year, Dart's still an easy car to Handel.

Sincerely, Reb

Here's the swinging, man-sized compact for '67 that's got three B's of its own: Bold, Brassy and Beautiful. Dart has been completely restyled this year, inside and out. It's longer, roomier, more powerful. But still at that snug compact price. Drop in at your nearest Dodge Dealer's and try it out for yourself.

Dodge

CHRYSLER MOTORS CORPORATION

THE DODGE REBELLION WANTS YOU

Graduating seniors who plan to work for graduate degrees and who are members of Phi Eta Sigma, Freshmen Honor Society, should get in touch with Dean Robert S. Hopkins, Jr., Faculty Adviser of UMass chapter, at room number E-26 Machmer Hall.

The National Phi Eta Sigma Fraternity offers six three-hundred dollar scholarships each year on the basis of the student's scholastic record, evidence of creative ability, evidence of financial need, promise of success in chosen field, and personality.

Only members of Phi Eta Sigma are eligible for these gift scholarships.

National deadline for submitting applications is March 1, 1967.

Local deadline for applications is February 15, 1967.

"24 Characters in Search of a Play"

Roister Doisters Perform Well Despite Script

Photo by Boliver

Country boy, Tom Jones, gains pride and bride after much misfortune.

by N. C. SCANLON
Staff Reporter

Tom Jones opened a four night run at Bowker Auditorium last week, and it might have better been entitled, "24 Characters in Search of a Play." They certainly did not have one with them.

The material they did have consisted of unconnected, lifeless scenes in which stock characters kept setting each other up for stock punch-lines. Yes, even "that was no lady" was used. Author David Rogers owes anyone an apology who attended Tom Jones.

It must be emphasized how shoddy this play is before considering the Roister Doisters. It would be doing inpustice to blame the troupe. That Roger's script lacks any significant or continuing action might be dismissed by the fact that it is a comedy. But it isn't. Tom Jones is not based on a novel by Henry Fielding. It is based on a joke book by Henny Youngman.

Enough of the ax, on to the Roister Doisters.

Robert Hardaway played Tom, the poor foundling with the good heart. Both Tom, who is sketched with a few more lines than the stockies, and wide-eyed, virtuous Sophia Western (Carolyn Miller) did what they could and they did it well. For the stock characters, they performed their duties well. Anne Agard rose above the script to bring her old lady out. Alan White and Kathleen Atkinson played Mr. and Miss Western with the same camp skill with which Adam West plays Batman.

Photo by Boliver

Squire attains forgiveness and raid reveals scandal.

One special performance was turned in by a half-pint, novice highwayman out to make his first loot. He woke up the first act with his mousy movements around the stage. A skinny little fellow with a mask and a cape—could he be the phantom? He later showed up at the court scene as a very funny hunch back.

Jane Helman, the director, has this little highwayman to her credit. She also did a good job gathering a crowd for Tom Jone's trial. Setting changes were the most impressive as the stage people casually removed chairs and walls and casually brought on other chairs and walls. David Rogers pinned Miss Helman to the wall and it is admirable that she has polished these few bright spots.

Thanks to David Ludlam the costumes were the high point travelling past the bad jokes into the eighteenth century. His sets consisting of soft pastels and bare essentials were good: the simplicity made is easier to be everywhere. Lighting by Ann Baker was adequate, burdened with exhaustive job of following the action.

Photo by Boliver

Director, Jane Hellman, smiles approvingly.

It's a shame that plays like Tom Jones are written. It's a shame Roister Doisters, with all good intentions, put it on. Jane Helman et al are to be congratulated on their hard work.

In David Roger's attempt to reconcile his play, he ends with a quote from Shakespeare: "All's well that ends well." This play was not well at all, David, it was sick.

DR. STONE . . .

(Continued from page 8)

thematicians America ever produced.

The University Board of Trustees created the $30,000 post in December as the first of several distinguished professorships authorized last year by the Massachusetts Legislature under the Salary Relief Bill. The bill allows the University to pay up to one percent of its teaching faculty over the state salary ceiling. The distinguished professorships are designed to attract outstanding scholars to UMass.

Dr. Stone will go to Australia on a Fulbright Fellowship and lecture in Japan this year. He will take up his post at UMass in 1968 upon retirement from U. of Chicago.

ECUMENICAL WORSHIP SERVICE —ON-CAMPUS CONTEMPORARY WORSHIP—

SUNDAY, Feb. 12
and EVERY SUNDAY
10.30 a.m.
MAHAR AUDITORIUM

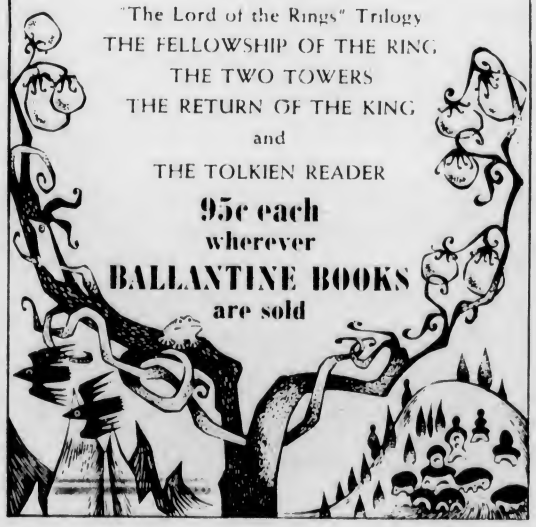
Sponsored by the United Christian Foundation

BUSINESS & LIBERAL ARTS MAJORS

Interested in an administrative or management career? We have just broken ground for a multimillion dollar addition to our Home Office in Worcester which will increase our capacity from the present 1,000 to 1,700 employees. We are looking for people who can grow with us, see the Placement Office for more information.

PAUL REVERE LIFE INSURANCE CO.

Campus interviews on Feb. 14



The Brothers of
PI LAMBDA PHI
National Fraternity
Cordially Invite All
FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN
to a FORMAL OPEN SMOKER
Time—8-10 p.m.
Place—Governor's Lounge, S.U.
Date—February 13, 1967

MOUNTAIN PARK
RTE. 5 HOLYOKE — GO WHERE THE ACTION IS
EVERY SAT. 8 P.M.
COLLEGE MIXER
2 BANDS-MONTY & SPECIALTIES
TUES., FEB. 21 — IN PERSON
ERIC BURDON & ANIMALS

TICKETS AT ALL DELPADRE STORES

COME TO MIDDLE EARTH!
J. R. R. TOLKIEN'S wonderful world of fantasy
Read
THE HOBBIT
"The Lord of the Rings" Trilogy
THE FELLOWSHIP OF THE RING
THE TWO TOWERS
THE RETURN OF THE KING
and
THE TOLKIEN READER
95c each wherever
BALLANTINE BOOKS
are sold

Summer Internships Offer Administrative Insight

by DAN MADDEN
Staff Reporter

"Many students will never know of the opportunities in administration unless they hold a position," noted Kenneth J. Suid, of the Provost's office, in explaining the reason for the Administrative Internship program to be sponsored by the University this summer.

In the program, which is limited to juniors, a student will work for 12 weeks on a special problem of his department.

"The Housing department's intern will look into housing policies and need, and suggest revisions. In Guidance, he will consider Freshman orientation," elaborated Suid, of the program.

The program, which originated on a limited basis last summer, will acquaint the intern with the problems of administrative function, research, and contact with staff and faculty.

Each week, a member of the University administration will deliver a formal lecture on the administration, functions and problems of his field or department.

At the end of the summer, each intern will submit a report on what he has done, and the problems he has faced, with suggestions for future change. The student will be an integral part of the department's summer administration. "They will not be clerks or maintenance people," emphasized Suid.

The presence of the students is expected to bring a new outlook to the departments involved—a fresh approach to the problems under consideration. Any interested junior should contact Mr. Suid at the Provost's office in South College.

Howard Stagner, (center) assistant director of the National Park Service, in charge of Resource Studies, spoke recently to the University of Massachusetts Arboriculture and Park Administration Association. Meeting with Mr. Stagner after his talk were left to right: association advisor Earle D. Whitney, landscape architecture instructor, and association members Linda Bickford of 27 Burbank St., Millbury and John Frado of 209 Elm St., Sumerset.

APO Challenges Warhol; Goes Camp with Movies

Alpha Phi Omega, the National Service Fraternity is sponsoring a new film series. The movies will be dedicated to the fine old art of Trivia collecting, and will be shown at the approximate rate of one a month.

Here's your chance to see once again the Greats of old: Superman, the original Batman and Robin, Bogart, Commando Cody, Little Ceaser, Zorro, Tom Mix, and so on. Return with us now to the days of yesteryear, the days of Saturday matinees, continuous serials, Tweety and Sylvester cartoons, and all the other things that make life worth living.

The first film of the series will be shown on Valentine's Night, February 14, and it will be Davy Crockett and the River Pirates, starring Fess Parker, Buddy Ebsen, and Jeff York as Big Mike Fink, King of the River.

Can you remember the name of Davy Crockett's friend, the one played by Buddy Ebsen? If not, the answer awaits you at 8:00, Feb. 14 in Mahar Auditorium. The popularity of this film will determine the fate of the Trivia series. By the way, there will be a cartoon program with each movie.

LECTURE

There will be a talk sponsored by the Asian-African Group on February 23, at 2:30 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge, Student Union.

The speaker will be Professor Leonard Thompson of U.C.L.A., on the subject of "History Without Documents."

Dial
545-2550
If You See
News in the Making

HILLEL

MEMBERSHIP MIXER

with the

GANG GREEN

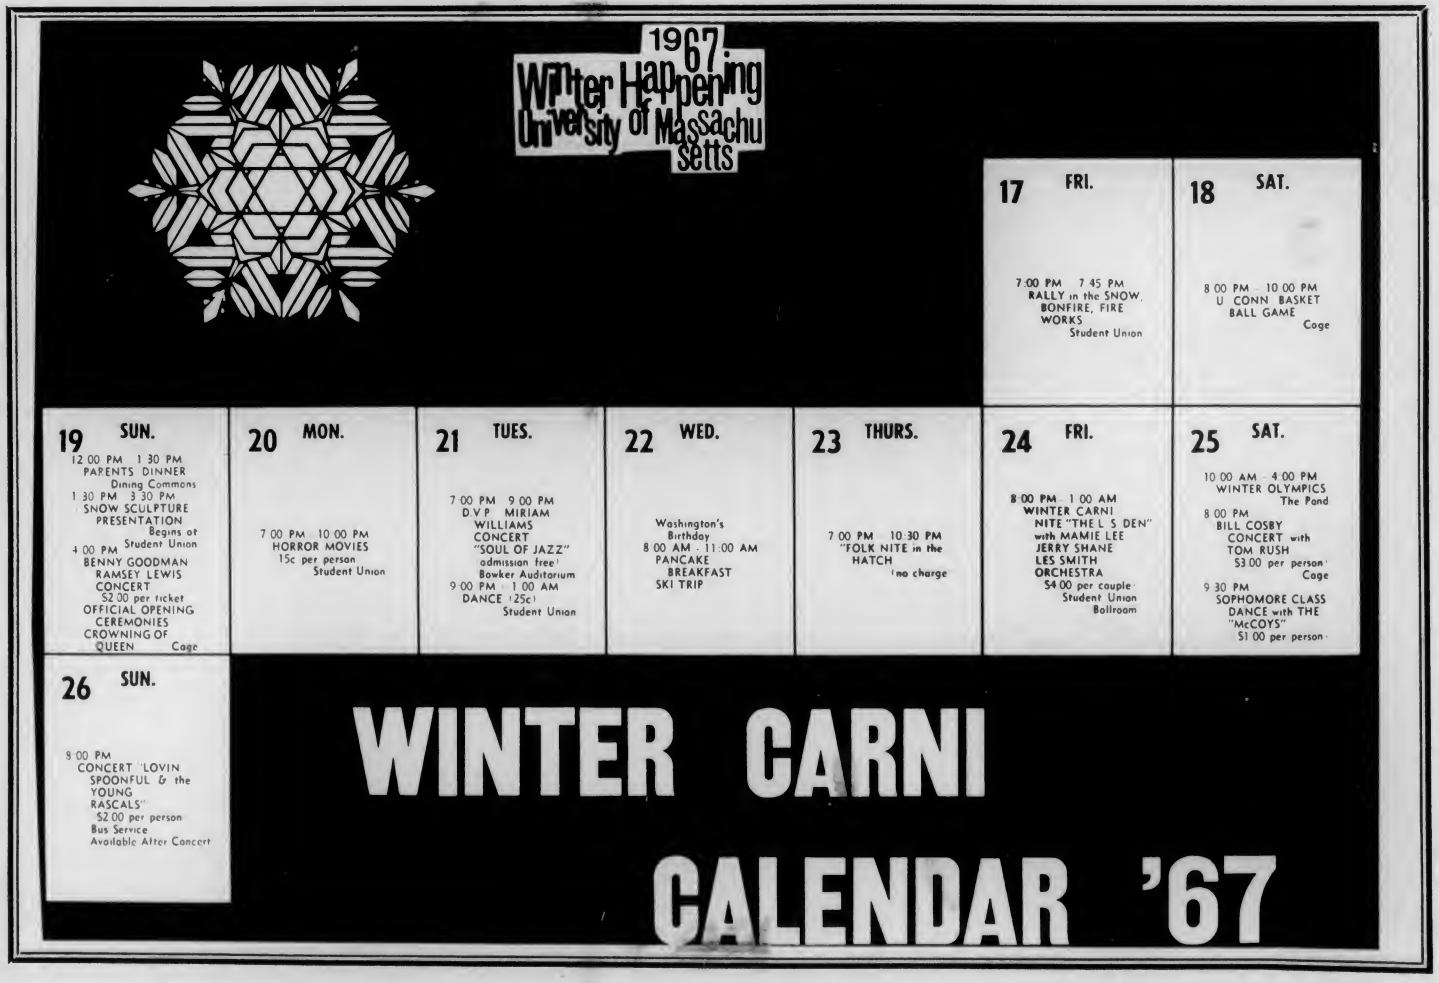
Free to members or membership may be bought at door $2.00

SATURDAY
FEBRUARY 11
FARLEY LODGE
8 p.m.

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Senate Vacancies in following dorms:

John Adams Lower
Butterfield
Chadbourne
Crabtree



Senate Seats Representing:

Fraternities
Class of 1967 at Large
2 Commuter posts

Nomination sheets can be obtained in R.S.O. Office, and are due

Friday, February 10, 1966 by 5:00 p.m.

Dorm Elections will be 6:00-9:00 in dorms
Fraternity, commuter, and at large elections will be 9:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m. in S.U. on February 16, 1967

Little Redmen Drop Gym Meet

In a fitting prelude to the varsity gymnastics meet, the UMass freshmen dropped a vigorous match to the Springfield College yearlings, 142-136.

Once again it was Joe Reed who led the way for UMass. Reed placed first in four events and third in two others. His 5.9 paced all competitors on the side horse and, additionally, he tapped top honors on the high bar, the parallels and the rings, with scores of 6.9, 8.8 and 8.8 on the respective events. He placed third on the vault and in the floor exercise.

Bill McCauley edged Reed for second place in the floor event, finishing just a tenth of a point behind the frontrunner. His score was 8.3.

McCauley also placed second on the trampoline, netting 5.3 points and finished his night's work with a 5.0 on the high bar.

On the side horse, UMass' Frank Dean pocketed first money with a routine worth 5.9 points, three tenths better than Reed, who finished second.

Charlie Hagins, who plied his skills on four of the meet's seven events, finished third on the parallel bar, posting a 7.9 composite.

DRIVING FORWARD is Collin Garstang in slalom practice at Killington Basin, Vermont, during the intersession training camp.

Young UM Skiers Show Top Form at Dartmouth

The first three races of the New England Intercollege Ski Conference held recently at the Dartmouth Skiway were a testing ground for a young, inexperienced UMass team.

Confidence in the squad's prospects did not abound in preseason forecasts. Last year's co-captains, Don Piegza and Pete Plasteridge, had graduated. Sophomore Glen Longley, to top flight "Class A" racer, had an unsuccessful knee operation and left school. Tom Pittendreigh, who was No. 2 on last year's team, became ineligible, and Fred Foster, No. 3, flunked out.

This left juniors Collin Garstang, winner of four league races last year, and John Hurd, a solid veteran, as a core to build the team around. Some developing sophomores and one junior are successfully scrambling to fill the gaps of what could have been the greatest UMass ski team ever.

At the Dartmouth Skiway the four sophomores skiing for the varsity proved to be solid, and what was originally written off as a disastrous year may prove to be a good one.

John Williams, a junior reserve, had three good B Team races at Dartmouth and should see some varsity action this winter. Mike Zanolli, David Kamila, Dick McHugh, and Wilkie Ward, all sophomores with little racing experience, raced well to place the University second among the eight colleges in the league.

In the Amherst College Giant Slalom last Saturday, Amherst won with the best time for its four top skiers. Six are permitted in the event. Bentley College was second and the UMass team was third among the eight schools in the 70-second race. Steve Perrons, AIC senior, won the event. Pete Flaccus of Amherst was second and UMass' Garstang was third among the 80 competitors.

That afternoon in the B-P Special Giant Slalom, Amherst was again first, UMass was second, and Boston College finished third. Perrons again dominated with Garstang a close second. The untried Redmen sophomores proved that they could do it again.

The University of Massachusetts Downhill scheduled for Sunday was changed to a fast giant slalom. Amherst won easily with a total four-man time of 382 seconds, AIC had 397, Boston University, 399, the University of Massachusetts, 401, Tufts, 402, Bentley, 405, Northeastern, 407, and Boston College, 417.

Perrons of AIC won this one too. Flaccus of Amherst was second and Don Marsh of Tufts was third. Garstang turned too soon, hit a gate, had to go back, and wound up 15th in the race, six seconds out of first place in a 93-second race.

The three races leave the team second in the league standings with a win-loss ratio of 14 wins and 5 losses. The next league races will be a slalom sponsored by Tufts at Stratton Mountain in Vermont on Saturday, the 18th, and a giant slalom sponsored by Bentley College at the same place the next day. The same eight colleges will compete.

Lady Skiers Vie in Weekend Slaloms

The UMass women's ski team, directed by Miss Gail Bibblestone, competes in its first two races of the season this weekend. Saturday the girls will be at Mad River, Vermont for a slalom sponsored by Northeastern Univ.

Sunday the girls compete in a two-run slalom at Glen Ellen Ski Area. Top skiers include Judy Beers, Barb Bund, Kim Garrison and Judy Fuller.

INTRAMURALS

Imps Cop Independent Title

by ROGER KIPP, Sports Staff

The Untouchables finally got beat. Yes, the Upper Imps did it, winning the Independent title, 53-39, over the defending campus champs.

It took an all-around effort on the part of the Imps, (Stillman 19 pts., Gorman 12, and Kleine 8), and it may go as the upset of the year. Charlie Lapier, an outstanding performer all year, had 17 markers for the previously unbeaten Untouchables.

The Kennedy Cougars moved one step closer to the Dormitory title with a 52-39 quest of the Hi-Los. The Cougars are a powerhouse from a powerful league, the Southwest, which produced the campus scoring leader in Ray Stanelis (36 ppg.) and should have a good chance of grabbing it all.

Their next opponent is the Grayson Flaming A's of the North League, whose top scorer is Dick Meyer.

Although Tom Healey was the top scorer and rebounder for the Cougars during the regular season, it was Tommy Bigelow with 18 points and John Punska with 12 who provided the heroics in the victory over the Hi-Los. Dick Fredericks and Al Holcomb paced the Hi-Los with 13 apiece.

In addition to the Cougars - Flaming A clash, TEP will play the Upper Imps, with the two winners squaring off Monday night for the campus championship. TEP has the IFC scoring leader in Don Alberico, who banged home 145 points in seven games, including 54 in one game.

Our Average Student Reads 4.7 Times Faster Than His Starting Speed

with EQUAL or BETTER comprehension

The internationally famous EVELYN WOOD Reading Dynamics Institute

INVITES YOU TO ATTEND A FREE DEMONSTRATION OF THIS UNIQUE METHOD

Where you will:

- See an amazing documented film about Reading Dynamics.
- Learn how Reading Dynamics can help you to faster reading, improved comprehension, greater retention.

HOW DID IT START?

Eighteen years ago Mrs. Wood made a startling discovery that led to the founding of Reading Dynamics. While working toward her master's degree, she handed a term paper to a professor and watched him read the 80 pages at 6,000 words per minute—with outstanding recall and comprehension.

Determined to find the secret behind such rapid reading, she spent the next two years tracking down 50 people who could read from 1,500 to 6,000 words per minute. She studied their techniques, taught herself to read at these faster rates. Now, after years of testing, you can benefit from this great discovery.

AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

Results have been reported in Time, Newsweek, Business Week, and Esquire. Demonstrators have appeared on television with Jack Paar, Garry Moore, and Art Linkletter.

Describing Reading Dynamics' impact on some of our nation's legislators, Time said, "Washington has seen nothing like it since the days when Teddy Roosevelt read three books a day and ran the country at the same time."

Senator Herman E. Talmadge, Georgia: "In my opinion if these reading techniques were instituted in the public and private schools of our country, it would be the greatest single step we could take in educational progress." Senator Proxmire, Wisconsin: "I must say that this is one of the most useful education experiences I have ever had. It certainly compares favorably with the experiences I've had at Yale and Harvard."

A Reading Dynamics class at St. Louis University had an average beginning speed of 357 words per minute, an ending speed of 1,810 words per minute. Average comprehension rose from 73% to 83%.

HOW IS IT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER COURSES?

No machines are used. You learn, instead, to use your hand as a pacer—a tool you always have with you.

Conventional rapid reading courses aspire to 450-600 words per minute. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,500 and 3,000 words per minute, and many go even higher.

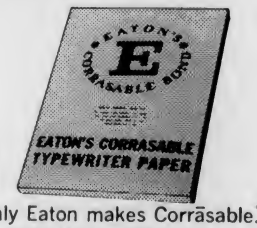
GUARANTEE

We will guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student by AT LEAST 3 times with equal or better comprehension. We will refund the entire tuition of any student upon the completion of his course who does not obtain at least the tripling of his reading efficiency as measured by the beginning and ending tests. This guarantee is conditioned upon the student's attending all of the required classes (or making up any missed sessions with an instructor). He also must have completed the required number of homework hours according to directions. For further details call the number below.

CLASSES BEGIN AT

People's Institute, Northampton — 38 Gothic St. 584-8313

on



Tues., Feb. 14, 7 p.m. Thurs., Feb. 16, 7 p.m.

Anyone can

GOOF.

With Eaton's Corrāsable Bond Typewriter Paper, you can erase that goof without a trace.

Not a telltale smudge remains. A special surface permits quick and easy erasing with an ordinary pencil eraser. For perfect papers every time, get Corrāsable. In light, medium, heavy weights and Onion Skin. In handy 100-sheet packets and 500-sheet ream boxes. At Stationery Departments.

Only Eaton makes Corrāsable.®

EATON PAPER CORPORATION, PITTSFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS

Redmen Clobbered by Rhode Island, 96-72

Johnson, Stephenson, Hoyle Pace Rams; Defeat Costly for Redmen

by TOM FITZGERALD, Sports Editor

KINGSTON, R. I.—Talk is that the Kingston Trio are disbanding. Another threesome who may be given the name now were rippling the strings last night. Only the strings were basketball nets and instead of a folk ballad, the vibrations produced a convincing 96-72 Rhode Island victory over UMass.

The trio consisted of Art Stephenson, the 6'5 center who had meeting at Amherst (which the only five points in the first Redmen won decisively); guard Larry Johnson, an Oscar Robertson in Ram's clothing; and rebounder Tom Hoyle. Johnson had 26 points, Stephenson, 25, and Hoyle, 20.

Rich Coleman came back from a three-game suspension to add another 13 points.

The University of Rhode Island includes about 6,500 students, including grads, but the 4,500-seat Keaney Gymnasium was overflowing with fans.

They got what they wanted, a free-wheeling 40 minutes and an impressive victory.

The loss was the Redmen's fourth straight and the sixth in the last seven games. UMass, now 8-10 overall, and URI are tied in second place in the Yankee Conference with 5-2 records. UConn remains unbeaten in six games.

In all probability, the only way that Connecticut can lose the title is to lose both to UMass (on the 18th at the Cage) and to Rhode Island (on the 24th at Kingston).

The contest was a contest for one half, but after Rhody's Johnson hit a free throw and then a field goal, the Redmen never led again.

With Johnson supplying most of the points, the Rams built a 23 - 16 lead at the 10-minute mark. Against the UMass man-to-man setup, URI was on top by nine in the second quarter when UMass applied the zone press. Two baskets by Frank Stewart and one by Joe DiSarcina offset a corner bomb by Rich Coleman to produce a 33-28 count.

Stephenson banked one in and Hoyle dunked the ball on a fast break, but Bill Tindall, John Lisack, and Tim Edwards scored points to slice the gap to 37-35 with 4:19 left in the half. Hoyle's three-point play preceded a basket by DiSarcina with four minutes left to make it 40-37, URI.

But two field goals apiece by Hoyle and Johnson and one each by Coleman and Stephenson, all crowd to its feet and left UMass in flashy fashion, jerked the gasping at halftime, 52-37.

In the second half, the lead went as high as 80-53 with seven minutes left.

For UMass Tindall (21 points), Edwards (14), DiSarcina (14), and John Lisack (12) were the top Redmen. DiSarcina as usual, was in perpetual motion on offense and defense.

JOE DiSARCIAN
Excellent in defeat.

RHODE ISLAND	Fgs	Fg	Fta	Ft	Reb	Pf	Pts
Stephenson	19	7	12	11	9	3	25
Johnson	17	11	5	4	2	2	26
Hoyle	13	7	7	6	10	4	20
Coleman	6	5	3	3	7	1	13
Zaranka	4	1	0	0	0	1	2
Knight	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Smith	1	1	0	0	0	0	2
Castaldi	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
Kaull	1	1	2	2	4	2	4
Kopitko	1	1	0	0	0	0	2
Tilander	0	0	2	2	0	0	2
TEAM					14
TOTALS	63	34	31	28	46	13	96

MASSACHUSETTS	Fgs	Fg	Fta	Ft	Reb	Pf	Pts
DiSarcina	9	6	4	2	4	3	14
Perkins	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Lisack	7	4	4	4	2	4	12
Murphy	5	1	0	0	0	0	2
Rand	1	0	0	0	0	1	0
Tindall	26	9	6	3	7	3	21
Girotti	2	1	0	0	2	0	2
Gasperack	5	1	0	0	1	0	2
Stewart	7	2	2	1	1	2	5
Gayeska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Edwards	16	7	1	0	8	5	14
TEAM					16
TOTALS	78	31	17	10	42	18	72

Yan-Con Hopes At N. Hampshire Depend on Win

With only a day's rest, the Redmen travel to Durham, N.H., tomorrow night for a Yankee Conference clash wit U.N.H.

UMass defeated the Wildcats, 77-73, at Amherst last month, although the Redmen slacked off at the end and a late UNH surge made it close. Like the rest of the games on the conference schedule, this one is a must for the Redmen.

WMUA will broadcast the game starting at 7:50 p.m.

Good luck to

NORM NEWELL

Our militant printer

Second Semester Blues

Freshmen Raided by Rhody, 80-63

by MIKE CURRAN
Sports Staff

KINGSTON, R. I. — What a difference a semester makes. The UMass freshmen, who had breezed past Rhode Island, 81-63, in December, were handed an 80-63 loss to the same squad last night at Keaney Gymnasium.

Two baskets by Dick Starsiak and one each by Dick Samuelson, Kevin Boisjolie and Ray Ellerbrook gave the ittle Redmen an early 9-0 lead. After a time-out, however, URI fought back and finally overcame the UMass edge with a nine-point spurt that boosted the Rams into a 22-16 lead.

The shooting of Jack Gallagher and Samuelson kept the frosh in the game for the rest of the half, which ended with the Rams in front, 31-25.

After intermission, the teams played on even terms for about eight minutes. At that point Rhody put together a string of 11 to put it out of reach with a 57-35 spread.

Samuelson and Ellerbrook led the Little Redmen with 15 points apice. Gallagher followed with 14. UMass had onther poor shooting night, hitting only 35 percent from the floor and 50 percent from the line.

Two Massachusetts natives, Chuck Fultz and Glenn Gariepy, paced Rhody with 21 and 14 points, respectively. Bill Metliff and Roy Fraser were also in double figures.

The Little Redmen will be trying to avenge a week-old one-point loss to Springfield in an away game tomorrow night.

Wednesday night at 6, they will try to perform a similar feat against the Holy Cross frosh at the Cage.

UMASS FROSH	Fg	Ft	Pts
Samuelson	6	3	15
Gallagher	5	4	14
Boisjolie	2	0	4
Ellerbrook	7	1	15
Starsiak	3	0	6
Perry	0	0	0
Shea	1	0	2
Niles	1	0	2
Healy	2	2	6
Hart	0	0	0
Totals	27	10	64

URI FROSH	Fg	Ft	Pts
Fultz	8	5	21
Metliff	5	2	12
V'n O'd'h'e	4	1	9
Gariepy	6	2	14
Fine	4	1	9
Fraser	5	1	11
Suea	0	2	2
Lopes	1	0	2
Totals	33	14	80

Icemen Face Weekend Clashes; Mermen Meet UVM, Matmen BC

Three UMass varsity and two freshmen teams swing into action this weekend in the busiest two days of sports since before intersession.

The hockey team, holding its own this season under Coach Steve Kosakowski in collegiate ice wars, plays host to visiting Holy Cross tonight at 7 at Orr Rink.

The sextet entertains the University of Pennsylvania on the same ice tomorrow at 2. Both contests should be interesting, hardchecking hockey.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 Boyden Pool will be the site of a varsity swim meet against Vermont. Following the varsity swim, Coach Joe Yeskewicz's frosh contingent will toke to the pool against the Vermont freshmen at 3:30. Both meets are open to the public and admission is free.

Turning to the wrestling scene, Coach Homer Barr's matmen meet visiting Boston College tonight at 8 in the Boyden Gym. Prior to the main event, the UMass freshmen grapplers meet the Eaglets at 6:15.

Gymnasts Look Strong in Loss to Springfield

by TIM MURPHY, Sports Staff

The crowded gymnasium was not disappointed. Though defeated by Springfield College's powerful gymnasts, 182-166, the UMass gymnastics team parlayed form and execution to register its finest showing of the season Wednesday at Boyden Auxiliary Gym.

Approximately 500 onlookers watched as the Redmen attempted to offset the individual performances of Maroon Co-captains Bob Cargill and Tom Auchterlonie. Cargill, rated one of the top collegiate gymnasts in the U. S., was true to past form as he placed first in the floor exercise, the high bar, the long horse vault and the rings, while annexing seconds on the parallels and the trampoline.

Auchterlonie placed first on the side horse, executing his routine more than a full point higher than any of his competitors. His score was 9.55.

The Maroons swept two events, placing men in the first three positions. The five-point plurality on the trampoline was the widest event margin of the evening. Best comparitive performance for the Redmen was on the side horse. Both teams scored 24.8 points on the event.

Dick Dauphenais netted an 8.75 in the floor exercise, good for second place, and was followed by Tony Kasavana at 8.0. On the side horse, UMass' Fred Babakian finished second to Auchterlonie with a 9.0. Bob Leclair was third with an 8.3.

With the Redmen trailing by less than a point after the second event, there was seemingly a letdown as Springfield more than quadrupled the lead in FANCY DICK — UMass' Dick DelGalo balances delicately with rings at his side as he executes an 8.9 on the event.. the trampoline event. Top UM performer was Tom Adams with a 7.8.

On the high bar the story was entirely different. Steve Brown led the Redmen pointgetters with an 8.3 for second place. He was followed by Captain Al Carver at 7.9.

A few minutes later, UMass put on its best scoring show of the meet by compiling a 26.3 on the long horse vault. Springfield, however, due to the efforts of its co-captains, captured the first three spots. Brown registered an 8.8 adn Carver an 8.55 for the Redmen.

Dave March cut his routine for an 8.5 on the parallel bars to place third. Brown recerved an 8.4 fro mthe panel of four judges.

On the final event, a particularly strong one foor the Maroons, UMass' Dick DelGallo annexed 8.85 points to the Redmen total as he finished in second place behind Springfield's Cargill and Dick Pillion, both at 9.1.

The meet total of 166 is a seasonal high for the UM gymnasts, who next meet Navy at Annapolis on the 18th. Syracuse will be here on the 24th for a 7:30 p.m. encounter.

Springfield now stands at 6-0 in the Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League. Included in the sextet of victories is a 188-186 win over Penn State. UM is 1-4, its sole win coming at the expense of Pitt.

The crowded gymnasium was not disappointed. Though de-

WHOLE WORLD TURNED UPSIDE DOWN — Or so it seems to Steve Brown of UM as he spins vertically on the high bar against Springfield College.

feated by Springfield College's powerful gymnasts, 182 - 166, the University of Massachusetts gymnastics team parlayed form and execution to register its finest showing of the season

Sports Staff Confab
Sun., 6 P.M.

ACADEMIC CALENDAR
Page 2

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

FIRST WITH THE NEWS
545-2550

VOL. XCV, NO. 43 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1967

DA VINCI PAPERS FOUND!

UM Professor Discovers Manuscripts in Madrid

Special to the Collegian from University News Service

BOSTON, Mass.—The discovery of two manuscripts of Leonardo da Vinci, lost prior to 1200, and considered probably the biggest historical find of the twentieth century has been announced by UMass Professor of Romance Languages, Jules Piccus and Dr. Ladislao Reti of UCLA. The announcement was made today at 2:00 p.m. at a press conference in Boston.

Dr. Piccus, who made the initial discovery in the National Library of Madrid, Spain, consulted with Professor Reti, noted scholar of da Vinci's scientific works, who was also searching for the manuscripts, and who has examined the documents and confirmed their authenticity.

The University of Massachusetts has secured from the National Library of Madrid, Spain, the exclusive publication rights and has invited the Elmer Belt Library of Vinciana, at UCLA, world famous center of da Vinci studies, to collaborate in the preparation and publication of a scholarly edition of the manuscripts, which will be entitled, "The Madrid Codices of Leonardo da Vinci." Dr. Piccus and Dr. Reti will act as general editors of the publication.

As was his custom, da Vinci wrote these manuscripts in "mirror-writing." They will be published in facsimile and in transcription, accompanied by annotations and commentary. The noted artist and typographer Leonard Baskin of Smith College has been invited to participate in designing the publication.

Scholars have been searching for these works for at least 75 years. The documents had been catalogued under the title "Tractados de meccanica y geometric, escritas al reves y en annos 1491-1493," ("Treatises on mechanics and geometry, written in reverse, in the years 1491-1493.")

The two scholars have not been able to evaluate the contents completely, but they say they are concerned primarily with the area of mechanical engineering. It is their opinion that these are the finest and most complete da Vinci drawings of this type in existence. While many other known drawings of Leonardo are in rough form, many of these are finished drawings and are termed "exquisite" by Professors Piccus and Reti.

"The Madrid Codices," the general editors explain, differ from many other da Vinci manuscripts that include single drawings and sketches. Rather, these manuscripts appear to contain extended studies on subjects including various machines, complicated gears and hydraulic systems. Further study may show that some inventions, attributed to others at a later date, were the work of Leonardo.

Surrounded by microfilmed reproductions of Leonardo da Vinci drawings is Prof. Jules Piccus of UMass, initial discoverer of the Madrid Codices of Leonardo da Vinci, two long-lost do Vinci manuscripts from the National Library of Madrid in Spain, authenticated by Dr. Ladislao Reti, noted da Vinci scholar, of the Elmer Belt Library in Vinciana, University of California at Los Angeler. The two scholars announced the discovery in Boston today and reveiled that UM has obtained exclusive rights to publish both manuscripts.

Prof. Piccus began his search for the missing manuscripts a year ago while on a Fulbright grant to seek clues to lost or forgatten "cancioneros," and other medieval manuscripts in the National Library of Madrid, Spain. At the same time, Prof. Reti was using the library for his da Vinci studies and his work on the manuscript of Juanelo Turriano.

Finding the manuscripts was literary detective work of the first order. Much of the credit goes to the Rev. Jose Lopez de Toro, vice-director of the National Library, who maintained a firm belief that the manuscripts were still in the library. He cooperated completely with the two scholars, as did D. Ramon Paz, head of the department of manuscripts in the library.

In his systematic search of medieval manuscripts, Dr. Piccus looked at thousands of manuscripts during a 15-month period before finding the treasure. He called in Prof. Reti, who studied the manuscripts and confirmed their authenticity.

Prof. Piccus told Dr. Edward C. Moore, Dean of the University of Massachusetts Graduate School, of the discovery. After consultation with other University officials, Dean Moore authorized Prof. Piccus to return to Madrid and to negotiate for publication rights.

Dr. Piccus and Dr. Reti conferred with D. Miguel Bordonau, Director of the National Library, who granted publication rights to the University of Massachusetts.

(Continued on page 3)

Quiet and Serious

Peace Vigil to Continue

by PAM METAXAS, Staff Reporter

The weekly Peace Vigil on Sundays from 12-1 p.m. on the Amherst Common is one of eighty nine such vigils which have now been initiated throughout the nation.

In Amherst, circulars are handed to passerbys which read: "To express our sorrow and our protest because we Americans are killing and being killed in Vietnam: We hold this silent vigil on Sundays 12:00 to 1:00 p.m."

There has been steady growth in the number of participants in the Amherst Peace vigil. More than 350 participated in the ninth vigil. The first vigil held on Dec. 4 had only 65.

Those in the Peace Vigil stand or sit quietly. They may engage in meditation and come or go during the hour. At the end of the hour participants turn and shake hands with their nearest neighbors.

The Peace Vigil in Amherst is unique, as are the others, in that it is non-violent and silent. Many persons feel that this silent protest is having more of an effect on people and the administration than loud antiwar protests have had.

In a newsletter from the Informational Clearing House for the Weekly Vigil For Peace in Santa Barbara, the purpose of the Weekly Vigils is further explained.

"The Weekly Vigil for Peace is a quiet but insistent expression of sorrow and concern, one hour a week, to protest the war in Vietnam. It is intended as a recurrent, visable witness, until that war stops...We all hope that the need for the vigil will soon disappear, through the early termination of hostilities in Southeast Asia. But until that time, our presence can serve as a recurrent reminder to others, including the citizens and officials of other countries who might seek to resort to violence for the settlement of conflicts."

The origin of the first anti-war silent demonstration as on the University of California Santa Barbara campus. It was instituted by Dr. Charles H. Hubbell, sociology professor.

It is interesting to note that Hubbell is a veteran of WW II and the Korean War. In a recent article in the New York Times concerning the Vigils and especially concerning the growth of the Amherst protest, Hubbell remarked, "Strangely this silent vigil seems to provide a bridge. People wait to talk to marchers, and we seem to change some minds. In the last instance we must change the minds of those in Government. I believe if enough of us express ourselves and appeal to President Johnson instead of considering him our enemy, we might change things."

At the University, plans were revealed by Mrs. Leone Barron of the University Press and a member of the ad hoc committee which initiated the vigil to continue the Amherst Peace Vigil through Easter. This continuation is due to the enthusiastic response by participants.

She explained that all types of people join the

(Continued on page 9)

UT Cancels Season; Fire Losses Heavy

by GORDON DAVIDSON
Senior Reporter

The loss of over $20,000 worth of production equipment, and the lack of rehearsal and storage space had caused the cancellation of University Theater's productions "Of Mice and Men" and Mandragola," according to UT officials.

The losses may also seriously jeopardize plans for the UT's Summer Repertory Company, scheduled to begin this year.

Leslie Titcomb, Public Relations Director for the theater, explained the magnitude of the loss.

"The theater is in worse shape now than when we started five years ago. Now we have neither stock nor rehearsal space," Titcomb explained. "All of the wardrobe of 150 costumes, 95% of the staging platforms, and all of the stage properties, including furniture and many antique pieces were destroyed," he added.

One of the most expensive items in the Conservation Building was $3,000 worth of electrical cable, which it seems doubtful can be salvaged, according to Harry Mahnken, Director of UT. Mahnkin also noted that university buildings are not insured, and that losses are made up by the university, on a self-insuring plan. Thus UT may have to wait some time for extensive funds for rebuilding. Mahnkin cited "emergency funds" set up by the university as one possible source of immediate aid.

"The next six months will be used to rebuild staging platforms and scenery, and generally getting back into shape," Mahnken explained. Two Master of Fine Arts Thesis productions, which require relatively little scenery, will be presented in the spring.

The largest problem facing UT is procuring immediate space, both for rehearsal, and storage areas, Mahnken noted.

"Our space has to be relatively permanent, or people will be lost because they will not know where we are located, Mahnken emphasized. "We would lose a lot of new people without a permanent home."

"Everyone agrees that the

(Continued on page 3)

Controversy Rages

Students Protest New Academic Calendar

by MARSHALL NADAN
Senior Reporter

Following the passage of the 1968-69 academic calendar by the Faculty Senate, Robert Gaudet, Chairman of the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee and Wayne Thomas, President of the Sophomore Class, expressed objection to the new calendar. They felt that the Faculty Senate had acted as a rubber stamp for the administration.

The calendar eliminates the lame-duck period between Christmas vacation and finals and allows only three days between finals and commencement in the Spring.

In the calendar, the last day of classes for the fall semester would be Saturday, December 21, 1968. This would be followed by Winter Recess; Friday, January 2 and Saturday, January 3 would be set aside as Reading Days. Finals would begin on Monday, January 6.

The controversial calendar was presented to the Senate by Dr. William Venman, Assistant to the Provost, on behalf of the Academic Matters Committee. After hearing the viewpoints of Gaudet and Thomas that objected to certain aspects of the calender, the Senate proceeded to pass the Calendar with almost no debate.

After the meeting, Gaudet and Thomas expressed the opinion that the Faculty Senate in this case seemed to be rubber stamp for the administration. Much of the work of the Senate is accomplished in committee on which administrators rather than faculty play a large role.

Wayne Thomas, President of the Sophomore Class, and Robert Gaudet, Chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate, were quite disturbed over its passage and indicated that they planned to take further action.

Thomas, whose class will be the senior class when the calendar will be in effect, declared that he will initiate action to bring up a motion to reconsider the calendar at the next meeting of the Senate.

A student cannot introduce a motion on the floor of the Senate, but he can have a member of the Senate do so on his behalf. Thomas indicated that he will have a stronger case for a longer Senior Week at the next meeting.

Concerning the question of Senior Week, President Thomas stated, "I feel that the people in my class who will be responsible for Senior Week will be unnecessarily burdened with preparation for the week during finals. Senior Week will begin the night of the last day of finals."

A poll will be conducted this week by the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate as an emergency measure, Gaudet anounced. Gaudet refused to commit himself or his committee to any specific line of action until the results of the poll could be studied.

Gaudet is most concerned with the elimination of the lame-duck period and the lack of adequate Reading Days between Christmas vacaton and finals. The calendar, as passed, provides for only two Reading Days.

Gaudet said that the poll would be used to measure student opinion on the issue and to give strength to their case. He stressed the importance of a large response if the poll were to be useful. The poll, which is not intended to replace the all-inclusive academic poll to be held later in the semester, will be conducted in dorms and in the Union.

Gaudet could try to work out a compromise with the Administration or he could ask a Senate member to move to reconsider the calendar. If he chose the latter course, he would have to present an alternative calendar. Drafting such a calendar would involve much work.

Last year the Academic Affairs Committee drafted an alternative for the 1967-68 calendar, and it was presented to the Faculty Senate by Tim Cunningham, now Vice-President of the Student Senate. The Faculty Senate defeated the student proposal.

* * *

Faculty Opinion Differs

by MARSHALL NADAN, Senior Reporter

In a quick spot-check of professors, the Collegian found that the elimination of the lame-duck period had substantial support.

Various reasons were given for favoring its abolition. The most common was that professors find it difficult to build up momentum during such a short period. One professor admitted that the calendar, as it is, benefits the professor and not the students, but he favors it anyhow.

Another opinion was offered by Prof. J. H. Korson of the Sociology Dept., who stated, "I don't think this will benefit the students. I don't know of any other institutions where this calendar has been tried, therefore I cannot point to any other experience that has been successful or unsuccessful.

I can speak from experience," he continued, "and point to Mondays or any other day following a long holiday as a poor time to give exams."

Korson continued, "I believe that the lame-duck period serves the purpose of getting the students back to work and the phychological situation becomes more conducive to better results."

He concluded, "I am not saying that it is the best system. I can think of poorer arrangements, but I don't know of a better one."

Prof. Robert Feldman of the Psychology Dept. stated, "When a student is in classes he is in the routine of studying. At home for Christmas the emphasis is on diversion and parties. The motivation needed to achieve may not be present upon return to the University."

"On the other hand," Feldman continued, "getting away may give the student time for reflection and relaxed study. He may come back and do even better. I don't think anything drastic will happen either way," Feldman concluded. "There is the need for comparison. Perhaps, this deserves a trial."

Senator Protests

by MARSHALL NADAN, Staff Reporter

Robert Gauden, Chairman of the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee, raised the following objections to the proposed Academic Calendar passed by the Faculty Senate Thursday:

First, he lamented the lack of adequate Reading Days, especially in light of the "no-conflict" rule regarding finals. The "no conflict" rule states that three finals in one day does not constitute a conflict. The calendar provides for only two Reading Days.

Second, he said that students preferred to have Spring Recess around Easter time. Spring Recess in 1969 begins March 21 and ends March 31. Easter falls on April 6.

Third, Gaudet suggested that counseling might be spread over a week eliminating the need for Counseling Day. This would then permit an extra Reading Day.

Fourth, he objected to the elimination of the lame-duck period especially in light of the inadequate number of days designated as Reading Days.

Yahoo Lives

The Yahoo staff is not dead. With the possibilities of publishing before June, the staff has been preparing copy for a super edition. Anyone interested in working on Yahoo is invited to a meeting tomorrow night (Tuesday) at 7 p.m. in the Yahoo Office, S.U.

FINANCIAL AID

Applications for all types of financial aid for Summer School, 1967 and for the 1967-68 academic year are now available in the Placement and Financial Aid Services Office, Machmer Hall. All Students interested in applying for financial aid, whether or not they are now receiving or have received assistance in the past, must file a new application. Completed applications must be submitted to Placement and Financial Aid by MARCH 1, 1967.

Art Exhibit Removal Still Stirs Debate

by ELAINE KAGAN
Staff Reporter

Repercussions of the Charles Close exhibit are still ricocheting around campus. Three major governing agencies on campus have passed either resolutions or notions concerning the unfortunate incident.

The Student Senate passed a resolve condemning the role that the administration played in the removal of the exhibit.

The Faculty Senate on Jan. 19 passed a resolve that asks for prompt formulation of a new policy concerning the exhibition of pictures—a policy that would be acceptible to both the Art Department and the administration.

The Student Union Governing Board on Feb. 2, passed a motion reaffirming its position on the placement of art in the Union.

The Governing Board, as the representative of the faculty, alumni and students directed that the Student Union Art and Music Committee exercise the right given it by the Governing Board to approve all exhibits before they are hung in the Union for their appropriateness in relation to the area the Union has available for their display.

It was also passed that the committee may terminate any exhibit before the expiration date. In addition, the Governing Board reaffirmed its right to establish, terminate or revoke any function in the Student Union.

Unfortunately, the Union's Student Committee on Art was not used for its designated function. Students of the Art Committee never saw the Close exhibit before it was hung.

The right for all art to be displayed in the Union or anywhere else on campus is not the issue at hand.

The issue revolves around the question: who must view the art? Should only those who are interested or should the general public have to look at something simply because it is in a public hallway?

The Faculty Senate realizing that no excellent display areas are available passed a resolve commending the Student Union for its role on campus in displaying art works.

The question that the Student Art and Music Committee must decide in the future is: does the Student Union have the facilities to display the type of art work that a person, whether expert or lay, recommends be hung in the Student Union?

Faculty Senate Criticized

by MARSHALL NADAN
Senior Reporter

The Faculty Senate Thursday passed the new academic calendar with almost no debate and no dissenting opinions. This action, typical of Faculty Senate proceedings, brought about the following statement:

One member of the Faculty Senate privately confided that the Senate and Parliament under De Gaulle's Fifth Republic showed a fair resemblance. He suggested that once certain proposals come to the floor of the Senate it may be too late to change them. He also suggested that the weakness of the Senate might be the fault of the members rather than a domineering administration.

Politician's Note

STUDENT SENATE CANDIDATES

On Wednesday, Feb. 15, the Collegian will provide space for a Candidates' Forum. If you wish to state your qualifications, submit a letter to the Editorial Editor before 1:00 p.m. Tuesday. Letters must be typed at 60 spaces, double-spaced, and should not exceed 14 lines.

TKE

invites

FRESHMEN & UPPERCLASSMEN

to a FORMAL SMOKER

MONDAY and TUESDAY

(Feb. 13, 14)

GRINDER PARTY

&

REDMEN HIGHLIGHTS

ADVERTISING DEADLINE

Thurs. 5:00 p.m. for Mon. paper
Fri. noon for Wed.
Mon. noon for Fri.

All copy must be submitted to the Collegian office on these dates, the week before the desired insertion

Thank you

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2560 — 549-1311

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

With the new Academic Calendar . . .

This is the remains of $20,000 worth of University Theater production equipment which was destroyed when the wooden Conservation Building burnt to the ground last week. The fire has forced the cancellation of UT's season and may possibly jeopardize next year's performances.

UT CANCELS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Fine Arts Teaching Center is the long run solution, but we are looking for is an interim solution," Mahnken concluded.

Dr. Ronald F. Reid, Head of the Department of Speech, pointed out that the theatrical productions are playing and increasingly large role in the cultural life of the university. Dr. Reid has sent a memo to the Provost's office outlining the needs of UT in the immediate future, and a conference is scheduled this week to discuss possible alternatives and solutions

MANDATORY

PHOTO STAFF MEETING

Feb. 14, 1967 at 7 P.M.

COLLEGIAN OFFICE

THE BROTHERS OF

THETA CHI fraternity

invite freshmen to attend an

OPEN SMOKER

at 7:30

Monday Feb. 13, 1967

Design of an automatic bolting machine, circa 1493, from the Madrid Codices of Leonardo da Vinci, two long-lost manuscripts discovered at the National Library of Madrid, Spain, initially by Dr. Jules Piccus of UMass and authenticated by Dr. Ladislao Reti of the Elmer Belt Library of Vinciana, UCLA. Design of the bolting machine is generally attributed to someone else 50 years later. The two scholars say the manuscripts, concerned primarily with mechanical engineering, contain the finest and most complete da Vinci drawings of this type in existence. The University of Massachusetts has obtained exclusive rights to publish both manuscripts.

Biggest Find Of The Century!

(Continued from page 1)

Dean Moore says, "Publication of these manuscripts will be of the first order of significance to scholars throughout the world. In order to make certain that no efforts are spared to assure a scholarly publication, we have invited the Elmer Belt Library of Vincinana and their da Vinci experts to participate in this great work.

"In an era of increasing inter-disciplinary scholarship and cooperation between the humanities and the sciences, this historic publication should benefit from competence in many areas, and will require the assistance of paleographers, engineers, science historians and other scholars whose contributions will make possible a definitive edition of this major find."

Profs. Piccus and Reti hope to determine whether or not the manuscripts are those mentioned by Vicente Carducho in "Dialogos de la Pintura . . .," written in 1633: "I saw there in Juan de Espina's home, two books drawn and written by the hand of the great Leonardo da Vinci, of great learning and curiosity, which he would at no price sell to the Prince of Wales who was at court. He was the only worthy owner of them until the King, Our Lord, should inherit them at the death of Juan de Espina with all other curious exquisite things that he had acquired during his lifetime. This is what he always said."

Most or all of Leonardo's writings and drawings found their way to Spain by the beginning of the 17th century although Leonardo left them to his favorite disciple, Francisco Melzi in Italy. The other da Vinci works were eventually dispersed to Italy, France and England, but for some unknown reason the two lone manuscripts remained in the Madrid library.

The 19th century Spanish bibliographers, B. J. Gallardo, in his "Ensayo. . . ," published in 1863, claimed that the two manuscripts were in the National Library of Madrid, Spain, and he gave an old catalogue reference. In 1898, Prof. De Marinis of Florence wrote to the Director of the Royal Library of Madrid to check on Gallardo's statements. An Intensive search was made, but the manuscripts were not to be found in the location indicated by the library catalogue number. Instead two other valuable works were found, one by Petrarch, and the other glosses to the "Digest" of Justinian, and it was then assumed that the manuscripts of da Vinci had been stolen or lost.

Under Father Lopez de Toro, the library has been preparing for many years of "General Inventory of Manuscripts of the Bibliioteca Nacional," a work of extreme importance to scholars of the world and especially Hispanists. Professors Piccus and Reti say the manuscripts would probably have been found by the librarians had the inventory been accelerated.

The rediscovery of the lost manuscripts makes the National Library of Madrid one of the main depositories of Leonardo works, along with the Ambrosiana of iMlan, the Institut de France of Paris, the Royal Library of Windsor and the British Museum of London.

! ATTENTION SENIORS !

If you have not made, or have missed, your index picture appointment, come to the Plymouth Room, Student Union, Wednesday, February 15 or Thursday, February 16 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. to have the picture taken.

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

The UT Dilemma

The University Theater, one of the growing cultural outposts in the uncivilized wilderness of university intellectual life went up in smoke last Sunday. History has shown that such outposts may be either abandoned or rebuilt and UT now focus such a problem.

The disastrous fire which destroyed an estimated $20,000 worth of costumes, properties, scenery and other materials colleced over five years has effectively destroyed the laboratory building and facilities for a growing, vital, department on campus.

But the university theater is much more than just a laboratory. It has been playing an increasingly important role in the cultural life of the university.

According to Dr. Ronald F. Reid, Head of the Speech Department, the five University Theater productions last year played to a combined audience of 8000. Two M.F.A. productions played to a combined audience of 1,500, and a film study series played to a combined audience of 2200. He stressed that the only solution to the present crowded situation is the construction of the proposed Fine Arts Teaching Center.

In the interim, the University Theater is without any effective means of functioning. A meeting is scheduled this week between Provost Oswald Tippo and Dr. Reid to discuss possible solutions to the immediate problem. Thus far the administration has been dragging its feet in providing space for the theater.

Money for rebuilding is another problem. Because of impracticality, there is no comprehensive insurance on university buildings; only "self-insurance", where the university makes up all losses.

Thus, UT has limited funds to rebuild, and no space to do it in. It will take a long time to rebuild, without any tangles of red tape to trip up its struggling members. The question of how long it would take to rebuild Morrill if it burned down tomorrow should be considered.

The university will be taking a giant step backward if it does not immediately do all in its power to provide facilities for this fine department.

THE COLLEGIAN EDITORS

★ ★

Is Joanie Phony?

The Associated Collegiate Press

For years there has been little doubt about cartoonist Al Capp's political leanings, says the University of Minnesota Daily. For one thing, the gentleman simply detests protestors.

His latest caricature of them is "Joanie Phonie," a long-haired, long-nosed folksinger who, in Capp's eyes, is clearly a fake. Just as clearly, "Joanie" is modeled on folksinger Joan Baez, though Capp denies it.

The real Joan is indignant and threatens to go to court unless she gets a retraction. She says she doesn't mind the caricature, but only objects to Capp's using it to ridicule the whole protest movement.

Capp is blasting the entire movement, but so what? That's his right, even if his satire is "stupid" and "vulgar," as Miss Baez contends. Ironically, she is just confirming Capp's portrait since her reaction suggests she is not nearly as liberal as she pretends, but is in fact a "fake."

Ah, well. There but for fortune....

One for the Birds

The Associated Collegiate Press

Not too enthralled over the prospect of being labeled either a hawk or a dove, one is faced with the possibility of being called anything from a screaming eagle to a yellow-chested chicken, comments the Colorado State University Collegian.

One humanoid bird that isn't receiving his due recognition these days, the Collegian says, is the owl. He needs more consideration not because he is a symbol of wisdom but because he runs around asking "Who?" Also, "What and Why."

The puzzled bird is asking many questions about everyone's favorite topic, the war in Vietnam. He starts out with the scholarly, historical approach: "How the hell did we get there?" Reply: "Well, we were sort of handed this seed and a few years of poor tending turned it into a sick and ugly growth." He asks, "Why us? Why not let someone else look after it?" And he learns that it is not only us, but also Australians, South Koreans, even South Vietnamese. Asking when we are getting out, he receives only grumbles and stares.

Puzzled by news reports, he asks about them. "Has there ever been a time when American casualties were anything but light? Is there any truth to the statements about bombing civilians?" To both questions, one reply: "Incredible."

He focuses his attention on the home front. Being an old bird, he remembers better days. "Isn't it customary here," he asks, "for a man to question national policy and politicians and to raise a note of dissent without being branded cowardly or anti-American? And isn't it possible for another man to support, for moral and legal reasons, military actions in another part of the world without being called a guileless follower or a butcher of children?"

His feathers are ruffled by a crossfire of shouts but he persists. "Do you mean that a man is wrong if he feels he has a strong obligation to oppose the draft and burns his draft card?"

"Right," answers a 19-year-old Marine.

"Do you mean that a man is wrong if he is convinced that this is the greatest nation in the world and he is privileged to serve in her armed forces?"

"Right," answers a 19-year-old pacifist.

"Sold Out"

To the Officers of the Junior Class:

I am sure there are other students who, besides myself, were disappointed to find that they would be unable to purchase tickets to the Bill Cosby concert because they had been unable to make plans three weeks in advance. But when I saw the "Sold Out" sign posted, I accepted it and figured that other students here who had been able to make plans in advance had bought all the tickets.

It was rather upsetting (and annoying, I might add) to read on page one of the Thur., Feb. 9, edition of Amherst Record Week that our three neighboring colleges (Amherst, Mt. Holyoke, and Smith) had each been given one hundred tickets to each of our three Winter Carni concerts.

Now I am not against four-college cooperation and exchanges. However, it does seem to me that in the case of a college (not strictly the University) holding an event which is highly popular and very likely to be a sell-out, that school's own students are entitled to first choice at getting tickets to the event. A short time before the performance (certainly not three weeks) remaining tickets can then be distributed to the other schools.

It appears to me that our class officers were a little too eager to sell the tickets or were too eager to include the entire community, at the expense of their fellow classmates. And so I, who have paid a University activities fee, shall sit and wait for reports of what the concert was like, while the Mt. Holyoke and Smith coeds enjoy it!

Linda Epstein

Exemplary Art

To the Editor:

The Art Department of the University of Massachusetts is to be congratulated on its program of art exhibitions installed in the student union this past year. These have served as a much needed and I believe appreciated service to the academic community.

I would like to offer two suggestions which would make these exhibitions even more valuable that they already are:

(1) a planned series of "gallery talks" by members of the Art Department about the particular exhibit on view at the time with the opportunity for interested people to ask questions and discuss specific works of art, and;
(2) Mimeographed lists of works of art and artists included in the exhibit. These could be useful in reviewing and discussing the works on view as well as kept for future reference.

Herbert S. Paston

A New Radical Movement?

To the Editor:

The mimeographed sheet on the Student Union bulletin board read: "A Call For A New Radical Movement At U-Mass." The original date and place of the first meeting were crossed out, but new data was substituted; the show was going to go on! Incidentally, the paper failed to have the Student Union stamp, but the organizers were probably too anxious to bother with petty details.

Imagine the possibilities! Instant protest—any time, any topic! Think of the opportunity for a confederation of all the self-styled radicals who just couldn't get up the nerve to assert themselves before. Now they can meet in a group and decide on next week's idea for revolutionizing the world.

Granted it is a fine sign to see someone finally interested in improving our lot, because there is quite a bit of room for improvement; but allow me to cite some specific passages of their announcement.

The purpose of the group will be: a) "To initiate new action in opposition to the war in Vietnam." This in itself is an excellent idea, where all students who disapproved of the war can be organized for the sole purpose of protesting our involvement. But this group apparently does not wish to stop there.

To go on: b) "To create a base for democracy in the University and the community." A base yet! Perhaps someone could tell me what type of student government we presently have! But of course this group calls for "a new radical movement," so I'm sure they'll come up with something interesting.

Wait. There's more! Next we read: c) "To create an activist movement on the left to promote social, economic and political equality." If I may, I'll take this complex aim one part at a time. First, they will be activists. Good. Activists gain much more attention than letter-writers! Perhaps one of the organizers of this group was spurred to greater heights after an article about his reclassification in the draft appeared in numerous national news media.

Wonderful! A man experienced in the protest field. I sincerely admire what he did, but perhaps he should stick to that one issue in his activities.

Going further into the aim in question, "an activist movement on the left..." they state. We can easily see that this group means business. Not even organized, and yet they want to be classified as a left-wing organization. All this before they have decided on a list of objectives! Oh well, as long as they're radical!

Continuing, "to promote social, economic and political equality." Who knows, with such diversified aims this group could change the entire organization of our society. Oh, how I do love change!

The final statement declares: "Discussion cannot end, but action must begin!" Perhaps they should begin some constructive discussion before they rush to action just for the sake of acting!

In conclusion, this letter is merely an opinion, but I have tried to call attention to the absolute irrationality of proposing an all-purpose radical organization.

However, if this group does succeed in attracting a substantial number of self-appointed saviours, perhaps they should set up a grievance box in the Student Union. Then they would have many more issues to take sides on. They must avoid narrowing down their protests for fear of being associated with (horrors!) only one problem of our modern society.

College separates the men from the boys, kids!

Amused

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Chet Weinerman '68
Business Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Managing Editor: Jack Dean '69
News Editor: Bob Gorman '67
Editorial Editor: Ellie Skinner '70
Sports Editor: Tom FitzGerald '69
Feature Editor: Phil Goepp '69
Photography Editors: John Kelly '69, Paul Boliver '68
Advertising Managers: Sharon Kramer '69, Dot Silvia '69
Circulation Manager: Bob Godwin '68

Frustrated?

Join the Editorial Staff and express your opinions.

MEETING FOR NEW STAFFERS
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14 AT 6:30 P.M.
COLLEGIAN OFFICE, S.U.

Hampshire College Progresses With Aid Of Endowments

A totally unexpected $25,000 has been left to Hampshire College by an Amherst College graduate — but with one condition. The will of the late Charles W. Frees, Jr., Ladue, Missouri, provides that the new co-educational, liberal arts college will receive $25,000 if it is actually instructing students by 1970. Otherwise the fund will be given to Amherst College.

Hampshire's working timetable calls for the College to admit its first students in 1969. Fortunately, says President Franklin Patterson, plans are proceeding on schedule, and Hampshire should easily qualify to receive Mr. Frees' generous gift.

At the time of his death last September 12—just two days before his 47th birthday — Mr. Frees was in his tenth year as chairman of the social studies department of the Normandy (Missouri) High School.

A native of Ladue, he had attended the St. Louis Country Day School before going to Amherst, from which he graduated in 1941.

He received an MBA from Harvard Business School in '43 and an M.A. from Washington University (St. Louis) in '53; he was a World War II veteran, a lieutenant in the U.S. Naval Reserve. He had also been chairman of the West Central Youth and Government Committee of the YMCA, and he was a member of the University Club of St. Louis.

Though a generous contributor to Amherst fund-raising, Mr. Frees had, during his lifetime, given no indication that he intended to support Hampshire College as well. College officials were notified of the bequest by an executor of his estate, Mercantile Trust Company National Association, St. Louis.

Once it reaches full enrollment, Hampshire College will have 1440 students, and it proposes to operate primarily through tuition and fee income.

A $6 million gift from Harold F. Johnson, retired New York attorney—and now chairman of the College board of trustees—is taking care of initial expenses. However, total development costs are estimated at $25 million, for which contributions are being sought.

Hampshire is autonomous and financially independent, but it is receiving academic support from neighboring Amherst, Mount Holyoke, Smith and the University of Massachusetts.

(Continued on page 8)

University To Continue Atomic Energy Research

A contract with the Atomic Energy Commission for a University of Massachusetts experimental program in high-energy physics has been renewed for another year and increased nearly 40 percent to $135,000, the UMass department of physics and astronomy announced today.

Under last year's initial contract of $98,000, the group at UMass participated in a joint experiment with Yale University and Brookhaven National Laboratory which involved taking more than one million photographs of particle events in the Brookhaven 30-inch hydrogen bubble chamber.

The renewal of the grant will allow the UMass group to continue to expand its work in high-energy physics, according to the co-directors.

The UMass high-energy staff will continue to work on several aspects of its one million picture experiment and will also engage in a new experiment this spring at Brookhaven involving nearly 200,000 more bubble chamber pictures.

Members of the group, besides the co-directors, are Drs. Stanley Herzbach, Richard Kofler and Gerald W. Meisner, assisted by the programming, technical and College's collection housed in the scanning staff of the department.

Doubts Civil War

Chinese Expert Discusses Riots In Red China

Dr. Franklin W. Houn, a one-time Chinese government official, said Sunday it would be "premature" to conclude that demonstrations in some major Chinese cities are a prelude to nationwide civil war.

See Little Chance

Houn said there appears to be little chance of real civil war developing from the "cultural revolution" demonstrations unless "Mao Tse-tung commits a serious blunder."

A native of China and an official of the Chinese government prior to the Communist takeover in 1949, Houn presently is an associate professor of government at the University of Massachusetts. He has written several books and more than 40 articles on Chinese politics.

"Riots by several thousand can't be taken as an indication of the mood of a nation of 700 million people," he said. "Mao is still the personification of the party and the Communist state. Seventeen years of intensive propaganda and national solidarity have built a climate that will make it very difficult for any dissident leader to raise the standard of rebellion."

Mao Has Army

He said that even if open fighting should break out, anti-Mao forces still would have to contend with the army, which appears now to support the Communist Party chairman.

Houn said there are three major issues behind the cultural revolution.

He said Mao feels that the more liberal intellectual climate supported by his opponents might disrupt political unity. Second, he said, Mao and his Red Guard movement support a return to the "hard work and plain living" that characterized the early days of the Communist regime, while his antagonists favor a more sophisticated approach to economic development.

Succession a Problem

Houn identified the third issue as the problem of succession raised by the displacement of Liu Shao-chi as heir apparent to Mao's post as Communist Party chairman and his replacement by Lin Piao.

Lin Piao is the defense minister and creator of the Red Guard movement. Houn said the cultural revolution may be Mao's means of settling internal party differences in an effort to prevent serious strife when he dies or retires.

(Springfield Union)

Amherst Hosts Fine Arts Conference

A Conference on the Fine Arts will be held at Amherst College, February 16-18, at which 38 invited participants will review the College's collection housed in the Mead Art Building and explore desirable courses for its future growth and development.

The formal sessions will open Thursday evening, February 16, with a public lecture, "Liberal Education and the Arts," by Professor William Kennick of the Philosophy Department at Amherst. The lecture will be at 8:30 p.m. in the Alumni House.

On Friday, Professors Frank Trapp and Carl Schmalz of the College's Fine Arts Department will discuss the department's facilities and their use in the conduct of courses and special studies in the fine arts. A tour of the gallery and its holdings will follow.

The afternoon session on Friday will be devoted to discussion of the distinctive character and needs of a "teaching collection" in the fine arts. Guest discussants will include Miss Agnes Mongan, Associate Director of the Fogg Art Museum, Harvard University; Professor Charles Sawyer, Director of the Museum of Art, University of Michigan; and Peter Selz, Director of the Museum of Art, University of California, Berkeley. An informal program of instrumental music will be presented for the conferees on Friday evening at the Alumni House.

PEANUTS • By Charles M. Schulz

Collegian Advertising Pays Big Dividends. Try It!

3rd Annual
CHESS TOURNAMENT
Sign up in RSO at Student Union before Feb. 24

JUNE GRADS

It's that time of your life —
Time to plan your future!

The State of Connecticut wants you to train for a professional career in Soical Work. Federal legislation has produced exciting changes in program and we want your help.

Connecticut offers rich social, educational, and professional opportunities — A CAREER instead of a job. You will work in your choice of locations, earn an excellent salary, receive valuable fringe benefits and best of all, have the satisfaction of contributing abilities — abilities you may not even recognize you possess — to people less fortunate than you.

Representatives will be at Campus on Tuesday, February 14 at Room 216, Dickinson Hall for a group discussion at 2:30, 3:30 and 4:30 and to conduct the qualifying examination at 6:30 in the same room. Your placement office can give you additional information.

If you're not sure Social Work is your goal stop over anyway. You may be surprised. You certainly won't be disappointed.

ΣΦΕ

SMOKER

TUESDAY FEB. 14
FORMAL 10:00

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Senate Vacancies in following dorms:

John Adams Lower
Butterfield
Chadbourne
Crabtree

Senate Seats Representing:

Fraternities
Class of 1967 at Large
2 Commuter posts

Nomination sheets can be obtained in R.S.O. Office, and are due

Friday, February 10, 1967 by 5:00 p.m.

Dorm Elections will be 6:00-9:00 in dorms
Fraternity, commuter, and at large elections will be 9:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m. in S.U. on February 16, 1967

For those UMie's who don't remember, this is the way it was a few years ago when Winter Olympics were a part of the Winter Carni festi vities. If the snow dancing of this year's Carni Committee is successful Olympics will once again be held.

Snow Expected

Olympics Planned For Carni

The Class of 1968 is planning a new and exciting Winter Olympics for February 25, 1967. With all the snow predicted for the event, some exciting contests are guaranteed. Trophies and gift certificates to the House of Walsh will be awarded.

Two new events will be highlighted this year.

The dog sled race, the Winter Carni equivalent of the chariot race, will test the pulling abilities of six men drawing a rider on a tobaggan. A snowshoe race will present the contestants, couples required, with a challenging obstacle course.

Other events will offer challenges for everyone.

Two speed skating events are planned, as well as the traditional powder puff hockey tournament. Another new event will be the rope pull between the "frats" and "dorm rats."

Entry blanks for these events are available in the RSO Office and must be submitted one half hour before the race.

The Junior Class hopes all those able and willing will turn out to compete for the numerous prizes and trophies. Other UMie's should join the fun and cheer for their friends around the Campus Pond at 1 P.M. on February 25, 1967.

Hopkins Editors Suspended After Satire On L.B.J.

(CPS)—The John Hopkins University student government will investigate the undergraduate newspaper, the Newsletter, following the suspension of the paper's editors for publishing a bitter satire of President Johnson.

The editors, Henry Korn and Melvin Shuster, were suspended from school for two days by University President Milton Eisenhower after publishing an article which listed President Lyndon Johnson among the top "mass murderers" of the year. They were reinstated in school last Monday following a meeting with school administrators during which the editors expressed "regret" for printing the satire.

The SG investigation, suggested by Eisenhower, will examine ways to promote an "editorially responsible" newspaper. It will be conducted by five SG members, two faculty advisers, and three Newsletter editors, including Shuster and Korn.

Eisenhower was reported furious when he saw the article.

Asked how he could reconcile freedom of the press with the decision to suspend the students, the President said, "Don't ask a stupid question like that. That newspaper is subsidized by the University. It's paid for by us. It's a house organ."

Asked if he thought the article reflected badly on the University administration, Eisenhower said, "No comment. There's a hearing tomorrow. I wouldn't want to prejudice a case."

Following a meeting between the two editors with Eisenhower and University Dean William Shaffer on Monday, the administrators decided to send the case to the student government. SG has the power to remove the editors from their positions on the paper.

The article, appearing on page five, listed President Johnson on a "Man of the Year" ballot along with Charles Whitman, the Texas slayer; Richard Speck, the accused Chicago mass murderer; and the Cincinnati strangler, who was listed on the ballot with a question mark.

The article said "last year's top mass murderer was a Texas plowboy who has come a long way in the American crime business."

"Lyndon Baines Johnson of Johnson City, Texas," the article continued, "graduated from his humble origins of torturing half-caste Indians ('I reckon, honey child, the only good injun is a dead one.') to the American presidency, where he killed John F. Kennedy, Lee Harvey Oswald, Jack Ruby and thirteen other people whose names have been withheld on request.

"Johnson, an easygoing ex-school teacher whose hobby is bombing defenseless people, culminated a remarkable five years when on Dec. 25 he told Jack Ruby to suddenly die of cancer."

The suspension of the editors did, however, spark protests from students, led by the campus Students for a Democratic Society, SDS circulated a petition signed by almost 150 students in protest against the suspension.

The action against the editors, the petition said, was a "flagrant violation of rights of freedom of speech and freedom of the press as well as the infringement of the independence of student organizations . . . "

(Continued on page 7)

Trustees Announce Fifty-Seven Faculty Members Promoted

Fifty-seven faculty members have been promoted by the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees, Provost Oswald Tippo announced today.

David C. Bischoff, professor, has been promoted from assistant dean to associate dean of the School of Physical Education. Donald P. Allan, assistant to the Dean of the College of Agriculture, was promoted to assistant director of the Experiment Station and Extension Services. Joseph S. Marcus, professor of civil engineering, was named assistant dean of the School of Engineering. Nelson Pion, instructor of accounting, was named assistant dean of the School of Business Administration.

Promoted to professor from associate professor were: John T. Conlon, associate dean of the School of Business Administration; Paul Gagnon, acting dean of faculty at UMass-Boston; Harry T. Allan, general business and finance; Donald Black, veterinary and animal science; William Boyer, civil engineering; Gerald Braunthal, government; Thomas N. Brown, history at UMass-Boston; Louis Carpino, chemistry; Everett H. Emerson and John H. Mitchell, English; Sumner Greenfield and Irving P. Rothberg, Romance Languages; William R. Harvey, zoology; Edward J. Rising, industrial engineering; George P. Weidmann, basic engineering; and Jack S. Wolf, marketing.

Those promoted from assistant to associate professor were: Stephen Allen and T. S. Liu, mathematics; Marvin M. Antonoff, Physics at UMass-Boston; Morton Sternheim, physics; Ercole Canale-Parola and Robert P. Mortlock, microbiology; A. Raymond Cellura, home economics; Thomas Fraser and Peter Park, sociology; Seymour Shapiro, history at UMass-Boston; Gerald Gruman and Ronald D. Ware, history; Ernest Hofer, David T. Porter, Marc L. Ratner, Paul S. Sanders and Robert Tucker, English; Vaclav Holesovsky, economics; Klaus Kroner, basic en-part and parcel of the huge growth in data handling.

(Continued on page 8)

Westvaco...

Growth industries look to Westvaco for leadership in paper, packaging, building materials and chemicals.

Want to grow with Westvaco? With over 20 locations to choose from and openings for B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. engineers and scientists; M.B.A.'s; business and liberal arts majors, we've probably got the career combination you seek. Your Placement Office has more detailed information and will arrange an interview with a company representative. All students considered regardless of draft status.

CAMPUS INTERVIEWING ON:
FEBRUARY 17

West Virginia Pulp and Paper

230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017

if she doesn't give it to you...
—get it yourself!

JADE EAST

Cologne, 6 oz., $4.50
After Shave, 6 oz., $3.50
Deodorant Stick, $1.75
Buddha Cologne Gift Package, 12 oz., $8.50
Spray Cologne, $3.50
Buddha Soap Gift Set, $4.00
Cologne, 4 oz., $3.00
After Shave, 4 oz., $2.50

SWANK, NEW YORK — SOLE DISTRIBUTOR

Would You Believe...

★ A Pep Rally ★
★ Metawampe ★
★ Cheerleaders ★
★ Revelers ★
★ Maroon Keys ★
★ Scrolls ★
★ A Band ★
★ Bonfire ★

IN THE SNOW?

Columnist Cites 'Generation Gap' For Parent-Youth Disagreements

(Ed. Note—This is the text of Walter Lippmann's address to the College Editors' Conference at Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington, D. C. last week.)

I have at least one qualification for speaking to you on "The Generation Gap." It is that I have lived with two if not three generation gaps during my lifetime.

Practice does not make perfect I realize. But it does help. It teaches one to realize an important human truth. The movement of events is almost always a great deal faster than the movements of our own minds. There is a persistent human tendency to be out of date.

Thus, as men grow older and take charge of affairs, they must be very careful to resist the tendency to see the world not so much as it is and is becoming, but as it was when they were young and beautiful. Men tend to see the world through spectacles that fitted them twenty or thirty years earlier.

The essential characteristic of the Generation Gap is what sociologists call "cultural lag." This is often described as old fogie-ism, or Col. Blimpism, or creeping gaga-ism. Because of the "cultural lag," old soldiers know best how to win the last battle of the last war.

When I was very young, the very old politicians who were still around, were obsessed with the slogans and battle cries of the Civil War. Nowadays, if you will permit me to say so, the Administration is trying to convince us that we are fighting the same war in South Vietnam which Churchill and Roosevelt fought a quarter of a century ago against the Nazis and the Japanese.

The discrepancy between what we learned when we were young and what the reality is coming to be when we are older is a prime factor in the Generation Gap. And this discrepancy between what was once an approximately true picture of reality and what may now become a better picture of the current reality explains why you, who are at one end of the current gap, are calling out for translators to close it. You would like a true picture of reality for yourselves and for those who govern you.

Although it is not anything to boast about, I am now old enough to be able to see the gap which exists between parents and children today in the perspective of the gap that existed between your parents and your grandparents.

For example, nowadays, in the 1960's I hear our official leaders using the same stereotypes, the same slogans and formulae which my generation invented and popularized in the 1930's and 1940's. Owing to the "cultural lag," our spokesmen are still using the stale concepts and rubber stamps of World War II to explain a quite different kind of war against a quite different enemy in a world which has become radically different from the 1940's. They would not be doing this if, as they have grown older, they had kept looking freshly at reality and had kept their eyes open and their attention fixed on the novelty and the change.

When I was your age the term "Generation Gap" had not been invented, and while we did not always agree with or get along perfectly with our parents, we had not learned to think that our differences were due to the fact that we belonged to different generations.

But today we are conscious of the difference in generations and of the gap between them. Why? I would say that change, the evolution of events, has become faster and faster. It is so accelerated that nothing seems to remain the same for very long.

To understand the human condition today, we must realize that in our time the rate of change in human affairs is much faster and much more general and pervasive than ever before in the whole experience of the human race. We may not be better than our ancestors. But there is a lot more motion in us and around us, and we have, therefore, a better excuse for being puzzled and bewildered.

In our efforts to keep up with what is happening in our environment and what is happening, no less, within ourselves we are always panting and out of breath. The pressure to comprehend and to adjust ourselves to these incessant and tumultuous changes is the great cause of that anxiety with which in some degree all modern men are affected.

I do not need to remind you of the consequences of the acceleration of change. It is, as you know, the result of the progress of scientific knowledge and of the technological explosion which is based on that knowledge—and of course, the most radical of all modern discoveries and inventions is the discovery and invention of the art of invention itself. As a result, we are having a hard time keeping up with ourselves.

When you ask for translators, I have to remind you that one great characteristic of the modern scientific and technological revolution is that no one understands all of it, and only the specialists really understand some of the parts of it. So I say you must think charitably about your fathers and your grandfathers. For in the face of what has actually been happening they have, all of them, been unprepared and uneducated men.

They do not understand the results of the science and technology about them, and they don't even know how the products are made which they utilize. Do not expect too much of them. Do not expect from them what in the old traditional society was the common heritage of men—to have handed down to you the knowledge you need in order to live and live well. You will have to educate yourselves to understand the infinite complexity of the modern age. This is such a great task that none of you need ever wonder whether there is something worthwhile for you to do.

What you may be able to get from those who are older than you are is not the translation of modern knowledge, but the transmission, the handing on of that which is above knowledge, that is to say of human wisdom.

The Oxford English Dictionary defines wisdom as "the capacity of judging rightly in matters relative to life and conduct." The capacity to judge rightly is an art which cuts across all specialties. It is possessed by those who have an imaginative feeling for what really matters to human beings, whether they travel in jet planes or walk on foot, whether they are rich or poor, powerful or weak, whether they are craftsmen in little workshops or hired hands in an automatic factory run by a computer. To be wise is to have a certain familiarity with the deposit of human values that persist in any human environment. When you look across the gap between the generations you will find on the other side some traces of this wisdom. If you have good sense, if you have an instinct for what will make life interesting, you will seize upon this wisdom when it comes your way.

HOPKINS U. EDITORS SUSPENDED . . .

(Continued from page 6)

The petition also contended that the administration's action was "obviously politically motivated, since . . . it is highly unlikely that such action would have been taken if the article's target had been Premier Brezhnev as 'mass murderer' instead of President Johnson." John Hopkins' President is the brother of former U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In announcing the reinstatment of the editors, University officials said they "prize freedom of expression by students as by faculty, and therefore (the University) involved itself in the situation only because the integrity and good name of the University itself were brought into question."

The satire, which was not written by either of the two editors, accused President Johnson of killing John F. Kennedy, Lee Harvey Oswald, Jack Ruby, and "thirteen other people whose names have been withheld on request."

Each Week on WMUA

Action '67 with Pete Ward

Campus issues & problems

Tuesday at 8:00

R.S.O. Reports with Bob Chase

Campus Organizations

Wednesday at 9:00

MEN

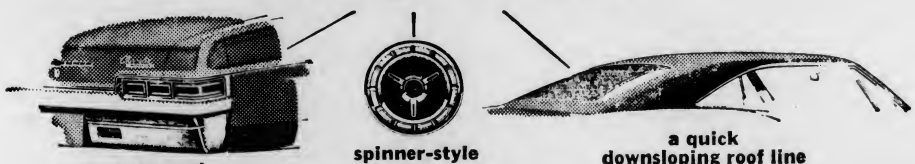
Raise Your Cum!

SING

for credit!!

Join University Chorus

Register for Music 062



Rehearsal: Thursday, Feb. 15

7 p.m. Skinner Aud.

Hillel

Election and membership booth will be in the Lobby of the S.U. Building all day.

What you notice is . . .

wraparound triple taillights spinner-style wheel covers a quick downsloping roof line

What you feel is . . .

the stability of its Jet-smoother ride

the eagerness of a Turbo-Jet V8 you can order up to 425 hp now!

the response of a 4-speed you can add

What you call it is an Impala Super Sport

Impala Super Sport Coupe

CHEVROLET DOUBLE DIVIDEND DAYS!

NO. 1 BUYS • NO. 1 CARS

Now at your Chevrolet dealer's

Where you get it is at your Chevrolet dealer's, and when is now—during Double Dividend Days. There are Super Sports plain if you call this plain: Strato-bucket seats, console, carpeting and eight standard safety features like back-up lights. Super Sports lavish with comforts you specify. And Super Sports eager with things you add. Buy now!

CHEVROLET GM

All kinds of good buys all in one place . . . at your Chevrolet dealer's: CHEVROLET • CHEVELLE • CHEVY II • CORVAIR • CORVETTE

BU Faculty to Review ROTC; May Lose Academic Credit

On Thursday, Feb. 16, a formal faculty vote will be taken at Boston University to decide if the voluntary ROTC program there will lose its academic standing. The faculty indicated in an unofficial vote on Jan. 5, that it favored abolition of the academic standing of the program.

The movement to abolish the academic standing of the ROTC was initiated by the BU News in a Sept. editorial. Widespread debate has resulted and the initiators have been accused of treason by the Boston Record-American.

The News has charged that the program fails to operate according to educational processes of "free and creative discussion of the military and its alternatives," and instead is an indoctrination program of "propaganda issued by a military hierarchy beyond the University's control . . ." The faculty set up an investigating committee to look into the matter and received support from the Student Congress.

The News charged that ROTC "simultaneously offers official credit, awards 'professorships' (outside the jurisdiction of our own faculty), speaks on official platforms, receives free rent, occupies precious classroom space, and in general manipulates a totalitarian discipline behind the mask of educational sanctuary and under the name of the University we all constitute."

A faculty petition called ROTC "inappropriate in purpose, substance or control to a university curriculum."

According to the News "top faculty sources" are certain that ROTC will lose academic standing.

Debate Team Wins Four; Next Match Set for Amherst

Prof. Ronald J. Matlon, coach of debate for the University of Massachusetts Forensic Society, has announced the results of recent debate accomplishments by the squad.

Between semesters, junior Deborah "George" Feiker, senior Alan Davis, and freshmen Steven Daggett and Jim Taylor made a trip with Prof. Matlon to Columbus, Ohio. At the high-powered Ohio State University Varsity Tournament, the team accumulated a 6-10 record.

"George" and Al went 4-4 as they beat teams from Ohio State, Kent State, Kenyon, and Macalester, while losing to Boston College, Emory, Loyola of Chicago, and Capital. Meanwhile, Daggett and Taylor posted a 2-6 record losing to Missourl, Pennsylvania State, Ohio, Loyola-Chicago, Illinois-Chicago, and Southern California, while beating teams from Macalester and Ohio State.

During recent elections for officers for the coming year, the Forensic Society has elected the following slate of officers: President, John Putnam; Vice President, Jim Tripp; Secretary, Sue Zwilling; and Treasurer, Mark Raskind.

The public is invited to attend the next public debate presented free of charge by the UMass Forensic Society, on Wednesday, February 15, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

The University, to be represented by Miss Deborah Feiker and Mr. Jim Taylor, will meet with members of Amherst Regional High School's Debate Club. They will be debating the proposition: Resolved that United States foreign aid should be limited to non-military assistance. Moderator for the evening will be Mr. Mark Raskind, a freshman in the University Forensic Society.

- Notices -

MATHEMATICS CLUB
All are invited to attend the first meeting of the spring semester on Tuesday, Feb. 14 at 8:00 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. Dr. Donald Catlin will speak on "Illogic". Mathematics majors may join at this time.

HONORS COLLOQUIAL
Registration for Honors Colloquial will continue into the week of Feb. 12-17. All those who have been invited to attend are urged to report to Room 326 SBA any time during the morning. Other people who can qualify (3.0 or above cum) and would like to enroll are also urged to inquire at 326 SBA in the morning.

HILLEL FOUNDATION
Monday and Tuesday are registration days for all classes (Hebrew, Yiddish, etc.) offered this semester. Sign up in the Hillel Office.

Election and Membership booth will be in the Lobby of the Student Union all day on Wednesday, Feb. 15.

On Thurs., Feb. 16, at 7:00 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. there will be a lecture on "Orthodox Judaism," by Rabbi Jacob Reiner. All are invited to attend.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB
There will be a meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 14 at 7:00 P.M. in Stk. 102. Movie, "Horse With the Flying Tail" will be shown. Refreshments served. All interested are welcome.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB
There will be a very important business meeting on Mon., Feb. 13 at 7:30 U.M. in Norfolk Room, S.U. Special elections for a new president and vice-president. Failure to attend can result in loss of voting rights for future meetings. Recording of old "Green Hornet" radio programs will be played after the business meeting.

The Club library will close at 7:15 because of the meeting.

PRE-LAW ASSOCIATION
On Wed., Feb. 15 at 8:30 P.M. in Middlesex Room, S.U. Attorney Nell Colicchio, Chairman of the Model Defenders Program, and Albert L. Hutton, Criminal lawyer will speak on the role of the Model Defenders Program in its Capacity as Court appointed defense council. A coffee hour will follow, and all interested students and faculty are invited to attend.

MED TECH SEMINAR
On Thursday, Feb. 23, at 7:30 P.M. in Morrill Aud., Dr. Carl Brandfass, University Health Services Staff, will speak on "Autoimmune Diseases."

OUTING CLUB
There will be an important general meeting of the club on Mon., Feb. 13 in Middlesex Room, S.U., from 6:30 to 8:30. All members are asked to attend.

JFK LOWED CULTURAL AFFAIRS
On Mon., Feb. 13 in T-1 fifth floor lounge, Dr. Joseph Marcus, Asst. Dean of Engineering will speak on the Engineer's role in society.

MANAGEMENT CLUB
Elections for new officers will be held on Thurs., Feb. 16, at 7:00 P.M. in Conference Room, #323 SBA. All business majors, or related majors are cordially invited to attend, esp. Sophomores and Juniors.

YOUNG DEMS
On Mon., Feb. 13 in Senate Council Chambers at 8:00 P.M. there will be an open meeting for all members. All interested students invited to attend.

SCUBA CLUB
Wed. night, Feb. 15 at 7:00 in the Cage there will be a business meeting followed by instruction and swimming.

AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION
On Mon., Feb. 13 at 7:30 P.M. in EBE 104 there will be a meeting. All members must attend.

AMERICAN CONSERVATIVE STUDENTS
On Feb. 15, at 8:00 P.M. in Machmer W-26, the A.C.S.C. meeting will include votes on all future activities presently planned. Following the business meeting, politics will be discussed.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
The group will begin their weekly trips to the Northampton State Mental Hospital this Wednesday, Feb. 15. There will be a bus leaving from the Student Union at 6:30 P.M. On all subsequent Wednesdays the bus will also be available.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Anne V. Patten, class of '68, Johnson to Richard Feldhoff, class of '66, Tallahassee, Florida.
Chev Chevalier, class of '67, Brooks, to Ernest Fowler, class of '67, Boston College.

EXCLUSIVE ENGAGEMENT
DAVEY CROCKETT and the RIVER PIRATES
Starring
FESS PARKER, BUDDY EBSEN and JEFF YORK
Mahar Aud. Valentine's Night Feb. 14, 1967
Sponsored by ALPHA PHI OMEGA

MASS. CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

Part time mornings . . . Contact Dick Minton, 233 James, 6-7546

Waitresses and busboys. Good salary and good tips. Apply Mr. Whalen, Lord Jeffrey Inn.

Belly dancer wanted for Amherst party. Semi-professional but no experience needed. 256-6632.

WANTED

To share house with two co-eds, 5 miles from campus transportation available. Rent low private room. Call 549-0937 after 6.

I would like to buy a used BMW, Triumph, BSA or other 500 cc and up bike. Call Bob, 546-9027 or 809 Tower 6.

I want to buy good skis. Prefer metal with marker bindings. Approximately 6'6" (195s) long what have you?
Mrs. Milton Mayer
773-3262 (Deerfield)

AUTOMOBILES

'59 VW new clutch, muffler, brakes system and tires. Recently rebuilt motor. Body rough. $230. Call Gene, 253-9154.

AUSTIN HEALEY SPRITE — MARK III—1965 Good cond. Snow tires, tonneau, luggage rack, other extras. 25,000 mi. $1250. Call: 253-9835.

53 Ford, 2 door sedan, has current inspection sticker and is in excellent running condition, dependable transportation for $45, call 584-6548.

1965 SAAB sedan, excellent condition, low mileage. Averages 33 miles per gallon. $1100. Call 5-2688, Extension 101A.

COLLEGIAN

ADVERTISING PAYS

The Brothers of
ALPHA TAU GAMMA
Cordially Invite All
STOCKBRIDGE STUDENTS
To a Smoker on TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14
375 N. Pleasant St.
8:00 P.M.
(FORMAL)

Our Average Student Reads 4.7 Times Faster Than His Starting Speed
with EQUAL or BETTER comprehension
The internationally famous EVELYN WOOD Reading Dynamics Institute
INVITES YOU TO ATTEND A FREE DEMONSTRATION OF THIS UNIQUE METHOD
Where you will:
- See an amazing documented film about Reading Dynamics.
- Learn how Reading Dynamics can help you to faster reading, improved comprehension, greater retention.

HOW DID IT START?
Eighteen years ago Mrs. Wood made a startling discovery that led to the founding of Reading Dynamics. While working toward her master's degree, she handed a term paper to a professor and watched him read the 80 pages at 6,000 words per minute—with outstanding recall and comprehension.
Determined to find the secret behind such rapid reading, she spent the next two years tracking down 50 people who could read from 1,500 to 6,000 words per minute. She studied their techniques, taught herself to read at these faster rates. Now, after years of testing, you can benefit from this great discovery.

AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS
Results have been reported in Time, Newsweek, Business Week, and Esquire. Demonstrators have appeared on television with Jack Paar, Garry Moore, and Art Linkletter.
Describing Reading Dynamics' impact on some of our nation's legislators, Time said, "Washington has seen nothing like it since the days when Teddy Roosevelt read three books a day and ran the country at the same time."
Senator Herman E. Talmadge, Georgia: "In my opinion if these reading techniques were instituted in the public and private schools of our country, it would be the greatest single step we could take in educational progress."
Senator Proxmire, Wisconsin: "I must say that this is one of the most useful education experiences I have ever had. It certainly compares favorably with the experiences I've had at Yale and Harvard."
A Reading Dynamics class at St. Louis University had an average beginning speed of 357 words per minute, an ending speed of 1,810 words per minute. Average comprehension rose from 78% to 83%.

HOW IS IT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER COURSES?
No machines are used. You learn, instead, to use your hand as a pacer—a tool you always have with you.
Conventional rapid reading courses aspire to 450-600 words per minute. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,500 and 3,000 words per minute, and many go even higher.

GUARANTEE
We will guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student by AT LEAST 3 times with equal or better comprehension. We will refund the entire tuition of any student upon the completion of his course who does not obtain at least the tripling of his reading efficiency as measured by the beginning and ending tests. This guarantee is conditioned upon the student's attending all of the required classes (or making up any missed sessions with an instructor). He also must have completed the required number of homework hours according to directions. For further details call the number below.

CLASSES BEGIN AT
People's Institute 38 Gothic St.
Northampton 584-8313
on
Tues., Feb. 14, 7 p.m. Thurs., Feb. 16, 7 p.m.

HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE . . .

(Continued from page 5)

All are within five miles of the 450-acre Hampshire campus, which is located in South Amherst and adjacent Hadley. Possibilities for shared facilities and for five-college cooperative programs are major factors in the Hampshire plan for quality education.

Among other factors is an emphasis on student initiative and the kind of self-education that will enable students to expand their capabilities to the limits, and a flexible curriculum, subject to constant review and change where indicated.

Of special importance is the replacement of traditional graduation requirements, based on four years of prescribed courses, by a three-divisional sequence which students will cover at their own rates.

Graduation will be based on completion of independent study projects and passing comprehensive examinations in each of the three divisions.

PROMOTIONS . . .

(Continued from page 6)

gineering; Henry Lea and Joerg Schaefer, Germanic language and literature; Donald N. Maynard and Louis Michelson, plant and soil science; John W. Moore, psychology; Thomas Stengle, chemistry.

Promoted from instructor to assistant professor were: Arlan F Barber, physical education; Joyce Berkman, history; Paul Berube and Leonel Gongora, art; Lawrence Foster, philosophy; Jane E. Nicholson, Dorothy L. Sexton and Eva Ann Sheridan, nursing; Marion Rhodes, chemistry; Sue N. Stidham, computer science; Reuben G. Miller, economics at UMass-Boston; Robert D. Taylor, accounting.

BU Students Stage Sit-In; Housing Rules Protested

by ED PARKER
Staff Reporter

As many as 75 BU students participated in a sit-in at the office of Dean of Students Staten Curtis to protest the threatened expulsion of two sophomores living illegally off campus.

The sit-in began at 1:00 p.m. on Feb. 1, and continued until 4:00 p.m. the following day, with 45 students remaining over night. Until a final decision is reached, the two students, Steven Fein and Robert Cartier, have been placed on social probation.

A secondary purpose of the sit-in, its long range objective, was to have mandatory dorm living rules reviewed, with the ultimate goal of making it optional.

The demonstrators hoped to persuade the administration to conduct an open hearing in the case of Fein and Cartier in order that a precedent might be established. Currently there is no provision for an open hearing.

The request for the open hearing was denied by the President of BU, as he expressed the opinion that a sit in was not the proper way to achieve their objectives. Subsequently the matter was taken before the Student Congress.

The Student Congress adopted three resolutions:

First, they resolved to defy the rules by allowing Cartier to keep his seat in the Congress;

secondly, they voted to support the request for open hearings;

thirdly, they resolved that the Student Congress was, in spirit, behind the motion to make dorm living optional after the first semester freshman year.

Meanwhile, representatives of the New Student Liberal Party under the leadership of BU News Editor Raymond Mungo delivered an ultimatum to the President of the University.

In essence it stated that if in two weeks a favorable decision on an open hearing for Fein and Cartier has not been made, a sit-in at the President's office would go on indefinitely.

The BU chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society, under President John Basquez, is circulating a petition supporting voluntary dorm living after the first semester freshman year. The goal is to obtain 7,000 signatures at which time the petition will be given to the Student Congress. Students at BU are awaiting the decision of the President.

L. S. D. is Topic for Lecture

Professor Robert Everett Stanfield of the Sociology Department at UMass will speak on a rather lesser touched topic of L.S.D. on Wednesday, Feb. 15, at 6:30 p.m. in the Governor's Lounge, S.U.

His talk is organized by the International Club for its regular Wednesday coffee hour at 5:30 p.m.

Professor Stanfield is a Ph.D. from Harvard. He is teaching in this University since 1963 and is noted among students as well as faculty members for his grasp of the subject matter and a keen sense of humor.

Professor Stanfield will be speaking on L.S.D. with special reference to its use among students on U.S. campuses.

All are cordially invited for the interesting talk and for the regular coffee hours.

Senate Elections

Senate Elections will be held soon in:

Grayson
Webster
Hills South
J. Adams Middle
JFK Middle
Van Meter South
Brett

Nomination papers may be picked up in the RSO office, and will be due Feb. 17. Elections will be held in the respective dorms Feb. 23 from 6-9 p.m.

WMUA Hosts Collegian

Tomorrow night (Tuesday) at 8:00 on WMUA, ACTION "67" will present an inside view of the Collegian, featuring discussion on the problems and planning involved in making the Collegian a successful Campus newspaper.

Special attention will be given to the involvement of the Collegian in last semester's campus issues, and the plans of the new Collegian officers for improvement of the paper.

The program will also explore some of the difficulties involved in communication between student media and the average students. Guests will be former Collegian Editor In Chief Gordon Davidson, present Editor In Chief Chet Weinerman, and Managing Editor Jack Dean.

The program is hosted and directed by Pete Ward, a member of the Collegian, WMUA, and several Senate committees

Tune in ACTION "67" Tuesday at 8:00 on WMUA, 91.1 on your F.M. dial.

PEACE VIGIL . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Vigil. "It isn't limited to pacifists and since Dec. 4, 25% have been students," she said.

"We protest the killing and being killed in Vietnam," she added. "It is a form of fundamental democracy where persons must stand up to be counted." She emphasized that the Amherst Vigil was not "an attack on the government but a protest to the administration against the War."

Faculty members from the University have been attending the Vigil, she said. One of the best known is Milton Mayer, visiting lecturer of the English Department and a noted pacifist.

"The oldest participant is 85, the youngest a baby in arms," she concluded.

NOW
ENDS TUESDAY
ON SCREEN
7:00 and 9:10
AMHERST Cinema
LYNN REDGRAVE
ALAN BATES
in
"GEORGY GIRL"
Best Actress Award
N.Y. Critics
Wed. — FUNERAL IN BERLIN
Michael 'Alfie' Caine

The Vigil

Editor's Note: The following statement was issued by Robert Francis, a noted area poet and participant in the Peace Vigil.

I am impressed with five things about the peace vigil held each Sunday on Amherst Common from 12:00 to 1:00 p.m.

1. It is peaceful. Standing for peace, it is itself an expression of peace. Protesting the violence and chaos of war, it is itself completely orderly.
2. It is inclusive, inclusive to all ages and inclusive ideologically. No one is excluded, no one who wishes in this way to express his sorrow at the dying and the killing in Vietnam.
3. It is unpretentious. People simply stand and, several times during the hour, go through a marching routine.
4. Being inclusive and unpretentious it is utterly democratic. Every individual present counts as one. Professors who could speak eloquently for peace count here no more than children standing beside them.
5. It is silent. There are no speeches, and people talk among themselves almost not at all. What are they saying by not speaking?

"We have spoken for peace, we have spoken against this war, but our voices have been drowned by propaganda. Very well, let us see what silence may accomplish. If we cannot rival the mass media in loudness, neither can they rival us in the still small voice."

UM Professor to Lecture In U. S. and Canada

Dr. Frederick J. Francis, Nicolas Appert Professor of Food Science at the University of Massachusetts, will lecture on food colorimetry during the next two months in the U. S. and Canada for the Institute of Food Technologists.

The 9000-member professional institute each year chooses a panel of distinguished scientific lecturers to make presentations all over the country.

Dr. Francis will discuss the measurement and interpretation of color as a quality factor in foods. His talks will explain how the human eye sees color and how this information can be used to interpret instrumental measurements of color.

Food colorimetry has been a major research interest of Dr. Francis for many years.

A member of the UMass food science and technology faculty since 1954, he was named to the Appert professorship when it was established in 1964 as the first endowed professorship at the University with the cooperation of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute. He has contributed more than 55 technical articles to scholarly and scientific publications.

INVITATION

You are invited to attend a staff orientation meeting for the selection of the Collegian's News Staff covering the Student Senate and Student Government.

Stop by the Collegian office on Wednesday, Feb. 15, anytime between 1:30 and 4:30.

We Want You To Meet

The Brothers of

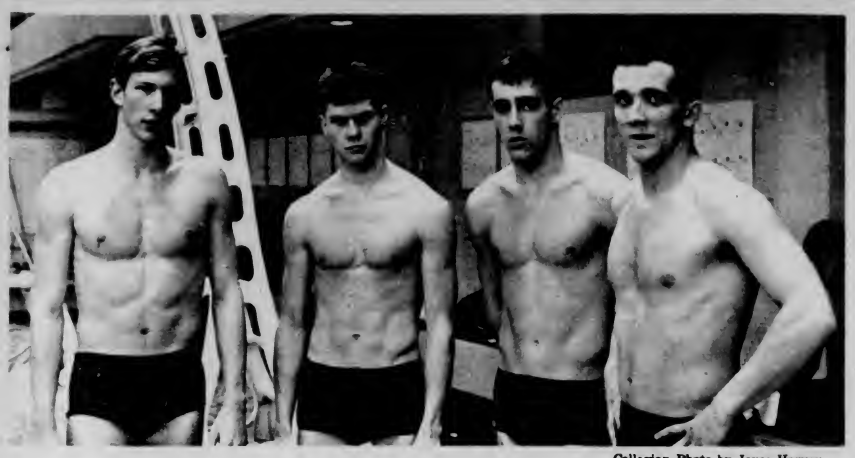
PHI SIGMA KAPPA

And a National Representative

Mon., Feb. 13 7:30-9:00

Colonial Lounge, S.U.

FOR A FEW



GRINS !!!!

Enter the "First Annual, All Campus, Winter Carni"

SNOW SHOE RACE

SATURDAY, FEB. 25, 1967

SNOW SHOE COMMIT.
Chrmn. P. J. FEENY
MARTY SMITH
JIM KANE
STU HALL
VILLAGE IDIOT
TOM TURFF

Collegian Photo by Joyce Harvey

LOST BY AN INCH—The UMass 400-yd. freestyle relay team, consisting of (from left) Ken Nowak, Flip Morton, Bob Asquith, and Capt. Dick Lennon, lost to Vermont by a mere inch in a thrilling climax to Saturday afternoon's meet.

Relay Team Bows by Inch

Asquith, Klubock Set School Marks

(Continued from page 12)

A 2.01.1 clocking is the new standard set by Klubock in the 200-yd. freestyle. The new mark in the 100-yd. freestyle is 52.2 seconds. Klubock also copped first place in the 500-yd. freestyle. Another frosh standout, Mark Miller, placed second in the 50- and 100-yd.

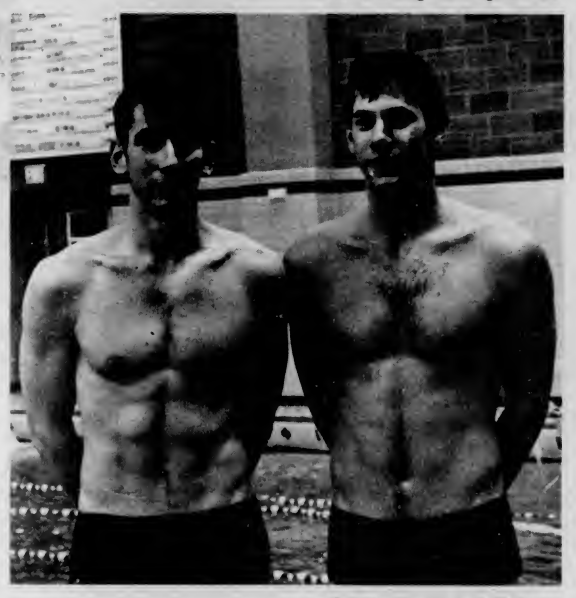
The UMass varsity had dropped decisions to Bowdoin and UConn earlier in the week. Bowdoin swam away with a 58-37 triumph at Brunswick, Maine, on Feb. 4. Asquith took the 200-yd. backstroke with his first record-breaking performance. Lennon won the 200-yd. breaststroke and Nowak the 50-yd. freestyle. Asquith and Lennon swept the 200 individual medley.

UConn measured UM, 55-40, at Storrs last Wednesday. Asquith and Nowak swept the 50-yd. freestyle. Lennon grabbed the 200-yd. individual medley and breaststroke. The 400-yd. freestyle relay was won by Morton, Nowak, Lennon, and Asquith. . . . . The varsity travels to Worcester Tech for a meet Wednesday. Next home meet is Saturday at 3:30 vs. Holy Cross. . . . . .

UM varsity point-makers vs. Vermont

200-yd. freestyle—Morton, 2nd, Cassis 3rd; 50-yd. freestyle—Nowak 2nd, Breed 3rd; 200-yd. individual medley—Asquith 1st, Lennon 2nd; diving—Larson 1st, D'Andrea 2nd; 200-yd. butterfy—Levy 3rd. 100-yd. freestyle—Nowak 2nd; 200-yd. backstroke—Asquith 1st; 500-yd. freestyle—Cassis 2nd, Beck 3rd; 200-yd. breaststroke—Lennon 1st, Severn 3rd.

UM varsity vs. Bowdoin



200-yd. freestyle—Morton 3rd; 50-yd. freestyle, Nowak 1st; 200-yd. indiv. medley—Asquith 1st, Lennon 2nd; diving—Larson 2nd; 200-yd. butterfly—Levy 3rd; 100-yd. freestyle—Morton 3rd; 200-yd. backstroke—Asquith 1st, Nowak 2nd; 500-yd. freestyle—Cassis 3rd; 200-yd. breaststroke—Lennon 1st.

UM varsity vs. UConn

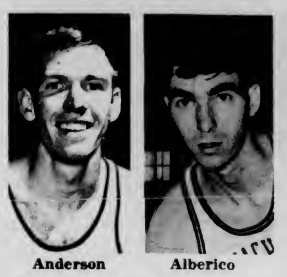
200-yd freestyle—Cassis 3rd; 50-yd. freestyle –Asquith 1st, Nowak 2nd; 200-yd. indiv. medley—Lennon 2nd; diving—Larson 1st; 200-yd. butterfly—Levy 3rd; 100-yd. freestyle—Morton 3rd; 200-yd. backstroke—Asquith 1st, Nowak 2nd; 500-yd. freestyle—Cassis 3rd; 200-yd. breaststroke—Lennon 1st; 400-yd. freestyle relay—won by Asquith, Lennon, Nowak, and Morton.

Bergquist Greets Baseball Hopefuls

First-year coach Dick Bergquist will greet more than 30 candidates today as baseball practice begins in the Cage. The season opens with a Southern road trip to Clemson University and Erskine College near Atlanta, Georgia, at the end of March. The ballplayers will use spikes when the basketball court is removed in the Cage at the end of the hoop season in early March.

Collegian Photo by Joyce Harvey

FROSH STANDOUTS—Leading UMass freshman swimmers are Mark Miller (left), who took two second-place finishes against Vermont and Capt. Steve Klubock, who won three events, setting new frosh records in two of them, the 100 and 200-yd. freestyles.



INTRAMURALS

Flaming A's, TEP Battle for Title

by TOM CONUEL, Sports Staff

The Grayson Flaming A's and TEP will meet Monday night for the campus intramural basketball championship. Both teams registered victories on Thursday night to earn the right to play for the title.

TEP and the Upper Imps played a close contest, but TEP emerged with a 52-46 victory. As usual, the TEP quintet was led by flashy Don Alberico and smooth Hagan Anderson. Alberico, the second leading scorer on campus, is the key to the well-balanced TEP attack.

Anderson Alberico

The second contest of the evening saw the Grayson Flaming A's and the Kennedy Cougars engage in a tight see-saw contest. The Flaming A's took the victory by the narrow margin of 38-36. This game was mostly a battle of defense. Both teams had potent offenses during the regular season, but for this game both attacks failed to jell.

For the A's Dick Meyer sparked the offense with 12 points while Malcom O'Sullivan grabbed off some important rebounds.

In the championship game on Monday night the A's must stop TEP's Alberico, while TEP will have to stop Dick Meyer. The game could turn into defensive battle and should be close.

Stockbridge Shoots Harvard, Yale

Cambridge — The Stockbridge rifle team defeated the freshman teams of Yale and Harvard in a triangular meet Saturday. Yale took second place, with Harvard the low scorer.

The Harvard team had two shooters scoring perfect marks of 100 in the prone position, while Stockbridge's Don Enselek was the only other to do the same.

Jack Miller was high scorer for Stockbridge, shooting 97, 92, and 88 for prone, kneeling and offhand.

Tom Weil of Yale led his team with 98, 91, 93; and Harvard was paced by Hocevar with 100, 91, and 86. The match was shot on the five-ring A-17 target.

Yale will have another shot at Stockbridge on February 25 at New Haven, Conn. The scorers:

STOCKBRIDGE		YALE		HARVARD
Miller	277	Weil	288	Hocevar	277
Enselek	274	Oppenheimer	264	Bennett	276
Andrews	272	Weber	262	Keith	252
Lindeman	272	Reeves	255	Martin	238
Welcome	270	Rieber	255	Collins	211
	1365		1319		1254

North, South Lacrosse Game Here This Year

The University of Massachusetts will host the 26th annual North-South Lacrosse All Star game this June. Massachusetts lacrosse coach Dick Garber is the All-Star game general chairman.

He hopes to acquaint the Western Massachusetts members of the press with the All Star game program and events at a luncheon at the Student Union on Wednesday.

A special added attraction will be the announcement and introduction of the head coach of the North all star team.

Jim Babyak, (top) former UMass shortstop, was recently signed to a contract with the New York Yankees. Phil Vandersea, (bottom) was drafted by the new New Orleans franchise in the NFL last week. He originally played linebacker for the champion Green Bay Packers following a starry career as a UMass fullback.

CAESURA DEADLINE

February 27th

Leave all manuscripts in

Franklin Room

The Brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha

Welcome all

Freshmen & Upperclassmen

to a

SMOKER

FEB. 13th at 8:00

Rides will be provided from dorms

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

SMOKER

A different kind of fraternity

Feb. 15, 8:30 p.m.

Memorial Hall

ANOTHER ONE FOR REDMEN—Jeff Sanborn (11) bangs home third-period marker for UM enroute to 8-4 decision over H.C. Also in picture are Redmen Ed Kinsella (far left) and Don Robinson.

Collegian Photos by Ed Rizotto

JUMPING FOR JOY—Ed Kinsella, UMass forward, registers first period tally against Holy Cross Friday night at Orr Rink.

Skaters Lose Skowyra, Polchlopek; Down HC, 8-4; Bow to Penn, 6-4

by JOE DUFFY, Sports Staff

The Redmen pucksters split two games this weekend defeating Holy Cross, 8-4, and bowing to Penn, 6-4. Friday night UMass lost the services of Bill Skowyra as he suffered a concussion in the game against Holy Cross.

As if that weren't enough bad luck for the weekend, the Redmen also lost their leading scorer Captain Ed Polchlopek as he suffered torn ligaments in his knee. It is probable that both players will be lost for the remainder of the season.

UMASS 8 HOLY CROSS 4

The Redmen exploded for six goals in the final frame as they defeated the Crusaders of Holy Cross Friday evening at Orr Rink. It was definitely their finest offensive show of the season as Captain Ed Polchlopek and Jeff Sanborn scored two goals apiece in the victory.

Sanborn started the ball rolling for the Redmen as he scored two goals in two minutes to give the pucksters a 2-1 first period lead. Don Robinson assisted on both goals.

Holy Cross regained the lead, scoring two goals in the second frame while holding UMass scoreless.

Not to be outdone, however, the Redmen exploded in the final period to ensure their seventh victory of the year. Ed Kinsella scored early in the period when he took a pass off the sticks of Bill Skowyra and Dave Goldberg and sent the puck flying past Crusader netminder Bob Johnson.

Ed Graney and Don Robinson then scored before a wave of penalties sent two Redmen to the penalty box at the same time, including a 10-minute misconduct penalty on sophomore Fran Mulcahy. Playing at a two-man disadvantage, the Redmen's defense blanked the Crusaders and even managed to pick up a goal as Polchlopek stole a pass and scored on a breakaway. Frank Buckler and Polchlopek scored to put the frosting on the cake for the Redmen.

Penn 6 UMass 4

The Redmen weren't as fortunate on Saturday afternoon as they succumbed to a talented Penn sextet, 6-4 Jim O'Brien of Holyoke, who scored two goals, proved to be the spark in the UMass offense.

Ed Polchlopek gave the Redmen a temporary lead when he took a pass from Frank Buckler and scored handily at 5:12 of the first period.

While Penn notched a trio of goals, the Redmen were unable to score again until the final frame. Jeff Sanborn scored early in the period to close the gap to 3-2. Less than 10 seconds later, however, Turner of Penn scored and the Redmen never seemed to get back on their feet. O'Brien scored the remaining two goals for UMass on assists from Charlie Hanifan and Fred Molander respectively.

Saturday's loss, which brought the Redmen's record to 7-6-1 overall, was characterized by hard checking and short tempers. This aggressive spirit should prove to be a valuable asset the remainder of the season.

The Redmen's next encounter will be held Wednesday at Orr Rink when the pucksters host cross-town rival Amherst College in what should be an exciting contest.

Grapplers Claw B.C., 23-18; Frosh Unbeaten in 3 Starts

by ROGER KIPP, Sports Staff

Gene Paltrineri and Wayne Duckworth led the UMass wrestlers over Boston College, 23-18, Friday night in the Boyden gym. The win was the second of the year against four losses for Coach Homer Barr's outfit.

The freshmen also triumphed 25-14, mostly due to the fact that the BC freshmen could not put up a man in a few weight categories.

Paltrineri was a big hero. Wrestling at 137 pounds, he dominated his opponent all the way, finally getting a pin. Only a sophomore, he looks to have quite a career ahead of him.

Wayne Duckworth (145), another good sophomore, took the hard way out in his match. He opened slowly and appeared to be having a tough time. In fact, he was trailing 4-0 in the final seconds of the match when he slipped his opponent into a reverse cradle, made a pin and grabbed the match for UMass.

Other UMass winners were Tom LeFebvre (123), Marc Ryerson (130), and senior captain Art Keown (152). Keown, the most experienced member of the squad, looked like an old pro as he bested his man for a 6-1 decision. Art's victory clinched the triumph for the Redmen.

The heavyweights ran into trouble, but still showed spirit and improvement. John Clair, at 230 and 6-2, may make the headlines yet. Relatively quick for a big man, aggressive, and strong, only inexperience keeps him from the top.

Jack Higgins and Bob Spousta stood out for the frosh, who have yet to lose in three meets.

The UMass varsity wrestlers will square off against UConn tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 in the Boyden Gym. The frosh take to the mats vs. UConn frosh at 2:00.

Collegian Photo by Bill Gleason

MARC-ED MAN—130-pounder Marc Ryerson tries to elude the grasps of his B.C. opponent enroute to a decision for UMass.

OPEN SMOKER
Freshmen and Upperclassmen
ALPHA SIGMA PHI
WANTS YOU
to come down and meet the Brotherhood
TUES., FEB. 14
AT 7:30 RIDES AT DORMS
FORMAL

The Brothers of
PI LAMBDA PHI
National Fraternity
Cordially Invite All
FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN
to a FORMAL OPEN SMOKER
Time—8-10 p.m.
Place—Governor's Lounge, S.U.
Date—February 13, 1967

Hillel Movie Series
THE LIFE OF EMILE ZOLA
A story of the Dreyfus Affair
Paul Muni Joseph Schildkraut
Wed., Feb. 15 Members 25¢
Mahar Aud. 8 p.m. Non-member 50¢

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN

sports

MONDAY FEB. 13, 1967
Page 12 Vol. XCV, No. 43

UM Outrebounds UNH, Rolls 84-52

Edwards Grabs 24; Redmen Halt 4-Game Skid

by MIKE CURRAN, Sports Staff

DURHAM, N.H. — Paced by the rebounding of Tim Edwards and Bill Tindall, the Redmen raced past the New Hampshire Wildcats 84-52, here Saturday night to stop a four-game skid.

Two baskets by Tindall, and a foul shot by John Lisack gave UM a quick 5-0 lead. The ball-hawking Wildcats stayed with their taller opponents, however, for most of the first half. Joe Rahal's basket with nine minutes left knotted the score at 25-25, but steals by Joe DiSarcina and Tindall were swiftly converted by Bob Murphy and Greg Rand and the Redmen were never headed afterwards.

New Hampshire showed signs of tiring late in the opening period, and UM was on top, 43-33, at the half.

Edwards, who finished with 24 rebounds, dominated the backboards in the early part of he second period. He had 10 rebounds in less than six minutes and during this span UMass went from a 10-point lead to a 63-41 advantage. The Redmen reserves took the floor and, working set plays to perfection, increased the visitor's margin to the final 32-point margin.

Five UMass players hit double figures. Tindall had 18 and Edwards 17. DiSarcina canned 13 while Bob Murphy and Ron Nowakowski each finished with 10.

Di Sarcina, the 5' 11" floor general had nine solid rebounds and six assists, in one of his best performances to date.

The Redmen rebounding edge was an amazing 72-37 and Edwards' 24 marked the high mark this season for a UM player in that department.

Steve Seay, a 6'5" junior from Maryland, netted 12 for the Wildcats while Rahal, a hustling guard, counted 11. Denny Hodgdon, the leading UNH scorer, was held to seven points.

The victory brought UM to a 9-10 record as opposed to a 7-10 Wildcat mark. UNH failed in its attempt to gain five Yankee Conference victories in one season, but will get another chance against Maine on February 28.

UMASS	Fg	Ft	Pts	UNH	Fg	Ft	Pts
Tindall	8	2	18	Glover	4	0	8
Edwards	7	3	17	Seay	5	2	12
Girotti	2	0	4	Hodgdon	1	3	5
Lisack	0	1	1	Clark	0	3	3
DiSarcina	5	3	13	Rahal	5	1	11
Murphy	4	2	10	Cartmill	1	1	3
Stewart	1	0	2	Kershner	1	0	2
Nowak'ski	4	2	10	Gaskill	3	0	6
Meola	0	0	0	Decato	0	0	0
Gasperack	1	0	2	Argereow	0	2	2
Rand	2	3	7	Levesque	0	0	0
Gayeska	0	0	0	Montalto	0	0	0
Totals	34	16	84	Totals	20	12	52

EYES RECORD—Tim Edwards needs 11 rebounds to break the career rebounding mark of 822 held by Charlie O'Rourke. That record could come Wednesday night against Holy Cross.

Cross Here Wed.

Cagers Face 'Must' Wins Against UConn, Maine

by GLENN BRIERE, Sports Staff

DURHAM, N.H.—The only good thing about a losing streak is that it feels good when it is over, like the guy who hits his head against the wall because he feels good when he stops.

The Redmen must have felt that way here Saturday night as they took out their frustrations on poor New Hampshire. UM had been in the midst of a four-game losing skein when the Wildcats crossed its path and were devoured.

The Redmen could do little wong in this one. Their fast break was perfect, their shooting was far better than in recent games, and their rebounding was out of this world.

Tim Edwards' 24 rebounds aginst UNH leaves him 11 short of the all-time UM career mark held by Charlie O'Rourke. Edwards can break that record Wednesday night against Holy Cross, as well as move into sixth place on the all-time Redmen scoring list, also ahead of O'Rourke, if he scores 10 points.

UM can't afford to do much wrong in its last two conference games. Both are musts. The first of these is Saturday night against UConn, the league leader, beneath the Cage's fog lights. The second is on Feb. 25 at Maine. At the same time, the Redmen must hope that URI can knock off UConn the same day, a distant possibility since it is at Kingston town.

Probably the most important reason for the Redmen's losing streak was the competition. UConn, Syracuse, Holy Cross and Rhody are not the easiest teams in the world to beat. The heavy road schedule also took away some of their energy.

UM now plays three home games in a row before leaving the Cage for the season. Against Holy Cross on Wednesday and UConn on Saturday, the Redmen will be out for revenge. Then the last home date will be Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22, against AIC, one of New England's best small-college squads.

After the UNH game, Coach Jack Leaman was pleased to have gotten back on the winning track. Now he looks forward to the UC game, saying, "We'll get 'em under the fog lights!"

Springfield Drops Frosh, 81-77

SPRINGFIELD — The UMass freshmen fell to their fourth consecutive defeat and their second at the hands of the Springfield Maroons 81-77, Saturday night at Springfield.

Lack of rebounding and below par shooting were again the thorns in the frosh's side. Despite a hustling second-half press the Little Redmen were unable to compensate for their numerous mistakes.

Ray Ellerbrook led the visitors with 19 points while Dick Starsiak, a recent addition to the squad, showed a good outside touch in canning 17. Jack Gallagher was also in double figures.

George Yelverton sparked the Maroons with 25 markers.

The Redmen face the Holy Cross frosh Wednesday in a 6 p. m. return match at Curry Hicks. The Crusader yearlings hung a tough one on the freshmen, 58-57, just one week ago at Worcester.

Frosh Lacrosse

Coach John Bamberry, first-year coach of the UMass freshman lacrosse team, has announced that the first meeting of team candidates will take place today in Room 251 in the Boyden Building at 4 p.m.

Frosh Baseball

Freshman baseball coach Arlan Barber announces that there will be a meeting for all freshmen baseball players on Thurs., Feb. 16, at 7 p.m. in Room 251 of Boyden. All interested candidates are urged to attend this meeting.

Collegian Photo by Joyce Harvey

DOUBLE RECORD-SETTER—Bob Asquith, sophomore swimmer, set two new school varsity records vs. Vermont Saturday afternoon in the 200-yd. individual medley and the 200-yd. backstroke event.

Swimmers Nipped by Vermont, 52-43

Despite two new school records set by sophomore Bob Asquith, the UMass varsity swimming team was submerged, 52-43, by Vermont Saturday afternoon at Boyden Pool before 400 enthusiastic fans.

The meet was actually decided by the outcome of the final event, the 400-yd. free relay. UMass trailed by only 45-43 but lost the relay by an inch. Anchor man Tom Mills of Vermont swam an incredible 50 sec. final leg to clinch the victory.

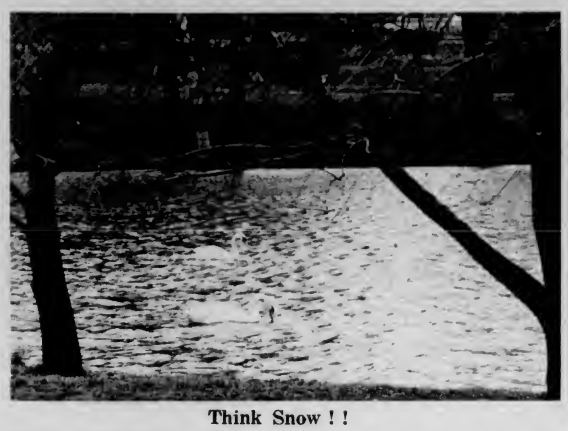
Asquith broke his own record set against UConn last Wednesday with a 2.09.6 in the 200 yd. backstroke event. Asquith also shattered Captain Dick Lennon's 1966 mark of 2.14.7 in the 200-yd. individual medley by 1.1 seconds. A steady performer all season, Dave Larson emerged with first place in the diving competition. Dick D'Andrea placed second. This event signified the first time that high board diving competition had been held in dual meets at UMass. Lennon captured honors in the 200-yd. breaststroke event.

Coach Joe Rogers was naturally disappointed to see victory elude his team by such a close margin. Most of the swimmers recorded much-improved times over previous efforts.

The freshman swim team was drowned, 51-34, by the Vermont frosh following the varsity meet. Captain Steve Klubock won three events, setting two frosh marks in the process.

(Continued on page 10)

Collegian Photo by Joyce Harvey



MERMEN TAKE DIVE—UMass and UVM swimmers start the 200-yd breaststroke. UMass swimmers are Ted Severn (left) and Captain Dick Lennon (second from left), the eventual winner of the event held at Boyden Pool.

FIRST WITH THE NEWS 545-2550

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Best Dressed College Girl
See page 3

VOL. XCV, NO. 44 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1967

Think Snow ! !

Legislature to Hear 32 Bills Concerned with UMass

by DAVE O'CONNOR
Staff Reporter

The Massachusetts Legislature's Committee on Education will soon be hearing thirty-two bills dealing with the University of Massachusetts and many more dealing with other areas of education. The trends of these bills fall into categories of liberal, conservative, academic, mundane and trivial.

There are issues of free tuition and tuition aid along with a bill to arrest the fiscal autonomy of the University and other State Colleges. Bills to establish professional schools under the aegis of the University of Massachusetts are contrasted to bills proposing the establishment of another State University in Boston that would absorb all other state educational institutions in the Hub.

The Massachusetts solons have demonstrated their interests in matters ranging from academic chairs, scholarships and lectureships to one rather provincial member's proposal that educational officials enforce standards of attire and grooming.

The University leads the rest of the Commonwealth's institutions in legislative attention, yet other campuses will be affected and some new institutions may even be created. The extension of facilities and establishing of newer institutions are high in priority on the list of proposals.

With enactment of these bills the University of Massachusetts may soon see the establishment and maintenance of a law school, veterinary medicine school, college of continuing studies, a graduate school of social work and a horticultural research laboratory.

In further proposals for academic enrichment bills for a program of visiting lecturers, five new academic chairs, and establishment of a television center have been authored and are waiting approval. Establishment of a

(Continued on page 3)

Underground Garage Planned To Complement Campus Center

by RICHARD LANE
Staff Reporter

Campus Committee Chairman Leo Redfern has announced that a modern underground parking complex has been proposed and approved for the UMass campus.

In a recent interview the Dean stated that the University Board of Trustees had, in fact, asked for the "design, construction and operation" of such a faculty "in conjunction with the Campus project as a necessary step in the resolution of the problem of providing reasonably adequate parking facilities."

The proposed underground garage would cost, not more than three million dollars," according to the chairman. Mr. Redfern made it clear, however, that Student Union fees were not involved in the financial structure of the project.

The new garage will be for use by both students and staff of the University as well as other official guests. Money will come from fees for parking use. It is expected that perhaps student and staff rates will be at a lower, long-term, semester basis.

The site conceived is that north of Machmer near the end of the proposed Campus Center ravine area.

There were apparently four basic reasons for this site:

(1). This site provides convenient access to heavily used and congested campus facilities such as the library, Student Union, etc.

(2). It provides convenience for conference participants.

(3). There is hope of a convenient bus pick-up station to be incorporated there also.

(4). The Deal also said that as plans had been made to build on this site for other Campus Center projects, the area might as well be capitalized on for the parking facility.

The site will supposedly park a thousand vehicles and consist mostly underground with perhaps a level or two above. Construction is to begin this summer and take approximately twenty months.

According to the University administrator, the original plan for such a facility was conceived two years ago. It was held up for further study, however, while the Campus Center continued forward in design.

But in the last three months the immediate need of the garage was seen.

Redfern stated "accessability" as the key word in the parking lot project. With the planned removal of the Curry Hicks lot for a new Bartlett east division, as well as removal of the lot near the Union, parking will become critical.

This new parking facility will provide, "excellent access to the campus without using large land areas," according to Redfern.

Architectural design is to be done by Marcel Breuer, recently acclaimed for his work on the Whitney Museum in New York.

The Campus Committee Chairman further stated that the project was not the work of any one man alone. It came about as a result of thinking among persons responsible for long-range planning on the campus.

Inside Today's COLLEGIAN

Smith Gift To Valley Center 2
Editorial 4
Aranow Letter 5
Notices 6
Sports 8

Southwest Heating Discussed; Quick Action Promised

by DON EPSTEIN
Staff Reporter

A meeting was held in President Lederle's office to determine the nature of and solution to the heating problem in the Southwest Residential College.

Representing the University at this meeting were President Lederle; Mr. Welles, Director of Housing; Mr. Trotman, Assistant Director of Housing for Southwest; and Mr. Hugill of the physical plant. Mr. George L. Pumphret, Mr. Morris Goldings, and Mr. Evan Johnston represented the University of Massachusetts Building Authority.

Also present were Mr. Hugh Stubbins and members of his architectural firm; the general contractor; and Mr. Greenleaf of the mechanical engineering firm that designed the heating system.

In a Collegian interview, Mr. Welles explained that one of the main causes for the serious heating difficulties in the Southwest Complex stems from dirt which has apparently entered the hot water heating system. This dirt has an adverse effect on the pumps by "clogging" the system.

It was not determined exactly how the dust and dirt entered the delicate system. However, one of the contractors said that as long as heavy construction continues in Southwest, this is bound to happen.

The men also discussed the possibility of minor design problems in the system. Mr. Welles stated that mechanical parts have been abused by individuals; but whether by students, contractors, or maintenance men is not known.

Commenting on the meeting, Mr. Welles said, "Results of the meeting were satisfactory. All parties agreed there were problems within the system that needed to be corrected."

Mr. Welles went on to say that the University has employed the services of a testing firm to quicken the process of finding a solution to the problem.

A man in the maintenance department will be in Southwest 24 hours a day to keep a constant check on all vaives and dials.

Mr. Trotman of the Housing Department said "Something is definitely going to be done." He said that President Lederle wants the problem solved now.

Guttmacher Discusses Birth Control; Urges Development of Responsibility

by PAMELA METAXAS
Staff Reporter

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher urged the college audience at SBA auditorium Monday night to develop a "sense of sexual responsibility" concerning premarital sexual relations. The distinguished doctor and speaker, President of Planned Parenthood-World Population, New York, examined conception control from several angles. The first angle was from the point of view of the college student.

"I am quite confused . . . by the change in sex morals that seems to be so widespread throughout the country and perhaps the world," he said.

The doctor explained he had been raised in "a much simpler era" where a "double standard of sexual activity was accepted." The double standard was that the male had "full license" while the female was supposed to be "chased." He added when women were emancipated, "what was perfectly normal and correct for men became perfectly normal and correct for women."

Guttmacher noted that now there is "a sexual code" and a "sense of sexual responsibility." He made it a point to say that the eventual decision concerning premarital sex is "up to you." It all depends on the kind of person you are, he said. For some persons, premarital sex relations may be the answer. For others it is not.

The final decision depends on the person's personality, his ethics, his upbringing, his religion and his personal beliefs, he added. "It's a very complicated business," he said. "You have to make a responsible decision in regard to sexual expression," noted Guttmacher.

He believes the youth of today "is an excellent example of young people." They have created their own codes, are not promiscuous and do not condemn their peers for their actions.

"Your generation doesn't make a great thing out of chastity," he said. For some persons, other things have taken its place such as Vietnam, and integration.

Guttmacher remarked that "sex relations become immoral when carried on without effective contraceptives." There are many possibilities if the couple

(Continued on page 3)

Winter Carnival Kickoff Rally Planned for Friday Night

Another innovation at the U-Mass campus will occur Friday, February 17. There will be a pep rally to commence the ten days of Winter Carnival and to cheer the basketball team to victory. Revelers, Metawampee, Cheerleaders, Semi-finalists for Queens and of course the basketball team will be honored guests.

The idea of a rally was suggested by the Winter Carnival Committee as a way to generate spirit for the game and Winter Carni as a whole. Students and faculty can warm themselves by the bonfire while the basketball team and the Semi-finalists, Joan Dombkowski, Jacqueline Faustine, Kathy Kane, Sue MacFarland and Kathy Sullivan are introduced.

Fireworks will be displayed, and after the rally Greenough dormitory is sponsoring a dance in the Student Union Ballroom.

During half-time at the UConn game the Flying Redmen, U-Mass' drill and marching team will perform. Jim Steward, the team's manager, says it should be excellent and hopes everyone will enjoy it. The Semi-finalists will be introduced for the last time before one of them is chosen to reign over Winter Carnival 1967.

Professor R. E. Stanfield of Sociology department will speak on "L.S.D." today (Wednesday, Feb. 15) at 6:30 P.M. in the Governor's Lounge, S.U. He is a Ph.D from Harvard, and is also consultant advisor to poverty program in Providence, R.I. The talk is organized by the International Club. All are invited to coffee hour which starts at 5:30 P.M.

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

WMUA Hosts Index Tonight; Dean, Gaudet to Appear

Tonight (Wednesday) after the basketball game on WMUA, RSO REPORTS will interview the University of Massachusetts Index. Discussion will revolve around the problems and planning that arise in putting out the Index.

Guests Alex Dean, editor-in-chief, and Robert Gaudet, managing editor tell RSO REPORTS the history of the Index, its present activities, its future plans. They explain why the Index will come out in the fall of 1967 rather than in the spring, Index's new format, why Index costs the students more now than in previous years.

Next week's RSO REPORTS brings you the Sports Parachute Club. Future shows deal with the SUG Board and Yahoo. The program is hosted by Bob Chase.

To learn more about campus organizations, tune in RSO REPORTS, each Wednesday night at 9:00 on WMUA, 91.1 on your F.M. dial.

! TONIGHT !

HOWARD JOHNSON'S FISH FRY

All You Can Eat $1.19

FISH, COLE SLAW, FRENCH FRIES, ROLLS & BUTTER

RT. 9, RUSSELL ST.
HADLEY (AMHERST), MASS.

VOTE TOMORROW

MARSHALL NADAN

FOR COMMUTER SENATOR

Endorsed by PETER WARD, senate budgets committee, and JAMES FOUDY, former managing editor of the Collegian.

✶ AMCON ✶

(and prospective members)

There will be a meeting of the American Conservative Students' Club tonight beginning at 8 o'clock in W-26 Machmer. Proposed scholarships, library-book exchange, the upcoming Vietnam movie, the UMass Conservative (for publication next month), and other new business will be discussed and acted upon. Politicians and all Republicans who know in their hearts that they are right are invited. New members please bring $1 for dues if not totally book-bankrupt.

Mixed Reaction to Kerr's Removal; UCal Students Generally Pessimistic

by ERIC GOLDMAN
Staff Reporter

Reaction to the removal of Clarke Kerr as president has of the University of California was pessimistic in some student and faculty areas of the university.

Student opinion was voiced by Van McIntosh, president of the student body: "For the regents to fire Kerr without having any idea who will replace him was more irresponsible than anything the students of this campus have ever done," McIntosh said.

He felt that "the university is not going to crumble, but the constant upgrading that has been going on under Kerr will now level off."

John Searle, a 34-year-old professor of Philosophy, regarded the warningless firing as "a blow to the dignity of the University." He summed up his feelings on the subject by saying, "If Reagan thinks he will interfere with academic freedom on this campus, he has a hell of a fight ahead."

Kerr, remarking about the removal, said that "there is an anti-intellectual movement swinging across the country that may have a big effect on the university. Gov. Reagan represents that new establishment in California, and he doesn't have the same deep connection with the intellectual community that the old establishment had."

Gov. Reagan denied that politics was involved with Kerr's dismissal. He said that he believed that the people of California had lost confidence in the university administration because of prolonged controversy. "People involved in that kind of controversy outlive their usefulness."

The governor added that in his mind no man is indispensible, and that the dismissal of Kerr would not cost the university any of the research being done there.

Ex-president Kerr in the meantime has been hired by the Carnegie foundation as the head of a major study of the future structure and financing of American education. The project, which will take several years to complete, will look at all the complex elements of our society which affect higher education and which are affected by it.

Smith Breaks Tradition; Donates to Valley Center

by CHARLES HORNE
Staff Reporter

Last week the Smith College House of Representatives broke with tradition and granted the Valley Center a donation of $500. Up to now the precedent has been that the Student Finance Committee only grant donations to Smith College organizations.

The committee, however, waivered this ruling and, in addition, donated an amount which exceeds the usual $300 maximum donation. On this note the Valley Center opened its Registration Meeting last Monday evening in Stone Hall Basement at Amherst College.

The 190 people present, only 50 of which came from the University, registered for at least one course out of 85 suggested topics.

Some of the more popular discussion groups were those on film making, drugs, occultism, the politics of Vietnam, and the history of jazz. A history of Rock 'n Roll will probably be formed before the semester is out.

The Center's drug discussion group is presently planning a lecture by Richard Alpert on April 19 at the Southwest Dining Commons. Before the Alpert lecture there will be a panel discussion conducted by the drug group. The students attending this discussion will be presented with two papers acquainting them with the topics to be discussed.

The Valley Center is presently in its second semester. Its membership is made up of students from the Four College area. Anyone interested in joining should contact Stephen Smith, the Center's U Mass representative at 584-7879.

Senate Poll in Need Of Student Help

One of the most important, and often most neglected, functions of the Student Senate is to be constantly aware of the students' views and desires. Right now, a new and comprehensive effort on the part of the Student Senate to improve its communications with the students is getting underway.

Among the methods to be used in this effort is increased publicity through campus media for Senate actions, a series of informative brochures on student government, and a series of polls, carefully drawn up, to provide the Senate with the students' position on issues and student government.

The first of these simple, yet informative polls will be administered in the Student Union Lobby this week on Thursday and Friday from 10-5. Students passing through the lobby will be asked to fill out the short poll and pass it in to the polling booth nearby.

Any Student Senate effort to improve its communications with the student body will be only as successful as the students' willingness to respond in an honest and responsible manner.

As a student you must extend your civic interest beyond the ballot box if student government is to be really successful.

Do your part on this Thursday and Friday in the lobby by volunteering to complete the first of the Student Senate's Public Relations Committee's polls.

You don't have to be a journalist to work for the Collegian. Come in next WEDNESDAY afternoon. We'll talk it over.

If You See News in the Making Dial
545-2550

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Senate Vacancies in following dorms:

John Adams Lower
Butterfield
Chadbourne
Crabtree
Hills North
JQ Adams Upper

Senate Seats Representing:

Fraternities
Class of 1967 at Large
2 Commuter posts

Nomination sheets can be obtained in R.S.O. Office, and are due

Friday, February 10, 1967 by 5:00 p.m.

Dorm Elections will be 6:00-9:00 in dorms

Fraternity, commuter, and at large elections will be 9:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m. in S.U. on February 16, 1967

Draft System To Be Discussed Saturday Afternoon

The critical problems that the present draft system raises in a democratic society will be the subject of a symposium at the University of Massachusetts this Saturday.

Dean A. Allen, of the Student Health Service and a member of the sponsoring committee, announced that the symposium will provide a forum for the examination of the draft, as it involves such questions as law, ethics, foreign policy, and the lives of young people. The event will consist of a panel discussion followed by workshop sessions.

Among the experts who will participate are Gar Alperovitz, Fellow of the John F. Kennedy Institute of Government at Harvard; Henry Holzer, constitutional lawyer; and Arlo Tatum, executive secretary of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors.

The program, which will be held from 1:15 - 5:30 p.m. in Bowker, is open to the public.

TODAY is the last day to sign up for the Winter Carnival
SKI TRIP

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Best Dressed College Girl

Twenty UMass Coeds Compete Monday Nite

Each August Glamour Magazine publishes a college issue presenting the ten Best Dressed College Girls in the country. This contest is first held on the college level, then on a regional level, and finally on a national level in New York City at Glamour.

Monday evening, February 20 at 8 p.m. in Bowker, the Best Dressed University of Massachusetts' Girl will be chosen. The competition looks tough and the evening promises to be exciting and suspenseful.

Twenty girls have entered and will be judged on personal appearance and poise, and on three outfits: daytime on-campus class outfit, date-time off-campus outfit, and a party outfit—a long or short gown.

All criteria will be judged in relation to what is acceptable in the University area. Prizes will be awarded to the winner.

Photographs of the University winner in her three outfits will be sent to New York to Glamour who will choose regional winners. The regional winner will then travel to New York for the national contest at Glamour.

The Ten Best Dressed College Girls in the nation will be presented in Glamour's College issue in August of 1967.

University of Massachusetts girls vying for the collegiate title are Antoinette Antonellis, Rainey Day Beck, Nancy Bourgoin, Harriet Braunfeld, Marty Dehey, Diane Dube, Jill Harrison, Virginia Hoffman, Janet Jarvinen, Elaine Levine, Linda McIntyre, Kathleen Koumjian, Joanne Pappas, Rhoda Kaplan, Susan Ruckstall, Marjorie Sylvester, Claudia Willis, Anne Yakavonis, and Susan Zwilling.

University affiliated judges are: Mrs. John Lederle, Dr. Harper, Speech Dep't., Miss V. Davis, Home Economics Dep't., Dr. Burke, Geography Dep't., Major Oakes, Air Science Dep't., Miss Judy Sturtevant, Miss University, and Mr. John Greenquist, President of the Student Senate.

To date, the contestants have gone through a rehearsal, a preliminary judging with the judges, and an informal coffee hour with the judges and the sponsoring organization, Angel Flight.

In the coming week, the girls look forward to a full dress rehearsal with escorts in uniform from the Arnold Air Society, and to the final night of competition February 20, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. The contest, February 20, is open to the public. Donation 25¢.

COLLEGIAN Photo by Gerri Cote

BEST DRESSED COLLEGE GIRL CONTESTANTS—Standing are: Janet Jarvinen, Marty Dehey, Linda McIntye, Hamet Braunfeld, Ontoinette Antonellis, Susan Zwilling, Rainey Day Beck, Jill Harrison, Elaine Levine. Seated are: Virginia Hoffman, Rhode Kaplan, Kathleen Koumjian and Nancy Bourgoin.

Northampton Volunteers Resume Work

The Northampton Volunteers will begin their weekly trips to the Northmapton State Mental Hospital today. There will be a bus leaving from the Student Union at 6:30 p.m. On all subsequent Wednesdays the bus will also be available.

Dames to Sponsor Pottery Demonstration

At the Feb. 16 meeting of the Dames Club, a graduate student from the Art Department will demonstrate "throwing a pot". He will have with him a pottery wheel and will actually demonstrate this for the group on Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Farley 4-H Club House.

At this meeting the final plans and arrangements will also be made for the Dinner Dance to be held at the Pilgrim House on Saturday, Feb. 18. Many tickets have been sold and it seems that there will be a lively group of Dames and husbands at this gala affair.

After the business portion of the meeting and the pottery demonstration, there will be coffee and refreshments served. Perhaps we will see another Dames "super recipe" this month.

Dames is an organization open open to wives of undergraduate and graduate students and to students themselves who are married. It is a wonderful meeting place for people with like interests and similar home situations to meet, relax and enjoy each other.

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE I.F.C.

Pledge Chapel is from 5:30-7:30 Fri., Feb. 17 in Memorial Hall. All Freshmen must turn in their Fraternity Rush Registration Cards to the Dean of Men's office by 12 a.m., Fri., Feb. 17. All cards must have either the official I.F.C. Rush Stamp or 5 house stamps, or else they will be invalid. On the back of each card, list in order of preference the 3 houses the student is desirous of receiving bids from.

If You See News in the Making Dial
COLLEGIAN
"Hot Line"

LEGISLATURE . . .

(Continued from page 1)

law enforcement education program has been urged to be undertaken in all the Commonwealth's higher educational institutions. A coop program was also proposed.

One bill suggests that the President of the University of Massachusetts take over the office of Commissioner of Education, thus becoming the state's chief educational officer.

In viewing the fiscal aspects of the state educational situation there are two bills calling for the repeals of the fiscal autonomy laws of the University and State colleges. In consideration of the students there are state sponsored work study proposals and scholarship plans.

Four bills offering free tuition to Massachusetts residents have been presented. One deals particularly with Armed Forces veterans and another with police and firemen who wish to advance themselves in their careers through specialized training. Augmentation of extension programs have been given particular attention by the educationally minded legislators.

Investigative proposals have also been presented: one to review non - resident admission practices and another to look into the dorm telephones in effect at the University.

UMass-Boston has been given considerable attention in matters of extension, evening school courses and relocation. There is one proposal to band together all the higher educational facilities in the Hub area under another state university.

In recognizing the crowded conditions of the existing higher educational institutions construction of four new state and community colleges has been proposed.

BIRTH CONTROL . . .

(Continued from page 1)

does not employ contraceptives. There may be the trauma of an "unwanted pregnancy, possibility of abortion, the giving up of a child for abortion and the emotional wreckage of parents," he said. All these "spell tragedy" according to the doctor.

"I get the impression this is a sexual revolution," he said. "I'm not saying this is bad or good, only that it's a change."

He then approached the topic from the global point of view. With the population rate going up so rapidly, in less than 35 years the world population will double, he said. There are 3½ billion now. "There will be billion by the end of the century," he emphasized.

He went on to list four ways of controlling population growth in the world:

- Abstinence
- Contraception
- Abortion
- Sterilization

In discussing each of these methods, he emphasized two of the best means of birth control—the pill and the IUD (intra-uterine-device). The pill is "taken as a nightly routine" and the IUD is placed "into the cavity of the uterus," he added. They are effective to the point that out of a hundred couples using the pill, one couple gets pregnant a year. For the IUD, there are 3 pregnancies a year per one hundred couples.

According to Guttmacher, the birth control problem in the world is "a complex one" and "birth control isn't the answer to the world's problems but it is one of the important ingredients for the formula," he concluded.

Would You Believe...

★ Pep Rally ★
★ Cheerleaders ★
★ Metawampe ★
★ Revelers ★
★ Maroon Keys ★
★ Scrolls ★ ★ Band ★
★ Bonfire ★
★ Basketball Team ★

IN THE SNOW?

● SCHOLARSHIP
● BROTHERHOOD
● CHARACTER

The 3 Cardinal Principles of
PHI SIGMA KAPPA

OPEN SMOKER

Wed., Feb. 15 7:30-9:00 p.m.
COLONIAL LOUNGE
STUDENT UNION

DON'T fight it.

Get Eaton's Corrāsable Bond Typewriter Paper.

Mistakes don't show. A mis-key completely disappears from the special surface. An ordinary pencil eraser lets you erase without a trace. So why use ordinary paper? Eaton's Corrāsable is available in light, medium, heavy weights and Onion Skin. In 100-sheet packets and 500-sheet ream boxes. At Stationery Departments.

Only Eaton makes Corrāsable.®
EATON PAPER CORPORATION, PITTSFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS

Editorial Section

Crew Blues

Despite the isolation of the Boyden Building from the rest of the campus, the athletic department is often in the center of controversy. Such is usually the case with a large northern university that lacks a hockey rink or a track (or both).

One rather well-founded criticism of the athletic department is that it allows little student voice in its operations. The undergraduate must pay an athletic fee, and yet the only student contact with the athletic policy-makers is the presence of the Student Senate president on the Athletic Council.

Perhaps the most glaring evidence of this flaw is the failure of the athletic department to investigate fully the possibilities of a sport that has been confined to club status for the past three years—crew.

Dave Clarke, the head of the UMass Crew Club, has been pursuing the athletic department for the past two years, seeking official recognition for the crew. His efforts so far have been fruitless, except for a small $250 allocation last year.

In contrast, about $7,500 has been donated over the past two years by the four classes, the Student Senate and some alumni.

While it is true that most college crews in the U.S. are sponsored by alumni, it is also a fact that most were originally financed by their schools, so that they could eventually achieve alumni recognition.

The present thirty members of the club work out daily. Unlike members of the UMass Marching Band, they do not receive athletic credit.

Director of Athletics Warren McGuirk has been quoted as saying "We have to do with the money what will benefit the greatest number of students."

Clarke says that a "very good" program could be run for less than $6,500 a year.

In this too much for university that can afford hundreds of shrubs around its football stadium?

Thirty students await the answer. The COLLEGIAN Editors

The U. S. as Cop

by PAUL ROBERT HALLOCK

Henry Steele Commager, in a lecture before guests of the Distinguished Visitors Program Monday night, advocated the making of a world peace through a world organization comprised of all nations.

All nations means all nations, large and small; everyone should have a voice in governing world affairs with light and reason.

But for the present time, the United States should afford some concentration toward the problem (if it is a problem, as the U. S. says) of admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

The existence (with all its implications) of Red China cannot be denied. Everyone has heard this ad nauseum. It just happens to be true.

Experts on China suggest that her rate of expansion in the past thousand years or so has not been considerable enough or conspicuous enough to warrant fear on the part of the American people as far as China's posing a serious threat to world peace goes. Even if the U.S. withdrew from Vietnam immediately, China would not be in a position to expand at a rate any faster than she is doing now—which is very slowly. Not even in the near or distant future.

China's "cultural revolution" may or may not be in full swing, but her industrial revolution has not even come within years of beginning. And, when and if an industrial revolution does take place, it will be more of an evolution than a revolution. China is poor. China has credit with only a few nations and must pay most nations, including Russia, in cash.

China will not expand, for any purposes worth worrying about.

The press, as usual, has distorted things. The issue of China is being played up constantly, and darts of fear are being thrust into the hearts of the American people. Needlessly.

But, although China is not a threat, she is a nation.

Commager indicated that the role of the United States as policeman of the world is "fallacious." "It has neither the material, nor the intellectual or moral, resources to do so," he said.

The military machine of the United States should realize that Communist China should be admitted, without question or debate, to the United Nations.

As all nations should.

The Cool Radicals

Associated Collegiate Press

Public ridicule and a cold shoulder from the Johnson administration have thinned the ranks of anti-Vietnam war activists, bringing the movement close to extinction, comments the University of Minnesota Daily.

A new soft-sell approach is designed to rejuvenate the movement by 1) mobilizing "moderate" students who oppose U.S. policies in vietnam but who shy away from radical tactics; 2) stimulating discussion about the war; 3) dispelling the notion that people opposing the war are merely unkempt beatnik radicals and 4) gaining the ear of the administration by thoughtful presentation of the issues.

The first step toward implementation of the approach was an open letter to President Johnson. Student leaders across the nation told the President that increasing numbers of students are deeply troubled about the war and urged him to clarify American objectives in order to ease doubts about U. S. policy.

Unfortunately, the effects of these responsible student leaders may be rendered useless because of new demonstrations planned by the radical left. Meeting in Chicago at the end of December, 273 campus radicals urged students to take such actions as class boycotting, picketing, teach-ins and other demonstrations. They also encouraged civil disobedience and war tribunals.

In other words, they plan to use the same methods which accomplished virtually nothing in the past and practically ruined the movement. Significantly, the radicals' proposals were rejected by both the National Student Association and the national board of Students for a Democratic Society. Unless the radicals can be persuaded to change their plans—and this is unlikely—the repercussions could destroy the movement permanently.

Sam Spark Speaks Out

Sec'y of Defense Lederle

Prominently mentioned among the prospective candidates for UMichigan President, besides President Lederle, is Secretary of Defense Robert MacNamara. Assuming MacNamara is offered the position and assuming MacNamara accepts, the position of Secretary of Defense will be left wide open. And that also leaves President Lederle at UMass.

I would like to be the first to nominate our own John Lederle for Secretary of Defense. A few weeks ago, when asked to comment on the possibility of his becoming President of the University of Michigan, he replied, "It is not the sort of thing one comments on." I culled some past Lederle adresses and found them to contain many of the same sort of statements.

Imagine a press conference with Secretary of Defense J. W. Lederle. Mr. Defense Secretary, we are running out of eligible draftees to meet our increased troop commitment in Vietnam. Just where, pray tell, are we going to get replacements?

On our Amherst campus, we have almost 13,000 students . . . in Boston, we have 2,000 students . . . This adds up to a University-wide total of 15,000 students. To this, we must add the 5,795 students who attended the 1966 Summer Session. (Sept. 20, 1966)

There have been reports of bombing civilian homes. Will these bombings continue?

We anticipate that these areas, in time, will become even more extensive and significant. (Sept. 20, 1966)

Has there been any single factor in Vietnam which has decreased our fighting men's morale?

The mud, trenches, lack of sidewalks, and inconveniences which have inspired new descriptions and exclamatory phrases. (Sept. 20, 1966)

Dr. Defense Secretary, there are rumors that Bobby Kennedy has been trying to oust Premier Ky and become Premier of South Vietnam. How would you characterize the New York Senator, keeping in mind his insatiable appetite for power?

He's an All-Purpose Many-People responsible for Instant-Everything-Yesterday. (Sept. 20, 1966)

Sir, how much progress has the United States made in Vietnam during the last five years?

We have come a long way since the agricultural school was first established in Amherst. (April 28, 1963)

How is the campaign going to increase our supply of men willing to wire themselves with explosives so they can sacrifice their lives to blow up village huts?

We failed to attract large numbers of able young people into this occupation. (April 28, 1963)

Yesterday the New York Times carried pictures of 25,000 Vietnamese bloody bodies strewn on top of each other with a group of G.I.'s circling the bodies, playing ring around the rosy. Don't actions like this imply that war has affected the minds of a few of the men?

There is no place for the thin-skinned. (April 24, 1962)

Would you care to comment on last Wednesday's speech by the President of Greece, saying that the U.S. should pull out of Vietnam immediately?

He might as well have been talking Greek. (April 24, 1962)

Can you possible think of any place you'd rather be right now than sitting in that Defense Secretary chair with all that power and prestige?

The University of Michigan or the University of Wisconsin or the University of Californa. (Oct. 30, 1965)

It has been said that the Viet Cong are better fighters and more determined to win the war than we are. Can you name a few attributes which our boys possess that are superior to the enemy?

There seem no limits in our ability to afford new automobiles or alcoholic beverages. (Nov. 14, 1962)

What is the single most important factor for our eventually winning the war in Vietnam?

The most important factor which will determine the success of our plans for the future is the quality of our teaching. (April 24, 1962)

And finally, Mr. Lederle, there have been rumors that you are going to resign your newly acquired position of Defense Secretary and become President of Berkeley. Is that true?

It is not the sort of thing one comments on.

When News Breaks Call the COLLEGIAN "Hot Line" 545-2550

Individuality and variety and free investigation—not conformity—are of the very essence of a democratic life and of a democratic education.

—Nathan M. Pusey
President
Harvard University

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Chet Weinerman '68
Business Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Managing Editor: Jack Dean '69
News Editor: Bob Gorman '67
Editorial Editor: Ellie Skinner '70
Sports Editor: Tom FitzGerald '69
Feature Editor: Phil Goepp '69
Photography Editors: John Kelly '69, Paul Boliver '68
Advertising Managers: Sharon Kramer '69, Dot Silvia '69
Circulation Manager: Bob Godwin '68

Campus Comment

The Radical Grasp

To the Editor:

The anonymous letter which appeared in Monday's Collegian warrants a serious reply, for both the method and the reason for the attack indicate to me a basic misunderstanding of the philosophy and method of political discussion, action and change.

The initial confusion here is between radical and liberal ideologies. The radical ideology tends to view the society as a whole, where each part of the system is intimately linked with every other part. Thus, an attempt to change any particular part of the social system produces a change in every other part. The very origin of the word radical (from radix) indicates that the political radical is one who wishes to attack the root of the problem, and by so doing, change root, stem and branch.

For example, we examine the war in Vietnam. If our political thinking is sufficiently advanced to allow us to go beyond the moral questions involved, say to the economic questions, we are forced to examine what has been called the "military - industrial complex". Perhaps this examination will take us into the problems of the role of the military in government, or questions concerning political parties and how the masses exert pressure through the political system. Taking this last issue, this might lead, among others, into a question of civil rights, which leads to an examination of the place of the Negro in our society, and all the aspects of discrimination and segregation.

Alternately, we might attend to economic problems, and examine inflation, the relationship between the production of military goods and the concomitant lack of production of other commodities such as public housing, schools, and so forth. The point should be clear by now, that no matter where the problem is attacked, it invariably leads to an examination of every other aspect of society.

The anonymous letter writer attacks us for not dealing with one issue at a time. I hope that this will enable him to see why this is so. On the other hand, he raises the question of what particular issues become the focus of action at any particular time, and this is a fundamental political consideration. In deciding on a particular issue, we must examine society to find what issues are presently the most relevent, that is, what issues are foremost among the political concerns of the people.

At the moment it is the war in Vietnam, a few years ago it was civil rights; when the war is over, it may be poverty. But every problem leads to an examination of all problems, if we assume that they are inter-related, and thus, the real question is a simple one of what particular issue is most important at the moment.

The liberal position is slightly different in its approach, but fundamentally different in its ideology. The liberal position seems to be that these aspects of our society are not basically articulated, and that while the tree of society may have a few diseased branches, it is fundamentally sound. Thus, corrective therapy rather than drastic surgery becomes the

(Continued on page 7)

The Heart has its reasons which reason knowest not.

—Pascal

Candidates' Forum

Commuters

As a member of the Space Allocation Committee, I am presently fighting to obtain more space and facilities for commuters in the New Student Center.

As a Reporter for the Collegian and a member of last year's Summer Executive Council, I have had the opportunity to become well acquainted with the problems facing our University and with the channels needed to travel in order to achieve results.

I believe that our Student Senate can play a large role in University affairs by working on problems before they become major issues. This can be achieved by an active research program and better contacts with the administration. For example, I believe that a joint student-police study committee could improve student-police relations and could work toward a solution of our parking problem on campus.

Marshall Nadan

As a commuting student wife and prospective student mother, I feel I have a proper understanding of commuter needs and problems. Through the Valley Center, of which I am a member, I am in close personal contact with many commuting students for whom the Valley Center is a focal point of social and cultural activities. I have been a member of Hillel and served as secretary of the s-f Club. I have also participated in Honors Colloquium, and, while living on campus, I was on the tutoring committee of my dormitory.

As a senator, I will support all responsible movements of University Reform and concentrate on achieving ends of particular interest to the badly under-represented commuter populace. If elected, I will fulfill all the duties of a senator, including intelligent action, regular attendance, and openmindedness.

Carol Schaller Crawford '70

MARSHALL NADAN
FOR COMMUTER SENATOR
VOTE TOMORROW
MEMBER MEN'S AFFAIRS COMMITTEE, COLLEGIAN STAFF, SUMMER EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.

PETER PAN Bus Lines
Peter Pan Bus Lines
FREQUENT DAILY SERVICE TO Springfield and Boston
VIA MASS. PIKE
Direct or connecting service to all major cities in Massachusetts, New England, or the U.S.A.
TICKETS AND INFORMATION
BUS TICKET OFFICE — STUDENT UNION 545-2528

ATTENTION!
Correction of Posters
BENNY GOODMAN CONCERT
WILL BE HELD ON FEB. 17,
AT 4:00 P.M. AS PRINTED ON TICKETS.

Professional Careers in Cartography
CIVILIAN EMPLOYMENT with the U. S. AIR FORCE
CREATING AEROSPACE PRODUCTS
Minimum 120 semester hours college credit including 5 hours college level math. The required math must include at least 2 of the following: college algebra, trigonometry, analytic geometry, differential calculus, integral calculus, or any course for which any of these is a prerequisite. Equivalent experience acceptable. Training program. Openings for men and women. Application and further information forwarded on request.
WRITE: College Relations (ACPCR)
Hq Aeronautical Chart & Information Center,
8900 S. Broadway, St. Louis, Missouri 63125
An equal opportunity employer

LOW RATES WEEKDAYS
DRIVE LESS — PAY LESS — SKI MORE
TWO COMPLETE SKI AREAS
• Beginner to Advance Novice Area, Intermediate to Expert Area, each completely serviced by chairs and T-Bars • 24 Trails and Slopes • 2 Double Chairs, 2 T-Bars • J Bar & Rope Tow • Snow Making on 25 acres
. . . And, a special race course for clubs. • Giant Slalom Course • Flags Supplied • Permanent Phones • Ski Club discounts, too, for 20 or more people • 6-day tickets and coupon books. No wonder everybody's skiing at Thunder Mountain. College Rates Weekends
• Ski Reports 413-339-4986. Res. 413-339-6610.
LARGEST SKI AREA IN MASSACHUSETTS

Thunder Mountain
Charlemont, Mass. Route 2, Mohawk Trail

THE UMASS SKI CLUB
presents
Warren Miller ski movies
ALL DIFFERENT
Feb. 20 – Mahar Aud. - 7 p.m.
Mar. 6 – Morrill Aud. – 7 p.m.
Mar. 20 – Morrill Aud. – 7 p.m.
Non-members 25¢ Members Free

WINTER CARNI '67
THINK SNOW
WINTER CARNI '67

1966 Winter Carni Queen Ends Reign

This is last year's Winter Carnival Queen, Mary Halbert, reminiscing about the exciting things that she was experiencing at this time last year.

The first great realization that she was one of the five finalists came with the first interview of the finalists. Before going into the interview a nervous and anticipating feeling gripped her.

After a few minutes the judges put Mary at ease by asking her questions concerning her likes, interests, activities, and feelings about Winter Carnival. The interview, being conducted as a group discussion, took away the terrifying feeling that she was in the spotlight.

At the ball on Friday night all of Mary's hopes and anxieties were culminated as Sandy Olsen, the past queen, walked up and placed the crown on her head.

"As I look back, I realize even more that I never expected to be Winter Carnival Queen. Even after the crown was placed on my head and I was given the beautiful red roses, I didn't realize what had happened. I didn't believe until the end of the evening that I was Winter Carnival Queen of 1966."

Mary Halbert recalls her experiences leading up to the night on which she was crowned queen of last year's Winter Carnival.

- Notices -

MANAGEMENT CLUB
Elections for new officers will be held on Thursday, Feb. 16 at 7:00 P.M. in Conference Room, #323 SBA. All business majors or related majors are cordialy invited to attend, especially Sophomores and Juniors.

DAVID GRAYSON CONCERT
On Sun., Feb. 19 at 4:00 P.M. in David Grayson lounge Ernst and Lory Wallfisch will perform on the viola, violin and piano. All are invited.

AUK
On Wed., Feb. 15 at 7:00 P.M. elections will be held in the Bristol Room, S.U.

HILLEL
On Feb. 16 at 7:00 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. there will be a lecture on "Othordox Judaism" given by Rabbi Jacob Raner. All are welcome.

On Friday, Feb 17 at 7:00 P.M. in Worcester Room, Friday evening services will be followed by Prof. Milton M. Gordon, of the Sociology Dept., discussing "The Intellectual in the Jewish Community."

Registration for classes is in progress. Sign up in the Hillel Office. Classes begin Monday, Feb. 20.

APO
APO is looking for new men to take the places of the ones we'll be losing by graduation, and now is the time to start training these new men. So if you are interested in doing some hard work, and having some fun with good friends, come to see us in Memorial Hall on Feb. 15 at 8:30.

ARCHAEOLOGY SOCIETY
Professor Kyle Phillips, Dept. of Classics and Near Eastern Archaeology, Bryn Mawr College will speak on "Perseus and Andromeda" on March 2, at McConnell Hall, Room 103, at 8:00 P.M. at Smith College.

MARKETING CLUB
On Wed., Feb. 15 at 7:00 P.M. in Room 7, SBA there will be a general meeting of the club. All new members are welcome.

SZO MAKELAH
On Sun., Feb. 19 there will be a rehearsal. Check board in S.U. for place. New members welcome.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
On Feb. 16, at 6:30 P.M. in Norfolk Room, S.U. there will be a general meeting. All interested are invited to attend.

HAYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE CLUB
On Feb. 15, at 7:30 P.M. in Farley Lodge there will be a meeting. All should attend, especially new members in the demonstration set. Plans for Folk Festival will be discussed.

LITERARY SOCIETY
On Feb. 15, at 7:00 P.M. in Bartett Faculty Lounge there will be an organizational meeting to plan future events.

SCIENCE-FICTION LIBRARY
Library hours this semester are: Monday thru Friday, 3:30-8:00 P.M. The library is located in room 203 Berkshire House, near the Campus Police station in Southwest.

STUDENTS FOR POLITICAL ACTION
On Sunday, Feb. 12, this new student organization was established, in the Council Chambers of the S.U.

The name of the group is Students for Political Action, and a model of organization or constitution is being drafted by Dick Shortt, Elaine Johnson, and Steven Krinsky.

The group is planning to affiliate with students for a Democratic Society, and is dedicated to initiating student concern and action toward radical goals.

STUDENT SENATE
The STUDENT SENATE will meet this evening in the Student Union Council Chambers at 7:00 P.M. Students, faculty and other members of the University community are invited to attend.

INCENTIVES QUESTIONNAIRE
All those who were requested to complete the Student Senate Finance Committee Subcommittee on Incentives questionnaires are asked to return it by Friday, Feb. 17 to the Senate office. If you have misplaced the questionnaire another copy is available from the Senate office.

NOTICE TO INFIRMARY PATRONS
Come early and avoid the rush! The Outpatient Clinic is open with a full staff at 8:00 A.M., Monday through Friday. By coming in early (8-9 A.M.) you will reduce substantially the waiting time before being seen, and will find all of your needs met more promptly.

Our space is limited and will continue to be until an addition can be built. Until that time, it will be diffcult for the staff to see everyone promptly during comfortable mid-way hours; therefore, in your own interest and in the interest of other students, piease try to make your visits early in the day, whenever possible.

NEWMAN CENTER
"Cry, Beloved Country" will be shown Friday, at 7:30 P.M. in Newman Center Social Hall. Members-free; non-members-25¢.

Wednesday evening at 7:30 P.M. Father Bennett will conduct his Philosophy of Freedom in the Newman Center.

Thursday, Father Quigley will conduct a talk at 8:00 P.M. on the Catholic marriage. It will take place in Newman Center lounge.

Friday evening at 7:00 P.M. Stations of the Cross will be held in Newman Center chapel.

CAESURA
All contributions for prose, poetry, plays and essays will be accepted in the Franklin Room, S.U. They must be in by February 27.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
On Wed., Feb. 15, at 6:30 P.M. Prof. R. E. Stanfield, a Ph.D from Harvard who is teaching in the Sociology Dept. will give a talk on L.S.D. in the Governor's Lounge, S.U. Reguiar coffee hour to start at 5:30 P.M. All are invited.

LOST:
Will the person who took the Managerial Finance Book from outside of S.U. Bookstore at 10:30 A.M. Monday, please return to Lost & Found, S.U. You were seen and can be identified.

PINNINGS:
Carol Cranmer, class of '68, Tower-2, to Bruce Quick, class of '68, Yale.

Louise Arena, class of '69, Eugene Field, to Donald Rawson, Phi Gamma Pi, Northeastern Univ.

Deborah Boardman, class of '70, Calvin Coolidge, to Paul Grund, class of '67, George Washington.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Mary P. Sutkovoy, class of '67, Hamlin, to T. Michael Teopfer, class of '67.

A secret handshake won't help you make V.P. at General Electric.

Something that will help move your career along at a healthy clip is a strong, steady hand when responsibility and important duties are thrust upon you. Plus a firm grip on your special field of interest, whether it's marketing, finance or nuclear physics.

And it won't hurt a bit if you also want to strengthen your grip on the subject that interests you. General Electric runs one of the world's largest "graduate schools," with courses in everything from advertising to microelectronics. You can stay on top of developments in your field by periodically going to school at G.E. . . . and learning from G-E "professors," selected from the country's top ranks of engineering, marketing and manufacturing experts.

If you want to work and study and get ahead in this kind of company, this company wants you. Come to General Electric, where the young men are important men.

Progress Is Our Most Important Product

GENERAL ELECTRIC

3rd Annual

CHESS TOURNAMENT

Sign up in RSO at Student Union before Feb. 24

FROSTY GOGGLE LODGE

Rt. 100
Wilmington, Vt.

MT. SNOW — HAYSTACK SKI AREAS

COLLEGE DESIGNED RATES

Midweek—$8 & up
Weekends, Holiday Weeks—$4 & up

Reservations 802-464-5017

Broken Egg to Sponsor Film Festival

On Friday, Feb. 17, the Broken Egg coffeehouse, located in Farley Lodge (behind Machmer), will present an experimental film festival.

The first of the films is Automania 2000, an animated film which has received Academy Award nomination. It satirizes the increasing automation in our world by showing what traffic congestion will be like at the end of century. Its climax is reached in the invention of the car that reproduces itself!

Secondly, The Adventures of Asterisk will be shown. This film uses an asterisk to symbolize the maturation of a man. It is a treatment of a universal theme in a way that is unique; impressionistic art is accompanied by a score of original jazz.

Orange and Blue is "a visual journey through a junk and surplus yard." Two large balls, orange and blue, represent the essence of childhood—they cavort through the junkyard experiencing emotions of timidity, coyness, adventurousness, and pure joy.

The final film will be Run, which demonstrates allegorically the destructive tendencies in our present society through the actions of a harried, self-centered man who "runs blindly through life, pausing for sustenance and tranquilizers . . ."

There is no admission charge, as usual, so do come to "the egg" on Friday, Feb. 17th.

RADICAL GRASP . . .

(Continued from page 5)

method by which the ills of society are cured. This is the principle upon which the present government operates. A problem arises concerning the right and ability of Negroes to vote, so a Civil Rights Bill is passed. Poverty becomes an apparent problem, so a Job Corps is instituted. This proves insufficient, so vast urban renewal is begun. Poverty still remains, so a Model Cities program is established. Poverty still remains, so a 'negative income-tax' is considered. And so it continues, dealing with each problem piece-meal and as it arises.

Finally, I wish to point out that radical political thinking is useful in generating operation by analogy. The present administration seems to operate in a large part upon a system based upon security, public lies and half-truths, declaration by fiat, and the throwing of an occasional sop to the clamoring citizens. I feel that the American people have in many ways lost control of the government, that the government is no longer responsive to the wishes of the people. Similarly, the University administration operates by half-truths and fiat. We have only to look at the record of this year: first, a student publications board; then, a small notice which completely changed the structure of final exams; then, a mid-night raid upon an art exhibit.

The students may protest and discuss, but such methods have not had any effect upon the academic government. The student stands in the same relation to the University administration as the citizen stands with his government. By learning to control one, and forcing it to be responsive to the demands of those it governs, it is possible to control the other. Thus, by the very fact that society is inter-related, and that governmental structures are similar on every scale, the radical grasps at one issue as a handle to show how all issues can be examined and changed.

Victor Aronow

New 2-Year Course At Stockbridge

A new two-year college course leading to an associate degree in lumber and building materials management will be initiated by the University of Massachusetts Stockbridge School of Agriculture next fall.

Designed specifically as a managerial training program for the retail lumber and building materials industry, the program will include formal classroom training, guest lectures by representatives of the building materials industry, and practical on-the-job experience.

The four-semester curriculum includes courses in thr e fields: management, including business, personnel and marketing management and salesmanship; technical subjects, with courses in wood anatomy and identification, seasoning and preservation, materials handling and structures and utilities; and communications courses, such as applied psychology, English composition and speech.

The curriculum has been planned to provide graduates with a general business background, a wide base of practical ideas, and some experience in the building materials field.

Interested high school seniors and graduates can obtain further information and application materials by writing Dean Fred Jeffrey, Stockbridge School, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Arcon Receives Car for PR Work

COLLEGIAN Photo by Gerri Cote

Arcon members line up behind their new station wagon donated by Buick Company of Detroit.

by RICHARD LANE
Staff Reporter

Arcon, junior men's fraternity and campus guide service, has recently become the proud recipient of a new 1967 Buick Sport Wagon.

The white automobile, with plates D50BB, may be found in front of the U Mass Student Union in a special parking zone.

The new car was given to the UMass campus organization by the Buick Company of Detroit, Mich., during intersession. It is to be replaced every three months with another new car.

Buick supplied the car as advertising promotion, as well as to help Arcon in its public relations here on campus.

With green interior and such added features as adjustable steering wheel, skylight, the car rides nine quietly and comfortably with power seats and air-conditioning.

The purpose of the Buick is in public relations work such as tours of the campus for interested high school students, parents, legislators, and other distinguished guests.

The car itself is under dealer's plates and exclusively the jurisdiction and responsibility of the guide service. No faculty is involved or connected in its use.

Arcon itself is a subcommittee of Inter Fraternity Council (IFC) and contains junior male students of the University. It established and organized under Dr. Mark Noffsinger, Associate Dean of Students and honorary member Ken Suid. Membership is under intense selection process.

The fraternity's service may be enjoyed seven days a week and found at a wooden desk just to the immediate right as one enters the front of the Union. Arcon members wear green jackets with gold lettering.

The group is the salesman for interested high school students and parents, completely running high school guest days and tours (except for administration speeches).

Arcon also handles such distinguished guests as Massachusetts legislators, educational writers from such periodicals as Newsweek, alumni, and groups such as Future Teachers of America.

The extensive tours start at the Union and cover the campus in general, with any specific area requested. Questions of any sort about the University may be brought up during the tour.

Phi Kappa Nu Affiliates

The brothers of Phi Kappa Nu have announced their affiliation with Pi Lambda Phi national fraternity. Formal acceptance was given by the University and the I.F.C. on Feb. 1, and pledging of the brotherhood ensued the following day.

Pi Lambda Phi was founded at Yale University in 1895 with the cardinal principles of non-sectarianism and the recognition of men on the basis of ability alone. Today, Pi Lambda Phi consists of forty-one chapters and has a membership of over 17,000 initiates. These chapters, established strategically throughout the nation, represent a true cross section of the outstanding colleges and universities in America.

BEWARE ! !
THE TRAYERS

MAKE $100.00 A MONTH

No investment required. Just show our line of lovely arnel shifts. All retail for $3.98 with a generous profit arrangement for the right person. We want a representative who can devote a minimum amount of time to earn a maximum amount of profit.

Write for full details • No obligation

READY CARD COMPANY 390 Third Ave., Troy, New York

MASS. CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

Nurse, R.N. four nights. Also, ex. Aide 7:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.
Kane's Nursing Home
Amherst, Mass. 253-7557

Belly dancer wanted for Amherst party. Semi-professional but no experience needed, 256-6632.

WANTED

I would like to buy a used BMW, Triumph, BSA or other 500 cc and up bike. Call Bob, 546-9027 or 809 Tower 6.

I want to buy good skis. Prefer metal with marker bindings. Approximately 6'6" (195s) long what have you?
Mrs. Milton Mayer
773-3262 (Deerfield)

AUTOMOBILES

'59 VW new clutch, muffler, brake system and tires. Recently rebuilt motor. Body rough, $230. Call Gene, 253-9154.

AUSTIN HEALEY SPRITE—MARK III —1965 Good cond. Snow tires, tonneau, luggage rack, other extras. 25,000 ml. $1250. Call: 253-9835.

53 Ford, 2 door sedan, has current inspection sticker and is in excellent running condition, dependable transportation for $45, call 584-6548.

1965 SAAB sedan, excellent condition, low mileage. Averages 33 miles per gallon. $1100. Call 5-2688, Extension 101A.

COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING PAYS

FOR A FEW

GRINS !!!!

Enter the "First Annual, All Campus, Winter Carni"

SNOW SHOE RACE

SATURDAY, FEB. 25, 1967

SNOW SHOE COMMIT.
Chrmn. P. J. FEENY
MARTY SMITH
JIM KANE
STU HALL
VILLAGE IDIOT
TOM TURFF

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
sports
WEDNESDAY, FEB. 15, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCV, No. 44

Revenge-Minded Redmen Host Holy Cross Tonight

by GLENN BRIERE
Staff Reporter

Holy Cross, which won last week's game with UMass from the free throw line, invades the Cage for a rematch with the Redmen tonight at 8, and if Jack Leaman has anything to say about it his team will not have to play catch-up ball.

When a team falls behind early in a game, it is forced to press and often to foul the other team. That is how the Crusaders dealt the Redmen a 78-65 loss at Worcester. Holy Cross had a tremendous 30-7 edge in free throws.

Leaman promises that the Redmen's shooting will be much better than the frosty 34 per cent that they shot at Worcester.

UMass will have to contend with a red-hot Crusader team and a red-hot 6'7 sophomore, Ed Siudut. Siudut scored 37 points against UMass in the first game, so the Redmen will have to guard him closely, especially from the outside where he has an exceptional accuracy for a big man.

Along with Siudut, the Cross has a strong-rebounding front line in 6'9 soph Ron Teixeira and 6'4 junior Keith Hochstein. This is one of the best forward walls in New England.

In the backcourt, Holy Cross plays Al Stazinski and Jim Murray, both good shooters and defensive players.

Commenting on last week's loss, Leaman said, "We had plenty of shots, but we shot 34 per cent and when you do that you're not going to beat anybody. We're going to try and put the ball in the basket this time.

"They're bigger than we are, but I hope our defense will carry us. We'll be more rested than last time."

On Siudut, Leaman said, "We'll have to stop him. He's been hot lately, but Billy Tindall played a good game on him last week, and Billy will guard him again. We can't let Siudut score."

Leaman also hopes that Tim Edwards can do another good job on Hochstein, who does most of the work underneath for the Crusaders. "This will be a real good physical battle," Leaman said.

He also intends to put either 6'5 junior Jim Girotti or 6'4 soph Ron Nowakowski on Teixeira. This will present a big height advantage for Teixeira, but Leaman noted that he plays more from the high post than from the pivot, so UMass may be able to get position on him.

In the backcourt, the UMass coach plans to start Joe DiSarcina and either Bob Murphy or John Lisack.

The big conference game against UConn is Saturday, but Leaman says that his team can't afford to look ahead to it. With a 9-10 record, his first order of business is to get revenge against Holy Cross tonight.

KEITH HOCHSTEIN

RON TEIXEIRA

(Strength underneath for Cross)

Undermanned Icemen vs. Amherst

The UMass varsity hockey team received a severe jolt over the weekend with injuries to outstanding seniors Bill Skowyra and Capt. Ed Polchlopek that will sideline them for the season. In addition, soph wing Fran Mulcahy will probably miss tonight's game with Amherst College with a bruised shoulder.

Face-off at Orr Rink will be at 7 p.m.

The Redmen, 7-6-1 overall and 6-4-1 in ECAC Division II, are seeking their first winning season since 1960-61. Coach Steve Kosakowski suddenly finds his team undermanned with a string of six rugged games ahead.

The UMass freshmen hockey team will play the Amherst frosh this afternoon at 4 p.m. Coach Joe Faucette's team will be looking to avenge an earlier 2-1 loss to the Amherst skaters.

Golf Candidates

All candidates for the varsity golf team will meet Monday in the Berkshire Room of the Student Union at 7 p.m.

Frosh Baseball

There will be a meeting for all freshmen baseball players tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Room 251 of Boyden Physical Education Building. This is the first official meeting. All interested candidates are urged to attend.

Intramural Volleyball Timetable

WEDNESDAY

Time	Court	Teams
6:30	1	Apples-Smashers
	2	Spartans-Seagrams
	5	Flaming A's-Academics
	6	Hemlocks-Redwoods
	7	Lemons-Phallics
	8	Limes-Chestnuts
	11	Aces-Flaming A's
	12	Elms-Hoovers
7:30	1	Maples-Trojans
	2	Hicks-Hi-lo's
	5	Maroons-Bruins
	6	Eagles-Buffaloes
	7	Giants-Bulldozers
	8	Grants-Senators
	11	Cougars-Colts
	12	Patriots-Jaguars
8:30	1	Colonials-Panthers
	2	Sched Eds-Dufarbs
	5	Chem-Lucky 13's

THURSDAY

Time	Court	Teams
6:30	1	PSD-KS
	2	TKE-ATG
	5	ASP-LCA
	6	AEP-PMD
	7	QTV-TEP
	8	SAM-APO
	11	BKP-TC
	12	SPE-ZN
7:30	1	Forestry-Smitty's Day Camp
	2	Boilermakers-Lessie's Losers
	5	Camoflague So.-Camoflague No.
	6	Jaspers-Blue Balls
	7	Orgies-Fruits
	8	Tigers-Phantoms
	11	Panthers-Patriots
	12	Jaguars-Cougars
8:30	1	Colt 45-Commanches
	2	Chem Club-Lucky 13
	5	Forestry-Camoflague So.

If You See News in the Making Dial
545-2550

TEP ON TOP—Members of the campus champion TEP basketball squad squad are (front row, from left) Jim Hollcker, Marty Kalikow, Don Alberico, Ed Freedman, Hagon Anderson, (back row) Howie Gan, Pete Tuvers, Jerry Leabman, Rick Ericson, Alan Fisher, Larry Martin, and Dick Salvini.

INTRAMURALS

TEP Whips A's, 48-40, for Crown

by ROGER KIPP
Staff Reporter

The TEP powerhouse triumphed Monday night as the IFC champs added the campus championship to their laurels. The last leg of the journey to the crown was a 48-40 triumph over the dormitory champions, the Grayson Flaming A's.

Don Alberico and Hagen Anderson were supposed to be the men to watch, but Al Fisher stole the spotlight with 20 points. Alberico, the IFC's leading scorer, was stopped without a single field goal. However, he was a perfect six for six from the foul line. Hagen Anderson led TEP in rebounds, picking nine off the boards and managing seven points in a game in which the usual high-scoring tactics were abandoned.

Fisher, a slick moving 6-3 sophomore was the man who came through, a fact which demonstrates the all-round ability of TEP.

Grayson, who survived a series of rugged games against the best from a good crop of dorm teams, played like champions themselves. Dick Meyer led the A's with 12, but players like Hank Gediman and Mal O'Sullivan deserve honorable mention.

Bowling season is about to end soon with the fraternities finishing up. Monday LCA took the measure of AEPi, 6-2, while ASP white-washed Kappa Sig, 8-0, and Zeta Nu did likewise to SAM. Position bowling is next week, Monday for fraternities and Tuesday for the dorms.

Frosh Seek Revenge, Too

The UMass freshman team will be trying to break a four-game losing streak tonight at 6 as they face the Holy Cross frosh in a prelim to the varsity game at the Cage.

The Little Redmen haven't won since the second semester began, after the very costly final exams. Two of the losses, however, have been by one point, and another was by four.

Holy Cross defeated the frosh, 58-57, in last week's game at Worcester. The Little Crusaders are led by Bill Cox, a strong outside shooter.

Grapplers Bow To UConn, 26-11

The UMass wrestling team won three of the first five matches but Connecticut swept the last four to register a 26-11 victory at Boyden Gym yesterday.

Tommy Lefebvre (123), who squared off against UConn captain Laird Richmond, put a good fight but was pinned by his swift opponent, one of the best wrestlers UMass has seen all year. UConn defaulted in the 130 lb. decision to make the score 5-5 and usually reliable Gene Paltrineri made it 8-5 in UMass' favor with a 5-0 decision in the 137 lb. class.

Wayne Duckworth, a big hero against Boston College Friday dropped a close 4-2 decision to Dennis Hampton in the 145 lb. class.

Art Keown, wrestling at peak form, got UMass back on top 11-8, with a handy decision in the 152 lb. class.

Tues. Volleyball

FRATERNITIES
BKP over QTV (15-7, 15-7)
SPE over APO (15-5, 15-9)
TEP over ZN (15-14, 15-2)
SAM over TC (7-15, 15-7, 15-7)
TKE over ASP (forfeit)
PMD over ATG (15-4, 15-0)
LCA over PSD (15-11, 4-15, 15-11)
AEP-KS (Double forfeit)

DORMS
Spartans over Apples (5-8, 15-8)
Academics over Smashers (15-7, 15-9)
Flaming A's over Hemlocks (15-1, 15-5)
Redwoods over Seagrams (15-9, 11-15, 15-9)
Lassies Lovers over Camoflague N (Forfeit)
Smitty's Day Camp over Boilermakers (Forfeit)
Jaspers over Orgies (15-11, 15-6)

INDEPENDENTS
Fruits over Tigers (Forfeit)
Blueballs over Phantoms (Forfeit)
Chem Club over "A" Type (Forfeit)
Lucky 13's over Dufarbs (11-15, 15-12, 15-10)
Selohesas over Sched Eds (Forfeit)
Numerals over Toads (15-4, 15-14)
Oddballs over Imps (15-8, 15-12)
Meets over Bismarks (15-9, 15-13)

SENATE ELECTION RESULTS

John Adams Lower
Marc Antine	55*
Bob Larson	49
Butterfield
Albert Caballa	6
Russell Byrnes	32*
Ralph Proman	9
Commuters
Marshall Nadan	59*
Mary Jane Moreau	62*
Carol Scholler Crawford	37
Fraternities
Steve Edwards	11*
'67 at Large
Dick Wimberly	35*

* Elected

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

FIRST WITH THE NEWS 545-2550

VOL. XCV, NO. 45 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1967

TOP FLOOR

ADMINISTRATION OFFICES

COORDINATOR OF	MARK NOFFSINGER	226
ASST COORD	H W WATTS	225
BUSINESS MGR	A J RYAN	226
UNION SECRETARY	DOROTHY O CONNOR	226
STUDENT SENATE	JOHN GREENQUIST	201 A

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

COLLEGIAN	GORDON DAVIDSON	227
INDEX	ALEXANDER DEAN	228
CAESURA	JAMES CORTESE	201 B
YAHOO		201 B
CRITIQUE	ARTHUR COHEN	201 B

COLLEGIAN Photo by Kelly

Is there some mistake? It seems that Yahoo's editor's name has been omitted from the floor directory.

'Yahoo' Plans to Publish; New Officers Announced

At a meeting of the Yahoo staff Tuesday night, plans were discussed for overcoming present difficulties and resuming publication.

Editor Roger Jones said that the magazine might be able to operate without University funds if income from advertising and sales will cover printing costs. He said also that the funds Dean Field has placed in escrow might be forthcoming if the magazine goes into debt.

However, before Yahoo becomes officially re-established, it has to pass certain inspections. These will consist of a trial issue to be submitted to the UMass Student Communications Board. If it is judged acceptable, it will be passed on to the Student Senate, and finally to Dean Field.

In a memorandum to the Editorial Board of Yahoo, the Communications Board asked for a formal written presentation of the editor's proposed plans of action.

Some of the questions asked were plans for financing, an internal review of contents, faculty advisors, and market reactions. It also asked for a statement of policy in relation to the University.

Elections were also held at the meeting. New Co-editors are Joseph DiVeglia and Eric Kramer. Literary Editor is Bruce Batease, Art Editor is Dave Stevens, and Business Manager is Jack Baker.

Co-editor Kramer stressed the fact that Yahoo welcomes new members and contributions. Those who wish to join may go to any Yahoo staff meeting, for which notices will appear in the Collegian. Contributions may be left in the Yahoo office.

Oglesby Cites Wealth As Main Cold War Issue

by JANE ROLAND
Staff Reporter

"Even if North Vietnam were really invading a sovereign South; Even if our treaty obligations really bound us there; Even if our place in the world were actually in jeopardy; That is, even if the Johnson administration were right, I would still be against the war—because it represents the non-Asian organization of Asian wealth."

Carl Oglesby, nominated activist-in-residence by the students of Antioch College, spoke on "World Revolution and American Containment" in the Ballroom Wednesday night, as the third in a series of Distinguished Visitors' Programs.

Further discussing the question, Oglesby cited that the central issue of the Cold War is the control and management of national wealth.

"The non-Asian organization of Asian wealth that we seem to be aiming for cannot be achieved. It is a worthless and useless objective which cuts off the possibility of further relationship between the East and the West."

"It seems fairly sure," he continued, "that China will remain China. Asia—alas and alack — has gone Asian."

The West seems to be left with only the prospect of harrassing and retrading the development of which the routes are already estabilshed. We see the current war in Vietnam climbing two ladders of escalation—the air war in the North and the land war in the South.

Oglesby then discussed the ruling class in America.

"The fact that there is a ruling class in America is self-evident. All countries have a ruling class."

"In America there are two similar, yet drastically different politics based on the two oceans.

"Those from the East face Europe across the Atlantic."

"On the other side,' continued Oglesby, "is the Western section —those facing Asia across the Pacific. It becomes a question of the agrarian countryside conservative against the Eastern liberal. Those from the Pacific are now struggling to create a Paci-

(Continued on page 2)

Madrid Library Denies Loss of DaVinci Papers

by DON EPSTEIN
Senior Reporter

The Spanish National Library denied Wednesday that the rare Leonardo DaVinci manuscripts were ever lost. The New York Times Thursday quoted a library official as saying that the documents never came to public attention because "no one had ever asked to see them."

Last Monday UMass announced that Dr. Jules Piccus, Professor of Romance Languages, discovered the two manuscripts which have been lost since 1800. Working with Dr. Piccus was Dr. Ladislao Reti of the Elmer Belt Library of Vinciana at the University of California at Los Angeles. The discovery has been called one of the "greatest historical discoveries of the 20th century".

The Spanish library claims that the manuscripts have never been lost; that they have been in the library all the time.

However, scholars have been looking for these manuscripts for the past 75 years and could not find them. Prof. Reit has been searching in the library for the past 3 years and could not find the manuscripts.

Professor Piccus began his search for the missing manuscripts a year ago. He was aided by the Rev. Jose Lopez de Toro, vice-director of the National Library. Both men believed that the manuscripts were lost within the library. Previous scholars believed that the invaluable manuscripts were either stolen or misplaced.

In 1898, Professor De Marinis of Florence wrote to the Director of the Royal Library of Madrid to check on the possibility that the two manuscripts were in the Spanish National Library. At that time an intensive search was made, but the manuscripts were not to be found in the location indicated by the library catalogue number.

Under Father Lopez de Toro, the library has been preparing for many years a "General Inventory of Manuscripts of the Biblioteca Nacional", a work of extreme importance to scholars of the world. Professors Piccus and Reti say the manuscripts would probably have been found by the librarians had the inventory been accelerated.

However, Father Toro has confirmed that it was Dr. Piccus who found the missing manuscripts.

INSIDE TODAY'S COLLEGIAN

Caesura's Poets 4
Top Tunes 6
Notices 6
Swimming 7

College I.D. Now Required At Student Union Dances

by MIKE CROWE
Staff Reporter

According to a recent decision of the Student Union Governing Board, students attending dances at the Student Union will now be required to produce a college ID. This policy is a result of extensive theft and damage at the Union. Recent weeks have seen the disappearance of coats, pocketbooks, and works of art while dances were in progress.

The sponsors of the dance will be responsible for checking I.D.'s and have a police officer on duty. If the sponsors decide to let people in free of charge after a certain time they are required to continue checking I.D.'s until the dance has ended. Failure to comply will result in a one semester suspension of that sponsor's right to sponsor an event at the Student Union.

Chief Blasko of the University Police feels that UMass students are not responsible. Blasko stated, "There are two reasons for suspecting that UMass students are not the cause: First of all, there was an incident not long ago where men from a local Air Force base were coming on campus, stealing coats, and selling them at the air base.

"Secondly, most articles of clothing have something that serves as personal identification for the owner. Since none of the stolen articles have been identified on campus, we further suspect that it is other than UM students who are to blame."

Richard Schinoff, former SUG Board Chairman, also feels that it is local residents and other persons not connected with the University that are causing the problem. The new policy will hopefully deter these people.

The events at the University are open to the four college area only. There is an established rule that students must show their student I.D.'s if they wish to enter. It is this rule that the committee has taken to enforce.

Snow Sculpturers!

If there is no snow by noon today, Snow Sculptures will be judged Saturday, February 25, from 10:00-12:00 A.M.

Viet Committee To Demonstrate Against Taylor

by DON LaBRECQUE
Staff Reporter

John L. Fisher, a member of the Committee Against the War in Vietnam, was recently on campus to rouse interest in his newly formed organization. The Committee, an outgrowth of the Williamstown SDS, is composed mainly of people in the Williamstown community as well as students of Williams College. It is a combined effort of professors, clergy, businessmen and students.

(Continued on page 6)

"Hang On Sloopy"

McCoys to Follow Cosby

Discotheque '69 is about to happen.

At 8:30 p.m. Saturday night, February 25, the Sophomore Class will present a new concept in dances—the discotheque. Music will be provided by the McCoys, of "Hang on Sloopy" fame, and by The Last Rites, a local group.

Go-go girls and psychedelic lighting, along with giant, colorful balloons will transform the Student Union ballroom into a hubbub of music, lights, and fun.

This is the first year the Junior Class has allowed another class to participate in the sponsoring of Winter Carnival festivities. The Class of '69 has accepted this challenge and is trying to provide a good night's entertainment at a reasonable cost.

Tickets for the dance cost only one dollar and are on sale at the Student Union ticket office.

Rally Tonite-7 p. m.-Rear Student Union

Great Decisions

Educational Radio Presents Series

Educational radio stations in Amherst and Boston are, in cooperation with the University of Massachusetts, presenting a series of eight live discussions on the critical "Great Decisions" facing the U. S. in 1967, each Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The program began on Feb. 9.

In the eastern part of the state the program can be heard on WGBH-FM; in Western Massachusetts the station is WFCR-FM. Produced for the two stations by the University in association with the World Affairs Councils of Boston and the Connecticut Valley, the programs are connected by leased telephone lines that allow participants in Boston and Amherst to talk directly to each other while on the air.

Two of the original eight topics have already been completed. They were "Communist China and the U. S.", and "India and Pakistan". The remaining six topics are, in this order: "Vietnam", "Yugoslavia and Rumania", "Nuclear Weapons", "Chile", "NATO", and "War on Hunger".

The weekly Thursday broadcasts are preceded by a public forum on the week's topic Monday night at 6:30 in the lounge of Webster House of Orchard Hill. Three top participants from this monday night forum—two from UMass and one from a neighboring college—are selected for the broadcast discussion in Amherst for the following Thursday.

Broadcast moderators are: Luther Allen, associate professor of government at UMass., for the Amherst group; and of politics at UMass - Boston, for the Boston group. Each broadcast includes at least one faculty specialist from each group who answers the questions of the participating students.

For the opening program of Feb. 9, the experts from Amherst were: Dr. Franklin Houn, UMass professor of government, and Prof. John Makl, chairman of the UMass Asian Studies Program. The Boston panelist was Prof. Benjamin Schwartz of Harvard. The second program had as panelists Prof. Anwar Syed and Prof. Gerrard Braunthal from UMass-Amherst, and Prof. Donald Humphreys of economics at Fletcher (Tufts) for the Boston group.

The third program's forum will be Feb. 20. The topic will be the controversies of "Vietnam.". Dr. Luther Allen will be the Amherst panelist, and Prof. Stanley Hoffman of Harvard will be the Boston expert.

Others scheduled to appear on later programs are: Ruth Lawson of Mount Holyoke College, John Boettiger of Amherst College, Marshall Goldman of Wellesley College, Max Salvadori of Smith College, Ferenc Vali, Milton Mayer, Robert Potash, and Howard Wiard of UMass.

The Monday night forum is open to all. Students wishing to also participate in the radio programs are urged to enroll at the Webster House Library, open Sunday through Thursday, 7-11 p.m. or at the next forum. Purchase of a Great Decisions pamphlet, which gives necessary background information on all the topics, is a requisite for enrollment.

STAFF MEETING

There will be a Collegian Staff meeting for all new and old staffers on Wed., Feb. 22 at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers of the Student Union. All persons interested in joining the Collegian should come. Refreshments will be served.

Gile Will Direct Wonderful Town

The Operetta Guild is pleased to announce that William Gile, who directed Carnival, the Guild's fall production, will return this spring to direct Wonderful Town.

Mr. Gile has just finished a review of the '30's which he wrote, directed, and in which he played a major role.

Wonderful Town is the story of two sisters from Ohio, who settle down in a Greenwich Village basement in their attempts to achieve stardom as a writer and a dancer. Leonard Bernstein's music rounds out the high-spirited production.

The show will open in Bowker Auditorium on April 7. Tryouts will be held on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 23 and 24, in JQA-Tower 4, 5th floor men's lounge from 1-5 and 7-10 p.m. Rehearsals will continue through Spring Vacation.

Senate Refuses Money For Forensic Society

by PAT PETOW
Senate Reporter

The Student Senate last Wednesday evening spent a considerable amount of time discussing the Debating Society's preliminary budget. The result was to confirm committee judgment and to defeat a radical new financial policy approach.

The Forensic Society, represented by its treasurer at the meeting, requested a reinstatement of $991 in its budget which the committee had cut, to bring the total request to about $8,000.

According to Senate Treasurer Burt Freedman, the primary reason for the cutback was economy. The Student Activities Tax increased last year (i.e. the tax paid for 1966-1967) from the $10 it had been for ten years to $10.50, he said.

However, Freedman also stated, "I don't even feel the Student Senate should support this organization." The argument that the administration would pay all the bills, in addition to its present contributions to the organization, was made more forcibly later in the meeting.

The Forensic spokesman maintained that the College of Arts and Sciences and the speech department had no more money to contribute. She related to the Senate the fact that portions of the faculty salaries of the group's director and assistant director come out of College funds.

Defending the request for the $991, the Forensic treasurer explained that the debating society needed more members to function successfully.

This year 22 additional students showed interest in the program but could not participate in the 2 tournaments because of a lack of finances.

Despite the persuasive Forensic defense, the Senate refused to grant money, principally because student participation in the function and purpose of the debating society is minor.

OGLESBY...

(Continued from page 1)

fic orientation the equal of the Atlantic."

John Kennedy, according to Oglesby, was an Atlanticist, Lyndon Johnson is a Pacificist (to be distinguished from Pacifist.)

These opposite positions in the country account for the otherwise senseless joining of Kennedy with Johnson. The differences are embodied in the personalities of these two men, and can be seen in spot contact of foreign affairs.

"Radicals tell me that the differences between Kennedy and Johnson are a matter of style," added Oglesby. "Was it style in the Dominican Republic? Then perhaps we need a better grammarian."

He then continued that he disliked both Atlanticists and Pacificists, but that with the more poised diplomacy of Kennedy, more hopes could survive—that a human community could be possible.

Bill to Combine State Schools Gaining Support in Boston

by DAVE O'CONNOR
Legislative Reporter

House Bill 516, calling for the amalgamation of UMass Boston, Boston State College, and Mass. College of Art is reported to be gaining support in the House of Representatives. The bill was proposed by Representative Gerald O'Leary of South Boston-Dorchester.

The bill as it stands now conflicts with the Willis-Harrington Report which advocates separation of the State College and the University of Massachusetts. If the Bill should be approved in committee and pass in the House, strong debate in the Senate can be anticipated. Harrington believes that the proposal should be referred to the State Board of Higher Education.

Dean of the UMB Faculty, Paul A. Gagnon, said in a recent interview with Mass Media, the UMB news organ, "I am not in favor of the proposal . . . as you know, I have long been in favor of a more urban site than is Chestnut Hill, for the permanent location of the University."

In seeking student opinion of the measure Miss Ann McGunigle of UMass Boston was interviewed on the Amherst campus and stated the following: "The basic problem seems to be one of space. . . . The student body is opposed to the continuance of branch status and feels that the morals, integrity and standards would be raised if the UMB would be allowed to go on its own."

In further Student reaction, 100 students were interviewed at UMB with the results that eighty-eight were opposed to the bill and six were undecided. Reportedly, students and faculty of the UMass Boston branch, the State College at Boston, and the Massachusetts College of Art are planning to attend the bill hearing of the Joint Committee on Education on March 8, at 10:30 a.m. in the State House.

The TRAYERS
Are Coming

ALPHA PHI OMEGA
SOCIAL SMOKER
(Bring a date)
OLD TIME MOVIES
17 FEB. 8:30
MEMORIAL HALL

ADVERTISING DEADLINES !
THURS. 5 p.m. for Monday's paper
FRI. NOON for Wed. & Fri.'s paper the week before desired insertion
Thank you

FACTORY OUTLET
25 Market Street, Northampton
Sweaters for the Entire Family
Pullovers $6 to $11 values to $18
Ladies Cardigans $4.95 values to $7.95
Ladies Pullovers $3.95 values to $6.95
Cashmeres $11.95-$17.50 values to $30
MON. THRU SAT. — 10 AM.-5 P.M.
THURS. EVENING TIL 9:00 P.M.
Market St. is across from Jack August

MOUNTAIN PARK
RTE. 5, HOLYOKE — GO WHERE THE ACTION IS
EVERY SAT. 8 P.M.
COLLEGE MIXER
2 BANDS MONTY & SPECIALTIES
TUES. 8 P.M.
IN PERSON
ERIC BURDON
& The Animals

Tickets At All Del Padre Stores

The Massachusetts Collegian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed three times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; twice a week following vacation or examination period, or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amend by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price:
$4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester

Office:
Student Union, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Telephone: 545-2550 — 549-1311

Think Snow!

17 FRI.
7:00 PM - 7:45 PM
RALLY in the SNOW, BONFIRE, FIRE WORKS
Student Union

18 SAT.
8:00 PM - 10:00 PM
U CONN BASKET BALL GAME
Cage

19 SUN.
12:00 PM - 1:30 PM
PARENTS' DINNER
Dining Commons
1:30 PM - 3:30 PM
SNOW SCULPTURE PRESENTATION
Begins at Student Union
4:00 PM
BENNY GOODMAN RAMSEY LEWIS CONCERT
$2.00 per ticket
OFFICIAL OPENING CEREMONIES
CROWNING OF QUEEN
Cage

20 MON.
7:00 PM - 10:00 PM
HORROR MOVIES
15c per person
Student Union

21 TUES.
7:00 PM - 9:00 PM
D.V.P. MIRIAM WILLIAMS CONCERT
"SOUL OF JAZZ"
(admission free)
Bowker Auditorium
9:00 PM - 1:00 AM
DANCE (25c)
Student Union

22 WED.
Washington's Birthday
8:00 AM - 11:00 AM
PANCAKE BREAKFAST
SKI TRIP

23 THURS.
7:00 PM - 10:30 PM
"FOLK NITE in the HATCH
(no charge

24 FRI.
8:00 PM - 1:00 AM
WINTER CARNI NITE "THE L. S. DEN" with MAMIE LEE
JERRY SHANE
LES SMITH ORCHESTRA
$4.00 per couple
Student Union Ballroom

25 SAT.
10:00 AM - 4:00 PM
WINTER OLYMPICS
The Pond
8:00 PM
BILL COSBY CONCERT with TOM RUSH
$3.00 per person
Cage
9:30 PM
SOPHOMORE CLASS DANCE with THE "McCOYS"
$1.00 per person

26 SUN.
8:00 PM
CONCERT "LOVIN SPOONFUL & the YOUNG RASCALS"
$2.00 per person
Bus Service Available After Concert

The Ramsey Lewis Trio, who will appear this Sunday afternoon at the cage, is one of the country's formost jazz groups in the nation. With their fresh, unique style and polished stage routine, the show promises to be thoroughly enjoyable for young and old alike.

How Many Pancakes?

How many pancakes can you eat? Ann Jeminma, better known as Al Sagasse, will be challenging all to a pancake eating contest at the annual pancake breakfast sponsored by the Revelers. The breakfast will be held at the Student Union on Feb. 22, from 8:00-11:00 A.M. and the cost per person is a mere 75¢. The pancake breakfast is just one of the many events the junior class has prepared for Winter Carni '67. Ann Jemima is eagerly awaiting, so don't disappoint her (him?).

Whoever eats the most pancakes will be given two complimentary tickets to the Bill Cosby concert.

Winter Carni Buttons Must Be Worn To All Events

Two Big Jazz Names For Sunday Afternoon

Set to attract parents as well as students, a man known for so many years as the King of Swing, Benny Goodman will appear at the University on the Sunday afternoon of February 19 at 4 o'clock. He holds the title of "International Ambassador of Clarinet," which he received during his recent tour in Russia.

Not only for his stupendous success there, but also for his appearances in other parts of the world as a goodwill representative, the title fits him well. His music enthralls people of all ages.

Appearing on the same stage will be the Ramsey Lewis Trio. This trio has been highlighted across the country from New York's Village gate and Basin street East to appearances in other top jazz clubs in almost every major city.

In all, there can be only one way to describe the quality of the Ramsey Lewis Trio, fresh, unique and thoroughly enjoyable.

THEY'RE HERE ..... and theyre better than ever.

In keeping with the idea of a bigger and better Winter Carnival, the Junior Class has prepared a bigger and better Winter Carni booklet. Under the leadership of Frank Bialosiewicz '68, the booklet committee has been gathering material for the finest preview of a Winter Carnival in this souvenir booklet. The booklet contains articles about the various performers who will appear, pictures of the queen candidates and a look at our campus in winter. For the first time, there will be several colored pictures included in the traditional booklet. The committee promises that this is an exciting and colorful souvenir of the best Winter Carnival ever.

Booklets will be available, along with buttons and posters at the table outside the University Store during the day, this week and next, and at the concerts.

Just Arrived
LEVIS—SUPER SLIMS
CORDUROY JEAN & STAY PRESS JEANS
Thompson's
Serving College Men for 76 years
13 N. Pleasant St. Amherst

Carni Queens

Five Finalists Chosen

The five finalists for Winter Carnival Queen, 1967, have been chosen. They are Joan Dombkowski, Jacqueline Faustine, Kathleen Kane, Susan MacFarland and Kathleen Sullivan. These attractive co-eds will be seen throughout Winter Carni Week at the various events.

JOAN DOMBKOWSKI is a Junior from Windsor, Conn. Joan transferred to the Uuniversity from Hartford College for Women where she was a member of the Modern Dance Club, the Yearbook staff, the Connecticut Intercollegiate Student Legislature, the Ski Club and President of the German Club. At the University, she is an Education major, planning to teach third grade. A member of the 1966 Homecoming Court, Joan enjoys both snow and water skiing, tennis and modern dance.

JACKIE FAUSTINE is a Sophomore from Pittsfield. She is a sister from Kappa Kappa Gamma and resides in Eugene Field House as a member of the French Corridor. Also a member of the 1966 Homecoming Court, Jackie's interests include skiing, tennis and swimming. Uncertain of her major, but leaning towards French, she hopes to teach after completing some graduate work.

The five finalists for Winter Carni Queen, from left to right, are: Kathleen Kane, Joan Dombkowski, Kathleen Sullivan, Susan MacFarland and Jacqueline Faustine.

KATHY KANE is a Home Ec.-Education major from Fairport, N. Y. She is a member of the Junior class and a sister of Chi Omega. Her activities at the University include the Index, and the Women's Interdorm Council. She is the University's representative from United Airlines. Kathy worked as a stewardess for United last summer and would like to return to that line of work before going into teaching. Her interests include music, water skiing, and sewing.

Another finalist from the class of 1968 is SUE MacFARLAND. Coming from Millis, Mass., Sue is an Art major who hopes to teach or illustrate after graduation. She enjoys watching football and basketball and likes to travel, meet people, paint and sketch. Her spare time is devoted to working at the Newman Club and for Professor Albertson.

KATHY SULLIVAN is a transfer from Mt. Wachusette College where she was secretary of her class and on the Activities Committee. She was Winter Carnival Queen last year at Mt. Wachusette. A pledge at Kappa Kappa Gamma, this Sophomore from Fitchburg is a Home Ec.-Education major who hopes to teach fashion. At the University, she is a member of the Home Ec. Club. Her interests include sewing, designing, and skiing.

ATTENTION!

Correction of Posters

BENNY GOODMAN CONCERT

WILL BE HELD ON FEB. 19,

AT 4:00 P.M. AS PRINTED ON TICKETS.

Editorial Section — Campus Comment

Caesura's Poets

We were dismayed and disappointed to see the most recent issue of Caesura. It appears as though each issue presents an increasingly narrow scope of art and literature. Most of the material is obscure; metrical poetry is all but non-existent.

Clear meaning of the poetry is not communicated to the reader. Additionally, we noted a marked absence of artwork in the last issue.

It is good to have a reader struggle for meaning and significance in poetry, for this is the sign of an effective poet—one who can provoke the reader into thinking, so that through the poem, the reader's experience will inch forward. Caesura's poetry does not communicate to the readership it purports to serve.

It seems as though the Caesura editors select obscure poetry for obscurity's sake. A poem that communicates a message simply and effectively apparently is not suited for the magazine.

We feel that Caesura, as the only campus literary magazine paid for by student tax money, has a responsibility to this community to select quality spectrum of art and literature. It is published such a variety, Caesura would find its contributions burgeoning; right now, the feeling is that unless one writes with shrouded meaning and staggered type, there is no use in submitting to Caesura.

People seem to think that Caesura is run by a small clique and published for that same narrow group. This may well be true. But it is not right. We urge the Caesura staff to re-examine its purpose for being and to adjust accordingly, respecting the needs and desires of the University community.

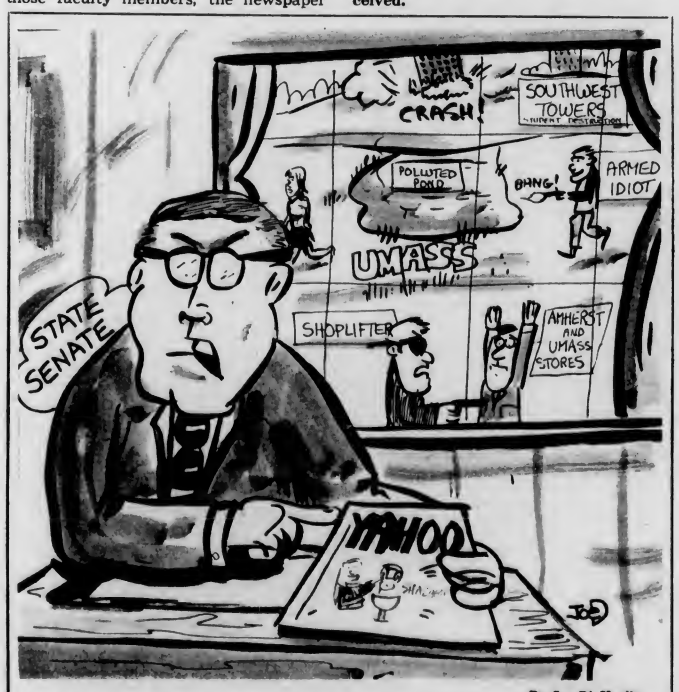
THE COLLEGIAN EDITORS

☆ ☆

Beat the Draft

Special to the Collegian from Associated Collegiate Press

A Columbia University professor has proposed that all male students receive an A in courses in order to beat the draft, the Falcon Times, Miami-Dade Junior College, noted in an editorial.



The Falcon Times said that Seymor Melman urged all faculty members to intensify their teaching efforts to permit students to "earn" A grades, citing the illegal nature of the war in Vietnam as justification for refusing to comply with Selective Service policies. The newspaper continued:

Melman's statement was soundly rebuffed by other faculty members, who reasoned that a college or university shouldn't foul up its educational system to elude government orders.

We are in complete agreement with those faculty members, the newspaper continued, that a letter grade, in both war and peace, should be earned rather than given away. A grade that is not earned hurts the school, the teacher, the public, and, most of all, the student himself.

The school is hurt when a graduate applies for a job and is turned down because he isn't qualified, despite an impressive academic record. The teacher's integrity suffers when he gives out the grade; his ability to evaluate a student's work is questioned.

Society suffers when an institution turns out a student who has floated through college without any real effort. But the student suffers most; he has spent his money or his parents' money on an education he never received.

By Joe Di Verlia

"Do you mean to tell me you allow something as evil as this publication on our state university campus ? ! "

A New Suit for the King

To the Editor:
Re: The current art exhibit (acquisitions)

Reminds one of the story of the King who went to the tailor to have his suit drycleaned and pressed. The presser overheated and the King's suit burned up. The tailor (really an Art Professor in disguise) told the King he would make up a new suit from DuPont's invisible plastic, Flopsam. Actually the tailor was just pulling the old geezer's leg, for the tailor had no Flopsam in the shop, and he just pretended to drape the King with cloth.

While this was going on, the tailor's press agent spread the word about town concerning the King's fabulous new invisible suit. So all the townspeople (educated and cultured, no doubt) gathered in the streets to watch the King ride by and admire the tailor's latest creation. Which they did, until an innocent (and presumably ignorant, i.e., disadvantaged) little child exclaimed, "Why man! Who you kiddin'? He ain't got no clothes on at all."

Needless to say, the little fellow grew up to become an illiterate, ungrammatical, uncultured, uncouth engineering professor at Behemoth State University. He never did learn the difference between fine clothes and fine art.

And the tailor? Well, he went to Yale and became a Distinguished Professor of Art at $30,000 a year.

The Man Of Science

Just How is Yahoo Funded?

To the Editor:

You may have suspected it all along. Yahoo has been getting CIA funds for the past six years. RA, Parts, the Left's answer to Scrooge McDuck revealed in a recent issue that the National Student Association and several other student groups have been on the receiving end of a pass pattern to keep impoverished intellectually rolling in the long green, so that they'll stay good ole Red, White and Blue.

Since the CIA's cover has been blown, we can now reveal how Yahoo has played a vital role in the first line of the country national defense system.

The best defense is a good offense, right? And who could deny that Yahoo was offensive in the best American traditional: without regard for race, creed or national origin.

How could Bombardier, Harrington and all of the others who wanted to stop Yahoo know that they were squashing an integral component of the CIA?

Of course, they might have been agents for SEXY, Society to Eliminate Yahoo (the X was thrown in to keep things lively), evil ally to Red China, Albania and Iceland, but this is doubtful. SEXY's job was to make Yahoo so innocuous that it offended no one, thus rendering a vital organ of the United States impotent.

In an exclusive interview granted to me in Washington recently, a highly placed CIA official explained how this organization has been pumping funds into Yahoo. "Every time your Student Senate chopped Yahoo's budget," he said, "it meant an increase in the national tax rate to fill the gap.

The President's proposed surtax on income was caused by a need to get more money for Yahoo since its funds are being held in escrow." And the CIA had to be sure, as well, that the gross ability gap was not too big. Although he would not reveal how much had been given in past years, the funds probably ran into five or six figures.

Speaking of figures, the CIA man also made known that the Yahoo Queens were members of the anti-communist program. As undercover and underclothed oberatives, it was their job to project the All-American Girl image as a countermove against the influx of foreign films into the country.

YAHOO QUEEN C. I. A. AGENT ? — Projecting the All-American Girl image all the way, former Yahoo Queen Sandy Pierce may have been working for the Central Intelligence Agency.

The appearance of Dean Curtis in the final issue of Yahoo last year was, of course, a move to put SEXY agents off the tail. The CIA man added with a smile that he would still be recruiting on campus. "Silicone," he said falsely, "is optional."

UMies may be proud of the patriotic work by their fellow students. Unfortunately, the Ramparts article has made it impossible for many former Yahoo staffers to remain in the United States, and the Collegian has learned that they are about to leave the country for Brazil, Argentina, or anywhere they can get on a flight with student half fare rates.

Richard B. Jacobs '67

Married Students

To the Editor:

"Sixth — Married undergraduate students with children."

This listing is the grim greeting a married undergraduate student encounters when he applies for University housing. The sentence is found under "Assignment Procedure." If married students are sixth then who precedes them? Faculty, both married and single with children and without, and graduate students in the above categories are given a higher priority than the married undergraduate.

Why should the faculty have first choice? Obviously they are being paid well enough to afford the exhorbitant rates charged by the nice citizens of Amherst and the surrounding towns. "Faculty who apply by late April will usually be offered an apartment assignment by late summer"; whereas, an undergraduate must wait from six months on to supposedly a year.

The Administration has gotten away with this undergraduate-last policy too long. It is time that something was done for the lowly married undergraduates who have enough trouble paying for their education without having to worry about where the rent money will come from.

C. S. '69

On WEDNESDAY, FEB. 22
at 6:30 p. m.
the
COLLEGIAN
would like to see
YOU.

We need people not only to write, but also to edit copy, to type, to rewrite, to do page makeup, etc. If you want to work, we'll find a place for you. Look for more information in Monday's COLLEGIAN.

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Chet Weinerman '68
Business Manager: Chuck Smith '69
Managing Editor: Jack Dean '69
News Editor: Bob Gorman '67
Editorial Editor: Ellie Skinner '70
Sports Editor: Tom FitzGerald '69
Photography Editors: John Kelly '69, Paul Boliver '68
Advertising Managers: Sharon Kramer '69, Dot Silvia '69
Circulation Manager: Bob Godwin '68

Judiciary Will Exercise Power of Judicial Review

by DAVE O'CONNOR
Staff Reporter

For the first time in the history of the Student Government, the General Court of the Judiciary will be asked to exercise its power of judicial review over the Senate motion passed on January 4th to appropriate the sum of $500 to the Valley Center for house rental.

The measure to petition was introduced by Vice-President of the Senate Timothy Cunningham after weeks of controversial editorials in the Collegian. The measure was initiated by Cunningham and other student signatories who questioned the constitutionality of the appropriation upon reflection on the pertinent articles of Constitution of the Student Government Association, the Senate by-laws and the Senate financial policy, as enumerated in the Financial Policy booklet of the Senate.

The Valley Center, presently in its second semester of presenting off campus cultural programs in the Four College area, has been the repeated target of controversy of the UMass campus and has only this week been acknowledged by Smith College as a valid entry in the Four College Program by its donation of $500.

The General Court is composed of the men and women's judiciary sitting together in joint session.

Revelers To Sponsor Dance

Saturday nite, February 18, in the Student Union Ballroom, the REVELERS will host a SCHOLARSHIP DANCE. Starting at 9 p.m., the dance is scheduled to follow the UConn game.

THE LAST RITES, with campus favorite Don Johnson, will be featured.

Join the REVELERS this Saturday nite at the UConn game and then at the S.U. for a fun evening of UMass spirit—all for the cause of Scholarship.

Also coming up on February 22, on Wednesday morning, in the Student Union, is the annual Winter Carni Pancake Breakfast. This year, the REVELERS will offer a challenge to campus organizations to send a representative to vie for the Wheatcake Wonder title.

Will Al "Goose" Saggese, 6'4", 250 lbs of pancake power, retain his title? Don't miss the suspense; batter-up time is 10:30 a.m.

If You See News in the Making Dial
545-2550

CARNI SOUVENIRS
Winter Carnival souvenir buttons and posters are still on sale in the Student Union, in front of the University Store, through next week. The cost is: Buttons—25¢, Posters — 35¢. Booklets are also available for 50¢.

3rd Annual
CHESS TOURNAMENT
Sign up in RSO at Student Union before Feb. 24

Would you believe?
the
FINALISTS QUEENS
BASKETBALL TEAM
A BONFIRE
THE BAND
SCROLLS
MAROON KEYS
REVELERS
METAWAMPE
CHEERLEADERS
in a pep rally
in the snow

VIETNAM...

(Continued from page 1)

The Committee is attempting to organize a counter-demonstration to take place on Feb. 21 at which time General Maxwell Taylor will speak at Williams College in defense of the government's policy in Vietnam.

The demonstration will manifest their desire to have an end brought to the bombing and their determined stand for peace.

Fisher stated that efforts are being made to gain cooperation with the Committee from Amherst, Smith, Pittsfield Community, and Bennington Colleges in order to increase the Comittee's efficiency and size.

He feels that increased membership would broaden the Committee's influence and provide for more effective demonstrations.

Speaking on the two-day bomb halt, Fisher stated; "The halt is equal to zero or worse: Zero because it could not possibly grant time to the opposing side to take any initiative, and worse because it might mislead Americans to believe the leading statesmen of the U.S. wanted real peace. There can be peace only if Johnson is pressured into peace."

Fisher stated he believes that the pressure from other friendly nations will bring peace to Vietnam, the question being not if, but when.

Fisher is now in the process of writing a letter to Pope Paul VI, which will ask him to speak out against President Johnson.

COLLEGIAN Photo by Kornfield

A newly formed club, Students for Political Action, has been distributing descriptive material designed to produce a progressive change in the current Vietnamese problem, the problems of racism at home and abroad, and the more observable problem of student alienation on our own campus.

The S.P.A., an affiliate of Students for a Democratic Society, will be working to reach as many of UMass' students as possible and will seek to inform them of what are, if nothing else, reasoned and well formed alternatives.

Winter Carni Buttons Must Be Worn To All Events

LaPrima -- Half Pints!!

Magic names for you girls who are looking for the most fashionable and the really "in" shoes for your campus wardrobe. Styles for campus, for dates, for all occasions are now being shown.

Drop in and browse at

BOLLES SHOES

on the Amherst Common

SKI MORE!
PAY LESS DRIVE LESS

- Group Rates Weekends
- Low Lift Rates Weekdays
- New Beginners To Advance Novice Area
- Intermediate To Expert Area
- Each Serviced by Chairs, T-Bars and J-Bar
- 24 Trails and Slopes
- Natur Teknik Ski School
- Snow Making

Latest Ski Reports 413-339-4986
Room Reservations 413-339-6610

Where the Action Is!

Thunder Mountain

Charlemont, Mass.
Route 2, Mohawk Trail

Free UMass Delivery
6 - 11 p.m. Every Day

RAPP'S Delicatessen

Summerlin Building
Next to Peter Pan Bus Station

Phone 256-6759

Sandwiches

Hot Corned Beef	85
Hot Pastrami	85
Rolled Beef	85
Turkey	85
Tongue	90
Roast Beef	85
Salami	65
Bologna	60
Liverwurst	65
Chopped Liver	80
Bagel with cr cheese	35
Bagel with lox and cr. cheese	75
Imp. Swiss Cheese	55
American Cheese	35

Weekend only
Tuna — 55 Egg — 50

Side Orders

Homemade coleslaw	20
Macaroni	20
Chopped Liver	75
Potato Salad	20
Sauer Kraut	20

Beverages

Milk	15
Canned Soda	20

Coke, Gingerale, Diet Rite, 7-up, Orange, Grape, Rootbeer, Punch, Orange Crush, Wink

Try our cheese cake and delicious pastries.

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN

OPEN Monday 4:30 - 1 a.m.
Tues., Wed., Thurs., 11 a.m. - 1 a.m.
Friday and Saturday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Sunday 10 a.m. - 1 a.m.

Grayson Concert Sunday Afternoon

The second program in the David Grayson Sunday Afternoon Concert Series will take place on February 19 at 4 p.m. in the David Grayson Lounge.

The world renown couple Ernst and Lory Wallfisch will perform. Mr. Wallfisch, a noted violist and violinist will be accompanied by his wife on the piano. Selections from Franz Schubert, Paul Hindemith, and Wolfgang Mozart, will be performed.

Mr. Ernst Wallfisch is a native of Germany. His wife was born in Rumania where they met and studied together for many years. In 1946 Jehudi Menuhin, the great violinist, heard them perform. He was so impressed that he helped the Wallfisches in their attempts to get out from behind the Iron Curtain and subsequently to come to the United States.

The couple are presently in their third year as faculty members in the Smith College Department of Music.

The concert is free and open to the public.

CORRECTION!

The Benny Goodman Concert Will be Held on Sunday, Feb. 19 at 4:00 p.m. as printed on the Tickets.

Both the posters and the correction in Wednesday's Collegian gave the wrong date.

WMUA TOP TUNES

WEEK ENDING FEB. 24, 1967

no.	title	artist	last week
1.	RUBY TUESDAY	Rolling Stones	1
2.	LOVE IS HERE & NOW YOU'RE GONE	Supremes	2
3.	SOCK IT TO ME BABY	Mitch Ryder	3
4.	THE BEAT GOES ON	Sonny & Cher	11
5.	MONKEES' LP	Monkees	8
6.	YOU GOT TO ME	Neil Diamond	4
7.	GO WHERE YOU WANNA GO	5th Dimension	7
8.	I'VE BEEN LONELY TOO LONG	Young Rascals	14
9.	PENNY LANE	Beatles	30
10.	I'M A BELIEVER	Monkees	6
11.	KIND OF A DRAG	Buckinghams	10
12.	EPISTLE TO DIPPY	Donovan	15
13.	GIMME SOME LOVIN'	Jordan Brothers	5
14.	IT TAKES TWO	Marvin Gaye-Kim Weston	9
15.	INDESCRIBABLY BLUE	Elvis Presley	23
16.	DARLIN' BE HOME SOON	Lovin Spoonful	36
17.	I THINK WE'RE ALONE NOW	Tommy James & Shondells	16
18.	SIT DOWN I THINK I LOVE YOU	Mojo Men	29
19.	CALIFORNIA NIGHTS	Lesley Gore	40
20.	FOR WHAT IT'S WORTH	Buffalo Springfield	41
21.	GREEN GRASS OF HOME	Tom Jones	12
22.	NO FAIR AT ALL	Association	22
23.	BABY I NEED YOUR LOVIN'	Johnny Rivers	28
24.	THERE'S A KIND OF A HUSH	Herman's Hermits	—
25.	SAVE ME	Dave, Dee, Dozy, Beaky, Mick & Tich	—

SZO TO SPONSOR GERMANY EXPERT

"Germany—Past and Present, National Character and Morality" will be the topic of a lecture to be given by Mr. Horst Wittmann, Tuesday, February 21, at 8:15 p.m. in the Worcester Room of the Student Union.

The lecture, sponsored by the Student Zionist Organization, is open to the University and general public.

Mr. Wittmann was born in Germany in 1935 and spent most of his life in lower Saxony. He studied at the University of Gottingen where he received a degree comparable to the Master of Arts degree. In 1959 he received a Fullbright Scholarship to Amherst College where he studied for a year, after which he taught at Mount Holyoke College and the University of Massachusetts for a year.

In 1961 Mr. Wittmann went back to Germany to return to the United States in 1963 as a permanent resident. He has been an instructor of German language and literature since then, and is presently a candidate for the Ph.D. degree in German literature under the 4-college program.

Mr. Horst Whittman will appear as guest lecturer for S.Z.O.

Mr. Wittmann remains a German citizen and is a member of the Gesellschaft fur Judisch — Christliche Zusammenarbeit, an organization with headquarters in Hamburg, Germany, dedicated to furthering understanding between Christians and Jews.

Discussion and a coffee hour will follow the lecture.

DRAFT SYMPOSIUM LIVE ON WMUA

This Saturday, a diversified group of organizations is sponsoring a draft symposium in Bowker from 1:15 to 5:30. Among the sponsoring groups are Hillel, The United Christian Foundation, and the Mt. Toby Meeting of Friends. In order to bring this program to as many people as possible, WMUA will carry the symposium live from 1:15 to 3:30. Tune in WMUA, 91.1 on your FM dial.

NOTICES

SOCIOLOGY CLUB
On Mon., Feb. 21 at 7:00 P.M. in Essex Room, S.U. there will be an important meeting of the club. All interested students are invited; and all members are expected to attend.

CAMPUS WORSHIP COMMITTEE
Every Sunday at 10:30 A.M. in Mahar Auditorium there is an all-Christian worship. Theme for Feb. 19, is "Lent: Discipline or Discipleship?"

SZO MAKELAH
On Sunday, Feb. 19, there will be a rehearsal. New members are welcome. Check board in Student Union for place.

HILLEL
On Feb. 24, there will be Friday evening services in Worcester Room, S.U. at 7:00 P.M. All are welcome.

SENIOR CLASS EXECUTIVE COMM.
On Monday, Feb. 17 at 6:30 in Council Chambers there will be a mandatory meeting.

INFIRMARY PATRONS
Come early to avoid the rush.
The Outpatient Clinic is open with a full staff at 8:00 A.M. Monday thru Friday. By coming in early (8-9 A.M.) you will reduce substantially the waiting time before being seen, and will find all of your needs met more promptly.
Our space is limited and will continue to be until an addition can be built. Until that time, it will be diffcult for the staff to see everyone promptly during comfortable mid-day hours; therefore, in your own interest and in the interest of other students, please try to make your visits early in the day, whenever possible.

PINNINGS:
Joan Vanderbogart, class of '69, Emerson House, to Robert Baud, class of '69, Phi Sigma Delta.

Janie Dunsford, class of '68, Calvin Coolidge, to Doug Anderson, class of '66, Phi Mu Alpha, Boston Univ.

Jackie Walsh, class of '69, Sigma Kappa, to James Manna, class of '67, Alph Tau Gamma.

Donna Auger, class of '68, J.Q.A.-Middle, to Bill Hick, class of '69, John Adams, Middle.

Mary Roulind, class of '68, J.Q.A.-Upper, to Michael Mushok, class of '69, Rollins College, Florida.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Mildred Salins, class of '69, Calvin Coolidge, to Lee A. Winltzer, Brookline, Mass.

MARRIAGE:
Vivian Trementozzi, class of '67, Eugene Field, to Robert Mendelsohn, class of '64, Amherst.

SENIORS . . .

CAP and GOWN CARDS

Must be in RSO

by Feb. 20, 1967

RIVERDALE ROAD ROUTE 5 WEST SPRINGFIELD
CINEMA 1&2
Phone 733-5131
ROCKING CHAIR RECLINING SEATS ACRES OF LIGHTED PARKING
ART GALLERY
Bigger than Life" "Not to be Missed..." ...BOSTON GLOBE
James A. Michener's HAWAII
JULIE ANDREWS
SEATS NOW IN ADVANCE AT BOX OFFICE OR BY MAIL OR AT YOUR LOCAL SEARS
EXTRA MATINEES BOTH SHOWS FEB. 20-21-23-24
MATS. 2 P.M. WED-SAT-SUN. ALL EVES. 8 P.M.
NOW at 1 DOCTOR ZHIVAGO

SKI
Haystack, Vermont
during
Winter Carni '67
Celebrate Washington's Birthday
Feb. 22, 1967
FREE BUSES
Sign up in RSO

Students of writing, painting, and music live and learn in a creative community at the

Cummington School of the Arts

in an unspoiled part of the Berkshires.

June 25 to August 20.

A chance to make up for the college pressures and routines that limit the student artist.

H. C. SPROUL, 21 PARKER ST., CAMBRIDGE, MASS. 02138

For information write:

FREE

Shuttle Bus service to Amherst

To enable the VW owner to have his Volkswagen serviced by the proper factory trained experts. For details, call us.

NORTHAMPTON MOTORS, Inc.

YOUR AUTHORIZED VOLKSWAGEN DEALER

246 King St. Northampton
Open eves. til 9 584-8620

Service is the heart of our business

MASS. CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

Nurse, R.N. four nights. Also, ex. Aide 7:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.
Kane's Nursing Home
Amherst, Mass. 253-7557

Male part time help needed. Call 256-6759 or stop in at Rapp's Delicatessen, 79 S. Pleasant St., Amherst.

Girls: If you wouldn't mind a little cash in your pocket and a cute little one year old girl in your room while her 20 year old sophomore mother goes to an 11:15 class on Mon., Wed. and Fri. only, call Donna after 6:00 p.m. at 1-532-9585.

WANTED

I would like to buy a used BMW, Triumph, BSA or other 500 cc and up bike. Call Bob, 546-9027 or 809 Tower 6.

Wanted: tickets for the "Lovin Spoonful" Concert. Please call 6-7887.

AUTOMOBILES

AUSTIN HEALEY SPRITE—MARK III —1965 Good cond. Snow tires, tonneau, luggage rack, other extras. 25,000 mi. $1250. Call: 253-9835.

58 Ford, 2 door sedan, has current inspection sticker and is in excellent running condition, dependable transportation for $45, call 584-6548.

1965 SAAB sedan, excellent condition, low mileage. Averages 33 miles per gallon. $1100. Call 5-2688, Extension 101A.

FOR SALE

Honda Sport 65—1966, excellent condition; black and chrome; 1800 miles. Call 546-9027 after 12 p.m. Price: $190.

COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING PAYS

Opens Wed., Feb. 15
CINERAMA sweeps YOU into a drama of speed and spectacle!
JAMES GARNER EVA MARIE SAINT
Grand Prix
MGM CINERAMA PRESENTS
EVENINGS AT 8:00
SUNDAY THROUGH THURSDAY $2.00, $1.75
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY $2.50, $2.25
MATINEES AT 2:00
SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS $1.75, $1.50
WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY $1.50, $1.25
CINERAMA theatre 236-1666
492 FARMINGTON AVE HARTFORD, CONN

Freshman Hoopers Drop Fifth Straight, 63-60

by MIKE CURRAN
Staff Reporter

Despite some late-game heroics by guard Ray Ellerbrook, the freshmen dropped their fifth straight contest since intersession Tuesday night at the Cage to the Holy Cross Crusaders, 63-60.

The two teams fought through the first period with the Crusader cubs coming out on top, 34-33, when Ed Campbell sank two free throws after the buzzer.

Early in the second period the Little Redmen raced by Holy Cross on the strong boardwork of Dick Samuelson and Scott Healey. Jack Gallagher's twisting layup made it 44-35 UMass with 13 minutes left.

Suddenly, the frosh cooled off and the Crusaders pulled ahead on Bill Cox's 30-footer.

UMass, in the all too familiar position of being behind, turned to Ellerbrook's outside shooting talents and the blond southpaw from Hawthorne, New Jersey, responded by scoring the last three baskets for the Redmen.

The freshmen's defense was inadequate, however, and Holy Cross held on for the narrow triumph.

Ellerbrook finished with 22 markers. Dick Starsiak and Healey, both from North Quincy, had eight apiece. Samuelson and Healey shared rebounding honors with 12 each.

The highly-touted UConn frosh invade the Cage at 6 tomorow night.

H.C. FROSH	B	F	Pts
Flannagan	2	3	7
Bowes	3	0	6
Campbell	4	7	15
Cox	7	0	14
Walsh	4	5	13
Barclay	3	2	8
Totals	23	17	63

UMASS FROSH	B	F	Pts
Gallagher	2	5	9
Boisjolie	0	0	0
Samuelson	3	2	8
Ellerbrook	10	2	22
Starsiak	3	2	8
Healey	2	4	8
Shea	1	3	5
Niles	0	0	0
Totals	21	18	60

GRAYSON GREATS—Members of the dorm champion Grayson Flaming A's are (front row, from left) Gedimar, Jewitt, Barr, Buckley, (back row, from left) Martucci, Duffield, Meyer, O'Sullivan, Nolan, Kadets.

UMass Riflemen Nip Stockbridge

The UMass rifle team won its first shoulder-to-shoulder match of the season, beating the Stockbridge rifle team. UMass had a slight edge throughout most of the match, winning by 13 points.

The Stockbridge team out-shot UMass in the prone position, 474-460, but was out-shot in the kneeling and off-hand position, 405-397 and 459-439, respectively.

VARSITY		STOCKBRIDGE
Gallerani	250	Welcome	248
Berge	248	Miller	245
Medeiros	245	Andrews	240
Walter	241	Clough	239
Gallagher	240	Enselek	239
	1224		211

VOLLEYBALL SCORES
Fraternities
PSD over KS (15-14, 15-11
TKE over ATG (15-5, 5-9)
LCA over ASP (5-9, 15-4)
AEP and PMD (rescheduled)
TEP over QTV (15-3, 15-5)
SAM over APO (15-1, 15-6)
TC over BKP (15-12, 15-11)
SPE over ZN (15-8, 15-0)

INTRAMURALS

Limes, Hicks Coast in Volleyball

by TOM CONUEL
Staff Reporter

The intramural volleyball season is now under way. In Wednesday night's action a full slate of games was played.

The Grayson Flaming A's topped the Aces in two games by scores of 15-13 and 15-8. The Limes stopped the Chestnuts, 15-9 and 15-9, while the Lemons beat the Phallics, 15-8, lost the second game, 10-15, and won the third and decisive match, 15-2.

The Jaguars lost the first match to the Patriots 15-8, but rallied to win the next two, 15-3 and 15-7, and thus won the game. The Hicks took two straight matches from the Hi-Los by scores of 15-13 and 15-14.

The Trojans blitzed the Maples, 15-1 and 15-4. The Giants overcame the Bulldozers, 15-12 and 15 - 3, and the Buffaloes romped over the Eagles, 15-2, 15-7.

The Spartans edged the Seagrams, 15-14 and 15-13, while the Flaming A's downed the Academics, 15-7, 15-11.

All entries for intramural wrestling are due in the intramural office at Boyden by Tuesday.

Independents
Smitty's Day Camp over Forestry (15-2, 15-10)
Lassie's Losers over Boilermakers (15-1, 15-0)
Camoflague So. over Camoflague No. (15-13, 15-2)
Jaspers over Blue Balls (10-15, 15-4, 15-7)
Orgies over Fruits (2-15, 15-11, 15-4)
Patriots over Panthers (15-13, 15-7)
Jaguars over Cougars (forfeit)
Colt 45 over Cammanches (15-12, 15-6)
Chem Club over Lucky 13 (15-10, 15-4)
Camoflague So. over Forestry (15-1, 15-9

Swimmers Wallop WPI, 58-32

by HARVEY ELMAN
Staff Reporter

Worcester — Snapping out of their season-long doldrums, the UMass varsity swimming team ripped Worcester Tech right out of the water Wednesday night with a 58-32 rout at the Tech pool.

Captain Dick Lennon, a consistently capable performer, set the standard in the 200-yd. breaststroke event. Last week's double record-setter, Bob Asquith, broke the Tech pool's record in the 160-yd. individual medley event.

In addition, the 400-yd. medley relay team of Fred Anderson, Ted Severn, Steve Levy, and Flip Morton grabbed seven quick points for their opening-event win.

Tony Cassis and Tom Beck swept the 200-yd. freestyle event. Ken Nowak won the 60-yd. freestyle with Asquith and Lennon sweeping the 160-yd. individual medley. As usual, Dave Larson emerged with first place honors in the diving competition.

The 200-yd. butterfly event was apparently swept by Levy and Donaghue, but the latter's second place points were forfeited due to disqualification. Morton took third place in the 100-yd. freestyle. Nowak copped honors in the 200-yd. backstroke, with Cassis doing likewise in the 500-yd. freestyle. Lennon and Severn swept the 200-yd. breaststroke to complete UM's scoring.

Coach Joe Rogers and Assistant Coach Joe Yeskewicz look for a good showing against Holy Cross Saturday afternoon at the rescheduled time of 2. The frosh take to the water at 12:30.

HOCKEY . . .

(Continued from page 8)

stick infraction and the Redmen's fortunes looked bad. The Redmen, however, continually pressed the Amherst goal until Jeff Sanborn lifted the puck into the net from five feet out with 24 seconds remaining. Neither team could score again in regulation time.

In the 10-minute sudden-death overtime, the Redmen, with blood in their eyes, came out strong. Sophomore Robinson registered his unassisted tally at 3:03 to end the game and give the team its eighth win of the season.

Captain Ed Polchlopek on a pass from the infirmary, and high scorers Bill Skowyra and Fran Mulcahey, all injured in last weekend's action were on hand to cheer the team on.

Hanifan played what was undoubtedly his best game of the season, scoring the first goal and leading the team with unrelenting desire and hustle.

For the Redmen this was the first victory in three years in overtime. During the past two seasons the sextet had dropped six straight overtime contests before tying AIC in the Amherst Christmas tournament last December.

The team leaves today for a weekend trip to Colby and UNH.

CALYPSO NIGHT
Straight from New York City
this Sunday only
Feb. 19, 1967
LORD BILL BARNES
& HIS TRIO
Columbia Records'
"GREAT CALYPSO SINGERS"
College Country Club
323-9301
Route 181
Belchertown, Mass.
Reservations recommended

FIVE CENTS OFF
Tonight and every night, you will SAVE FIVE CENTS on canned soda when purchased together with food—This does not include pastry-chips or popcorn.

— YES —
AUTOMATIQUE NEW ENGLAND'S STAINLESS STEEL FOOD TRUCK
is selling a can of SODA for 10¢
When Purchased Together with a
FOOD ITEM

SOME MENU ITEMS
Southern Fried Chicken with Roll ..... 45¢
BIG OZ ..... 75¢
Assorted Submarines ..... 45¢
Variety of Hot Sandwiches ..... 45¢

FOR A FEW
GRINS !!!!
Enter the "First Annual, All Campus, Winter Carni"
SNOW SHOE RACE
SATURDAY, FEB. 25, 1967
SNOW SHOE COMMIT.
Chrmn. P. J. FEENY
MARTY SMITH
JIM KANE
STU HALL
VILLAGE IDIOT
TOM TURFF

Five on a Merry-Go-Round

Redmen's Dismal Shooting Gives 64-54 Win to Cross

by DAVE JARNES
Staff Reporter

Round and round she goes. Will they ever shoot? Who knows? This rather sick rhyme pretty well sums up the Massachusetts' offense in the Redmen's 64-54 loss to Holy Cross Wednesday night at the Cage.

Holy Cross, like every other team on UMass' schedule, was fully aware of the fact that the Redmen can hardly be called gunners from outside. So the Crusaders employed a 2-3 zone that dared Coach Leaman's charges to shoot from the outside while closing up the lane for inside shots.

It would seem that the Redmen would be able to fathom this defensive alignment after seeing it so often, but once again they reacted as if they never played against a zone before. The results showed the Redmen shooting a horrendous 25 percent in the first half (9-36) and only 34 percent for the entire game.

Against the Crusader's zone U-Mass' offense resembled a merry-go-round. They moved the ball around the key for long periods of time, not daring to shoot and unable to hit Tindall or Edwards inside. Eventually they would take a long shot and miss, that is, if they didn't throw the ball away first.

Holy Cross never trailed in the game. It was 8-1 before Tim Edwards scored UMass' first basket with four minutes gone. The Redmen were behind only 19-15 with about eight minutes left in the first half when they went into one of their many cold spells. In the next five minutes the Cross scored nine successive points to take its biggest lead of the game at 28-15. A zone press helped cut the deficit to 30-22 at halftime.

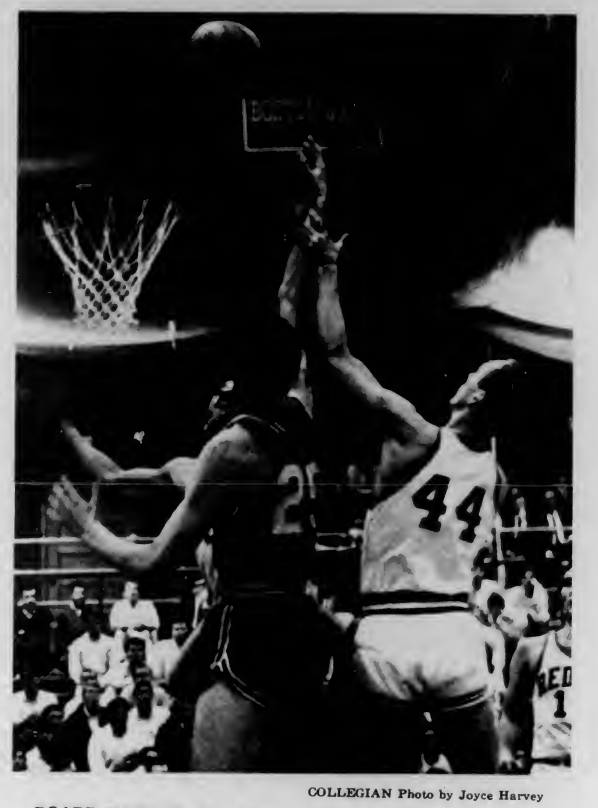
Despite the horrible shooting, the Redmen never stopped hustling on defense. They were always in contention and only trailed 48-44 with 7:41 left in the game. But their inability to put the ball through the hoop killed their chances.

Holy Cross appeared able to open a bigger lead, but once the Crusaders grabbed the advantage they seemed content to slow the game down and work for a good shot. Ed Siudut, one of the best shooters in the East, took game-high honors with 21 points while the burly Keith Hochstein followed with 17.

Tim Edwards and Ron Nowakowski were two bright spots in an otherwise dismal UMass picture. Edwards was only able to get the ball for eight shots, but he made seven of them and scored sixteen points. Tim also established a new school rebound record by hauling in 15. Nowakowski hit on just five of fourteen shots. However, Ron showed the promise of becoming a first-rate ballplayer.

Meanwhile, Bill Tindall suffered through one of the worst basketball games of his collegiate career. He hit on only two of fifteen shots for four points.

A particularly interested spectator among the 2000 at the Cage was UConn coach Fred Shabel. Shabel's only comment about the game was that "both teams looked real strong" and then with a straight face said, "Saturday's game with UMass will be real tough."



But this cautious comment was just for the press and Freddy is probably wondering why his boys beat UMass by only seven points at Storrs.

COLLEGIAN
"Hot Line"
545-2550

THE MASSACHUSETTS
COLLEGIAN
SPORTS
FRIDAY, FEB. 17, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCV, No. 45

MASSACHUSETTS	Fg Att	Ft Att	Pts	Rebs	Fls
Girotti	0—2	1—1	1	0	1
Tindall	2—15	0—0	4	7	4
Edwards	7—8	2—2	16	15	3
Lisack	2—7	0—0	4	4	1
DiSarcina	3—8	1—1	7	2	1
Murphy	5—12	0—0	10	3	1
Nowakowski	5—14	2—2	12	6	4
Rand	0—4	0—1	0	2	0
Gemei	0—1	0—2	0	1	2
Stewart	0—0	0—0	0	0	1
TEAM				6
TOTALS	24—71	6—9	54	46	18

HOLY CROSS	Fg Att	Ft Att	Pts	Rebs	Fls
Siudut	8—15	5—5	21	7	0
Teixeira	1—4	2—6	4	6	3
Hochstein	5—13	7—7	17	7	2
Stazinski	5—15	2—3	12	6	2
Murray	3—6	2—3	8	8	2
Willard	1—1	0—0	2	0	0
TEAM				7
TOTALS	23—54	18—24	64	41	9

COLLEGIAN Photo by Joyce Harvey

BOARD BATTLE—Ed Siudut (25) of Holy Cross and Frank Stewart (44) are among those fighting for a rebound in Wednesday night's loss.

Redmen's Task Saturday: Stop 'Wonderful Wes'

by GLENN BRIERE
Staff Reporter

They call him Wonderful Wes at Storrs. Everywhere else they call him poison.

He is Wes Bialosuknia, Connecticut's 6'2 senior guard who shoots from intercontinental distances. More often than not, he hits. UMass fans will see him tomorrow night as the Huskies play the Redmen in a crucial game at the Cage at 8 o'clock.

BIALOSUKNIA

If Connecticut wins tomorrow night, it will clinch the Yankee Conference crown, for all practical purposes. The Redmen, on the other hand, are fighting for survival since a loss will eliminate them from the race.

The Huskies own a glittering 14-4 mark with a 7-0 record in the league. In their first meeting on February 1 at Storrs, UMass gave them a rough time before falling, 66-59.

Fred Shabel boasts an all-around team that is strong in ballhandling, defense and rebounding. But the team's undisputed forte is shooting, led by Bialosuknia, one of the top five scorers in the nation.

Bialosuknia, a native of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., has an outside shot which is a thing of beauty. He likes to dribble, jump and then shoot from 25 feet or more. Once he gets going, it is hard to stop him, so the Redmen will have to guard him closely.

Bill Corley, a 6'7 junior, is the center. Corley is a strong rebounder despite his relatively thin frame, and he has cat-like moves underneath. He is quick, agile, and he can shoot well, thus fitting into Shabel's scheme of things.

The two forwards are not flashy but they are strong and steady, and both can score well occasionally. Bill Holowaty, a 6'4 senior, is one of the squad's best rebounders and a good shooter. Ron Ritter, 6'3, handles the ball well and can take up the scoring slack if the rest of the team is cold.

Rounding out the starting five is Tom Penders, a hustling shooter who was converted to floor general. He is an excellent defensive player who figures strongly in UConn's full-court zone press.

Shabel also has a strong bench to work with. Dick Thompson, a 6'7 center who has played in the shadow of Toby Kimball and Corley for three years, is a fine reserve who may see plenty of action at forward when UConn needs board strength. Tom McNeese, a sophomore, may also see action at guard.

Gymnasts Hope to Scuttle Navy

The UMass gymnastics team will be up against a Navy squad which has averaged 170 points in five E.I.G.L. meets, Saturday, when the Midshipmen host Coach Erik Kjeldsen's group at 1:30 in the Naval Academy Gym at Annapolis, Maryland.

The Navy contingent, according to Kjeldsen, is a veteran outfit which has scuttled enough opponents to anchor down fourth place in the eight team league. He is quick to add that the Redmen are right behind, currently in fifth place.

"The team has looked very good in practice this week, and I hope the boys have recovered from the intersession break," said Kjeldsen. "If we can score 170 points, and I think we can do it, it will be a good meet."

The Naval Academy is particularly adept on the side horse, Kjeldsen said, and can hold its own on both the high bar and parallel bars. Leading performer for Navy is Gordon Pettus.

Carpenter Paces Runners in N. Y.

Coach Bill Footrick's indoor track squad turned in an impressive showing in the U. S. Track and Field Federation Meet at Madison Square Garden last Friday.

Senior miler Terry Carpenter, racing in the last of three heats, won by over 20 yards with the best time of the day, 4:19.2. Carpenter, who won the Yankee Conference outdoor mile last year, said afterward that if he had been pushed, he might have hit 4:16.

One of UMass' double threats in the 600 was eliminated before the meet even started. John Andersen, currently the fifth-ranked collegian in the nation in this event, was the man in question. Officials said that his application had not been filed properly. Greg Bowman, a versatile junior, finished fourth in his heat for this event.

Saturday, Feb. 18-8 o'clock-Cage
Basketball--UMass vs. Connecticut

Robinson's Goal Hands Icemen 4-3 Overtime Win

by DAVE HANSON
Staff Reporter

Streaky Steve Burrell lost to Bob Brown of Manhattan by inches in the dash. Steve should make a comeback in the meet against Northeastern tomorrow in Boston at 1 p.m.

Don Robinson scored an unassisted tally in overtime to give the Redmen sextet a 4-3 decision over Amherst College at Orr Rink Wednesday evening before a wildly cheering crowd of 1100.

After a scoreless first period of hard-hitting, no holds-barred action the Redmen hit the scoreboard when sophomore standout Charlie Hanifan took a pass from defenseman Ed Graney and backhanded the puck past Amherst goalie Colin Blair at the 0:36 mark of the second period. Nineteen minutes of scoreless play followed.

As play started in the third period Amherst played a tough offensive game and dominated play until the Jeffs slipped the puck past UMass netminder Ed Sanborn at 2:36. Ed Graney put the Redmen back in the lead at 6:16 when his shot from the point caromed into the nets off the pads of an Amherst defender.

Amherst started their comeback at 16:24 when Brian Potter scored to tie the score and John Thompson put the Jeffs ahead, 3-2, with less than two minutes remaining.

Two seconds later Hanifan drew a minor penalty for a high-

(Continued on page 7)

COLLEGIAN Photo by Neil Rennie

SEVEN IS A CROWD—UMass goalie Ed Sanborn slides to his right as he prepares to block puck in first period action Wednesday against Amherst. Defenseman Ed Quimby (14) lends services. Redmen won in overtime, 4 - 3.

FIRST WITH THE NEWS 545-2550

THE MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGIAN
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

HELP WANTED Page 5

VOL. XCV, NO. 46 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1967

COLLEGIAN Photo by Kornfield

Gar Alperovitz—The draft is a cause of uncertainty at a particularly strategic age. It is a case of inequities.

Think Snow!

Arlo Tatum—The draft is a political decision. The roots of conscription lie in totalitarian government.

COLLEGIAN Photo by Kornfield

Draft System Criticized at Campus Symposium

COLLEGIAN Photo by Kornfield

This was the scene Saturday afternoon at the Draft Symposium on campus. Approximately 150 participants heard the draft criticized as being obscene and a perversion.

Lawyer Calls It 'Hideous, Obscene'

by RICHARD LANE, Staff Reporter

"The draft is unconstitutional—period! It cannot possibly be justified in either peace or war."

These words were among those constitutional lawyer Henry Holzer used to open a sixty minute plus presentation on the illegitamacy of military conscription before a regional symposium on the draft conducted in Bowker Auditorium last Saturday.

The attorney, a member of the Supreme Court bar, made the address as the third of a three membered panel before over 150 people in Bowker Auditorium.

Holzer aimed his initial remarks against the draft as indefensible and drew on the philosophy used to defend it, that of one saving property by destroying it.

His prime thesis was that America had not been founded on the idea of using force on innocent people and that the U.S. Constitution provides nothing for this force, even by the government.

There exists, said Holzer, no amendment, clause or provision calling for the draft, not even among the powers of Congress to, "raise and support an army and navy," or "to declare war."

Holzer stated that through various cases brought before the Supreme Court and the rationalization used in these cases the Declaration has been made a mockery and the Constitution full of sweeping contradictions.

Holzer was particularly critical of the Court in relation to its interpretation of the Constitution in this matter. He referred to its, "shabby, evasive tactics of argument," and use of such defense

(Continued on page 3)

Complaints Cited By Harvard Grad

by PAMELA METAXAS, Staff Reporter

Gar Alperovitz, a Fellow of John F. Kennedy Institute of Government at Harvard University and former aid to Senator Gaylord Nelson, explained the two major complaints that people have against the Draft in his speech at the Draft Symposium last Saturday.

The first of the panel of three to speak, Alperovitz stated that the Draft is a cause of "uncertainty at a particularly strategic age."

He felt the years from about 18 to 24 were the crucial years for education, marriage and a job choice. There is also the problem of employers, hesitating on employing young men of this uncertain state.

Second, he commented that the Draft is a case of inequities. There are examples of the inequality of the Draft to be found in some professional football players, some Southern negroes and those that fall under the jurisdiction of some independent Draft Boards.

Those persons that get exempted such as some students and some fathers also fall into this category, he said. The superficial standards that are used to exempt some and to accept others Alperovitz explained, cause persons to declare the Draft plan unfair.

"It seems likely that some parts of these superficial criticisms may be alleviated," he added.

He suggested the possible reform for the problem that has been proposed. The Selective Service could start by taking the youngest draftees first and by establishing a system "towards uniformity" that would decide "who goes and who doesn't." A third reform could be to eliminate the compulsion

(Continued on page 2)

UMass Marchers Protest Production of Napalm

by Pamela Metaxas
Staff Reporter

"Hey, hey LBJ. How many kids did you burn today?" "Hey, hey-now, now. You can make a bomb with Dow." "You can be a Dow man, you can overkill. You can make some Napalm—you can overkill."

These were the chants heard Friday morning from 11-12 in a picket line of some 25 students. They picketed on the side of Machmer facing the Union. The students are part of a new campus organization presently petitioning for R.S.O. approval. They call themselves Students For Political Action and are comprised of some thirty members.

Before and after the picket, some of the members had set up two posts to pass out pamphlets against Dow Chemical Company, presently on campus to interview interested seniors.

The protesters claim Dow Chemical is the prime contractor for the napalm used in Vietnam for bombing and other weapons. According to them, Dow is also producing Napalm-B, a new chemical which sticks to everything it touches and therefore causes bad burns on children and also removes skin.

The protesters explained that Dow had two contracts with the Air Force in 1966 to manufacture $3.5 million worth of napalm, or, in other words, 25 million pounds. So, they conclude, that every time a U.S. citizen buys and uses a Dow product (i.e. Saran-Wrap) they are contributing to the war and to the use of napalm.

(Continued on page 3)

COLLEGIAN Photo by Kelly

No Snow, But...

Concert Opens Winter Carni Week

This is the way the opening festivities of Winter Carni Week looked to the Collegian camera. The pictures in the top row include Benny Goodman and his band and the crowning of Carni Queen Joan Dombkowski. The bottom row shows the Ramsey Lewis Trio, UM's own Don Johnson singing at the Friday dance, the Last Rites but by no means the end of Winter Carni. (Watch for Carni Spread in the Collegian.)

What's Happening?

by RICH MORAN and "NORMA"

WHERE DO THEY LIVE?

Van Meter Sorority House ——————

Orchard Hill Towers ——————

Alperovitz Notes Complaints

(Continued from page 1)

to serve entirely.

Alperovitz urged that there "are a range of considerations outside of these superficial inequities." Some of these considerations include the Peace Corps and Vista.

Voluntary Armed Service that has been suggested by U.S. Defense Secretary MacNamara, according to Alperovitz, says it would be possible to end the Draft for a price. In such a term of service, "a reasonable salary for work" would be paid to the enlisted men. But the Defense Department doesn't want to pay the price which would cost between 4 and 20 billion dollars.

He noted that the Pentagon is not willing to end the Draft because it doesn't want to have its "flexibility limited." He also believes the decision to escalate shouldn't be up to the administrators and officials.

The Draft "reaches basic issues of foreign policy" that must be considered when you are considering the Draft, concluded Alperovitz.

Arlo Tatum, Executive Secretary of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors and participant in international peace conferences, was the second of the panel on the Draft Symposium last Saturday night to speak. He discussed the domestic impact of the Draft.

"The sufferers under the Draft are not principally conscientious objectors," he said. The Draft, which is a "political decision", has had a great impact on the college student. The number of 2-S classifications are continuing to rise, he said. Now there has been the introduction of the "war boards," or Selective Service Qualification exams, and the selection according to class rank.

Tatum believes that the "competition for high marks is destructive to the learning process." The Draft is causing this situation. And with the potential draftees looking for easy courses and easy teachers, the instructors are becoming the "handmaidens of conscription."

The entire problem, according to Tatum, seems to involve a cross-eyed decision with "one eye on the problem and one eye on the draft."

He claimed that "we alienate teenagers (some 3 million) ably assisted by the Draft." "We insist on using their minds and bodies for our own purposes," he said.

"The roots of conscription lie in totalitarian government," he added.

He concluded by saying the Draft Board's rule, for registrants to "inform the local board of change in address, physical condition, occupation, marital, family, dependency and military status is a perfectly existing basis for a totalitarian government."

Close Discusses Art; Explains Role of Artist

by Mike Crowe
Staff Reporter

Charles Close, a member of the University Art Department, led an informal discussion on the meaning of contemporary art at the George Washington Tower Friday night. Mr. Close has led several discussion groups in recent weeks, hoping to give the student a better understanding of and appreciation for contemporary art.

The discussion began with a definition of art. Close feels that art can be anything presented as art. It is the public's attitude that determines whether or not a type of art or particular work will be accepted as "art". ....

Mr. Close compared the artist to a radio transmitter. He stated, "A guy functions like a radio transmitter. He sends out signals, but can't worry about the receiver. His work is part of a spectrum and whether or not public tastes are "tuned into his band on that spectrum, his work is still art," Close said

Further discussing the acceptance of art, Close added one should not fall victim to the "Jacqueline Kennedy syndrome" "where one hangs the latest things whether or not they like it." He urged the group to hang what they like, but leave themselves open to other types of art.

When asked about good and great art, Close replied, "Anything on canvas has something to express. Many people can't get beyond the surface of paintings. They can't read their own situations into the work. Others don't understand and they have an emotional reaction that can be either positive or negative."

He went on to say that there is a certain amount of sophistication in reading most paintings. With more exposure a greater ability to "tune" in will develop.

Close was then asked about the controversy over his art exhibit at the Student Union.

Close said "No one ever asks what he is dealing with, they only ask about the subject matter." He said the subject matter has been used before and feels he doesn't have to justify working with nudes.

He went on to say that as a member of the Art department he feels he has an educational responsibility to show a cross section of what is happening in art.

He said the Union was not the best place for the exhibit but it was the only available place.

"But", continued Close, "I would not have shown the exhibit if I thought it would effect the University receiving state funds. In fact, I had no knowledge of the visiting legislators."

He added, "By removing the exhibit the administration may have made a mistake, but I do not feel they are out to get me. I feel they do the best they can for the student.

One of the final questions was if Close had considered going to a school where he might not be restricted in this way. To this he replied, "I think that would be running. I am dedicated to teaching and don't have any regrets."

COLLEGIAN Photo by Paul Cihocki

Charles Close, the artist whose exhibits were removed from the Student Union, lead a discussion in which he explained the work of the artist in society.

HELP WANTED

No Previous Experience Necessary

Apply Wednesday Night

6:30 in the Council Chambers

The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity Employer

COLLEGIAN Photo by Kornfield

The two speakers pictured above are members of the American Friends Service Committee of Cambridge who conducted a discussion of conscientious objection to the Draft. They will be conducting counseling sessions on campus to aid students with problems about the draft. The time and place of counseling will be announced.

CORRECTION

The Operetta Guild will hold tryouts for its spring productions of Wonderful Town on Thurs. & Fri., Feb. 23 & 24 in JQA Tower 4, 5th floor MUSIC lounge from 1-5 and 7-10 p.m.

COLLEGIAN
"Hot Line"
545-2550

ACTION

This Tuesday, at 8:00 P.M., ACTION "67" will present a program about the Faculty Senate designed to introduce this organization to the students.

Dr. William Havard, Professor David Mayhew, and Professor Robert Wellman will talk with host Pete Ward about the function of the Faculty Senate and how it can and does affect the undergraduate community.

Although the average student hears little about this governmental organization, it has been deeply involved in such issues as the Pass-Fail study and the Close exhibition.

Be sure and tune in to ACTION "67" this Tuesday at 8:00. WMUA is 91.1 on your FM dial.

FIVE CENTS OFF

Tonight and every night, you will SAVE FIVE CENTS on canned soda when purchased together with food— This does not include pastry-chips or popcorn.

— YES —

AUTOMATIQUE NEW ENGLAND'S STAINLESS STEEL FOOD TRUCK

is selling a can of SODA for 10¢

When Purchased Together with a

FOOD ITEM

SOME MENU ITEMS

Southern Fried Chicken with Roll	45¢
BIG OZ	75¢
Assorted Submarines	45¢
Variety of Hot Sandwiches	45¢

AMHERST Cinema

EXCLUSIVE • STARTS WED. 6:40 - 9:00

Dear John is an unabashed Look at real-life sex . . .

Crowther N.Y. Times

Pickets Protest Dow Chemical...

(Continued from page 1)

Those participating in the picket and passing out the pamphlets included Dick Shortt, Eric Kramer, Victor Aranow, Richard Story, and John Childs.

Members of the Students For Political Action, remarked that they were "concerned with all aspects of the war and were wholly and totally against the war in Vietnam."

At both the protest posts, the members had set up bulletin boards with pictures of burned children and information concerning Dow and the chemical, napalm. There were protesters at both posts from 8:30 in the morning to 4:30 in the afternoon.

The Students For Political Action plan other protests against chemical warfare in the near future.

Members of Students for Political Action prepared posters in front of Machmer Friday showing the effects of Napalm explosives. The picketers aimed their criticism at Dow Chemical Co., one of the manufacturers of Napalm being used in Vietnam.

"Hot Line"
545-2550

Draft—'Obscene and Hideous'...

(Continued from page 1)

cliches as, "too frivolous for further discussion."

A fault of the Court in proving the legality of the draft was its use of some thirty-three other nations as comparison, among them Russia, China, Austrialia, Switzerland, etc.

These nations represent, according to Holzer, "banana republics" and "backward primitives." The height of this comparative irony was the use of "Germany, with its gas chambers."

The Supreme Court believes in the idea that whoever is able to bear arms in a society must for the preservation of state, according to the lawyer.

The Declaration of Independence was to secure the rights government among men. "Our's is a democratic society because man is free from initiation of force," stated Holzer further.

"Twenty-one words have stood the vigil to be used as a defense of the sovereighnty of the individual," Holzer stated.

These twenty-one words are those of the Nineth Amendment of the Constitution, according to the defense counsel.

This amendment is the so-called, "enumeration of powers amendment and provides that "certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

Here he cited this amendment's inclusion of the First, Fourth, Fifth, and particularly Thirteenth. The Thirteenth denies the right of involuntary servitude (i.e. the draft against one's will).

Holzer's final remarks included sharp criticism of the draft as, "hideous, obscene, perversion." And also, "Under such a system life is reduced to a jungle."

In response to a question-answer period initiated by the audience, Mr. Holzer stated that the draft was, "so unspeakably, monstrably, evil," as to defy less than further investigation of the issue.

Holzer stated that there were three ways to challenge the draft: (1) Not report and risk indictment, (2) Go in and come out by Writ of Habeas Corpus, (3) Bring a civil court action as unconstitutional.

At present the attorney is conducting two cases of this own, one in the 1st Federal District of Boston, the other in New Jersey.

Student Injured Friday; Lack of Walks Cited

by RICHARD KLINE,
Associate News Editor

A UMass sophomore, Donald Williams of 429 Hills So. and a Hingham resident, was struck by a car last Friday afternoon at 1:07 while walking on Ellis Drive, across from SBA.

Mark Wilkinson (class of '70), an eyewitness who was reportedly walking about two feet behind Williams, said "He slipped on the ice, his head hit on the rear panel and then the bumper sort of a double impact, and he was knocked out for about two minutes." Kathleen Condon (class of "69), a passenger in the auto, said that Williams was "walking along the roadside, outside the curbing," when the accident occurred.

The driver of the auto, Robert Nichols (class of '67), told police that he was traveling in second gear at no more than ten or fifteen miles per hour at the time of the accident.

University Police Officer Daniel Zidik arrived on the scene approximately ten minutes after the accident occurred, and immediately summoned medical aid. Dr. Daniel Hart, of the UMass Health Services, responded to the call some ten minutes later and at 1:30 Williams was taken to the infirmary in a police station-wagon cruiser.

X-rays taken at the infirmary proved normal and Williams was held for twenty-four hours observation. After the x-rays Williams was in good spirits, although he couldn't remember where he was coming from at the time of the accident. The doctor reported that this is often the case with head injury victims.

Police Chief Alexander Blasko stated that there would "definitely be no charges on our behalf." He felt that one of the main reasons for the accident was the lack of sidewalks on the campus.

"There should be sidewalks on this side of the road," he said at the accident scene. "Walks lead from SBA and dump people right in the middle of the road."

Two other accidents involving University students also took place last Friday night. One occurred on Lincoln Ave. and the other on North Pleasant St. One was reported to be a hit and run.

This was the scene on Ellis Drive yesterday when UMass sophomore Donald Williams slipped and fell against an automobile being driven by Bob Nichols ('67). Williams is in good condition. Chief Blasko placed part of the blame for the accident on the lack of sidewalks near SBA.

Brothers of PES Offer Free Tutoring

FREE TUTORING SERVICE
Call Phi Eta Sigma Brothers:

Astronomy 101-102—A. Carson, D. Robertson
Chemistry 111-112—J. Bernat, T. Hoffman. W. Fafleur, G. Sheppard
Chemistry 113-114—J. Bernat, W. Lafleur
English 111-112—G. Hertz
Engineering 103-104—J. Fredette
Geology—R. Vale
German—D. Cohen
Math 123-124 — J. Bernat, T. Hoffman, G. Sheppard, L. Immonen
Math 135-136—J. Fredette
Spanish—G. Hertz
Psychology 105-6—P. Toyama, W. Rhodes
Zoology 101—W. Lafleur, D. Cohen
Information—G. Sheppard, W. Rhodes

PETER PAN Bus Lines
Peter Pan Bus Lines
FREQUENT DAILY SERVICE TO Springfield and Boston
VIA MASS. PIKE
Direct or connecting service to all major cities in Massachusetts, New England, or the U.S.A.
TICKETS AND INFORMATION
BUS TICKET OFFICE — STUDENT UNION 545-2528

TOBOGGAN RUN-RACE
February 25th
In front of MORRILL
CLASS OF 1970
Comes through for tradition
Subject to temperature change

electrical engineers
mechanical engineers
industrial engineers

These are professionally rewarding careers with a company which has been an established leader in electronics research, development and manufacturing since 1924. Our projects encompass advanced work in such areas as electronic detection and identification, data processing and display systems for the Armed Forces, NASA, FAA and the aerospace industry.

Openings for June graduates in:

- Research — EE: all levels
- Development and Design — BS/MS in EE or ME
- Test Engineering — BS in EE
- Field Engineering — BS in EE
- Publications Engineering — BS in EE or ME
- Project Administration — BS in EE, ME or IE
- Manufacturing Engineering — BS in IE or ME

Assignments in Long Island, New York, and suburban Boston, Massachusetts.

For details, see our brochure, "Electronics at Hazeltine," at your Placement Office and arrange an appointment now.

interviews on campus

HAZELTINE CORPORATION
